15,014. Can you remember by a majority of how many you thought the Liberals would have?—I think after making all allowances I gave them a majority of 13; I was wrong, they only got as many as eight.

15,015. (Mr. Coleridge.) After Mr. John Dent ad refused to stand on the last occasion, did you have ny communication with Mr. William Dent?—I never ad any communication with Mr. William Dent whatver. I have met him at the "Stars" just in a iendly way.

15,016. (Mr. Bere.) On your showing this list to fr. Dent and expressing your opinion, and showing hy it was your opinion, that the Liberals would win, id Mr. Dent seem disinclined to come down?—He ssured me he did not intend to come forward, and Ir. Mitchell the same.

15,017. Then did you return to Totnes?—Yes.

15,018. When, after your return to Totnes, did ou hear that Mr. Dent was going to stand?—A few ys afterwards I heard he was going to stand.

15,019. Did you write to him and ask him why he d changed his opinion?—No, I did not; I thought should know in good time.

15,020. When did he come down after that?—I ink a few days afterwards; I am not certain.

15,021. Did you hear that a requisition had been nt to him?—Yes.

15,022. Did he afterwards tell you it was in consenence of his receiving a requisition that he had anged his opinion?—Either he told me or Mr. itchell; I am not sure; Mr. Mitchell most likely.

15,023. Did you take some trouble? I suppose hen you came to Totnes and heard that Mr. Dent ad been prevailed upon to stand you made inquiries s to how he had been prevailed on?—Yes.

15,024. Then you heard of this requisition?—Yes.

15,025. Did you make inquiries as to when it had en obtained?—I did.

15,026. What was the result?—I found parties who id they should not vote were told "Never mind, put your name down; we want to get him down."

15,027. Did you hear who the person was who had one round with that requisition?—A very trustorthy and conscientious man; Harris by name.

15,028. He went round with the requisition?—es.

15,029. To Mr. Dent?—Yes, for Mr. Dent.

15,030. And you understood that he told them he id not want their votes, but merely wanted to have eir names down?—Yes; that is what he told them, nd likewise told the members of his own party that.

15,031. Was that repeated to you?—That was epeated to me.

15,032. Can you give the names of any person who epeated that to you?—No; after the lapse of four ears I do not recollect.

15,033. Just one or two names, because we should ke to test this?—I know there were some that signed hat voted the opposite way.

15,034. Can you give us the names of those?—I now one of the name of Sloggett. I did not see he requisition myself.

15,035. Did Byne? Do you remember such a man s that?—Yes; I think Byne. I am not certain.

15,036. Blank?—My mind is a blank on that ubject.

15,037. From what you learned did you believe hat the requisition was not an honest one?—I was ertain it was not.

15,038. And it was got up simply for the purpose f getting a candidate down in order to have money pent in the town?—Yes; he might be carried.

15,039. Mr. Seymour was down before Mr. Dent r after that in 1863?—I think he was down before.

15,040. He had of course all the Seymour influnce to back him?—Yes.

15,041. When did you see Mr. Dent first after he ame down?—At that time?

15,042. At that time?—I did not see him for hree days after I returned; three or four days.

15,043. What was the reason for that?—I did not eel inclined after my advice had been disregarded.

15,044. You felt rather hurt?—Yes; until I reeived a note from them begging me to come down as sual.

15,045. How long before the election was that?—I cannot recollect the day.

15,046. I do not want it to a day or two. Was it after he had been here some little time?—He had been here three days if I recollect.

15,047. The election was on Tuesday, the 20th of January. Can you remember whether it was on the Thursday, Friday, or Sunday before the election?—That I went down?

15,048. That you went down to see Mr. Dent, or earlier than that?—No, I cannot recollect. I know he had been here two or three days.

15,049. Would not you be able to tell from your diary what day it was?—I do not think so.

15,050. Would not you have entered "Saw Mr. "Dent." Perhaps you will be good enough to look during the adjournment. When you got down to see Mr. Dent was Mr. Mitchell there?—Yes, Mr. Mitchell was there I dare say.

15,051. Had Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Dent a private sitting room?—Yes.

15,052. At the "Seven Stars"?—They had a private sitting room; there were generally some friends there.

15,053. Where did you see them?—In Mr. Dent's private sitting room.

15,054. Can you tell us the names of the persons you saw in that private sitting room of Mr. Dent's?—At different times?

15,055. At different times?—I have seen many there. Captain Pim, Mr. Kellock, and Mr. Edmonds, and many personal friends of Mr. Dent's besides, who came in former years.

15,056. Did any person come down from London with Mr. Dent in either 1862 or 1863 besides Mr. Mitchell?—I am not aware that there was.

15,057. Did any person come down in either 1862 or 1863 to your knowledge after Mr. Dent came down just before the election?—No, I do not know of any one.

15,058. Did you ever see a mysterious stranger in London?—No; that was all Greek to me.

15,059. (Mr. Coleridge.) You do not know of there being any one?—No, I do not.

15,060. (Mr. Bere.) Then from the time you saw this Mr. Dent did he persuade you to interest yourself in his cause?—Mr. Dent?

15,061. In 1863 you held aloof from him a little and then you went down to see him?—But it was to interest myself in his cause. He knew I would vote for him.

15,062. But after you saw him did not you for old friendship's sake interest yourself?—No, I did not.

15,063. Did you talk to Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Dent about the money that would be required in the contest?—No.

15,064. Are you quite sure?—I am certain I did not with Mr. Dent.

15,065. Did not you with Mr. Mitchell?—I do not recollect with Mr. Mitchell.

15,066. Had not you made a calculation as you did at the election of 1862 of the sum of money wanted in 1863?—I think I may have told him that 5,000*l.* would not carry the election.

15,067. That 5,000*l.* would not carry the election?—Yes.

15,068. Did not you intimate that probably another 1,000*l.* might?—I did not name any specific sum.

15,069. A little more money might carry it?—Yes.

15,070. You do not live very far from here?—No.

15,071. Just go home and get your diary and see whether you can find any entries with regard to dates, and any other papers you have and if you can, find that list it will be very important.

(After the adjournment the witness explained his diary to Mr. Bere.)

15,071.* Did you know at that time in 1863 whether there was any person besides Mr. Mitchell who came down from London?—No, I did not.

THIRTEENTH DAY.

Capt. H. Helms.

7 Sept. 1866.

15,072. Did you ever go into the upper rooms of the "Seven Stars" at the time of that election?—No, I was never in more than one room.

15,073. Did you ever know from Mr. Mitchell how the election was going, how the canvass was going, whether the contest was in his favour or against him?—No, I did not from Mr. Mitchell.

15,074. Did you from anybody else?—From my own judgment.

15,075. How did you form that judgment, did you go about canvassing?—No, I did not, but I knew very well how every one would vote.

15,076. For instance, these venal voters who were to be had, you knew that several must be paid certain sums before they were procured?—Yes.

15,077. Did you find whether they had been either given or offered the sums which they wanted?—No; I took it for granted that they would get them.

15,078. You took it for granted they would get them?—Yes.

15,079. They are the marketable votes?—Yes.

15,080. Did you not make some inquiry about that as to whether they would be bought?—Marketable ones? Yes, I did. I did not make any inquiry, but I knew if wanted they could be bought by either side.

15,081. You did not?—I came to a very satisfactory conclusion as to how many votes there were and how the money brought down would go.

15,082. Did not you ask how many Mr. Mitchell bought?—I took it for granted he would buy enough to make a majority.

15,083. You did not ask anything about the people who had been bought?—I never asked Mr. Dent.

15,084. Or Mr. Mitchell?—I knew very well what was going on from what I saw about the town.

15,085. Did you have any confidences made to you on the Liberal side on that occasion?—No. Of what kind?

15,086. Of what was going on on either side?—Yes; I knew pretty well what was going on on their side as well.

15,087. (Mr. Coleridge.) The diary of 1862 that you have given us affords us some information, but the diary of 1863 as far as I can make out only tells us what the weather is. Have you not a diary of 1863 in the same form as this of 1862?—I had, but I do not know what became of it.

15,088. Did you try to find it?—I did; I know it is not in my possession.

15,089. You mean you have destroyed 1863 though you kept 1862?—Very likely.

15,090. Have you looked for it?—Yes.

15,091. This is merely a sort of thing which relates to Admiral Fitzroy?—The variations of the temperature and so on.

15,092. Beyond going to church and the weather it does not say anything in 1863?—No.

15,093. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever hear from Mr. Mitchell after the election what amount of money Mr. Dent had spent here?—No.

15,094. Can you, from the knowledge you have, form any guess as to what Mr. Dent must have spent?—I should fancy that he must have spent more than 5,000*l.* and less than 10,000*l.*

15,095. But you cannot tell between those two numbers?—No.

15,096. The contest between Mr. Dent and Seymour was a close one?—Yes.

15,097. Did you form that judgment from the fact that you heard Colonel Dawkins had spent 5,000*l.* at this last election?—Just so.

15,098. Did you come to that conclusion because Colonel Dawkins was beaten by a large majority and Mr. Dent only by a small one?—That is it. But Mr. Dent was personally popular. I cannot say the same of Colonel Dawkins.

15,099. You think Mr. Dent was a good candidate?—They never had a better in Totnes.

15,100. Mr. Dent may have been an admirable candidate as far as money went, but personally?—Personally.

15,101. Was he a good canvasser?—No, he was not good, he was a bad canvasser.

15,102. Was he a good speaker?—No, I think he was more of an actual doer than a speaker.

15,103. (Mr. Coleridge.) It was the personal aspect that made him popular?—He had a very pleasant manner with him.

15,104. We have heard that they wanted to get a commercial candidate; had that anything to do with it?—Perhaps it may.

15,105. Because we have heard that Mr. Pender was the sort of man for the place?—Yes.

15,106. Is Mr. Dent the same sort of man?—Something like him I should think.

15,107. Did you do anything in canvassing with Mr. Dent?—No, I never canvassed a single voter.

15,108. What do you mean by "electioneering "1862"?—I suppose the electioneering was going on.

15,109. Did not that mean you were employed in electioneering?—No.

15,110. You never canvassed or asked for a single vote?—No.

15,111. You cannot tell me the names of people who were bribed in 1863. Do you know that offers were made to a great many on each side?—I can only tell from hearsay.

15,112. Did you know from hearsay that a great many offers were made to many people?—Yes.

15,113. Can you give the names of the people to whom offers were made?—No.

15,114. Some of them?—I should not like to mention them at random.

15,115. You took no money back to London after the election of 1863?—No, I am sorry to say more came down.

15,116. Have you any idea how it came down?—It may have come down in notes just to defray current expenses.

15,117. Do you think it more likely that a person should have brought it specially down from London?—If there was one I never knew it.

15,118. But you have no doubt that more money was wanted during the course of the election?—I dare say there was.

15,119. Have you any doubt of it really though you did not see the money brought down?—I have no doubt that there was, but I never heard of it.

15,120. Did Mr. Mitchell tell you that money was running short?—No; money did not run short.

15,121. The money that they had was running short?—No. We never had any conversation about it.

15,122. Did Mr. Mitchell ever tell you either during or after the election that it would cost Mr. Dent more than he expected?—I do not think he did.

15,123. You do not think he did?—No.

15,124. Mr. Mitchell is not likely to be coming home just yet?—No; I think not.

15,125. Although you cannot tell us the names of the people who voted for money, did you find that Mr. Dent's position as a man employing labour impressed a good many voters with the idea that they could get situations?—Yes, most certainly.

15,126. And were you as a friend of Mr. Dent's applied to from time to time, inquired of as to whether situations could be got?—Yes.

15,127. Can you give us the names of the people who applied to or inquired of you whether situations were to be had?—Young Butland I know asked me whether Mr. Dent would not give him a situation. He is a sailor.

15,128. Is that 1862 or 1863?—I think 1862.

15,129. Is that the son of the Rev. Gilbert Butland?—Yes.

15,130. Did he say anything about which way the father would vote?—It was understood I think that he was to vote for Mr. Dent.

15,131. If a situation was procured?—Yes.

15,132. Was any situation procured do you know?—None promised; I do not think Mr. Dent was brought acquainted with it at all. I never mentioned any of those solicitations to Mr. Dent.

15,133. Did not you mention it to Mr. Mitchell?—I may have told him of the solicitations made to me, but I was ashamed to say anything to Mr. Dent about it.

15,134. Did not you alter your own list that you had made and make another class of those who might be had for situations?—I might have done so.

15,135. And you put a great many into that class, did not you?—Yes.

15,136. Mr. Dent is a very large employer of labour?—Yes.

15,137. He has a large number of ships?—Not now.

15,138. Had he at that time?—He had at that time.

15,139. On your diary I have a few questions to ask you. You must have taken a very active part in 1862?—No, I think not.

15,140. You seem to have devoted a great deal of time to it. Your entries begin with nothing of note, then the 18th November and the 19th is electioneering. What does that mean, canvassing?—No, I had nothing to do with canvassing.

15,141. Then what does it mean, "electioneering"?—That electioneering was going on in the town.

15,142. There is 20th, electioneering again, 21st and 22nd, electioneering?—That is what was going on in the town.

15,143. Not your personal occupation, but the occupation of others?—No, instead of working as usual in the garden I might have been down in the town seeing how things were going on.

15,144. Then comes the 23rd when you went to church, then on the 24th electioneering, 25th electioneering, 26th electioneering, 27th electioneering, 28th electioneering, 29th electioneering. Does that mean that electioneering was going on, or that you were doing anything?—Going on.

15,145. That you were doing anything?—I had really nothing to do with it.

15,146. But here is your own note of two weeks in November, in which you were employed all the time electioneering. Do you recollect what time the electioneering took place?—Some time in December. The election did not take place till the 17th of December.

15,147. Now, we have two weeks electioneering up to the 5th December. Do you mean that you were doing nothing more than listening to what people said, and were not actually employed?—I was not actually employed.

15,148. Then here is the 8th and 9th December also electioneering, then the 10th you went to London. What did you go about, was that about the election?—I suppose that must be the day I went.

15,149. Was anything said about your supplying or advancing part of the money?—No.

15,150. Because apropos of going to London there is "sold India stock and returned from London"?—No.

15,151. Did you advance or find any money?—If I did I had no reason to conceal it.

15,152. But did you as a friend of Mr. Dent's?—No.

15,153. When there is a straightforward and a crooked way of doing these things the crooked is proceeded in?—If Mr. Dent wanted a thousand——

15,154. Did he at any time have a thousand?—No.

15,155. Did Mr. Mitchell?—No.

15,156. Or anybody for them?—No.

15,157. Or anybody in connexion with the election?—No.

15,158. Then comes the usual boast of going to church, and then there comes on the 19th, the election having been on the 17th, and oddly enough you have not made any entry on the day of the election?—There was no election.

15,159. You have made no entry on the day of nomination. How do you account for that?—I thought it of too little consequence.

15,160. You thought the proceeding of listening to other people so much more important?—Very likely I did.

15,161. And you were in the garden on the nomination day, and you went to Harberton on the election day, it seems; and then on the 19th, which would be two days after the election, there is "paid "money to Mr. Edmonds." What does that mean?—It was the transfer of a mortgage.

15,162. Was that in any way connected with any voter at the election?—I fancy it was.

15,163. Now tell us all about it. We have heard this before?—You see one of the electors ——

15,164. What is his name?—Sampson.

15,165. What Christian name?—I do not know; he lives behind the wall.

15,166. Tell us all about this mortgage?—One of the gentlemen on the Liberal side had a mortgage on his property when he was solicited for his vote on behalf of the Tories, and he told them he was afraid that the screw would be put on by the gentleman advancing the money.

15,167. Who was the gentleman advancing the money?—He is dead now.

15,168. Was it Mr. Samuel Huxham?—Yes. I do not know as a fact that Mr. Huxham did put on the screw.

15,169. Two days after the election you paid Mr. Edmonds some money?—Mr. Mitchell arranged to take over this mortgage himself, and it was to be done in my name.

15,170. Was it done in your name?—Yes, merely because Mr. Dent would not mix himself up with things of that sort.

15,171. What was the amount?—190*l.*

15,172. Who has the mortgage deeds?—I held the mortgage deeds for some time, and the interest was always paid me half-yearly as if it were my own; I do not think the mortgagor knew but that it was my own transaction.

15,173. Who paid off the mortgage?—Afterwards my health was declining, and I thought if I should happen to die, then it would be awkward to transfer back to the legal owner, and I represented this to Mr. Mitchell, and he agreed that it should be transferred to the agent here; Mr. Bryett holds it now, I believe.

15,174. Then in fact in order to get his vote you took the transfer of this voter's mortgage?—Yes.

15,175. For which Mr. Mitchell and ultimately Mr. Dent were to be liable?—Yes; I do not see that the voter gained any advantage by it, because he paid me the interest as regularly as if it were my own transaction.

15,176. But the reason of the transfer, I understood you, was that Mr. Huxham might put the screw on?—Yes, just so.

15,177. Well, instead of that he got Mr. Helms, who did not put the screw on?—Yes, he had that.

15,178. Whose money eventually paid off that mortgage?—I do not think it is paid off to the present time.

15,179. Has not Mr. Dent paid off the mortgage?—No.

15,180. Nor Mr. Mitchell?—No.

15,181. Are you sure it was not for 700*l.* instead of 190*l.*?—It was 190*l.*

15,182. Are you sure about that?—Yes, I think I am.

15,183. Then there is the usual "attending "Divine service;" but we come afterwards to —— When was there another payment to Mr. Edmonds after that?—If there is I might have got the half 10*l.* notes in one letter and the other halves in another.

15,184. Then there is "attending meeting in the "Guildhall" on the 30th December. Was that anything to do with the election?—Upon my word I forget that.

THIRTEENTH DAY.

Capt. H. Helms.

7 Sept. 1866.

15,185. Then you are in the happy position of paying off all your bills on the last day of the year. Were there any election accounts among them?—No.

15,186. You are quite sure it is not a mistake between 190*l.* and 700*l.*?—Quite sure.

15,187. Are you communicating now with Mr. Dent?—No, I might have letters of business occasionally.

15,188. Have you any statement to make respecting the accusation brought against you in this court?—I do not know of any accusation brought against me.

15,189. Is there anything in Harris's evidence you wish to contradict?—No, every one knows Harris. I know he said something mixed up with my name about 500*l.* That was a transaction which took place some years ago and was quite private.

15,190. Perhaps you had better explain that?—It took place in 1860; so it could not have anything to do with electioneering proceedings. A person had not money to spare exactly in this business, and I advanced that.

15,191. Did you make any use of that when the election came?—Not the least.

15,192. Did you say "I give you this for your "vote"?—No.

15,193. (Mr. Bere.) Were you here at the election of 1865?—No.

15,194. Then you took no part in it?—No.

15,195. Had you formed any opinion as to the general election which was going to take place?—Yes.

15,196. Had you formed any opinion of the chance of the Conservatives at any election in 1865?—Yes.

15,197. What opinion had you formed?—That the Conservatives stood no chance at all.

15,198. Did you form any opinion as to the reason why a Conservative would be brought down here?—Yes.

15,199. What opinion?—I thought that neither party would like to have a walk over.

15,200. Where no money was to be got?—No.

15,201. You had no doubt that a contest was provided here simply that money might be spent?—Yes, that is my impression.

15,202. (Mr. Coleridge.) Then who was it to benefit that a contest took place?—Why, all and sundry.

15,203. Who was interested to get up that contest?—Why, all the voters on each side.

15,204. And the agents also, I suppose?—Yes, of course.

15,205. I suppose the agents were active in getting up that contest?—I dare say they were.

15,206. Have you any doubt?—No.

15,207. Who did you believe was at the bottom of the contest?—I do not know.

15,208. You know as well as anybody in the town; who was it?—I cannot say.

15,209. You would rather not say?—I cannot say.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds.

Mr. Thomas Hunt Edmonds recalled.

15,210. (Mr. Bere.) I think we got to the end of the election of 1862. Now we come to the election of 1863, Mr. Dent's. Capt. Helms has told us something about a mortgage of a man named Sampson; can you explain it?—Yes; it was between the first and second election. Mr. Mitchell told me that if any person here required a loan, of course with proper security, I might be sure that Mr. Dent would advance money, and then Mr. Sampson told me that Mr. Huxham had a second mortgage on his house, and that he was afraid he would put the screw on him. I mentioned it to Mr. Mitchell, and he said, Oh, very well, I will supply the money provided you can get a valuation made. Mr. Heath made a valuation; I think it was valued at 1,140*l.*, and I represented this to him, and accordingly the transaction was carried out and the money paid by Mr. Helms; he handed it over to me, and I handed it over to Mr. Huxham, or his solicitor; 190*l.* was the amount.

15,211. Did anybody value besides Mr. Heath?—No one.

15,212. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was that a fair valuation?—I believe it was.

15,213. Has the mortgage ever been paid off since?—I do not know anything about it. I have had nothing to do with the transaction since. Whether Mr. Dent or Mr. Mitchell paid it off, I do not know. I did not know anything about the transaction till Mr. Helms mentioned it here.

15,214. Is it in Mr. Bryett's hands?—I do not know that he held it till Mr. Helms said so.

15,215. (Mr. Bere.) Was it an understood thing, when Mr. Dent retired in 1862, that in the event of Lord Gifford's death he should come down as the Conservative candidate?—I understood it.

15,216. As far as you know, was any money spent at all in 1862 by Mr. Dent?—Not that I am aware of; I know he gave me 50*l.* towards the funds of the rifle corps, and also a sum towards the races.

15,217. Did he give anything towards the Wesleyan chapel?—I never heard that he did. Not through me, certainly.

15,218. Or promise it?—Not that I am aware of; I never heard so.

15,219. Then it had been understood that Mr. Dent was to be the Conservative candidate in the event of a vacancy; when Lord Gifford died did you communicate with Mr. Dent at once?—I had a letter from Mr. Mitchell, who was then staying at Eastbourne lying confined to bed, seized with bronchitis, and he requested me to come immediately as he wanted to see me.

15,220. Did you go to him?—I went immediately.

15,221. Did you see him at Eastbourne?—Yes.

15,222. What passed between you and him at Eastbourne?—He said he had heard of Lord Gifford's death, and that Mr. Dent was disposed to go in and fight the thing upon this vacancy.

15,223. To fight it with proper weapons?—To fight it with proper weapons; there was no question about that.

15,224. Did you at all tell him what money would be wanted?—He asked me how much I thought it could be won for, and I told him he would be sure to win if he spent 4,000*l.*,—4,000*l.* or 5,000*l.* I said I think 4,000*l.*

15,225. Had you talked to Mr. Helms about this matter at all?—No, I had never talked on any occasion of any election.

15,226. (Mr. Coleridge.) You had the same distrust as Mr. Harris had?—I cannot say I had, but a great many members of the committee had a great distrust of him, that he was really a Liberal,—that he was communicating everything to Mrs. Thomas. They did not like the idea of the thing at all; but I did not think myself that he was a man who would be pretending to be a friend of Mr. Dent's and at the same time cutting us through in such a manner as that; I did not believe in such perfidy.

15,227. In all probability you did not communicate this?—I did not have any communication with him.

15,228. (Mr. Bere.) Is that all that passed at Eastbourne?—He said he would write to Mr. Dent by that post. He asked me to call on Mr. Dent the next morning.

15,229. Did you do so?—I did about the middle of the day.

15,230. Did you see Mr. Dent?—I saw Mr. Dent and he said he was determined to go on, and he gave me the particulars which I brought down.

15,231. Did he give you anything besides?—othing that I am aware of.

15,232. Nothing at that time?—No.

15,233. When did he come down after the address? I think he had been ill some time, and was then nder medical attendance, and not till some time terwards.

15,234. You as soon as the address was out canssed the voters?—Just so, I and Mr. Kellock and r. Frederick Kellock went and made a canvass.

15,235. What was the result of the canvass?—A ry satisfactory one indeed. Mr. Dent is a very pular man here.

15,236. Have you the poll book of that canvass?—, no papers.

15,237. Did you destroy them all?—Just after the ection was over, I was so disgusted with the whole air and the part I had been induced to take in it at I determined never to have anything more to do th an election in Totnes.

15,238. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was there any idea of petition at that time?—No; I think something was d, but Mr. Mitchell said their hands are not clean, lo not think they will.

15,239. (Mr. Bere.) Did you find there was the ual hesitation, or were people more open in their omises than they had been?—They were certainly re open an their demands as well as promises.

15,240. From the fact that Mr. Dent had retired the previous occasion?—They are a very venal here.

15,241. Was Mr. Seymour in the field before Mr. ent?—He was down here before Mr. Dent came wn; I do not think he was down here four or five ys before the election.

15,242. Mr. Dent?—Yes.

15,243. Had they begun to canvass?—I think we gan to canvass about the same time.

15,244. And you found the poll book satisfactory?—Just so.

15,245. When did Mr. Mitchell come down?—st about the same time as Mr. Dent. He had been ffering from severe illness; and he came down four five days before the election, which took place the 20th January.

15,246. You saw Mr. Mitchell almost as soon as came down?—Yes.

15,247. And did he tell you whether he had brought y money?—Yes.

15,248. What did he bring?—3,000*l.*

15,249. In gold?—In gold.

15,250. And did you afterwards let him have some ore money?—I did, I supplied him with 500*l.*

15,251. Where from?—The Devon and Cornwall ank.

15,252. Did you draw a cheque on the Devon and ornwall Bank?—No; I did not think it prudent do it myself, and I got a friend to give me a cheque hich I cashed there.

15,253. Who was that?—The late Mr. Phillips. nd I took the gold to him in his bedroom.

15,254. First of all, what day was that the 500*l.* as wanted?—I think that must have been about he nomination day. It was on the nomination day, think; I will not be quite positive.

15,255. Did you know from Mr. Mitchell that ore money had come down from London than the ,000*l.* which he had brought down?—I never heard .

15,256. You never heard that any money was rought down with that exception?—No.

15,257. With the 3,000*l.* had you anything to do all?—No, nothing; with the 500*l.* I had.

15,258. First of all, the 3,000*l.*?—No, that was assed through the friend he brought down with im.

15,259. He brought some one down with him?—e did.

15,260. Did you ever see him?—No; it was the an described as "Mr. Blackman."

15,261. Mr. Mitchell will of course be able to tell us who that was?—Yes, I suppose so. He brought him down, and I told him it was necessary.

15,262. Now the 500*l.*, had you anything to do with that?—I had received from Mr. Mitchell two or three sums of money.

15,263. What sums?—I am hardly prepared to tell you the amount, but I handed over some to Mr. George Heath. I recollect one sum of 80*l.*, which he said he wanted for William Byne, and I afterwards let him have another sum for three or four voters. I think several voters it was; I forget the number.

15,264. Was that money you received from Mr. Mitchell, or was it out of your own pocket?—I got it from Mr. Mitchell.

15,265. When Mr. George Heath came to you and told you he wanted money, did you go to Mr. Mitchell?—I went to Mr. Mitchell and asked him whether the stranger was there, "the man in the moon," or something; he said "No, he is out, he is not here." I do not know whether he said where he was, I do not recollect that, but I said "Here is a voter here which "it is of great importance you should secure, he "wants 80*l.*, and will go the other side unless he "gets it;" and he said "Here, I will let you have "the money." So I got the 80*l.* and took it down.

15,266. Did he go out of the room to get the money?—No, he gave it me in the room.

15,267. Where did he take it from?—A bag.

15,268. A black bag?—I think the same bag I took down the 500 sovereigns in.

15,269. Was that a canvas bag?—A canvas bag.

15,270. Did you ever see a china bowl on the table?—Never.

15,271. You never went upstairs to get any money?—I never got money from anyone except Mr. Mitchell.

15,272. Did not you give Edward Woodley some money?—I did; I forgot what the amount was, but he supplied me to-day with the particulars (referring to a paper), it was 150*l.*, I think.

15,273. For whom did you let him have that?—"John Fogwell Chapple, 40*l.*, John Nickells, 30*l.*, "Barter, 30*l.*, and Warren, 50*l.*" But from my own recollection, I do not know who he had it from.

15,274. Did you remember something happening to Mrs. Westaway?—I recollect her coming down to the large room under the archway and saying that her husband had received from Frederick Evens, whether 20*l.* or 30*l.* I am not sure which, and that Mr. Webber had taken away her husband, and that she had brought back the money; and I said "You "had better take it back to the person who gave it "to you, not bring it to me." There were others there at the same time, I do not know who. She put the money down and went away.

15,275. Who were there?—I forget now, there were others there.

15,276. (Mr. Coleridge.) You would not have said that if anybody else had not been in the room?—I think I should have.

15,277. (Mr. Bere.) What became of that money?—I handed it to Mr. Mitchell.

15,278. Who were employed about that election, were the same people employed who were employed in the election of 1865?—I think just about the same.

15,279. Screach and Evens, Mr. George Heath, and Mr. John Heath?—Mr. John Heath had the charge of the watchers.

15,280. Old John or young John?—Old John.

15,281. I suppose young Mr. John Heath took much the same part as in 1865?—Yes, much the same.

15,282. Did you ever pay him any money?—Never to my recollection during the election.

15,283. Did these men come to you in 1863 as they did in 1865, and make offers to you from time to time?—Yes.

15,284. And you altered your poll books?—Yes, just in the same way.

15,285. On the morning of the election what was

THIRTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds.

7 Sept. 1866.

your opinion of the prospects?—Well, I considered that it was a very close run.

15,286. Did not you then go to Mr. Mitchell and tell him more money would be wanted?—No.

15,287. Did he learn in any other way that a sum of money would be wanted that morning?—I do not know that he did.

15,288. Do you know from hearsay whether any votes were bought on the election day?—I never heard so.

15,289. Were they all bought before?—They were all bought before; in fact I think they were all bought a week before, and paid for a week before.

15,290. Did you believe that all the money spent at the election was 3,500*l.*?—With the exception of a sum paid afterwards.

15,291. What was that sum?—Mr. Heath had made some payment, I do not know the amount. I have the particulars in my papers, but can only speak from memory now.

15,292. He had made payments?—He had made payments.

15,293. Were the payments he made repaid him directly?—Directly.

15,294. Or through you?—Whether I paid or Mr. Mitchell, I know he got down some money.

15,295. Did Mr. Mitchell ever come down again after the election of Mr. Dent?—No.

15,296. He might have spent a good deal of money of which you are not aware?—I think he went up and Mr. Dent sent down some money afterwards.

15,297. He did?—I think so.

15,298. Have you any idea how it was sent down?—I think in bank notes, a parcel of bank notes.

15,299. Were you with Mr. Mitchell much after the election?—I saw him several times.

15,300. What did you learn from him, that more money would be sent down?—I do not know the amount.

15,301. Had you no idea at all what was the amount sent down?—No, I did not know.

15,302. Have you any doubt that Mr. Dent at that election spent more than 5,000*l.*?—I should think, from all I have heard, it was between 4,400*l.* and 5,000*l.*, or nearly 5,000*l.* I know Mr. Mitchell told me before he left it was somewhere about 5,000*l.*

15,303. Has he spent any more money in the borough since that time?—Not that I am aware of.

15,304. Had there been any communications between Mr. Mitchell and you and Mr. Dent, except those we have heard of?—Not that I am aware of.

15,305. With regard to the election of 1863, did you have a negotiation with Mr. Mitchell or Mr. Dent, about Mr. Dent's standing as a candidate?—I think I wrote a letter or two to Mr. Spofforth, but he finally said that Mr. Dent had made up his mind not to enter Parliament.

15,306. We have heard of a sum of 1,000*l.* which Mr. Pender left behind him for the benefit of Totnes, can you give us any idea how that amount was distributed?—I do not know the proportions, but I think a portion of it went towards building a new school, another portion towards the Wesleyan chapel, and another portion towards the Independent chapel. I do not know much about that.

15,307. Was that 1,000*l.* spent for the benefit of the general inhabitants of Totnes, or for that of the Liberal party only?—For the Liberal party I think decidedly, except that there was some money paid for putting a new bell into the tower of the church.

15,308. What did that amount to?—I never heard the amount.

15,309. Who had the distribution of the money?—I think I heard that it was Mr. Chaster and Colonel Willoughby; that it had been invested in their names or paid to them jointly; I only heard so.

15,310. Have you heard from them that they had received instructions from Mr. Pender as to how the money was to be appropriated, or were they to do with it as they pleased?—I do not know anything about that.

15,311. With regard to the charities of Totnes, how are they managed?—They are managed by the Charity Trustees.

15,312. How are they elected, supposing there is a vacancy, do the surviving trustees nominate?—They are now appointed by the Charity Commissioners.

15,313. How was it in former days?—That I do not know.

15,314. Are the majority of the Charity Trustees now Liberal or Conservative?—I think there is a Liberal majority, but I am not quite sure. I think they are pretty evenly divided.

15,315. Are the charities here valuable?—Yes, they are, decidedly.

15,316. What do they consist of, are there almshouses connected with them?—Yes.

15,317. For men and women?—Yes.

15,318. And schools?—I do not think there are any schools.

15,319. Who is the clerk to the charities?—Francis Brooking Cuming.

15,320. Did you ever happen to see Mr. Helms' tabulated statement?—I have never seen that.

15,321. (Mr. Longe.) Do you remember this requisition being sent round?—Yes.

15,322. Who got that requisition first sent round?—I think it was mentioned in the committee; myself and Mr. Kellock were there, I think we drew up the heading of it; Mr. Harris took it round and got the whole of the signatures to it, or the greater portion of them. He was the principal person concerned in the getting it up.

15,323. Was there a Conservative committee?—Yes.

15,324. And Mr. Bastard, Mr. Bentall, and Mr. Gill were engaged in that?—Yes. Mr. Macleay had said that he would like to have a requisition; that is how it originated.

15,325. Did he say he should like to know what Conservatives were pledged by a requisition?—Just so.

15,326. And was that supposed to show the men who would vote for Mr. Macleay?—Yes.

15,327. That was the object of the requisition?—That was the object of it, we considered that any man who had signed a requisition would certainly vote for the Conservatives.

15,328. And did you really believe that all those who signed the requisition would vote for the Conservative candidate?—Yes, unless they were tempted by the other side.

15,329. Do not you know that one half of them were men who had been paid on former occasions?—No, I do not know that, I know there were a great many who had. As a general rule there are a great number of men who, although they expect money if money is going about, yet will not vote against their own party.

15,330. Do you remember looking over the list when it was filled up?—I do not know that I did particularly; I dare say I did.

15,331. There were a large number of men who had signed the requisition who would have to be paid?—I think there were six or seven men who had generally voted for money.

15,332. Surely there were more than that?—I do not put in the matter-of-course men.

15,333. You say six or seven besides the matter-of-course men; were there not as many as 70 on that requisition who had received money?—Not that I know of.

15,334. Was that requisition sent to any one else but to Mr. Macleay?—It was sent to Mr. Henry Smith, his solicitor. I never made use of it myself certainly not.

15,335. Do you know who has kept it since?—It has been in Mr. Macleay's possession ever since; it was sent down by him very recently.

15,336. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know a Mr. W. H. Oldrey?—I do.

5,337. Did you know him when he was resident Totnes?—I recollect him in Mr. Bryett's office.

5,338. How long has he left Totnes?—I can dly tell you; it is some two or three years since.

5,339. He was a clerk in Mr. Henry Smith's office, is now in the office of the registration for Kent? have heard so.

5,340. Did you see him at any time in connexion h the election of 1865?—I do not recollect that I

5,341. Was he here during the time of the election? think I had a letter in his writing on behalf of Henry Smith about Mr. Macleay.

5,342. Was he here during the election of 1865? do not recollect seeing him; he may have been e; I had no communication with him of a special racter relating to the election.

5,343. Do not you recollect sending a telegram to at Plymouth during the election?—I do not re- ect it.

5,344. Will you take this list in your hand, look ough it, and tell me the names of the persons ntioned there who are not bonâ fide voters, but o are voters on a borrowed qualification. You can us that from your own knowledge, having been naging the registration for years?—I have not had ch to do with the register lately.

5,345. If there is any one whom you have any itation about we will ask some one else. Will tell us how many there are who are really bonâ e voters and how many who vote on a borrowed alification?—I am afraid I am not in a position to ply you with that information without reference the register. I cannot do so from memory. I have l little to do lately with the register.

15,346. Were there not many of the Duke's tenants o at Mr. Dent's election in 1863 voted against the ke and were afterwards turned out?—There were eral.

15,347. Do you not know that without any excep- n they were all turned out of their holdings?—I lieve they were all turned out.

15,348. Can you speak of the eviction of any indi- lual from your own personal knowledge?—No, I merely speak of it from hearsay.

15,349. I mean tenants of the Duke's who had ed for Mr. Dent, and who had come to you and nplained of the way in which they had been treated consequence of their voting?—I do not think I l any one of them come to me.

15,350. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is there a Mr. Oldrey ing in Totnes?—A Mr. William Oldrey.

15,351. What relation is he of the young man of om we have been speaking?—His father.

15,352. Do you know a Mr. Oldrey living in Ply- uth?—I do not.

15,353. There are several telegrams during the ction from Oldrey, Totnes, to Oldrey, Plymouth? I cannot say anything about that. I believe he has ee sons.

15,354. Do you know whether Mr. Oldrey, the rk to the Kent registration, was in this town during last election?—I do not recollect.

15,355. Do you know him?—Yes, I know him very ll indeed by sight.

15,356. If he had been about here you would have n him?—I should, no doubt. I do not recollect ing him.

15,357. (Mr. Longe.) In 1862 you told Mr. Mitchell at a man would be required from London to distri- te the money?—I did.

15,358. And in 1863 you also told that to Mr. itchell?—I did. Whether in 1863 I again told him will not be sure; he told me that he had brought wn a man.

15,359. It originated with you. In 1865 you told is to Mr. Smith in the same way?—Just in the me way.

15,360. And as far as you know a man was brought wn in pursuance of your suggestion?—I should nsider so.

15,361. You know that there was no one in the town who could possibly have brought that man down except through the communication from you to Mr. Smith?—There are many here who could have brought him down and who might have sent for him, but not to my knowledge.

15,362. Were there any persons who would have taken that part on themselves which you had always performed on other occasions?—I think it is not at all likely.

15,362*. Could you name any one who would have done that?—I could not.

15,363. (Mr. Bere.) You were not employed as the legal adviser in 1859; have you anything to tell us about that?—According to my books I find that I paid the election expenses. I had no retainer.

15,364. What was the amount of the election expenses?—I think 305*l.* was paid to the auditor.

15,365. That was Mr. Dunn's election?—Yes.

15,366. Did that include the hotel bill?—Yes, everything; we returned everything in those days.

15,367. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was the reason of the hotel bill being struck out of the last election expenses?—I have understood the reason was that Mr. Phillips, the mayor, considered that the hotel bills were the personal expenses, and he thought they ought not to be added to the bill.

15,368. Was not the reason rather that the bill contained a large amount of treating, and that 300*l.* for two gentlemen staying at an hotel for ten days was a very large bill?—I cannot say that.

15,369. There were 179*l.* charged to Colonel Dawkins and 110*l.* to Captain Pim; do you consider that that was a legitimate bill?—It is a very large sum certainly, but at election times it is usual to make extra charges, the house is as it were turned upside down, and set apart for the business of the election.

15,370. Must not a great deal of that amount have been spent in treating?—Very likely, there will be no doubt of it.

15,371. Then how was it that treating was made no part of the charge against Mr. Pender at the last election before the committee?—I think there was something said of it, and some evidence was given upon that subject.

15,372. What elicited this letter from Mr. Spofforth to you?

"6, Victoria Street,
"Westminster, S.W.,
"My dear Sir, 27 May 1865.

"I am afraid it is impossible to induce Mr. Potter to stand. I will, however, send your letter to him, with one of my own, to persuade him to do so. You may, however, rest assured that some one will come forward to vindicate Conservatism, and give you one more chance; but I have little hope that it either will be Mr. Dent or Mr. Potter."

What does that refer to, "Give you one more "chance"?—He meant to say that they would not supply us with another candidate unless we could get this one returned.

15,373. The letter goes on, "We are sure to have "Mr. Potter's influence with the North Devon with "whatever candidate we put up;" what does the remainder of the letter mean?—I think that should be South Devon, that is a mistake.

15,374. Had you asked him to use any influence with those people?—I think I had written to him to that effect.

15,375. To have the screw put on?—I thought Mr. Potter would be a good candidate and would have some influence with the people at the station, being connected with the Great Western railway.

15,376. We have heard that Mr. Malins, Q.C., was connected with this place?—He was by marriage, some years ago.

15,377. How is it that he never was asked to stand for Totnes?—I suppose he was not considered to be a person rich enough.

15,378. None of the gentlemen who would be naturally sought after seem to have been put forward;

THIRTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds.

7 Sept. 1866.

how is it that Mr. Rennie never seems to have been put forward?—Mr. Rennie was not in a position to spend sufficient money to counteract the heavy influence on the other side.

15,379. Was Mr. Champernowne ever asked to stand?—I never heard of it.

15,380. There has been no instance of a gentleman in the neighbourhood coming forward for the last ten years?—Where you get down such a man as Mr. Pender, with an income, as it was said, of 100,000*l.* a year, it was necessary to get some one to counteract that.

15,381. Have the Liberals ever tried Mr. Durant?—No; he knows too much of the place.

15,382. No one who knows Totnes will stand for it?—Just so.

15,383. (Mr. Longe.) Here is a letter from Mr. Samuelson, of the National Conservative Association, there was a requisition sent to him?—I think Mr. Kellock might have sent it up, whether he did or not I am not able to tell you.

15,384. When it was first sent up there were not all the names to it that there are now. It says, "Mr. "Macleay will be absent another fortnight, by which, "time will be allowed to make the requisition as "perfect as possible"?—According to that the requisition must have been returned, and when it came back Mr. Harris went round and got some more names added to it.

15,385. In this letter it says, "Evens and Dart "will not appear"?—They were at that time in London, and were asked to call at Mr. Smith's office to sign it. They were two voters belonging to the borough who happened at that time to be in London.

15,386. (Mr. Bere.) Who is Dart?—He was a young man, a cabinet maker, who was finishing his business.

15,387. And George Evens?—He was there learning his business.

15,388. Is he the one who was afterwards employed by the Conservatives?—No; a different man altogether.

15,389. What made Mr. Macleay retire or not stand?—He had a brother who died in Australia, and it was necessary that he should go there to wind up his affairs; that was the reason given by Mr. Smith.

15,390. Would he be available at some future election, if you should be so fortunate as to have one?—I do not think we shall have another.

15,391. Had you anything to do with one of the voters named Tucker in the election of 1865?—I do not recollect that I had.

15,392. W. H. Tucker?—I think not. I do not recollect that I ever saw him at all.

15,393. Did you mention his name to Heard?—I think not; I may have mentioned it. I thought he was a man who might be got to vote for the Conservatives.

15,394. Now with regard to the two Hills, had you not something to do with them? Did you not direct some people to look after them?—I do not think I did. I think Harris had to do with them. I may have asked him to go and see them; I am not sure.

15,395. Have you got your poll book here for 1865?—I have.

15,396. How is Charles Pengilley marked?—He is not a voter.

15,397. Did you hear that Pengilley had been employed by the Liberals at the time of the election?—He is returned in the account. A man called Bovey told me that he had offered him a very considerable sum of money.

15,398. Did you send Bovey to Pengilley?—I did. He told me of the fact of offering him money, and he said he had secured Bovey and made it all father all right. I asked him if he had heard him speak of the matter since the election; he said there was chaffing and joking going on. I was getting up the evidence for the petition, and I asked if they could find out anything as to what had been done. He promised me that he would do so. I think I told him if he could not get out anything else he might hold out the hope of some reward; that if he would come forward and speak the truth, and tell us everything that he knew about the matter, I would give him a trifle for doing so.

15,399. Did you mention the amount of your reward?—No. Bovey came back to me and said he had seen Charles Pengilley, and he says that he can give a lot of information, quite enough to turn out Pender and Seymour. I said to him, "Did he tell you all "about it?" Then I said to him, "What took place?" He said, "I held out an inducement to him." I said, "Would not 50*l.* tempt you to tell me all?" He said, "Oh dear no, neither 50*l.*, nor 100*l.*, nor 150*l.*; I "must have that at least, because it would be impossible for me to remain in the town after going "and splitting upon the people with whom I have "acted." Bovey made me acquainted with this. I said, "Let the matter drop, and we will have nothing "more to do with it."

15,400. Was 400*l.* ever mentioned?—No.

15,401. Either by you or Bovey?—No. I heard it mentioned at the time of the petition; that is the first I ever heard of it.

15,402. Had you anything to do with John Wright?—Yes. I canvassed him with Colonel Dawkins, and he said that he should vote as usual for the Conservatives. A few days after that I heard that Mr. Pender had been there and had stayed there a great length of time. I heard he had been there twice, or three times, and that Mr. Jenkins had been there, and had had a long interview with him. Our party thought there was something wrong, and I went over and saw him. He said, "You need not be "afraid of me; I should have liked if I could to "have voted for Mr. Pender." He did not say for what reason.

15,403. Had he rented any estate of you?—Never. He rented an estate of the same name as the one belonging to me, and not far from it, but it is not mine.

15,404. That was a mistake of Mr. Harris'?—It is the same name.

15,405. Did you afterwards find out that his son-in-law, Mr. Fowle, had a vessel in pawn?—I heard so.

15,406. And Wright voted against you, having voted for Dent in 1863?—Yes, and having said that he should vote for us.

15,407. Can you give us in 1863 and 1865 a list of the voters, who, having promised you, voted on the other side?—I think I can supply you with that.

15,408. Whom you canvassed, and whom you put down in your poll book as going to vote for the Conservatives, but who afterwards either voted for both the Liberals, or split their votes?—As to 1863 I shall have some difficulty, for I have no poll book. I did not canvass one half of the voters myself, and I am afraid I cannot do that. I can supply you with 1865, and give you some names in 1863 from recollection.

S. Brown.

SAMUEL BROWN recalled and further examined.

15,409. (Mr. Bere.) You remember the election of 1863?—Yes.

15,410. Do you think you remember it better than that of 1865?—I do not know that I do.

15,411. Who was the candidate who was then staying at your hotel?—Mr. Dent, I think.

15,412. Who was staying with him as his friend?—Mr. Mitchell.

15,413. Was there a Conservative committee in the house at the same time?—There was.

15,414. Were all the rooms taken up in the same way as they were in the year 1865?—Yes; something similar.

,415. (Mr. Longe.) Was there a room where dined and a table kept open to the public, or ose persons who came in authorized by the can- e ?—It was very much like that ; whatever they ed they had.

,416. How do you know that ; did you serve ?—Occasionally.

,417. Who was waiting with you then ?—I do hink I had any other waiter then with me. I am I had not.

,418. Was Miss Prout there then ?—Yes.

,419. And the same chambermaid ?—No ; Martha was the chambermaid then.

,420. How long was Mr. Dent in the house ?— not tell to a day or two.

,421. Was he there a fortnight or a week ?—I ld think he was there quite a fortnight.

,422. Do you remember whether Mr. Dent and Mitchell came together ?—I believe they did, to est of my recollection.

,423. At that time do you remember a Mr. Mum ng ?—I do not remember a Mr. Mum at that

,424. Did you ever hear the word Mum used ?—Not at that time.

,425. When was the first time you heard of a n being employed to distribute the money called Mum ?—I believe it was the day after he had ed by the mail train.

,426. The day after who arrived ?—This man as they term him.

,427. At which election ?—There was a Mr. Mum lonel Dawkins' election.

,428. Did you never hear of a Mr. Mum at the election ?—No.

,429. In 1863 was there anyone at the "Stars" was employed to distribute the money ?—I be- there was.

,430. You know there was ?—I do not know was, I believe so. I never saw him distributing y. I could not say.

,431. Then what reason have you to believe was ?—I know there was a man upstairs who d upstairs all the time.

,432. You never saw him go out ?—I never saw o out.

,433. In what room did he stay ?—In either 15 or 16.

,434. There was a person there who stayed up- ?—Yes.

,435. Did you ever wait upon him ?—Never.

,436. Did you ever take any voters up there ?— not remember doing so.

,437. Supposing that a voter was sent to the rs" to go to this man, how would he find out e he was ?—I do not know ; I had nothing to do it whatever.

,438. Had you never been told there was a n there who would be wanted by people in the ?—I was never told directly.

,439. You remember the person being there ?—

,440. And you did send persons up to his room ? ; I do not remember that ever I did.

,441. Who was the person who performed that ?—I do not know who did ; I did not do it.

,442. You know that there was such a person ?—I heard rumours of one and the other, I did xactly know what. There was such a man up- s ; he was not named Mum then.

,443. Was there not a man there in 1862 to ibute the money ?—No, I think not. That relates r. Dent's first coming.

,444. It was only a month before, in December ? cannot exactly remember the date.

,445. Was there not such a man there then ?— I do not remember that.

,446. Who was it in 1863 who waited on this ?—I believe the chambermaid did.

,447. He stopped in his room all this time ?— Yes, as far as I know ; I never saw him out of his room.

15,448. You have no reason to believe that ?—I have no doubt that he was there the greater part of the time.

15,449. His business was to keep himself in his room, so as not to be seen ?—I have no notion that he was bound to keep there.

15,450. You never saw him out of it ?—I never saw him out of it.

15,451. How long was he there ?—He was there for some days, I do not know how many. I do not ever recollect waiting on him myself.

15,452. Then how do you know he was there at all ?—I saw him come outside his door on the landing.

15,453. Can you say what he was like ?—He was dressed very much like a gamekeeper.

15,454. Was he very dark ?—I think not.

15,455. Who christened him the "black man" ?—I do not know I am sure.

15,456. As to what he had at the bar, how was that paid ?—I have no idea.

15,457. You say you never took him anything ; did he dine in his room ?—I never took him any.

15,458. If he did not dine in his room some one must necessarily have waited on him ?—I never saw him out of the house ; I did not wait on him ; I never saw him dine or saw any dinner taken to him. I have seen breakfast taken to him.

15,459. Did he take breakfast in his room ?—I think so.

15,460. You suppose that was either No. 15 or No. 16 ?—It was one of those ; I rather think it was No. 16.

15,461. Was there anyone at the election of 1865 who kept in his room as this person did in 1863 ?—I will not swear that.

15,462. Will you swear there was not anyone who was keeping in his room by day ?—I do not know ; I never went to see.

15,463. Did you know any room in 1865 where any mysterious stranger was living, and keeping in there all the day ?—I did not.

15,464. In what room did this stranger sleep who was there in 1863 ?—I do not know whether he slept or not ; he was in the bedroom.

15,465. You do not know whether he slept there ?—I do not know ; the chambermaid waited on him so far as I know.

15,466. Were you ever sent to him by any voter coming to the house and asking either for Mr. Mum, or for anyone in No. 13 ?—I have been asked where No. 13 was.

15,467. Were you asked that by voters, or by persons coming to the hotel ?—Yes, very likely the person was a voter ; I have no doubt of that.

15,468. And he wanted to see this person in No. 13 ?—Yes.

15,469. What did he ask you ?—They would merely ask me where No. 13 was, if they had not been there before.

15,470. Did he mean the room or the man ?—I suppose he meant the number.

15,471. What did you tell him ?—I told him to go upstairs and follow the numbers.

15,472. You told him whereabouts it was ?—I gave him the direction ; I never went there to point out the door. The room is directly facing the stairs, and those numbers follow one another.

15,473. You told us the other day that in 1865 Mr. Mum slept in No. 15 or No. 16 ?—In No. 13.

15,474. Do you know where Mr. Smith's clerks slept ?—Either in 15 or 16 ; the doors are close together.

15,475. Did they sleep in the same room ?—So far as I know. I never went into the room.

15,476. Where did Mr. Smith himself sleep ?—I really do not know. I cannot remember.

15,477. As I understood, Nos. 13, 14, 15, and 16 are all on one floor, and you pass 16 to go to 13 ?—Yes.

THIRTEENTH DAY.

S. Brown.

7 Sept. 1866.

15,478. In 1863 did you see either young Screach or Frederick Evens?—Yes, I believe I did.

15,479. Did they ever speak to you about the stranger?—No.

15,480. What did you call him in 1863; how was he identified by you?—I heard rumours going about of the "black man," the "man in the moon," and so on.

15,481. You say you had some communication with Screach?—No, I do not think I said so.

15,482. (Mr. Bere.) It has been sworn to by Screach and Evens that in 1863 and 1865 you communicated with one of them on the arrival of this mysterious stranger. You say it was not the case in 1865 and it was not the case in 1863?—It was the case in 1865; that was Colonel Dawkins' election.

15,483. You have sworn that it was not?—That was a mistake of mine.

15,484. (Mr. Longe.) We put it to you twice, and referred you to the evidence before the committee, and you said it was not true?—I deny it now. I deny that I ever fetched Screach from the bridge.

15,485. That you told Screach a gentleman wanted him at the "Seven Stars"?—I do not remember that I ever told him that. I have never said so.

15,486. What do you mean by the answer you gave a minute or two ago?—That must have been a mistake.

15,487. Which is the mistake?—1865 is the only time I remember. As regards Screach I was never sent to him.

15,488. Then what did you do in 1865?—The thing I was alluding to was the calling Evens from the smoking room and saying that he was wanted upstairs. I did not see Screach.

15,489. What did you tell Evens?—That he was wanted upstairs.

15,490. Had you nothing to do with Screach or Evens in 1863?—Nothing at all.

15,491. Did you send a message?—I do not remember that I ever did.

15,492. Will you swear you did not?—I do not remember it.

15,493. Did not this black man come down with Mr. Mitchell?—I do not know that he did.

15,494. Did you attend on Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Dent?—I did.

15,495. Did you ever see a stranger in the room with them whom you did not know?—Never.

15,496. (Mr. Coleridge.) You were here when the chambermaid was examined?—Yes.

15,497. Did you hear her say that the stranger had slept in No. 15?—It was Mr. Smith who slept in No. 15.

15,498. And if he slept in No. 15 his clerks slept in No. 16?—I have not the slightest doubt they were close together.

15,499. Are you certain of that?—I am not certain of it.

15,500. If, as the chambermaid said, Mr. Smith slept in No. 15, are you quite certain that his clerks slept in No. 16?—I should think so, but of that I am not sure.

15,501. And you are equally certain that at this same time a person whom we have called the mysterious stranger was sleeping in No. 13?—Quite so.

15,502. And you know that the door in No. 13 was generally kept locked?—I never went to the door.

15,503. And you say that the gentleman who was in No. 13 kept for the principal part of the time in his room?—I cannot say that, for I saw him about the house.

15,504. Did you see him about the house at all times of the day?—I cannot remember that. I have seen him occasionally.

15,505. When people asked you to show them the way to No. 13, did they ever come back to you and say that they had been to No. 13 and could find no one there?—I never remember anything of [illegible] kind.

15,506. Then if people went to No. 13 at all [illegible] would assume from that they had found there [illegible] they wanted?—There can be no doubt of that.

15,507. And you feel certain that there was gentleman in No. 13 in addition to Mr. Smith's [illegible] clerks who were there?—Yes; I believe so.

15,508. Can you recollect seeing the person [illegible] we have called the mysterious stranger and [illegible] Smith's two clerks in the house at the same time? I never remember seeing them together.

15,509. Can you recollect the stranger and [illegible] Smith's two clerks in the house at the same time? I never remember seeing them together.

15,510. Have you seen the two clerks and [illegible] stranger in the house?—I have no doubt of it.

15,511. (Mr. Longe.) Who slept in No. 14?—I not know.

15,512. What reason have you for saying that the two clerks slept in 15 and 16?—I believe I have [illegible] them going there.

15,513. You hear that Mr. Smith slept in 15; [illegible] the chambermaid knows better than you?—[illegible] ought to.

15,514. Why do you say one did not sleep in [illegible] —I do not know.

15,515. You must have some reason; you do [illegible] come here and pitch upon 15 and 16 without [illegible] reason?—The only reason I have is that I have [illegible] Mr. Smith's clerks going to 15 or 16.

15,516. Both the same room?—Yes.

15,517. You believe they slept in the same room —I have no reason to doubt it.

15,518. Is that your belief?—It is.

15,519. If two pairs of shoes or boots stood at [illegible] same door, the boots would know?—He would be likeliest person.

15,520. (Mr. Bere.) There have been three [illegible] nesses examined here; and those three witnesses have each said they had communications with you 1865 or 1863 with regard to this gentleman who came down, and they have been examined on oath. [illegible] Mr. Harris; Mr. Harris says he went down to "Seven Stars" and asked you for the gentleman who came by the mail, in 1865; do you remember Harris coming coming and asking you for the gentleman who came by the mail?—I do not remember he may have done it, but I do not remember.

15,521. Do you remember a person who came the mail train coming to the lobby and seeing Harris?—That I do not remember.

15,522. Was your evidence taken by any per at the time of the petition; were you examined anybody; you heard there was a petition against election in 1865, were you not examined as to [illegible] you knew?—I might have been asked.

15,523. Did not Mr. Edmonds ask you about it I do not believe he did.

15,524. Who did?—I believe it was Mr. Gu[illegible]

15,525. Did Mr. Guscotte come down here? believe he did to the best of my recollection.

15,526. Did he come and ask you about it rather think he did.

15,527. What did you tell him?—That I k nothing.

15,528. That you would know nothing?—I did say I would not know; I said I did not know.

15,529. (Mr. Coleridge.) What they wanted what you knew about the other side?—I do know.

15,530. Mr. Guscotte did not want to know your own side?—When he asked me I suppo thought I could tell him, but if I did not k could not.

15,531. You had a person ask you to go and Mr. Evens?—I have a remembrance of that.

15,532. Who was that person; how do you him; how do you identify that person?—It person in 13.

15,533. Will you swear he was living at 13 ?—I ve seen him going up-stairs.

15,534. How do you identify him? Do you swear was staying in 13?—I believe he was.

15,535. You do not swear ?—I never saw him going o his room.

15,536. Will you swear he was not one of Mr. Smith's clerks ?—I think I could swear it. If he was Mr. Smith's clerk he must have disguised himself.

15,537. Do you swear he was not ?—I do not believe he was.

15,538. You would not swear it ?—I would not swear it, but I do not believe he was.

15,538*. (Mr. Bere.) You may go at present, but we shall want you here to-morrow morning.

Mr. John Yabbicom sworn and examined.

Mr. J. Yabbicom.

15,539. (Mr. Bere.) Are you manager of the ational Provincial Bank ?—I am.

15,540. How long have you been so ?—About three ars.

15,541. Will you produce the books of the bank ? —They are carried up-stairs.

(Mr. Bere.) They must be left here and we must look through them. That is all we want you for at present, but we may want you again.

Mr. Thomas Creaser Kellock sworn and examined.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

15,542. (Mr. Coleridge.) You are a solicitor practing in this town ?—I am.

15,543. How long have you been a solicitor in this wn ?—Since the 1st of March 1850.

15,544. Before that time were you resident in this wn?—I am a native of Totnes ; I resided here til 1844 ; I left it in 1844, and returned to it in arch 1850.

15,545. You left the town and were articled elsehere ?—No, I was articled here ; left the last year, d practised elsewhere for a few years, and returned.

15,546. You are now the mayor ?—Yes.

15,547. When did you first take any part in the ection of 1865 ?—When Colonel Dawkins came to otnes.

15,548. Was it when he came, or before ?—I had en an active partizan of the Conservative cause for me years before Colonel Dawkins came.

15,549. When had you first any communication th anybody about a Conservative member coming this borough ?—In conversation with my brother, d also with Mr. Edmonds ; I think I may say I ew all that had gone on about getting a candidate 1865.

15,550. Had you any correspondence by letter or egram with Mr. Spofforth ?—I never had any comunication with Mr. Spofforth verbally, by letter, or telegram in my life ; and to my knowledge I had ver seen him, but I had heard of him through other gentleman.

15,551. As you were in communication with Mr. dmonds and Mr. Edmonds with Mr. Spofforth did u see the communication between them ?—I do not ink I saw the communications, but I think Mr. dmonds communicated to me the purport of them.

15,552. You knew from Mr. Harris the purport of e communications he had ?—Some of them.

15,553. Were you in communication about a Conrvative candidate ?—On one occasion I went to ndon to see Mr. Macleay.

15,554. When was that ?—I think in July 1864.

15,555. You were then getting ready and looking t for a candidate for the time when there might be dissolution ?—I had never actively interfered in y matters, but I was going to London and I was quested to see Mr. Smith.

15,556. There was a probability of a dissolution in 64, and it was with a view of a general election at you saw Mr. Macleay ?—Yes ; I went to Mr. nith's office and was there introduced to Mr. acleay.

15,557. What Mr. Smith ? Mr. Smith of Victoria reet ?—Of Essex Street, Strand.

15,558. (Mr. Bere.) Do you mean Essex Street or orfolk Street, Mr. Henry Smith, or Mr. Smith, or nith and Guscotte ?—Mr. Henry Smith.

15,559. Did you go and see Mr. Macleay ?—I had interview with Mr. Macleay.

15,560. What brought you there in the first inance ?—I think some other person had made a mmunication.

15,561. Were you then thinking of running one or two candidates ?—I think one at that time.

15,562. When you had that interview with Mr. Macleay was there anything said about a requisition? —No, there was to be a meeting.

15,563. That meeting was to be held at Totnes ?— No ; probably you will be amused at it.

15,564. No, tell us.—It was arranged that Macleay and Smith should accompany me a few days afterwards to Exeter, and there we should meet three gentlemen from Totnes who had been appointed to look about for a candidate, Mr. Bentall, Mr. Bastard, and Mr. Gill.

15,565. They were to meet at Exeter ?—Yes.

15,566. Did the meeting come off ?—I wrote to the hotel at Exeter for a room and a dinner to be ready, and I wrote to Mr. Edmonds or some friend in Totnes to have an appointment made to meet Mr. Macleay there. I called at the Paddington station thinking to meet Mr. Macleay and Mr. Smith, but I did not meet them, and I came on by myself, and when I reached Exeter neither Mr. Bastard, Mr. Gill, or Mr. Bentall were there, and I found the room and the dinner ordered, and I was the only guest.

15,567. Was it the South Devon and Cornwall Railway's blame that the gentlemen from Totnes were not there ?—No ; I was told that a messenger had been despatched to prevent my going down, Mr. Macleay and Mr. Smith were prevented coming from some cause, but I had left the house before the letter reached me stating that the gentlemen were not coming from Totnes.

15,568. Was it that Mr. Macleay could not attend the meeting or was not going to contest the borough? —That he was not going to Exeter ; he came here afterwards.

15,569. When did you first get him here ?—I think some months afterwards with Mr. Smith.

15,570. Was there a meeting then ?—I saw him with some other gentlemen, and I think the meeting took place with the three gentlemen I have named.

15,571. Where was it ?—At the "Seven Stars;" the three gentlemen deputed to look after a candidate saw him.

15,572. Was anything said about a requisition ?—I don't recollect.

15,573. There was a requisition to Mr. Macleay? —Yes, and I believe I signed it myself, my name is to it I know.

15,574. This is a requisition signed by 173 voters ; what did Mr. Macleay say in answer to this requisition ?—After the interview at the "Seven Stars," which I have spoken of, and since I signed the requisition I have had no communication direct or indirect with Mr. Smith or Mr. Macleay.

15,575. You do not know why he did not come down ?—I heard from those in communication with Mr. Spofforth and Mr. Macleay that his brother had died, and that private affairs called him again to Australia, and that he could not stay in the kingdom.

15,576. When did you hear that Mr. Macleay

THIRTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

7 Sept. 1866.

would not stand in the event of a dissolution, was it in 1864 or 1855?—I think early in 1865.

15,577. Did you know anything after Mr. Macleay was out of the field, about negociations for getting someone in his place?—I heard there were negociations.

15,578. You knew what was going on?—Yes.

15,579. Did you see the letter from Mr. Spofforth?—I don't think I did see them all.

15,580. You saw a great many?—No, but I think Mr. Edmonds communicated the result.

15,581. You knew Mr. Kennard?—That is the next person that I knew of. I was spending the afternoon at a friends, Captain Stacey's, when a message I believe was sent to Mr. Edmonds.

15,582. Was Mr. Edmonds there?—Yes, he was ensign of the 17th Totnes Rifle Volunteers, Captain Stacey was the captain and he was giving them a feed under a tent, and a message was sent to say that a gentleman had arrived or would arrive that afternoon, and some Conservative was requested to come and meet him immediately.

15,583. About when was then?—I think in the summer of 1865.

15,584. May or June?—I think June.

155,85. Not so late as June was it?—I think it was but I dare say some person could fix the day, it is a well known day and date. I believe it was in June, quite the middle of the summer, it was hot weather.

15,586. Was this after John Dent had been coquetted with? You say Mr. Kennard was here but was there not an attempt to get Mr. Dent to stand?—I do not know.

15,587. Don't you know that Dent refused to stand unless some of the important and respectable members of the other side would sign a requisition?—I heard of it.

15,588. Did you hear that he would not stand unless a requisition was signed by some respectable parties on the other side?—Yes, I heard so.

15,589. Afterwards Mr. Kennard came?—Yes.

15,590. There was an attempt to get Mr. William Dent cousin of Mr. John Dent here?—I do not know anything about it.

15,591. Do you know anything about Colonel Alexander?—Yes, he came after Colonel Dawkins.

15,592. Then Mr. Kennard came?—Yes.

15,593. Can you tell us anything more than we have heard about why he went away?—I returned from Sandwell with Mr. Powning before our other friends returned, and had an interview with Mr. Kennard.

15,594. Where?—At the "Seven Stars," and he seemed to like Totnes with the exception of one material feature.

15,595. What was that feature?—That one of his co-directors was one of the sitting members.

15,596. Didn't he know it?—No; and he went from the "Seven Stars" to the "Seymour" hotel to have an interview with Mr. Pender, and he returned to the "Seven Stars" and declined to stand because he would not oppose a co-director of his in the bank.

15,597. And so we get rid of Mr. Kennard, now now we have heard about when Colonel Dawkins came down. Had you any personal communication with Colonel Dawkins?—I never had any communication with Colonel Dawkins until he reached here.

15,598. Was this requisition which was sent to Mr. Macleay shewn to Colonel Dawkins?—I do not know.

15,599. While we are on the requisition can you look through the names and say how many of the persons who signed the requisition were afterwards bribed on one side or the other?—I can say at once it is impossible for me to do so; I have not seen the requisition from since I signed it till to-day.

15,600. If I hand it to you can you tell how many were bribed who signed the requisition?—I believe it is impossible, but I have no objection to try.

15,601. There are 173 names; how many out of the 173 would you say roughly who were bribed?—I am afraid mine would be a rough answer, because it would require a comparison with the list.

15,602. Tell us another time; give us the names and we will go through them with you, but not at present. You had several meetings with the Conservative party just before Colonel Dawkins came?—I think there were several meetings.

15,603. At which you, Mr. Edmonds, and others were present?—Yes.

15,604. When had you the first communication with Colonel Dawkins about becoming his agent?—I never had a communication of that kind with him, Mr. Smith came and I had an interview with Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Smith.

15,605. Then you and Mr. Edmonds were formally appointed Colonel Dawkins' agents?—There was no formal appointment.

15,606. But you understood you were to act?—I may say so as a matter of course.

15,607. You had acted as agent in 1863?—I had.

15,608. And in 1862?—Yes.

15,609. In 1859 had you acted as Conservative agent?—Yes; I am talking of elections since 1852 on behalf of the Conservatives.

15,610. You thought as matter of course that you and Mr. Edmonds were Conservative agents?—Yes.

15,611. After Mr. Smith had been down, before Colonel Dawkins came?—I don't think I saw him before he came with Colonel Dawkins.

15,612. After Colonel Dawkins came can you tell us of any arrangements made to get a second Conservative?—There were many conferences.

15,613. But conferences that brought forth fruit how came you to get Colonel Alexander down?—I do not know.

15,614. Had you any communication with anybody about Colonel Alexander?—No.

15,615. As far as we can see at present there is no knowing who sent Colonel Alexander down. Mr. Spofforth never seems to have mentioned his name. Do you recollect sending a telegram to Mr. Edmonds saying, "Will Colonel A. go to the poll?"—No.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds.

Mr. EDMONDS recalled.

15,616. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you tell us, Mr. Edmonds, about that telegram, "Will Colonel A. go to the poll?"—I had a telegram before that saying a gentleman will be down. He came down, was introduced to Colonel Dawkins, and stayed one day. He dined with Colonel Dawkins and the next day I had a telegram.

15,617. Had you any communication with Colonel Alexander in addition?—Yes.

15,618. Did he go into the expenses?—No, I do not think he cared about playing second fiddle.

15,619. Tell us about it?—I do not think anything was mentioned about money matters. We wanted to get a second candidate.

15,620. Till Colonel Alexander came down you did not know who was coming in his place?—I did not know at all.

15,621. When he came down where did he go, to Colonel Dawkins?—I met with Colonel Dawkins.

15,622. Did he tell you that he was come down as a second candidate?—He said he had.

15,623. Did he take any steps to canvass?—None whatever.

15,624. The next day he went away?—Yes.

15,625. Do you happen to know that Mr. Seymour had shown him his poll book and after that he said it is no use?—Yes.

Mr. KELLOCK further examined.

The Witness.) All I can say about Alexander is t I heard there was a gentleman down, and there s an idea of his standing as second candidate, but went away.

5,626. You looked out for another candidate?— s.

5,627. How did you get hold of Captain Pim?— rst heard of Captain Pim at Exeter, some time ore Colonel Dawkins came here from Mr. Wes- ıb. I heard of Captain Pim's going to some other ough, and afterwards I heard of his retiring from t borough I believe.

5,628. What was that borough?—Abingdon, I ık. Then I heard about his being introduced to nes.

5,629. Was it through you that he was brought e?—No. I never saw him or communicated with t.

5,630. (Mr. Bere.) Didn't you talk to Mr. John ath about him; and did'nt Mr. Heath go to Mr. scomb, and then go and see Captain Pim?—I do know.

5,631. Wasn't it through that, that Captain Pim ıe to the borough?—I must at once say that I do know. I knew nothing of Captain Pim until he ved.

5,632. (Mr. Coleridge.) Has Captain Pim any- ıg to do with this place?—When he came down told me he had.

5,633. Did you know anything about Captain n being connected with this place?—He told me t his grandfather and great-grandfather lived here, pointed out their houses.

5,634. Did you take the same view as he did of exalted influence?—I told him that he would have run a risk.

5,635. The gauntlet of money, as much as lonel Dawkins?—I told him that there was no ınce of a second Conservative candidate being urned, and I asked him plainly if he would take second place.

5,636. Not to be returned, but to stand the fight? Yes, and the chance of what he might do; and he l he would do so, but he would'nt spend any ney.

5,637. Did he say how much?—I think he said t 500*l.*, and then 400*l.*, and he ultimately gave me heque for 300*l.*, and he wanted me to give him an dertaking that 300*l.* would pay the whole expenses his election, which I at once declined to do, and I l, "If you like to appoint me your agent, and give ıe 300*l.* to do the best with it, I am willing to act." en there was an arrangement that Mr. Edmonds, l my brother should act nominally for Colonel wkins, and that I and another gentleman should for Captain Pim.

5,638. You do not consider that Captain Pim efited Colonel Dawkins by his influence more than ouel Dawkins benefited Captain Pim by his money, ıe has told us. Do you think that Captain Pim's uence was as good as Colonel Dawkins' money. ve us a fair answer?—I will tell you at once I can- bear out Captain Pim's idea.

5,639. So I imagined?—Yes.

5,640. I suppose you may take it that with the eption of the Duke of Somerset there is no uence in the borough that will counteract the ct of money?—I think there is a strong feeling ngst the Conservatives, and I am free to confess, ugh as a native I am ashamed to confess, that the ney influence is the greatest.

5,641. You do believe that the Duke of Somer- 's, apart from the money, is great indeed?—Yes, doubtedly.

5,642. Always sufficient to carry one seat?— ıen we come to see how closely Dent ran.?

5,643. But that is a double election?—Undoubt- y he can always carry one seat, but in a single contest I thought that the Conservatives might beat the Duke of Somerset.

15,644. Captain Pim having come, his own influence and Colonel Dawkins' went in jointly?—Not altogether.

15,645. Will you explain it?—I kept a separate committee, a separate poll, and everything separate from Colonel Dawkins. I did it purposely.

15,646. Will you tell me if that is so, because I can quite understand why Colonel Dawkins couldn't petition; but why didn't Captain Pim petition if there was nothing wrong?—I cannot answer that question.

15,647. Was there a suggestion that Captain Pim should petition?—I thought he was going to petition together with Colonel Dawkins.

15,648. You knew it was useless for Colonel Dawkins to petition?—I heard he was.

15,649. Would you have advised him to do so?—Certainly not.

15,650. Would you have advised Captain Pim?—Yes.

15,651. Do you think that Captain Pim kept sufficiently clear of Colonel Dawkins that he might support a petition?—I thought so until I heard the evidence.

15,652. You thought he could have petitioned for the seat by striking off sufficient bad and bribed votes to come in?—Had I been consulted, and made an analysis of the poll, given it as much consideration as I have since, I think I could have advised him that.

15,653. You didn't think that he did commit bribery, or you were cognizant that Colonel Dawkins did not affect Captain Pim?—Yes.

15,654. I suppose it is the evidence of Narramore about his going out late on the night of the nomination that has informed you?—Yes.

15,655. You didn't think that he was implicated in the money spent by Colonel Dawkins?—I did not in the slightest degree.

15,656. Although you kept a separate poll book you canvassed together?—No.

15,657. You and Captain Pim canvassed one way?—I will tell you that I didn't canvass with CaptainPim.

15,658. Whom did you canvass with?—Only with Colonel Dawkins before Captain Pim came down. After Captain Pim came down it was arranged with Mr. Hare, the other solicitors, and myself, that they should do the canvassing in the town, and that Captain Pim and I should canvass the great number of the country voters.

15,659. Did you?—Yes.

15,660. Did you canvass with him?—Not with him that I can remember.

15,661. Your partner canvassed with Colonel Dawkins?—Yes.

15,662. And I suppose you compared notes of an evening?—Throughout the election I considered Mr. Edmonds as holding the first place, and whatever I did I reported to him, and he kept the poll book.

15,663. He reported to you?—No.

15,664. But he told you?—Yes.

15,665. You were cognizant from the beginning of money being spent on Colonel Dawkins' behalf?—I knew.

15,666. You canvassed the country voters by yourself?—Yes.

15,667. On behalf of Captain Pim, or for the double vote?—When Captain Pim came I asked for the double vote.

15,668. When you canvassed these voters had you any suggestion that made you aware that they required money?—I may say generally that throughout the election that I never talked to a single voter about money.

15,669. I don't suppose that you did?—But I may say that many persons came and without using direct language showed what they wanted. There was a kind of hint, and as soon as there was anything of the kind I said, "If you want to talk about money I "won't have anything to do with it."

THIRTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

7 Sept. 1866.

15,670. Did you make a mark against those gentlemen's names?—No.

15,671. Have you got a poll book here?—Yes, I have; and with the exception of a mark against two names, I think there is none.

15,672. What are they?—I would rather you looked at them and saw them for private reasons. With the exception of that, there is not a single mark.

15,673. Is this the book you used?—Yes.

15,674. Before and after Captain Pim came?—Yes; and there is a mark only against the names of two voters. I have since found one of the papers I had, which I now produce.

15,675. It was after you had dissevered yourself from Colonel Dawkins that these people gave you this gentle intimation before they promised to vote Captain Pim and Colonel Dawkins?—I think before. After Captain Pim came I did very little in canvassing.

15,676. You have told us about canvassing the voters after Captain Pim came, tell us the name of the persons?—Chiefly Lord Cranstoun's tenants. There was one called Mortimer.

15,677. Where does he live?—Sandridge.

15,678. What is his Christian name?—I think Richard.

15,679. What gentle intimation did he give you that he required something?—I went with a letter from Lord Cranstoun to ask him for his vote, and the first time he was not at home. I saw his wife and read the letter.

15,680. Have you got that letter—No.

15,681. What was it?—Lord Cranstoun wrote me a letter.

15,682. You showed this letter and what was the effect of it?—Mortimer turned round.

15,683. What was the effect of the letter?—That he wished all his tenants to vote.

15,684. Anything more than a wish?—No.

15,685. Can you recollect the terms of it? Was it "Lord Cranstoun presents his compliments"?—No. I think it was to Mortimer and Oldreive, shortly stating that he took a great interest in the election, and wishing them to record their votes in favour of the Conservative candidate.

15,686. "Candidate or candidates"?—Only "candidate," because Colonel Dawkins was then only in the field, and when Captain Pim arrived he authorized me to use it for both; he then in a postscript intimated his intention to separate his land agency from any political influence.

15,687. From Mr. Michelmore?—Yes, and appoint a Conservative agent to watch his own voters.

15,688. Did he say who the Conservative agent would be?—No.

15,689. And you have no reason to guess?—No. You may guess at my name, but my name was never mentioned.

15,690. What did Mortimer say?—He thought it was a forgery, and told me he believed it was all lies.

15,691. What persuaded him?—I showed him the letter.

15,692. Did he take it?—Yes, and returned it.

15,693. (Mr. Bere.) Did he apologise?—No.

15,694. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he say by any gentle intimation what would make him make up his mind?—No; he said he had made up his mind to vote for the opposite candidates.

15,695. Who was the next?—Mr. Oldreive.

15,696. Did he take the same course with regard to you?—No.

15,697. He didn't say it was a forgery?—No; he told me that Mr. Pender had canvassed him and he had a strong personal wish to vote for Mr. Pender, and he wished that he had never allowed himself to become a voter for Totnes; that he did not want to oppose his landlord, and he wanted not only to keep his own estate but to get his son into Mortimer's, and in addition to that he told me a long story on the border of Sandridge Wood that Mr. Pender had canvassed him, and that he had great influence in shipping, and that he wanted to get a situation for his son.

15,698. Did he give any hope that a pecuniary consideration might turn him?—No; he told me he wished to vote for Mr. Pender, and I found that he would not vote for the Conservative candidate, and I think that he told me that he could not or he would not.

15,699. Did he tell you that he wanted to vote for Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour?—No, for Mr. Pender.

15,700. Would'nt he give you one vote?—No.

15,701. What did he do?—I believe he did not vote all.

15,702. Neither of these gentleman, Mr. Mortimer or Mr. Oldrieve, said that they were open to conviction?—No.

15,703. Whom did you canvass besides in the country?—I went to Mr. Coulton of Buckfastleigh and Mr. Hoare and some other people of Buckfastleigh and I went to Harberton and other places.

15,704. At any time amongst the voters that you had canvassed did you receive any intimation that they were open to conviction?—I don't recollect it.

15,705. Try and recollect whether there were not one or two whilst you canvassed for Captain Pim?—I cannot.

15,706. Did you take any one under you to whom they could be referred?—No; I generally went by myself on horseback or in my gig.

15,707. Did you never take any one with you?—I think Captain Fox went with me on one occasion, 15,708. I do not mean when you went to Torquay?—He went there that day.

15,709. But I do not mean then; on other occasions did he go with you?—I think we did ride or drive together when I went to see the country voters when he was here staying.

15,710. Did he take any part?—No.

15,711. You never heard him say that Colonel Dawkins would render a little assistance?—No.

15,712. When did you first see a voter during your canvass who held out that he was amenable to a little persuasion in that way?—I think I may say in the course of my canvass it did'nt come to me personally, but I heard of it in the town when one came back in the evening or afternoon after the hours that one spent out; one heard a deal of conversation at the "Stars."

15,713. When was it you first heard of a party during the canvass who had held out and was amenable to a little persuasion?—I think I may say in the course of my canvass it had never occurred to me personally, but I heard of it in the town when I came back in the evening or afternoon to the "Stars;" there was a great deal of conversation there.

15,714. You met with these observations about the opinion of the people?—They all knew me well.

15,715. You had no special ground for disbelieving it?—They said very little to me.

15,716. They did not give any price?—No.

15,717. Did you not gather from the way they refused or accepted that there was something going on, that they were waiting for something more?—I was such a regularly understood thing what money they would require that it never entered into one's brains to think of it.

15,718. After you were canvassing with Captain Pim did you not know that many of the voters had promised on the other side, and those who had not promised were waiting for an offer from one side or the other?—I believe so, I confine myself to my own personal knowledge; I heard of it.

15,719. Do you recollect Mr. Smith coming down with Colonel Dawkins?—Yes.

15,720. Do you recollect having any conversation with him about the conduct of the election?—Yes.

15,721. What did he understand about the amou

noney that would be necessary?—I never men-ed it.

5,722. Did he mention it?—I think not.

5,723. He got excited during the election?—He

5,724. Did he never tell you what Mr. Edmonds told him would be required?—Until Mr. nonds came back I never knew what Colonel kins spent, or that there were any arrangements le as to any amount.

5,725. Did he not say any amount?—Oh no, that vas to spend, I mean, for corrupt purposes.

5,726. Do you recollect Mr. Smith after having here go away again?—Yes, I do.

5,727. Do you know of any conversation you had Mr. Edmonds before he went off to London upon occasion?—On what point.

5,728. Of a conversation at which Mr. Edmonds te as to it being necessary to have a stranger n?—No, I was not present.

5,729. When did you first know a stranger was ing down?—I never knew it.

5,730. When did you first hear that a stranger expected?—I never heard that a stranger was ected.

5,731. Never till he arrived?—I never knew a nger had arrived.

5,732. When did you first hear there was a Mr. m in the town?—Some time in the course of election.

5,733. Three or four days before? Just try and llect when Mr. Edmonds mentioned to Mr. Smith necessity of having a stranger down; were you not sent?—I think I am able to swear I was not. I e asked Mr. Edmonds to refresh my mind.

5,734. Mr. Edmonds says he thinks you were?—I not recollect it.

5,735. Mr. Edmonds said that it is necessary on se occasions to have down a stranger from London; Smith on that occasion said, "Very well." Mr. monds was left with the impression on his mind t Mr. Smith would undertake he should be sent vn; he has told us you were present?—I have not slightest recollection of it.

5,736. Can you recollect any conversation with Smith before he went back to London the last e?—I recollect a conversation with regard to ney before the election.

5,737. Let us have it?—I recollect a conversation h Mr. Edmonds, and stating to him that certain ex-ses had been incurred for legal matters, and registra-n, and other things; and I recollect very well on ing that it was usual for a candidate to clear up the way he said he would do so. It was arranged to oup or repay me a large sum of money I had laid previous to the election, about 110*l.*, and that he uld pay to Mr. Edmonds 140*l.* or 150*l.* that he uld hold for election purposes.

5,738. Did he give you a cheque for 100*l.*?—I ed him to pay it to my London agent to my ncy account; it is a bonâ fide account.

5,739. But it has been credited?—Undoubtedly; vas to repay me for monies I had laid out. There s 140*l.* of that money laid out, that Mr. Smith ke about. I paid it myself first, and got Mr. ath's cheque for 207*l.* 10*s.*

5,740. You did not get it till later afterwards?—t till two days after the election. I believe from time I had a conversation with Mr. Smith I never ered into a single money matter with him during election.

5,741. You got this 100*l.* which was passed ough your account, and recouped yourself for things you paid; what are those costs incurred ; is that the account of Mr. Harris?—Partly.

5,742. Are those costs about making up houses 10*l.*?—No, I do not think any part of that.

5,743. That is a separate matter?—Chiefly legal tters connected with the registrations. I may tell u that part is connected with some quo warrantos ainst the Conservatives in this town. I was re-qnested to defend them. If I made up my own account of what I laid out I should be scores of pounds out of pocket.

15,744. You were employed to defend them?—I paid many expenses. I paid costs and expenses to a considerable amount in order to defend them.

15,745. Over what time did the 100*l.* that had been incurred run; all for 1862?—Chiefly 1863.

15,746. Have you got any list of what the items were?—I have not.

15,747. Who attends the registration court?—I attended one entirely myself.

15,748. Is a large portion of the 100*l.* your own costs of attending the registration?—No costs whatever; all money out of pocket. I should like to tell you my own position in regard to the costs.

15,749. What is it you want to tell us about your position in the registration court?—To assist in the registration I have incurred several expenses about it.

15,750. What were those expenses; as a matter of history I want to know what the candidate first bleeds for when he comes to Totnes. I want to know what this money was incurred for, and was it incurred between the election of 1863 and the election of 1865?—I believe it was; the election of 1863 was very early in January, and it was towards the latter part of the year we had some very severe contests, and there were costs and expenses I had paid.

(Mr. Bere.) That was long after the election.

15,751. (Mr. Coleridge.) Two registrations took place between the elections of 1863 and 1865, was the whole of this connected with the registration?—Oh, no.

15,752. Who kept the 100*l.* you say you thought you ought to have had for what you had already paid yourself?—There were a number of different things.

15,753. Tell me any one of them?—One was a sum of 30*l.*, and another a sum of 15*l.*; 45*l.* I think 50*l.* or 60*l.* for bills connected with a set of quo warrantos.

15,754. Those were the costs of defending those quo-warrantos?—They were not my own costs.

15,755. Your own costs; what were those quo warrantos about?—Connected with the town council.

15,756. They had nothing to do with the parliamentary representation, they were municipal matters?—They were.

15,757. Supposing it to be 60*l.*, what was it? Was it connected with the parliamentary registration?—Some parliamentary and some municipal registration, and the expenses paid at the meetings, and a great number of minute matters. Those I have kept a short account of, and it was intended to be placed before the Conservative committee. I have searched high and low for it, in order to be able to find it. I refer to Mr. Edmonds, to bear me out in this, that I have expended more than that amount of money. Mr. Smith agreed voluntarily to recoup me those expenses.

15,758. Was that the only conversation you had with Mr. Smith about those matters?—I saw one of the cheques for 1,000*l.* on one occasion, and those were the only two occasions.

15,759. How much of those expenses has the candidate to expend at the first starting connected with the registration of parliamentary voters, and how much for the municipal?—I cannot tell you, because I never had a sum of the kind paid to me before in my life. It was with that feeling I wanted to go over the list of elections before that.

15,760. This was the first sum you have been paid to wipe off the old score?—The first sum I received and the last in my life.

15,761. When you say the expenses partly of the parliamentary registration, did you put down the cost of the appointments as part of that?—No.

15,762. Did you put down the fees of the court?

THIRTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

7 Sept. 1866.

—I think I did pay a fee of ten guineas to Mr. Beer of Devonport.

15,763. Assuming there is 160*l.* for the municipal contest and the quo warrantos, then, to make up the odd 40*l.*; we cannot get at what the candidate is expected to pay, for we hear he has to pay almost all the debts of the borough?—There are several costs out of pocket for witnesses and other things.

15,764. You told us 60*l.*?—No, those were separate sums, not sums paid out of pocket. I am speaking of incidental matters two or three years before.

15,765. You cannot give us any information of the particulars as to how the 100*l.* went?—I cannot.

15,766. To cover your own charges? — No. I made out an account with Mr. Edmonds; I believe it was 150*l.*, and Mr. Smith agreed to pay 100*l* of it.

15,767. Now then, travelling over another matter again, cannot you recollect any conversation between you, Mr. Edmonds, and Mr. Smith, about the necessity of having some extraneous assistance at the election? —I do not, indeed.

15,768. Were you not aware, as an old parliamentary agent, there had always been a stranger down at an election?—I am aware that there has been a person here on one or two occasions, I happened to be at the hotel when he went away; it was after Mr. Dent's election. Some one said that a gentleman and a lady were living at the "Stars," and that they were Mr. and Mrs. Mum. Whether it was true or not I do not know.

15,769. That was at Mr. Dent's election?—It was.

15,770. It has been suggested that there were two Mums?—I do not know.

15,771. You knew there had on former occasions been a stranger down?—I know it has been done before.

15,772. You cannot undertake to swear you were not present?—No.

(Mr. Longe.) This is what Mr. Edmonds said:—At first he gave his opinion that you were present. Mr. Smith had first spoken to him about it, and then his answer is given to this question, "Do you re- "member about when it was you mentioned it to Mr. "Smith?"—"I think he was just going to London, "at all events he told me so; Mr. Kellock was "present at the same time, and upon my speaking of "it Mr. Kellock reminded me of it last evening." That is the day before yesterday.

15,773. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you had any conversation with Mr. Edmonds since you made that statement about it?—He has reminded me that I did; I did not recollect the occurrence in Mr. Guscotte's room when he came down.

15,774. You reminded Mr. Edmonds of this conversation with Mr. Smith and Mr. Edmonds; do you recollect reminding Mr. Edmonds, during the course of this inquiry, of this conversation with Mr. Smith? —I had a conversation with him by accident in the presence of Mr. Guscotte a few evenings since, and there we spoke certainly of an arrangement to pay the expenses; but with regard to a man's coming down, it had escaped me; it is possible it may have occurred.

15,775. Did not Mr. Edmonds remind you of that conversation in Mr. Guscotte's presence, that Mr. Smith said it would be necessary to have someone? —I dare say he did, no doubt; it has occurred to me since.

15,776. Were you present at that interview?—I do not recollect the interview. I recollect speaking distinctly of Mr. Edmonds reminding me about a conversation about recouping the money. Now my memory is not clear about bringing any other person down.

15,777. Will you swear now, after this reminder, that you were not present?—No, I will not; I do wish to put it so decidedly as that.

15,778. Will you not swear you were present at the interview, and Mr. Edmonds spoke to Mr. Smith about the necessity of bringing someone down, a stranger?—I wil not swear distinctly to the fact one way or the other.

15,779. Do you not believe you were?—I really cannot recollect.

15,780. If you were not present can you understand how you reminded him of it?—I do not recollect it; I do not know now that I reminded him of it. I do not recollect reminding him of anything connected with that person.

15,781. Cannot you collect your mind sufficiently to say whether or not you were present at the interview when such a conversation took place?—I am sure I do not recollect.

15,782. Did you not hear at that interview or anywhere else Mr. Edmonds had said it was necessary to have some one down?—Yes.

15,783. When did you hear that?—It was in the course of this inquiry.

15,784. At the time of the election?—I am confident in my own mind there was a person down.

15,785. Do you not know that Mr. Edmonds had stated to Mr. Smith at some time it would be necessary?—I have no doubt such was the fact, but I cannot state it of my own knowledge.

15,786. Do you not believe that a person did come down, and he came down in consequence of a suggestion made to Mr. Smith at the interview at which you were present?—I have no doubt about it.

15,787. If Mr. Edmonds says that, you do not gainsay it?—Certainly not, I do not recollect, I may have been present.

15,788. If you were present at that interview, for what purpose was a stranger wanted down?—To do the money matters that neither Mr. Edmonds nor I would do.

15,789. (Mr. Bere.) Do you recollect your having a conversation with him just before you went to London?—I did have a conversation.

15,790. Mr. Edmonds says there was a suggestion made by him to Mr. Smith, can you remember that? —I do not.

15,791. (Mr. Coleridge.) You recollect nothing that took place at that interview?—Yes, Mr. Smith was to go back to town.

15,792. Tell us what you do recollect?—I have told you part.

15,793. About recouping and other matters, but beyond that?—He said Mr. Smith said Colonel Dawkins was going to spend a certain amount of money in Totnes, and he went back to make the money arrangements for the election, and when he came down afterwards I found he had not made those arrangements, and I was excessively disappointed because I was asked to go and get the check cashed.

15,794. How do you know he had not brought down the money?—Because Mr. Edmonds asked me to cash a cheque for 1,000*l.* I knew nothing of the money arrangements.

15,795. (Mr. Bere.) You could not have known in consequence of Mr. Edmonds asking you to cash a cheque for 1,000*l.* that Mr. Smith had no money?— I do not pretend to say that.

15,796. (Mr. Coleridge.) And the only disappointment caused to you was owing to your being asked long afterwards to cash a cheque?—I knew nothing about the money arrangements that had been made.

15,797. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Smith came down here on the 28th of June, how long did he stay here do you know?—I think on that occasion two or three days.

15,798. Was that a cheque paid to your account to your agent in London (handing a cheque to the witness)?—I have never seen the cheque.

15,799. That cheque bears date the 1st of July?— Yes.

15,800. Was not that cheque drawn before Mr Smith went back to London?—Not to my knowledge I never saw it.

15,801. The inference from that is that your conversation in regard to the re-coupment must have been before the 1st of July?—I believe it was undoubtedly; I admit it.

15,802. Did Mr. Smith go back to London before e 1st of July ; he only came down on the night of e 28th, and there is the 29th and 30th, so he was t in Totnes at the time the cheque was drawn ?— annot say ; I think it is possible.

15,803. What was the arrangement made with gard to the way in which these expenses were to be id ?—That he was to pay my London agent. He ght have drawn a cheque and sent it up to Mr. uscotte, his partner.

15,804. He did not, he has sworn that. Whose iting is that (handing a cheque) ?—I have never en it until this moment.

15,805. You think it is clear it was a cheque drawn consequence of a written communication from Mr. ith to Mr. Guscotte ?—It is clear to me that the nversation about the recoupment did not occur t before Mr. Smith was going up to London. All an tell you was that this did occur just after Mr. ith first came down, and that he did go back to ndon afterwards, but whether he went back to ndon or not before the 1st of July I cannot say.

15,806. So you had had a conversation with Mr. ith just before he went to London and another nversation in reference to that subject ; you had re than one conversation with Mr. Smith ?—I really nk I had perhaps ten or a dozen conversations with n during the time.

15,807. I think Mr. Edmonds told us he was just the point of starting for London ; I do not know ether I am right in assuming it was the fact that s going up suggested to Mr. Edmonds that he would ve to take that charge. Had he not an interview th you just as he was going up ?—I believe we had.

15,808. That could not have been the interview as the recouping expenses ?—I had so many inter- ews with him ; my attention has never been called it.

15,809. Now I will ask you whether on that same bject you saw Mr. Guscotte on Wednesday ening ; you heard he had come, did you go down d have an interview with him ?—I went to the ttom of the town to enquire for an invalid gentle- an. I heard that Mr. Guscotte had come, and I t Mr. Edmonds with him without any pre-arrange- nt.

15,810. What passed with regard to the mysterious anger between you and Mr. Guscotte and Mr. lmonds ?—It was a general conversation with gard to the evidence that had been given here, and certainly spoke and told Mr. Guscotte about it, and nay tell you how I happened to know Mr. Guscotte as in the house, I went into the house to ask the rvant to show me the room so frequently mentioned the enquiry (No. 13), and then I heard that Mr. iscotte was in the house.

15,811. Did you speak to Mr. Guscotte ?—I think He showed me a long list of accounts that had en produced, and he was going to be examined as ere was some confusion in the evidence Mr. Smith d given here the previous day ; and there were the mes of two or three mentioned, Healy, Henson and nebody else that it was insinuated had come down th Mr. Smith, I asked Mr. Guscotte whether he ew of the person that had come down, and he said could not tell.

15,812. Was it not in this conversation you sug- sted that Mr. Smith [should bring someone down om London ?—Yes, that must be so.

15,813. Then what made you suggest this to Mr. lmonds if you had no recollection of it in your own ind ?—I had none when you put the question to me.

15,814. You now recollect telling Mr. Edmonds at you must have been present when he suggested Mr. Smith that someone must come down ?—Mr. lmonds has stated so ; I have no recollection of it, t Mr. Edmonds having stated so I have no doubt at it did occur.

15,815. Do you not recollect the actual interview at this time ?—There has been no time mentioned as to when this interview took place.

15,816. But we understand you were present at the interview when Mr. Edmonds said it was necessary that some person should come down from London to distribute the money ?—I quite recollect the interview we had before he went away.

15,817. At which it was said it would be necessary to have some one down from London ?—I recollect the conversation with Mr. Edmonds, but I cannot recall the circumstances under which it took place.

15,818. Do you recollect hearing Mr. Edmonds say to Mr. Smith in your presence that it would be necessary to have a stranger down from London ?—I did hear that.

15,819. Then why did you not tell us that a long while ago ?—You did not bring my mind to the circumstances.

15,820. But if Mr. Edmonds had not made that suggestion himself you would have made it ; it was an absolute necessity of the election ?—I never entered into any of the details of that sort of thing in my life.

15,821. When Mr. Edmonds made this statement to Mr. Smith did you dissent from it ?—Certainly not.

15,822. And did you not understand that Mr. Smith went up to London, and that he would send down the person who was required ?—I cannot go so far as that.

15,823. Did you not think that when Mr. Smith assented to what Mr. Edmonds told him that he would act upon it ?—I quite understood that he would do all that was necessary with regard to money or anything else that was necessary.

15,824. And when you heard that a mysterious stranger was down here you considered that that was in consequence of the intimation which had been given by Mr. Edmonds to Mr. Smith ?—Certainly.

15,825. (Mr. Longe.) You canvassed with Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Edmonds ?—I think that was only on such occasions as Mr. Edmonds could not attend. I recollect the day on which I canvassed with Colonel Dawkins in particular was the first Tuesday in July, the great market day.

15,826. When you went with Colonel Dawkins, did you take the same part that Mr. Edmonds did when he went ?—Yes.

15,827. When Colonel Dawkins says that he canvassed with Mr. Kellock or Mr. Edmonds he gave us to understand that in particular cases you made a mark against the names of those men who were to be operated on or of cases that wanted much pressure ? —That did not occur when I was present. I made no mark in my book.

15,828. Colonel Dawkins has said that it was done either by you or by Mr. Edmonds ?—I did not do it. I can produce the book, and there is no mark of that kind in it. I only went canvassing with Colonel Dawkins when it was not convenient for Mr. Edmonds to accompany him.

15,829. Suppose you had met with one of those men, should you have taken the same part as Mr. Edmonds ?—I think I should have reported to Mr. Edmonds what had occurred.

15,830. Then should you have carried that in your head without making making any mark in your book ? —No doubt of it. I knew every one of the persons whom I canvassed.

15,831. How many days were you employed canvassing with Colonel Dawkins ?—I canvassed with him on the great market day, the first Tuesday in July, in the town. I afterwards canvassed the whole of the Bridgetown voters, the voters in Buckfastleigh, and the tenants of Lord Cranstoun.

15,832. Did you on any of these occasions make a mark against the names in your book ?—No.

Adjourned to to-morrow at eleven o'clock.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Saturday, 8th September 1866.

Mr. Yabbicom.

8 Sept. 1866.

(Mr. John Yabbicom.) I want to make an application to set myself right. In obedience to your mandate I produced the books of the branch bank of which I am manager. Those books have been taken by you into your custody and possession. They were taken from a fireproof safe, and for them I am responsible to the extent of some thousands of pounds to my employers. Those books are placed in this room, amongst them is the ledger and some other very important books; and in the event of a fire I wish to be relieved from responsibility by this Court by your telling me that you have a right to detain them; consequently I take it my responsibility is at an end, for I have no alternative. I have no wish to take back the books, they may be retained by you; but I conceive I am placed in a very awkward position in the event of the ledger or any book being required in a court of law to show the accounts. You are welcome to them, and I speak it to you, to all the books kept in the bank, but I want to be relieved from al personal responsibility on that head.

(Mr. Coleridge.) We have perfect power to detai the books, but no power to relieve you.

(Mr. Bere.) Whether the fact of the books being detained by us is a release of your responsibility is matter that I cannot give an opinion upon.

(Mr. Yabbicom.) Then I submit to you, if you please, that the books shall be sent here, or the ledger sent here, every morning during the time that the Court may require them. I think that the ledger should be placed in a fireproof safe.

(Mr. Bere.) I think that is quite reasonable, and i you send up a clerk in the evening you shall have them.

(Mr. Yabbicom.) I do not care about the other books; they are at your command at any hour of the day.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds.

Mr. Thomas Hunt Edmonds recalled and further examined.

15,833. (Mr. Bere.) There are some matters you wish to explain?—I wish to correct the evidence I gave with regard to Dent's election. I think I gave Mr. John Heath, junior, a sum of money to pay a voter.

15,834. Who was that voter?—I think Robert Lake. I do not know whether I paid money on another occasion, but he will be able to tell you. I think I got the money from Mr. Mitchell. I think 50*l.*

15,835. At any time of the election of 1865 did you get money from Screach?—Yes; I wish to explain about that. I did not go into details as to when I got the money. Mr. Smith said he would hand over the money which he had, 1,500*l.*, to Mr. Lind, and he said I had better send up to him for it. Those election matters are done in a roundabout way, as you know. I saw Evens on the landing, and asked him to go and bring the money to me. He accordingly went up and brought what I considered to be 1,000*l.* wrapped up in a brown parcel, a heavy parcel, and I left it in a drawer I had in my little room. That is the reason I locked the door on several occasions. On opening this parcel I found only one bag. I happened to see Screach, and I asked him to go up to Mr. Lind; I do not think he knew his name, and I forget the number of the room Mr. Lind occupied, but I believe I asked him to bring down another parcel, which he brought down, and I afterwards received from Mr. Smith himself 500*l.* in another bag.

15,836. How much was in the parcel Mr. Smith brought down?—500*l.* in gold. In about half an hour afterwards I thought it as well to have the 1,500*l.*, and hand it over at once to make one job of it, and I went and saw Mr. Smith; he went to the bedroom, took it from his portmanteau, and I put it in a bag and handed it to Mr. Heath.

15,837. With regard to the conversation that took place between you and Mr. Kellock and Mr. Smith before Mr. Smith went to London, did not that conversation take place in Mr. Smith's bedroom?—Yes. He was on the point of starting by express train in the morning. He said, "I must be off now, I am in "a great hurry; I have not packed my trunk yet, "and if you will come to my bedroom we shall be able "to talk whilst I am packing it." Accordingly I and Mr. Kellock went up. He said, "I shall bring down "the money when I come down," and I said, "You "must also bring some unknown person to distribute "it, or do the dirty work." Those were, as far as remember, the words I used. There may have bee a little additional conversation, and I distinctly recol lect having told him it was necessary to bring dow some one to do the dirty work, or distribute th money. I think that that is what I said.

15,838. Did Mr. Smith ask any questions about th man, where he should find him or get him?—No.

15,839. Or what sort of man he was?—I do no think he said one word on the subject.

15,840. (Mr. Coleridge.) He seemed to understan it?—Yes, I quite understood so. I think he sai "Very well."

15,841. (Mr. Longe.) Do you say positively h heard you and understood you?—I have no dou about it. As I have stated before, that before I came to give his evidence I said, "You recollect "told you to bring down a man," and he said, "I "recollect something about it."

15,842. Did you have any conversation during th election as to whether he had brought down a man —I do not think the subject was mentioned.

15,843. Did you ever say so?—It is probable might have said something of the kind when I to him it was necessary that the 1,500*l.* or the mone should be put in circulation, and he said, "I do n "wish to have anything to with it. I leave it "you; you take the money."

15,844. (Mr Coleridge.) You have told us th you did not see more than two clerks Did you s the third stranger?—I saw a great many people abou but I am not aware that I saw this man referred t but I saw the two clerks, and I think I asked M Lind to go two or three times up the town for n and that is the only way I employed him. There w a younger clerk named Daw. I hardly knew whi was which when I was examined here before, but find the elder is Mr. Lind and the younger one, t articled clerk (or he is just admitted), is Mr. Daw.

15,845. The younger one came with Mr. Smi and the elder one afterwards?—Yes, I was under t impression that they both came at once.

15,846. (Mr. Bere.) Are you acquainted with th handwriting (referring to a piece of paper)?—I not.

15,847. (Mr. Coleridge.) I think you said Kellock was present at the interview in the b room?—Yes.

15,848. Was the door shut?—Yes; the conver tion took place while Mr. Smith was busy putting his things in the trunk.

15,849. Is there anything else?—I am not aware that there is. I do not know whether I mentioned that at Dunn's election.

15,850. (Mr. Coleridge.) Just go on with the conversation. Was there any talk of recouping Mr. Kellock for his outlay of money at that conversation as Mr. Smith was going away?—No. That conversation took place, I think, the day after Mr. Smith arrived in the first instance.

15,851. Did not you wish to say something else?—I do not know whether you will go back to Mr. Dent's election. I let Edward Woodley have some money which I had from Mr. Cameron. That was in 1859. I recollect his coming up and saying there were three voters who would vote the other way unless paid immediately.

15,852. (Mr. Longe.) How much did you let him have?—I think it must have been about 100*l.*

15,853. What sort of looking man was Mr. Cameron?—A middle height man, rather stout.

15,854. A dark man?—No, not dark; grey whiskers. He was a member of the firm of Julius and Cameron.

15,855. Rather a stout man?—Yes.

15,856. Where did he get that money from, did you see?—He went to No. 9 room through the little bedroom which leads from the coffee-room at the "Stars." He brought it out to me wrapped up in a newspaper.

15,857. Was it in gold?—In gold.

15,858. You handed it over to Edward Woodley?—Yes; I handed it over to Edward Woodley.

15,859. Is he alive?—Yes; and he will be able to tell you the names and amounts.

15,860. (Mr. Bere.) When you saw Mr. Smith when he came down here—on Monday, was not it?—did you see him in Colonel Dawkins' presence?—What time do you refer to?

15,861. Last Monday, when Mr. Smith came down here?—The Monday before the election.

15,862. No, last Monday. Mr. Smith came down last Monday, did not he?—Yes; I saw him, and Colonel Dawkins was there. We were sitting over near the window.

15,863. What length of conversation had you with him then?—Perhaps about five minutes I should think, I do not know.

15,864. Are you quite certain that you mentioned to Mr. Smith then the fact of your having suggested to him that he ought to bring down a man from London?—It was not mentioned in that room, it was mentioned——

15,865. When did you mention it?—The same day, the same morning I had a talk with him in another room there.

15,866. Was Colonel Dawkins present then?—No, he was not present. When Colonel Dawkins was present we were merely just looking through some papers he had brought down, and he had asked me to look at them; and he had an account there I think, I am not quite sure.

15,867. After Screach had given his evidence before the House of Commons did you have a conversation with Mr. Smith with regard to Mr. Mum?—I do not think I ever mentioned the subject to him, I never mentioned it.

15,868. At his office in Essex Street?—No; I saw very little of Mr. Smith indeed. Mr. Guscotte had to do with it.

15,869. Did not Mr. Smith see you in his office, and did not he express his surprise that he had never known anything about the coming down of a person to Totnes until Screach had been examined in the House of Commons?—No; that took place about a month or five weeks ago, when I was in London. I asked Mr. Smith, "I suppose you know who Mr. Mum is?" He says, "No, I do not know; I have not the least idea. In fact, I did not know there was such a man down there;" and I said, "Well, I am surprised at that, because I fully thought you knew all about it." I believe that was all that took place on the subject.

JOHN SANDFORD SCREACH recalled.

Mr. J. S. Screach

15,870. (Mr. Bere). Mr. Edmonds has told us that he instructed you to go to the "Seven Stars" to get some money at the election of 1865?—Yes.

15,871. Is that the case?—He sent me there, to his little private room upstairs, I believe No. 15, to get a parcel; he did not say money, and I brought it to him. I believed it to be money.

15,872. Whom did you receive that from?—I do not know.

15,873. Is that person you received it from in court?—I cannot say; I cannot positively say; but I believe that to be the gentleman (pointing to Mr. Lind). I cannot swear it.

15,874. Was it the same or a different gentleman from whom you afterwards received the money?—That is not the gentleman I afterwards received the money from for the electors.

15,875. That is not?—That is not, I assure you.

15,876. (Mr Coleridge). Either of those two gentlemen there (Mr. Lind and Mr. Daw)?—No, either of those gentlemen do not answer to the description at all.

15,877. Were you here when Mr. Smith was examined?—No.

15,878. Do you know him by sight?—I do not know that I do.

15,879. Why did not you tell us this about taking money down to Mr. Edmonds the other day?—It never occurred to me; I had quite forgotten it.

15,880. It was rather an important fact?—Yes; but it had quite escaped my memory, I assure you.

15,881. Did you see the gentleman you got the parcel from in the same room as you afterwards saw the gentleman who gave you the money for the electors?—No, I did not; that was certainly in No. 13.

15,882. That was No. 13?—No. 13 the stranger was in.

15,883. (Mr. Longe). Before the Committee you said that the person you dealt with, called Mr. Mum, afterwards had a wig on?—Well, he certainly had a wig on; that was the Monday prior to the contest, the Monday morning, if you will allow me, the Monday morning I got the money from the tall gentleman here, whose name I did not at the time know, and then I took the money to Mr. Edmonds.

15,884. I think Mr. Edmonds has just stated that he sent you to get the money from Mr. Lind?—No, Mr. Edmonds did not give me the name of the gentleman, I do not believe. He told me to go upstairs to No. 15, I believe that was the number; I will not swear it; I believe that is right. Mr. Lind I dare say can tell you.

15,885. Do you know whose bedroom was No. 15?—I do not, indeed.

15,886. You mean you went straight to No. 15?—I went straight to No. 15, knocked at the door, and I believe that gentleman to be the gentleman who passed me the parcel, which I believed to contain gold.

15,887. Did you speak to him?—Of course, I said Mr. Edmonds has sent me for the parcel; and he said, "Here it is," or something to that effect.

15,888. Did you have any conversation with the gentleman afterwards?—Never during the whole time.

15,889. Never during the whole time?—Never during the whole contest, that I am aware of. Mr. Lind may remember something, but I believe that I may positively swear that I did not.

15,890. Suppose that gentleman wore a wig, and appeared to you as Mr. Mum, and you were introduced to him as Mr. Mum; could you swear he was not the same person?—I think I could with confidence.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. J. S. Screach.

8 Sept. 1866.

15,891. Is that the gentleman sitting under you?—No.

15,892. (Mr. Longe). With a black wig and light whiskers?—The whiskers appeared to me to be turning grey. He was a man about 40 or 50 years of age.

15,893. Are you sure that the person you always spoke to and were introduced to as Mr. Mum was the same person?—I was not introduced to him as Mr. Mum. I never heard the name till I came here.

15,894. Who was it who gave you the list of names?—Mr. Mum, as he is called.

15,895. Where was that given to you?—In No. 13.

15,896. Was that before or after you had seen Mr. Lind?—After.

15,897. You will swear that that person was not Mr. Lind?—I will swear that person was not Mr. Lind who gave me the list.

15,898. Was that person who gave you the list the person you saw afterwards and have always spoken of as the stranger?—I believe it to be so.

15,899. Did you see Mr. Smith?—I have not. I do not know the man, and I do not know; probably I may if the gentleman was present.

15,900. (Mr. Coleridge). Had you any dealing with that gentleman whom you pointed out as the man who gave the parcel to you?—I had not.

15,901. He never gave you anything else but the parcel?—No.

15,902. You know the waiter at the "Seven Stars" contradicts what you said before the Committee?—I know he does; and with respect to the waiter at the "Seven Stars," I stated on Friday last and I state most positively now that he came and fetched me.

15,903. What did he tell you?—He told me that a gentleman wanted me at the "Stars."

15,904. At the "Stars"?—Of course.

15,905. Is that all he said?—That is all he said; and he walked away to the "Stars," and as soon as I saw the way clear I went over.

15,906. Where were you?—On the bridge.

15,907. (Mr. Longe). When you got to the "Stars," how did you find the gentleman?—When I entered the lobby of the "Stars," this man, who I swear had a wig and a large moustache on, and a pair of greyish whiskers, standing at the end of the staircase, and Brown then said, "This is Screach," or he said "Screach, that is the gentleman," and the gentleman nodded his head, or something; I followed him up into No. 13, and he gave me the list.

15,908. He had a moustache?—I believe so.

15,909. What colour moustache?—It was black; I told you the other day.

15,910. A black moustache, and a black wig?—Yes, and greyish whiskers; consequently that is what makes me believe he was disguised, because there was such a disparity in the colour of the hair.

15,911. When you saw this man did he have his wig and moustache on?—When he was in the room he was always as I have described him; and he was a very curious object, I can assure you.

15,912. Did you ever see him with Mr. Heath?—If I did he had not his wig and moustache on.

15,913. Was his moustache grey?—No, he appeared to have put this false moustache and wig on when he was there; his whiskers naturally were of a greyish colour.

Mr. C. H. Lind.

Mr. Charles Henry Lind sworn and examined.

15,914. (Mr. Bere). Are you a clerk in Messrs. Smith and Guscotte's office?—Yes, I am.

15,915. How long have you been a clerk there?—Since Mr. Smith's connexion with the office—about ten years.

15,916. Were you with Mr. Smith before he joined the firm of Smith and Guscotte?—Yes; he was in partnership with a Mr. Jackson.

15,917. Was he not in business with his brother as a solicitor, at Crediton?—Not that I am aware of.

15,918. What is your particular department?—Attending generally to the common law.

15,919. And to keep the accounts?—Yes.

15,920. Have you any power to draw cheques?—No.

15,921. Do you remember Mr. Smith going down with Colonel Dawkins to Totnes?—I recollect he did go down with the Colonel.

15,922. Before he went did he communicate to you that he was going down?—He might have done so in the course of conversation.

15,923. Do you remember Mr. Smith returning to town after he had been down here?—I recollect that he did return to town.

15,924. Do you remember a conversation after his return to town as to some one being wanted to go down with him to Totnes?—No, I do not.

15,925. Were you not asked whether you would go down with him?—It is very likely he might.

15,926. Do you remember that?—I really do not recollect.

15,927. Would not going out of town in the busy time of year be a matter that would make an impression on you?—I think there was some mention made of my going down; we were very busy, and I was unable to go at the time.

15,928. Did Mr. Daw go down with Mr. Smith?—He did.

15,929. Who suggested Mr. Daw's going down?—I do not know who suggested it.

15,930. Did you suggest it yourself?—No, I did not.

15,931. Is Mr. Daw in your department or in another?—He is principally in the conveyancing department.

15,932. You did go down to Totnes afterwards?—I went on the Sunday following.

15,933. What time did you arrive at Totnes?—I think between 8 and 9 in the evening.

15,934. Was that on the 9th July, the Sunday before the election?—Yes.

15,935. What train did you go down by?—There was only one train from Paddington that morning; I think 10 o'clock.

15,936. Did you go to the "Seven Stars,"?—I went to the "Seven Stars."

15,937. What sitting room did you go into?—A small sitting room, No. 6.

15,938. Did you find your fellow clerk, Mr. Daw, sitting in that room?—He met me at the station.

15,939. And took you to that room?—Yes; to the sitting room used by him.

15,940. When did you first see Mr. Smith?—I think the same evening, shortly after I arrived.

15,941. What passed between you and Mr. Smith as to your coming down?—Nothing whatever; he shook hands with me, and asked me how I was.

15,942. You did not ask him what you were to do?—It was rather late in the evening—half-past ten before I saw him—and I had no business conversation with him.

15,943. Had you any conversation with him that night?—No.

15,944. Had you any conversation with your fellow clerk, Mr. Daw?—No; none.

15,945. Did you not ask Mr. Daw what he had been doing?—I cannot recollect; I think I did.

15,946. You were not curious enough to ask Mr. Daw what he had been doing?—I think I did; our conversation was general.

15,947. What did Mr. Daw tell you he had been doing?—That he had been doing nothing at all; that was all I heard.

15,948. And the business you would have to do would be to help him do nothing?—I cannot say that. I understood from Mr. Smith that he expected there would be a great deal of correspondence on matters connected with the election.

15,949. When did he tell you that?—He thought there would be some correspondence going on, and he wished me to be down there in case I should be of any assistance.

15,950. Is that what Mr. Smith said?—Yes.

15,951. Did he say this before you left London?—I do not know whether it was before I left or after I arrived here. I understood I was to come and assist him generally.

15,952. And as soon as you came down Mr. Daw was to go back?—I thought he was to have gone back.

15,953. What bedroom did you sleep in?—No. 15.

15,954. And what room did Mr. Daw sleep in?—No. 14, next to me.

15,955. What room did Mr. Smith sleep in?—No. 13.

15,956. Did you see Mr. Smith the next morning?—Yes.

15,957. What did he tell you the next morning?—I really cannot say; there were no particular instructions at that time.

15,958. Did you not ask him what you were to do?—I do not think I did at that time.

15,959. Did he not give you instructions to obey Mr. Edmonds' orders?—We were to assist Mr. Edmonds.

15,960. How did you commence obeying his instructions?—I did not assist Mr. Edmonds in a single thing.

15,961. Then you did not obey Mr. Smith's orders?—I understood that if he wanted me he would communicate with me.

15,962. Did you go and see Mr. Edmonds?—I did not.

15,963. Did you see him at the hotel?—I saw him.

15,964. Did you speak to him?—No; I think not. I understood if Mr. Edmonds wanted me he would communicate with me.

15,965. It was to come from him, you were not to go to Mr. Edmonds?—He saw me about; I was not particularly directed to go to him.

15,966. On the Monday morning did you see Mr. Smith?—I saw Mr. Smith on the Monday morning.

15,967. Did he not give you some money on the Monday morning?—Yes; on the Monday morning he gave me some money.

15,968. Where did he give you this money?—I went up with him to his bedroom, and he told me that Mr. Edmonds would send a man there for a bag.

15,969. And his bedroom was No. 13?—His bedroom was No. 13.

15,970. He said that Mr. Edmonds would send a man there for a bag?—That he would send a man there for a bag of money.

15,971. Did you see where he took the money from?—Yes.

15,972. Where did he take it from?—He took it out of his portmanteau.

15,973. Where was his portmanteau?—It was in his bedroom, I think under the bed.

15,974. Was it under the window seat or was it on the other side?—It was in front of the bed.

15,975. Was there a little black bag there also?—I did not see one.

15,976. Had Mr. Smith a black bag with him?—He had his dressing-case with him.

15,977. You know the bags which are commonly called brief bags?—He had not such a bag as that with him.

15,978. You say that he had his dressing-case with him, was that black or not?—I think the dressing-case was green.

15,979. Green with gold mountings?—I think it had.

15,980. Do you know where he had this dressing-case or bag?—I do not know. I suppose he had it in his bedroom.

15,981. In what part of his bedroom was it?—I think it was near the window.

15,982. You took the money out of the portmanteau, and what did you do with it?—A man came up.

15,983. What did you do with it, did you take it to No. 13?—It remained in No. 13.

15,984. Are you quite sure about that?—Quite certain.

15,985. How long did you stay in No. 13 before anybody came up?—I should say about five minutes.

15,986. Did a person come then?—A person knocked at the door.

15,987. What did he say to you?—That he came from Mr. Edmonds.

15,988. Who was that?—It was Mr. Screach, that I saw sitting down here.

15,989. Did you give him the money?—I gave him the money.

15,990. How was it wrapped up?—In a banker's bag and wrapped up in brown paper.

15,991. Did Mr. Smith tell you how much there was there?—500*l.*

15,992. Was it only one sum of 500*l.* he gave you?—Only one.

15,993. Did you take out only one sum of 500*l.*?—Only one.

15,994. Were there other monies?—Another bag.

15,995. What became of that?—I removed it into my own room.

15,996. By Mr. Smith's orders?—By Mr. Smith's orders.

15,997. Did you afterwards take the money to Mr. Edmonds?—No; someone was sent for it to my room.

15,998. Who was that person they sent for it to your room?—I do not know the name of the individual, but I think I have seen him here this morning; I believe it was Mr. Evens. I fancy that he was the person.

15,999. There is a difference of opinion between you and Mr. Screach; did you see Mr. Screach in No. 13 and Mr. Evens in No. 15?—Quite certain of that.

16,000. How long after you had given Mr. Screach the money did you give Mr. Evens the money?—I think it must have been an hour or two afterwards, I cannot recollect exactly, I think it may be an hour afterwards.

16,001. Where did you get the money from that you gave to Mr. Evans?—Out of my own portmanteau.

16,002. And that money you gave to Mr. Evens?—Yes.

16,003. Did you open it?—I did not.

16,004. You gave it in the bag wrapped up in brown paper?—Yes.

16,005. Who breakfasted with you on the Monday morning?—Mr. Daw.

16,006. Did not somebody else breakfast with you?—I think there were two gentlemen in the room, one who appeared to me to be a clergyman.

16,007. Who were those two gentlemen?—I do not know. I think they went out fishing, they took a fishing-rod.

16,008. Where did they breakfast?—In No. 6 room.

16,009. Was that a room open to other people or one you kept to yourselves?—I believe it was open to others at the time.

16,010. Where did Mr. Smith breakfast that morning?—With Colonel Dawkins.

16,011. Did you see, when you opened Mr. Smith's portmanteau, anything else besides the money?—No; it was in the lower part of the portmanteau, and from the weight of the upper part I fancy it was his clothes.

16,012. You did not see anything but the money in the portmanteau?—No, I did not.

16,013. Was there nothing but the money?—In that part, I think, nothing but the money.

16,014. Was it an ordinary one?—An ordinary leather portmanteau.

16,015. In what part was the money?—In the bottom part.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. C. H. Lind.

8 Sept 1866.

16,016. Did you see a wig anywhere about the room?—No.

16,017. Or a moustache?—No.

16,018. Had you any such thing with you?—No, nothing at all.

16,019. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you ever seen Mr. Smith with a wig on?—Certainly not.

16,020. He has not been in the habit of wearing one?—Oh, no.

16,021. (Mr. Longe.) Did you see anyone with this black wig?—I did not.

16,022. (Mr. Bere.) Are you sure you saw no one with the black hair and a black moustache during that time?—I am certain I saw no one.

16,023. How long did you stay at the "Seven Stars"?—Till the election was over.

16,024. During that time were you in the habit of going from time to time to Mr. Smith's bedroom?—Yes.

16,025. How many times a day?—I may have gone once or twice a day.

16,026. Have you ever found the door locked?—No, never.

16,027. Did you ever find any other person in the room except Mr. Smith?—Never. I may say Mr. Smith was very unwell at the time and he kept to his bedroom a good part of the day; he lay down. I know that for a fact.

16,028. As you were going up and down stairs did you meet persons going up and coming down?—Not more than I should expect to find at an hotel, nothing to call my attention particularly to it.

16,029. Not more than would be usual; do you mean by that usual at the time of an election?—Or at an ordinary time at a busy inn.

16,030. Did you see Mr. Screach and Mr. Evens go up and down stairs often?—I did not.

16,031. What used you to do with yourself?—I think in the morning I occupied myself in writing letters of my own. On the Monday afternoon I drove over with Mr. Smith to Torquay, and we dined there.

16,032. How long did you stay there?—We dined there; we simply went for a drive.

16,033. What time did you come back?—I think it must have been near 9 o'clock; it was just getting dusk, and I think it must have been about 9 o'clock.

16,034. What did you do with yourselves on Tuesday?—I think we took a walk out in the morning, and we were engaged in other matters not at all connected with the election; and in the afternoon we took a drive with Mr. Smith to some old building out here; we drove about the country; it was quite two or three hours.

16,035. I want to know did you have a bottle of champagne on the 28th of July?—What day was that.

16,036. That was the Monday?—I do not think I did; I am certain I did not.

16,037. Did you have a bottle of champagne while you were there?—I did when I arrived down here on the Sunday evening.

16,038. You did not have it at your supper?—Yes, sir.

16,039. And some ale?—I am not certain; I think I had a glass of ale.

16,040. During the whole of the time you were down here, did you go about the town and see the voters at all?—No, I did not.

16,041. Did you see any of them?—I went with Mr. Daw to one of them, a Mr. Norrish.

16,042. Mr. Nicholas Norrish?—I do not know his name.

16,043. What made you go to him?—He is an old friend of Mr. Daw's, and accordingly he went over to talk to him as to his polling.

16,044. Where does Mr. Norrish live?—I think about two miles off.

16,045. Was it the Monday night?—In the morning.

16,046. When you saw Mr. Norrish, what happened between you and Mr. Norrish?—Mr. Daw conversed with him as to his voting for the Colonel. He said he should like to do so, but he could give no answer till he had seen his landlord. I think he said that gentleman was a Mr. Durant.

16,047. What did Mr. Daw say to that?—He certainly said he hoped he would be able to vote for the Colonel, and he should come and see him again.

16,048. Were you wise enough to know what all that money in the portmanteau was wanted for?—I was not aware of it till I came down here.

16,049. (Mr. Coleridge.) At the election time?—At the election time.

16,050. (Mr. Bere.) When you took out the money from the portmanteau and gave it to Screach and Evens you knew how it was going to be spent?—I had my own opinion about it.

16,051. Did you communicate to Mr. Daw that you gave the money to Screach and Evens?—I have no doubt I did.

16,052. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you receive any money during the election time from any person except that you gave to Screach and Evens?—No, certainly not.

16,053. Do you know Captain King?—No.

16,054. (Mr. Bere.) You gave the money to Screach and Evens before that; when did you call on Mr. Norrish?—We called on him on the Monday morning, he was a friend of Mr. Daw's.

16,055. How early on the Monday morning?—I think we went out very early; we were there between 8 and 9; we took a walk out early.

16,056. Did you take a walk before breakfast?—Yes, I believe we did; he was an old friend of Mr. Daw's.

16,057. Did not Mr. Daw say to him he thought it might be a good thing to him (Norrish) if he did vote for Colonel Dawkins?—No, certainly not; nothing whatever passed.

16,058. Did you go to Mr. Nicholas Norrish again?—We went down on the Tuesday evening.

16,059. Did you learn how he was going to vote then?—We did not; we went there more for pleasure than anything.

16,060. Did you not ask him how he was going to vote?—We asked him how he was going to vote; he said he could not tell as he had not seen his landlord, and he must vote as his landlord wished.

16,061. (Mr. Coleridge.) You say you received no sum of money from any one else except Mr. Smith during the election?—Yes.

16,062. You received two sums?—Yes, two together.

16,063. Will you just look at that gentleman behind you (Mr. Evens); did you see him during the election?—I do not recollect him.

16,064. You never received anything from him during the election?—Certainly not; I had nothing whatever to do with the election beyond what I have stated.

16,065. I merely asked if you saw that gentleman?—Certainly not.

16,066. (Mr. Bere.) Did you not speak to Mr. Norrish about his vote that evening?—Yes, we asked him.

16,067. What did you say?—Would he vote for the Colonel? He said he should like to vote for the Colonel, but his landlord had not returned and he thought that his landlord would like to vote on the other side.

16,068. Had you at that time some talk with him about money coming down?—I do not think so.

16,069. I suppose on the Tuesday evening you pretty well knew what sort of a place Totnes was?—Yes, I came to that conclusion.

16,070. Had Mr. Smith talked to you about the money?—In what way.

16,071. About having to advance this money?—He expressed great disgust at having to do so.

16,072. He drew some cheques on blank paper; did you see him draw those cheques?—I did not.

16,073. Do you know where he drew them?—I did not know; I think it was in Colonel Dawkins' room; I am not certain about it.

16,074. Did you communicate with Mr. Guscotte on the Monday or the Tuesday by letter?—I am not aware of it.

16,075. Did you not write to Mr. Guscotte to tell him that Mr. Daw was not coming down?—No, I did not.

16,076. Did Mr. Daw write?—I think he had been writing to him on matters of business on the Sunday.

16,077. Did Mr. Daw write on the Monday a letter and tell him he was not coming back?—I do not think he did.

16,078. Mr. Guscotte was in the middle of a pressure of business, his managing common law clerk was away, and he was expecting his conveyancing clerk to come back; the conveyancing clerk does not come back, and gives no information to Mr. Guscotte, but he was not going to return; is that the way you conduct business?—I do not know.

16,079. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you trying any cases at Guildhall during those sittings?—No, we were not, but we were very busy in Chancery matters then; I was particularly so at that time.

16,080. You attend to Chancery as well as to common law?—Sometimes.

16,081. Did you occupy 15 as your bedroom?—I am quite certain.

16,082. And No. 14 was Mr. Daw's?—Yes.

16,083. Did you go into the room and see him there?—Yes.

16,084. You were certain that 15 was yours?—Yes.

16,085. Was Mr. Smith ever in your room?—I am not certain; I think he was. I cannot say for certain.

16,086. He has sworn that 15 was his bed room; that must be a mistake?—It must be a mistake; they are very much alike; I am certain of that.

16,087. (Mr. Bere.) You were there a week?—No, I came down on the Sunday evening, and I left with Colonel Dawkins after the election.

16,088. (Mr. Logne.) During that time you knew that the money Mr. Smith brought down was being used for the purpose of paying the voters?—I did not know that of my own knowledge.

16,089. I do not mean did you take any part in it? I suppose you had the ordinary curiosity and had a tolerably good idea of what was being done?—Yes; I thought it might be spent in that way; that was my impression.

16,090. Had you any notion at all as to where the money was being paid?—I had not the slightest notion.

16,091. You swear you had no notion that the money came from Mr. Edmonds to the "Stars"?—I gave the money to Mr. Screach.

16,092. I ask you of your own belief did you not know that the money came to Mr. Edmonds to the "Stars" that was spent there?—I did not know it.

16,093. Had you no idea?—I had no idea.

16,094. Were you not curious enough to think what might become of the money?—I thought what might be the probable destination of the money, but I did not inquire.

16,095. You cannot tell your own self at all the way in which it was spent, the modus operandi?—No, I took no interest in it.

16,096. Do you know Mr. Heath, junior?—I know him.

16,097. Did you know any other member of Mr. Heath's family?—No, I did not.

16,098. You did not see anyone else at all about the matter, or anyone but Mr. Heath?—I cannot recollect; I think a daughter was there and another female.

16,099. No son?—I do not know his son.

16,100. Did you never hear of one?—I heard he had a son; I do not know him.

16,101. You knew there was a young Mr. Heath in the hotel?—Yes; I heard there was a young Mr. Heath in the hotel.

16,102. What was his name?—I do not know.

16,103. Did you never hear of any one speak of of John Heath, James Heath, and George Heath?—I heard of a young Mr. Heath, nothing more; I had no conversation with him.

16,104. I suppose you had access to Mr. Smith's bedroom?—Yes.

16,105. Were you often in the habit of going there?—I went sometimes to see him.

16,106. During the day, I suppose?—Yes, during the day.

16,107. Do you know at any time; did you ever see anyone else go into his bedroom?—No, I did not.

16,108. You never saw anyone else?—No, I did not.

16,109. Do you know how were the orders given? When you had any refreshment how did you give your orders?—We simply ordered the breakfast to be brought up to us at No. 6.

16,110. You had other things besides breakfast?—We dined there.

16,111. Had you ever lunch?—Yes, I think we had; do doubt we did.

16,112. You used to have?—We used to order them. I presumed thay knew us as belonging to our bedroom; they were 15 and 14.

16,113. (Mr. Bere.) When you gave an order how did you tell the waiter that you were to be charged; what was to be the understanding?—I had no understanding, I simply thought they would be charged to me to my room.

16,114. Did you mention to the waiter you were sleeping in No. 15?—I think I did; I am not certain.

16,115. Did he bring you a bill on the Monday morning for the champagne and ale and supper you had?—No.

16,116. When you first gave instructions for the bill it was entered to Colonel Dawkins?—I gave no instructions about it.

16,117. When did you speak to Mr. Smith about it?—I think the last day we were coming away; I was inquiring as to the payment of my bill, and he said it would be all put down to the Colonel.

16,118. There is an entry I will just read to you, "Mr. Smith's friend;" it is clear from the items of of the entry Mr. Smith's friend is your description. There is no other entry to No. 6 of Mr. Smith's friend at all, and at the bottom of the entry of "Mr. "Smith's friend," there is in Miss Heath's handwriting, "Colonel Dawkins." How do you know how Miss Heath came to enter the account to Colonel Dawkins; who gave the instructions?—I do not know.

16,119. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Smith tell you how your bills were to be paid whilst there?—Not till the last day. I understood at the time I came there I should pay my own bill and charge it back again. It was arranged that our bill should be charged to the Colonel. Mr. Smith said the Colonel will pay the whole of the bills, you will not have to pay.

16,120. When?—On the day of the election.

16,121. You took no heed of how things had been charged, and you expected them to be charged to you?—I expected them to be charged.

16,122. Up to that time?—Up to that time. They were charged to Colonel Dawkins.

16,123. (Mr. Bere.) This 69*l.* 8*s.* 8*d.* that we have heard were charged to Colonel Dawkins, did you make that account out?—Yes, I made it out with Mr. Guscotte.

16,124. How did you make it out; what are the items?—First, Mr. Smith's railway fare and expenses; the first time he came down it was 8*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.*

16,125. What is the railway fare?—I really do not know.

16,126. It is about 4*l.* 14*s.*?—I fancy it is.

(Mr. Guscotte.) I rather think that Mr. Smith paid Colonel Dawkins' fare, as he came down with him.

(Mr. Bere.) Then that would account for it.

16,127. What is the next item?—The next is 19*l.* 5*s.*

16,128. What is that for?—Mr. Smith's expenses.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. C.H. Lind.

16,129. Where?—"Totnes election," on the second occasion.

16,130. You did not pay Colonel Dawkins' expenses; then it must have been 15*l.* nearly for his expenses and living at Totnes. Is that the way it is made out; who gave you the particulars of the 19*l.* 5*s.*?—Mr. Smith drew the cheque for it; he would either come to me for the money for his expenses, or he would draw a larger cheque for it, and in that way he drew a cheque for his expenses.

16,131. What is the next item?—The next item is 11*l.* 10*s.* 8*d.*

16,132. What is that for?—That is for Daw's railway expenses and of my own coming to Totnes.

16,133. Did you come down first class?—Second class; I think Daw would come first.

16,134. You came second?—I came second.

16,135. Your expenses of living at Totnes must have been charged in that?—No, we were with the Colonel after this. We went over to Torquay.

16,136. There is more?—Then the rest was made up of cab hire and disbursements which I cannot give you the particulars of, only the general amount, before the election and afterwards up to October. This account was not made out till the October following.

16,137. What is the account of which you cannot give us the particulars?—It comprises cab hire.

16,138. What is the amount?—25*l.* I think I put in for general disbursements and for costs previous to the election and after the election to October. This account was made out in the October following.

(Mr. Guscotte.) You will find them in my book 8*l.* or 9*l.* for cabs.

(Mr. Bere.) You have told us that.

16,139. I want to know first on that account of your expenses and Mr. Daw's, are your hotel bills charged twice; if they were paid for by Colonel Dawkins were they charged for by you?—Oh, no.

16,140. That 10*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*; that is not included in the bill at Totnes?—It did not include that.

16,141. Was Nicholas Norrish the only one you ever saw?—That is the only one I ever saw.

16,142. Did you see a great number of people about the "Seven Stars," who seemed to be like voters?—There were a great number of people about there.

16,143. Did you ever see them standing in the lobby?—It was generally filled with people, whether voters or not I do not know.

16,144. Did you ever look into the large room of the "Seven Stars?"—I looked in there one Monday evening.

16,145. Was it pretty full?—There were a great many people there.

16,146. Eating and drinking?—They were drinking.

16,147. Were they there through the night?—I believe they were, but I was not in the room five minutes.

16,148. Did you get to bed on the night of the Monday?—Yes.

16,149. And on the night of the Tuesday?—And on the night of the Tuesday.

16,150. There was nothing to keep you up?—No.

16,151. Did you see Capt. Pim at all?—Frequently.

16,152. Did you talk to him?—I had very little conversation; not about the election.

16,153. Had you known him before?—No.

16,154. (Mr. Longe.) During the time you were here you never heard of or noticed any stranger about the place that would answer to the description or might have taken the parts as it has now come out about this stranger at Totnes?—No one.

16,155. You had no notion of any person?—Not the slightest.

16,156. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever pay to any person any other parcels of money than those you mentioned?—Certainly not.

16,157. Did you ever pay a smaller parcel than the one containing 500*l.*?—Only those two.

16,158. Those were the only two you paid?—Those were the only two I paid.

16,159. What has become of the letters you have brought down; just show me what letters you have brought down?—I have brought my diary for the time. (A packet of letters and the diary were handed to Mr. Bere.)

Mr. C.J. Daw.

CHARLES JAMES DAW sworn and examined.

16,160. (Mr. Bere.) You are a clerk in Smith and Guscotte's office?—Yes.

16,161. How long have you been so?—About 14 years.

16,162. In the conveyancing department?—Yes.

16,163. In July 1865, did you accompany Mr. Smith to Totnes?—Yes.

16,164. What class did you come down by?—First class.

16,165. Did you know the reason why you were brought down by Mr. Smith?—I understood it was to take care of some money.

16,166. Who told you?—Messrs. Smith and Guscotte together.

16,167. Were you called into their private room?—Yes.

16,168. They told you where to go then?—In Mr. Guscotte's room.

16,169. Was Mr. Smith there?—Yes.

16,170. Who else was there?—No one.

16,171. Do you know Mr. Healy?—Yes, I know him.

16,172. Had he been at the office that morning?—I have not seen him.

16,173. Do you know Mr. Mason?—Yes.

16,174. Had he been at the office that morning?—I did not see him.

16,175. Mr. Henson, Mr. Edy's clerk, had he been at the office that morning?—I do not know him. Whose clerk?

16,176. Mr. Edy's clerk?—Oh, yes; I know him.

16,177. Had he been at the office that morning?—I do not remember; I do not recollect seeing him.

16,178. Had he been there a day or two before?—I cannot say at all.

16,179. Do you remember Mr. Smith returning from Totnes before you; he went down to Totnes and came back again?—Yes.

16,180. Do you not remember Mr. Henson coming and seeing Mr. Smith at the office?—I do not.

16,181. Did you ever see him at the office?—Oh, yes.

16,182. About that time?—I do not recollect. I have never seen him with Mr. Smith at all.

16,183. Do you not keep an appointment book of the people that come into your office?—I do not enter the names of any persons unless to make a charge against them.

16,184. When you were called into the room and saw Messrs. Smith and Guscotte what passed?—Mr. Smith said he was going to Totnes, and asked me to go with him. I consented.

16,185. Did he tell you why he wanted you to go?—I understood it was to take care of some money.

16,186. Did you understand that the money was going to be taken down?—Yes; I saw he had the bags.

16,187. Was the money in the room then?—I do not know that it was in that particular room; it was in the office.

16,188. Who had got it from Messrs. Ransome's?—I cannot say.

16,189. You saw it in the office?—Yes.

16,190. In a bag?—Three bags.

16,191. Was it lying open in the office that anybody might see it?—No; there were three bankers' little bags inside three leather bags.

16,192. What do you mean by leather bags?—Brief ags.

16,193. Small ones?—No, I think not.

16,194. Did you take the money with you?—Yes.

16,195. Where did you take it?—To Paddington a cab with Mr. Smith.

16,196. Where did you put the money?—In the rriage with me. I brought it to the station in otnes.

16,197. What did you put it in; did you keep it the bags or did you put the bags in anything else? -No, the bags were open; not in any other bags.

16,198. You took them with you into the railway rriage?—Yes.

16,199. What did you do with them?—Remained ith them myself.

16,200. Did you put them underneath the seat?—o, not underneath the seat; I put them where I uld have my eye on them all the way.

16,201. 1,500 sovereigns is no small weight?—No.

16,202. Did anybody carry any of the bags except urself?—I took them from the carriage.

16,203. Had you a portmanteau with you?—No.

16,204. What other luggage did you carry?—A rpet bag.

16,205. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is that your writing hewing a paper to the witness)?—No, that is Mr. ind's.

16,206. (Mr. Bere.) You came down with Mr. mith and the money?—Yes.

16,207. To the Totnes railway station?—Yes.

16,208. Did you get a fly then?—A 'bus.

16,209. Did you go with the money and the bags the 'bus?—I took two of the bags in the 'bus with e and Mr. Smith. I gave the other bag to the rson who comes with the 'bus.

16,210. The conductor?—One of Mr. Heath's ser-nts, and he put it on the top of the 'bus.

16,211. What servant was that?—I cannot say.

16,212. Can you say whether you have seen him at e "Stars" to-day?—I cannot say; it was late at night, tween 11 and 12.

16,213. Did you give a bag containing 500 sove-igns to the conductor to put on the top of the 'bus? -Yes.

16,214. Do you know whether it was Colonel awkins' servant?—That I cannot say.

16,215. Did Colonel Dawkins' servant come down y that train?—No.

16,216. Did he meet you?—There were two or ree persons with the 'bus; the bag was locked.

16,217, You were coming there at election times ith 500 sovereigns and you gave the bag to the con-uctor?—I did not give it to him.

16,218. Did he take it from you?—I only took two ags from the carriage.

16,219. Who took the other?—Mr. Smith took the ther bag.

16,220. Mr. Smith has sworn that he took it all own in his portmanteau?—I know he did not.

16,221. Are you sure that Mr. Smith did not bring own 1,500*l.* besides this in his portmanteau?—I do ot know what he had got in his portmanteau.

16,222. Had he got it with him?—I do not think ; I saw the contents of that portmanteau at the Seven Stars."

16,223. Then somehow or other the three bags got the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

16,224. Did you see the three bags there?—I did.

16,225. Did you carry the two bags intrusted to ou up stairs?—Yes.

16,226. Where did you put them?—I think when got to the "Seven Stars" I took all the bags.

16,227. Did Mr. Smith give you the other?—It as handed down from the top of the 'bus.

16,228. Did you take the three bags up stairs?—es.

16,229. Where did you take them?—Into a bed-oom.

16,230. What was the number of the bedroom?—o. 13.

16,231. Where did you sleep that night?—No. 14.

16,232. What was done with the bags when you got in the bedroom?—Mr. Smith unlocked his portmanteau; I took the bankers' bags from the leather bags and put them into the portmanteau.

16,233. What became of the leather bags, do you know?—I left them in the room.

16,234. What day of the month was this?—I think it was the 7th of July.

16,235. That would be the Friday before the election?—Yes.

16,236. By what train did you come down, the late express?—Yes; 4.50 or 4.45.

16,237. What time was it that Messrs. Smith and Guscotte communicated to you that you were to come down?—It was in the afternoon.

16,238. Of that day?—Yes.

16,239. Where did you sit in the daytime at the "Stars"?—In a small room, a sitting room.

16,240. Was it No. 6?—I do not remember the number; it was next to Colonel Dawkins' room.

16,241. Was anyone else in the same room with you?—Yes; three or four persons.

16,242. Did you know any of those?—I knew two of them.

16,243. Was that room a public room?—Yes.

16,244. Who were the two people you knew?—Mr. Lind.

16,245. He was not there then?—I knew neither of the persons who were there when I came down.

16,246. Did you have any talk with Mr. Smith about the money?—I do not recollect that I did.

16,247. Did Mr. Smith tell you what the money was going to be used for?—No.

16,248. But you knew pretty well?—I guessed.

16,249. Did you ask Mr. Smith whether it had been all spent?—I knew how things went on; I knew when the money was all gone.

16,250. How did you know that?—From conversation with Mr. Smith and Mr. Lind.

16,251. When did Mr. Lind tell you about it?—Within a few minutes of his having disposed of it.

16,252. That was the 1,500*l.*?—Yes.

16,253. Did you know the exact sum you were taking down?—No, I did not see the money. I understood there were three bags containing 500*l.* in each.

16,254. When did you hear from Mr. Smith that it had been disposed of?—I heard him say he had given them a cheque for 1,000*l.*, and I understood by that that the 1,500*l.* was gone.

16,255. Was that the only information you received from Mr. Smith that made you think the 1,500 was gone?—I know that Mr. Lind had disposed of some of it.

16,256. Had he told you to whom?—Yes; he did not know the names of the persons.

16,257. Did he tell you to how many persons he had given it to?—To two persons.

16,258. In how many lots?—In two lots. I know there were only two bags which he disposed of. I have heard him say that he never saw the money.

16,259. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Smith ever tell you how he had disposed of the remaining bag?—I never heard from Mr. Smith how he had disposed of it. When Mr. Lind came down from London he saw that the portmanteau in which he understood 1,500*l.* had been brought down had only two bags in it; he said, "What has become of the other"? I said, "I do not know, you had better inquire about it;" he then went to Mr. Smith and when he came back he said he understood it was all right, that Mr. Edmonds had had the first bag.

16,260. What instructions did Mr. Smith give you before you went there or while you were there as to your duties?—None in particular.

16,261. What did he tell you?—To look after the money.

16,262. Did you do so?—Yes. After the time I was directed to do so it was kept in the portmanteau, and the bedroom door was locked.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. C.J. Daw.

8 Sept. 1866.

16,263. Of No. 13?—Yes, it was locked part of the time; not the whole of the time.

16,264. From the outside or the inside?—I cannot say. I do not know when a person went in. I do not think it was locked except for the first two or three days.

16,265. (Mr. Bere.) Did you keep the key?—No.

16,266. Who kept the key of that bedroom?—I do not know; I cannot tell.

16,267. You received instructions from Mr. Smith to look after the money?—Yes.

16,268. And you obeyed those instructions by seeing to the room from time to time?—I looked to the room perhaps five or six times a day.

16,269. When it was locked what did you do?—I assumed from its being locked that Mr. Smith had the key.

16,270. Did you ever see anyone go in?—I saw Mr. Smith in that room many times.

16,271. And anyone else?—Mr. Lind.

16,272. Anyone else?—I do not remember.

16,273. Have you seen other people in that room besides Mr. Smith and Mr. Lind?—To the best of my recollection I never saw any one in that room but those two gentlemen.

16,274. Have you seen people going up to that room?—No; the room is in a line with others.

16,275. Have you seen people going upstairs either to Nos. 13, 14, or 15?—Yes.

16,276. Who were strangers to you?—I have seen Mr. Edmonds going to Mr. Smith in that room.

16,277. Who else? Have you seen Heath in that room?—I saw Mr. Heath in that room on the morning of the nomination.

16,278. Did you see Mr. Kellock there?—No.

16,279. How long did Mr. Heath stay in that room on the morning of the nomination?—I saw him from the hustings in front looking out of the window with Mr. Smith.

16,280. Out of the window of No. 13?—Yes.

16,281. Did you see him in that room again on that day?—No; I do not recollect that I ever saw Mr. Heath in that room except from the street.

16,282. (Mr. Coleridge.) You say you saw Mr. Heath in No. 13?—Yes.

16,283. You saw him looking from the window?—Yes; I saw him from the street.

16,284. Have you seen Screach in that room?—No.

16,285. Are you sure of that?—Quite sure.

16,286. Have you seen Evens?—No. I met Evens one day, at least I have been told it was Evens, on the stairs coming down from those rooms.

16,287. What day was this?—Either the Monday or the Tuesday before the election.

16,288. At the time you saw Evens was he coming down from No. 13?—Evens came from No. 15.

16,289. That was Mr. Lind's room?—Yes.

16,290. Who was in No. 13 at that time?—I did not go to see; the money had been removed from that room at that time.

16,291. Where to?—I think 500*l.* had been given by Mr. Smith to Screach, and the other 500*l.* had been taken by Mr. Lind to his own bedroom.

16,292. (Mr. Bere.) At the time you met Evens coming downstairs was not Mr. Smith in No. 13?—I do not know that he was.

16,293. Will you say that he was not?—No, I cannot.

16,294. What day was this when you met Evens coming downstairs?—Either the Monday or the Tuesday.

16,295. Are you sure it was not the Tuesday?—I am not sure. I immediately went into No. 15 and saw Mr. Lind, and I asked him if he knew that gentleman whom I had met, and he said yes.

16,296. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever receive any sum of money from the gentleman who is sitting behind you there? (Mr. Kellock.)—No.

16,297. Did you receive any sums during the election except from Mr. Smith?—No.

16,298. Did you give any sum to Mr. Heath?—No.

16,299. Or to Mr. Lind?—No.

16,300. Or to anybody?—No.

16,301. I mean any parcel of money?—The 1,500*l.* is the only money which I saw throughout the election.

16,302. (Mr. Bere.) Independently of looking after the money, did you not from time to time go up to Mr. Smith's room?—Yes.

16,303. Did he keep his room a good deal?—Yes.

16,304. Was he not unwell?—He was not very well; he went out for a drive in the course of the day, and the greater part of the time I think he was with Colonel Dawkins.

16,305. Was he not a good deal in his own room, No. 13?—He was.

16,306. Did you see him there from time to time?—Yes.

16,307. Have you reason to believe that on any of these occasions when you found the door locked he was in the room?—Yes. I have known sometimes that he wished to be quiet and to sleep.

16,308. (Mr. Longe.) You had gone there after this period when the money had passed away and found the door was locked?—I cannot say that I have gone there and found it locked many times.

16,309. Did you not often do that?—Not very often.

16,310. Some three or four times a day?—Perhaps at many as that.

16,311. Locked from the inside?—I could not tell from which side it was locked.

16,312. Did you rap at the door?—I do not think I did.

16,313. Had you instructions not to do so?—No.

16,314. When you found it locked what did you do?—I assumed it was all right. I thought Mr. Smith might be fatigued and might be wishing to sleep.

16,315. At what time of the day was this?—At different periods of the day.

16,316. You went there and found the door was locked; did you not rap at the door?—When I tried it and found that it was locked I immediately walked away. I was in the habit of going in and out of the room without rapping at the door.

16,317. You have seen Mr. Heath in that room?—Yes.

16,318. Did you ever see anyone else go into No. 13?—No, I never did.

16,319. You cannot recollect any time when you saw anyone going to No. 13?—No. I have seen Mr. Lind in that room.

16,320. What going to it?—I could not tell which room they were going to, they were all in a line.

16,321. Did you ever hear anyone ask for No. 13?—No.

16,322. Did you go with Mr. Lind to see any voters?—I saw one gentleman with him.

16,323. (Mr. Coleridge.) You are quite certain that you and Mr. Smith brought down this money in three bags?—Yes.

16,324. And you kept your two bags on your seat, and Mr. Smith his one bag?—I think I took care of the whole of the money until we got to Totnes station.

16,325. And you are quite sure that it came the whole way to Totnes station in those three bags, and was not put into the portmanteau at all?—I am quite certain of that.

16,326. And you handed this to the conductor?—I took two of them, and Mr. Smith took the other: he put his on the top of the 'bus.

16,327. And you put yours where?—I held mine in my hand.

16,328. Then if Mr. Smith brought down money in his portmanteau that would be a different sum from what was in the bags?—Yes.

16,329. Mr. Smith has sworn that he brought down 1,500*l.* in his portmanteau, that must have been altogether different from what was in the bags?—I saw the portmanteau opened at the stars.

16,330. Did you see any bags in that portmanteau?—No.

16,331. Did you ever see Mr. Smith disguised in a g or moustache?—No.

16,332. Did you ever wear one yourself?—No.

16,333. (Mr. Bere.) Did you see any stranger cupying a bedroom in the neighbourhood of Nos. , 14, or 15?—I did not 16,334. How many rooms are there on that floor, you know?—That I do not know; there are some ther up the passage.

16,335. Do you know who occupied those rooms? I do not.

16,336. You were there for some time and knew it money had been brought down which passed from r. Smith to Mr. Edmonds?—I knew that 500*l.* of it d gone.

16,337. You knew that 500*l.* had gone; did not u know that all the money had passed away?—Yes, t not to Mr. Edmonds.

16,338. Still you knew that it was gone?—Yes.

16,339. Did you never have any notion of your n as to the way in which the money was distributed? I understood that Screach had distributed 500*l.* of and that a gentleman who I was told was Mr. ens distributed the other 500*l.*; as to the 500*l.* ven to Mr. Edmonds I know nothing.

16,340. You never understood from conversation th Mr. Lind or anyone else that the money was ought back to the "Stars," and distributed in the Stars"?—No.

16,341. You had no notion and never heard anying of the kind?—No.

16,342. You never heard of the stranger being ere?—Yes, I heard of the stranger. Mr. Smith d me of the stranger.

16,343. When did he tell you of the stranger?—I ink it would be Saturday.

16,344. Which Saturday?—Before the election.

16,345. The day after you came down?—I do not ink it could have been so soon after. It must have en Saturday or Monday.

16,346. (Mr. Coleridge.) Or Sunday?—It was not nday.

16,347. What did Mr. Smith tell you?—He said a rson had offered his services to be useful at the ection; but that he did not know him. He inquired the person where he came from. What he said s, he had been sent for by one of our party. Mr. nith asked the name of the gentleman who sent r him. He declined to tell. Mr. Smith spoke to e about it, and said that it looked suspicious, and d nothing to do with him.

16,348. Mr. Smith told you this story on the turday. Where was it?—In the "Stars."

16,349. Was Mr. Lind present?—No. I think it as before Mr. Lind came down.

16,350. Mr. Smith told you he would not have ything to do with him?—Yes.

16,351. After Mr. Smith told you that do you ow who did the work that the stranger was to have ne?—No.

16,352. Was the stranger employed at all to your owledge?—I understood, from Mr. Smith that the ranger was gone. The stranger tried to get his penses out of Mr. Smith for coming down, but he ould not hear anything about it.

16,353. You do not know of his having anyone to the work?—No.

16,354. Did Mr. Smith do it?—No.

16,355. Who did the work that the stranger ought have done?—I do not know anyone.

16,356. Cannot you tell?—My opinion is there was Mum at all.

16,357. But that Mr. Smith was the person talked out as Mr. Mum?—No. I fancy the money was stributed by Totnes men.

16,358. Where do you imagine the money was got om by the Totnes men? We have heard it sworn y many witnesses that there was a Mr. Mum, or at the money came from 13; and so far your account illies?—I was there so often, and Mr. Smith was ere, and I think we must have seen him.

16,359. Have you any doubt that Mr. Smith occupied 13?—Very little doubt.

16,360. (Mr. Longe.) Did you say anything to Mr. Heath about this stranger?—No, not at that time.

16,361. Since have you had any conversation with Mr. Heath or anyone about that man to whom Mr. Smith referred?—No, I have not. I have talked about it in London.

16,362. You talked about it to Mr. Lind?—Yes.

16,363. With anyone here?—No.

16,364. Did you talk to Mr. Smith about it?—Yes; I have this morning.

16,365. Did you remind Mr. Smith of his repeating to you the story about the false Mum; the man who came down and wanted to be employed?—I did; and I mentioned it to Mr. Lind at the time of the election.

16,366. Did you mention it to Mr. Smith this morning?—Yes.

16,367. What did Mr. Smith tell you when you told him about the conversation?—He made no remark.

16,368. You saw Mr. Smith's evidence?—Yes; I read it in the "Times."

16,369. Did you understand from Mr. Smith that Mr. Heath had been speaking about it?—No.

16,370. (Mr. Bere.) Have you spoken to Mr. Heath about the matter at all?—No.

16,371. Did you and Mr. Smith come in the same train from London yesterday?—No; I think he came by an earlier train. He said he had come from London.

16,372. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you see Mr. Heath in London?—No.

16,373. (Mr. Bere.) Did you go and call with Mr. Lind upon a voter?—Yes.

16,374. Who was that?—A gentleman I was acquainted with. Mr. Norrish, of Sharpham Barton.

16,375. When did you go?—On the Monday, I think.

16,376. What time of the Monday?—In the evening.

16,377. Did you see him at Barton?—Yes.

16,378. What did you talk to him about?—I asked him to give Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim his support.

16,379. Who sent you?—No one.

16,380. Did not you communicate that you knew Mr. Norrish at Sharpham Barton, and could do something about his vote?—No.

16,381. Is he a connection or relation of yours?—No; he came from the same neighbourhood.

16,382. Where did he come from?—Sandford.

16,383. You saw him?—Yes.

16,384. What did he say?—He said he could not promise. He expected his landlord down, and he should like to please him.

16,385. He could not vote without seeing the landlord?—He did not say that. He said he had no message from his landlord, and he should not like to offend him.

16,386. Have you been in Totnes before?—Never.

16,387. You knew what sort of place it was with regard to elections?—I heard a great deal about bribery.

16,388. And that a vote was worth something; a valuable commodity?—To a certain class.

16,389. Did you think Mr. Norrish was of that class?—I should think not. I should have considered I should have insulted him if I had mentioned money to him.

16,390. You did not mention money to him?—I did not.

16,391. When did you go and see him again?—On the Tuesday.

16,392. What time on the Tuesday?—In the morning, I think.

16,393. What made you go again on the Tuesday?—Because he said his landlord was coming down; and I went to know whether his landlord had been and he had been influenced by his landlord.

16,394. Did you find on the Tuesday whether his landlord had been?—His landlord had not seen him.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. C. J. Daw.

8 Sept. 1866.

16,395. How was he disposed to vote then ?—He did not inform me.

16,396. Is that the only person you went to ?—Yes.

16,397. Had you told Mr. Smith you had been to see Mr. Norrish ?—Yes.

16,398. Did he tell you he was uncertain which way he would vote ?—Yes.

16,399. When you said he was uncertain, what did he say ?—He said if I could get him to vote for the colonel it would be better.

16,400. Did he ask you if Mr. Norrish was a person to be influenced by money ?—He did not.

16,401. Didn't Mr. Smith intimate that you might say something about money ?—He did not.

16,402. Was he the only person you went to see ?—He is.

16,403. Did you ever get any instructions from Mr. Smith at all as to what you were to do when you went down to Totnes ?—All that Mr. Edmonds asked me to do.

16,404. Did Mr. Edmonds ask you to do anything ?—I don't think he did.

16,405. Did you ever go to Mr. Edmonds to get instructions ?—No. I had been to his office at the request of Mr. Smith or Colonel Dawkins. I am not certain.

16,406. What did you go to Mr. Edmonds' office for ? — To direct to the voters Colonel Dawkins' address.

16,407. To write the directions outside the address? —Yes.

16,408. Was that all you did ?—Yes.

16,409. (Mr. Longe.) You know Mr. Heath, sen. ? —Yes.

16,410. You had a conversation with him about different things ?—I have been to the bar once or twice.

16,411. Did you talk to Mr. Heath ?—Very little.

16,412. You knew him perfectly well ?—Yes.

16,413. Do you know the other Heaths ? — Mr. Heath, jun.

16,414. Which Mr. Heath jun., there are two or three ?—I heard that there were two.

16,415. What were their names ?—I cannot tell you.

16,416. Can you distinguish them yourself ?—The Mr. Heath whom I saw was about Captain Pim a greater part of the time.

16,417. You do not know his name ?—No.

16,418. Did you know another Mr. Heath ?—No; I did not see anyone else; but I understood there was another Mr. Heath, a surveyor.

Mr. C. H. Lind.

Mr. LIND recalled and further examined.

16,419. (Mr. Bere.) Your christian name is C. ? —Yes.

16,420. Who is F. S. ?—Mr. Smith.

16,421. Is this Mr. Smith's writing (referring to a paper) ?—No.

16,422. Did you see Mr. Henson on that day ?—I have no doubt I did.

16,423. Your initials are C. L. ?—Yes. I dare say I saw him at that time, or a few days previous to that; at that time I was preparing an affidavit to prove a claim in Chancery.

16,424. Did you not see Mr. Henson on other professional business ?—I do not remember. Mr. Henson had been a former clerk of Mr. Edy, and there was a claim to be proved in Chancery, and Mr. Henson was to make the affadavit. There was some specialty about it, and that was the matter.

16,425. Did you know that Mr. Henson had been asked to come to Totnes with Mr. Smith ?—No.

16,426. When he came on the 7th July did not he see Mr. Smith ?—I do not know.

16,427. You cannot say that he did not ?—I cannot say that he did not.

16,428. Would his calling on any other day be put down. Do you put down the names of everybody ?—They ought to be; but I should say our junior clerks are careless on that point.

16,429. They do not always put them down ?—No.

16,430. (Mr. Coleridge.) There are two or three things I want to ask you with reference to your diary. When you are engaged on important business you make no entries ?—I always make entries.

16,431. Every day, whether at home or away ?—If I am away I put "absent," perhaps.

16,432. Here is the 10th July, rather an important day, and no entry in your diary ?—No.

16,433. How was that ?—I had not the diary with me, I was on the election.

16,434. When did you get back to London ?—The Saturday following.

16,435. You had not the diary with you ?—No.

16,436. When your diary is not with you you do not make entries when you get back ?—Yes.

16,437. Would you under any circumstances make a fresh entry ?—I make the entries when I get back.

16,438. When you get back would you think about putting down what you did on the Monday before, not having taken your diary with you; would you put down what occurred on the Monday ?—Not unless I attended to some special matter of business.

16,439. Coming to Totnes on election matters was not special matter of business ?—It was not a matter of business I could put down and charge for.

16,450. It was not to be charged, but would be a matter of business for you to put down in the diary ? —No.

16,441. It was a sort of thing you would rather not put down ?—I think I put down when I left and returned.

16,442. We have got nothing at all on Monday July the 10th. No entry July the 11th, the nomination day. Did that never occur to you "Nomination day at Totnes" ?—No.

16,443. On the Wednesday you left Totnes for Torquay, was that important ?—It was merely for my own guidance, to know where I was.

16,444. You mean seriously that was so ?—Quite so.

16,445. On July 13th did you stay with Colonel Dawkins at Torquay, was that for your own guidance ? —I put it down.

16,446. The election day was not of sufficient importance to be mentioned ?—From the entry that I put there I knew where I was, and what I was engaged on.

16,447. You never mentioned the election day or the nomination day ?—No.

16,448. No. I cannot find all through your diary except that and Sundays, any instance of your not making an entry. Was not that done for a purpose ? —No.

16,449. Mr. Smith's diary is in the same peculiar state ?—You will find last year and years past little in it. He does not often attend.

16,450. It is a mere matter of form, his diary ?— He does not attend to business much.

16,451. There is an entry here in your diary July 3rd, "Colonel Dawkins 5,000*l.*" What is that ? —It was relative, I think, to a loan of 5,000*l.*

16,452. Explain that please. Is that the loan that you were to advance Colonel Dawkins on July 3rd ? —I think Mr. Guscotte attended to that.

16,453. Will you tell us what passed ?—If you will allow me to see the diary I will tell you. (After referring to the diary). I do not know what this is.

Mr. GUSCOTTE recalled.

16,454. (Mr. Coleridge.) Now I will ask you about this. In your diary here is "Dawkins, July 1st, 5,000*l.*" Does that refer to the same transaction?—I suppose it does, but I should like to look at the ledger.

16,455. What does 5,000*l.* mean, was it a loan to Colonel Dawkins at that time?—It was a loan advanced by our banker's, and put to our account for him.

16,456. Was that money advanced in contemplation of the election?—No, it had no reference to it, and will explain it.

16,457. 5,000*l.*, advanced four or five days before the election looks rather odd?—It is not four or five days, but I want the ledger, and I think you will find it was advanced two months before that.

16,457*. If it is two months before, perhaps you will refer me to a note in your diary about the 5,000*l.*?—(The witness referred to the diary.)

16,458. Can you tell something more about the 5,000*l.*?—What is the date of it.

16,459. Your entry is the 1st July, your clerks the 3rd, yours is the Saturday, his is the Monday?—I am certain it had no reference to the election.

16,460. I should like to know something about it?—I fancy it was part of the sum of 9,500*l.*

16,461. That was not paid till some time afterwards?—Mr. Lind tells me Colonel Dawkins owed us a balance of 5,000*l.* at the time, and we took a security for it.

16,462. How long before had you advanced that to him?—I think some long time, for years there was a balance of account running.

16,463. You told us that you knew this 9,500*l.* was coming in, and therefore you were in a position to advance him money. How was it that so late as the 3rd July, knowing that this was coming in that you did this?—That would be to secure us, and we should try to save the stamp if we received the money before.

16,464. You told us before Colonel Dawkins came to the election that you knew that 9,500*l.* was coming to his account?—I do not know the precise sum, and I should like to know what I said on the subject. Will you read the evidence? I think I said we knew we should receive a sum, and that we were making arrangement to carry out a larger loan, which I did not consider relevant to this; but the man who was going to advance the money was a much longer time in carrying it out than he ought to have been.

16,465. When was the sum of money for which the security was taken paid to Colonel Dawkins, the 5,000*l.*?—It was never paid to him, it was a security taken to cover us. I think you will find by our ledger that at that time he owed us above 5,000*l.* on the balance of account.

16,466. Mr. Smith said to the contrary, that there was a balance in his favour?—The books are the best test.

16,467. I want to test Mr. Smith's accuracy on a great many subjects. Mr. Smith said there was a balance due to Colonel Dawkins at the time, a small one. You knew there was 9,500*l.* coming in in the course of a week, how came you to go to the expense of a stamp to secure 5,000*l.*?—It never was stamped, there was a note to it to shew that it never was.

16,468. Why is the note made?—It is an entry to get the stamp, it is two months before.

16,469. Is that the utmost tether that you are allowed?—Yes.

16,470. Then it must be stamped?—Yes; a note is made to show when the day comes, and that is the entry to show when it was to be stamped.

16,471. Then it was stamped?—No; that was the time it was signed.

16,472. Should you have gone on for two months to make a note in your diary?—That is our invariable practice; Mr. Lind did it for me; it is not my handwriting.

16,473. Mr. Lind makes another note of the stamp?—That would be so.

16,474. Was it stamped?—It never was stamped. We knew that the 9,500*l.* was coming in, and it was unnecessary.

16,475. Was it exactly two months before?—As nearly as possible.

16,476. Then it would be the 1st of May?—About that time.

16,477. Then something would be in your diary about it?—Yes, I think so.

16,478. I see "Dawkins' deed," May the 3rd; is that what it means?—Yes; I had forgotten it; I knew it had nothing to do with this election. I had forgotten it till it was brought to my mind, and that is the explanation of it. We thought it a large sum for Colonel Dawkins to owe us without security, and we made a note to get a stamp; but we knew there was a large sum to receive in July.

16,479. Mr. Smith has told us that Colonel Dawkins had a small balance in hand at that time. The account was torn out and handed to me?—We deliver our accounts in a particular form; we keep our books in the general way of charging items as paid or received, but Colonel Dawkins likes each item to be separated, and we should put it under one head of business as money paid or received.

16,480. Colonel Dawkins gave me this paper (referring to a paper)?—If you take our cash account that will disclose it.

16,481. I think your explanation is sufficient?—I should have mentioned it the day before.

Mr. DAW recalled.

Mr. C. J. Daw

16,482. (Mr. Bere.) I want to ask you and Mr. Lind the question: Did you at any time when you first came here see any list of voters?—Yes, I saw it at Mr. Edmonds' office.

16,483. Did you see the names of the voters copied out on a piece of paper?—On the printed list I saw it.

16,484. Did you ever see any written list?—No.

16,485. When you went to Mr. Smith's room from time to time did you ever see any papers about?—No.

16,486. Was there a china bowl in Mr. Smith's bedroom?—I did not see and I do not believe there was such a thing there.

16,487. Did Mr. Smith's box contain writing materials?—No.

16,488. Were there any in the room?—I did not see any there.

16,489. You are quite certain that you never saw any names of the voters copied out on a piece of paper?—I am certain that I never did.

16,490. You saw some bankers' bags in which gold was?—Yes.

16,491. Did you ever see any little canvas bags besides these?—No.

16,492. You are quite sure about that; there were not bags to hold about 50*l.* each?—I never saw them.

16,493. Not in Mr. Smith's portmanteau?—No; I don't think he had a farthing in his portmanteau.

16,494. I ask whether besides the bankers' bags you saw any canvas bags empty?—No.

16,495. (Mr. Coleridge.) You never saw the inside of the bankers' bags?—No.

16,496. (Mr. Longe.) Did you not hear the name of John Heath, jun.?—No, not the christian name; but I have heard Mr. Heath, jun., mentioned.

16,497. Was it Mr. John Heath, jun.?—I cannot tell, but I knew there were two.

16,498. You didn't know it was Mr. John Heath jun.?—No; I only saw one Mr. Heath.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. C. H. Lind.

8 Sept. 1866.

Mr. Lind recalled.

16,499. (Mr. Bere.) You heard the question that I put to Mr. Daw, and I put the same question to you, did you ever see a list of voters copied on a piece of paper?—No.

16,500. Did you ever see a list of voters at any time on a piece of paper?—Never.

16,501. And never copied it?—Never.

Mr. F. Evens.

Frederick Evens recalled.

16,502. (Mr. Coleridge.) You had known Mr. Daw before he came down here?—No, I did not know the gentleman at all.

16,503. Did you not see him at the time of the election?—I do not know that I ever saw him before today.

16,504. Did not you nod to him before he came into court to-day?—Not that I am aware of.

16,505. Did you know Mr. Lind?—I know Mr. Lind now, but I did not know him till he came into the hall.

16,506. Did you see him at the time of the election?—Yes.

16,507. Where?—No. 13; I think I took the bag of him.

16,508. Are you sure it was not No. 15?—I will not be positive as to that.

16,509. Because he said in No. 13 he gave you the bag?—I will not be positive whether it was No. 13 or No. 15. I know I was rather in a hurry at the time.

16,510. You told us the other day the room the mysterious stranger was in was No. 13?—No. 13.

16,511. You have no doubt?—I have no doubt.

16,512. And if it was in No. 13 that you saw Mr. Lind it was in the same room as you saw the mysterious stranger?—Yes.

16,513. Was he ever present in the room when you received the bag from Mr. Lind?—No; Mr. Lind merely opened the door and gave me the bag, and I took it away.

16,514. You are quite sure that it was in No. 13 that you saw the stranger?—Quite sure.

16,515. And the stranger you told us gave you a written list of names?—A written list of names.

16,516. And then gave you in the first instance any money?—A few pounds just for my private use.

16,517. What did you do with the money you got from Mr. Lind?—I took it down to No. 8.

16,518. That is where Mr. Kellock and Mr. Edmonds were?—Mr. Kellock and Mr. Edmonds I believe were in the room. I put it on the table.

16,519. When you had got it there what did you do with it; open it?—No; I put it on the table and turned round and walked out again.

16,520. When did you next get any money to go about with?—I got some on the morning of the nomination day.

16,521. Did you get that at No. 13?—I got it at No. 13.

16,522. How much?—I got it in several sums.

16,523. And each done up in little packets?—They were not done up.

16,524. Bags?—I had little bags myself.

16,525. And it was told out to you, and according to the sum you wanted for a voter you put it into a bag?—I put it into a bag.

16,526. And then you knew what each bag contained for each voter?—I did.

16,527. Tell us again the appearance of this gentleman who gave you these little bags?—About a middle height man.

16,528. Light whiskers?—Yes; grey.

16,529. And dark hair?—Dark hair.

16,530. Moustache?—No moustache at all.

16,531. Did the hair strike you as being unnaturally dark for the colour of his whiskers?—I am sure it was natural. I am certain it was no wig.

16,532. Screach must be wrong about that?—I do not know what he saw, I am sure.

16,533. What made you see it was natural?—Because I had many hours' conversation with him, and of course I must have noticed such a thing at that.

16,534. Did you see Mr. Smith during the election at all?—I am not aware; I might have seen him; I had no conversation whatever with him.

16,535. Did you ever see a gentleman with grey whiskers and greyish hair about the size you describe in No. 13?—No.

16,536. Who did you ever see in No. 13 except Mr. Lind?—No one at all excepting Mr. Lind.

16,537. You do not think you saw him in 13, you think it was No. 15?—I will not be positive, it may be No. 15.

16,538. You never saw but one stranger in No. 13?—Never but one man.

16,539. (Mr. Bere.) What did you do with the money you got from Mr. Lind?—I took it to No. 8 and put it upon the table.

16,540. What is No. 8?—I do not know; it is a room in the house.

16,541. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Kellock and Mr. Edmonds were there?—Yes, Mr. Kellock and Mr. Edmonds were in the room.

16,542. (Mr. Bere.) Was any one in the room?—No one but those two gentleman.

16,543. Were Mr. Kellock and Mr. Edmonds in the room when you brought the money down?—Mr. Kellock and Mr. Edmonds were in the room when I brought the money down.

16,544. (Mr. Longe.) When you went this time what were you told to do?—When I went to the "Stars"?

16,545. Yes; this time that you got the money, what were your instructions?—My instructions were to go and get the men I had ticked off.

16,546. I mean when you went to the "Stars" to get this money, what were the instructions given to you?—To get what money, what were my instructions?

16,547. Yes, what were your instructions?—Mr. Edmonds told me to go to No. 13 or No. 15, I will not be positive, I rather think No. 13; Mr. Edmonds instructed me to go upstairs.

16,548. Do you remember whether it was the same room you were in the habit of going for it?—I will not be positive; I will not exactly say whether it was the same room, I might be mistaken in the room.

16,549. What was the room you had been in the habit of going to?—No. 13 was the room I was in the habit of going to.

Mr. J. S. Screach.

John Sandford Screach recalled.

16,550. Are you quite certain that the room you went to was No. 13?—I am.

16,551. You have no doubt?—Not the slightest.

16,552. And it was No. 15 that you got the money from Mr. Lind?—Yes it was, I am thoroughly convinced.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

Mr. Thomas Creaser Kellock recalled.

16,553. (Mr. Coleridge.) The last answer we have from you is, after some trouble, that you were present at that conversation in Mr. Smith's bed room before they went up to town?—I wished to make an explanation yesterday evening on the point, but I was too late; on returning to Mr. Edmonds he reminded me of the circumstance that occurred in the bedroom, and that till then had escaped my memory.

16,544. Had he reminded you before you were examined yesterday?—He said he had spoken of that in Mr. Guscotte's presence.

16,555. Told you?—Told me, but I did not recollect it had taken place.

16,556. That was not in Colonel Dawkins' presence?—It was not, I believe Colonel Dawkins had left Totnes.

16,557. You had some conversation about what was going on here in Colonel Dawkins' presence but that was not alluded to then?—No.

16,558. You have told us several times over that you had nothing to do beyond cashing the cheque for the money at that election?—Two cheques.

16,559. Do you recollect being in No. 8 when a bag of money was brought down to No. 8 and given to Mr. Edmonds, you being present?—I heard Evens' evidence in this hall this morning, that he brought a bag of money down when Mr. Edmonds and I were in the room, but I may say distinctly I was not aware of any arrangement of the kind, and I did not know that he had brought money down till I heard his evidence.

16,560. You never heard about an arrangement?—I mean to say that he might have brought it down while I was there, but I knew nothing about it.

16,561. Do you recollect his having brought down a bag and put it down somewhere or other by Mr. Edmonds while you were present?—I do not recollect it, and I may say distinctly that I never took the money or did anything with it.

16,562. The thing is this, we want to know have you any recollection of Evens bringing the money in a bag into the room?—I have not, but I am told that Mr. Edmhnds admits in his evidence that he was in the room when the money was brought down.

16,563. You are not prepared to say that Mr. Evens did not do that?—Certainly not, considering the time that has elapsed and the number of circumstances connected with the election.

16,564. We got as far as the necessity for Mr. Smith bringing down a man. Now when did you know after that that Mr. Smith had supplied the necessary individual?—I only read an account of the proceedings in London, I think on the petition.

16,565. When you read the account of those proceedings was it your impression that Mr. Smith had brought down a stranger for that purpose?—My impression distinctly was that a stranger had come to the "Stars" for the purpose.

16,566. In consequence of the communication made by Mr. Edmonds in your presence to Mr. Smith?—I cannot say that my impression arose from that; it arose from the evidence given, because I had forgotten that circumstance.

16,567. When you heard the evidence given did not you think that if that stranger came down he came down in consequence?—Yes.

16,568. Go on and tell us when the first time was that you negotiated any money at that election?—Trusting entirely to memory, I believe it was on the Monday before the election.

16,569. That is the day before the nomination day?—The day before the nomination day I was asked by Mr. Edmonds to get a cheque for 1,000*l.* cashed. I had arranged to go to Stoke Gabriel to canvass some voters with Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim, but at the last moment Captain Pim did not go. Captain Lane Fox, whose name has been mentioned before, joined Colonel Dawkins and me in a carriage, and I sent my servant with my horse and gig to a place called Follaton on the road to wait for me.

16,570. What was the reason for sending on your horse and gig?—In order that when Colonel Dawkins had finished his canvass at Stoke Gabriel I might go in my gig to Torquay and get this money.

16,571. Then your going in a carriage that way was not in order that you might distract attention from your going away from here?—I did not wish to cash the cheque myself in Totnes, that was my only reason.

16,572. Did you send the carriage away in order that you might not be seen driving out of Totnes to Torquay?—But I did, with Colonel Dawkins and Captain Fox.

16,573. Colonel Dawkins had to come?—Yes; and I had my gig to meet me at that point.

16,574. You knew perfectly well what you were going to cash that cheque for of course?—Nobody told me, but I had no doubt. I admit that with regard to that cheque and the other.

16,575. Then you went and cashed that cheque; was it after banking hours?—It was very shortly after.

16,576. I suppose you were known at the bank at Torquay?—Very well.

16,577. What took place between you and the manager about cashing it after banking hours; who was the manager?—He was not the manager; I called on a gentleman, Mr. Charles Kitson, who was a brother professional man.

16,578. Mr. Charles Kitson the solicitor?—Yes, the solicitor, and he went down to the bank with me, and there one of the clerks opened the bank and cashed the cheque.

16,579. You say one of the clerks, a clerk would not have had the power, it must have been the manager himself?—No, neither of the partners were there. I think he is managing clerk.

16,580. What was his name?—I really cannot tell you.

Mr. Frederick Smith recalled. Mr. F. Smith

16,581. (Mr. Coleridge.) There are two or three things I will refresh your memory about. On the last occasion when you were examined here you stated that you slept in No. 15 bedroom?—So I thought, so the chambermaid told me when I left.

16,582. But now that your clerk, Mr. Lind, has assured us that he slept in No. 15, and that Mr. Daw slept in No. 14, and you in No. 13, you have no doubt it was No. 13?—I have no doubt about it, from a piece of furniture my clerk pointed out to me.

16,583. We have also heard and recalled the witnesses in order that there may be no doubt about it that the room in which some money was received by the mysterious stranger and paid to Screach and Evens was No. 13?—That is no doubt where I handed the 500*l.*

16,584. I mention this in order that you may set it right; that room was No. 13, and who was the person who occupied your bedroom besides you at the time of the election?—No one whatever.

16,585. Were you not the person who really did distribute these sums of money to Mr. Screach and Mr. Evens?—Certainly not, I never saw Screach until this morning.

16,586. Did you ever see Evens until this morning?—I never saw Evens that I am aware of.

16,587. Then the person who had lists of voters and gave these sums of money was not yourself?—Certainly not; I never heard of a voter being in that room or anyone but myself.

16,588. Did you ever see Screach in your room?—Never.

16,589. He is sitting behind you?—I have not seen him till this morning.

16,590. Is Evens in court?—Yes.

16,591. You see that dark man with a moustache (pointing to Evens)?—I never saw him before.

16,592. Then you are not the person who distributed those sums of money in No. 13?—Certainly not.

16,593. Were you aware whilst you were occupying that room that anybody else occupied it whilst you were out of it?—Certainly not.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. F. Smith.

8 Sept. 1866.

16,594. Were you in the habit of locking your door when you went away from it?—I used to lock my door when I lay down sometimes in the day, which I frequently did.

16,595. We have heard that you were not very well during the time of the election, and that you kept a good deal to your room?—A great deal.

16,596. Can you tell me from the Thursday before the election up to the election day how much of the day had you spent do you think there. Were you there half the day?—I was constantly going up and down to my room.

16,597. And except at such times as you went out for a drive we have heard more or less you were in your own room?—Yes, or the sitting room below.

16,598. So if any person had been in your room carrying on the practices we have heard, you must have crossed him occasionally?—Most decidedly.

16,599. I must ask you this. Did you whilst you were at the "Seven Stars" hotel during the last election at any period diguise yourself in any way?—Certainly not.

16,600. I think it is right to tell you you have already admitted quite enough to have yourself placed on the list of bribers, therefore anything you admit beyond that will not affect that position at all. I ask you at any time did you sit in that room in disguise and give any money to Screach or Evens?—Most decidedly not.

16,601. Then if anybody swears, as several have sworn, that somebody did sit in that room with a black wig and moustache and grey whiskers you will undertake to swear that that is not yourself?—Most decidedly.

16,602. Can you account in any sort of way for the unanimous testimony that we have that that was the room in which these practices were carried on?—I cannot, indeed.

16,603. Did you at any time during the election see Screach or Evens or anybody else to give them money in that room?—The only person I saw was Mr. Edmonds.

16,604. And that refers to one single sum of 500*l.*?—And the cheques.

16,605. I am speaking now of the money. And that refers entirely to the 500*l.* you gave Mr. Edmonds, the other two 500*l.* having, I understand, been distributed by Mr. Lind.

16,606. You told us the other day that you brought this money down in your portmanteau?—I wish to correct my evidence in that respect, inasmuch as I brought either in a portmanteau or a dressing case 500*l.*; and 1000*l.* I find Mr. Daw brought down with him. The money must have been separated in London.

16,607. Did you bring that 500*l.* in your portmanteau?—Either my portmanteau or dressing case.

16,608. Where did you receive the 500*l.* you brought yourself?—I received first of all 1,500*l.* at Hanbury's, I took it to my office at 19, Essex Street, where it must have been divided.

16,609. It is as to that division that I wish to know. Did you take away 500*l.* and leave 1,000*l.* to Mr. Daw, or how was that?—Mr. Daw came to me and I said "Will you take charge of this money and "I will take charge of 500*l.*"

16,610. Did you take the 500*l.* home with you?—No, I took it direct to the railway.

16,611. Did you go in the same carriage with Mr. Daw?—Yes.

16,612. What was the 500*l.* in?—In this bag that the bankers had put it up in.

16,613. Did you put it into anything else?—No, certainly not.

16,614. You carried it open in a canvas bag?—Yes.

16,615. And you took that to the railway?—Yes.

16,616. Mr. Daw taking charge of the other two canvas bags?—Yes, so Mr. Daw informs me this morning. I thought I took the whole myself.

16,617. As far as your own recollection went are you certain you were not correct the other day in saying you put it into your portmanteau?—I am perfectly satisfied.

16,618. You are perfectly satisfied that the only sum you took down at the election in the first instance was 1,500*l.*?—Quite so.

16,619. When you got to Totnes do you recollect what you did with your bag?—It was taken at once into my room.

16,620. No; when you got to the station Mr. Daw has told us that he carried the two bags in his hand. What did you do with yours?—I carried mine. I do not think I should trust a porter.

16,621. If Mr. Daw has sworn that he saw you hand it to a conductor who put it up with any other luggage that is not true?—I think I must have put it in my dressing bag I am inclined to think now.

16,622. Do you mean that your dressing bag with the money in it was handed to the conductor of the omnibus, or did you keep it constantly in your hand?—I should say certainly in my hand, to the best of my recollection.

16,623. Then if Mr. Daw says he saw a bag of money handed up to the top of the omnibus he must have been mistaken, or it was another bag?—I know nothing about that bag.

16,624. If a bag was handed up to the top of the omnibus you know nothing about it?—Certainly not; to the best of my recollection it certainly did not belong to me.

16,625. Since you were here the other day, Mr. Kellock and Mr. Edmonds have both deposed to a conversation you told us nothing about. Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Kellock have both now stated that before you left Totnes on the first occasion after you came down on the Dawkins business you, being in a hurry, asked them to come into your bedroom. Do you recollect that circumstance?—No.

16,626. Do you recollect either Mr. Edmonds or Mr. Kellock being in your bedroom just as you were going away?—I do not.

16,627. Do you swear not?—To the best of my recollection.

16,628. Will you undertake to swear, because you know this is a matter between gentlemen of the same profession, that they were not in your bedroom?—I cannot recollect anything of the kind.

16,629. Then to the best of your belief they were not?—Certainly.

16,630. You do not recollect any conversation to the effect that you were in a hurry; would they talk to you just as you were packing your box?—Such a conversation may have been, but I have no recollection of it.

16,631. You have no recollection about such a conversation?—None whatever.

16,632. Now, without asking them to come to your room, assume that they did come to your room; can you recollect a conversation about the necessity of your going up to town to get money?—I do not, because I should not have gone to town unless I had gone on private matters.

16,633. Having to go on private matters, and having told him that you had to go on private matters, did you think it a good opportunity for you to get money?—Mr. Edmonds thought it a good plan to bring down money in gold.

16,634. How came you to know that unless he told you something about it?—He did tell me something about it.

16,635. What did he tell you?—He thought it a good plan to bring down 1,500*l.* in gold.

16,636. Did he tell you that while in your bedroom at the "Stars"?—I cannot tell.

16,637. Can you tell me how long before you left for town on private matters Mr. Edmonds told you it was necessary to bring down that money?—I should think very likely directly he knew I was going to town.

16,638. How long before your going to town did you tell Mr. Edmonds that you were going to town?—I think the Saturday before I went.

16,639. When did you go?—Either on the Monday or Tuesday.

16,640. Then you mean that Mr. Edmonds knew the Monday or Tuesday you were going up to town?—I should say he certainly did.

16,641. Can you fix upon the time, between when you told him that and the time you went to town, the date when he told you it would be a good plan to bring down 1,500*l.* in gold?—He may have told me on the Monday, not on the Sunday, because I was not here, or on the Saturday.

16,642. It would have been on the Monday that he probably told you?—Very probably, Saturday or Monday.

16,643. Monday or Tuesday he might have told you?—No; I think I went up on Monday.

16,644. Then it must have been on the Monday he told you?—Very probably.

16,645. Now you have got it to the Monday, the same day as you went, can you recollect anything about this interview in this bedroom?—I cannot.

16,646. (Mr. Longe.) You said you went up the other day between the 1st and the 8th?—I suppose it was the 1st to the 8th. I came down, I think, on the 27th. I am inclined to think I went up on the Tuesday.

16,647. (Mr. Coleridge.) Then it must either have been on the Monday or Tuesday that Mr. Edmonds told you this about the necessity of bringing money down in gold?—Very possibly it might be.

16,648. Though you cannot recollect this interview in the bedroom, can you recollect anything to do with Mr. Edmonds there immediately before you left?—I cannot, indeed.

16,649. You have no sort of recollection about that?—Nothing whatever, except that he was constantly at the "Seven Stars," and may have spoken to me several times before I left, and I have no recollection of it.

16,650. When you were at the "Seven Stars" on the first occasion, did you stay at No. 13, as afterwards?—I believe I did; my room was all through much alike.

16,651. (Mr. Longe.) Was it the same room?—I do not know whether it was the same room.

16,652. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was your impression? Was it the same?—I always thought it was No. 15, but I am inclined to think now it was No. 13.

16,653. You knew you would be back in a few days?—Yes.

16,654. Did you leave any of your clothes behind you, or take anything away on the first occasion?—I cannot tell. I think very likely I left my hat box.

16,655. Did you leave any of your dirty things to be washed?—I have no recollection of doing so.

16,656. What is your habit when staying at an hotel when you leave and coming back in a day or two?—It depends on the quantity of luggage I have.

16,657. What quantity had you on the first occasion?—A very large portmanteau.

16,658. A hat box?—I think a hat box.

16,659. Anything else?—Dressing bag and umbrella.

16,660. When you came back on the second occasion, what luggage had you then? The same portmanteau?—I must have taken my portmanteau up to London and brought it back.

16,661. And your dressing bag you took back to London, as you have told us?—I do not know.

16,662. Have you two?—I have a travelling dressing bag and a dressing case I left at home.

16,663. Was it your dressing case you brought on the first occasion or your dressing bag?—The dressing bag.

16,664. You have told us that you brought with you your portmanteau and dressing bag on the first occasion?—Yes.

16,665. And if you brought your dressing bag on the second occasion, it must have been the same as you brought on the first occasion?—Quite so.

16,666. Then we may assume that you took your dressing bag back on the first occasion?—I think you may assume that.

16,667. Then what did you leave behind?—I might not have left anything. I do not know of anything if I took the dressing case.

16,668. When you went away did you say anything about coming back shortly and should like to have the same room?—Very possibly I might.

16,669. Did you?—I cannot recollect.

16,670. Do you mean you cannot recollect?—I cannot recollect those things.

16,671. How did the money go from the bank to Essex Street?—In a cab.

16,672. What was it in?—It might have been in an office bag. I cannot tell.

16,673. Was not it in your own dressing bag?—I do not think it was.

16,674. Did you ever take your dressing bag to your office when you knew you were going off on a journey?—Yes, I should.

16,675. Did you take your dressing bag from your office to the bank, and there have the money put into it?—No; I think I took an ordinary clerk's bag.

16,676. Do you know whether you took your dressing bag to Essex Street?—No doubt of it.

16,677. You think you took your dressing bag?—No doubt.

16,678. Are you certain?—I am certain.

16,679. Do you recollect transferring the money to the dressing bag?—Yes.

16,680. The whole of it?—I think 500*l.* of it.

16,681. Then 500*l.* of it you put into your dressing bag?—Yes.

16,682. And the two other 500*l.* you gave to Mr. Daw?—Yes.

16,683. If you put 500*l.* into your dressing bag, what made you leave the other two loose?—Mr. Daw had his own portmanteau.

16,684. Why, if you put 500*l.* into your dressing bag, leave him to carry two loose canvas bags?—He must have packed them up in his portmanteau.

16,685. He has not told us he did anything of the sort; he has sworn that the whole three bags went loose to Paddington?

(Mr. Daw.) I beg your pardon; I said that the canvas bags were put inside a leather bag.

16,686. (Mr. Coleridge.) The canvas bags were put inside a leather bag by you?—No; the canvas bags were put in a leather bag when first I saw it.

16,687. That was not the leather bag to which Mr. Smith refers?—I am positive that 500*l.* of the money was in Mr. Smith's dressing bag.

16,688. That is exactly what he says.—I am positive of that.

16,689. The other two 500*l.* were put into a leather bag for you?—Yes.

16,690. (To Mr. Smith.) You have no recollection. I think I am correct here as to what Mr. Daw has said, that you handed one to the conductor or driver or somebody on your arrival at Totnes?—I certainly think I should not part with my bag.

16,691. When you came back with this money on the second occasion, did you go straight to No. 13 with a bag of money?—I should say most certainly I did.

16,692. You went up straight with the bag?—Yes.

16,693. What did Mr. Daw do with his; bring it to you? I will tell you fairly that Mr. Daw has stated that he went to your room, the portmanteau was opened, there was nothing in it, and there and then the bags were put in.

(Mr. Daw.) Mr. Smith had wearing apparel in his portmanteau.

16,694. (Mr. Coleridge.) Then did you take the bag out of your dressing bag and put it into your portmanteau?—I think I did.

16,695. Do you recollect what Mr. Daw did with the bags he had?—I think they were put in my portmanteau.

16,696. How long after they had been in your port-

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. F. Smith.

8 Sept. 1866.

manteau did you first deal with those bags in any way?—I should think the following day.

16,697. Not that night?—I have no recollection of it.

16,698. When did you give a bag to Mr. Lind?—I gave a bag to Mr. Lind when he came, and I told Mr. Lind he was to act under the authority of Mr. Edmonds.

16,699. He was not to part with the money unless he had authority from Mr. Edmonds?—Everything from him, yes.

16,700. How much money did you give Lind?—1,000*l.*

16,701. In two bags?—In two bags.

16,702. Did you part with that or your own 500*l.* first?—With my own first.

16,703. You say you gave it to Mr. Lind; were you in the room when Mr. Lind came for it?—I cannot recollect whether I was or not.

16,704. Did you take it to Mr. Lind or did Mr. Lind fetch it from you?—I should say he fetched it from my room.

16,705. Was that in consequence of the instructions you gave him?—Yes, I suppose it was.

16,706. You suppose you gave instructions to Mr. Lind to fetch the money, and having got the money he was to do whatever Mr. Edmonds told him?—Quite so.

16,707. Then Mr. Lind and Mr. Daw, from what they have told us today, did not come down merely to be a consolation to you, but to assist in the distribution of this money. You told us on the last occasion that you merely had your clerks down because you liked to have some one about you?—I am not aware that they paid any money away.

16,708. Did not you tell Mr. Daw in London that he was to go down and help about some money?

(Mr. Daw.) I did not state that.

16,709. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you tell Mr. Daw what to come down about?—I simply wanted him to come with me because I was unwell at the time.

16,710. Did he know or was he told what to go down about?—I do not think so.

16,711. Having got this money down, and having given 1,000*l.* to Mr. Lind, what was the next thing you did with the 500*l.*? Had the 500*l.* you kept been disposed of at the time Mr. Lind had the residue?—I do not know what became of it.

16,712. Did you part with the 500*l.* to Mr. Edmonds, as you have told us, before you gave the other two 500*l.* to Mr. Lind?—In all probability I did, but I do not recollect.

16,713. You do not know which went first?—I should say the first 500*l.*

16,714. How long after you came down did you find the whole of your money gone? You came down in the evening, as we have heard; what time in the morning was the whole of the money gone?—My clerk will explain that to you.

16,715. Your clerk has deposed to a conversation. What time after you had arrived had you got rid of your money? I think your clerk Mr. Daw said (he will correct me if I am wrong) his way of testing the knowledge of when the money was gone was that he heard about another cheque being wanted; can you recollect what time it was that all the money was gone?—I cannot, indeed.

16,716. Was it gone by 10 o'clock the following morning?—As far as I recollect it was not.

16,717. Did you distribute any money the night you came down?—I do not think that Mr. Edmonds came then.

16,718. Did you give Mr. Lind any money?

(Mr. Lind.) I was not at Totnes at that time.

16,719. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was your own 500*l.* gone the following morning?—I cannot say, but I think it was very likely.

16,720. Then the other 1,000*l.* remained till Mr. Lind came down?—No doubt about it.

16,721. Had you applications for that money in the meantime?—I should say certainly not.

16,722. If you had you would have given it?—I should have given it to Mr. Edmonds.

16,723. Or anybody else?—I do not suppose I should.

16,724. To John Heath?—Certainly not, unless I receive a private note from Mr. Edmonds to do so.

16,725. I want to put this to you, and give you plenty of time to answer the question. If No. 13 was the room to which Mr. Screach and Mr. Evens came and obtained the money, and it was also sworn distinctly that they obtained it from a stranger with grey whiskers, with dark hair, and one says with a moustache, and one says without, can you at all explain who that person could have been, the room being occupied by you?—Certainly not.

16,726. Was there, beyond the person who you told us came (and you are corroborated by Mr. Daw), any person you saw in the bar?—The small room behind the bar.

16,727. Can you, in addition to that, tell us of any other stranger who could have been making use of your room?—I do not believe there was anybody in my room, and could not believe it, because I was constantly backwards and forwards.

16,728. You believe it is altogether a mistake?—I do indeed, decidedly.

16,729. And altogether a mistake that there was any such person at all?—I do believe so.

16,730. Then where do you believe Screach and Evens got those various sums of money which were told out to them, that they have sworn to?—I cannot imagine, except through Mr. Edmonds.

16,731. If they have sworn it was not Edmonds, but a stranger, who told out the gold into the little bags they brought, you know nothing of it in the room No. 13?—Certainly not.

16,732. You told us the other day that you had just a casual conversation with the stranger at the bar, and nothing more?—Nothing in the room behind the bar. Mr. Heath told me there was someone who wanted to see me; I went down and saw a person there who hemmed and ha'd, and as far as I can recollect said, "Can I be "of any use in the election?" and I said, "Certainly "not," and walked out of the room. I believe an application was made by Mr. Heath whether I would pay the man's expenses, and I said, "No."

16,733. When did you first recollect that application about his expenses?—In conversation this morning with Mr. Daw; he says that I repeated it to him at the time.

16,734. When we examined you on the former occasion you did not recollect?—I did not.

16,735. Did you pay his expenses?—No.

16,736. You do not believe that a person afterwards occupied No. 13?—No, certainly not.

16,737. We have heard it sworn to here by Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Kellock that you were asked to bring down a person to do the needful, a stranger, or words to that effect?—I have no recollection of anything of the kind.

16,738. You have forgotten the conversation to which those two gentlemen have sworn; may it have been that the conversation took place, you acted upon it, and that somebody was sent down?—Certainly not; I never sent anybody down here.

16,739. It cannot have been then that you heard that and acted upon it?—No, I did not act upon it.

16,740. You are sure you did not?—I am sure.

16,741. Will you swear you did not hear and assent to that conversation?—They might have talked to me about it; they talked to me a great deal about the election.

16,742. It is a very essential point in an election to have sent down a stranger?—I am not conversant with elections.

16,743. You may have dissented or not, but have you any recollection of their saying that it was necessary to have a stranger?—Not any. If I had heard it I should certainly have declined.

16,744. Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Kellock have sworn that they suggested it to you, and that you assented to it?—I observed in Mr. Kellock's evidence that he doubted very much that he did so.

16,745. The last answer in the newspaper I have here is, "'I believe I was not present, I never heard "'of it.' The witness was pressed very much on "this point, and Mr. Kellock at length admitted that "he was present when the conversation took place?" —I have no recollection of it; Mr. Edmonds might have talked about it but I was never asked to do anything of the kind.

16,746. Do you recollect in a general conversation Mr. Edmonds saying more than you thought necessary on the subject?—Certainly not.

16,747. Have you an impression on your mind that Mr. Edmonds talked to you about matters that had better be left alone?—I do not quite understand.

16,748. Have you any impression that Mr. Edmonds mentioned matters which you would rather not have heard? Did you hear anything which you thought was sailing too near the wind?—No, I think not.

16,749. You have no impression, I do not ask you for your knowledge, have you an impression that anything was mentioned by Mr. Edmonds that you thought had been better left unsaid, about sending some person from London?—I might have heard Mr. Edmonds say that some one would be wanted, but he never said anything to me about it.

16,750. Did Mr. Edmonds in your presence to somebody else say, or soliloquising to himself say that somebody would be wanted to come down?—I cannot recollect.

16,751. Have you any recollection of something of the sort being said?—I cannot recollect at all; I do not think that Mr. Edmonds would venture to suggest such a thing to me.

16,752. He has sworn it?—I have no recollection at all of it. Is is entirely out of my way, these election matters.

16,753. Then you put it that you cannot recollect against two gentlemen who swear they did?

(Mr. Longe.) Here is the question, "Do you "recollect hearing Mr. Edmonds say, Mr. Smith, in "your presence that it would be necessary to have a "stranger down from London"?—I did hear that.

16,754. Then why did not you tell us that?—It was a long while ago, and you did not bring my mind to the circumstances.

16,755. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you always lock No. 13 when you went out of it?—I always did when I was in there myself. I cannot recollect.

16,756. You used to go to lie down because you were unwell?—Yes. If there was any money in the room in a portmanteau I have no doubt that I locked it.

16,757. Mr. Lind did not come down till the Sunday night, and you came on Friday?—Thursday, I think.

16,758. We must assume that there was 1,000*l.* in your room till the Sunday night, when Mr. Lind came down and you gave it to him?—Yes.

16,759. And you have no doubt that whenever you left your room during that time you locked your door outside?—I have no doubt.

16,760. Did you leave the key with John Heath?—No, certainly not; I put it in my pocket.

16,761. Do you know whether Mr. John Heath used your room in your absence?—No, it is utterly impossible that anyone could use my room, I was so constantly in and out of it.

16,762. We have heard from your clerks that each day you had a drive?—Only two I think while I was here.

16,763. Did you go out driving on the Friday?—Not on Friday, that was the day I arrived.

16,764. Did you go out on the Saturday?—I was absent from Saturday afternoon till Monday morning. I spent that time with Colonel Dawkins at Teignmouth.

16,765. You went from the Saturday to the Monday?—Yes, Saturday afternoon to Monday.

16,766. Did you leave your room with the door locked all that time?—It is very probable that Mr. Daw had the management of the money.

16,767. He had the control of the money in your absence?—Yes, I should think it is probable; I cannot recollect.

16,768. Do you recollect whether he had the key of your room while absent at Teignmouth?—I cannot recollect.

16,769. You kept your room, nobody else slept there?—I kept it no doubt.

16,770. Do you know whether Mr. John Heath ever went to your room in your absence?—I never heard so certainly; I should have thought it a great piece of impertinence.

16,771. I mean the landlord?—Mr. Heath was only once in my room, on the night of the nomination. I was lying down on the morning of the nomination.

16,772. We must take it by steps. Do you know on the Friday, the day after you arrived, Mr. Heath coming to your room at all?—I cannot recollect.

16,773. Can you recollect how long you were absent from your room on the Friday?—I arrived Friday morning.

16,774. Did you go out for a drive?—I think it is very unlikely.

16,775. You were about all the Friday on the business of the election?—Yes, with Colonel Dawkins.

16,776. Can you recollect at all whether you breakfasted with Colonel Dawkins on the Friday morning?—I breakfasted with him every morning.

16,777. When you left your room to go to breakfast, money being in your room, did you lock your door?—In all probability.

16,778. Before your room was done, so that the chambermaid could not get in?—I cannot recollect; If the money was in my portmanteau I may not have locked it.

16,779. You did not lock your portmanteau only, but your room?—I cannot recollect.

16,780. Should you say generally that if ever you left your room and there was money in your portmanteau you locked your door?—I should say I should.

16,781. You took the key away?—Yes.

16,782. After breakfast on the Friday what was the time you would be likely to return to your room?—A few minutes after breakfast.

16,783. You found your room still undone; the chambermaid had not been?—Very frequently.

16,784. What did you do after this; when you went away again did you lock your door again?—I should say I did.

16,785. Then was your room done when you were present?—No; I have told you that when I left the room to go to breakfast I left the door unlocked. I thought I said so.

16,786. Then was it that you think you went to breakfast and left the room unlocked?—I should I say did.

16,787. You went and came back and found the room done?—If not done I went for a stroll, and came back and found it done.

16,788. Leaving your door unlocked?—Yes.

16,789. And what time did you come back?—11 or 12.

16,790. And what time did you breakfast?—About half-past 9 or 10 generally.

16,791. During your breakfast hour, and probably your stroll afterwards, you left your door unlocked?—I should say I did.

16,792. Was your portmanteau locked?—Yes.

16,793. Was the little black dressing bag inside the portmanteau or not?—No.

16,794. Where was the dressing bag, on the table or the chair at the foot of the bed?—Somewhere in the room; I cannot say where.

16,795. According to what you have said there were two periods in the morning at which your room door was unlocked; and if you came back at 12 to your room and found the room done and again went down, would you lock the door again?—I should say I did.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. F. Smith.

8 Sept. 1866.

16,796. So we may take it that all through the afternoon your door was locked?—I should say it was.

16,797. Then you went and dined with Colonel Dawkins in the evening, I suppose?—Yes.

16,798. Should you keep the door locked then?—I should say I did; I cannot say positively.

16,799. This is very important as to the probability of anybody else using your room in your absence?—It is utterly impossible; I was backwards and forwards so much, and was lying down nearly the whole day frequently.

16,800. Nearly the whole of the first day, Friday?—Very likely I was; I cannot say.

16,801. Very nearly the whole of the next day, Saturday?—It depends on how I felt.

16,802. Did you as a general rule feel unwell while down here?—Some days I did.

16,803. Do you remember whether on Saturday you went for a drive and locked the door?—I should say it was locked, but I cannot say.

16,804. And you cannot tell of course whether any other of the keys of the doors in the hotel would open your room?—I do not. I think there is only one door to my room.

16,805. Do you know whether the keys of other doors would open it?—No.

16,806. Did you ever hear any complaint of people being in your room in your absence?—No.

16,807. Did you ever make a complaint?—Never.

16,808. Can you at all then account for the statements that have been made by four different people about No. 13?—I cannot; it must be a perfect mistake.

16,809. You can hardly put it in such a mild way; it must be an absolute falsehood on the part of those persons?—An absolute falsehood.

16,810. Because it is right to bring it distinctly to your memory that your own clerks have accounted for No. 15, No. 14, and No. 13, and it is No. 13 to which it is sworn that people went to get money from the mysterious stranger; so it must be an absolute falsehood?—An absolute falsehood, unless it was Mr. Edmonds came up for that 500*l.*

16,811. I am not alluding to that?—It is then an absolute falsehood.

16,812. (Mr Longe.) Have you had any conversation with Mr. Heath since you have been down here about this matter?—I do not think I have, with the exception of when I was coming here on Tuesday, he said that he was prepared to go through a strict examination as regards Mr. Mum; he said that to me as I was leaving the hotel.

16,813. Have you mentioned to him the discrepancies in your evidence and his as to the interview with the false Mr. Mum?—No, I have not. I have not seen him for the last few days.

16,814. Then that statement of yours was correct, that the man came down and was sent back again?—I understood from Mr. Heath that he had left the hotel.

16,815. What did you say to him?—Only that which I have repeated before. Will you allow me to say that I am more anxious than you are to find out who Mr. Mum is.

16,816. Coming down as you did as the confidential friend of Colonel Dawkins, and having the special function of bringing his money down, as I understand, you were responsible to him, and undertook that the money should be properly distributed?—I was to distribute it to his agents here; he had requested Mr. Edmonds to act for him.

16,817. Colonel Dawkins never understood from you that you had passed over your responsibility to Mr. Edmonds. Did anything to that effect take place?—No; I should have been responsible.

16,818. Then do you mean to say that having this money in your hands you merely passed it over to Mr. Edmonds, and took no further part in the distribution of the money?—Quite so. I had no control over the money after it had passed out of my hands.

16,819. Did you have any conversation with Mr. Heath, senior, as to the distribution of this money?—Certainly not.

16,820. Not a word?—Not a syllable.

16,821. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever have a list of voters before you?—I may have seen it.

16,822. With sums of money appended to their names?—Oh, dear, no. I only saw the printed list.

16,823. Can you assist us in solving the problem who this mysterious stranger was?—I wish I could. I would give 50*l.* if I could find out the man.

16,824. Do you believe that anyone was there at all?—I do not believe it.

16,825. If so, could it be anyone in the world who distributed this money, except either Mr. Heath himself or one of his sons?—I know nothing about that.

16,826. Mr. Edmonds has sworn that he sent the money to some one who he imagines to have been a mysterious stranger, in No. 13. Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Kellock have both sworn to that. You are without doubt the inhabitant of No. 13. Screach and Evens say that in No. 13 they received the money from some disguised individual; the question is could anyone have had access to that room besides yourself except Mr. Heath or his son?—I should say not.

16,827. Except those occasions you have told us of about leaving the door open, as a general rule you took the key and locked the door?—My impression is that I did; I cannot say for certain. I am certain of this, that the money was under lock and key; my impression is that I locked the door, but I cannot say.

16,828. You always kept the portmanteau locked?—Decidedly.

16,829. Did you ever leave the portmanteau open with the money in it and the door of the room locked?—No.

16,830. Then you would like to correct your former statement; you cannot go further than to say that you always kept the money locked up, but you cannot say that you locked the door?—I cannot say that I kept the door locked.

16,831. Did you ever lock the door except when you were lying down?—I cannot say that I did not.

16,832. The whole of your examination has proceeded on the hypothesis that you kept the door locked?—I knew that the money was under lock and key. I have not sworn that I locked the door, only to the best of my belief.

16,833. Do you think that you did?—I should think so.

16,834. Are you equally positive, that if you locked the door you did not leave the key with Mr. Heath at the bar when you went out?—Decidedly not. If I locked the door the key would remain in my pocket.

16,835. Did you ever tell Mr. Heath that the money was in your room?—I am not aware of it.

16,836. Or did you hear anyone tell him so in your presence?—Certainly not.

16,837. Can you swear that you did lock the door, or you did not?—I cannot swear that I did.

16,838. The door being left open, it may be the whole of the day, anyone might have use your room in your absence?—They might have gone in and out of the room; they would not have used it.

16,839. Mr. Daw says that one or two days you went for a drive?—One day we went to Torquay, and another day to Mr. Champernowne's.

16,840. Going to Torquay you would be absent three or four hours?—Yes.

16,841. If the door had been open during that time anyone else might have gone into your room?—In my absence they might, certainly.

16,842. And if by an extraordinary coincidence Mr. Heath had known the money was there he might have obtained it?—If he had unlocked my portmanteau.

16,843. You are quite certain you locked your portmanteau?—I am certain of it.

16,844. (Mr. Longe.) When did Mr. Heath come to you and say that a man wanted to see you?—I think it must have been either on the Friday or the Saturday morning.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. F. Smith

8 Sept. 1866.

16,845. Was that the first day you came?—The first or the second day that I came.

16,846. What time of the day?—I think it was in the morning, between 10 and 12; he said that some one wanted to see me, and pointed to the room where he was.

16,847. Did he say anything more?—No.

16,848. He did not give you to understand what the man wanted?—I do not think so.

16,849. From what he said to you did you understand the object for which the man had come?—I think he may have said, "I suppose he is come about "the election."

16,850. You went to this room behind the bar?—I was passing the bar at the time that Mr. Heath spoke to me, and then I went in there.

16,851. Was Mr. Heath with you?—No.

16,852. Did you ask him what he had come about?—I think he spoke first.

16,853. Did he say anything about coming from the club?—Certainly not; he said he came about the election.

16,854. Did he not give you his name?—No, nor did I ask him. I said, "What do you want"? and he said, "Can I be of any use?" and speaking to the best of my recollection, I said, "Certainly not," and I walked out of the room.

16,855. Did you see Mr. Heath there?—I do not think I saw Mr. Heath until an hour after.

16,856. And then did you speak to him or he to you?—I think Mr. Heath afterwards asked me if I would pay the man's expenses, and I said, no. I believe that is all that took place.

16,857. Nothing took place between you and Mr. Heath to explain this man's being sent back again?—Nothing of the kind.

16,858. You understand from Mr. Heath that he was sent back?—I heard from some source or other that he had left the hotel; that was either the 8th or 9th of July.

JOHN SANDFORD SCREACH recalled and further examined.

Mr. J. S. Screach

16,859. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you still adhere to your statement, that during the election the gentleman who supplied you with money was in No. 13?—Most certainly.

16,860. You have no doubt about that?—No; I took particular notice of the door.

16,861. What days were you in No. 13?—On the Monday and Tuesday.

16,862. Were you there at all on the Saturday?—I was not.

16,863. At what hour on the Monday were you in No. 13?—To the best of my recollection, the first order I had given to me was the day preceding the nomination day about half past 10 or 11 in the morning.

16,864. Was that in No. 13?—Yes.

16,865. Who sent you to No. 13 on that occasion?—That was when Brown, the waiter, called me, and the stranger was standing at the foot of the stairs; he either said, "That is Screach," or "Screach, that is "the gentleman," and I followed him to No. 13.

16,866. When you got to No. 13, had you any conversation with him before he gave you the money?—He gave me a list.

16,867. Did you hear his voice?—Yes, distinctly.

16,868. You have heard the gentleman who has been just now examined, is he the person who gave you the money?—The only thing in which Mr. Smith resembles the man from whom I had the money is with regard to his whiskers, as I told him at the "Stars."

16,869. Could you recognize him by his voice?—I could not.

16,870. Was he the same sort of person in size?—I think the description would answer as to size.

16,871. You are quite certain this person had a dark wig and black moustache?—I am.

16,872. And you were struck with the difference in the colour of his hair and his wig?—I was.

16,873. Beyond that you cannot answer?—I cannot, indeed.

16,874. (Mr. Longe.) Did you know it was not Mr. Heath himself?—I should not say it was Mr. Heath; I could not positively say; but Mr. Heath's whiskers are all but white; this gentleman's were a little tinged with grey.

16,875. Do you remember any other fact inconsistent with the supposition that would render it improbable that the man who dealt with you was Mr. Heath?—I do not.

16,876. You know nothing that would render it impossible; did you ever see the two together?—No. I would not undertake to swear it was Mr. Heath, I cannot undertake to swear it was not.

16,877. How long have you known Mr. Heath?—I have known Mr. Heath ever since I was a boy.

16,878. And you are in the habit of seeing him I suppose almost every day?—I see him very often.

16,879. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you mean to say that the mere disguise of a black moustache and a wig would prevent you from being able to recognize Mr. Heath?—I do not know that it would.

16,880. Can you swear that it was not Mr. Heath?—I think I may swear with every amount of confidence that it was not Mr. Heath.

16,881. Will you swear it was not Mr. Heath?—I will swear solemnly it was not Mr. Heath; this is the only gentleman who answers that description.

16,882. Can you swear it was not the gentleman who was in No. 13?—I believe I can swear it was not him; still he answers to the description I have given.

16,883. You can swear that you saw someone who gave you money?—I can.

16,884. (Mr. Longe.) Had you much conversation with him?—I had not.

16,885. Whatever conversation you had with him was very short?—It was very short.

16,886. And very few words passed between you?—Very few.

16,887. Did you ever see him in broad daylight?—No; the blinds were always down.

16,888. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you there on the nomination day?—No; I had settled with all my men on the Monday.

16,889. There has been a frightful scene of perjury on the one side or the other in relation to this matter. I suppose you know Mr. Heath intimately?—Yes, as well as I know anyone.

16,890. And you say that you know his voice. Did the gentleman who spoke to you at all resemble Mr. Heath in voice?—I should say not, for this reason, that Mr. Heath speaks a little through his nose, and I do not recollect that this gentleman did so.

16,891. Does that gentleman's voice, Mr. Smith's, at all resemble the voice of the gentleman who spoke to you in the room?—I do not recollect; I could not undertake to swear.

16,892. Does it at all resemble it?—I do not recollect the voice; he spoke in a very soft, easy tone.

16,893. Do you believe that this gentleman, Mr. Smith, was in No. 13?—I do not believe that this gentleman is the one I received the money from.

16,894. Do you believe that he is the gentleman who was occupying No. 13?—I do not know.

16,895. How often on the Monday were you in No. 13?—Two or three times during the day.

16,896. You were there between 9 and 10; what was the next time you were there?—About one o'clock.

16,897. When were you there again?—I was not there again until I returned from Bovey Tracey. I think I came back about 8 o'clock. I went by the express, took a cab to Bovey Tracey, and returned by the train that left Newton at 7.30.

16,898. The time you have accounted for would be the time when Mr. Smith would have been most likely to be absent from his room?—At that time, according to one of the gentleman's evidence, Mr. Smith was absent at Torquay.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. J. S. Screach.

8 Sept. 1866.

16,899. (Mr. Coleridge to Mr. Smith.) Do you recollect what time you went to Torquay?

(Mr. Smith.) I think we started about three. We dined at Torquay that day.

16,900. (Mr. Coleridge.) About what time did you get back?—About nine.

16,901. (Mr. Coleridge to J. S. Screach.) Do you still maintain that you received the money in No. 13?—I do, most certainly.

16,902. And you swear that Mr. Heath was not the person who gave it you?—I think I may do so positively.

16,903. You do not think that Mr. Smith is the person?—I cannot undertake to say that Mr. Smith is the man.

16,904. Did you receive the money in some other place?—On my oath I received no money from Mr. Heath, not one farthing, at the last election, or at any of the borough elections.

16,905. Did you receive any money from Mr. John Heath, junior?—I did not; nor from George Heath.

16,906. Nor from any person except the mysterious stranger?—I did not, on my oath.

16,907. (Mr. Longe.) Your conversation with this stranger was very short?—He must evidently have been informed about me and my whereabouts. If you keep me here till Christmas day I can only tell the truth. You will get no more from me.

16,908. You stated before the Committee that you saw so little of him that, beyond the mere circumstance of his having a wig on, you could not tell him from the gentleman who was examining you?—That was merely a bit of bravado on my part. I hardly knew what I was about when Mr. Serjeant Ballantine was badgering me.

16,909. Did any long conversation ever take place between you and him?—No, not the slightest; he merely gave me the list.

16,910. And whenever you saw him he had his wig and moustache on?—He had, most decidedly.

16,911. You never saw him without those?—No.

16,912. And you never saw him and either of the Mr. Heaths together?—I did not, to my knowledge.

16,913. Was it Brown, the waiter at the "Seven "Stars" hotel, from whom you received this money you have been speaking of?—No, he was a much taller man than Brown.

Mr. S. Brown.

SAMUEL BROWN recalled and further examined.

16,914. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is that the gentleman (pointing to Mr. Smith) who occupied No. 13 at the election?—I believe not.

16,915. It was a mistake when you said that a mysterious stranger occupied No. 13?—It was no mistake of mine that I am aware of.

16,916. You say that No. 13 was the room occupied by the mysterious stranger?—I did not say it was occupied; all I know is that he called his No. 13.

16,917. Is there a No. 13 sittingroom?—No.

16,918. Look at Mr. Smith and tell me is he the gentleman whom you knew as the mysterious stranger?—He is not.

16,919. And no disguise would make him like that man?—I cannot tell.

16,920. Had the mysterious stranger dark hair and moustache?—Yes, to the best of my recollection.

16,921. Assuming that Mr. Smith had a dark wig and moustache, would he be like that person?—I cannot assume. If I saw him so I might answer that.

16,922. You told us the other day that the mysterious stranger occupied No. 13, or called himself No. 13. If Mr. Smith is No. 13, he is not the person whom you refer to?—No, not that I am aware of.

Mr. F. Evens.

Mr. FREDERICK EVENS recalled and further examined.

16,923. (Mr. Coleridge.) You have said that you went to No. 13 and got various sums of money from a mysterious stranger with dark hair and moustache and light whiskers?—Yes, rather grey.

16,924. You think his hair was natural?—I am sure it was natural.

16,925. You have heard Screach say that he thought he wore a wig?—I have heard Screach's evidence, but the gentleman whom I saw was not disguised in any way.

16,926. Is Mr. Smith who is sitting there the person whom you saw?—No.

16,927. Is he at all like him?—Not at all.

16,928. You always saw the same person?—I always saw the same person.

16,929. And no other?—No other, only one.

16,930. On the Saturday before the election how often were you in No. 13?—I dare say four or five times during the day.

16,931. Did you ever see Mr. Smith in No. 13?—I never saw him in No. 13.

16,932. On the Monday did you go to No. 13 at all?—I did.

16,933. How often did you go there?—Three or four times. I was there by 8 o'clock in the morning.

16,934. Was Mr. Smith there?—No.

16,935. Are you quite certain of that?—I am certain of it.

16,936. Was there any gentleman there in bed?—There was no one there in bed.

16,937. How long have you known the "Seven Stars"?—All my life.

16,938. Have you been over the house since the last election?—No.

16,939. Have you ever known the numbers of the rooms to have been changed?—I do not know that I have.

16,940. Have they always been the same in your recollection?—They have.

16,941. You were there at 8 o'clock, and Mr. Smith was not there in bed or out of bed?—I did not see him.

16,942. But you must have seen him if he had been in bed?—I must have seen him; the room is not so large but that I must have seen him.

16,943. At what other time were you there during that day?—About 12 o'clock.

16,944. Was Mr. Smith there then?—No; there was no one there but the stranger.

16,945. When were you there again?—I think about 3 o'clock.

16,946. Was Mr. Smith there then?—No.

16,947. Was the stranger there?—The stranger was there.

16,948. When were you there again?—In the evening about 11.

16,949. Was Mr. Smith there then?—No.

16,950. Was the stranger there then?—He was.

16,951. On all these occasions was the door locked when you came to it?—On all occasions the door was locked before I came in and after I got in.

16,952. Did you hear the door locked again after you went out?—Yes.

16,953. Did you see Mr. Smith on the Tuesday?—No.

16,954. How early did you go there?—I was there pretty early; 6 or 7 o'clock.

16,955. Was Mr. Smith in bed then?—No; if he was in bed he was very quiet.

16,956. You only saw the stranger?—I only saw the stranger.

16,957. You never saw Mr. Smith in No. 13?—I never saw him there, to the best of my knowledge.

16,958. You have seen the stranger there?—Yes.

16,959. And Mr. Smith could not be disguised in that form?—No.

16,960. You are quite certain that No. 13 was the room?—Yes, I am positive of that.

16,961. (Mr. Longe.) Will you swear you never saw that person before?—I never saw him before or since.

16,962. Did you know Colonel Dawkins' valet?—I did not know him; I might have seen him.

16,963. Was he ever pointed out to you?—I think I was at the "Stars" one evening and he came in there; he was rather a peculiar sort of man. I asked who he was, and I was told he was Colonel Dawkins' valet.

16,964. Was he the mysterious stranger?—No, he was not at all like him.

16,965. Will you swear it was not one of the Heaths whom you received this money from?—I will swear it was neither of the Heaths.

16,966. Did you receive this money from some one who has not been examined on this occasion?—I received the money from a gentleman I have not seen since the election.

16,967. You say it was not John Heath, junior?—It was not him; I know him so well.

16,968. Was the voice of the person like John Heath senior?—No; not at all.

16,969. Like young Mr. Heath?—No.

16,970. Like the gentleman examined to-day?—No.

16,971. Who was it?—I cannot tell.

16,972. Will you describe the furniture of No. 13, where is the bed?—On the right.

16,973. Where is the window?—Facing the door.

16,974. When you went in on the nomination day was the blinds down all the time?—The blinds were down all the time.

16,975. You went at 6 o'clock in the morning and frequently during the nomination day, were the blinds down all the time?—Yes.

16,976. If a gentleman has stated he saw Mr. Heath in the room he must be labouring under a mistake?—I am sure it must be.

16,977. You are sure that if Mr. Heath was in the room that no gentleman could have seen him in the street?—Quite sure of it.

16,978. Then there is a bed and dressing table in the room?—Yes, near the window. I think rather on the left.

16,979. That is the room you have known as No. 13?—Yes.

16,980. You have no doubt whatever that the only room you went into during the election to receive money was No. 13?—I am sure of it, with the exception of the room downstairs.

16,981. That was No. 15?—It might be No. 15, but I would not be positive.

16,982. (Mr. Bere.) Describe to me this room 13, do you enter it from the passage?—From the passage.

16,983. As you go upstairs which way do you turn?—To the left.

16,984. Where would the door be, to the right or the left?—After you got on the landing and turned the door would be on the right.

16,985. When you get to the door how does it open?—Against the bed.

16,986. What size room is it?—A room 20 by 15.

16,987. What height?—About eight or nine feet high.

16,988. How is it carpeted?—I didn't take any particular notice of the carpet.

16,989. Is it in strips or carpeted all over?—All over.

16,990. What sort of bed is it?—A four-post bed or half-tester.

16,991. You say Mr. Smith must have lain very quiet in bed, but you may not have seen him if the curtains were drawn and it was a four-post bed, but if it was a half-tester you must have seen him?—I think it was a four-post bed.

16,992. What were the curtains made of, dimity, or what?—I cannot say.

16,993. How many windows are there in the room?—Only one.

16,994. Has that window got curtains?—I did not notice anything but the roller blind.

16,995. As far as you know there were no curtains?—I do not know.

16,996. You open the door against the bed and there is a fireplace opposite the bed?—I do not know.

16,997. You must know. You must have taken particular notice of the room in which you were so often, and in which you stayed so long on such important business?—I took more notice of the business than of the room.

16,998. I wish you had taken notice of the room, it is very important. Do you know how many chairs were in the room?—I cannot say how many.

16,999. Was there an easy chair there?—I rather think there was.

17,000. Was there a chest of drawers or a wardrobe?—I do not know.

17,001. Was there a dressing table?—Yes, a dressing table.

17,002. Now it is part of your business to look at the furniture of a room, you are a cabinet maker yourself and it is a thing you would observe whether the furniture wanted to be done?—Perhaps on another occasion I might have taken notice of it.

17,003. Do you do the cabinet work for the "Seven Stars"?—I used to do it.

17,004. Don't you do it now?—No.

17,005. Had you ceased to do it at the time the election happened?—Yes.

17,006. Can you tell us the things that were on the dressing table?—A looking glass, I know.

17,007. Do you know the sort of travelling bag people carry with them, a green morocco bag with gilt mounting?—Yes.

17,008. Did you see such a bag as that in the room?—No.

17,009. Was the four-post bed birch, beech, or mahogany?—I cannot say.

17,010. Where did the money come from?—From a square box.

17,011. By the side of the bed?—Yes.

17,012. Was there a chair between the door and the bed?—No. I didn't notice a chair there.

17,013. Did you ever get any money except the money you took from Mr. Edmonds? Didn't you take that very identical 500*l.* and distribute it?—No, I did not.

17,014. Where is the washing table?—I think at the right, at the end of the bed; and as well as I can recollect since I think I recollect that the fireplace is on the inside of the bed, on the right of the bed.

17,015. Between the door and the bed?—Oh, no.

17,016. Between the window and the bed?—Between the bed and the wall, in the centre of the wall.

17,017. Where is the bed?—Close inside the door. The door opened here (describing), close by the wall, then the door went back against the bed as well I can recollect, and then the fireplace was inside the bed.

17,018. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was No. 9 during the time of the election?—As far as I can recollect that was the poll room, where a poll was kept.

17,019. Did you ever call that the bribery room?—No.

17,020. Did you ever send a man named Willis there?—No, he was speaking to me about it just now, but he made a mistake about the number.

17,021. Have you made a mistake in the number?—No; I am sure about that.

17,022. You're sure that No. 9 was not the room in which the mysterious stranger was?—I am sure about it.

17,023. Are you sure there was a mysterious stranger?—Yes, I am certain of it.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. F. Evens.

17,024. It was no one you knew before?—No.

17,025. You can undertake to say it was not Mr. Heath?—I can undertake to say it was not.

17,026. Not Mr. John Heath, Mr. James Heath, or Mr. George Heath?—No.

17,027. Will you swear it was not Mr. Smith?—Yes.

17,028. Wasn't it Mr. Lind sitting under you?—No.

17,029. You can swear that distinctly?—Yes.

17,030. Not the gentleman sitting next to him (Mr. Daw)?—No.

17,031. He was a man about 40 or 50?—Yes, with slight grey whiskers.

17,032. You never sent Mr. Willis to No. 9?—No.

17,033. Where did you send him to?—Nowhere. He came and asked me for some money, I think I saw him outside No. 8.

17,034. Isn't No. 8 Mr. Kellock's and Mr. Edmonds' room?—Yes; I was coming downstairs and met him on the landing.

17,035. Tell us what took place?—He asked me for some money. He was going away with those lame ducks and wanted some money.

17,036. What did you say to him?—I gave him 6*l.* or 7*l.*, and told him to take care not to let any persons get tampering with them.

17,037. To take care of the ducks?—Yes.

17,038. Did you tell him where to go and get the 6*l.* or 7*l.*?—No, I had it in my pocket.

17,039. Did you mention No. 9 to him?—No.

17,040. Did you mention No. 10 to him?—No.

17,041. (Mr. Bere.) Did you call it the bribery-room?—No.

17,042. What did you call the room you sent Willis to?—I didn't send him to any room.

17,043. (Mr. Coleridge.) What is the room opposite Mr. Edmonds', No. 8?—The front room.

17,044. What is the name of it?—I cannot tell you.

17,045. Is it No. 9?—No, that was the other side of the house.

17,046. What room is it opposite No 8?—It is the front room.

17,047. What is the number of it?—I do not know.

17,048. Is it the ball room?—No.

17,049. Where is the room the committee sat, is it No. 8?—No, it was in the front room the committee sat.

17,050. Do you recollect sending young Willis to that room?—No.

17,051. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever give any room in the "Seven Stars" the name of the bribery room? Never.

17,052. Never in your life?—No.

17,053. Not even No. 13?—No.

17,053*. Come here, will you?—(The witness went and described on a piece of paper the position of the rooms.)

17,054. Has No. 13 got a door opposite to it?—Oh, no.

17,055. No. 14?—No.

17,056. Is there a little door going off here from the gallery?—You come in here, and there is a door in front (describing). It is a curious sort of place.

Mr. J. S. Screach.

JOHN SANDFORD SCREACH recalled and further examined.

17,057. (Mr. Bere.) When you come upstairs to come to No. 13 how you get at it?—Turn round to the right.

17,058. How many doors from where you turn is No. 13?—I do not know that I ever counted the numbers.

17,059. Is it the first door or the last?—Nearly to the end.

17,060. How does the door open, to the left or to the right?—The rooms are all on the left.

17,061. But the door of the room itself?—I think it is on the left hand side and opens inward, but I would not be certain.

17,062. On which side of the door is the handle?—I cannot say.

17,063. Does it open that way or this way (describing)?—The door opens into the room, I think.

17,064. Does it open to the left?—No, I think it turns to the right; it falls back against the bed.

17,065. What sort of bed is it?—I didn't take any particular notice; it is a four-post bed with furniture round it.

17,066. Where is the fireplace?—That I do not know; my time was very short.

17,067. Is the room carpeted?—Yes, I think it is.

17,068. All over?—Yes, I think it is; and I am sure that the curtains of the bed were drawn.

17,069. Do you know the sort of travelling dressing bags that people have? Have you ever seen them?—I dare say I have seen them.

17,070. Green morocco with gilt mountings?—No doubt I have, but I do not recollect.

17,071. Did you see such a thing in the bedroom?—I don't recollect it.

17,072. Was it left on the dressing table?—I do not know.

17,073. Did you say that it was 1865 that the money was taken from the china bowl, or in 1863?—In 1863.

17,074. In 1865 he took it from the side of the bed?—Yes; he went to the other side of the bed.

17,075. Are you quite certain that No. 13 is the 1865 room; may you not be confounding it with the 1863?—I do not think I am.

Mr. W. J. Willis.

WILLIAM JOHN WILLIS sworn and examined.

17,076. What are you?—A butcher.

17,077. Did you go to the "Seven Stars" during the election of 1865?—Yes.

17,078. Did Mr. Edmonds tell you to go down there?—No.

17,079. Who told you then?—No one told me to go.

17,080. Did you go of your own accord and meet Mr. Evens there?—I went there.

17,081. For what purpose had you gone to the "Seven Stars"?—I went on the nomination day.

17,082. To see whom?—No one in particular.

17,083. When you went to the "Seven Stars" did you see Mr. Frederick Evens?—I went in the morning first.

17,084. Did you see Mr. Frederick Evens at any time?—Yes.

17,085. Had you got a telegram with you when you went to the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

17,086. Was it a telegram from James Page?—Yes.

17,087. Did you show that to Mr. Edmonds?—Yes.

17,088. What did he tell you to do with it?—To go to Exeter and see him.

17,089. As you were going to see Mr. Edmonds did you meet Mr. Evens?—I saw Mr. Evens in the passage. I asked him where Mr. Edmonds was, and he said upstairs.

17,090. Did he say where?—I knew pretty well where he sat.

17,091. Did you go straight to the room where he sat?—Yes.

17,092. How did you know Mr. Edmonds' room?—It was the committee room.

17,093. Had you heard it called by any other name?—No. I have heard there was a little room, the one opposite the other.

17,094. Is No. 9 the room opposite No. 8?—I do not know the rooms at all.

17,095. Was it called the bribery room?—I never heard it called by that name.

17,096. Have you never heard it called the bribery room?—I may have heard Evens say it, but I would not swear to that.

17,097. Have you any doubt that Mr. Evens did call it the bribery room?—I do not know at all that; he might have said so.

17,098. Are you sure he didn't?—I would not say that.

17,099. You did go to this room?—Yes.

Mr. JOHN HEATH recalled and further examined.

17,100. (Mr. Bere.) Have the numbers of the bedrooms of the "Seven Stars" always been the same?—To my knowledge they have.

17,101. They have never been altered by your orders?—No.

17,102. Not to your knowledge?—No; no painting. The numbers are painted on.

17,103. Where there ever numbers put on a piece of paper and pasted on, to your knowledge?—Not to my knowledge.

17,104. Did you ever know of such a thing being done?—I think I have seen No. 8 pasted over "private."

17,105. Any other number?—No.

17,106. Was there a piece of paper over it in the time of the election?—There was at one door, I think, but I am not certain.

17,107. Was there any piece of paper pasted over any of the bedroom doors?—Not to my knowledge.

17,108. Have you had the furniture in any of the rooms changed since 1865?—Not changed with my knowledge; but I have nothing to do with the bedrooms; Mrs. Heath looks after them.

17,109. Who looks after the arrangement of the furniture?—My wife.

(Mr. Bere.) There is great uncertainty as the description of No. 13, and we are now going to adjourn the Commission to the "Seven Stars," that the witnesses may be examined there.

The Commissioners adjourned accordingly to the "Seven Stars" hotel.

Mr. SMITH recalled.

17,110. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is this the room you slept in, No. 13?—Yes, no doubt. I thought it was 15, but I am certain this is it.

17,111. (Mr. Bere.) Is the furniture the same as when you were here?—I think so.

17,112. (Mr. Coleridge.) There was contradictory evidence; some one said it looked on the plains, and could not be seen from opposite.

MARIA POMEROY recalled.

17,113. (Mr. Bere.) Is this the room the stranger sat in?—I do not recollect.

17,114. Is this the room you saw the bag in?—Yes.

17,115. Did Mr. Smith sleep in here during the election?—I do not think he did.

17,116. Did the gentleman lie on his bed half the day who was here?—I never found it so.

17,117. Mr. Smith says he locked his door when he went out of the room. Did you find the door locked?—I never found the door locked.

17,118. Mr. Smith says this was the room he slept in?—I do not remember.

17,119. (Mr. Coleridge.) And his clerks say they had No. 14 and 15?—I do not remember it.

17,120. (Mr. Bere.) Is there a No. 31 in the house?—No.

17,121. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have the numbers been changed since?—No.

17,122. Have you two Nos. 13?—No, we have two Nos. 20.

17,123. You have never seen a number pasted on a piece of paper?—I never saw such a thing in my life.

17,124. You must have known if it was so?—I think so.

17,125. (Mr. Longe.) Did you see the gentleman coming out of the room?—Yes.

17,126. Was it Mr. Smith?—As far as I can recollect it was not Mr. Smith.

17,127. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was it Mr. Smith's clerks?—Those clerks that have come today? I do not recollect them.

17,128. (Mr. Longe.) Did you recognize the gentleman when you saw him. Had you seen him in the hotel before?—I do not recollect. If I saw the gentleman I do not know that I should know him.

17,129. (Mr. Coleridge.) Where did Colonel Dawkins' valet sleep?—No. 11 at the end of the house.

17,130. You are sure you did not see Mr. Smith?—No.

17,131. What was the man like?—Like another man.

17,132. Was he dark or fair?—I could not say.

17,133. You are sure it was not Mr. Smith?—Sure.

17,134. And not one of his clerks?—I do not remember his clerks.

17,135. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Smith says he had the room No. 15?—I do not remember it.

17,136. (Mr. Coleridge.) So do his clerks.

(Witness.) If I knew it I would say so. It is no benefit to me to tell a lie.

Mr. CHARLES JAMES DAW recalled.

17,137. (Mr. Bere.) Is this the room Mr. Smith slept in, No. 13?—Yes.

17,138. (To Mr. Lind.) Are you sure of it, Mr. Lind?—(Mr. Lind.) Yes.

MARIA POMEROY recalled.

17,139. (Mr. Bere.) Is either of these the gentleman you met coming in (referring to Mr. Daw and Mr. Lind)?—No.

17,140. Quite certain?—I do not know; I think I am.

17,141. (Mr. Longe.) Was it the gentleman who slept here?—It must have been the gentleman who slept here, or he would not be going into this room.

17,142. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you ever recollect the meeting the chambermaid, Mr. Lind, as you were coming here one morning after breakfast?

(Mr. Lind.) I do not recollect it. I saw Mr. Smith frequently in bed; he was very unwell.

(Mr. Daw.) With reference to the room I speak positively from this, that I saw Mr. Smith and Mr. Heath sitting in here; we could see him from the hustings. The hustings was just out there on the plains. Mr. Smith was afraid someone from those windows would see the portmanteau, and he was very angry once or twice to find the blind pulled up one morning.

17,143. (Mr. Bere.) Is this the room, No. 14, which you slept in, Mr. Daw?

(Mr. Daw.) Yes.

17,144. And is this the room you slept in, Mr. Lind, Room 15?

(Mr. Lind.) Yes.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. F. Evens.

8 Sept. 1866.

FREDERICK EVENS recalled.

17,145. (Mr. Bere.) Which was the room you went to?—This is it, No. 13.

17,146. Are you quite certain?—Yes, this is the room.

17,147. How do you identify this room?—Only by the number and by the position of the room.

17,148. The blinds were always down?—Yes; always down like they are now.

17,149. Do you recollect any time Mr. Smith complaining of the blinds being up?—No.

17,150. Do you recollect at any time the blind being up, so that the portmanteau might be seen?—No.

17,151. Where was the portmanteau?—Here (describing behind the bed).

17,152. Do you recollect the chest of drawers?—I do not recollect it.

17,153. Was that washing-stand there?—There were not two; there was a Pembroke table stood there.

17,154. You do not recollect the chest of drawers at all?—No, I do not recollect it.

17,155. Had you been to the rooms before we came here?—Yes.

17,156. Why did you come here?—A friend of mine, Mr. Narramore, said he thought I had made a mistake in the way the numbers run.

17,157. You should not have come here when we wanted to test your evidence. Did you not go to the room further on?—I went on to show him.

17,158. (Mr. Longe.) You said you knew where the room was?—I knew where to go.

17,159. (Mr. Coleridge.) How did Narramore come to tell you?—He thought I had made a mistake.

17,160. What did you mean by saying it was to the left?—What I meant was that the room was on the left.

17,161. (Mr. Bere.) Having heard the description, does it answer in any particular?—I think it does.

17,162. Does it answer to size, 20 by 15?—Very nearly.

17,163. How do you describe the fireplace being on the right of the bed?—I think the fireplaee must have been closed up by some means. There was something in my mind that it must have been up there.

17,164. When you came with Narramore did not you turn to the left and go along the other passage?—Yes, seeing the figures run that way.

17,165. Thinking the room was in that passage?—No, I knew different.

17,166. Has anybody spoken to you about the situation of this room?—No; we came down to take a glass of ale together. We did not go to any particular room, we went to the landing.

17,167. (Mr. Coleridge.) This is more like the room you described, No. 19?—No, it is not.

17,168. You are certain this is not it?—Quite certain.

17,169. Nor No. 18?—No.

Mr. W. D. Narramore.

WILLIAM DANIEL NARRAMORE recalled.

17,170. (Mr. Bere.) Where did you go to when you came here?—Turned to the left.

17,171. You or Evens?—Evens led the way.

17,172. That was the room he was looking for, I suppose?—When we talked about No. 13 I was taken up those stairs to the left, and Evens took the lead.

17,173. He went to show you No. 13 in that direction?—I imagine so.

17,174. You wanted to go to No. 13, and he turned to the left first?—Yes.

Mr. J. S. Screach.

JOHN SANDFORD SCREACH recalled.

17,175. (Mr. Bere.) Was this the room you went to, No. 13?—Yes.

17,176. Was it like this when you were here?—This is exactly as I described it. The door opens on the left hand, as I stated, and I believe this to be the same dressing-table.

17,177. Were there two dressing tables?—I do not know; but this was the drawer the man opened and gave me the list from.

17,178. Is there any difference in the furniture now and then? Is there anything in the room that was not here then?—I do not know; I think not. I came here (by the side of the bed), and Mum walked round the bed and took the money. These curtains were drawn, and I believe it to be the same curtains.

17,179. (Mr. Longe.) Do you remember the time of day when the list was given to you?—I think 10 or 11 o'clock; I cannot say; 9 or 10 o'clock.

17,180. Were the slops emptied and the bed made?—I do not think I noticed; these blinds were drawn.

17,181. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect that he made a row about these blinds being up?—I have heard so.

17,182. You heard that Mum had made an objection to the blinds being up?—I do not know about Mr. Mum, but Mr. Smith.

17,183. You say it is not Smith?—I have heard since that Mr. Smith made an objection.

17,184. Were the slops emptied?—I do not know; I do not recollect seeing a utensil.

17,185. You are quite certain it was not No. 18?—The shorthand writer read the following passage from the witness's evidence given at the Town Hall:—

"Describe to me this room; do you enter it from the passage?—From the passage. As you go upstairs which way do you turn?—To the left. Where would the door be, to the right or the left?—After you got on the landing and turned the door would be on the right. When you get to the door how does it open?—Against the bed. What size room is it?—A room 20 by 15. * * * * Where is the washing table?—I think at the right, at the end of the bed; and as well as I can recollect since I think I recollect that the fireplace is in the inside of the bed, on the right of the bed."

17,186. (Mr. Bere.) Have you been here and seen the room since we left the Town Hall?—Yes.

17,187. Is it possible that Mr. Evens might have seen him in No. 18 and you in No. 13?—It is possible, but you might rely upon it that on the Monday Mum was disguised to all intents and purposes, or he would not have nice black hair and moustache and grey whiskers,

17,188. Do you recollect how many times you came into this room?—I believe I settled with those men on the Monday morning, and I could go to all their houses.

17,189. How many times did you come to this room?—I should think three or four times.

17,190. Were you here on the Saturday?—No, I never came till the Monday, and I came on the Tuesday to report.

17,191. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you here on the election day?—No. I saw a man in the morning on the landing with Captain Pim who had the same description of moustache.

17,192. The same wig?—Precisely the same. I was sent for by Mr. James Heath, and sent to one of the sitting rooms, and this man, it was my impression, knowing that I had been sent for, mounted this disguise.

17,193. You think it was not Mr. Smith?—No, I think not. If you look at the evidence, Mr. Smith states he was at Torquay.

17,194. We can read the evidence. Mr. Smith has a peculiarity in his mode of speaking; did you observe anything in that?—No; I could not say that I did.

JOHN WILLIAM WILLIS recalled.

17,195. (Mr. Bere.) Which is the room you came to?—This is the room I went into first, No. 8, and the door was open as it may be now.

17,196. Where did you go afterwards?—Here, the large room, the committee room.

MR. SMITH recalled.

17,197. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever see any of the money, the cash for any of the cheques you gave?—Never.

17,198. The only money was the 1,500*l.*?—Yes.

17,199. You never saw any money that was got from the cheques?—No.

MR. JOHN HEATH recalled.

17,200. (Mr. Bere.) Where did Col. Dawkins sleep?—I think he slept here. I know he had this sitting room, No. 20.

17,201. (Mr. Coleridge.) Where did Captain Pim sleep?—The chambermaid will tell you.

(Mr. Smith.) This is where Captain Fox slept, No. 4; it leads away into another staircase.

MARIA POMEROY recalled.

17,202. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who slept in No. 18?—I do not know.

17,203. Where did Captain Pim sleep?—No. 16.

17,204. You do not know who slept in No. 18?—No, I do not.

17,205. (Mr. Bere.) Can you remember whether the person came in for a night and went away?—No.

17,206. Do you recollect Mr. Murchison?—No.

17,207. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you find out by your books who slept in No. 18?

(Mr. Heath.) I do not know.

(Mr. Bere.) We had better adjourn to the large room.

MR. JOHN HEATH recalled and further examined.

17,208. (Mr. Bere.) We have heard from Mr. Smith that you came to him on some day which he cannot identify, and told him that a person wanted to see him in a room behind the bar; do you remember doing that?—I do.

17,209. Did you see that person who was in the room behind the bar?—Yes, I did.

17,210. When had he arrived in your house?—I think it must have been on the Monday; I am not certain.

17,211. At what time?—I think in the after part of the day, but I am not certain.

17,212. Was that the person who afterwards acted Mr. Mum?—It was not.

17,213. Was the person who acted Mr. Mum in the house at the time?—He was, and I desired him to go to the other house. We had got a person to do our business, and I said he had better go to the other house and get a job.

17,214. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had he slept in the house the night before?—Oh, no; he did not sleep there at all.

17,215. Do you know when he went away?—No.

17,216. (Mr. Bere.) Did you not afterwards come to Mr. Smith and tell him the man had gone back, that the man whom you had seen had gone back?—Had gone away.

17,217. When did you do that?—I should think the same day that he left.

17,218. When did you see this man first of all in your house?—This man had come to apply for a job of work.

17,219. Mr. Smith saw him in the room behind the bar?—I saw him once there, merely for a short time.

17,220. Where did you see him?—In the little room on the left coming in, No. 1.

17,221. Who brought you the message that anybody was waiting?—He announced himself.

17,222. Where were you?—In the bar. I had made his acquaintance when he was here before on a similar errand.

17,223. Was he a man that came down in Dunn's time?—Dunn's time?

17,224. Was it Mr. Snell?—No, a man employed in Dunn's time.

17,225. (Mr. Longe.) You stated in your evidence there were not two persons down?—At what time?

17,226. 1865.—There were not two persons employed.

17,227. You had not two persons ever employed. You stated in your evidence there were not two persons down in 1865?—Employed on the business.

17,228. Did you tell Mr. Smith that that person would not be wanted because there was another person to do the work when this person came down?—Did I tell Mr. Smith?

17,229. Did you tell Mr. Smith that that person would not be wanted?—I did, that he would not be required at all.

17,230. Why?—Because another man was here going through the register.

17,231. You told Mr. Smith that?—I would not undertake to say word for word, but I told him I had got another customer.

17,232. You told Mr. Smith so?—I did so.

17,233. That was the reason why the man walked away?—It was.

17,234. (Mr. Bere.) This man came here on the Monday?—In the afternoon I believe he did.

17,235. And, as far as you know, went away the next day?—Yes.

17,236. How long had the real Mr. Mum been here then?—He had been here the whole day on Saturday, part of Sunday, and the Monday.

17,237. Was he a person who wore a wig?—I do not think he did.

17,238. Had he a moustache?—No.

17,239. At any time did you see the real Mr. Mum with a wig and a moustache?—No, he had not any moustache at all, more than I have.

17,240. (Mr. Coleridge.) What room do you believe the real Mr. Mum did occupy?—I handed him a bag in No. 13.

17,241. (Mr. Bere.) What time in the day was that?—In the morning, at 9 or 10 o'clock.

17,242. Was it while Mr. Smith was at breakfast?—I had not seen Mr. Smith at the time I went upstairs; I walked in to the end of the landing, past 14, 13, 12, and 11, and came back, and on coming back I went into No. 13 bedroom.

17,243. Did he come out of the watercloset?—Yes. I went into No. 13 with him; no one was sleeping there.

17,244. No one sleeping there?—Nobody was in the room at the time. I saw Mr. Pender cross the Plains to go into a voter's house, Mr. Wright's, close by; with that I handed him the bags.

17,245. Who was that man?—At the time I speak of I did not know when he came down, but I believed from the beginning we were to have a man down to dispense the medicine. Mr. Smith, when he went to London, had ordered such a man should come down.

FOURTEENTH DAY.

Mr. J. Heath.

8 Sept. 1866.

17,246. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he call it medicine?—Who?

17,247. Your "Mum."—I do not know what he did; we called him "the doctor that dispenses the medicine."

17,248. Had he rather a colour in his face, rather a heat?—No.

17,249.—Did he tell you he had played the same game at Gloucester?—He said he had been at the same game for years.

17,250. Did he tell you about his having telegraphed home for "medicine" before your calling it "medicine"?—I do not know that; I believe he spoke of it the day before.

17,251. Did he talk of his position?—He did; we called it "sugar."

17,252. Do you know whether his name was Thompson?—No. I told one of the clerks what I thought of him, that his name was Jackson. I was in London a day or two ago and I went down to the House of Lords kitchen and asked if they knew a man named Jackson, I was told that if I went to the House of Lords I should find him lounging about, and I said, do you know such a person as that, I asked for Mr. Bladen, who lives at the House of Lords kitchen and I saw a serving man. I thought if I could by any chance catch a glimpse of the man I should know him again.

17,253. Do you know a man of the name of Patch?—No, I do not.

17,254. Do you know a man named Grant?—No.

17,255. Do you know of none?—I know a man of the name of Shaw. I took these memoranda from Mr. Bladen's waiter, he did not know him.

17,256. (Mr. Bere.) Did you think that Mum had any connexion with that person?—I had no reason to think so, but I was telegraphed to to meet a person at the station.

17,257. When did the telegram come?—The 1st of July.

17,258. Did you go to meet him?—Yes.

17,259. Did you meet him and did he tell you about Captain Pim?—No.

17,260. Was that all that passed between you and him?—That is all that passed. He agreed with me that two heads were better than one.

17,261. Did Captain Pim say anything to you about getting a man down to distribute the money?—No, he supposed we were in working order.

17,262. What did you say to that?—We were just at the beginning of it.

17,263. (Mr. Longe.) Do you say positively that when the man came down you told Mr. Smith there was another person?—I do.

17,264. That you told Mr. Smith there was?—I do.

17,265. You told him that?—I told him there was a man here to do that kind of business.

17,266. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know that name (handing a card to witness)?—No.

17,267. Were you at the opening of the Buckfastleigh Railway?—I was not sir. I have never seen a person of that name at an election time.

17,268. Now just tell us the conversation you had from time to time with Mr. Mum?—I went to my office and looked over a list of 30 names the other day.

17,269. Do you mean the auctioneer's office?—No, my son lives there; my office where I used to do the auction business is just at the corner of this lane, there is a door at the side.

17,270. You saw him there?—I saw him there.

17,271. Did you take the poll book and go through it with him?—He had the poll book.

17,272. Did you give him a list of names?—I had got certain names and he had got certain marks and dots against other names. He had two registers when he came to me.

17,273. Did you see whether he wrote out on a separate piece of paper the names of the persons against whose names there were dots?—I did not.

17,274. Had he writing materials up in his bedroom?—I did not see them.

17,275. What was your conversation? What in the first one?—This was on the Saturday morning before I went to the board.

17,276. What passed between you then?—If there was not much money spent on the other side we should certainly carry the election of one, and have a good chance of carrying the other too.

17,277. Did you at that time know how much money your side were proposing to spend?—I never knew exactly to what extent they would go, but 4,000*l.* to 5,000*l.*

17,278. Did you tell Mr. Mum that?—I think very likely. I told my son that he had gleaned the information from the various scouts; he would be a better judge of what was to be done.

17,279. How much money had you yourself ever received from Mr. Mum?—From Mr. Mum?

17,280. From Mr. Mum?—I received 100*l.*, which transaction had been negotiated in this way——

17,281. I only want the sums of money?—100*l.*

17,282. What else?—I think, with the exception of what he handed in in the bags, that is the lot.

17,283. How many times did he hand in the bags to you?—He handed in the bags to me in the presence of the voters.

17,284. How many times?—I gave out the names in my book of every one that was paid with my privity.

17,285. In the book?—Yes.

17,286. What book?—You have had it already in my evidence, in the poll book.

17,287. Do I understand that with the exception of the 500*l.* cheque which you cashed, and of which you returned 207*l.* 10*s.*, no other money passed through your hands at all?—I had one or two bags of money which was paid. I did not count it, but I am not clear who it was paid to. That is the only cash and votes that ever passed through my hands at the time.

17,288. (Mr. Coleridge.) How often did Mr. Smith see the real Mr. Mum?—He was in the public room and in the room where the meeting was, in the smoking room, and various parts.

17,289. Did you ever fetch Mr. Smith to the real Mr. Mum?—No.

17,290. Did you ever take the real Mr. Mum to Mr. Smith?—I pointed out Mr. Smith to him in this room (the ball room) on the evening of a meeting.

17,291. What did you point him out for? What did you tell him Mr. Smith was?—The solicitor to the election.

17,292. You regarded Mr. Smith as the solicitor to the election?—Yes.

17,293. Did you ever introduce the real Mr. Mum to either of Mr. Smith's clerks, Daw and Lind?—No.

17,294. Did you ever point them out to Mr. Mum?—Point them out to him?

17,295. Yes?—I do not know that I did, I said to Mr. Smith's clerks "This is the doctor."

17,296. Which of them?—One or both of them, I am not clear which.

17,297. Did you ever point out the clerks to the doctor?—No, not then; I had no object.

17,298. Did you hear any conversation take place between Mr. Smith and the doctor?—No sir; I think I have seen them talking together.

17,299. Where?—In the entry, at the public part of the house.

17,300. Mr. Mum was a good deal about the house as well as in No. 13?—And out in the town.

17,301. What was he supposed to be, one of the agents?—He was supposed to be the agent who negotiated the transactions with the voters.

17,302. You knew that, but the general public were not supposed to know that?—No.

17,303. What did the other party think he was, the other side?—For the three or four days they would not know but what he was a commercial man, and a man here in the ordinary way of business.

17,304. Did he go back with Mr. Smith again?—I never saw him.

17,305. Now try and tell us what made you trust him as the person that was coming to do the business?

Only because such a man was coming; Mr. Edmonds said such a man would be here. I will give you an illustration of why I had a right to think he was the agent. Some few years ago I wanted to go to London, and I wanted to purchase some corn; I went to my banker's and said, "I want to go to Mark "Lane on Monday, and I want you to advise cash to "me at your London agents, Barclay's." I went to Barclay's next day and said "Have you any advice for "me?" "Yes, what amount?" "500*l.* or 1000*l.*" "(I forget which it was). "Yes, we have," and they gave me blank cheques and I drew for the amount. I believe the fact was that such a person was necessary, and Mr. Edmonds had reported to me that he had received some one of the sort at one time and that he came from the club.

17,306. What has the cashing of the cheque at Barclay's to do with that?—They had advice that I was coming to London, and I had advice that he was coming to Totnes. It was from Mr. Edmonds that I heard such a person was coming from London.

17,307. Did the advice come from the gentleman whose name I put to you, at Exeter?—No; from Mr. Edmonds to me.

17,308. You do not know where Mr. Edmonds got it?—I do not.

17,309. (Mr. Longe.) When you told Mr. Smith a person was down doing the work something more must have passed between you?—Between Mr. Smith and I?

17,310. Yes?—Mr. Smith may have seen the man about the premises.

17,311. When you told Mr. Smith there was a man down doing this work, do you mean to say no further conversation took place between you? Tell us what took place between you and Mr. Smith?—I do not profess to recollect every word, but in effect it was inasmuch as we had a man in the town before a second man was not wanted.

17,312. In the house; was it "in the town," or "in "the house"?—He was in my house at the time he lived here. I heard on the Sunday that this man was coming on the Monday. There was a man that did similar work in Dunn's time.

17,313. Did Mr. Smith know anything of it before you told him that? Did he know of that man being in the house?—Not that I am aware of.

17,314. You explained to Mr. Smith that because there was this man down?—That the other would not be required. I did so at the office. I rather think Mr. Edmonds was near.

17,315. (Mr. Bere.) Where did you give the explanation to Mr. Smith, was it in the committee room, Colonel Dawkins' room, Mr. Edmonds' room, or any room at all?—I think it was down in the entry. It was on the Monday when there was a great bustle about and many electors there. I will not undertake to say what particularly it was. A man came and wanted a job, and as we had got one before it was my duty to tell Mr. Smith.

17,316. Do you know whether the real Mr. Mum slept in your house?—I do not, sir.

17,317. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know Mr. Frail, of Shrewsbury?—No; he is not the man.

17,318. You know him; clerk of the course for half the races in England?—I do not know him.

17,319. Has he ever been down here?—I have not seen him.

17,320. (Mr. Bere.) Who would know where the real Mr. Mum slept?—If the chambermaid does not know I cannot say; gentlemen come every night, and unless they are numbered in any particular way neither of the servants would know.

17,321. (Mr. Coleridge.) How do you account for the stranger always using Mr. Smith's room, No. 13?—I do not know that he always used it.

17,322. Mr. Screach went to him there?—One night there was something put on the door to tell where he was. There is a little gaslight on the landing opposite No. 13 door, and he came down in my office and said he had seen the other side, and they were offering tremendous prices.

17,323. (Mr. Longe.) Did you have any conversation with Mr. Smith as to his using this room; you knew it was Mr. Smith's room?—I know now which it was.

17,324. What was it you were telling me about No. 12?—That he looked out of the window.

17,325. When was that?—I think about Monday.

17,326. Whose room was that at the time?—I do not know.

17,327. Do you not know who slept there?—No.

17,328. Did you not know it was Colonel Dawkins' private room?—I had not heard of it where it was.

CHARLES JAMES DAW recalled and further examined. C. J. Daw.

17,329. (Mr. Bere.) You have heard what Mr. Heath says, had you ever a man pointed out to you as the doctor?—No, sir.

17,330. Are you quite certain about that?—Quite certain.

CHARLES HENRY LIND recalled and further examined. C. H. Lind.

17,331. (Mr. Bere.) Are you equally certain, Mr. Lind?—Quite so.

17,332. Or about his dispensing the medicine.?—I never heard it; this is the first time.

FREDERICK SMITH recalled and further examined. F. Smith.

17,333. (Mr. Bere.) You have heard Mr. Heath state two or three times that this man would not be wanted, because there was one in the house?—I am satisfied that Mr. Heath never told me anything of the kind.

17,334. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever give any person excepting your own clerks permission to go into your room for any purpose during the election?—Never.

Mr. JOHN HEATH recalled and further examined. Mr. J. Heath.

17,335. In your conversations with Mr. Mum you did not learn what he was, where he came from, where he lived, or anything about him?—Only that he had been engaged in similar business for years.

17,336. Did he mention the name of any single election at which he had been engaged before?—He did mention one about his going away because there was another one in disguise.

17,337. What was that election?—I do not remember; he had resorted to all sorts of malpractices.

17,338. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he mention Gloucester?—I do not know.

17,339. Did he say whether he had been examined before a commission?—No.

17,340. Did he say anything about the chance of a commission?—I do not remember anything of the kind.

17,341. Did he mention Berwick-upon-Tweed?—I do not recollect. I had been up to a day or two before the election, been occupied in other ways; but it did not occupy much time in going through the list.

Adjourned to Monday next at half-past 11 o'clock.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

Totnes, Monday, 10th September 1866.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

10 Sept. 1866.

Mr. Thomas Creaser Kellock recalled and further examined.

17,342. (Mr. Coleridge.) I think the last question I asked you was, "What took place between you and the manager about cashing the cheque after banking hours? and the answer is, "I went to Mr. Charles Kitson, and he went down to the bank with me, and the managing clerk opened the bank and cashed the "cheque?"—Yes.

17,343. That was Monday?—Monday afternoon.

17,344. What time?—I do not think it was 3 o'clock. I do not think the bank had closed when I got to Torquay, I think between 3 and 4 o'clock.

17,345. Does the bank close at 3 o'clock?—I think it does.

17,346. What did you get the money in?—Partly in gold and partly in notes.

17,347. How much in gold?—The greater portion.

17,348. The notes in what sums; 5*l.* or 10*l.*?—I think small notes.

17,349. What time did you leave Torquay?—I returned to the hotel, where I met Mr. Fox, and we drove back immediately to Totnes.

17,350. What time was it when you got back here?—I should say between 5 and 6 o'clock.

17,351. Where did you go to?—To the "Seven Stars" first.

17,352. Whom did you see there?—Mr. Edmonds.

17,353. You went straight up to No. 8?—I do not recollect the house I went to. I went and inquired for him and gave him the parcel.

17,354. Did you give it to him in the room called the bribery room, No. 8; you did not give it to him in the open street?—I think I went to the room upstairs.

17,355. In the room you were in the habit of sitting? Was it the room which has gone by the name of "Edmonds' little room at the top of the stairs?"—I do not know; I gave it to him upstairs.

17,356. Was it No. 13?—No; No. 18 is the floor above. It was not No. 13.

17,357. You are quite sure about that?—Yes.

17,358. Did you give him anything else at the same time?—I changed the cheque I had received from Captain Pim.

17,359. Did you change that after banking hours at Torquay?—I changed it at the same time.

17,360. You gave him the 1,300*l.*?—The whole money.

17,361. In a bag?—It was in a parcel.

17,362. Did you see him open the parcel?—I am not certain; I think he did, and I think he counted the contents; I do not know.

17,363. That is what I want to know whether he did count the contents. Who else was present; anyone?—I do not think so.

17,364. Was Captain Fox present?—I think not.

17,365. Where did you go after he counted the contents?—If I recollect rightly I went to my residence with my own horse and gig.

17,366. Did you dine at the "Seven Stars?"—I cannot recollect; I do not think I dined at the "Seven Stars." I do not think I dined with Colonel Dawkins that day or the two subsequent days. I think I dined at home.

17,367. When did you next return to the "Seven Stars?"—In the course of the evening.

17,368. What time—between 8 or 9 o'clock?—Speaking I may say from one's usual habit during the election, I should think I returned to my house most probably, and went down in the evening about 8 or 9 o'clock.

17,369. Where did you go to then, did you go to Mr. Edmonds' little room?—But whom did you see first when you returned to the "Seven Stars" that evening?—You are speaking of the Monday evening.

17,370. The Monday evening—whom did you first see when you went to the house?—I should think there were 20 or 30 people in the entry; and in all the rooms above, where I went, there were a great number.

17,371. Whom did you first see to speak to?—I cannot possibly recollect.

17,372. Did you see Mr. Edmonds?—No doubt I saw him.

17,373. Did Mr. Edmonds tell you anything about the money being gone then?—No.

17,374. What did he tell you he had done with the money?—I do not believe he ever told me what he had done with the money. I simply went to Torquay to get the cheque cashed, and brought him the money.

17,375. You knew very well what had become of the money, and you did not ask him?—He gave me a cheque to get cashed, and I gave him the money.

17,376. You assumed that he dispensed it in the proper way; no doubt he used it for the purpose for which you went to get it?—I might assume it; we had no conversation.

17,377. If nobody told you, they did not tell you because you did not ask, and you did not ask because you knew; come, was not that it?—I know by guessing.

17,378. (Mr. Coleridge.) To all intents and purposes you knew.

17,378*a*. (Mr. Bere.) You knew very well?—I have said so before, in my evidence previously I think.

17,379. (Mr. Coleridge.) Answer it again; it does not matter answering twice over?—It is constantly answering questions on guess-work.

17,380. I ask you as a man of common sense and a man of the world, had you the slightest doubt?—I have previously answered it.

17,381. You have no doubt?—I have not.

17,382. Then it is not guess-work?—It is.

17,383. How long did you stay at the "Seven Stars" that night?—I cannot tell.

17,384. Till late?—No.

17,385. Did any stranger speak to you; any man you did not know at all?—The house was very full.

17,386. You know everybody in Totnes; did any stranger you did not know come and speak to you?—I do not recollect that evening that any person did.

17,387. Did you see Mr. Smith that night?—Yes.

17,388. Was he in an excited state?—I had seen him at Torquay, and in the evening after I returned he came back rather late from Torquay, and he was in an excited state.

17,389. Was Mr. Smith in such a state that he might very well not know what he was doing. Was he in such a state that things may have occurred in his presence and he not recollect anything about it?—I must admit that is my opinion. I do not wish to speak of the gentleman's habit when he was here, but I will tell you what occurred. After I had gone to the bank and met Captain Lane Fox we went to the coffee-room at the "Royal Hotel," and I think we had some little refreshment whilst the horse was fed, and there I saw Mr. Smith and one of his clerks dining, which surprised me very much; I thought he would be busy at Totnes.

17,390. You were surprised to find him at Torquay?—Yes. I will tell you what struck my mind, that it was an absurd thing for Mr. Edmonds or him to ask me to go to Torquay and get the cheque cashed, when he was going with his clerk and sitting in the "Royal Hotel" dining. I was annoyed.

17,391. Did you say anything?—I expressed my surprise and we both left. I returned to Totnes and I believe I had gone away and come back to the "Seven Stars," and was in Colonel Dawkins' room when he returned.

17,392. Who left Totnes first to go to Torquay?—I do not know.

17,393. Did you pass him on the road?—No.

17,394. You did not see him when you first got to Torquay?—No.

17,395. The probabilities are he arrived shortly after you?—I cannot say.

17,396. Which of the clerks was it?—The darker one, Mr. Lind.

17,397. Did the manager of the bank tell you that Mr. Smith had been there that day?—No.

17,398. Did Mr. Smith tell you he had been to the bank?—No.

17,399. Nor his clerk?—No.

17,400. You saw him come back?—Yes.

17,401. What time did you see him in the "Seven Stars" that evening?—After I got back again—probably about 9 o'clock.

17,402. He arrived after you had come back to the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

17,403. You recollect his coming in there in this excited state?—I did not see him arrive in his carriage, I saw him come into the room and I should say about 9 o'clock.

17,404. Was he in the state in which you speak?—Yes, he was.

17,405. Did you see him later that night?—No.

17,406. Had you any conversation with Mr. Heath, senior, before you left the house?—No I do not recollect speaking to him.

17,407. You do not recollect Mr. Heath telling you about a gentleman in No. 13?—No, I do not recollect.

17,408. You cannot tell us whether that evening you saw the mysterious stranger; did you ever see a mysterious stranger during the election?—The following day I should think there were 100 strangers.

17,409. Did you see one particular stranger?—I did not.

17,410. You went home in the evening. What time did you come to the "Seven Stars" the next day, the nomination day?—I came when the gentlemen were going to the hustings.

17,411. Did you ever go to Mr. Smith's bedroom while he was there, and ever see him lying in his bedroom?—No.

17,412. Not at any time during the election?—No. When Mr. Edmonds called to my recollection going to his bedroom the other day one feature which led my mind to it was the fact that I believe I was only in his bedroom once.

17,413. I just ask you that?—I told you in the previous evidence that was before he went to London.

17,414. Was that in No. 13?—I do not know.

17,415. Have you been to look at the house?—Yes.

17,416. Do you know that it is No. 13?—I went to look at it, but I cannot say.

17,417. Mr. Smith has no doubt it was, and so say his clerks?—No doubt it was, then.

17,418. If you saw him in a bedroom we may take it it was No. 13?—I cannot say. I went in casually without the least idea of its being inquired into, and it is impossible to say.

17,419. If you saw Mr. Smith in a bedroom it was his own bedroom?—He was packing up his things and no doubt it was his bedroom.

17,420. Where did you see Mr. Edmonds on the nomination day first?—I drove down to the Plains, and afterwards went on to the hustings.

17,421. Did you see him before you went to the hustings?—No.

17,422. Did you see him on the hustings?—I believe I did.

17,423. Did he tell you about wanting more money then?—No.

17,424. When did you know first that another cheque must be cashed?—After the nomination was over and we had returned to the "Seven Stars."

17,425. Then you and Mr. Edmonds went up to your own little room?—I believe he came to me. I do not think we went to the room; he came to me shortly after and asked me whether I could get another cheque cashed.

17,426. Did he give you the cheque?—I believe I got it afterwards.

17,427. From Mr. Smith?—He brought it to me.

17,428. It bore Mr. Smith's signature—Smith and Guscotte?—I cannot remember. He brought me a cheque which I understood came from Mr. Smith, and asked me to get it cashed.

17,429. When was that?—It was about 2 or 3 o'clock.

17,430. What did you do with that cheque?—I intended at first—whether it was my own mind or Mr. Edmonds asked me—to go by the 2.55 train to get it cashed.

17,431. Where to?—I suppose where he thought I could get the money. I do not think there was any place mentioned; but I did not go. There was something said about going by train, but I did not go.

17,432. Something was said to you, but you did not do it?—I met Captain King, who is a gentleman who took an interest in Totnes elections, and asked him to go and get it cashed.

17,433. Did he consent?—He did.

17,434. Did you tell him what it was for?—No.

17,435. Come now! Did you tell him that it was for the purposes of the election. One gentleman does not ask another to get a cheque cashed without giving some reason. What was the reason that you did not do it yourself?—If you ask me to give you direct evidence of the conversation I cannot do so.

17,436. You did not say to Captain King in the street, "There is a 1000*l.* cheque, will you get it cashed?" without telling what it was for?—I think very little passed.

17,437. Did you tell him that it was for the purpose of the election?—I do not think I did.

17,438. Did you tell him it was for your own private purposes?—I do not think I did.

17,439. What did you tell him it was for?—I told him that I had a cheque for 1000*l.* which I wished to get cashed, and I believe he had previously been a friend of Mr. Dent's, at Totnes, and I suppose he assumed it was for election purposes.

17,440. Did you tell him it was for election purposes?—I do not think I did.

17,441. Where did he get it cashed?—At the Devon and Cornwall Bank.

17,442. In this town?—In this town.

17,443. Why did not you do it yourself?—Because I did not wish. To tell you the truth I regretted then having got the one cashed on the previous day.

17,444. Are you quite certain about this being the nomination day?—I am certain in my own mind.

17,445. Not the election day?—Oh, no; I may say positively it was not the election day, because my own opinion of the election——

17,446. Was it after banking hours?—Although it might be after banking hours, after 3 o'clock, the bank had not closed I believe for the purposes of business.

17,447. Did some conversation take place with Captain King. Did he say it was past banking hours, or anything of that sort?—I walked with him to the Devon and Cornwall Bank.

17,448. Did you go in with him?—No.

17,449. How long was he in?—He went in and got the cheque cashed, and came out again and joined me in the street, and I walked back with him. I daresay he was in the bank ten minutes or a quarter of an hour.

17,450. How did he bring the money out?—I did not see it till I got back to the "Stars."

FIFTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

10 Sept. 1866.

17,451. Did you tell him what to get it in?—I do not think I did.

17,452. Come?—I might have done so.

17,453. Suppose he had brought it out in a 1000*l.* note, that would not have suited you. Did you not say "Get this in gold or small notes," or something of that sort?—I do not recollect.

17,454. Try to recollect. Here is a transaction of a 1,000*l.* cheque, and all you have told us at present is that you met a gentleman in the street and asked him to get it cashed?—And he did so.

17,455. But do you mean to say that you gave him no reason for wishing him to get it cashed?—To tell you the truth, I do not recollect what passed at this distance of time.

17,456. You do not mean to say that you met a gentleman in the street and asked him to get a 1000*l.* cheque cashed without giving any reason. The natural thing would be that he would say "Why not do it yourself?"—I do not think he said so.

17,457. Not something to that effect?—I do not recollect, Captain King may be able to come and refresh my memory on it.

17,458. If you gave no reason for his doing it, he would have thought you might very easily have done it yourself?—I know what passed in my own mind on the subject.

17,459. I daresay you gave vent to it in words?—That I did not wish to do it myself.

17,460. Did you tell Captain King so?—Probably I may have done so.

17,461. Did you tell him that you had been to Torquay the previous day and cashed a 1000*l.* cheque, and that you did not like to do it the following day?—No.

17,462. Was Captain King on the Conservative committee?—No.

17,463. Then as far as we have it at present you did not tell Captain King why you did not want to do it yourself at all?—I do not think I did.

17,464. Are you sure?—No, I am not sure.

17,465. Did you give him any instructions as to the form in which you wished to have the money?—No, I do not recollect that I did so.

17,466. Will you swear it?—I cannot possibly swear that any conversation occurred, it may possibly be.

17,467. Do not you recollect a conversation to the effect that you wished to get this cheque cashed and did not like to get it done yourself, and would he get it done in gold and small notes. I mean supposing Captain King had gone and got it done in 100*l.* notes that would not have suited you. Did you ever in your life ask a gentleman to cash a 1,000*l.* cheque for you before?—I do not think I did.

17,468. Did you ever ask anybody to go to the bank to get a large cheque cashed for you when you might have done it yourself?—I do not think I did, certainly not for electioneering purposes.

17,469. I mean it is not usual if you meet a man in the street to ask him to get a cheque cashed for you?—Certainly not.

17,470. Did not Captain King perfectly well know that it was election purposes you wanted him to do it for?—I have no doubt in my mind that he did know, but to tell you distinctly what words passed I cannot.

17,471. Did not you tell him the form in which you wished this money?—I may have done so, but I do not recollect.

17,472. Did you tell him before he cashed the cheque where to bring the money to?—I waited for him and walked back to the "Stars" with him.

17,473. Did you tell him to "Go and get this cheque, and I shall wait for you and we will go to the 'Stars' together?"—I do not know that I did.

17,474. Did you tell him not to give you the money in the street but wait till you got to the "Stars?"—I do not recollect anything of the sort.

17,475. You do not recollect anything at all about it, about telling him where he was to give you the the money. Now, try to recollect?—No.

17,476. Without having told him anything by intuition did he walk down by your side to the "Seven Stars?"—He came out of the bank and walked to the "Stars" with me.

17,477. When he came out of the bank did you say "Have you got it done?"—No doubt I did, or something to that effect.

17,478. (Mr. Bere.) Was not the reason that you did not want to go to the Devon and Cornwall Bank because there was somebody on the other side of the street you thought would know you, or in the bank?—That was one reason. That gentleman has been in Court since, and I am told has given evidence that I did go in and cash the 1000*l.* cheque myself. That is not the case.

17,479. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who do you mean?—Mr. Cole.

17,480. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Cole is an active supporter of Mr. Pender?—I believe so.

17,481. (Mr. Coleridge.) To the best of your belief this 1000*l.* cheque was cashed after banking hours?—I believe it was cashed between 3 and 4.

17,482. Because it appears in the book as being cashed the polling day and not the nomination day. Did you cash another 1000*l.* on the polling day?—Certainly not.

17,483. Then you went to the "Seven Stars," where did you go to at the "Seven Stars?"—I went upstairs I think to Colonel Dawkins' room.

17,484. And Captain King with you?—And Captain King with me.

17,485. What had Captain King got the money in? In a parcel.

17,486. Done up in a parcel?—I saw it when we got to the "Stars."

17,487. In Colonel Dawkins' room?—I cannot tell you the room; to the first floor, whether Colonel Dawkins or Captain Pim's room, I cannot say.

17,488. You did not go to the little room, No. 8.?—I believe we went to the room which is between two large rooms. There is a small room between a room called Colonel Dawkins' room and a room called Captain Pim's room.

17,489. You believe it was that room; you do not believe it was your own little room on the top of the stairs?—This room is at the top of the stairs between the two rooms I have described.

17,490. The little room, No. 8, is just at the top of the stairs facing the bedroom?—I do not think that room, but the room between the two large front rooms.

17,491. Who was there?—I believe I saw Mr. Edmonds.

17,492. Who was present. Now, be careful with this. Who was present there while Captain King delivered himself of his burthen?—I believe we saw Colonel Dawkins' servant.

17,493. Was anything said to Colonel Dawkins' servant at this time?—So far as I recollect Captain King went up, and to use your own words, delivered himself of his burthen by putting the parcel on the table, and Colonel Dawkins' servant was asked to keep guard over it until I went and called Mr. Edmonds, who came and took it.

17,494. Colonel Dawkins' servant watched the money before it was unpacked?—I believe so.

17,495. Was that before Mr. Edmonds came in?—I think so.

17,496. Did you see it unpacked?—I did.

17,497. What did it consist of?—It consisted chiefly of gold.

17,498. You had not asked Captain King to get it in gold when he went to the bank?—Your question has refreshed my memory as to the circumstances. I think part was in notes, and my reason for thinking so is, that out of that 1,000*l.*, Mr. Edmonds repaid me the 300*l.*, the value of Captain Pim's cheque which I had cashed for him the previous day. I believe that 300*l.* was given to me in small notes.

17,499. Have you any doubt of it?—I have none: when you asked me the question, at the moment I had forgotten it.

17,500. Having received the 300*l.* in notes, were there any more notes left, or was all the rest in gold?—That I cannot say.

17,501. What is your impression?—My impression is that the greater part was in gold.

17,502. Did you not expect that you were to be recouped the 300*l.*?—I do not think anything was said about it until the interview between Mr. Edmonds and myself.

17,503. Did you not ask Captain King to get 300*l.* in notes, and the rest in gold?—I daresay the bankers' book will tell you; I do not recollect.

17,504. Was there any gold at all, or was it all in bank-notes?—I cannot say positively. I believe it was partly in notes, partly in gold.

17,505. Are you perfectly certain that some portion was in gold?—As to being perfectly certain, I am not.

17,506. So far as you can be certain of anything, was part of the money you saw unpacked in gold?—I am not quite certain of that.

17,507. It appears on the face of the bank-book that the whole of this sum was paid in notes?—It may have been so, I told you I was not quite certain, I recollect Mr. Edmonds giving me the 300*l.* in notes.

17,508. Did you give him a receipt for the 300*l.*?—I am sure he did not; he gave me no receipt for it, and I gave him no receipt when it was repaid.

17,509. Was Colonel Dawkins' servant still present?—I do not think he was, both he and Captain King had retired.

17,510. Then you and Mr. Edmonds were alone?—I believe we were.

17,511. What did Mr. Edmonds do with the money?—He carried it away.

17,512. In a parcel, or did he put it in his pocket?—I do not recollect.

17,513. Do you know where he carried it?—I do not know.

17,514. Did you see him go into No. 8?—I do not recollect.

17,515. Did you go into No. 8 shortly after this, and see him there?—I do not recollect that I did, I was in and out of the room for hours during the remainder of the day.

17,516. Did you ever see any portion of that money again during the day?—No.

17,517. When you went out of the room did you and Mr. Edmonds go out together, or did you stay after he had gone?—I do not recollect which went out first.

17,518. Did you both go together?—No doubt we did.

17,519. Did you see whether Mr. Edmonds went upstairs to the floor above?—I cannot say.

17,520. Where do you last recollect seeing him?—At the doorway of the room.

17,521. Did you see which way he went?—No.

17,522. Did he go out of the house?—No; I believe he stayed in the house some time after, I do not recollect.

17,523. Can you recollect whether you went to No. 8?—I cannot.

17,524. Did you see Mr. Edmonds again within the next half hour?—I was in his company more or less for a couple of hours after.

17,525. Did you see anyone come to Mr. Edmonds after the money had been unpacked?—Yes.

17,526. Did you see Mr. John Heath come to Mr. Edmonds?—I do not recollect anyone coming to him for this money.

17,527. I did not ask you that. Did you see anyone come to Mr. Edmonds?—I think I might say that I saw as many as five-and-twenty people come to him in the course of the afternoon or evening, I think that is within bounds.

17,528. After Mr. Edmonds left the room with the residue of this money, did you see anyone come to him?—I think several persons.

17,529. Tell us who they were. Did you see Mr. Heath, senior?—I cannot recollect him more than any other.

17,530. Did you see him amongst others?—I believe he was there the whole afternoon, in and out.

17,531. Do you think that within an hour after the money was unpacked, Mr. Heath, senior, came in?—If you ask me to give evidence of probabilities, I think that is probable.

17,532. Do you recollect Mr. Heath coming to the room within an hour of the time when the money was unpacked?—I do not recollect.

17,533. You recollect several people being there; did you see Mr. Heath there?—I believe I did, I saw him in the course of the afternoon, Screach, Evens, Mr. Heath, and his sons.

17,534. Which of his sons, John, James, or George?—I think all of them.

17,535. You think that they were in and out of the room during the afternoon?—They were in and out of the rooms; which room do you particularly allude to?

17,536. I mean the room in which Mr. Edmonds was?—Mr. Edmonds was not in that room all the afternoon, he was about the house, as I was.

17,537. Where was this money?—When he carried it away from my presence I never saw it after.

17,538. You do not know what became of the money after you left the room?—I do not.

17,539. When did Mr. Edmonds tell you that more money was wanted?—Never.

17,540. Did he do so on the polling day?—No.

17,541. What occurred on that evening, as to the probabilities of the election, between you and Mr. Edmonds, did you not make up a poll-book with Mr. Edmonds that evening?—No; Mr. Edmonds told me that he had done so.

17,542. Did he show it to you?—No, he did not.

17,543. Did he tell you what was the effect of it?—I think he did.

17,544. What was it?—I believe, as near as I can recollect, he told me there was no chance whatever for Captain Pim, and that he considered the chance of Colonel Dawkins was much reduced, or something to that effect.

17,545. About what time was that?—I think that was before Colonel Dawkins' dinner time.

17,546. Did Mr. Edmonds tell you the reason why he thought the chances were gone by; did he say you were out-bid by the Pender people?—Something of the kind passed between us, or at a subsequent interview. If you will allow me, I will tell you something that draws my mind to the conclusion: In the afternoon there were one or two persons whom Colonel Dawkins had not seen.

17,547. What sort of persons?—One, particularly, Samuel Hill, senior, I remember going to his house with Colonel Dawkins to ask him for his vote, and on leaving his house we came to the gates in the orchard behind here, the Priory orchard, at that time occupied by a tenant who was a client of mine, and I had to some extent the care of the property, and I remember entering these large doors after the interview with Hill.

17,548. What was your interview with Hill?—To ask him for his vote.

17,549. What did you do?—Hill would make us no promise whatever.

17,550. Did you hold out any inducement to him?—I did not.

17,551. Did you tell him he had better come down to the "Seven Stars?"—I did not.

17,552. What did you say then?—I spoke to him and introduced Colonel Dawkins to him. We went upstairs with him, with a relation who came with him, a Mr. Ryder.

17,553. Is he of this town?—Mr. Robert Ryder.

17,554. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Robert Ryder, senior or junior?—Mr. Ryder, junior; and on asking him for his vote in a short conversation upon general matters, I thought he had promised his vote to Colonel Dawkins; afterwards the colonel expressed to me some degree of disappointment, he thought that he had fairly promised him.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

10 Sept. 1866.

17,555. Did you ask whether Frederick Evens had been to him?—I did not.

17,556. Did you ask whether Screach had been to him?—I did not say a word about either of them.

17,557. At any time?—We went out. After I left him I told Colonel Dawkins my opinion that he was outvoted.

17,558. Did you tell him he must give him more money?—No, I never had any conversation with Colonel Dawkins from first to last upon the subject of money.

17,559. What was the last time on the nomination day that you and Mr. Edmonds had any conversation about the election?—I believe I walked through the Priory grounds to the "Seven Stars" with Colonel Dawkins: that is, from my recollection.

17,560. When did you see Mr. Edmonds after that?—In the afternoon or evening I saw Mr. Edmonds again.

17,561. Then he told you about the poll-book?—I believe it was at that interview.

17,562. Who else was present; was John Heath, senior, there?—I do not think any person was present. The only person, I think, was Mr. Powning, Mr. Edmonds' brother-in-law.

17,563. Had you a discussion as to the prospects of the election; that you thought they were looking bad at the time?—I had.

17,564. Did Mr. Edmonds say money was to be had?—No.

17,565. Do you recollect any more being got that night?—I do not recollect.

17,566. Did Mr. John Heath, senior, come in and ask for another cheque?—He did not in my presence.

17,567. You were, I suppose, home late at night?—Not very.

17,568. What time were you at the "Seven Stars" on the morning of the election?—Before the polling commenced, between 7 and 8.

17,569. (Mr. Bere.) There is an entry in the Devon and Cornwall Bank books, of the 11th of July, "200*l.*, notes, 200*l.*; gold, 200*l.*" Did you take 200*l.* notes to the Devon and Cornwall Bank on that day, and get gold for them?—Certainly not.

17,570. There is another entry?—I have my bank book here.

17,571. There is another entry, "300*l.*, bank notes, 300*l.*; gold, 300*l.*," by Mr. T. C. Kellock?—That I cannot say anything about. I had no transaction whatever on that day with the bank.

17,572. Did you not go to the bank, and did you not ask them to pay you a cheque in three 100*l.* Bank of England notes?—I do not recollect the circumstance. I do not think I did.

17,573. Did you cash Captain Pim's cheque?—Yes.

17,574. Where did you cash it?—At Torquay.

17,575. Then what notes did you get for that? Did you get three 100*l.* notes for it? You had better look at that to refresh your memory.—Here are my bank books.

17,576. It is a mutual credit. T. C. Kellock, "300*l.* bank notes, 300*l.* gold;" for that is all; and the other is "200*l.*, gold 200*l.*," on the 11th of July, the nomination day?—I have not the slightest recollection of the transaction. I may have got change.

17,577. Are you quite certain that Captain Pim did not get 500*l.* notes in exchange for the 1,000*l.*, and that you did not take those 500*l.* notes to the bank and get gold for them?—I have not the slightest recollection of having done anything of the kind.

17,578. Cannot you tell how many times you went to the Devon and Cornwall Bank that day?—My impression was strongly that I did not go to the bank or have any transactions there that day.

17,579. Did you send anybody?—I do not know.

17,580. Did you write the names in the book of any notes on that day?—I do not recollect that now.

17,581. This is a very odd transaction as far as the bank books go, because the cheque which you gave to Captain King is not entered in the bank books till Wednesday the 12th?—That was after the banking hours.

17,582. It was after the bank had shut, therefore it was paid in as on the next day; but here is the previous day; it must have been taken not very late in the morning. There is an entry of your changing two 100*l.* notes, and late in the day three 100*l.* notes?—(No answer.)

17,583. (Mr. Coleridge.) Where did you get those notes from?—I do not recollect that; I went away the previous day.

17,584. The nomination day?—The nomination day. I may have gone to change some of the notes for Mr. Edmonds which I brought from Torquay; I may have done that, but I should like my memory to be refreshed by Mr. Pearce or some one at the bank.

17,585. Should you know the person who gave the change for the notes?—I saw Mr. Pearce; I think it was the manager himself.

17,586. (Mr. Bere.) Is that the manager's own handwriting (referring to the entry in the book)?—I think it is.

17,587. Do you not believe that these notes mentioned here were part of the notes you got at Torquay?—If they were, Mr. Edmonds must have given them to me again the next day.

17,588. You must have gone and got gold for them?—I daresay; that is the only explanation I can give of the transaction.

17,589. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know what notes you brought from Torquay; how much of the 1,000*l.* was notes?—No, I cannot say.

17,590. Did you not see it made up?—No, I daresay I did not.

17,591. You cannot fix the amount?—No.

17,592. Was it a few large notes, or small ones?—I cannot recollect.

17,593. (Mr. Bere.) You must remember that, Mr. Kellock. You go after banking hours with Captain King to the bank to cash two cheques for the large sum of 1,300*l.*; cannot you remember whether you had not given you a number of small notes, or whether large notes were given to you which could be very easily counted?—Excepting half was in gold and half was in notes, I cannot recollect the circumstance of whether it was large or small.

17,594. Did you count the notes when you paid it over to Mr. Edmonds?—I believe he counted them in my presence.

17,595. Cannot you remember how many he counted? Is there such a constant counting of notes going on during the election that you cannot remember?—Those are the only two transactions I had with Mr. Edmonds; I recollect merely going; I considered myself a messenger to get the cheques cashed, and bringing the money back to him, which I did.

17,596. You have told us that before. On the nomination day, the day before, or on the election day, did you take an active part?—I went down to the "Stars" between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning, to see that the clerks and all who had to go to work were there.

17,597. Did you see that the proper persons were at their places?—I did.

17,598. Did you see Mr. Edmonds there, and did he report to you what was likely to be the turn of the election?—I do not think he did till after 9 o'clock.

17,599. Did you see him and talk to him about the election?—Then I did.

17,600. Did he tell you the men about whom they were doubtful, were going pretty straight?—I think he told me the contrary; I think I heard long after; having seen two or three persons who I believed were going to vote for Colonel Dawkins, I went in to express my own opinion as to the result.

17,601. That was after 9?—It was.

17,602. I mean between 7 and 8 in the morning?—No, I do not think I saw him then.

17,603. Did you have some personal communication with some of the voters during the day of the election in 1865?—May I ask you what you mean by "personal communication?"

17,604. Did you not yourself offer money to some of the voters in 1865?—I offered a man a sum of 5*l.*, which he took.

17,605. Was that man a voter?—He was a voter, but it was not for himself.

17,606. Was it for another person who was a voter?—Another person whose name was on the register, and who was away out of the town; it was to pay the expenses of the man to come back in time to vote; I gave it to a man by that name.

17,607. Was the person to whom you gave it the father of the person who was away?—It was.

17,608. Where was the son?—Away.

17,609. In London?—No, in the country somewhere; I believe his address was not known at the time, from circumstances I could explain, but which I would rather not, because he came to me professionally.

17,610. How far off do you believe he was at the time?—I believe he was out of the country.

17,611. It was not Taunton or Saltash?—No, I believe further off than either of those places.

17,612. You do not know where he was?—No.

17,613. You gave him 5*l.* not knowing what his expenses would be?—It is perfectly true; I gave the father 5*l.* for him. He was very badly off.

17,614. I want to know about the transaction that took place, that has been mentioned here with respect to Mr. John Heath, regarding a cheque that he gave to Mr. Thomas Matcham for 235*l.* Mr. Heath could not remember it on the first day when I asked him about it. I refreshed his memory with the counterpart, and he gave the explanation that he gave the cheque to Matcham and by your direction it was destroyed. What is the explanation of that story?—I had heard, I believe, from Mr. Heath himself that he had given a cheque to one of the Matchams for 230*l.* or 235*l.*, and I found fault with him for having done so.

17,615. Did you hear from him why he had given it?—No, I do not think I had any explanation.

17,616. Did you not ask him?—I believe he told me he had made the cheque payable the day after the election, and therefore I assumed what it was for; I found great fault with him for having done such a thing, and I told him that such a transaction would invalidate Colonel Dawkins' election entirely; and I believe he succeeded in getting it back.

17,617. (Mr. Coleridge.) Why did you think it a more dangerous transaction than your cashing a large cheque during the election and handing the money over to a voter?—I handed the money over to Mr. Edmonds.

17,618. He was a voter?—Yes, he was.

17,619. Why was it a more dangerous transaction, that 235*l.* than the 100*l.*?—Because I looked to Mr. Matcham's position and Mr. Edmonds, which are very different.

17,620. What is Mr. Matcham?—A retired tradesman; I was not an agent interfering in the election at all; besides, the cheque had been given the day before.

17,621. (Mr. Bere.) On the day of the election, the same day if you recollect; just look at your bank book, do you find an entry there on the 4th July, Kelland?—I have no entry.

17,622. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who is Mr. Kelland?—Which bank are you referring to?

17,623. Do you keep an account at the National and Provincial Bank?—I keep an account at both banks.

17,624. It is the National and Provincial Bank; I have an entry of the 11th July, to Kelland?—There is no entry in either of my books of July 11th. I have Churchward, July 3rd, 25*l.*

(Mr. Coleridge.) It was a client of mine of the name of Churchward. "Churchward 25*l.*, one quar-"ter's annuity paid to Mrs. Churchward of this neigh-"bourhood due to her at Midsummer," which I had to pay.

17,625. (Mr. Bere.) There is an entry of July 7th, 10*l.* 8*s.* "July 7th. Kelland," with an erasure?—That has nothing to do with me.

17,626. You cannot explain that?—I never saw it before in my life.

17,627. (Mr. Coleridge.) Just let me look at that book?—On July 8th received of George Churchward 22*l.* 10*s.* 8*d.*

17,628. Who is Kelland?—I do not know him; Kelland is a schoolmaster in this town, a voter.

17,629. On which side does he vote?—Against the Conservatives.

17,630. Does he vote usually that way; does he rent a house under the duke?—He rents his house from Mr. Manning of this town; his dwelling-house, and the schoolroom from one of the Michelmore family, near this hall.

17,631. Do you remember having anything to do with Mr. Kelland about the time of the election?—I never had a transaction with him in my life.

17,632. Or seeing him?—No.

17,633. Nor talking to him?—No I never had a business transaction with him in my life.

17,634. It does not appear in the pass-book, but only in the principal ledger; we were struck with that this morning. I wanted some explanation of it?—That is the name of another Churchward.

17,635. During the election of 1865, was not Mr. Screach in the habit of coming to you if he could not see Mr. Edmonds, and making reports to you of what was going on in regard to the voters?—I do not believe he did so in the course of the election.

17,636. Are you quite certain he did not?—I am, sir. He may have come and spoken to me that A. and B. were going to vote for us, that caused conversation, but that is not what I call reporting.

17,637. Did he come to you and talk to you at any time in any way about the voters?—I daresay he did.

17,638. And did he not tell you from time to time that certain men would vote for or against you?—I do not recollect any specific conversation with Screach with regard to any individual voter, but he did speak to me from time to time in the course of the election, I have no doubt.

17,639. You cannot say whether you mentioned the name of any particular person or not?—I cannot. I gave him no instructions and he said nothing to me about them.

17,640. Are you quite certain you did not make up the poll-book with Mr. Edmonds on that night?—I am; he made up the poll-book. I had a conversation with him upon the subject.

17,641. That is much the same thing: in your presence had Mr. Edmonds made up the poll-book, his own poll-book?—Whether I came to him and saw him there when he made it up, and knew the result, or whether I was there part of the time when he was making it up I cannot recollect.

17,642. Did he not ask you from time to time for particular information with regard to particular voters?—Some of those country voters whom I canvassed.

17,643. Was it not through the information you gave him that he was in many instances able to make up the poll-book?—Partly so.

17,644. Did you give him information about a man called John Michelmore?—No.

17,645. I will read what Mr. Edmonds has said. "Can you give us information as to any one of those "persons about whom Mr. Kellock gave information? "I do not know the particulars, we went through "the lot together, and it would be from information "he supplied me. Q.—What sort of information had "you? A.—He had seen them himself, I think he said "he had seen Mr. John Michelmore, and he stated he 'should vote for both the Conservatives?'"—He there speaks of the list, not the poll-book; it was previously to this what he refers to.

17,646. You and Mr. Edmonds together made out the list of voters?—We had printed lists.

17,647. Did you and he compare your experiences

FIFTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

10 Sept. 1866.

with regard to the names mentioned in those lists, and your knowledge of the people whose names were mentioned?—In the course of the election?

17,648. Yes.—Yes.

17,649. Did you give him information in regard to some of the persons whose names were in those printed lists?—Of course I adopted them at the canvass and reported to him, as I mentioned in the early part of my examination. I have no doubt of that, what he has mentioned; he would go to his book and from information supplied by me and others he would make up the poll-book.

17,650. Did you take any part in the proceedings about the petition?—None excepting to give slight information to Mr. Edmonds from time to time. I was not employed; I was not engaged.

17,651. Mr. Edmonds managed alone?—I believe he did.

17,652. Was a requisition sent up to Mr. Macleay—have you got it?—Yes, I have; it was handed to me.

17,653. Was it sent back to you by Mr. Samuelson?—It was handed to me from your desk.

17,654. Do you know whether the requisition which was sent back by Mr. Samuelson came up first of all to Mr. Smith and then was sent back again, there is a letter of Mr. Samuelson's from the National Conservative Association. The requisition was sent to him. I never received a letter from Mr. Samuelson.

17,655. I will read you the answer of Mr. Edmonds "I think Mr. Kellock might have given it up; "whether he did or not I am not able to tell you"?—I think there must be some mistake between my brother and myself.

17,656. Had your brother anything to do with the requisition.

(Mr. F. Kellock.) I sent it up.

(Witness.) I do not think I ever saw the requisition or had anything to do with it before the day I was here, and it was handed to me from your seat.

17,657. I will just read another portion of Mr. Edmonds' evidence and that will finish your evidence with regard to 1865. "Q. Whatever you knew, Mr. "Kellock knew too. A.—Yes, I think so; he knew how "the money was spent. Undoubtedly he did, I do "not know that he knew to whom it was paid; he "knew it was being spent; we both kept ourselves "aloof." Is that a true account of the part you took in the election of 1865?—I did not know how the money was spent.

17,658. You did know it was spent?—I did not know till after the election that it was spent. I gave it to Mr. Edmonds; whether it was spent or not, or whether it was under reserve, I do not know.

17,659. (Mr. Longe.) You must have known it would be spent?—I do not know it was actually spent.

17,660. You knew the part Mr. Edmonds took in it?—I did not know till after I gave it to him.

17,661. You knew the object, the general object for which it was got, you knew the object of the money you got at Torquay, the object for which it was got?—I have already said so.

17,662. We want to see that you are right?—I thought you wanted some fresh information upon the point, I have answered the question.

17,663. Merely to know whether Mr. Edmonds, so to speak, was your agent in what he did?—No, I was his agent.

17,664. On that occasion; but there was a mutual understanding between you, and though Mr. Edmonds might have taken a more active part in it, there was a mutual understanding as to the line of business to be done, and he was your agent in the doing of it?—No, certainly not.

17,665. Do you mean to say that, mentally, there was no understanding between you and Mr. Edmonds, that you really did not know that Mr. Edmonds was at all taking part in adopting or conducting any system of bribery?—I feel satisfied in my own mind of the object for which the money was obtained that I went and got and gave to him.

17,666. Did you not know the part that he was taking in the election?—You must explain to me what you mean by the word "part."

17,667. You must know what we mean?—I do not know the specific point on which you are pressing me. He was generally acting on Colonel Dawkins' suggestion as agent for the election.

17,668. I ask whether there was not an understanding between you and Mr. Edmonds that the part Mr. Edmonds took now was the part you took some time before?—No, we did not take the same part.

17,669. You told us the other day, "when you went round with the Colonel." I understood Colonel Dawkins to say he either went with you or Mr. Edmonds?—I do not think that Colonel Dawkins, in giving his evidence, meant that; but I did go with him canvassing on two occasions, when Mr. Edmonds could not go.

17,670. On that occasion you said you did not mark them down; at all events when you were canvassing there were names, I understood you, that had to be further operated on. I believe they were mentioned?—I do not think you asked that question. You could not have asked me that question.

17,671. You expressly said it was done through Mr. Edmonds; you never did it directly?—It was done when Mr. Edmonds could not go canvassing. On two occasions, I said, I went with Colonel Dawkins, and I told Mr. Edmonds when I came back the results, and he entered it in his book. I think that is the answer to the question. I do not remember you saying anything to me about any elector being further operated on.

17,672. That is a general question?—I did not go with Colonel Dawkins to any elector who wanted to be further operated upon, except the case of Hill the last day of my canvass with the Colonel. Hill was originally canvassed on the great market day, when I originally canvassed some of the voters in Bridgetown.

17,673. To adopt an answer given by Mr. Edmonds, do you entirely agree in what he said, you did know the money was spent, but not how?—I admit that. I did not know what became of any of the money after I gave it to Mr. Edmonds.

17,674. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you first know about Mr. Smith having gone to London for the money?—He did not tell me.

17,675. Who told you?—I do not think I knew it till some time after the election, when Mr. Edmonds was getting evidence for the petition.

17,676. Do you not recollect being present when the money was brought down into a room, some portion of it?—No, Mr. Evens gave evidence. In fact, I was in the room with Mr. Edmonds. I was not aware of it. There might be 6,000*l.* for aught I know.

17,677. (Mr. Bere.) Did you occupy yourself in getting any evidence for the petition?—No.

17,678. Did you take the examination of any of the witnesses?—No.

17,679. Did you go up to London?—I never left the town; I gave Mr. Edmonds notes of one specific case within my own knowledge.

17,680. You say a specific case that came to your knowledge; do you know what it was?—The case I mentioned principally was the case I told you about the 5*l.*

17,681. The petition was presented to you as the mayor of the town, but you took no part in it?—I took no part in the election after it was over previous to my being appointed mayor.

(Mr. Bere.) It is fair to tell you we have been considering the evidence you have given, and we must enter you on the list of persons who have constructively bribed at any rate, and in one instance, perhaps actually bribed; so that anything else you have to tell us about the election of 1865 will not remove your name from the list, and will not put you on.

(Witness.) You can form your own conclusion as to the part you think I have taken.

17,682. Is there anything more you can tell us about the election of 1865?—There is not.

17,683. Now, in 1863 ; I do not know that we have ever learned from you when you first began to take an interest in election matters ?—1852.

17,684. That was before Mr. Edmonds was appointed the regular Conservative legal adviser ?—I do not think he was practising in Totnes at that time.

17,685. Was that before Charles Edwards died ?—No, in 1850.

17,686. Did you succeed him as the authorized Conservative agent ?—No, I think Mr. Bryett did. I succeeded him in practice ; he only lived a few weeks, and I did not enter into it actively.

17,687. Was it intended that you should be a partner ?—I was a partner with him about seven weeks, but he was ill the whole time.

17,688. Did Mr. Bryett succeed ?—He did.

17,689. When did you go in ?—He gave it up and I went in at Mackenzie's election in 1857.

17,690. Did he attend to the register ?—He did.

17,691. Did you assist him in the registration part ?—For a little while I did.

17,692. Were you not here always at the revising ?—I never attended the Court. I think Mr. Beer, of Devonport, was generally employed by the party.

17,693. Were you not one of the persons constantly sitting in the revising barrister's court, and informing him as to what case he should take next ?—I do not think more than once.

17,694. In 1852 ?—I am referring to the last election. 1852 was the election between Lord Seymour, Mr. Mills, and Mr. Baldwin.

17,695. (Mr. Coleridge.) You took an interest in it when Mr. Baldwin was thrown out ?—Yes.

17,696. (Mr. Bere.) Were you actively employed in the election of 1859 ?—Yes.

17,697. 1857 first ?—Yes, 1857.

17,698. As whose agent were you acting ?—Mackenzie's.

17,699. Who was acting as Mr. Gregory's agent ; do you remember ?—I joined, I believe, in 1857; Mr. Bryett and Mr. Edmonds, and he and my brother and Mr. Jardine Presswell were the five.

17,700. You had retainers ?—I mention that because we were offered retainers, but Mr. Bryett, Mr. Edmonds, and I gave ours up, and we did not receive anything.

17,701. Were you offered a retainer by Mr. Gregory ?—I do not think he paid any expenses.

17,702. Who was he ?—A member of a banking firm in the Haymarket. I have been in the house, it is the right-hand side.

17,703. Is it Bouverie's ?—It failed shortly afterwards.

17,704. He was unknown to Totnes before he came down ?—I never heard of him till he came down.

17,705. Do you know how he was got down ?—No, I had nothing to do with that. It was considered there should be a second Conservative candidate because we should not split the votes with Mackenzie.

17,706. In 1857 did you have any communication with him ?—No, but I believe Mr. Mackenzie afterwards intended to have petitioned.

17,707. He did petition, did he not ?—I do not know.

17,708. Mr. Rose at that time was a Conservative ?—I went to meet Mr. Mackenzie on the subject of the petition, and saw him at the office ; he gave up the idea.

17,709. Did he get any other legal adviser ?—No ; he said he should on one occasion have one.

17,710. Did you see Mr. Henry Edward Brown ?—I did not see him, only Mr. Mackenzie.

17,711. There has been an assertion that there was a petition in 1857 ?—I do not believe there was ; I saw Mr. Mackenzie on the subject, and I remember my last interview with him, when he told me that he should not petition.

17,712. In 1852 there was a petition ?—Oh, yes.

17,713. Was not there a committee struck ?—I was not his agent ; Mr. Bryett was, on the election of 1852. I was offered a retainer, but never was paid the money, or my money out of pocket.

17,714. Who was retained regularly in Mr. Mackenzie's election ?—Mr. Mackenzie was here twice.

17,715. When first ?—The first he did not contest ; he had proposed to give in retainers, but we would not take them, and the second time we did. The subsequent election we returned them.

17,716. Why did you ?—Because he failed in the election.

17,717. (Mr. Coleridge.) If you take a retainer you take it once for all ?—No, the retainer is only till the election is over. Mr. Bryett, Mr. Edmonds, and I gave them up, the two juniors, my brother and Mr. Jardine Presswell, took them.

17,718. (Mr. Bere.) In 1859, can you tell me what sum of money was spent ; have you any idea ?—I have no idea.

17,719. Do you know whether any money was brought down ?—I do not know.

17,720. Who came down with Mr. Mackenzie from London ; is he alive still ?—I have not seen him or heard of him.

17,721. He is a great contractor ?—Mr. James Thomas Mackenzie, I believe he is a West India merchant.

17,722. Do you know a Mr. Thorneycroft ?—I have heard of him at the office behind the Bank of England, near Messrs. Freshfield's office.

17,723. Have you any doubt that there was a good deal of money spent before this ?—I never heard of much spent ; Mr. Mackenzie never communicated to me what he had spent.

17,724. Did the other side spend money ?—As they always did ; I think Mr. Mills spent money at each election.

17,725. Do you know that Mr. Mackenzie spent money ?—No ; I do not think he spent very much.

17,726. You have no doubt that he spent money ?—I have no doubt he did ; what amount I cannot tell.

17,727. You cannot remember the name of any other person that came down with him ?—I remember there was a man there whom I met ; the same person at his office afterwards in London ; I think he was a barrister.

17,728. Do you know what his name was ?—No ; I do not.

17,729. What sort of a looking man was he ?—Rather about your stature ; but much lighter in complexion, and much lighter hair.

17,730. What age was he ?—He could not be above 30, a young man.

17,731. What part did you take in 1859 ?—I aided Mr. Dunn.

17,732. At that election did you return your retaining fee ?—Yes.

17,733. Was it paid before the election ?—No.

17,734. Do you mean to say that you had the money sent down, and you refused to take it ?—I refused to take it when they came to pay it.

17,735. Had you a fee charged against Mr. Dunn ?—I never charged him a single farthing.

17,736. He spent a good deal of money ?—Yes.

17,737. He brought Mr. Cameron down here ?—I know Mr. Cameron.

17,738. Did you see the person who distributed the money at that election for Mr. Dunne ?—No.

17,739. Did you take the same sort of part at the election of 1859 ; were you the recognized Conservative legal adviser to whom the messengers and the people on your side came and made their reports ?—No ; I did not take nearly so active a part at that time.

17,740. When was it you began to take an active part ?—I do not think I interfered in any election so much ; and all the previous elections put together would not be so much as the last in 1865.

17,741. What did you do in 1862 ; had you anything to do with finding Mr. Dent ?—Mr. Michelmore did it that time.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

10 Sept. 1866.

17,742. He is not the same gentleman we have heard of before?—From what I learned at the office.

17,743. He was Mr. Dent's agent?—Yes.

17,744. Were you paid for that election?—Yes, I was.

17,745. In 1862?—Yes, 1862, I was.

17,746. We have heard that Mr. Dent did not go to the poll on that occasion, because he found he would have to spend more money than he had calculated on; did he communicate that to you?—No.

17,747. Had you gone through the list and thought of what would be the result?—No; I remember going into the room the same night that Mr. Dent retired, and hearing that Mr. Mitchell had advised him to retire.

17,748. Did Mr. Edmonds agree to that advice?—I believe he did.

17,749. Did you agree to it?—Not at first. I did not express my own individual opinion on it.

17,750. You may have gone through the list?—I did not take that part.

17,751. (Mr. Coleridge.) But you were the agent?—Yes.

17,752. Were you not naturally consulted?—No; I was not.

17,753. When they told you their advice was that Mr. Dent should retire, did you not inquire upon what grounds they had come to that conclusion?—There was a good deal took place that night on the subject. They asked me to go to Mr. Pender's agent, and say that Mr. Dent would retire.

17,754. Did not they tell you the reason why Mr. Dent had found that he could not go on?—They considered the majority would be too narrow to risk an election.

17,755. Did you hear at that time anything said about the Slippery Company?—I never heard of any such name being given to that Company until the last election.

17,756. Did you ever hear of a number of men who had agreed to stand by each other, and not to vote unless they were paid a certain sum?—I believe it was publicly mentioned at the time.

17,757. And who those men were?—Searle was one of them, or their leader.

17,758. The information as to how they were going to deal with their votes had been brought down to the "Seven Stars?"—That information had been brought down there before I got there that night. I was not present when the consultation took place. I was told of that afterwards.

17,759. Did you afterwards go the "Seymour Arms" to see Mr. Cuming?—No; I sent some one to say I wanted to see him, and I saw him on the bridge.

17,760. Did you propose to Mr. Cuming that if Mr. Dent retired, and thereby did not put Mr. Pender to the expense of a contest, that Mr. Dent should be allowed to come in at the next vacancy?—I believe I did mention something of that to Mr. Cuming, and he said that he would go back to the "Seymour Arms" and communicate that; and he came back to me, and refused to accede to that.

17,761. Did Mr. Cuming tell you anything about Mr. Pender's being about to spend 1,000*l.* in the town?—Yes; it was spoken of. He offered to place Mr. Edmonds or myself on the committee who were to spend it; but I declined to act upon it, and said if Mr. Pender wished to expend the money he had better do it himself.

17,762. In your opinion, was that 1,000*l.* spent for the benefit of the general inhabitants of Totnes, or for that of the Liberal party only?—Mainly for the Liberal party.

17,763. Can you tell us how that money was spent?—I know that 200*l.* of it was contributed in aid of the Totnes Waterworks, which was a very excellent thing.

17,764. Who are the people who manage the Totnes Waterworks?—I have had a good deal to do with it. It is carried on by the Corporation, under an Act of Parliament. That was for the general good.

17,765. As to the other 800*l.*?—A small portion, about 100*l.*, was spent in mending or recasting one of the bells of the church which had got out of order; and 500*l.* was to be spent in building a school, which is not yet finished.

17,766. Was that a school for all denominations?—No, I think not; it was connected with the Church of England.

17,767. Would that benefit the Liberals or Conservatives most?—I should say the Liberals. I have been told that the rest was spent on the chapels.

17,768. Who distributed it?—I do not know.

17,769. Were you privy to the settlement of account with Mr. Mitchell after the election?—No.

17,770. Whom did you receive your retainer from?—From the election agent. All the expenses incurred at that election have not been repaid to this day.

17,771. Had you any retainer from Mr. Dent or Mr Mitchell?—No; I have never applied for the expenses. There was a strong feeling in my mind on the result of the election.

17,772. Do you recollect an arrangement as to more money being sent down after Mr. Dent's election?—I did apply to Mr. Edmonds, who told me that the money had run short, and that he had not money enough to pay everything.

17,773. Did Mr. Edmonds tell you that Mr. Dent was very much dissatisfied that everything had not been paid out of the money that he sent down, and that other money had to be sent down for that purpose?—He did not.

17,774. Was not Mr. Dent very angry at the way he had been treated on that occasion?—No.

17,775. Did you not know that money was sent down by Mr. Mitchell after the election?—No.

17,776. When were you paid for acting as agent?—I think Mr. Francis, of Newton, paid me 25*l.*; that was all.

17,777. You had no other charges?—I was never paid any professional charges. I was out of pocket as to certain expenses for going to Plymouth, which I mentioned to Mr. Edmonds; but he told me the money ran short, and I never applied for it to this day.

17,778. Were any of those expenses for which Colonel Dawkins paid you 100*l.*, expenses contracted before Mr. Dent's election in 1863?—They were not in connexion with matters of election.

17,779. You asked Colonel Dawkins to pay you certain expenses incurred for political matters before; did any of those matters occur before 1863?—I have been reminded that one portion of those expenses did so occur; I do not think that I paid the money.

17,780. Was that as to the two warrants?—Yes. I think the election had taken place previously. The expenses had not been paid. I never asked Mr. Dent to pay them.

17,781. You asked Colonel Dawkins; why did you not ask Mr. Dent?—I cannot give you any reason why I did not. Mr. Edmonds had the whole management of the money matters.

17,782. The truth is you found you had been so much money out of pocket by the Conservatives that before you acted for them in 1865 you required to be paid?—I made no such condition.

17,783. But you asked for it?—I did.

17,784. In 1863 did you take the same sort of part as in 1865, although to a less extent?—I did.

17,785. Do you know sums were spent in 1863?—No, I do not. I almost exclusively confined myself to country voters when I went round with Mr. Dent.

17,786. You did not go to Bridgetown?—Mr. Dent would not canvass the Duke's tenants in Bridgetown, and never did.

17,787. Were those persons whom you canvassed people who would come under the denomination of matter-of-course men?—I do not think they were, the country voters.

17,788. Did you not know perfectly well that there were many of those people whom you canvassed who would not vote unless they had money given to them?—I was not so practically acquainted with the manand dispositions of the parties then as I was at the last election.

17,789. But were you not really aware that there was a certain number who would not vote unless they had money given to them?—I had heard so, and I thought so, but I did not know the particular individuals.

17,790. (Mr. Longe.) With regard to the last election are we to understand that you did not canvass those parties whom you considered to be the worst cases?—I cannot say unless you were to give me the names.

16,791. You have heard the names many times which have come out during this inquiry?—I do not think I canvassed any of those.

17,792. With regard to that class of men, you passed over your responsibility to Mr. Edmonds; is that so?—I did not canvass them at all.

17,793. But was it not your duty to do so?—I never undertook to do it.

17,794. Was not that part of your business?—No.

17,795. You did not keep a poll-book?—I did not.

17,796. You either acted with Mr. Edmonds or you did not?—I canvassed a great many persons, and reported the result to Mr. Edmonds.

17,797. (Mr. Bere.) According to your account, Mr. Edmonds was the captain and you were the lieutenant?—I looked upon myself as in that position.

17,798. Did you ever hear after Mr. Seymour's election that certain people had been bribed by Mr. Dent at the election of 1863?—There was a general rumour, and the conversation of the town was full of it.

17,799. We have been told that a large number of people were turned off by the Duke. Were not a great many of those turned out in consequence of voting for Mr. Dent?—I believe that some were.

17,800. Do you know that the persons so turned out had been bribed to vote for Mr. Dent in every single instance?—No; I only know of one of my own knowledge—a man of the name of Lake.

17,801. What do you know about Lake?—I heard that he was about to leave his property, as his tenancy was expiring, and that he had been bribed by Mr. Dent, or by some of his party, to vote for him and did so.

17,802. Did you not hear the names of Byne, Blank, John Diggins, and Searle?—I heard the names of some of them; I do not think that Searle was turned out, or Diggins.

17,803. (Mr. Coleridge.) In the year 1863 how many names did you put the letter D to in your poll-book?—I do not think I put the letter D to any.

17,804. But in the list which you had how many were returned by you as doubtful?—In the first canvass it is impossible that I did so as regards many of them.

17,805. In your first canvass how many did you so put down—those whom you considered as doubtful; should you say there were one-half?—I should not think there were so many as one-half.

17,806. Does not the number increase in proportion to the money that is being spent?—I do not think so, because the amount is not generally known until towards the end of the election.

17,807. But are there not more doubtful if there is a prospect of money going about on both sides and less doubtful when there is an impression that very little money, if any, is likely to be spent?—I think you are able to form as good a conclusion upon that matter as I can.

17,808. The more money that is moving about the more doubtful voters there are; in proportion to the amount of money likely to be spent so do the doubtful voters increase?—The canvassing generally takes place in the early period of the election.

17,809. I suppose there is always a rumour of money going about at each election?—That is always the case.

17,810. And when you get hold of a rich man like Mr. Dent the people think that he is a gentleman who will be likely to spend a good deal of money; and does not the number of doubtful voters increase on such an occasion?—From my own experience I can say that in the early part of the canvass there are a good many who will not say what they will do; as the time approaches, the doubtful voters begin to be struck off, on either side, and each party begin to settle down into a more definite and positive state of things.

17,811. It is not political convictions that causes these changes, you think?—Certain changes do occur in their own minds.

17,812. You do not really mean to say that these changes occur from their political convictions?—In many cases I should say not, but there are a great many who really do consider whom they will vote for.

17,813. Do you really mean to say seriously that there are any people in this town who when an election is coming on for a fortnight or so before the polling day have not made up their minds what their political views are?—Probably they would do so within a week or ten days.

17,814. And it would only be by the influence of money that the views of these parties would be in any way altered?—That is so in many cases.

17,815. Those who have been offered anything by the one side in the first instance, and who as the time for the election approaches have been offered anything by the opposite party will, in your opinion, stand out for the larger sum?—Yes; I think the summary which you have arrived at is a just one.

17,816. (Mr. Bere.) Do you remember seeing the requisition which was sent to Mr. Macleay?—Yes; I signed it.

17,817. Did you ever interest yourself about it after having signed it?—I did not.

17,818. Do you know that there are twelve men who have signed that requisition, every one of whom is supposed to have received a bribe during the election of 1863?—I know that there are many on the list who signed that requisition to Mr. Macleay who voted at the last election against the Conservatives.

17,819. Have you looked through the list yourself?—I have.

17,820. And having looked through that list are you able to say how many men, in your opinion, would have acted honestly if there had been nothing in the shape of a money inducement held out to them?—I have looked through the list, and I think the answer I give you will be very different from that which has been given before. I do not consider that there are anything like the number of persons who are capable of being bribed according to the number which has been already given.

17,821. How many would you say they amount to?—I should not say more than 50.

17,822. Can you put a mark against the names of those who in your opinion would be open to an inducement of money?—I would not like to put a mark against them; it would be rather a disagreeable task.

17,823. But in your own opinion you think at the least there are as many as 50?—Yes.

Mr. Frederick Kellock sworn and examined.

Mr. F. Kellock.

17,824. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a solicitor practising at Totnes?—Yes.

17,825. Are you in partnership with your brother?—Not in reality in partnership. We use our names jointly, but in strictness we are not partners.

17,826. How long have you been in that relationship?—Since 1855.

17,827. Is that the first time you began to practise in Totnes?—Yes.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

Mr. F. Kellock.

10 Sept. 1866.

17,828. Had you taken an interest in election affairs before that?—No, I think not.

17,829. I suppose the election of 1857 was the first?—With the exception of sitting as poll clerk, or something of that sort, at the election between Mills and Baldwin I knew nothing about the matter.

17,830. We will come to the election of 1865. What part did you take then?—I was retained by Colonel Dawkins.

17,831. With Mr. Edmonds?—Yes.

17,832. When Colonel Dawkins came down here was that the first time that you had seen him?—Yes.

17,833. You had no communication with him by writing or by word of mouth in London?—I had not.

17,834. Had you heard of Colonel Dawkins before he came down?—No, I do not think I had.

17,835. Had you had any communication with Mr. Spofforth?—No.

17,836. Or Mr. Edmonds on the subject?—I do not believe I ever wrote a letter to or received one from Mr. Spofforth in my life, or had any communication with him.

17,837. Or any person writing in his name?—No.

17,838. Or writing directed from the same office?—No.

17,839. As soon as Colonel Dawkins came down were you retained; was it before he came down or afterwards?—Afterwards.

17,840. As soon as you were retained did you go and canvass?—I used to go occasionally canvassing.

17,841. Who was that with?—Sometimes Mr. Edmonds and Colonel Dawkins, and his friend Mr. Lane Fox.

17,842. Do I understand that Mr. Edmonds, Mr. Fox, Colonel Dawkins, and you were the four who went about canvassing?—Speaking generally, yes.

17,843. There were times when you were not there?—Yes.

17,844. Then did your brother go?—Sometimes, I think.

17,845. Did you take a list of the voters?—I did not.

17,846. You took a list round with you?—When I was with Mr. Edmonds he had a canvass book and entered in his book the result of any inquiries from an elector. When Mr. Edmonds was not with me I generally had a little list of voters whom we had to call upon. I used to go with Colonel Dawkins; we called upon those voters, and when I came home I reported to Mr. Edmonds. I never kept a canvass book myself.

17,847. Who gave you the list of voters you were to go and see on a particular day?— I think it was the result probably of two or three heads, but it used to pass through Mr. Edmonds' supervision.

17,848. Was there a consultation between you and your brother and Mr. Edmonds as to what person you should go to on a particular day?—Very often.

17,849. Where used that consultation to take place?—Generally at the "Seven Stars."

17,850. In the big committee room, No. 8?—In the large room with the portico over.

17,851. That was the committee-room?—Yes.

17,852. There was another room which your brother and Mr. Edmonds used to use more privately?—A little room at the back they used to be in more; it was termed the committee-room; but I am not aware for the purposes of Colonel Dawkins' election. There was no special number of people whom you could properly term a committee.

17,853. A great many gentlemen coming on the Conservative side to consult about what was going on, and giving advice?—Talk matters over.

17,854. By 'properly' called committee, you mean no list of names?—No sitting committee.

17,855. When you got those names, used they to be copied out on a piece of paper?—Yes.

17,856. Sometimes in your hand-writing?—Yes.

17,857. Sometimes your brother's?—I daresay, I daresay I have written some.

17,858. When you have been to those various voters, you used to find out what their feelings were?—We used to endeavour to do so.

17,859. And you put down your impression how they were going to vote?—Yes, we used to enter them, and bring home my impression whether "for," "against," or "doubtful."

17,860. Did your brother and you ever go to the same house?—I do not recollect.

17,861. When you came back you told him what was done?—I reported to Mr. Edmonds.

17,862. In conversation you told your brother how the people were going to vote, that you had been to see?—It is probable.

17,863. In the course of your canvass did not you find people who would not promise?—Yes, there were some.

17,864. You understood why they would not promise?—I might have my suspicions.

17,865. Did you ever put those suspicions into words?—No.

17,866. Did the voters put their hesitation and looks into words?—Only my own construction. I never canvassed a voter unless Colonel Dawkins was present.

17,867. In Colonel Dawkins' presence you would take care no words passed?—I could not; I never used any words of that kind myself in my life.

17,868. Did you ever canvass a voter without Colonel Dawkins being there?—I do not think I ever did.

17,869. None at all?—No, never.

17,870. Nor sent out to influence some particular voter?—Not to my recollection.

17,871. Not some persons they found a difficulty with, and that you had some influence with?—Not to my recollection.

17,872. Did you ever make a poll-book?—Never.

17,873. Were you ever present when Mr. Edmonds made one up?—I do not think I was present when Mr. Edmonds made up a poll-book from beginning to end.

17,874. (Mr. Longe.) When you were canvassing with Colonel Dawkins, do you remember any case where Colonel Dawkins having canvassed, there was some hesitation, and you said you would call again?—Not that I am aware of; I have no recollection of anything of the kind.

17,875. Colonel Dawkins says this. Generally when the voters hesitated the gentleman who accompanied me said he would call again?—I have no recollection of that. I do not know whether anything of the kind transpired with my brother; I have no recollection.

17,876. Supposing you went to a voter's house, if it was a small house you did not all go into the room where the voter was in all probability?—I think as a rule we were together. Very often the voter would be almost at the door, and sometimes at the door.

17,877. You might talk to him then?—Yes.

17,878. Might not such a conversation as Colonel Dawkins has suggested have taken place and you not have heard it?—Very possibly.

17,879. How long did you take in canvassing voters?—My memory would not serve me upon that.

17,880. I do not want to fix you to one day or two days?—It was more than that certainly; because on three or four occasions I recollect driving into the country with Colonel Dawkins canvassing.

17,881. Where did you drive with Colonel Dawkins canvassing?—To some voters at Deptford; we went to two or three men.

17,882. Where they voters of whom you had a peculiar knowledge?—No.

17,883 You went to canvass generally?—Yes.

17,884. Did you see Mr. Smith at all during the election?—Yes, I did.

17,885. And talked to him about it?—I never had any particular conversation with him that I remember. I saw him at the "Stars."

17,886. Did you speak to him about the election?—No doubt we had some conversation about the election.

17,887. Did you consider that Mr. Smith was down as Colonel Dawkins' friend or legal adviser?—I never heard it explained till in Court.

17,888. I want the impression on your mind at that time?—I understood that Mr. Smith was a solicitor, and I also understood that Mr. Dawkins was his client.

17,889. Did you find Mr. Smith interfering in the matters of the election as a solicitor would do?—Well, his interference seemed to be very small; I do not know what he did, I thought he did very little.

17,890. You thought he did little because he did it professionally?—I do not know that that ever suggested itself till you have now asked me the question as to whether he was Colonel Dawkins'solicitor.

17,891. When you talked to him about the election matters, did he not talk as if he had to do with the management of Colonel Dawkins' election?—I certainly thought so.

17,892. Did he talk to you as a private friend of Colonel Dawkins, oras a person who came as Colonel Dawkins' legal adviser?—I do not know that. I can recollect any conversation that would lead one to a conclusion, if you could call my attention to any conversation.

17,893. I am merely asking you the impression on your mind at that time, if you can recollect any specific conversation?—I cannot certainly tell. I think the leaning of my impression would be, that they were just like solicitor and client.

17,894. Did you see the clerks down here at all?—I think I saw one with him, but I do not know.

17,895. The dark one or the light one?—I fancy the dark one.

17,896. Did you have anything to do with him in the election?—I do not know that I spoke to him.

17,897. You were about the "Stars" a great deal; did you see a stranger there before the nomination day?—You are alluding to "the stranger" I assume.

17,898. Yes.—I have no recollection of seeing any such person.

17,899. Were you present when Colonel Dawkins canvassed the Rev. W. H. James?— Yes, I was.

17,900. Will you give us your impression of what passed at that interview?—I think I was. I know I was there once. I am satisfied of it.

17,901. Before you go on further, was that the time when Colonel Dawkins was there without Captain Pim, or was it the time that Captain Pim was there?—My impression is it was without Captain Pim. I think I and Colonel Dawkins were there.

17,902. Tell us; I do not want it accurately, if you can remember accurately so much the better.—My impression is that a conversation ensued upon church rates, and I do not recollect anything else being discussed; but I certainly was under the impression that we came away without receiving any promise.

17,903. Though you did not receive any promise, was the impression on your mind how he was to vote?—I can hardly tell. The impression left upon my mind was that he was unpledged.

17,904. Did you mean for both his votes or one?—I thought he was not pledged at all for anybody.

17,905. So that there was a chance of your being able to get him?—I should have fancied so, certainly a chance.

17,906. Was it merely a chance or a probability?—If you go to canvass a man, and he seems to receive you courteously, and leaves an impression that he is not pledged, you may think there is a great possibility of getting his vote.

17,907. Did you go with Colonel Dawkins to canvass the Rev. George Butland?—Gilbert Butland.

17,908. What passed?—Three things were mentioned I think by Mr. Butland: he first complained about something having taken place with respect to a pump-trough at the back of the house, and I think he blamed a Conservative gentleman for what had taken place, and I think in reply to that Colonel Dawkins said he would see what could be done for pump-troughs, or something of that sort. The next subject was a kind of attack by Mr. Butland on Mr. Edmonds, with reference to a certain present.

17,909. Of a bracelet?—Yes. Then the third subject Mr. Butland alluded to was a disappointment with regard to a son. He had received, it seemed to me, from what Mr. Butland said, hopes of a situation which had been held out to his son, either at or subsequent to Dent's election, and that he had been disappointed in those hopes.

17,910. Then did Mr. Butland come to intimate that he would be glad of a situation for his son?—I have no recollection.

17,911. Did he put it in such a way as to make you understand that he would like that disappointment recovered?—No, it struck me as matter of complaint for the past and not as hopes for the future.

17,912. When you came away from Mr. Butland's what was the impression on your mind of the way in which he was going to vote?—Well, I thought he was against us.

17,913. You thought he was against you?—Yes, Mr. Edmonds was with me.

17,914. Had you your little list?—I had my little list, and I heard Mr. Edmonds state that he was a Liberal.

17,915. Was it from conversation that that statement that he was a Liberal occurred; it was before you went canvassing I suppose?—I think I have heard him state that two or three times. I think I have heard him say he was a Liberal.

17,916. Was there any mention of his being a Liberal while you were there?—Not that I am aware of.

17,917. Did not his silence give you hopes that you might get him?—He was not silent, he talked.

17,918. He talked a good deal. Was he silent on that point? His complaining about bracelets not being forthcoming, and that a situation for his son could not be found, caused you to think he would be with you?—I could not say that that impression was on my mind—I think it was a subject-matter of complaint of the past.

17,919. I suppose you know from time to time that a good deal of money was being spent at this election?—I did not know it—certainly not.

17,920. You guessed it?—Certainly.

17,921. Did you see a number of people down about the "Seven Stars" who were voters?—No doubt I did.

17,922. And from what you have known of those persons at former elections did not you know they were persons who were accessible to bribes?—I know nothing about it. If you ask me generally whether my impression that bribery did or did not exist at that election and at previous ones, it certainly is my impression that it did.

17,923. I may take it that you never saw money pass?—Never.

17,924. At the 1865 election did you yourself offer any money during the election?—Never.

17,925. Did you ever go to canvass any elector who afterwards was bribed—yourself apart from Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—Not that I am aware: I certainly believe not.

17,926. Did you from time to time while the election was going on talk to Mr. Edmonds as to how it was likely to go?—I think we looked to Mr. Edmonds more as our leader.

17,927. Did you talk to him?—I have heard him talk about it generally when others were present.

17,928. I think you have gone perfectly through the list?—No.

17,929. Had you anything to do with getting up the petition?—Which one do you allude to? Mr. Macleay's, 1865.

17,930. No, this last; not the requisition.—No, I had nothing to do with that excepting that I became surety. I entered into a bond for the costs. I had nothing to do with the petition.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

Mr. F. Kellock.

10 Sept. 1866.

17,931. You signed the recognisance?—I signed the recognisance, certainly.

17,932. But you had nothing to do with the petition?—No.

17,933. May I take it that that is all you can tell us about the election of 1865?—I do not think I can tell you anything further.

17,934. For instance, since that election have any people made any complaints to you either about the way they had been treated on the Conservative side, or the way they had been treated on the Liberal side?—No.

17,935. Have any person spoken to you about the influences used to obtain their votes by the Liberal side at the last election?—No one has spoken to me personally on the subject.

17,936. To you I mean?—No, certainly not—not to me.

17,937. And have any persons on the Conservative side complained to you of their not having been paid?—No.

17,938. None?—No.

17,939. Did you know that the day before the election that your brother went over to Torquay to cash a cheque?—Only from hearsay.

17,940. From him?—Yes.

17,941. You heard from him after he came back?—Yes, I think so.

17,942. He cannot remember what cash he got for that cheque. Can you remember whether he told you or not?—No.

17,943. Did you go next day to the Devon and Cornwall Bank to cash two 100*l.* notes?—No.

17,944. You yourself?—Certainly not.

17,945. There is another Mr. Kellock in the town, is not there?—Yes, my father.

17,946. He is a surgeon?—Yes.

17,947. Do you live with him?—No.

17,948. Did you hear your father say that he went to the Devon and Cornwall Bank that day with two 100*l.* notes?—No.

17,949. Are those the only three persons of your name in Totnes?—That is all.

17,950. And you did not go, and your father did not go; it must have been your brother went?—Well, I told you I did not go, that is all I can answer for.

17,951. You do not believe your father went?—I can only answer for myself. You ask me whether my father told me that he had been, and I answer no.

17,952. Do you believe he had been?—No.

17,953. Is he a likely person to have had the two 100*l.* notes without your knowledge?—I do not think it at all probable that he would have done it.

17,954. Did you know anything about this cheque being cashed by Captain King?—No, nothing at all.

17,955. You had nothing to do with the receipt of the money, or ever saw it?—No, I never saw a sixpence of it.

17,956. In 1863 what had you to do with that election?—Seymour and Dent's?

17,957. Yes.—I was retained by Mr. Dent.

17,958. And paid by Mr. Dent?—Through the election auditor.

17,959. 25*l.* I suppose?—Yes.

17,960. Having been paid that you acted as his agent. Did you go about canvassing with him?—Not very much—not a great deal.

17,961. Were you ever curious enough to look at the list of people who voted for Mr. Dent at that election?—I daresay I have.

17,962. Were you ever curious enough to look and and see how they had voted at former elections?—No.

17,963. You have not?—I never analysed them in that way.

17,964. You never did analyse them?—No.

17,965. Did you take any interest in the elections for the council?—Yes.

17,966. Are you a member of the council yourself? No.

17,967. Have you ever stood?—Never.

17,968. You never have yourself?—No.

17,969. Have you ever managed an election for anybody?—No, I have never been a manager, when these council elections have come on I have gone to the room and assisted others in the affairs of the election.

17,970. Have you ever had the payment of the expenses in the affairs of the election for the council?—No, never.

17,971. Have you ever canvassed for the members of the council, your brother?—I think I did, my brother.

17,972. When was that?—I cannot recollect the year.

17,973. Now there was a requisition to Mr. Macleay?—Yes.

17,974. Was that sent down to you?—It was brought to me and I sent it up.

17,975. Who brought it to you?—I think either Mr. Harris or Mr. Edmonds, I will not undertake to say which.

17,976. Did you go through the names of the persons who had signed that requisition?—I fancy that I had taken a copy of it. If so, I must first have examined it. I think it is very probable that I examined my copy with the original, but I cannot find any copy.

17,977. At the time you went through that list, did you know that there were a good many uncertain men who had signed it—men who had previously voted on the other side of the question?—I daresay I was aware of that.

17,978. Did you make any note against them?—That I do not remember. I wrote a letter. I signed the requisition to a Mr. Smith.

17,979. Mr. Henry Smith?—Yes, Mr. Henry.

17,980. And I believe Mr. Henry Smith returned it to you?—I think not; I have no recollection of seeing the requisition.

17,981. Just see if all the names are there now that were there when you sent up the requisition first (handing it to the witness)?—When I sent it there were 173 names on it. I do not know how many there are now.

17,982. Just see how many (referring to the requisition).—Here are some of my figures.

17,983. Now 173 will not carry an election at Totnes, would it? There are upwards of 400 voters?—I wrote a letter to Mr. Smith.

17,984. Have you a copy?—I have here.

17,985. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did it ever occur to you that Colonel Dawkins was coming rather a wild goose chase before he came?—I never made up a poll.

17,986. But did it occur to you that it was rather a desperate venture, more for the good of the town than Colonel Dawkins?—Well, I do not know that that crossed my mind.

17,987. Was not that the meaning of the requisition?—Perhaps my letter will explain that. Shall I read it?

17,988. (Mr. Bere.) Yes.—"Henry Smith, Esq., "solicitor, 33, Norfolk Street, Strand, London. Totnes, "20th February, 1865. Dear Sir, I am desired by the "Conservative committee here to forward you the "accompanying requisition to Mr. Macleay (signed by "173 electors). They request me at the same time to "send you the list of names of the voters mentioned on "the other side and who have not signed the requisition, "some on account of absence from home, some because "they have no personal knowledge of Mr. Macleay, "others because they intend to split their votes between "the Conservative and Seymour candidates, and some "decline to be parties to any requisition. For the man-"ner in which these gentlemen will probably vote, I beg "to refer you to the list already forwarded to you by "Mr. Edmonds.—Yours truly, FREDERICK KELLOCK." Then follows the list.

17,989. Out of those how many had a personal acquaintance with Mr. Macleay?—I am sure I cannot say.

17,990. Had any?—I did this at the request of the committee.

17,991. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Macleay was never down ere in his life was he? Did you ever see Mr. Macay in your life?—Oh, I have seen him.

17,992. When was he ever down here?—He was ertainly here at Totnes once.

17,993. He was?—Yes, I think I am right in that. t was prior to this requisition I believe.

17,994. Was not that requisition returned to you? -I do not think it was. I have no recollection of its eing returned to me.

17,995. A letter has been read here that intimated iat the requisition was returned to somebody in Totnes?—I do not think it was to me. I have no ecollection of that. The impression on my mind is iat after I sent that requisition away to Mr. Macleay I never saw it again until it has been produced in this Court.

17,996. Did you from the names that you saw igned to that requisition really believe that all those 173 would vote for the Conservatives without any influences being used to get their votes?—I never did it with that idea. I never analysed it.

17,997. Did not you look through it for the purpose of telling Mr. Macleay, if you were asked, what sum of money the contest would cost him?—I beg your pardon.

17,998. Did not you look through it with a view of telling Mr. Macleay, if you were asked, how much the contest of the borough would cost him?—I always considered that an impossible question to answer, as to how much a contest for this borough would cost.

17,999. Is it so large?—It is impossible to tell, because if bribery is met by bribery how can you tell to what extent it will go.

18,000. Was there not such a thing as a requisition to a person of the name of Samuelson?—I never recollect seeing anything of the sort.

Mr. Thomas Creaser Kellock recalled.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

18,001. (Mr. Bere.) You wish to explain some art of your evidence?—Yes. Since I was examined iis morning Mr. Edmonds has come into Court, and e says he does recollect asking me to change or get hanged some large paper for small. I have no recolection about the Devon and Cornwall Bank myself, ut he says I did it, and I think most probably that I ent a clerk or some one to get it for me. But Mr. Edmonds says it was part of the same money and not ny additional money obtained for the election; and have asked Mr. Bowen whether he would get in ome notes to see whether they were the same that vere returned for smaller paper. I said then it was he only possible information I could give, but Mr. Edmonds says he believes that that did occur. I shall e very glad indeed, to throw any light on it, to see he banker.

18,002. Is the best of your belief they were the ame notes?—It was all the money that passed through ny hands. If I had this money it must have been that ie gave me next morning large notes to get small ash for them.

18,003. Did you do that twice on one day?—Of my own knowledge I have no recollection of it. There was an immense deal to be done, numbers of persons were about, and the excitement of the election.

18,004. I have one or two questions to ask which I had forgotten. How long have you been in the Council?—I think about six years.

18,005. Were you first elected in 1859 or 1860?—I think 1860 to 1863. Yes, I think 1860.

18,006. Had you a contest?—I always had a contest.

18,007. What has it cost you?—What do you mean.

18,008. What has the contest cost you? We have had various sums given here as to what it has cost persons who have gone into the Council. What has it cost you?—Altogether the six years? Because I tell you at once whenever any money is wanted to be subscribed for any purpose of the Conservative party I have done so.

18,009. I do not mean charities, not your benevolence. I mean your benevolence in another sense of the word. You have paid for the good-will of the people; what is the amount of the bill which has been brought in at the end of one of your contests?—The first was very light, I think some 10*l.* or 15*l.* The last was the amount which Mr. Bastard gave you evidence of, which was divided between four persons, at all events, I paid according to my fourth.

18,010. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did you pay?—It is over 50*l.*

18,011. (Mr. Bere.) Were you unfortunate enough to be in that contest when Mr. Heath was concerned?—I was.

18,012. Well, he paid a good deal more than that according to this statement?—All I can say is that I was foolish enough before the election to say I would bear my fourth of the expenses, and after the election was over an account was shown to me, and I paid my fourth.

18,013. Was that all the money you ever paid?—It was.

18,014. (Mr. Coleridge.) You had only two contests then?—Yes, two contests. I am speaking of two occasions when four had to be returned.

18,015. How often do you retire from the Council?—Once in three years.

18,016. Is there any contest for the mayoralty?—No, only the Mayor is elected by the Council.

18,017. And that does not cost you anything?—Yes, it does; nothing above a dinner.

George Evens sworn and examined.

George Evens.

18,018. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—I work for my father-in-law.

18,019. Who is your father-in-law?—Thomas Lombardini.

18,020. Is he a shoemaker?—Yes.

18,021. Are you any relation to Frederick Evens?—A brother.

18,022. How long have you been living at Totnes?—I was born here; 36 years or 37.

18,023. You are older than Frederick Evens?—Yes.

18,024. You were employed I believe by the Conservatives in the election of 1865?—Yes.

18,025. You were employed to go round and see voters?—One or two.

18,026. Did you have the names of the voters given to you?—I was told the names.

18,027. Who told you?—Mr. John Heath.

18,028. I will ask you this general question, did you have any communication with Mr. Edmonds or Mr. Kellock on the subject of the voters?—Not to my knowledge. I might have said a word to Mr. Edmonds.

18,029. Did you ever receive any money from either of them?—No.

18,030. You say you saw John Heath; what names did he give you?—I went to see Lorimer and Tozer, and my father-in-law.

18,031. Tozer and your father-in-law, Lombardini?—Yes.

18,032. When did he request you to do that?—Some four or five days previous to the election; it might be longer, it might be a week.

18,033. It was before the Sunday before the election, at all events?—Yes.

18,034. Were you down at the "Seven Stars," or were you sent for?—I happened to be down there one evening.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

George Evens.

10 Sept. 1866.

18,035. Where were you?—In the lobby.

18,036. The front door?—I was going into the smoking-room.

18,037. That is the room on the ground floor?—Yes, a room on the ground floor.

18,038. And you saw John Heath?—Yes.

18,039. Did he ask you to go with him into another room?—I do not know; some conversation took place outside at the time.

18,040. Who were about there at the time?—I think several had been in the smoking-room.

18,041. But not in the lobby?—No.

18,042. What did he tell you?—He asked me if I thought that my father-in-law would vote for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

18,043. What did you say then?—I told him I had no doubt but what he would. He asked me if I would see them on the subject, and I said yes, I would; and I went and saw them.

18,044. Before you went and saw them did you say anything about whether any little inducement of money would be necessary?—I said no doubt they would require something.

18,045. And what did Mr. Heath say to that?—He said "You had better see them and inquire."

18,046. What they wanted?—What they wanted.

18,047. And did you go and see them?—Yes.

18,048. What was their answer?—I fancy Lombardini did not name any sum, but said he would leave it entirely as to what I could manage for him.

18,049. You went to see Lombardini and Tozer?—Yes.

18,050. What did they say?—Tozer said he would leave his case in the hands of my father-in-law and would vote the same way as he did.

18,051. So that in fact Lombardini was to treat for both?—Lombardini must have bargained for both or Mrs. Lombardini.

18,052. Was it Mrs. Lombardini you saw on that occasion?—Both.

18,053. You bargained with her?—She went to the "Stars" with me.

18,054. Have you ever seen Lombardini himself about it?—Yes.

18,055. He trusted all to his wife?—Yes, I believe she holds the breeches pretty well.

18,056. How much did you bargain with Mrs. Lombardini for the two votes?—100*l.*

18,057. For the two?—Yes.

18,058. How had they voted before?—Always for the Conservatives.

18,059. And were each to have 50*l.* or how was it divided?—Yes, 50*l.* each. Tozer was to have 50*l.* after he voted.

18,060. Was Lombardini to have 50*l.* before he voted?—He had both monies in his pocket the night before the election.

18,061. Did you see Mr. Heath and get leave from him to go and give them the 100*l.*?—Yes, I went down to the "Seven Stars" with Mrs. Lombardini.

18,062. She went down with you?—Yes.

18,063. And did you leave her outside and go in yourself?—She remained outside some short time.

18,064. Did you go in and see Mr. Heath?—I inquired where he was, and he happened to be coming down the stairs at the time.

18,065. From No. 8, for instance?—Yes.

18,066. Did you tell him that you could get them for 100*l.*?—Yes, I told him that was the amount.

18,067. And did he say that was all right and go upstairs?—He said "I will go and see some gentleman upstairs—some man come down to transact some business for us. I will go and get you the money."

18,068. Did you then go upstairs?—No.

18,069. Did you see where he went?—No, it was dark and I was downstairs.

18,070. Do you know the room where Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Kellock used to sit?—I saw Mr. Edmonds on on one occasion, the nomination day I think 18,071. Was it the small sitting-room, No. 8?—On the first landing.

18,072. A little door on the right?—Yes.

18,073. Do you know that that room has a window looking out on to the lobby of the "Seven Stars?"—Not that I remember.

18,074. When Mr. Heath went upstairs, how long did he stay?—He was away I should think about ten minutes or a quarter of an hour.

18,075. Then did he bring down some money?—He beckoned me to come upstairs, and Mrs. Lombardini and we went into a large room facing the plains.

18,076. The room with the low window?—No, not that room, the room on the left.

18,077. No. 6?—No. 6, the room on the left hand facing the plains.

18,078. You went in there?—Yes.

18,079. Then you called Mrs. Lombardini in I suppose?—Yes.

18,080. Then what happened?—I told Mr. Heath that we had come for the money, and he paid the money.

18,081. How did he pay it?—In notes.

18,082. To whom did he pay it?—To Mrs. Lombardini. He paid it out on the table, and she took it up.

18,083. Are you quite sure it was in notes? Yes.

18,084. What were the notes put into?—They were not put into anything. He brought it from this gentleman in his hand I believe.

18,085. While Mr. John Heath was upstairs, you were standing in the lobby?—Yes.

18,086. Where was he when he called to you to come up?—At the top of the landing.

18,087. Could you see whether he had been higher up in the house?—No, I could not see whether he had been higher, or whether he went in from the landing. I rather think he did go in from the landing.

18,088. Are you quite certain that you did not see the room from which he brought that money?—Quite positive, because I was on the landing when he went in. I believe he went in from the landing.

18,089. He went in from the landing?—I should think so from where we stood at the bottom.

18,090. Should you have seen him if he had gone upstairs?—From where we stood to the bedroom?

18,091. Yes?—No, it was dark.

18,092. Where you all three in the room alone when he paid you the money?—Yes.

18,093. You knew there was no one there?—Yes, I did not see anyone; not a soul.

18,094. Then he counted out the notes, and Mrs. Lombardini counted them, and went off with them?—Yes.

18,095. What became of Tozer's money, do you know?—It was returned the night of the election.

18,096. Who brought that back?—I went to Mrs. Lombardini and told her that she was to take back the money which she had for Tozer to the "Stars."

18,097. What made you do that?—Because I considered that he had not acted fair.

18,098. He voted against you?—Yes.

18,099. Do you know what he got for voting against you?—Never heard.

18,100. Has he never told you?—He never mentioned the amount.

18,101. Has he told you more than 50*l.*?—He never told me nothing more than the morning of the election, after the election I asked her why he voted against us.

18,102. What did he say?—He asked me whether I should not have done the same if I could have done better. She said he had done better himself.

18,103. You understood that to mean that he had had more money on the other side?—I should take that to be so.

18,104. Did he tell you who had been at him on the other side?—I have never been able to find that out.

18,105. Where does he live?—Bridgetown; he rents one of the houses of the Duke of Somerset.

18,106. Did anybody come to you from the other de at the election of 1865?—Not one.

18,107. Not in 1865?—I do not think they thought roper to.

18,108. From the Liberal side?—They knew I as the other way.

18,109. What did you get for your own vote?—I as not a voter.

18,110. What did you get for the service you endered?—20l.

18,111. Who from?—I was paid that by Mr. Ieath for my services.

18,112. When?—At the same time.

18,113. At the same time that he paid Mrs. Lombardini?—Yes.

18,114. That was before the election?—Yes.

18,115. Was that paid in notes?—Yes.

18,116. Now Lombardini and Tozer were the two ersons you saw first. Did you afterwards see Ianning?—Yes.

18,117. What is his christian name?—David.

18,118. Where did you see him?—I saw him at is shop.

18,119. What day?—The morning of the election. might have seen him once or twice previous to the lection day.

18,120. Had you any talk with him about voting efore the morning of the election?—I think there as something that passed as regards which way he ntended to vote.

18,121. What did you say about it. Did you say e would get something if he voted on the Conseratives side?—I believe I did.

18,122. Did you mention the sum you would give im?—I told him that he could have 50l.

18,123. How had you learned that 50l. was the roper price?—I was at the "Stars," and I communicated with Mr. Heath, and he said "If you will ell him to come down to the "Stars"—

18,124. Did you then go up with Mr. Dawkins' alet?—I met him just about the arch, he was coming own and I was going up.

18,125. And you went with the valet to Mannings' ouse?—He went with me.

18,126. Did you find Manning in his house?—He as in his shop.

18,127. Do you know what Colonel Dawkins' valet's ame was?—No, I have never heard.

18,128. What time of the day was it?—Just before . The poll had opened some time. Mr. Manning ad not voted, and I was deputed to go up and see im, and he said he was not in a hurry.

18,129. Did you find him a little sum to quicken im?—No, I said he had better go down with me to he "Stars," and he could have 50l. He said he was ot in a hurry, and he did not go with me, and I went ack with the message.

18,130. What was the message?—I went back with he message he was not in a hurry.

18,131. To the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

18,132. Did you see John Heath?—Yes.

18,133. Did you see Mr. Edmonds too?—I do not hink I did at that time. I saw Mr. Heath, and his eply was, "Don't take any more trouble about it," r something of that sort.

18,134. How did Manning vote?—He voted for Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Pender.

18,135. As far as you know he did not get anything?—I have heard him say since that he held out ather too long; he was a fool.

18,136. You say you did not see Mr. Edmonds on hat occasion, did you see him on any occasion about Manning's vote, or any other vote?—I saw Mr. Edmonds, and he said, "Don't bother anymore about it."

18,137. He said so to?—I rather think I told him I had been sent.

18,138. (Mr. Longe.) You have stated the transaction between Mr. Lombardini and Mr. Heath?—Yes.

18,139. Were you present?—Yes.

18,140. Who else was present?—No one.

18,141. Now listen to this evidence of Mr. Heath with regard to that transaction:—"Q. Now Lom- "bardini?—A. His wife came to negotiate. Q. Do "you recollect when?—A. I do not know. Q. Satur- "day or Monday?—A. I do not know, but she nego- "tiated for her husband and son-in-law, and she told "Mum in my presence that unless they got 50l. they "would not vote. Q. Who was the son-in-law?— "A. Tozer. Q. Did she get 50l.?—A. She got two "bags, one for Tozer and one for her husband. "Q. Who gave them?—A. Mum. Q. (Mr. Bere.) "How much do you suppose they got?—A. I do not "know. Q. You say the sums varied from 25l. to 50l. "—A. Yes." Was there any person answering to Mr. Mum present when you were there, and Mrs. Lombardini took that 50l., and was it given in bags?—I did not see anybody there.

18,142. You saw Mr. Heath give them in notes?—Yes.

18,143. (Mr. Bere.) Now in 1863 what part did you take?—I was then a voter.

18,144. How had you ceased to be a voter?—Because I gave up my house, which was sold.

18,145. Are you a voter now?—No.

18,146. Then you were a more valuable person in 1863 than in 1865?—I suppose they thought so.

18,147. How much did you get in 1863?—60l.

18,148. Did Mr. Heath give you that?—Yes.

18,149. Where did he give it to you?—To the best of my knowledge it was the top of the landing-place at the time.

18,150. Did you see where Mr. Heath got it from?—No.

18,151. Where did he take it from; did he take it out of his pocket, or had he a bag out of which he took it?—I was rather unwell the night of the nomination. To the best of my knowledge he gave it to Lombardini on the landing-place.

18,152. He did not give it directly to you?—No; it was brought to me. I had forgotten at the moment, but remember it now.

18,153. You say Lombardini brought it to you?—Yes.

18,154. Was it in gold or notes?—It was in gold.

18,155. Had you been employed by the Conservatives also at that election?—Yes.

18,156. And did you influence some of the people; your father-in-law, Lombardini?—He voted with me.

18,157. And did he get the same consideration for his vote as you did?—Yes; Mrs. Lombardini went, I believe.

18,158. She got the 60l.?—Yes.

18,159. William Sloggett?—I was desired at that time to look sharp after him, if I possibly could.

18,160. Did you do anything?—He went to Plymouth, and I went down at the same time.

18,161. Did you find that somebody was down before you?—I heard he was gone down there for change of air, and that he should remain away until the election day was over. However, I believe he came back on the day of the nomination.

18,162. How did he vote; for Mr. Dent?—No; he had 20l. to vote for him.

18,163. Who gave it?—Frederick Evens.

18,164. Then there were some other voters who had gone to Plymouth?—Not at that time. I remember seeing Mr. Clark, the waiter at the hotel. I saw him.

18,165. What inducement did you offer Mr. Clark?—I asked him whether he was not going to Totnes to vote for Mr. Dent; he would no doubt vote for a good man, a man who would do good for the town. He had not altogether made up his mind then. He said Mr. Michelmore had been there.

18,166. Which Mr. Michelmore?—Charles Frederick,

18,167. Did he tell you that Charles Frederick had promised him anything?—No; his bell was rung, and that was the only conversation that took place at that time.

18,168. Had you no time to tell him how much you could give him to come up?—No; I never offered him any more than to go to the "Stars."

FIFTEENTH DAY.

George Evens.

10 Sept. 1866.

18,169. In 1862, when Dent retired, were you employed to go about, and not actually to give sums of money, but to intimate that money would be forthcoming if there was a contest?—No doubt I was.

18,170. And you did go to several voters?—Yes.

18,171. Did you go to your father-in-law?—Yes.

18,172. And Tozer?—He was not a voter then.

18,173. Lombardini was?—Yes.

18,174. Who else?—No one at that time.

18,175. But other people you knew, your friends?—I do not remember any particular person.

18,176. But you did go about and intimate that money would be forthcoming for a vote?—Yes; I may have done.

18,177. Did you get paid for your services at the election of 1862?—I believe I had 3*l.* or 4*l.*

18,178. Whom did you get that from?—I went with Mr. Heath during the election day to do anything that might be required. I think he paid me 4*l.* or 5*l.* I will not be positive whether it was 4*l.* or 5*l.*

18,179. Now in 1859 I think you had a good deal to do with it; Dunn's?—Yes.

18,180. Were you employed then by the Conservative party?—Yes.

18,181. And did you take some voters over to Dean?—Yes; it was Nicholas Norrish, Reuben Crocker, James Dean, and William Toope.

18,182. Was it William or John Toope?—William, I think, was his name; but I will not be positive.

18,183. Was it a long name—William Oldrey Towell Toope?—No; William Toope I think he was called.

18,184. You took them to Dean, did you?—Yes.

18,185. How long did you keep them there?—I gave them a good dinner and plenty of grog; but I heard they were brushing up the combers; there are a lot of combers employed.

18,186. The Liberals of Totnes were?—Yes.

18,187. Were some of the woolcombers voters then?—No; but I thought them a class of men to take away voters from me.

18,188. They were a class of ducks to decoy voters away from you?—Yes; I took them to the Kingsbridge Road station.

18,189. Was Mr. Coulton, of Buckfastleigh, there? How far is Dean from Buckfastleigh?—About a mile and a half or two miles.

18,190. You took them away to Dean?—To Kingsbridge Road Station.

18,191. You did not leave them there?—I waited for the first train that came, and booked them for Plymouth.

18,192. Where did you take them to at Plymouth?—I thought that was too close. I saw a person named Broadway, brother-in-law of William Pulling, cabinet-maker here, happened to see me pass with those men just as I was going from the station in Union Street, and I thought he was a person very likely to report of their being there; and I thought the best plan would be take them to Devonport.

18,193. Did you take them to Devonport?—Yes.

18,194. Where did you keep them at Devonport?—I kept them at the "Coach and Horses."

18,195. How long did you keep them there?—Not long, because I thought that was too close.

18,196. Where then?—Saltash. I kept them there several hours, till I returned back to Devonport, and found they had not smelt a rat, as it were; and I went back to Saltash, and they returned with me again to the hotel or public-house we stopped at.

18,197. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were these willing ducks who were glad to go about with you?—Yes; all in good humour.

18,198. (Mr. Bere.) How much did you give them to make them so pleasant?—I had nothing to do with them, but William Toope.

18,199. How much?—20*l.*

18,200. Who were the others stuffed by—the other three?—They were brought back to the "Stars," and made right there, I believe.

18,201. Did you bring them all back to the "Stars?"—No; Nicholas Norrish. I left them in charge of him, and I was then in search of a voter, James Mitchell.

18,202. You left them in charge of somebody else?—Yes.

18,203. And this man brought them back?—Yes.

18,204. And you went in search of a voter named Mitchell?—Yes.

18,205. Did you find him?—I had been two or three times previous to the election, and he promised me the night before the nomination.

18,206. Where did he live?—Granby Street, and kept a druggist's shop.

18,207. Plymouth?—Devonport; I believe the name of the street is Granby Street.

18,208. What did you offer him?—30*l.*

18,209. Did he tell you he could get a little more on the other side?—He first agreed to take it, notwithstanding he told me he had seen Mr. Brooking Cuming down there.

18,210. He told you that Mr. Brooking Cuming had been?—He told me in his own shop. We had a glass of grog there, and he told me he had seen him and Mr. Windeatt.

18,211. Did he tell you what they had offered him?—First he asked what I could manage to get him. I told him 30*l.* He said then the first time he would accept it. The second time I went down he did not consider he should vote for that, meaning at the time he could get more.

18,212. Do you know whether he had seen Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Brooking Cuming between the first and second time?—It must have been before the second.

18,213. And after the first?—Yes.

18,214. Was Mr. Pulling after him too?—I heard so; but Mr. Pulling came down with his brother-in-law, Broadway.

18,215. Do you know how Mitchell got the money?—No.

18,216. Is he a brother-in-law of Richard Matthews? Do you know whether Richard Matthews got money for him?—I heard he came to Totnes, the "Seymour Hotel," and got it.

18,217. Do you know who paid him?—It was by his brother-in-law, Richard Matthews.

18,218. Richard Matthews paid his brother-in-law at the "Seymour Arms Hotel?"—Yes.

18,219. Who is he?—A timber merchant at Plymouth, I think.

18,220. Is he a voter for Totnes?—No; but he lived here some years, and married Mitchell's sister.

18,221. Had you a vote for 1859?—No.

18,222. What did you get for your services then?—20*l.*, I believe, was the amount, I believe, I was to have had for my trouble.

18,223. What did you get?—I received a note from Mr. Edmonds after the election. (I had received 5*l.* at the time,) telling me that money ran short, and asking me whether I would accept two 5*l.* notes, and that made it 15*l.*

18,224. And that you accepted?—Yes.

18,225. Where did you get the money from you promised and paid to Toope?—I had that at the "Stars."

18,226. From John Heath?—Yes.

18,227. Where, in the lobby upstairs, or where?—There was a man here of the name of Higgins; I saw him at the "Stars." I was not paid by Mr. Heath. At that time Mr. Heath showed me up over the stairs.

18,228. Where did he show you to?—Over his office on the left hand side going into the hall—going into the house.

18,229. Those stairs opposite to the ones which lead up fo Nos. 13, 14, and 15 bedrooms?—Yes.

18,230. Where did you go when you got up those stairs?—A room just facing the stairs.

18,231. A sitting-room?—It faced the right of the left wing of the stairs.

18,232. Is it No. 9?—I am not positive as to the number.

18,233. Did you see a man there?—I did.

18,234. What sort of man?—A short man; rather ginger whiskers, sandy whiskers.

18,235. Had you seen him before?—I saw him about a day or two previous to the election.

18,236. He had brought his wife down with him?—She was supposed to be his wife.

18,237. Had you seen him about the town, and had he gone by the name of Higgins?—Yes.

18,238. Had you told him anything of this before?—I went into the room and told him.

18,239. Do you remember what was Tope's christian name?—I cannot tell you. You will see by the book or by the list. I think he lives in Bay Horse Street, in one of Mr. Master's houses.

18,240. About how many days were you engaged in the election of 1859?—It might have been a fortnight or three weeks.

18,241. You saw Mr. Higgins; did you tell him what you had come for?—I told him I wanted 20*l.* to take to a voter.

18,242. What did he say to you?—He let me have it.

18,243. Did Mr. Heath introduce you to him?—He left me there.

18,244. He went into the room with you?—Yes; he said, "Here's a man come for some money."

18,245. Did he give it to you in notes or in gold?—He gave it me in gold.

18,246. Where did he take it from?—He took it from a tin box.

18,247. Was it in the room, where he was, unlocked?—I think it was unlocked.

18,248. He took it from the box and gave it to you?—Yes.

18,249. Where was this man when you gave it to him?—I gave it to his wife; he was not at home.

18,250. Did you ever see the stranger in 1865?—No; not in my recollection.

18,251. You never saw him at all?—No; I had no business upstairs whatever.

18,252. You mean to say that you never did go up stairs?—No.

18,253. Were you ever in the room No. 13 at the "Seven Stars?"—Not to my knowledge.

18,254. Were you ever in any one of the bedrooms at the "Seven Stars?"—Never.

18,255. Have you ever had anything to do with the election for the Town Council?—Yes.

18,256. Have you canvassed people on those occasions and acted as a runner?—On a very few occasions I might have been mixed up with it, having a vote to record. I might have gone down and given a vote, and I might have asked one or two others for their votes.

18,257. Have you ever taken any money to any person for a vote?—Yes.

18,258. To whom?—To a man named Evens.

18,259. What is his christian name?—I think William.

18,260. What did you give to him?—I gave him a sovereign.

18,261. Do you know whether he was a voter for the borough as well?—No.

18,262. Did you ever receive any money for your vote as regards the municipal elections?—Never one farthing. On one occasion I was put down for 4*l.*; but I never got the money.

18,263. You are perfectly certain that in 1865 this money was given to you by Mr. Heath?—Yes.

18,264. And was given to you in the large room?—Yes.

18,265. It was paid to you by Mr. Heath in notes?—Yes.

18,266. Did he give you any directions as to how you should change those notes?—No; I never heard a word from him about that.

18,267. Then you would have changed them yourself how you liked?—Yes.

18,268. He gave you 20*l.* in notes?—Yes.

EDWARD BAKER sworn and examined.

Edward Baker

18,269. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—A tailor.

18,270. How long have you had a vote for the borough?—I have only voted once.

18,271. Was that on the occasion of the last election?—Yes.

18,272. Who was it who first canvassed you?—Mr. Seymour.

18,273. Did Mr. Seymour come to canvass you himself?—Yes, he did.

18,274. Who was with him?—I think he and Mr. Michelmore came together.

18,275. Do you mean Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore?—No; Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

18,276. And I suppose they asked you for your vote?—Yes.

18,277. And did you promise them?—No.

18,278. What did you say?—I said I should not promise.

18,279. Did you tell them what your political principles were?—No.

18,280. Did those gentlemen say they would call again?—No, they did not; they never called again.

18,281. Who was it who next canvassed you?—Colonel Dawkins.

18,282. Who was with him?—I really do not know who was with him. There was some gentleman with him; I do not know who it was.

18,283. Was it Mr. Heath?—No; it was young Mr. Heath who came with the other gentleman, Captain Pim.

18,284. Who was the gentleman who was with Colonel. Dawkins?—I do not know.

18,285. Was it Mr. Kellock, do you think?—No; certainly not.

18,286. Was it Mr. Edmonds?—No.

18,287. How did Colonel Dawkins treat you?—He asked me to vote for him, and I told him "Yes."

18,288. Did nothing more than that take place?—Nothing more than that took place. He asked me if I would give him my vote, and I told him "Yes."

18,289. Was there no understanding at all about the matter as to whether one side would not pay better than the other?—No; not a word was said.

18,290. Did not young Screach call upon you after this?—No; he had been there before.

18,291. You did not call Mr. Screach's visits canvassing visits?—No.

18,292. How soon after Mr. Seymour left you did Screach call upon you?—He had been down at me some two or three times; he had forestalled the other side; he was the first in the field.

18,293. What was the result of your first conversation with Screach; what did he propose to you?—Screach came to my house, and asked me if a little money would do me any good. I said "Yes." He said, "How much do you want?" I said, "I will not name anything; name a sum yourself." Then he said, "Would 50*l.* be any good to you?" I said, "Yes, if you will bring it."

18,294. How long was that before the election?—I think that was nearly a week before the election. Then he said that he would bring it down to me. I thought that a bird in the hand was worth two in the bush.

18,295. Did he bring the money down to you?—No; I went to his house and received it, or to his father's house.

18,296. When did you go to his house?—On the Sunday night before the election.

18,297. Did he give you to understand that he would not be able to get the money before that night?—No; I met him in the street on that night.

18,298. You have said you thought a bird in the hand was worth two in the bush; your bird was a long time coming; you do not appear to have got it until some time afterwards?—It was on the Sunday night before the election.

18,299. Had nothing been thrown out at all with regard to the other side?—Nothing at all.

18,300. And that is the only time that you have voted?—That is the only time.

18,301. (Mr. Bere.) Where did Screach pay you?—In his father's house.

18,302. Did he pay you in gold?—Yes. He told me that Colonel Dawkins had got 1,400*l.*, which had been brought down in a large box, and that they were doing business with the Teignmouth Bank. I went to his father's house on the Sunday night before the election, and he paid me in his father's bedroom.

18,303. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did not ask him whether he could not do a little more for you?—Not a word of the kind. If I had said so I would have told you.

18,304. You thought you had got as much as your vote was worth?—I did; and I went to sleep very comfortably afterwards.

18,305. Were you open to take anything from the other side?—Not a penny.

18,306. Did not Mr. Pender's people come to you?—No.

18,307. Did they not offer you money to vote for them?—Not a farthing.

18,308. Did they not give you a chance?—No; they never came nigh me; only one of them called upon me.

18,309. Did not Parnell come to you?—No; there was only one person.

18,310. And who was that?—Punchard.

18,311. What did he come to you about?—We had been on friendly terms with each other for some years. He came to ask me if I would support his party; I told him "No;" that was all that passed.

18,312. Screach had been with you before?—I had made up my mind 12 months before that I would not vote for the Whig party.

18,313. What was your reason for not doing so?—It had nothing to do with politics. If you wish me to do so I can tell you the reason.

18,314. Let us have your reason?—I always had been on that side; but I was taken very ill, and was in bed for some six months, and never was able to earn a shilling. Mr. Parnell came to me, and demanded a pound for the head rent of the house which I live in. I was very ill in bed, and my wife told him if he must have the pound it was every penny we had in the house. He said he must have it; it was money which was to be paid to the Charity Trustees. My wife said to him, "If you take that, you will take every penny we have." He said, "If you will let me have the pound now I will send you down a pound in the evening." She let him have that, which was every farthing we had in the house; and I never saw anything more of Mr. Parnell for three months afterwards. And that was the reason, and the only one, for which I had made up my mind not to vote for their party.

18,315. Have you ever voted at the municipal elections at all?—Yes.

18,316. Did you ever get anything for doing so?—No; I never got anything.

18,317. Did a man of the name of Elliott come to you in 1865, who was sent by Mr. Windeatt?—No.

18,318. Do you know such a man?—Yes.

18,319. Did you ever have any talk with him about the election?—Not more than once.

18,320. Did he say there was any money to be had on the Liberal side?—I do not know that he did.

18,321. Are you quite sure that he did not?—I would not swear it; I think he did not.

18,322. You are sure that he got no money from Mr. Windeatt for you?—I am.

18,323. You are certain of that?—Yes.

18,324. And that he did not say there was money to be had?—He might have said so, but he held out no inducement to me. If he had offered me 300*l.* I would not have gone on that side because I had made a promise to myself when I was in bed that I would not do so. I had always been on the other side, but no one came to offer me a shilling on the Liberal side.

WILLIAM BYNE sworn and examined.

William Byne.

18,325. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A cowkeeper and contractor.

18,326. A contractor for what?—For different things; anything in the labouring way.

18,327. How long have you been a cowkeeper?—I have been in the borough for these five years.

18,328. Where did you come from?—Before that I lived on a farm some three miles off.

18,329. How long have you been a voter for the borough?—Seven or eight years; from the time when Mr. Pender came down here first.

18,330. That is not seven or eight years since?—I was on the list before that.

18,331. When did you first become a voter?—I first voted for Mr. Pender.

18,332. When did you first get a vote?—I cannot say to a year.

18,333. What did you get a vote for?—For buildings and land which I took first when the Duke bought it.

18,334. Was that a part of Gerston?—It is adjoining Gerston.

18,335. Did you occupy the fields yourself?—I did.

18,336. And did you keep your cows there?—Yes.

18,337. What was the value of that field?—Some 24*l.* a year.

18,338. How many others were associated with it?—None.

18,339. Were there no other votes in that field?—No.

18,340. You voted for Mr. Pender in 1862?—Yes.

18,341. You were one of the 171?—Yes.

18,342. Had any one been to you from Mr. Dent's side about your vote?—Mr. Dent called on me himself, and Mr. Edmonds with him.

18,343. Did Screach or Evens come and see you in 1862?—No, but a man called Woodley came to me and offered me 60*l.*; he was drunk at the time.

18,344. What did you say to him?—I said I would have nothing to do with him.

18,345. Had you told Mr. Dent that you would not vote for him?—Yes.

18,346. Did you see this man when he was sober?—No, I saw him no more.

18,347. Was that the only offer you had made you on the Conservative side?—Yes.

18,348. In 1863 you changed your mind as to voting for Mr. Dent?—Yes, I did.

18,349. What did you get for that change of opinion?—I got 80*l.* What Mr. George Heath said the other day was true, every word of it.

18,350. You have also had some meadows let to you belonging to Mr. Dent?—I give the full value for those. What Mr. Harris had stated in that respect is false. I deny the whole of the charge which Mr. Harris made against me.

18,351. Can you tell us how many acres there are?—I can give you the measurement, the rental, and everything connected with it. It was valued by Mr. Hamlyn, the surveyor to Lord Churston, the Duke of Cleveland, and other great men, and also by Mr. Page, a man of great experience in valuations, and a voter for the borough, and who has valued in all the parishes in this neighbourhood.

18,352. I see there are 15 acres 1 rood and 35 perches?—Yes.

18,353. And you pay 56*l.* a year for it?—Yes.

18,354. That is not quite 4*l.* 10*s.* an acre. How many fields are there?—Five; two of them are water meadows; the other three are indifferent lots. I think I pay more for those than the former tenant paid.

18,355. Who was the former tenant, do you know? Mr. Robert Earle, a voter in Totnes.

18,356. Do you mean to say that land is not worth more than 4*l.* 10*s.* an acre?—Decidedly not.

18,357. But I suppose the water meadows are worth more than that?—Yes, but the others are very rough fields.

18,358. Is that the memorandum which you gave to Mr. George Heath for the 80*l.* (handing a paper to the witness)?—That is it.

18,359. And that is your handwriting?—Yes.

18,360. Where did Mr. George Heath pay it to you?—At the "Stars," in a room adjoining the bar.

18,361. Do you mean in the small room?—In the small room on the right.

18,362. Who were there besides you two?—No person.

18,363. When was this?—On the Saturday evening before the election.

18,364. Had they not been to you on the other side?—Yes; I had promised Mr. Seymour when he came first. No one else ever came.

18,365. Did not Mr. Parnell come?—No.

18,366. Or Mr. Holman?—No.

18,367. Or Mr. Chaster?—No; no one at all came but Mr. Seymour and Mr. Cuming, who was canvassing with him.

18,368. Did you receive any intimation of having any money to vote for the Liberals?—None whatever.

18,369. You were turned out after having given your vote?—No, I was not. I gave notice on my own account.

18,370. But you would have been turned out if you had not given notice?—I hardly know how that would have been; there were several who were turned out.

18,371. You have taken an active part on the Liberal side?—No.

18,372. Is not this document in your handwriting (hands a paper to the witness)?—Yes.

18,373. Is not that an objection by you to the Conservative votes?—Yes; but it has nothing to do with the Liberal party; that is a matter which requires explanation.

18,374. Who instructed you to do this?—No one; I did it all on my own account.

18,375. And who will have to pay the expense of it?—I must pay them myself.

18,376. Do you mean to tell us, upon your oath, that you have not seen any member of the Liberal party as to this document?—No one whatever.

18,377. When did you first begin to serve the notices of objection?—I first began myself on Friday, the 24th ult.

18,378. Who had done it before?—The postman, I suppose.

18,379. Had you not seen Mr. Parnell?—No; I have never spoken to him.

18,380. Who had served the notices of objection last year?—I do not know; I think the postman brought me mine.

18,381. Who signed them?—They were signed by Thomas Windeatt; I think also by Mr. Prout.

18,382. That is Mr. Michelmore's clerk?—Yes; I was objected to last year by the Tory party.

18,383. Who objected to you last year?—Mr. George Heath.

18,384. Upon your oath are you not the appointed objector for the Liberal party against the Conservatives?—I am not.

18,385. Have you delivered about sixty objections to the voters on the Conservative side?—There are about that number; I have not delivered them myself.

18,386. But who has paid you for doing it?—No one.

18,387. Then who do you look to for payment for it?—No one; I have done this on my own account.

18,388. What made you do it?—I found that no one else was doing it. Mr. Harris has been so busy, I suppose, and I thought I would keep the thing going. Now I understand he is annoyed that I have done it.

18,389. But who gave you this information about the voters?—I went to Mr. Thomas Windeatt.

18,390. And you got the information from him?—Yes.

18,391. So that he would know what you were going to use the information for?—Yes.

18,392. Had you not better take care? Do you mean to say that you have not been ordered to serve these notices by Mr. Windeatt or by Mr. Michelmore?—By neither one of them.

18,393. Do you mean to say that Mr. Jeffery Michelmore does not know of your having served those objections?—He might know it now but he did not know of it beforehand.

18,394. Who filled them up?—Mr. Windeatt.

18,395. And then you signed them?—Yes.

18,396. And then Mr. Windeatt gave you this bit of paper?—Yes; I have to pay for it.

18,397. Have you paid for it?—Not yet.

18,398. How much have you got to pay?—That I do not know.

18,399. And you mean to tell us seriously that you are going to pay that out of your own pocket?—Decidedly so; do not intend to say anything but the truth.

18,400. Have you not stated before you came into this hall that unless Mr. George Heath came forward to state what he knew about the 80*l.* you should not tell about it?—I may have said so, unless all parties did.

18,401. Do you remember what is the oath which you have taken?—Yes; that I would not take a false oath.

18,402. What have you been sworn to do?—To speak the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

18,403. Then do you call concealing that which you know telling the whole truth?—I have not concealed anything.

18,404. You have said that you would not tell anything you knew about the 80*l.* unless Mr. George Heath did so?—I think so.

18,405. Have you not said, out of Court, that you would not tell the whole truth unless Mr. George Heath did so?—I believe I have said that.

18,406. Did you not put your name to a requisition that was got up and sent to Mr. Macleay (hands a paper to the witness)?—I did not; if my name is there it is a forgery.

18,407. Is that not in your handwriting; you had better take care what you say?—I will endeavour to explain that.

18,408. How do you explain it. Read it (handing paper to witness) You said just now it was a forgery?—I was not allowed to read that.

18,409. You read that (the witness read the paper).

18,410. Now what is your explanation?—Mr. Harris came to me one day with a paper, no doubt that is the same, and he said he had a requisition to Mr. Dent and asked me to sign it. I first objected to doing so because I said if I signed a requisition I should be expected to vote, and he said, "Oh no, you won't be expected to vote." Then he began to say that I was a tenant to Mr. Dent and ought to sign it, and on those conditions I did sign it.

18,411. Then what did you mean by saying you didn't sign it?—I took this paper and he was going away. He said I am in a great hurry and wanted to go to several places if you will put your name down there and that will do; and I put my name without reading any of the paper.

18,412. (Mr. Coleridge.) What do you mean by saying that if your name was there it was a forgery?—I never intended it for Macleay.

18,413. What is a forgery?—It is putting my name there.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

William Byne.

10 Sept. 1866.

18,414. By some one else?—Yes. If a person comes and says so and so, and you do not read it, I call that a forgery.

18,415. You have put your name to this yourself?—Yes.

(Mr. Bere.) I shall ask you no more questions about the election of 1865, but you shall stay here from day to day, and your expenses shall not be allowed.

W. Allen.

WILLIAM ALLEN sworn and examined.

18,416. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A gardener and seedsman.

18,417. Where do you live?—At the top of the town, or nearly.

18,418. How long have you been a voter?—I don't recollect, 20 years I should suppose.

18,419. What do you vote upon?—A house.

18,420. Your own house?—I rent it.

18,421. A 10*l.* house?—20*l.*

18,422. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

18,423. Had you always voted for the Conservatives?—Always voted for one Conservative and the Duke of Somerset's interest.

18,424. How came you to neglect the Duke of Somerset's interest at the last election?—Mr. Michelmore withdrew his favours and I had a right to do as I like.

18,425. How did he withdraw his favours?—He took them from me.

18,426. Took what?—He used to deal with me and took his favours from me.

18,427. He gave up dealing with you?—Yes.

18,428. Which Mr. Michelmore?—The old gentleman.

18,429. That is the only reason you voted the other way?—Yes.

18,430. No other reason?—I had some reason for it; I got some money.

18,431. Who gave you the money?—Mr. Screach.

18,432. When did he give it to you?—Before the election.

18,433. Did you change your mind before Screach saw you or afterwards?—Before.

18,434. When did you first promise to vote for the two Conservatives?—I am sure I cannot say.

18,435. Who canvassed you?—Three of them.

18,436. Whom did you see?—I didn't see Colonel Dawkins.

18,437. Captain Pim and Colonel Dawkins?—I do not know anything about Mr. Dawkins.

18,438. Who came with Captain Pim to you?—I'm sure I do not recollect.

18,439. Was there anybody?—I do not know who was with him.

18,440. One of the Heaths?—I think one of them.

18,441. Which one?—I do not recollect, but I think Mr. George or Mr. James Heath.

18,442. Who else?—I do not recollect anyone.

18,443. What did you promise Captain Pim?—I did not promise him anything.

18,444. What was your feeling about your vote; what did you say?—I did not know what I should do.

18,445. You were one of the doubtfuls?—Yes.

18,446. At the time Captain Pim canvassed you, you had not made up your mind?—No.

18,447. It was not because Mr. Michelmore took his favours away that you voted the other side?—Not for Captain Pim alone.

18,448. You told us just now that the reason you voted for the Conservatives was that Mr. Michelmore took away his favours. When did he take them away?—After Mr. Dunn's election.

18,449. Why didn't you promise Captain Pim?—I do not know why I did not. At first I think I said I had not made up my mind.

18,450. You had made up your mind not to vote for the Liberals. Now be careful! What do you mean by saying that the reason you didn't vote for the Liberals was because Mr. Michelmore took away his favours?—I said so.

18,451. You didn't intend to vote for the Liberals?—Not for the Duke of Somerset's interest.

18,452. Why didn't you promise Captain Pim a vote?—I was not bound to do so.

18,453. When he asked you for your vote you meant to vote against the Duke of Somerset, then why didn't you promise Captain Pim?—I had not made up my mind whether I should vote at all.

18,454. How often have you voted?—I do not know.

18,455. How often have you not voted at a contested election?—Never, I think.

18,456. Then what do you mean by saying you had not made up your mind to vote?—I had not made up my mind.

18,457. You intended to vote against the Duke of Somerset?—Yes.

18,458. You had one vote to dispose of?—Yes.

18,459. Why not promise it to Captain Pim?—I do not know why I should promise it to him.

18,460. Did Colonel Dawkins canvass you?—Yes, he has been to our house.

18,461. He saw your wife?—Yes.

18,462. Did she promise your vote?—No.

18,463. She was one of the doubtful ones?—I do not know.

18,464. When Mr. Pender came and canvassed you who was with him?—I'm sure I do not know.

18,465. Mr. Parnell?—No.

18,466. Mr. Michelmore?—I think Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

18,467. Mr. Windeatt?—I do not know whether Mr. Windeatt was there or not.

18,468. What did you tell him; did you tell him you should vote for him?—No.

18,469. Did you promise Mr. Seymour?—No.

18,470. Then you promised no one?—I promised no one.

18,471. How long did you remain one of the doubtful ones; up to what time, and removed your doubts?—I think Mr. Screach came.

18,472. What removed your doubts?—He gave me 80*l.*

18,473. When?—The day before the election.

18,474. Where?—At Mr. Hannaford's.

18,475. Where is that?—Near the bottom of the town.

18,476. What did he pay you in?—Gold.

18,477. Who else was present?—No one.

18,478. What were you to do?—To vote for the two Conservatives, he asked me to do that.

18,479. That is what you mean in saying you voted against the Duke of Somerset because Mr. Michelmore withdrew his favours?—I had a right to do as I liked.

18,480. You said it was because Mr. Michelmore took away his favours?—I did.

18,481. Supposing Mr. Pender had given you 80*l.*?—He had nothing to do with it.

18,482. Supposing Mr. Seymour had given you that?—I should not.

18,483. You were open to conviction by Mr. Pender?—I would rather vote for Mr. Pender than Mr. Seymour.

18,484. What were you offered on the other side?—Nothing.

18,485. You are sure?—Yes.

18,486. Did you ever tell Screach you did?—No; he says so, but I disprove it.

18,487. How are you going to disprove it?—I say it is a falsehood.

18,488. Did anybody offer you money at the election on the other side?—No.

18,489. Your wife?—I do not know what she did.

18,490. Did she tell you to be careful how you promised your vote, because there was more money going the other way?—She don't interfere with me in elections.

18,491. Have you ever talked about the value of your vote to your wife?—No.

18,492. You do not trust her with such matters?—No.

18,493. How did you vote in 1863?—I voted for Mr. Dent.

18,494. What did you get for your vote?—60*l.*

18,495. Who paid you?—Frederick Evans; and he asked for a sovereign out, and I threw it back.

18,496. Did Pender offer you anything?—No.

18,497. Had Michelmore withdrawn his custom at that time?—I believe he had.

18,498. When did he withdraw his custom?—I could tell you by the books, but I cannot by reccollection.

18,499. You can tell whether the withdrawal of his custom or the payment of the 60*l.* carried your vote on that occasion. Was it the 60*l.* or the withdrawal of the custom—come?—I made up my mind.

18,500. You do not know whether Mr. Michelmore had withdrawn his custom?—I believe he had.

18,501. Had he withdrawn it in 1862?—Not that I am aware of.

18,502. There were only six weeks difference between the two elections?—I do not recollect the dates of the year of the elections.

18,503. I mean Dent and Seymour's election; you got 60*l.* for voting for Dent?—Yes.

18,504. Were you offered anything on Seymour's side?—Iwas not.

18,505. In 1862, who canvassed you?—Who were the candidates?

18,506. Pender and Dent. When Dent withdrew were you promised anything?—No.

18,507. Not by Dent's side?—No, I was not.

18,508. Was your wife?—No, there was no promise at all made.

18,509. Were you told that if there was money you should have some?—No.

18,510. You got no promise in Pender and Dent's election?—No, that was when Dent withdrew.

18,511. In 1859, in Dunn's election, what did you get?—I forget; something about 20*l.* or 30*l.*

18,512. Who gave you that?—I cannot tell.

18,513. Do you mean a stranger?—Yes, I have not seen him before or since.

18,514. Where did you get it?—At Mr. Hannaford's.

18,515. Which one?—At the bottom of the town; the baker.

18,516. Joseph, is it?—Yes.

18,517. Was that when you voted for Mr. Dunn?—Yes, I should be obliged; I was in the employ of a lady on that side.

18,518. Were you not in the employ of Mr. Michelmore?—No.

18,519. Did not he deal with you?—Yes.

18,520. In Dunn's election he dealt with you?—Yes.

18,521. How was it you did not vote for him?—I do not know.

18,522. Did you vote in 1857?—Yes.

18,523. What did you get?—Nothing.

18,524. Who were the candidates?—I voted for Mackenzie and the Duke.

18,525. Did you ever vote before that?—Yes.

18,526. What was the first time you ever got anything paid for your vote?—In Dunn's election.

18,527. Have you voted at the municipal elections?—Yes.

18,528. What have you got?—I never asked and never thought of anything in a paltry thing like that.

18,529. You did not care about that only at the other elections?—Yes.

18,530. (Mr. Bere.) You cannot tell the date that Mr. Michelmore withdrew his custom?—No, but I can tell you somewhere about the time.

18,531. Have you ever borrowed money on your life?—Yes.

18,532. Did you borrow that on your furniture?—Yes.

18,533. From whom?—From Mr. Michelmore.

18,534. When did you borrow it?—I can hardly tell you, but previous to the 15th March 1863; I think 1863.

18,535. How much did you borrow?—15*l.*

18,536. Did you pay it back again?—Yes.

18,537. After Dent's election?—Yes.

18,538. Out of the money you got from Dent's election?—Yes.

18,539. Did you give a bill of sale on the furniture?—Yes.

18,540. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever give an I O U for the sums of money you received?—Never but one, and that was in Dunn's election.

18,541. To whom did you give it?—The "Stranger."

18,542. (Mr. Bere.) Was the stranger a man with light whiskers?—I do not know anything about his whiskers, but he was a short man.

18,543. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was one of your reasons for voting in Dent's election that Mr. Oldreive and Mr. Edmonds had sent a message that you should lay out the grounds of their new buildings?—Yes.

18,544. Was that the reason you voted?—It was Dunn's election.

18,545. Was that the reason?—Yes, it would be a good job; I think it would be worth 100*l.*

18,546. Did you not get it?—I did not.

18,547. Who made you the promise?—Mr. Frederick Evans; he brought the message and said he had been to the "Stars," that this message was brought from the "Stars," and that he was to come to me with that message.

18,548. You were to have the laying out of the grounds?—Yes, the grounds of the new houses.

18,549. They were building houses?—The houses were built, and if I could have the business it would have been better than money.

18,550. You would make more than 60*l.*?—Yes.

William Stoyle sworn and examined.

W. Stoyle.

18,551. (Mr. Longe.) How long have you had a vote for the borough?—These 20 years.

18,552. When was the first election that you found your vote was worth any money?—I got no money at all; I never got a farthing.

18,553. When was the election when anyone talked to you about giving you some money for a vote?—Not at all; not a farthing.

18,554. When was the first election that you gave your vote, and who was the first gentleman you gave your vote to?—Lord Seymour.

18,555. At that election who was on the other side?—I'm sure I do not know.

18,556. You were canvassed by two gentlemen?—Not that I know of.

18,557. You remember the last election?—Yes.

18,558. Who did you vote for then?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

18,559. Who asked you for your vote?—Colonel Dawkins.

18,560. Did anyone give you a sum of money then or afterwards as a present?—Yes, I had a little, not very much.

18,561. You thought you ought to have had a little more?—I could not get it.

18,562. How much; had anybody promised you something more?—No.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

W. Stoyle.

10 Sept. 1866.

18,563. Or promised your wife?—No, no one.

18,564. You say you had expected some; what did you expect?—What I could get.

18,565. What did you expect?—If I had had 10*l.* more I should have been better pleased.

18,566. Did you ever get 30*l.*?—No.

18,567. What is the most you ever got?—That is the most I got.

18,568. What made you think of getting more; did you ever hear of anyone getting more?—Not that I know of.

18,569. Do you remember some one coming and offering you 40*l.* the last time?—Yes.

18,570. Who was it offered you 40*l.*?—My brother.

18,571. George Stoyle?—Yes.

18,572. Who sent him; he was not going to pay you the money out of his own pocket?—That I do not know.

18,573. Did he come from Colonel Dawkins?—That I do not know.

18,574. Who sent him; did he come from Mr. Pender?—No.

18,575. Who were you to vote for if you got the 40*l.* from him?—The opposite side.

18,576. Who was the opposite side?—Pender and Seymour.

18,577. What did he say?—He offered me that sum.

18,578. You didn't believe that he had got the money to give you?—I do not know.

18,579. Didn't you ask him who sent him?—No, certainly not.

18,580. Did you believe that he could get the money?—I do not know.

18,581. Did you give him a reason for not voting his way, and not taking his 40*l.*?—Yes, because I signed a requisition, and I go by my word.

18,582. What do you mean by signing a requisition?—That I do not know.

18,583. Who asked you to sign the requisition?—I do not know who it was.

18,584. Do you see him here? Is that the gentleman (referring to Mr. Harris)?—Yes.

18,585. What did he tell you?—He didn't tell me anything more than he asked me to sign the paper.

18,586. He must have told you what it meant?—Yes.

18,587. Did he tell you it was a paper asking a gentleman to stand as a Conservative? Did he tell you what it meant putting your name down? Did he tell you that you would be paid for your services?—I do not know exactly.

18,588. You must know?—No, I do not know.

18,589. Did he give you to understand that you would be paid for the trouble of putting your hand down?—He did not.

18,590. Will you swear he didn't?—He didn't.

18,591. That is true?—Yes.

18,592. You didn't understand that you would get anything for it?—I did not.

18,593. Then why didn't you vote on the other side when the 40*l.* would have been given you?—I signed the requisition, and that is enough for me.

18,594. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the gentleman that was dressed up by Frederick Evens, and taken to the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

18,595. Your brother was in the house at the time?—No.

18,596. Had he been in the house five minutes before?—In my house.

18,597. When Mr. Evens dressed you up?—Mr. Evens didn't dress me.

18,598. Did you dress yourself up?—Yes.

18,599. In Evens' clothes?—No.

18,600. Were you comfortable at the "Stars?"—Yes.

18,601. What room were you in?—I do not know.

18,602. Did you meet Mr. Foote?—Yes.

18,603. Who else?—I do not know.

18,604. Two or three more?—One more.

18,605. Who was it?—A man from Blackawton.

18,606. Did you get there first? Were you the first person in the room, or did you find Mr. Foote there?—I do not know whether I was there first or not.

18,607. You stayed there all night and went to vote next morning?—Yes.

18,608. (Mr. Longe.) You remember about 1865. Now tell us about 1863. You got something at Dent's election. Don't you remember Mr. Willis taking you somewhere? You were carried off then?—I went out for a bit of pleasure.

18,609. Who was your coachman?—That I do not know.

18,610. Willis, wasn't it?—I do not know I'm sure.

18,611. Where did you go that time?—I cannot tell you the name of the place.

18,612. Did you ever know where it was?—No.

18,613. How much did you get in 1863 when you voted for Dent?—15*l.*

18,614. Are you quite sure?—Yes.

18,615. (Mr. Bere.) Are you sure you did'nt get 30*l.*?—Yes, quite sure.

18,616. Did you get a sum of money in 1862?—No.

18,617. When Mr. Dent didn't go to the poll?—I did not.

18,618. (Mr. Longe.) When were you paid; what day when did you get the money? Was it before you went away or when you came back?—When I came back.

18,619. After you had given your vote?—Yes.

18,620. The election day?—Yes.

18,621. How much did you get?—13*l.*

18,622. Did your wife get any?—No.

18,623. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes.

18,624. Edmonds says that you got 20*l.*?—Yes.

18,625. It was 20*l.*?—Yes, at the last election.

18,626. In 1863?—No, no.

18,627. Only 15*l.*?—Yes.

18,628. In 1859, what did you get?—Nothing at all.

18,629. (Mr. Bere.) You got 20*l.* in Dunn's election?—No.

18,630. (Mr. Longe.) Frederick Evens, and you know him, and he says he gave you 20*l.* in 1863?—No.

18,631. You only admit the two last. Do you think your wife got it?—No, I think not.

18,632. (Mr. Bere.) Are you one of the persons called lame ducks?—I don't know what they call me.

18,633. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever get anything at the municipal elections?—No.

18,634. Not a breakfast even?—No.

18,635. Did you vote there?—Yes.

18,636. They never gave you anything?—No.

W. Allery.

WILLIAM ALLERY sworn and examined.

18,637. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Only once.

18,638. You went to the "Seven Stars" at the last election?—Yes.

18,639. And got a little money there?—Yes.

18,640. How much did you get?—40*l.*

18,641. Where did you get it?—From Mr. James Heath.

18,642. Where did he pay you?—In the office.

18,643. Where is that?—Going in on the left-hand side.

18,644. Who else was there?—No one.

18,645. What did he pay it to you in?—In gold.

18,646. Did he count it out on the table?—He gave it to me and I counted it myself.

18,647. Anyone there?—No, I think not.

18,648. You had not voted before?—No.

18,649. What made you go down?—I was invited

there by Mr. John Heath, to have a glass of grog with him.

18,650. What day was that?—I think the nomination day in the morning.

18,651. Had there been a meeting here?—Yes, there had been a meeting.

18,652. You had seen Mr. John Heath here?—Yes.

18,653. He told you to come down?—He spoke it outside that any person who wished to have a glass of grog with him was to go down.

18,654. You accepted the invitation to have a glass of grog?—Yes.

18,655. Who mentioned the sum of 40*l.*?—Mr. John Heath.

18,656. You saw him first?—Yes, the night before.

18,657. Then did you ask him what he could afford to give you?—Yes.

18,658. And he said 40*l.*?—Yes.

18,659. And you went to the "Seven Stars" to get it?—He could not give it that night; the cash was to be given the next morning.

18,660. Then you saw Mr. James Heath?—I saw Mr. John Heath first, and he said it would be all right, and Mr. James Heath brought it to me.

18,661. Do you remember seeing Mr. Pender, and Mr. Harris talking together?—Yes.

18,662. Where was that, on the Plains?—Yes.

18,663. Did you hear what Mr. Pender, said to Mr. Harris?—No.

18,664. Did you hear anything pass about a situation?—No, no more than Mr. Harris was talking with me, and Mr. Pender, said "Speak a good word for me," and he said to Mr. Harris, "I want to speak to you."

18,665. Mr. Harris was talking to you, and Mr. Pender called him away and said that to him?—Yes.

18,666. You did not vote before 1865?—No.

18,667. Did you vote in the Council?—Yes, three or four times.

18,668. And get a little money?—Yes.

18,669. Always voted for the Conservatives?—Yes, excepting once for Mr. Bowden.

18,670. What did you get?—A breakfast.

18,671. Not a half-crown?—No.

18,672. But a pretty good breakfast?—Yes.

18,673. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did you get at any election?—30*s.*

18,674. Which election was that?—1863 I got 30*s.*

18,675. Who paid it to you?—Mr. George Heath.

18,676. Did any one else ever pay you money at municipal elections?—Yes.

18,677. Who?—Mr. Screach.

18,678. What did he pay you?—1*l.*

18,679. Anybody else?—No, nobody but Mr. George Heath and Mr. Screach.

18,680. How many times did Mr. Heath give you money?—I think twice, once a sovereign, and once 30*s.*

18,681. (Mr. Bere.) Are you sure that it was Mr. James Heath whom you spoke about before?—Yes.

18,682. Isn't he here?—He was here.

18,683. Mr. Heath said Mr. Mum paid you in the open entry in a little bag?—That is false.

18,684. He was the Mum who gave you the money in a bag?—I didn't see any.

18,685. If there was any Mum it was Mr. James Heath?—Yes.

18,686. Where did he get the money?—He went upstairs and got it.

18,687. Did you see Mr. James Heath go upstairs?—Yes; I saw Mr. John Heath first, and he said he would see about it, and Mr. James Heath brought it down.

18,688. You had to wait a little time, had you?—Yes.

18,689. Did you go out of the room and say you were in a hurry to go to work?—Yes.

18,690. And James Heath said that he would get you the money, and went upstairs and brought the money?—Yes.

18,691. Do you remember what o'clock it was when Mr. Pender and Mr. Harris had that conversation?—Between 11 and 12 o'clock of the day.

18,692. Before the election?—Yes, it was the first time I saw Mr. Pender, but Mr. Pender had been to me before that.

18,693. Was that the first time that you had seen him?—Yes.

18,694. You had been out?—Yes.

18,695. Did anybody come to you on the other side, on the Liberal side, besides Mr. Pender?—No.

18,696. What did Mr. Pender say?—He said theirs was the best side to vote for.

JOSEPH BARKER sworn and examined.

J. Barker.

18,697. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—I work at a cider seller's.

18,698. In making cider?—Yes.

18,699. What do you do the rest of the year, do you remain at home?—My rent is 18*l.* a year and I take in lodgers.

18,700. Who did you vote for at the last election?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

18,701. Did they both canvass you?—No.

18,702. Who canvassed you?—Captain Pim.

18,703. Who came with him?—James Heath.

18,704. Did you promise him when he came?—Yes.

18,705. Did he tell you to go down to the "Seven Stars?"—I told James Heath if there was anything going about a little would be acceptable.

18,706. What did he say?—He says, "All right, I am very glad you mentioned it."

18,707. Did he tell you where you could get it?—No.

18,708. Did he promise you anything?—No.

18,709. What were you promised at that election for your vote; or what did you get?—15*l.*

18,710. Who paid it to you?—Mr. George Heath.

18,711. How came you to go to Mr. George Heath for it?—Mr. George Heath came to me.

18,712. What day?—On the evening of the nomination Mr. George Heath was at the "Telegraph" office door, and he called me in and gave it to me.

18,713. What did he give it you in?—Gold.

18,714. Any bag with it; where did he take it from?—Out of his pocket.

18,715. Was that all you were promised?—He did not promise me anything; that is all he gave me.

18,716. Did you give an I O U for it—is that your writing?—Yes.

18,717. Did Mr. Pender canvass you?—He never spoke to me.

18,718. Mr. Seymour?—No, I believe Captain Pim and Mr. Heath.

18,719. You had no offer of anything on the other side?—No.

18,720. How did you vote at the election before?—I never had a vote before.

18,721. Had you not a vote in 1859 at Dunn's election?—I have not been long in Totnes.

18,722. That is the only time you ever voted?—That is all.

18,723. And you only got 15*l.*?—Yes.

18,724. Did you vote at the municipal election?—No.

18,725. The only benefit you got out of the borough has been this 15*l.*?—Yes.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

W. J. Willis, jun.

10 Sept. 1866.

WILLIAM JOHN WILLIS, junior, sworn and examined.

18,726. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A butcher.

18,727. Where do you live?—In Totnes.

18,728. Totnes or Bridgetown?—Totnes.

18,729. How long have you been living in Totnes?—All my lifetime.

18,730. You used to rent some fields at Bridgetown and a house?—Yes.

18,731. How long ago was that?—Four or five years.

18,732. That was before Mr. Dent's election?—

18,733. How did you vote at Dent and Seymour's election?—For Dent.

18,734. Whose fields were they that you took at Bridgetown?—I took them of Mr. Farwell first.

18,735. George Farwell?—Yes.

18,736. That is a gentleman who is a solicitor here?—Yes.

18,737. Did you vote upon those fields?—We did.

18,738. What did you give for them?—20*l.*

18,739. Were they worth 20*l.*?—Yes.

18,740. Really?—Yes.

18,741. Did you occupy them in your own person?—Both.

18,742. Did you put your cattle there?—No.

18,743. Did you buy cattle in the market and keep them there for a time as graziers?—We took cattle in.

18,744. Whose cattle did you take in?—My father's.

18,745. Did he get a vote too?—Yes, we have got a horse of our own.

18,746. The horse, the building, and the land give you a vote?—Two votes.

18,747. Mr. George Farwell was a Conservative?—Yes.

18,748. When George Farwell died these two fields were sold, were they not?—Yes.

18,749. Did the Duke buy them?—Yes.

18,750. After Dent's election you were turned out?—Yes; whether I had got a notice or no before I do not know.

18,751. Have you voted Conservative all your life?—Yes.

18,752. Always voted with them?—That was my first.

18,753. Had you voted for the Council before?—No.

18,754. When you got your notice do you remember what time of year it was you were turned out?—The 29th of September I left, then I went and paid the rent.

18,755. Your notice must have been given on the Lady-day?—Yes.

18,756. Were you turned out before Mr. Dent's election or after?—I do not expect before; I have got the receipt.

18,757. Would that be two years ago next Michaelmas, or three years ago?—Three years.

18,758. That is after Dent's election?—Yes.

18,759. They gave you notice on Lady-day, and Mr. Dent's election was in January?—I think so.

18,760. You did get a notice after you voted?—I think so, I would not be positive upon the point.

18,761. Did you go to Mr. Michelmore's?—I went up and paid the rent.

18,762. Did he tell you why you were turned out?—He said, "I cannot expect you to hold on the fields."

18,763. Was that the reason?—He said, "You might have had the fields if you had voted the other way." Me and him were in the office together.

18,764. Had your father been turned out of the ground besides?—Oh, yes.

18,765. Did you go down and pay the rent of both?—No, only my own fields.

18,766. Did your father go with you?—I went to the Truestreet office.

18,767. The house by the turnpike?—The one on the left-hand side.

18,768. That is where Mr. Michelmore used to live?—He used to live there on the right-hand side.

18,769. It was there you paid the rent?—Yes.

18,770. You were told you would not have been turned out if you voted the other side?—Yes.

18,771. Was that all he told you?—That was all.

18,772. You voted for Dent in 1863?—Yes.

18,773. How else did you actively help the party then?—I went away for a little holiday.

18,774. Did you take as companions for a little holiday William Stoyle, Robert Mogridge, and Nicolas Norrish?—Yes.

18,775. Where did you take them to, to Stokinteignhead?—Yes.

18,776. What were they to have?—I know Stoyle was to have 30*l.*; Norris, 30*l.*; and Mogridge, 50*l.*

18,777. Who had arranged it?—Mr. Evans.

18,778. Did either tell you he had been paid?—Mogridge did.

18,779. Did Stoyle?—I think his wife had some before he started. I could not swear to it.

18,780. Nicholas Norrish, did his wife have any?—I cannot say.

18,781. How long did you keep them there?—I went away the Thursday night.

18,782. The election was on the Wednesday?—I think it was.

18,783. You kept them nearly a week there?—Yes.

18,784. Did they have any friends on the other side come to look after them?—One night.

18,785. Who came?—I was out when they came.

18,786. Did you come back before they were gone?—I left them at home playing cards, I went out for a walk, that was the night before I walked out; I had not been gone far; a man came after me to say three men had come to take away the men, so I went back again, and when I came back there were three gentlemen there.

18,787. Who?—James Smith, Mr. Bourne, and a gentleman from Newton.

18,788. What is his name?—I think he is called Beale.

18,789. Were they playing cards when they interrupted the game?—There was a row in the house when I got home.

18,790. What did you do?—I saw they were all right.

18,791. The ducks were there?—Mogridge wanted to fight.

18,792. You would not let him?—No, sir.

18,793. They did not take the ducks away?—No, they wanted to.

18,794. Had they promised them some money if they would come away?—Mogridge said so afterwards; he said he might have had 60*l.* the next morning; he would not vote till he got 10*l.* more.

18,795. Did you pay it?—No, I saw it paid.

18,796. Who paid it?—I think Evens paid it.

18,797. Frederick Evens?—Yes.

18,798. Did you see where Evens got it from?—He took it out of his pocket then.

18,799. Where was this?—In the little room beside the bar of the "Seven Stars."

18,800. You took all these men to the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

18,801. Where were they put, in the cellar or the bedroom?—I did not take them from there.

18,802. Where from?—The top of the town.

18,803. Did you take them back to the "Seven Stars?"—Yes, at 9 in the morning.

18,804. When they were at the "Seven Stars," where did they go?—Stood there in the lobby.

18,805. When was that?—The day of the election.

18,806. You must have had some money to pay expenses?—Yes.

18,807. Where do you get the money from?—Mr. Evens let me have some before I started.

18,808. How much did he let you have?—6*l.*

18,809. Did you spend all that?—Yes.

18,810. The same day?—I had spent 4*l.* besides?

18,811. Were you not a little out of pocket?—I had 10*l.* left.

18,812. Have you got a vote?—Yes.

18,813. What did you get for the vote?—Nothing.

18,814. What did you get for your services?—Not a fraction.

18,815. Did you not ask for anything?—No.

18,816. Did you hear John P. Searle talk anything about the election of 1863?—No; when we got out in company we chaffed.

18,817. What was the amount of the chaff?—He said we did not have any money like that. He boasted of how much money he had. He got drawn out.

18,818. How much did he boast of?—I heard he had more than 100*l*.

18,819. That was in 1863?—Yes.

18,820. In 1865 what did you do?—I did not do very much in 1865. I went to Exeter.

18,821. Who with?—To see a man of the name of Page.

18,822. Who told you to go?—It was after the nomination I went up to the house; the wife was living here, and she told me. We had a telegraph message, I carried it to Mr. Edmonds, and asked him what we should do, he said, "You had better leave by the next train to Exeter and see him."

18,823. Did he give you 5*l*.?—No.

18,824. Did he give you any money?—No, I paid it out of my own pocket.

18,825. Did you go to Exeter and bring Page back?—No, he did not come back with me.

18,826. Did he come back?—He came in the morning.

18,827. Which way did he vote?—I don't believe he voted at all.

18,828. Did you see the others that you took away in the election before? Did you talk to them at all in 1865?—Yes, I went with old Stoyle.

18,829. Did you see where he was put that night?—He was in the big room.

18,830. Did you see Mogridge also?—I daresay I did.

18,831. Did he tell you it was all made right?—I do not know.

18,832. You had not got to take any of them away in the election of 1865?—No.

18,833. Did you get anything for your vote then?—No.

18,834. Not from the Conservatives?—No.

18,835. Not paid at all?—No, not a farthing.

18,836. I ought to have asked you before. Do you remember the election of 1862, when Mr. Dent did not stand, or only polled five votes?—Yes.

18,837. Did you go with young John Heath to William Cole?—Yes.

18,838. Where does he live?—At Staple.

18,839. Did you stay outside whilst Mr. John Heath went in?—I think I did.

18,840. What did he tell you?—He said 'twas no good.

18,841. Did he tell you how much he had tried?—I think 50*l*.

18,842. Did you go on to William Earle?—Yes.

18,843. Where does he live?—At a farmhouse near Brent.

18,844. What had you to say? Did you stay there?—Yes.

18,845. Was there a talk about the election?—Yes.

18,846. Before tea?—In the cellar.

18,847. What were you doing in the cellar; taking a little cider?—Yes.

18,848. Did the cider produce an offer from Mr. John Heath?—I think he offered him 50*l*.

18,849. Would Earle take it?—Yes.

18,850. As there was no contest I suppose he didn't get it?—No; he came in, and was rather angry over the job.

18,851. At the election of the Council you have had a vote?—I never voted.

18,852. Were you employed as a runner?—Yes.

18,853. Have you got men to vote?—I have helped.

18,854. And paid men for voting?—Not very much.

18,855. What is the biggest sum you have ever paid?—About 30*s*. or 40*s*.

18,856. Have you heard that other men have had as much as 5*l*.?—I have heard of two men.

18,857. Who are they?—Screach paid them.

18,858. Who were they?—The Sims.

18,859. The two Sims?—Yes.

18,860. What are they, shoemakers?—No; butchers, one of them.

18,861. Did you hear from any of the voters at the last election that voters on the Conservative side, that they had been offered money by the Liberals?—I heard so.

18,862. From them?—No.

18,863. From the voters themselves?—I cannot recollect.

18,864. Have you heard complaints that they were promised money at the last election, and didn't get it?—No; I cannot remember any.

18,865. We will put a name or two to you, and see if you can recollect. Do you know a man called Barker?—Yes.

18,866. Robert Tilley?—No.

18,867. Or Pengilley, the baker?—No.

18,868. Are you a baker?—No.

18,869. When you went down, before you went to bring Page, did you go to where the committee were sitting?—Yes.

18,870. Who were there?—Before I went to Exeter?

18,871. Before you went to Exeter; when you went to the "Seven Stars?"—Only Mr. Edmonds.

18,872. Have you ever been to that room at any time?—I came back, and there were several gentlemen there.

18,873. Who were there?—Captain Pim, Mr. Edmonds, Mr. Kellock, Mr. Distin, and, I think, my father were there.

18,874. Was Mr. Bastard there?—I think he was.

18,875. And Mr. Bentall?—Yes.

18,876. Mr. Gill?—I cannot say.

18,877. Did you hear what they were talking about?—About the election.

18,878. What were they saying?—They were waiting the result of Exeter.

18,879. Were they not saying "Here is So-and-so; whom can we get to put upon him?—They might have said so.

18,880. Will you say they did or did not?—Very likely.

18,881. Did you hear that sort of thing going on amongst them?—Yes.

18,882. You told the committee what had happened at Exeter?—Yes.

18,883. And you couldn't get Page to come?—I couldn't; he was in difficulties, and couldn't come home.

18,884. Without being relieved from his difficulties?—Yes.

18,885. Had Page told you the amount of his difficulties?—No; he did not.

18,886. Did Mrs. Page tell you the amount of his difficulties?—No.

18,887. Did you tell the committee that Page could not come home until his difficulties were relieved?—Yes; and I was to telegraph to him in the morning, and tell him they would be relieved.

18,888. To any amount?—I do not know the amount; but Mr. Edmonds knew that.

18,889. Was Mr. Edmonds the person who put him into difficulties?—No.

18,890. What was Page?—A clerk in Mr. Bryett's office.

18,891. Did he become a bankrupt?—I do not think he became a bankrupt.

18,892. He went away from Totnes in difficulties?—Yes.

18,893. You do not know the amount?—No.

18,894. Who gave you the orders to telegraph?—I didn't telegraph.

18,895. Who gave you the orders when you got to the committee room, they said you might telegraph in the morning?—I think Captain Pim.

18,896. How long did you stay in the committee room?—I think all night.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

W. J. Willis. jun.

10 Sept. 1866.

18,897. Were you sent out from time to time to different people?—Yes; when I came back they almost all left; and I think Mr. Edmonds sat in an easy chair and got asleep.

18,898. Did you go to sleep to keep him company?—No; I, Captain Pim, and Narramore made up the poll-book.

18,899. What was the state of Captain Pim's poll-book?—About 147, I think.

18,900. Did he calculate on winning the election with that?—No.

18,901. Did he send you out in the night to do a little business?—Yes; we went early in the morning.

18,902. To whom?—To Cole.

18,903. The same as in 1863?—Yes.

18,904. Did Captain Pim tell you to go?—Yes; we suggested it to Captain Pim; Narramore said so, I think.

18,905. You went, did you?—Yes.

18,906. Did you see Cole?—The sheepdog wouldn't let us go in.

18,907. You could not get at Cole?—No.

18,908. Did you see anybody else that night?—We went to Mr. Shinner.

18,909. Did he go back with you?—He went alone I think.

18,910. Did you see anybody else that night before you went back to the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

18,911. Whom did you see?—When we came back to the railway station the 4 o'clock train came in, or just before we came back, and Mr. Hole was coming by that train, and we drove right on; and Narramore and I went and told Captain Pim that a certain gentleman was come, and suggested that Mr. Heath ought to be communicated with.

18,912. What is his christian name?—William, I think.

18,913. What is he?—A draper.

18,914. What did Captain Pim suggest?—Whilst we were drinking coffee he was passing across the Plains, and Captain Pim ran out.

18,915. Did you see them talking?—Yes.

18,916. How long did he stay?—A quarter of an hour.

18,917. Did he come back and say it was too late?—Yes.

18,918. Did Hole then go to the "Seymour?"—Yes.

18,919. And he was there safe?—Yes.

18,920. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was he put in the cellar?—I cannot say.

18,921. Mr. Bere.) Did you do anything afterwards with anybody?—No; John Heath and Niner took our trap, and went out.

18,922. Didn't you find out Sloggett and Cole?—Narramore went, I think.

18,923. He went inside and you stayed outside?—Yes.

18,924. Did Narramore do anything with them?—No, I think not.

18,925. He was too late?—I think so.

Adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

Tuesday, 11th September 1866.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

T. Lombardini.

11 Sept. 1866.

THOMAS LOMBARDINI sworn and examined.

18,926. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—Fore Street, Totnes.

18,927. What are you?—Boot and shoe maker.

18,928. Is a man called John Tozer your son-in-law?—Yes.

18,929. And also George Evens?—Yes.

18,930. Are they both shoe makers?—No.

18,931. How long have you had a vote?—I cannot say exactly the time.

18,932. Twenty years?—

18,933. How long?—Perhaps 12 or 13 years.

18,934. I suppose the first election was Mackenzie's election. Mills, Gifford, Mackenzie, and Gregory; was that the first election?—Dunn's election.

18,935. You had a vote in Dunn's first of all; that is 1859?—Yes.

18,936. What did you get for voting for Dunn?—40*l.*

18,937. Who gave it to you?—My wife obtained it from Mr. Heath.

18,938. Had you seen any person before you got 40*l.* to say how much you wanted?—I had not.

18,939. Do you know whether your wife had?—I cannot say.

18,940. Had George Evens spoken to you about your vote at that election?—He did; he was interested in it all throughout.

18,941. Did the 40*l.* cover John Tozer's vote too?—He had not a vote then.

18,942. You got 40*l.* for your vote alone?—Yes.

18,943. In 1863 what did you get whet you voted for Mr. Dent?—60*l.*

18,944. Who brought you that?—My wife obtained it at the "Stars."

18,945. From Mr. Heath?—Yes.

18,946. Had George Evens been up to you. He had been up to you in the election?—Yes.

18,947. And promised you 60*l.*?—My wife. She knows more about it. I did not go about it myself.

18,948. In 1865 what did you get?—50*l.*

18,949. Your wife went after that?—Yes.

18,950. Did you have the 50*l.*?—Yes.

18,951. You saw the 50*l.* after your wife brought it home?—Yes.

18,952. Was it in money or notes?—Notes.

18,953. Notes in a large amount, or small?—Small.

18,954. 5*l.*?—Yes.

18,955. Had anybody ever been to you on the other side?—Not particular. The candidates that were here called in.

18,956. Did you ever see any of the runners, Parnell or Holman?—No.

18,957. George Stoyle?—No.

18,958. Do not you know Robert Lorimer?—I know the man.

18,959. Did he offer you money?—Not that I know of.

18,960. Or Mrs. Lombardini?—Not that I know of.

18,961. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you usually expect something more at each election?—I do not trouble myself much about it.

18,962. You got 40*l.* in 1859?—Yes.

18,963. And in 1863, 60*l.*?—Yes.

18,964. (Mr. Bere.) Would you have voted at all if you had not been paid?—Yes.

18,965. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever vote without getting paid?—(Mrs. Lombardini.) No; and very sorry we did not get more.

JANE LOMBARDINI sworn and examined.

18,966. (Mr. Bere.) Your husband first had a vote in 1859, in Dunn's election ?—Yes.

18,967. Did you make a bargain as to how much he should be paid ?—Yes.

18,968. Who with ?—Mr. George Evens first.

18,969. The bargain was that your husband was to have 40*l.* ?—Yes.

18,970. Did you agree that he should vote for Mr. Dunn ?—Yes.

18,971. Did you go to the "Seven Stars" after you made the agreement to receive the money ?—I think not. I think the money was brought to us.

18,972. Was it brought by a man named Higgins ?—No ; I think Mr. Heath's son. I cannot be sure.

18,973. Was it brought to you in gold or notes ?—Gold at that time.

18,974. Had you seen anybody else to ask you about your vote ? That was the first time your husband had a vote ?—Yes.

18,975. Had anybody else been to you ?—Mr. Michelmore sent several times to say we must give him our vote that way ; but I said no.

18,976. Mr. Charles Frederick ?—Yes; the lawyer.

18,977. What did he say ?—I think he said it was no use, my husband had made up his mind if he did vote which side to vote, not to keep changing.

18,978. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Michelmore tell you what you were to be paid on his side ?—No.

18,979. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Lombardini work for him ?—He had some shoes from the shop.

18,980. Does he come to your shop ?—No ; sent the servant.

18,981. Did he tell you ?—When I met him in the street he said, "We must have your husband's vote "this time." I think that is the second time.

18,982. Did he say anything about the first ?—I cannot recollect.

18,983. The second time what did you get ?—60*l.*

18,984. What was that ?—Gold.

18,985. How was that paid you ?—In gold.

18,986. Did you make a bargain with Evens then ?—Yes; Evens got it for himself and us too ; but I fetched it at the "Stars," and got both Evens' and my own.

18,987. How much did you get for Evens ?—He had 50*l.*, and made a bargain for 50*l.* for me; and I says, "That is too little, I shall not take it." He says, "Well, then you do your best." And I made a bargain for 60*l.*, and also made a bargain that George Evens should have 60*l.* himself.

18,988. Then you brought it away ?—I had 50*l.* for him, and the next morning he went to Mr. Heath and obtained the other 10*l.*

18,989. Whom did you get it from then ?—Mr. John Heath.

18,990. Where did he pay you ? What room ?—I cannot tell how that 60*l.* were paid. I think that was brought up.

18,991. You say you went down to the "Seven Stars" and got paid there. Did he pay you in a room at the "Seven Stars" ?—The last.

18,992. But the 1863 ?—I can hardly tell. I think so.

18,993. You went down to the "Stars," and brought it back from the "Stars;" you must have got it there ?—I cannot tell the room. It was in the "Stars."

18,994. Was John Heath the only person with you when it was counted out ?—Yes.

18,995. That was for your husband voting for Dent ?—Yes.

18,996. In 1865 what did you get ; 50*l.*, was not it ?—Yes.

18,997. Where was that paid ?—Evens and I went down and saw Mr. Heath at the bottom of the stairs ; he took us into the front room and it was paid.

18,998. In the front sitting-room up stairs ?—Yes.

18,999. And how did he pay it you ?—In notes.

19,000. Were you and George Evens and Mr. Heath the only persons in the room at that time ?—Yes.

19,001. Are you quite certain it was not paid to you in gold in bags by another person ?—I am quite sure. I took it home in that very hand.

19,002. In notes ?—In notes.

19,003. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did you get for Evens ?—Nothing ; he has not a vote.

19,004. (Mr. Bere.) I think you got 50*l.* for John Tozer ?—Yes.

19,005. He is your son-in-law ?—Yes.

19,006. Had you negotiated his vote in 1865 as well as your husband's ? Had you said he must have 50*l.* ?—This last election, but he decided to give his vote up, his father working for Mr. Michelmore, in Bridgetown, and wanting to keep on the business, his father-in-law persuaded him not to do so.

19,007. You returned the money ?—The next night or the night after ; I cannot be certain.

19,008. You yourself ?—Yes, gave it up to Mr. Heath.

19,009. Did Mr. Michelmore or anybody on the Liberal side talk to you about your vote in 1865 ?—That I do not know.

19,010. Nobody at all ?—I cannot be sure now.

19,011. Did Mr. Michelmore ever come over to you and talk to you about it ?—No.

19,012. Did not you hear that a good deal of money was going on that side ?—Yes.

19,013. Who told you that ?—I cannot tell really. I have a regular business, and always attending to business I cannot remember as well as those people who have nothing but their domestic duties to mind.

19,014. Cannot you tell us the name of anybody who told you that a good deal of money was going on the Liberal side ?—I cannot, really.

19,015. Did you ever see Thomas Holman ?—No.

19,016. Did he never call on you ?—No.

19,017. Or Mr. Parnell ?—No.

19,018. (Mr. Coleridge.) Or Mr. Windeatt ?—No. Mr. Windeatt came in when the canvass was going about, and I told him then that the candidate was of no use, so they never bothered us much.

19,019. Did you ever know any of your neighbours who got money from Mr. Heath besides yourself ?—No.

19,020. Did you know of any people who got money besides from Mr. Heath ?—No.

19,021. Nobody ever told you they had got it ?—Not at all. I told them I got it. There was Mrs. Please ——

19,022. Did she tell you about her getting anything ?—No, she had obtained none

19,023. Had her husband a vote ?—Yes.

19,024. Which way did he vote ?—The same side as we did.

19,025. And she got no money ?—As far as I ever knew.

19,026. When you went to get your money from Mr. Heath in 1865 did you see any stranger there with him ?—Never.

19,027. You never saw any stranger to Totnes with him when you went there ?—No, not to my recollection.

JOHN DIGGINS sworn and examined.

J. Diggins.

19,028. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you been a voter ?—I voted for Mr. Baldwin.

19,029. In 1852 ?—I do not know the date.

19,030. Did you get anything for voting for Mr. Baldwin in 1852 ?—30*l.*

SIXTEENTH DAY.

J. Diggins.

11 Sept. 1866.

19,031. That was in 1852?—I do not know that that was the date.

19,032. Were you offered anything on the other side?—I was.

19,033. Who offered it to you?—I was not, but my wife was.

19,034. What was she offered?—She was offered 50*l.*

19,035. Who by?—Irish; I do not know his christian name, he is called Irish; he is a land surveyor.

19,036. At that time you voted one for Baldwin and one for Lord Seymour?—No; I think it was Mills and Baldwin at that time. I think it was, I will not be certain. I think it was for Mills and Baldwin.

19,037. In 1852 was the last time Mr. Baldwin stood?—I believe so.

19,038. Was it when Mr. Baldwin stood that you got the 50*l.* for your vote?—No, it was 30*l.*

19,039. That was given to you by a man called what?—Mr. Harris; he is dead.

19,040. He was the person who gave you the 30*l.*?—No; he had asked me whether I was going to vote for Mr. Baldwin. He said, "I will give you 30*l.*" I was glad to have the offer, being a poor man.

19,041. Did you get the 30*l.*?—Not from him.

19,042. Who from?—The messenger, I think, was sent the next day, a young man then, called George Mitchell, now in business at Bridgetown.

19,043. Did you see the person who gave you the 30*l.*?—Yes.

19,044. Did he give it to you yourself?—Yes.

19,045. You voted for Baldwin and Seymour; did you get 50*l.* for voting for Seymour?—I got nothing.

19,046. It was offered to your wife by Irish?—Yes.

19,047. At the election of 1857 you voted for Mackenzie and Gifford?—I voted for Lord Gifford if I voted at all.

19,048. Did you get any money at the election?—No.

19,049. Was there no money going about?—I do not know.

19,050. Were you offered any?—I intended to vote for my lord.

19,051. Did anybody offer you anything?—Not that I am aware of. I would not tell you wrong if I knew it.

19,052. In 1859 you voted for Gifford and Dunn?—I voted for Dunn.

19,053. What did you get for that?—I got 40*l.*

19,054. Who gave you that?—I do not know. He was a stranger to me. I had never seen him before, or seen him since. He was in a private room at the "Stars."

19,055. Did you go to see him at the "Stars?"—Yes.

19,056. Was this 40*l.* in gold?—Yes, it was in a basin.

19,057. Was the basin on the bed in a bedroom?—It was on a table.

19,058. Was it in a bedroom?—No; there was some gentlemen there; it was just after breakfast.

19,059. You got that in gold?—In gold.

19,060. Were you offered anything by the Liberal party to vote for Mills?—I do not know whether I was or not; I quite forget; my recollection is bad.

19,061. Do you recollect in 1862, when Mr. Dent withdrew at the last moment?—Yes.

19,062. Did you get anything in 1862?—No.

19,063. Was not 5*l.* sent you after the election by Mr. Pender?—No.

19,064. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes.

19,065. Did you ever get 5*l.* from Mr. Pender?—Never.

19,066. There were two elections very nearly together, in 1862 and 1863; between those two elections do you recollect getting a 5*l.* note from someone?—I had a 5*l.* note; I do not know whether it came from Mr. Pender or not.

19,067. Who gave it to you?—John Elliott of Bridgetown brought me two 5*l.* notes.

19,068. The election in 1862 took place about the end of the year, the election of 1863 took place within six weeks afterwards; was it before or after the election of 1863 that you had these two 5*l.* notes?—I do not recollect.

19,069. Was it about Christmas time?—I daresay there or thereabouts.

19,070. You think it was about Christmas time; what did Elliott say when he brought them to you?—I think it was on New Year's day; I am not quite certain.

19,071. Did he say, "Here is a New Year's gift "for you"?—He said, "I have brought these two "5*l.* notes for you." I said, "Thank you."

19,072. Did you ask him where they came from?—Yes.

19,073. What did he say?—He did not know.

19,074. You did not ask him where he had got them?—No, I did not. I was very glad to have them. I thought it was a very handsome present.

19,075. Do you recollect, some weeks after, another election, in which Seymour and Dent stood?—Yes.

19,076. How did you vote then?—I voted for Seymour.

19,077. What were you offered to vote for Dent?—There were 50 sovereigns brought to me at my house.

19,078. Who brought them to you?—John Screach.

19,079. Did you then say you would vote for Dent?—Yes.

19,080. How came you to vote for Seymour afterwards?—Mr. Michelmore, the duke's steward, called on me, I think on the nomination day. I was not at home at the time, and he talked to my wife. He said, "Diggins must vote for my lord tomorrow or Mr. "Seymour." She says, "He has promised Mr. Dent, "and I have got 50 sovereigns in the house for him." He said to her, "You would not like to be turned out "of your house?" My wife says, "No, certainly "not." He said, "My advice to you is to return the "50 sovereigns to the party who brought it to you, "and support Mr. Seymour." When I came home, my wife told me what had taken place, and I said I would do so. My wife said, "What use is 50 sove-"reigns to us if we are turned out of our house?"

19,081. You returned those 50 sovereigns?—My wife returned them.

19,082. Who did you take them to?—Young Screach came to my house for them.

19,083. And your wife gave them to him?—Yes.

19,084. Did anyone give you money for voting for Seymour?—No.

19,085. But did they not do so after the election?—Yes.

19,086. What did they give you?—40*l.*

19,087. Who gave you that?—Mr. George Mitchell gave me 20*l.*

19,088. Who gave you the other 20*l.*?—Mr. John Elliott gave me 20*l.*

19,089. Was it given to you in gold or in notes?—I think in notes.

19,090. Was that given to you at your own house?—Yes.

19,091. Did they tell you where they got it from, how it happened to be given to you? They said it was ordered to be paid to me by Mr. Michelmore, the old gentleman, who is since dead.

19,092. Was anyone present at your house on this occasion?—I think my wife must have been there.

19,093. Did Frederick Evens ever offer you anything after you had determined to vote for Mr. Seymour?—I cannot say.

19,094. Did not Evens offer you as much as 150*l.* if you would vote for Mr. Dent?—That I cannot say.

19,095. Do you recollect anyone offering you 150*l.* to vote for Mr. Dent after you returned the money?—They might; I cannot say.

19,096. Do you not know Frederick Evens?—Yes, very well.

19,097. Do not you recollect Evens talking to you after you had returned the money?—I cannot say; that was not returned until after the election.

19,098. You say that you did not return the money until after the election. Did not Screach tell you that as you had voted the wrong way you must give him back the money which he had paid you? — He came to me and said, I understand you have voted against us; I am come for the money. I said to him, I shall not give it up until the polling is over; when that is over, if you come to our house you shall have it. He came there after the election was over and my wife then handed him the money.

19,099. How long was it after that that Mr. Elliott and Mr. Mitchell came and gave you the 40*l.*?—They were there once; I will not be certain.

19,100. The last time you voted for Seymour and Pender?—No.

19,101. Did you sign a requisition?—I did.

19,102. Do you recollect signing the paper?—I do.

19,103. Who asked you to sign it?—Mr. Harris.

19,104. What did he tell you the paper was about?—To the best of my recollection he said it was brought for to make the people sign. He told me it was for getting a candidate down on the Tory side, and he pressed me to sign it. I said, meantime, I would not sign it; he pressed me so hard that I signed it merely to get rid of him.

19,105. Is that your handwriting (handing the requisition to the witness)?—Yes.

19,106. Did you say anything to him before you signed that paper, about whether you would have to vote for the candidate? — I do not know that there was anything said about it.

19,107. Did he not tell you you would not be obliged to vote for the candidate? — I think he said before he went out of the house, "You are not bound "to vote for him." I think he said that; I am not certain.

19,108. You did not vote for him after all; you voted for Seymour and Pender?—I did.

19,109. What money were you offered to vote for Colonel Dawkins that time?—At the last election, between 6 and 7 o'clock in the morning, John Sandford Screach came to me and asked me.

19,110. Was that the election day?—Yes; would 200*l.* be of any good to me.

19,111. That was to vote for Dawkins and Pim?—He said Dawkins. I said I would consider of it; so an hour or two afterwards I went down the street, and I believe I was then going to the poll, and I see the person who offered me the 200*l.*, and asked if it was of any good to me.

19,112. Who was that?—John Sandford Screach; I saw him at the door or in the passage.

19,113. At the "Seven Stars"?—No, in his own house at Bridgetown. He said, "You are not wanted "now," "Thank you," I said; he said, "It is all up," so I went off.

19,114. Did you mean to vote for Colonel Dawkins if you had got the 200*l.*?—I do not think I should.

19,115. What did you get for voting for Seymour and Pender?—Not a farthing.

19,116. Not after the election?—No.

19,117. Have you never had a present since?—Never.

19,118. You threw away two votes at the election for nothing?—I had it not in my hand.

19,119. Did you ever go to the "Seven Stars" at the last election?—I do not think I did.

19,120. Do you know if your wife got anything at the last election?—No.

19,121. You got nothing at all?—Nothing.

19,122. (Mr. Longe.) Screach says before he offered you the 200*l.* you told him you had been offered 200*l.* on the other side?—I believe I never had anything; no such thing happened; I never heard of it.

19,123. What did you give up the money for when you had got it? — I had not got the 200*l.* I never had the colour of the money at all at the last election.

19,124. (Mr. Bere.) Did you not see Mr. Elliott before the election of 1865? Had not Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Elliott been to see you when Mr. Pender was down here?—I think Mr. Mitchell came to see me.

19,125. What did Mr. Mitchell tell you?—He asked me if I had made up my mind.

19,126. Did you say you had not? — I said, I had not quite made up my mind.

19,127. Did he not say he would help you to making it up?—He asked me how I was going to vote; I said I believed I should vote for Colonel Dawkins.

19,128. Was that before you had seen Screach? — Yes.

19,129. What did Mr. Mitchell say when you told him you were going to vote for Colonel Dawkins?—I believe I told him I had made up my mind.

19,130. You had not made up your mind? — I can hardly tell you, upon my word, whether I said I had or I had not.

19,131. Did not Mr. Mitchell tell you you could have some money from Mr. Pender?—No.

19,132. (Mr. Coleridge.) You had been a good deal with Screach at this time, had you not promised him you would vote for Colonel Dawkins?—I think I may have promised.

19,133. You had a good deal of talk with Screach about it several times? — Yes, I went to have a glass of ale after he went.

19,134. What did he offer you to vote for Colonel Dawkins?—I cannot tell you; at the last time he says, would 200*l.* do for me.

19,135. What did he begin with?—I do not know.

19,136. Did he offer 50*l.*?—I do not know.

19,137. Did you not say, that is not enough, I must have more for my vote?—I cannot tell.

19,138. Try and recollect?—I cannot.

19,139. What did he begin with? What was the first figure he started with, was it as little as 50*l.*? — I do not know.

19,140. Was it 100*l.*? — Oh, no; I do not think funds were so high.

19,141. He offered you 200*l.* at last?—Yes.

19,142. What did he offer you at first, 40*l.* or 50*l.*, or what?—I cannot say.

19,143. It was old Mr. Screach who first of all talked to you about your vote?—Yes.

19,144. Was it old Mr. Screach who offered you the 200*l.* at last?—Yes, up in my house.

19,145. What did Mr. Mitchell or Mr. Elliott talk about giving you?—100*l.*

19,146. Did he not say you would be thought of after the election?—No.

19,147. He forgot all about it; he never gave you anything?—I never got anything.

19,148. Since we have been down here has not Mr. Mitchell or Mr. Elliott been talking to you about the Commission?—I dare say he has; yes, he has.

19,149. Let us hear what he told you? — I do not know; but whatever he told me I answered him, I said, "What questions I was asked by the gentlemen "I would speak the truth."

19,150. Did he suggest that you had better not speak the truth?—I said the better way was to speak the truth.

19,151. Where did you see him?—I saw the butcher as I came down the street now.

19,152. Did he refresh your memory about telling the truth? — I do not know that he did. He was talking to me.

19,153. Are you quite sure he did not tell you not to say anything about the last election?—No.

19,154. You might say a good deal about any other election, but not about 1865?—No.

19,155. You were not to mention their names?—Not a word said of that kind. I said I would answer the questions as far as my recollection goes.

19,156. Upon your oath, neither you nor your wife ever received any money for the election of 1865?—No.

19,157. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever find any money in your house that you knew nothing about in 1865?—I wish I had.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

Mr. J. Diggins.

11 Sept. 1866.

19,158. You are sure of that?—I feel quite sure of that. If I have told you wrong I am likely to be cotched for it.

19,159. Who is your landlord?—The Duke of Somerset.

19,160. (Mr. Longe.) You wanted a good deal of money to vote against the duke?—I know nothing about my lord.

19,161. How much do you rent under him?—13*l.* a year.

19,162. What is that for?—House and garden.

19,163. How large is the garden?—18 or 20 yards.

19,164. How many rooms are there in your house?—Four bed-rooms.

19,165. How much does Mr. Michelmore throw you back every year?—Not a farthing.

19,166. Did he not speak to you about signing the requisition, or did he not hear anything about it?—I signed it.

19,167. Did anyone scold you for signing the requisition for bringing down a Conservative against the Liberals?—Not that I am aware of.

19,168. No one spoke to you at all?—I do not know.

19,169. When you signed it did you know what the consequence would be to you; you knew the duke would not like to see your name to the requisition?—No; he was quite ignorant of my signing it.

19,170. (Mr. Bere.) You saw Mr. Screach at the door of the "Seven Stars," and he shook his head at you, and said it was too late; where did you go to; did you not go over to the "Seymour Arms?"—No.

19,171. Where did you go then?—I went over the bridge and passed up the street. I never went into the "Seymour Arms."

19,172. How long after you had been to the "Stars" did you go to vote?—Before I went I had not been to the "Stars" at all.

19,173. Did you not go to the "Stars?"—I did not go at all.

19,174. Did you not see him at all at the "Stars?"—No.

19,174*. Where then?—At his own house.

19,175. Did you not go from Mr. Screach's house in Bridgetown to the "Seymour Arms," and see Mr. Chaster there?—No.

19,176. Are you sure of that?—Not that I am aware of.

19,177. (Mr. Longe.) Was not this it, when you signed the requisition you had made up your mind to lose your house and get as much as 100*l.*?—No; I did not think anything of it.

19,178. When you put your name to that piece of paper?—Knowing the character of the gentleman that brought it I might have signed it to get rid of him.

19,179. Is your wife here?—She cannot come away from the house. I am in business.

19,180. (Mr. Yabbicom.) With the permission of the Court I wish to set one of our customers right, Mr. Kelland, with reference to an erasure.

(Mr. Bere.) We saw it in the banking book, and it struck us as very singular. We asked Mr. Kellock, and he said he had never seen it except upon the face of the ledger.

(Mr. Yabbicom.) It is perfectly true. It happened in this way, in posting the account, in turning to Kellock, the 106*l.* was debited to Kellock, whereas the 106*l.* should have gone to the debit of Kelland. It was a cheque drawn for that amount, dated the 7th of July, in favour of Miss Kelland, which cheque should have been posted to the debit of Mr. Kelland, whereas my accountant, having the "K" open, inadvertently set down the debit to Mr. Kellock's account, and finding out the mistake the erasure was immediately made in the ledger, and it was carried to the right account.

(Mr. Bere.) It is strange that he did not alter the others.

(Mr. Yabbicom.) We do not like erasures in our ledger. Mr. Kelland is a man of some thousands a year fortunately, and it was quite a regular transaction.

(Mr. Bere.) That is quite a sufficient explanation.

(Mr. Harris.) Will you allow me to correct a statement in my evidence about Mr. David Derry. There was a Mr. Derry here at those elections I referred to, but not Mr. David Derry. A Mr. Derry, Mr. John Derry, his brother, is here, and he will give you an account of the whole transaction.

(Mr. Bere.) You do not know his name?

(Mr. Harris.) No, I do not.

(Mr. Bere.) Is it the Mr. Derry connected with the bank?

(Mr. Harris.) I think he is, with the Launceston bank.

Mr. J. Tozer.

JOHN TOZER sworn and examined.

19,181. (Mr. Longe.) You are the son-in-law of Lombardinii?—Yes.

19,182. What is your trade?—A boot and shoe maker.

19,183. How long have you had a vote?—Only since the last election.

19,184. Mrs. Lombardini managed to get you something for your vote?—Yes.

19,185. Did you give her any authority to do that?—I gave her no authority at all.

19,186. Who was the first who applied to you?—I think it was Captain Pim.

19,187. Who did he come with?—Young Heath.

19,188. Which of them?—I think James.

19,189. How long was that before the election?—The Saturday before.

19,190. Had you had no application before from the other side?—No.

19,191. You had not seen Evens, your brother-in-law?—Not before that.

19,192. You heard that money was going about?—Yes.

19,193. On both sides?—Yes.

19,194. Surely you must have arranged with your mother-in-law?—I might have said something; I do not recollect what it was.

19,195. Did you mention any figure?—No, I did not mention any figure.

19,196. What was the sum she arranged for?—She had 50*l.*

19,197. For you?—Yes.

19,198. Who did she get it from?—That I do not know.

19,199. She brought it home to you?—Yes.

19,200. Was it in gold or notes?—In 5*l.* notes.

19,201. On what day was this?—The night before the election.

19,202. Did you understand for whom you were to vote?—For Dawkins and Pim.

19,203. Had you seen no one up to that time on the other side?—Yes, Pender and Seymour.

19,204. When did they come?—I do not know whether it was the day before the election or not.

19,205. Who was it that came?—Mr. Michelmore and Mr. Seymour came.

19,206. Which of them, Charles Frederick?—No Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

19,207. Mr. Pender did not come?—I did not see him; he left a card. I was not at home.

19,208. What passed between you and Mr. Michelmore?—He wished me to vote for Seymour and Pender.

19,209. Where do you live?—At Bridgetown.

19,210. Who is your landlord?—Mr. Michelmore.

19,211. Under the duke?—Yes.

19,212. What did he say when he asked you for your vote?—He asked if I would give them my vote, and I said I would see by the morning.

19,213. Was there anything more?—No; they then went away.

19,214. It was only a few words?—That is all; they were not in the shop for two minutes.

19,215. Did you hear any more of them?—No.

19,216. Was there no message sent to you?—My father came.

19,217. What is his name?—Philip Tozer.

19,218. Does he live at Bridgetown?—No, at Windmill Down.

19,219. Does he hold under the duke?—Yes.

19,220. Did he ask you to vote for them?—Yes; he said he heard that I was going to vote for Pim and Dawkins, and he was very sorry for it. He asked me to vote for Seymour and Pender.

19,221. Did he say you would be better rewarded on that side than on the other?—No; I do not know that he did.

19,222. Did he not hold out a prospect of your getting something for changing your side?—Yes; he got me 40*l.*

19,223. Where did he get that?—I do not know; he got it at the "Seymour."

19,224. On what day was that?—On the morning of the election.

19,225. When was it that he came and asked you for your vote?—It was the night before, he slept at my house that night.

19,226. He talked to you and said that he could get you 40*l.*?—He did not mention any sum at all; he said he would get what he could; he would get something.

19,227. Surely he told you from whom he would get it?—No, he did not.

19,228. Did he not say that he knew some one at the "Seymour" who would help him?—I should think it was from Mr. Michelmore, he was always with him and worked for him.

19,229. When did you tell him you had got 50*l.* from the other side?—The same night.

19,230. How was it that you took 40*l.* and gave up 50*l.*?—I thought I was living over there.

19,231. You would rather have 40*l.* and a house instead of 50*l.* and a house?—Yes.

19,232. Then you gave back the 50*l.*?—Yes, I did, or Mrs. Lombardini did.

19,233. Did you not afterwards arrange as to your uncle, or some one else?—No, I have no relations at all in Totnes.

19,234. Did you not hear about some one else having sold their vote?—No.

19,235. What reason did he give you to believe that you would get anything?—He gave no reason; he said he should go and see what he could do.

19,236. Did he tell you that he had arranged matters for himself?—No; he never got a farthing in his life; I think he has always been above that.

19,237. What reason had you for thinking he could get money if he had not done it before?—I do not know anything about that.

19,238. (Mr. Bere.) How was the 40*l.* paid; in gold or in notes?—In notes.

19,239. In what notes?—In 5*l.* notes.

19,240. Of what bank?—The Bank of England.

19,241. Have you got any of them now?—No.

19,242. Have you paid any of them away?—I think I paid some of them away to Charles Tanner of Plymouth.

19,243. Where does he live?—In Southgate Street.

19,244. What is he?—A tanner.

19,245. When did you do that?—I could tell if I was at home.

19,246. Will you let us know when you did pay them?—I can see by the bills.

19,247. You have not got the numbers of the notes?—No.

19,248. You will let us know to whom you paid them away, and when?—Yes, I will.

WILLIAM FOOTE sworn and examined.

Mr. W. Foote.

19,249. You live in Totnes?—Yes.

19,250. What are you?—A labourer.

19,251. Who do you work for?—Henry Willis.

19,252. What is he?—He is the surveyor of the highways.

19,253. You work on the roads?—Yes.

19,254. How long have you had a vote?—I first voted at the last election.

19,255. Do you vote for your house?—Yes.

19,256. Is it worth 10*l.* a year?—I give 13*l.* for it.

19,257. Who is your landlord?—Thomas Gillham.

19,258. At the last election, do you remember Frederick Evens coming to you?—Yes.

19,259. He came and saw you at your own house?—Yes.

19,260. What did he say?—He came and asked me which way I intended to vote; I had always voted for the Liberals before.

19,261. You mean for the Liberals in the town council?—Yes, always.

19,262. Had you had any money from them?—Not a farthing.

19,263. Not even a breakfast?—I have had a breakfast.

19,264. What did you tell him?—I told him that I should take the same side I always had taken.

19,265. What did he say to that?—He said that I had better come over to their side that time, that I should get no money on the other side; I said I should chance it.

19,266. What did he say to that?—He offered me 40*l.*

19,267. Had he got it to give you?—He did not show it to me.

19,268. And that would not do?—No.

19,269. Did he offer you 50*l.*?—Yes; that would not do.

19,270. How high did you get?—I left him there; Mrs. Foote stayed behind me.

19,271. Did they have a little talk together?—Yes; she came out a few minutes after that and said that he had been as far as 70*l.*

19,272. What did you say to him?—I said I would have nothing to say to him.

19,273. Did she then say to you she thought you had better vote on that side?—That was some two or three days after.

19,274. Did he again see you or the mistress?—He saw Mrs. Foote.

19,275. About how high had they got then?—I believe they had offered 100*l.* on that night.

19,276. It got up between him and Mrs. Foote to 150*l.*?—Yes.

19,277. Where did you get the 150*l.* paid you?—At the "Seven Stars."

19,278. Was Stoyle there?—He was in one of the upstairs bed-rooms.

19,279. Do you remember what part of the house this was in where you were paid?—It was on the other side of the doorway.

19,280. You know the large room there?—Yes.

19,281. Which way did you turn, to the left or to the right of the large room?—I did not go into the big room.

19,282. Whom did you find in the bed-room?—There I found Stoyle and Smaridge.

19,283. And there you stayed all night?—No; we came down after the nomination was over.

19,284. Where did you go to after the nomination was over?—We spent the afternoon there and the evening.

19,285. And the night?—Yes.

19,286. And then you voted the next morning?—Yes.

19,287. When did you get the 150*l.*?—My wife received the money, I did not.

19,288. Was that down at the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

19,289. Did she hand it over to you, or did she

SIXTEENTH DAY.

Mr. W. Foote.

11 Sept. 1866.

keep it herself?—She handed it over to me when we got home.

19,290. When did she hand it over to you?—It was in a handkerchief.

19,291. What was it in?—Some notes and some gold.

19,292. Have you got any of the notes left?—No.

19,293. Is it all gone?—I do not know what may be gone; none of the notes are left.

19,294. How much did you let Mrs. Foote have?—We did not divide it.

19,295. Did you put any of it in the Savings Bank?—We have got some of it in the Savings Bank.

19,296. And is it there still?—Yes.

19,297. (Mr. Coleridge.) How much have you got in the bank?—We have got 100*l.*

19,298. What bank is it in?—In the National Bank.

19,299. Mr. Yabbicom's bank?—Yes.

19,300. Have you got a deposit note for it?—Yes.

19,301. Have you seen Mr. Elliott, Mr. Farley, or Mr. Mitchell of Bridgetown, at all?—No.

19,302. Did Mr. Pender call upon you and ask you for your vote on this occasion?—Yes, he did.

19,303. Was that before you had seen Frederick Evens or afterwards?—Before.

19,304. You promised Mr. Pender?—No.

19,305. You said you had not made up your mind?—Yes.

19,306. Do you know Samuel Cuming the younger?—Yes.

19,307. Did he call on you?—I think on the nomination night.

19,308. He called on your wife?—Yes.

19,309. Did your wife tell you what he said?—No; she told me he had been there.

19,310. Did not she tell you that he had offered a little sum of money if you voted for Pender and Seymour?—No.

19,311. Did any body else offer you anything to vote for Pender and Seymour?—No.

Mrs. A. Foote.

ANN FOOTE sworn and examined.

19,312. (Mr. Bere.) Are you wife of William Foote?—Yes.

19,313. You live at the upper part of the town?—Yes.

19,314. Do you remember at the election of 1865 Frederick Evens coming and having a little talk with you?—He came to inquire for my husband.

19,315. Was your husband in?—Yes.

19,316. He had some talk with him and went as high as 50*l.* for his vote, and then your husband left him in conversation with you?—Yes.

19,317. How high did he go in his offer?—About 70*l.*, from that to 100*l.*

19,318. That would not do?—No.

19,319. Then he got to 150*l.*?—Yes.

19,320. Was that the second conversation?—Yes.

19,321. Then you allowed your husband to be taken to the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

19,322. Did you see him in his captivity?—I went to the "Seven Stars" to receive the money.

19,323. Where did you get it?—In a back room.

19,324. Upstairs?—Yes.

19,325. A bed room?—No, a sitting room.

19,326. Which way is it when you go in, the staircase is on the right hand?—I went to the left.

19,327. A sitting room on the left?—Yes.

19,328. Who was there?—Mr. Evens.

19,329. Frederick Evens?—Yes.

19,330. Did you see anybody else?—No.

19,331. Did you see any of the Heaths about?—No.

19,332. Who showed you the room?—Mr. Evens took me down.

19,333. Did he pay you the money?—Yes.

19,334. Where did he take the money from?—I do not know.

19,335. Did he take it out of his pocket?—No.

19,336. Did he leave you and go out somewhere and get the money?—Yes.

19,337. He showed you into the room and left you there?—Yes.

19,338. And he went out and brought back the money?—Yes.

19,339. Could you see where he went?—No.

19,340. You do not know from whom you got the money?—No.

19,341. How long was he away?—I should think five or 10 minutes.

19,342. Were you by yourself at that time?—My husband was there.

19,343. Had he voted then?—No, it was the day before.

19,344. You had your husband down from the upstairs prison?—He was not put in prison till after that.

19,345. You had 150*l.* and took it home?—Yes.

19,346. Was it in notes or gold?—100*l.* gold and 50*l.* bank notes.

19,347. 5*l.* notes?—I do not know.

19,348. We have heard that you paid some money into the National Provincial Bank, was it notes or gold?—I think I put the gold and a few of the notes.

19,349. Whilst Evens was talking to you did not you tell him that Mr. Cuming had been to offer you something?—No.

19,350. Did not you see him?—The night before the election.

19,351. Samuel Cuming the younger?—Yes.

19,352. What did he say?—He asked for my husband, and I said he was at the "Seven Stars."

19,353. What did he say?—He laughed, and I said, "I am all right."

19,354. Did he say anything?—He seemed to dispute my word, and I put my hand in my pocket and shook it.

19,355. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he offer to cap it?—Oh, no.

19,356. (Mr. Bere.) Did not Evens come up in his price by your telling him that Mr. Cuming would give you some?—No.

19,357. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is that the only time your husband voted?—Yes.

19,358. Was he ever employed at the elections?—No, only the council he voted.

19,359. What did he get for that?—Nothing.

19,360. (Mr. Longe.) Did you sign the requisition or your husband?—I did not.

19,361. How was that managed?—I do not know.

19,362. Do not you remember?—Mr. Harris never came to my house.

19,363. You knew that your husband did sign it?—Not till after the election.

19,364. Can he write?—I cannot.

19,365. Can he?—I do not think he can write well enough to write his name. I do not know whether he did.

19,366. Did you hear about it?—No.

19,367. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Evens' account of the transaction is, "'Oh, never mind us, I do not care for Mr. "'Kinsman and nobody else, us has got ourselves to "'look after'; I says, 'Very well, what is to be the "'figure then?' She says, 'You know you must "'name the figure.' I says, 'I suppose 50*l.* will be "'enough.' 'Oh, bless you no, you know he must "'have more than that, you must try to get us more "'than that.' I asked whether 60*l.* would be sufficient. 'No, that is not sufficient at all.' I says, "'Well, what do you require.' 'Oh, bless you, we "'have been offered more than that; so we shall not "'vote; my master will not vote without he can get "'something handsome.'" Had you been offered anything?—No.

19,368. Did you tell him?—When I found he was the highest price, I thought I had a right to take the best man.

19,369. (Mr. Longe.) Yours is a large house?—Yes.

19,370. How many people live in it besides your husband?—My husband's mother lives in it, and I have lodgers.

19,371. How many lodgers?—Three.

19,372. What are their names?—Mr. Kinsman the baker's brother, Mrs. Williams, and Mrs. Tucker.

19,373. Who is your landlady?—Mrs. Kinsman.

19,374. What relation is your landlady to your lodger?—Her husband is his brother.

19,375. Those lodgers pay some rent?—Yes.

19,376. Whom do they pay it to?—Sometimes to me and sometimes to my husband.

19,377. Do not they pay it to Mrs. Kinsman?—No, I receive the money most times.

19,378. Sometimes they pay it to Mrs. Kinsman?—No, never.

THOMAS GILLHAM sworn and examined.

Mr. T. Gillham.

19,379. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you been a voter?—23 years.

19,380. What is the first election you voted at?—1847 or 1849 I think.

19,381. Whom did you vote for then?—Mr. Baldwin, when Mr. Baldwin put up with Lord Seymour.

19,382. Baldwin and Ricardo?—No.

19,383. Did you plump for Mr. Baldwin?—Yes.

19,384. What did you get?—Nothing.

19,385. Were you offered anything on either side?—No.

19,386. In 1852 did you vote again?—Yes.

19,387. You voted for Baldwin?—Yes.

19,388. Did you get anything for your vote then?—No.

19,389. Then there was an unopposed election in 1855; then in 1857 did you vote?—I think it was against Mills; Seymour and Baldwin.

19,390. You did not get anything in 1852?—No.

19,391. 1857?—No, but I was offered.

19,392. How much?—200*l.* in sovereigns by Mr. John Newton.

19,393. Where?—At his house.

19,394. Where does he live now?—I do not know.

19,395. He offered 200*l.* in sovereigns?—Yes.

19,396. To vote for whom?—For Mills.

19,397. Who was present?—No one; my aunt. I said if ever I voted true I would vote for Baldwin.

19,398. Did you vote for him?—Yes.

19,399. In 1857 was that the first time you had ever been offered any money to vote?—Yes.

19,400. In 1859 how did you vote?—Always Conservative; for Dunn.

19,401. Were you offered any money to vote for Dunn?—No.

19,402. Any money on the other side?—No.

19,403. Was any money going in 1859?—I do not know.

19,404. In 1862 which way were you going to vote?—Mr. Dent.

19,405. Were you offered anything to vote for him?—No, not for Dent.

19,406. Anything for Pender?—I had an interview with some parties at the "Seymour" hotel.

19,407. Who were they?—Mr. John Mitchell and Mr. Jefferey Michelmore.

19,408. Who else?—I do not know; there were many there but I knew those.

19,409. What was the conversation?—"What is "your figure?" I says, "150*l.*," and I left. The next morning Mr. John Mitchell called at my house, saying my offer was rejected on account of Mr. Dent resigning.

19,410. Did you mean to vote for Mr. Pender if you got 150*l.*?—No, I should not.

19,411. How did you vote?—I voted for Mr. Dent.

19,412. He never offered you anything?—No.

19,413. Or anybody for Mr. Dent?—No.

19,414. In fact they knew you were too good a Conservative. Did the Seymour party try you?—Yes, at different times.

19,415. In 1863?—Yes, when Mr. Seymour came in first. They came and called on me and said if they could do anything they would for me.

19,416. Who called on you?—Mr. Seymour himself, twice.

19,417. Did Mr. Mitchell call?—No.

19,418. Did anybody say they would give money to you?—They did not say money; anything they could do for me.

19,419. Which Mr. Mitchell?—John Mitchell.

19,420. Of Bridgetown?—Yes.

19,421. What did they offer to do for you?—I did not ask them for anything. I said, "It is of no use "to try me, I shall not vote for you."

19,422. Did you tell them anything about the offer they had made you of the 150*l.* before?—No.

19,423. You did not say, "Now come, you offered "me so and so before"?—Nothing at all.

19,424. You are certain of that?—Yes.

19,425. And the same gentlemen offered you the 150*l.* before, did not get you to the "Seymour Arms" this time?—No, I never went there.

19,426. How came you to go to the "Seymour Arms," being so good a Conservative, on that occasion?—Perhaps I had had a glass too much. I have been in there hundreds of times.

19,427. You are such a good Conservative that you cannot go into the house?—I have been in.

19,428. You go into the "Seven Stars" often?—No, I do not know that I have been into the "Seven Stars," not five times these 10 years.

19,429. Was one of those times the last election time?—Certainly, I was there at the last election.

19,430. How did you vote at the last election?—For Dawkins and Pim.

19,431. Were you offered anything to vote for them?—Yes.

19,432. Who offered it to you?—I do not know who the gentleman was. I was sent for to my house, and I went to No. 1 in the "Stars," the first door on the left hand as you go into the passage.

19,433. On the ground floor?—Yes.

19,434. What is called the office?—No, the office is in the lane.

19,435. Whom did you see when you got there?—A stranger; a man with a light complexion, somewhere about my own stature. I have never seen him before or since.

19,436. What coloured hair?—Ginger whiskers.

19,437. Moustache?—Yes, a little moustache.

19,438. A very slight good-looking man?—About such a person, I believe, as myself.

19,439. What did he look like, a gentleman?—Yes, quite so. I had some conversation, and that.

19,440. Did you see Captain Fox down here?—No, I had never seen either of the candidates personally; they left their cards.

19,441. Who brought you to No. 1?—Some boy came to me.

19,442. Did you know who he was?—No.

19,443. What message did he bring?—That a gentleman wanted to see me at No. 1 at the "Stars." I was not in at the time.

19,444. When you got there, what took place?—He said, "Is your name Gillham"? I said, "Yes." He says, "Which way are you going to vote"? I said, "The same side as I always do."

19,445. What did he say then?—I said, I heard there was some money flying, I have always voted that side, and I want a little now, I want to pay some bills; and he gave me a paper parcel.

19,446. What did it contain?—I did not know then. I found when I got home what it contained.

19,447. What did it contain?—Notes and gold.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. Gillham.

11 Sept. 1866.

19,448. How much?—50*l.* 45*l.* in notes, and 5*l.* in gold.

19,449. Did anything else take place?—Nothing; I left.

19,450. Did you give a receipt for it?—No.

19,451. Was that all done up in a parcel?—Yes. He says, "Here is a present for you." It was in paper.

19,452. Not in a bag?—No. I read that about the bag. I never saw no bag.

19,453. Mr. Heath did not give it to you?—No.

19,454. None of the Heaths?—No.

19,455. Did you see them?—I saw him in the lobby as I went in.

19,456. Did he say anything to you?—No.

19,457. Did not he tell you not to look forward to?—No, not a word.

19,458. Frederick Evens?—No, I never had a conversation in my life with Evens about election matters.

19,459. Screach?—No.

19,460. Had he tried you at this election?—No.

19,461. Who told you that money was going about?—Seeing Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour on the Sunday evening on the bridge.

19,462. What did they say to you?—I walked with Mr. Pender to the first pier from the "Seymour" hotel, and he said he wished I could give him a lift this time. I went back again to the steps, goes up, and Mr. Seymour was there. He says, "Will you "have a cigar"? I said, "I am not a proud chap, "but I shall not vote for you."

19,463. Did they say anything about what you would get for your vote?—No.

19,464. Did anybody on Pender and Seymour's side say what money they would give you at that election?—No.

19,465. They did not get you to the "Seymour Arms"?—No, they asked me to have a glass of grog.

19,466. You did not go?—No.

19,467. You thought from what happened before, it was a dangerous temptation, and you did not go in again?—No.

19,468. Was that 50*l.* all that you got?—Yes, every fraction.

19,469. You did not get anything more after the election?—No.

19,470. Were you a requisitionist?—I believe I signed it.

19,471. Did you sign it for the purpose of getting Colonel Dawkins down?—Mr. Harris brought me a paper, and I know I signed it. I think it was Harris.

19,472. (Mr. Longe.) You have told us about this transaction, when you got this money at this last election. You quite remember the circumstance of going down to the "Stars"?—Yes.

19,473. You were sent for there?—Yes, I was.

19,474. Are you quite sure that you did not talk to Mr. Heath then?—I may have said, "How d'ye do," as I was passing by him in the lobby.

19,475. Because Mr. Heath says he met you?—He met me in the lobby, I say.

19,476. This is Mr. Heath's evidence:—"Thomas "Gillham is your name?—He said he had offered "50*l.* on the other side; he came to me at the door "by some appointment about the same time on the "Saturday, and said, 'I don't see why I should vote "'for nothing on our side.'" Did you say so?—That might have passed at that time.

19,477. You said, "You did not see why you should "vote for nothing on your side, and I am not going "to vote unless they give the same amount as they "give on the other side, I shall vote against you."—I might have said a few words to that effect; there was no long conversation.

19,478. Where did you go when you said that?—To No. 1.

19,479. Then it goes on: "Did you send him to "Mr. Mum?—He was there in the entry, and I said "to Mr. Mum, 'This is Mr. Gillham, you hear what "'he says.' And Gillham had a bag also." Do you remember saying that to Mr. Heath, and his saying that?—I may have said so.

19,480. "And Mr. Gillham had a bag also." Is that true?—No.

19,481. "Who gave Gillham the bag?—Either "Mr. Mum or myself. I identified several of them." Mr. Heath answers, either Mr. Mum or himself?—Not Mr. Heath, sir.

19,482. He was not present at the time?—No, he was not present in the room at the time I saw this gentleman.

19,483. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was the door shut?—No.

19,484. (Mr. Bere.) Did not you say to Mr. Heath, that if they did not give you as much on the other side you would not vote on the other side?—I might have said so.

19,485. Had they offered you anything?—No. I heard money was floating about.

19,486. Did you hear how much a vote was worth on the other side?—200*l.*

19,487. On the Liberal side?—On the Liberal side.

19,488. Who told you that?—In conversation.

19,489. Can you tell us any one person who told you that?—No, because I did not think that there was anything that would be wanted now.

Mrs. Diggins.

Mrs. DIGGINS sworn and examined.

19,490. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did your husband get for his vote at the last election?—Nothing.

19,491. Nothing at all?—Nothing at all.

19,492. How did he vote?—He voted for the "Seymour" hotel.

19,493. Whom did he vote for, Seymour or Pender was it?—I think both.

19,494. The Liberal candidates?—Yes.

19,495. What was he offered for his vote the last time?—Nothing.

19,496. What were you offered?—Nothing.

19,497. Was it John Elliott or George Mitchell, or John Mitchell who asked for your husband's vote?—No.

19,498. He has told us so?—I cannot recollect what they came to ask, and I do not busy my head about voting.

19,499. You busied yourself at other elections?—I never had any of the money.

19,500. When they came did not they tell you there would be any money going at the last election. How came you to be left out at the last election?—What have I to do with electioneering.

19,501. Did your husband get anything?—No.

19,502. Do you know whether he was promised anything?—Not, that I am aware of.

19,503. Were you promised anything?—No, certainly not.

19,504. Were not you rather surprised that they did not offer him anything the last time?—No.

19,505. Did you think money was running short?—I did not know. I did not ask any questions about it.

19,506. Did you arrange about his vote?—No, I told you I know nothing about voting.

19,507. You would know the way your husband was going to vote?—No, I did not ask the question.

19,508. He would not vote without telling you?—I do not know whether he would or not.

19,509. You are quite sure that nothing was offered to you the last time?—Yes, quite sure.

19,510. Upon either side?—I cannot say by either side, but I know the side he voted.

19,511. The side he did vote, what did they offer him?—I cannot tell you.

19,512. Who came to you?—I cannot tell you.

19,513. Did anybody?—I cannot tell.

19,514. Your memory is a great deal worse than your husband's?—Yes, I am nervous. I cannot recollect. I have plenty to recollect without electioneering.

19,515. How long has your memory been bad?—Since I have been an old woman.

19,516. You are not so old as your husband?—Yes, many years older; you should have had me up here when I had a good memory.

19,517. Try to recollect something about 1857?—I cannot recollect anything about it.

19,518. Do you recollect ever receiving money at any election at all?—No.

19,519. (Mr. Bere.) You did when you began just now?—Well, the whole I can recollect about any money, that is many years gone, Mr.——, I do not know what the man was called gave me 5*l.*

19,520. Was that for Baldwin?—No.

19,521. Mr. Mills?—No, one of the town, Mr. Irish. That is many many years gone.

19,522. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know that with your husband he was more liberal then, that he gave him two 5*l.* notes?—He gave it to me.

19,523. Two?—No, one 5*l.* note, and I gave that to Mr. Irish and Mr. Samuel Rendell, it might be a week or 10 days after. That is all I had in my life, and that I returned again.

19,524. You know your husband has had very often?—I do not think he has.

19,525. Has not he told you?—No. That gentleman knows more about it than I do.

19,526. Which gentleman?—Mr. Harris; he wears two hats, I wear one bonnet.

19,527. Has Harris been to you for your vote?—No, I think not.

19,528. Has Mr. Harris ever been after your husband for his vote?—I cannot answer.

19,529. Has your husband ever told you?—I cannot answer. I cannot tell you anything about it. I tell you I cannot answer that question. I have not come here to tell lies, but the truth.

19,530. I ask you whether your husband has ever told you that Harris has been after his vote?—I cannot recollect anything about it.

19,531. Are you sure he has not?—I am sure, because I cannot recollect. Ask Harris himself, there he is, and he will tell you.

MR. RICHARD BOWDEN sworn and examined. Mr. R. Bowden.

19,532. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been a voter of Totnes?—Since Mr. Dent's time. The first time.

19,533. 1863?—Yes.

19,534. Had you been living in Totnes before?—I had been living in the neighbourhood, Weston.

19,535. Had you voted before in the council elections?—20 years.

19,536. How had you voted?—Always on the Conservative side.

19,537. In 1863 did you vote for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

19,538. What did you get for your vote?—20*l.*

19,539. Who gave you that?—Mr. George Heath.

19,540. Where did he pay it to you?—In my kitchen.

19,541. You keep an inn do you not, near the "Seven Stars"?—Near the arch.

19,542. Do you rent it of John Heath?—It is my own.

19,543. Did you see Mr. George Heath before he paid you the money?—He came there, a few words passed, and I told him I expected to be paid the same as other people, and he said he would go and see what he could do.

19,544. And did he go away and get the money?—He did. I do not know whether that day, but a day or two before the election took place.

19,545. Was it in notes or gold?—Gold.

19,546. Had you anything of him during 1862?—No.

19,547. None at all?—None at all.

19,548. Now in 1865 what did you get?—For Dawkins and Pim?

19,549. Yes?—Nothing at all.

19,550. How was that?—I believe somehow or other they got behind so.

19,551. Who canvassed you?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim. He came several times.

19,552. And did Screach or Evens speak to you?—No.

19,553. That was the only one that ever came down, John Heath?—No, only Colonel Dawkins and Pim came several times.

19,554. Had you been down to the "Seven Stars" at all?—No, I do not think I had then, not to know how money was going. I did not feel myself interested about it.

19,555. Who told you the money was gone?—I do not think I ask. I was told to go to the "Stars" at such a time, and found it was a mistake.

19,556. Who gave you orders?—The committee.

19,557. What member of the committee told you?—Possibly Mr. Heath.

19,558. Mr. John Heath was not it?—Yes.

19,559. You imagined that if you went down to the "Seven Stars" you would get what you had before?—Yes. The party came up and said, "get up "the plumpers as far as you can," and I went down.

19,560. Did you go to Dartmouth in 1865 during the election?—Not that I am aware of.

19,561. Not to see a man of the name of Mr. Rees?—No, it is my son; he is not a voter.

19,562. Is your son at home?—He is up by the arch.

19,563. Is that all you know about the election?—Yes.

19,564. Was your house an open house for the Conservatives?—There was a few came in, not a great many.

19,565. Did you send in a bill?—Yes.

19,566. For what amount?—I did for the election for the council.

19,567. Did you send in a bill for the borough election?—No.

19,568. I suppose you were paid for what they had in your house?—No, not a farthing, in fact they did not have anything; it was too far up.

JOHN CHAPPLE sworn and examined. Mr. J. Chapple.

19,569. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been a voter for the borough of Totnes?—13 years.

19,570. Who did you vote for first, Baldwin?—No. It was not until after Baldwin's time.

19,571. Did you vote in 1857 when Mackenzie and Gregory stood?—Mackenzie. I do not think Gregory did.

19,572. You live at Peter's Quay?—Yes.

19,573. You voted in 1857 for Mackenzie and Gregory the two Conservatives?—Yes.

19,574. What did you get for it?—Nothing at all.

19,575. Did you see anyone on Mr. Mills' side?—Yes.

19,576. Whom did you see?—I saw Mr. Mills and Mr. Cuming, and Lord Gifford, and Mr. Windeatt I think was along with Mr. Mills at that time.

19,577. Did you see Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Mills?—Yes.

19,578. They asked you to vote for Mr. Mills?—Yes.

19,579. Did you see anyone else on that side besides Mr. Windeatt?—No.

19,580. Did Mr. Windeatt tell you that you would get something for voting for them?—He asked me if a few pounds would do me any good.

19,581. Did you say that it would?—I did not say I should vote on that side at all.

19,582. They did not ask you how many pounds would do you good?—No. 70*l.*, 80*l.*, 90*l.*, or something like that.

19,583. You would not take that?—No.

19,584. You did not get anything at Mackenzie's election?—No.

19,585. What are you?—A labourer.

19,586. Did you vote in 1859, when Lord Gifford, Dunn, and Mills stood?—I believe so.

19,587. You did not vote in 1859; were you in Totnes at that time?—I have been here 13 years last Christmas; I was in Dartmouth for several years.

19,588. You voted for Mackenzie and Gregory in 1857?—Yes.

19,589. Your name is not down as voting in 1859; how is that, do you remember?—No.

19,590. Did you get anything in 1859 though you had no vote?—No.

19,591. No one came to ask you as you were not on the register?—No.

19,592. Did you get any employment by the Conservatives?—No.

19,593. Do you remember when Dent and Pender stood against each other?—Yes.

19,594. Did you vote on that occasion?—At the first election I think Mr. Dent withdrew.

19,595. You did not vote on that occasion?—No.

19,596. Did nobody come to see you on Mr. Dent's part then?—No.

19,597. Not even to ask you how you were going to vote?—Not at all.

19,598. Had not Screach been to see you?—No.

19,599. Nor Evens?—No.

19,600. In 1863 you voted for Mr. Dent when he stood against Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

19,601. Did you not have 40*l.* for voting for him?—No.

19,602. What did you have?—Nothing at all.

19,603. Not for voting for Dent then?—No, not a copper.

19,604. Do you know a man named Edward Woodley?—Yes.

19,605. Does he live near you?—No, up the town.

19,606. Is he alive?—I believe so.

19,607. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes, I saw him one day last week.

19,608. Did not Woodley give you or your wife 40*l.* in 1863?—Not to me, he may have given it to my wife.

19,609. He gave it to your wife?—I think that was about it.

19,610. How did he give it to her?—I think it was in gold.

19,611. You know it was in gold?—Well, it was in gold.

19,612. And she gave it to you?—No.

19,613. What did she do with it?—She put it away in the drawer for a little while.

19,614. What became of it afterwards?—We paid it away.

19,615. You had that for voting for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

19,616. What did you get at the last election in 1865?—50*l.*

19,617. Who gave you that?—Some gentleman, I do not know his name.

19,618. Where did he give it you?—At the "Seven Stars."

19,619. Was it not Mr. John Heath?—No, it was not.

19,620. Who was it?—Some gentleman, I do not know him.

19,621. Where did he give it you?—In the right hand little parlour as you go into the "Seven Stars."

19,622. Who sent for you to go to the "Seven Stars"?—This gentleman.

19,623. Who came down, this gentleman?—I was out in the front street and he called me down.

19,624. What was the gentleman like?—I do not know; he was a light complexioned man such as myself. He was not so stout, I think.

19,625. Had he a wig on?—Not that I know of.

19,626. A moustache?—I believe he had a moustauche.

19,627. What room did you see him in?—No. 1, I think.

19,628. The left hand side?—The right hand side as you go in; no doubt it was No. 1.

19,629. Was it on the ground floor?—Yes.

19,630. Was not it on the left hand as you go into the lobby?—On the left hand side.

19,631. Did not Mr. John Heath tell you where the room was?—He was in the passage as I went in.

19,632. Did you speak to John Heath?—He wished me good evening.

19,633. What did you say?—I said good evening, and away I went.

19,634. Where did you go?—Into the room along with this gentleman.

19,635. Where did you see the gentleman first?—At the door.

19,636. Was he standing outside the door?—Yes.

19,637. And he beckoned you to come in?—He spoke to me.

19,638. How many people were there then?—There were a lot of people around there.

19,639. Did he call you by your name?—No.

19,640. How did he know you were a voter; had you seen him before?—Certainly.

19,641. Where?—In the street.

19,642. When?—The Saturday before the election.

19,643. What time in the day?—I should think about 11 or 12.

19,644. What were you doing?—Walking down the street.

19,645. Had you ever seen him before?—I had seen him standing at the door.

19,646. Did you know who he was?—No.

19,647. Did he ask you to stop?—I stopped there I suppose and looked.

19,648. And he looked at you?—Yes, and asked me whether my name was John Chapple, and I said, Yes.

19,649. You had never seen him before?—Not before then.

19,650. He knew your name?—No, he asked me my name; some one at the "Stars" might have told him my name, no doubt.

19,651. How far from the "Stars" was this?—Not very far; just the other side of the railing to the bridge, as you go down to Peter's Quay.

19,652. He could see you from the door?—Yes.

19,653. He asked you whether your name was Chapple?—Yes.

19,654. And you said, yes?—Yes.

19,655. What else?—Who I was going to vote for.

19,656. What did you say?—Pim and Dawkins. I said then, I should like to have something for my vote, and he said yes.

19,657. What did he say you were to have?—I told him my figure was 40*l.* or 50*l.*, and he told me to come on the Monday evening.

19,658. And you went on the Monday evening and found your friend in the lobby of the "Seven Stars" and went with him into No. 1?—Yes.

19,659. Did you see Thomas Gillham at that time?—No.

19,660. What other voters were there besides yourself on the Monday evening?—There was many there; I do not know who he was.

19,661. Come?—I cannot recollect.

19,662. Yes you can. You know you would not recollect who Woodley was till we were obliged to twist it out of you. Who else was there?—I do not know of any one; I cannot recollect anyone.

19,663. Is there anybody you see in this Court was there ?—Not that I know of. I do not know that any one of them was there.

19,664. You had better answer the question. Consider thoroughly or you will be condemned to the same punishment as some of the others have had. Tell us what voter besides yourself was outside the door that night ?—I cannot.

19,665. Think a moment ?—I cannot tell from my knowledge.

19,666. Just think ?—I cannot tell to my knowledge that there were any there as is here now.

19,667. Did you see any other of the Mr. Heaths there ? Did you see that Mr. Heath there (Mr. Geo. Heath) ?—No.

19,668. Or the one just behind you (Mr. Jno. Heath, jun.) ?—No.

19,669. Then you went into this room, and did the gentleman shut the door ?—Yes.

19,670. Were you there by yourself ?—I went in with him.

19,671. And you were the only persons in the room ?—Yes.

19,672. What did he give you ?—He gave me a bag with 50*l.* in it.

19,673. When were you last at the "Seven Stars" before you came up here to-day ?—When was I last ?

19,674. Yes ?—I was in there last night, I think.

19,675. In consequence of a message from Mr. John Heath ?—No.

19,676. How came you to go there last night ?—For a glass of ale.

19,677. Did you go there when you found your name was on the list of witnesses for to-day ?—Did I go there ?

19,678. Did you know you were to be examined as a witness to-day ?—I knew I was summoned to come to-day.

19,679. Was it after you knew that you were summoned that you were down at the "Seven Stars"?—Yes, it was.

19,680. Did you see any of the Mr. Heaths there ?—No.

19,681. Whom did you see ?—I saw the old gentleman pass out at the door.

19,682. Did you talk to the old gentleman ?—I did not.

19,683. Who were drinking with you ?—No person.

19,684. You were all by yourself ?—I did not stop about five minutes.

19,685. Who was there drinking with you ?—There was nobody there drinking.

19,686. Did you talk to any human being about coming up here to-day ?—No.

19,687. You talked to your wife ?—Yes, she knowed I was coming.

19,688. Had she been up to the "Seven Stars" ?—No.

19,689. Had Mr. Heath been down to see her ?—Certainly not.

19,690. (Mr. Coleridge.) Whom did you tell at the "Seven Stars" that you were going to give evidence here to-day ?—Nobody.

19,691. Not the waiter even ?—No.

19,692. Did you tell Miss Prout, the barmaid ?—No.

19,693. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Heath says he gave you the money ?—He did not.

19,694. Are you sure about its being in a bag ?—Yes.

19,695. What sort of bag ?—A white bag.

19,696. Have you the bag ?—No.

19,697. What have you done with it ?—I do not know, it is sometime gone.

19,698. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you think your wife has that little bag at home ?—I do not know I am sure.

19,699. (Mr. Longe.) Was it a leather bag ?—No, a small bag.

19,700. (Mr. Bere.) Have you ever said before when you were speaking about being bribed that you had the money in a canvas bag ?—I do not know whether a canvas bag or no ; it was a little bag.

19,701. Have you always said when talking about this affair of the 50*l.* that you had the money in a bag ?—I never talked about it to my knowledge.

19,702. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was it all gold ?—All gold.

19,703. (Mr. Bere.) Have you had a letter from Mr. Heath ?—No.

19,704. Either of the Mr. Heaths ?—No, I have not.

19,705. Have you had any letter at all about the evidence to be given here to-day ?—No.

19,706. (Mr. Coleridge.) Has Frederick Evens talked to you about it ?—No.

19,707. Or Screach ?—No.

19,708. (Mr. Bere.) Had you a talk with anybody about what was going on here to-day except your wife ?—No.

19,709. (Mr. Longe.) Whom do you say you saw when you went to the "Seven Stars" ?—Some gentleman.

19,710. Whom was the first person that you saw ?—That I saw ?

19,711. Yes ?—I cannot say who was the first person I saw now, it is so long ago gone.

19,712. Did you see Mr. Heath ?—I did not. I saw him in the passage as I went in.

19,713. Did you speak to him ?—I wished him good evening, and he wished me the same.

19,714. And you say now positively it was not Mr. Heath who spoke to you about this money that had been arranged ?—It was not.

19,715. Because Mr. Heath says it was ?—He did not.

19,716. Mr. Heath says "He came on the Saturday " or Monday and he told me he had been arranged " with, but to receive what sum I do not know. There " was the man, Mr. Mum, waiting at the door to see " several of them. Did you see Mr. Mum pay " Chapple ?—I think that I had the bag containing " what they had arranged for Mr. Chapple to receive, " and I gave it to him" ?—The gentleman gave it to me you may depend at the door.

19,717. Mr. Heath was not the person ?—Mr. Heath was not the person.

Captain JOHN KING sworn and examined.

Capt. J. King.

19,718. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been acquainted with Totnes ?—I have lived in the neighbourhood for six or seven years.

19,719. Are you a personal friend of Mr. Dent's and Mr. Mitchell's ?—I am.

19,720. Did either of them communicate with you before they came down here in 1862 ?—Neither of them ; I was not aware of Mr. Dent or Mr. Mitchell's coming until I saw it in the newspaper.

19,721. Had you ever interested yourself in election matters before 1862 ?—Never in my life.

19,722. How long have you been a voter ?—I have a vote for the county, but not for the borough.

19,723. When they first came down here in 1862 did you go and see them ?—I did.

19,724. Did you go round with Mr. Dent in his canvass ?—I accompanied Mr. Dent in all his canvassing.

19,725. Had you been acquainted with the constituency of Totnes before you went round with him ?—Not in any way particular.

19,726. Were you struck with their being a good deal of hesitation as to the promising of votes ?—There was a good deal of that in some parties.

19,727. Did you understand what was the reason of that hesitation ?—I guessed it.

19,728. Did Mr. Dent or Mr. Mitchell tell you what sum of money they had brought down with them ?—Never ; I was merely a personal friend and as such accompanied him in his canvass.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

Capt. J. King.

11 Sept. 1866.

19,729. You know that there was a sum of money brought down?—I was not aware of it; I could not swear that; I was never told of it.

19,730. Did you not believe that was so?—I had a suspicion of it.

19,731. Are you acquainted with the reason why Mr. Dent did not then go to the poll?—The story which was told me, the truth of which I will not vouch for, was that if Mr. Dent spent 20,000*l.* Mr. Pender would spend 40,000*l.*, that he was connected with the Whitworth Gun Company, and they would back him up with as much money as he wanted so as to be able to get the Duke of Somerset, who was then at the Admiralty, to supply the Whitworth guns for the navy.

19,732. In 1863 Mr. Dent came down again?—Yes.

19,733. Did you assist him in his canvass then?—I accompanied him in his canvass.

19,734. Do you remember a man of the name of Manning?—Mr. Mitchell told me that a person of the name of Manning, a churchwarden, wanted 500*l.* for his vote; it was a mere matter of conversation.

19,735. Do you know the man's christian name, whether it was David or Nicholas?—I do not know, he called him, if I remember, Churchwarden Manning.

19,736. Did Mr. Dent express his opinion as to how he had been treated in Totnes?—He was very much disgusted with it and thought he had been treated very badly.

19,737. From your canvass did you form any conclusion as to whether he had a chance?—No, I did not keep any list.

19,738. Do you know that Mr. Dent wrote to the Duke of Somerset after the election of 1863?—I did not know it; this is the first I have heard of it. I took no active part then; I was merely accompanying Mr. Dent in his canvass.

19,739. In 1865 were you concerned in cashing a cheque at the Devon and Cornwall Bank?—As I was coming out of the "Seven Stars" I met Mr. Kellock, who said, "I want a cheque cashed, if you will do it "for me I shall be much obliged to you." I went and presented it, and gave him the money in notes and gold.

19,740. Were they notes of a large or of a small amount?—That I cannot tell.

19,741. Do you remember counting them?—I did not count the money, I put it all in my pocket.

19,742. Was it about half and half?—I think there was more in notes than in gold.

19,743. Where did you take it to?—Mr. Kellock told me to take it to the "Seven Stars," and I should find a man there to receive it in a small sitting room.

19,744. Whereabouts was that?—At the top of the stairs, straight in front of you; there are three or four rooms just there, and it was the smallest of the three sitting rooms.

19,745. Did you go there?—I took it there.

19,746. Whom did you find there?—There was a man there who I believe to be one of Colonel Dawkins' servants.

19,747. Did you see Mr. Smith's clerks who were here the other day?—I did.

19,748. Were either of these the men?—I should not say so; I was there but a very short time, I merely took it out of my pocket, put it on a newspaper which was lying on the table, I said, "There is the money," and walked out again.

19,749. Did Mr. Kellock go in with you?—Mr. Kellock went into the bank with me; he did not go with me to the manager; I think he waited in the passage.

19,750. You went into the manager's room?—Yes, a private place.

19,751. How was the money done up?—I think the notes were in a roll; I think the sovereigns were in a bag. I put them in my trousers pocket.

19,752. What, loose?—Yes, I took it all out loose, and put it down on the newspaper at the "Seven Stars."

19,753. Are you quite certain that Mr. Kellock came inside the bank door with you?—I am certain he did.

19,754. Did he stay in the public portion of the bank while you went into the manager's private room?—I cannot swear that, I think he was in the office.

19,755. Your cheque was not cashed over the counter?—No, it was done in a private room.

19,756. Was this after banking hours?—Yes, between three and four in the afternoon.

19,757. What did you say to Mr. Pearce when you went in about the cheque?—I think I presented the cheque and asked them to cash it, they seemed well prepared to do so; it was no trouble at all.

19,758. What did you say to Mr. Kellock when you come out with the cash?—I said, "What am I to do with it," and he told me.

19,759. Did he not tell you that when you went for the money in the first instance?—No.

19,760. Did you not say to him why cannot you do it yourself?—No; he said, "I do not want to go in and do it myself, will you oblige me."

19,761. You knew pretty well what it was about?—I guessed, of course.

19,762. You put the notes on a piece of newspaper?—Notes and gold.

19,763. Do you mean that they were all out open on the table?—Yes.

19,764. Was Mr. Kellock in the room?—He was not.

19,765. Did he come into the room?—No; there was no one left in the room but Colonel Dawkins' servant.

19,766. How long did you stay in the room?—Not three minutes.

19,767. Did you say anything to the men?—I said, "I do not know you, you do not know me."

19,768. When you had said that, did you meet Mr. Kellock outside the room?—I do not think I did.

19,769. Did you meet Mr. Edmonds?—I do not think I did, I went straight down stairs and went home.

19,770. When did you see Mr. Kellock after you had thus put the money in this room?—Not until the next day.

19,771. Did you ask him whether he had got the money all right?—I do not think I made any remark to him.

19,772. Or he to you?—No.

19,773. You are quite certain that neither Mr. Kellock nor Mr. Edmonds were in the room when you unburthened yourself?—There was no one else but the servant.

19,774. What sort of a looking person was the servant?—As far as my recollection serves me he was a short, spare man.

19,775. Did he look like a soldier?—Yes; a soldier's servant.

19,776. And he was the only person whom you delivered this money to?—Precisely.

19,777. What had brought you down to the "Seven Stars" on the morning when you got this money?—I came into the town, it was the nomination morning.

19,778. Had you been canvassing with Colonel Dawkins or Captain Pim?—I had taken no part in it at all.

19,779. Would you have cashed such a cheque as this for the other side?—No.

19,780. Would you if you had been asked?—No, I would not.

19,781. You would not have cashed Mr. Pender's cheque for him?—No, I would not.

19,782. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you seen the evidence of Mr. Kellock given yesterday?—No.

19,783. Mr. Kellock there says, "I met Captain "King, a gentleman who took an interest in the elec- "tion, and asked him if he would go and cash the "cheque for me, I did not tell him what it was for; "I walked with him to the Devon and Cornwall Bank "I did not go in with him; he went and got the "cheque cashed, and came out and joined me in the "street. I dare say he was in the bank 10 minutes

" or a quarter of an hour. I think I told him in what " way I wanted it cashed." Did he tell you that?—I think he did not.

19,784. " Did you not say to him ' Get this in small " ' notes or gold '?—I do not recollect," did he tell you that?—I do not think he did.

19,785. Did you ask the manager to give it you in any particular way?—No.

19,786. Did the manager seem all ready prepared to do so?—Yes, he seemed quite prepared.

19,787. And gave it to you in small notes and in gold?—Yes, notes and gold.

19,788. Mr. Kellock's evidence goes on " Do you " mean to say you gave him no reason for wishing him " to get it cashed? without having told him anything " by intuition did he walk down by your side to the " ' Seven Stars '? He came out of the bank and walked " to the ' Stars ' with me." Do you recollect anything like that occurring?—I may have walked down with Mr. Kellock, but I do not remember it.

19,789. Do you recollect his asking you " If you had " got it done "?—No.

19,790. Did you see some one watching him?—No, I did not.

19,791. Then his evidence goes on " Where did " you go to at the ' Seven Stars '?—I went upstairs, I " think to Colonel Dawkins' sitting room." Was the room you went into Colonel Dawkins' sitting room?—I do not think so.

19,792. This was a front room you say?—Yes.

19,793. Then Mr. Kellock goes on " Captain King " had got the money in a parcel," that is not correct?—No, it was not in a parcel then, I had it loose in my trousers pocket. The man whom I gave it to rolled it up, as I was leaving the room he was rolling it up then.

19,794. Mr. Kellock was not there?—No, the man rolled it up when I gave it to him.

19,795. " You say this was a small room between " the two large ones, you do not believe that it was " your own little room at the top of the stairs"? That you both seem to be pretty well agreed upon, that it was one of those front rooms?—Yes, that is so.

19,796. " Who was present when Captain King " delivered himself of his burthen? I believe we saw " Colonel Dawkins' servant. Was anything said to the " servant at that time?—So far as I recollect Captain " King went up and delivered himself of his burthen by " putting the parcel on the table, and Colonel Dawkins' " servant was called upon to keep guard over it until " I went and called Mr. Edmonds, who came and took " it." Now do you recollect anything of that sort taking place?—Nothing at all, as I left the room the man was rolling it up.

19,797. You do not recollect anything of that kind which Mr. Kellock has mentioned?—No.

19,798. And do you not recollect either Mr. Kellock or Mr. Edmonds being present?—Certainly not, there was no one present but the servant when I was there.

19,799. " Did you see it unpacked?—I did. What " did it consist of?—Chiefly of gold." Should you say that it consisted chiefly of gold?—I should say it was more in notes than in gold.

19,800. So far as your recollection goes you do not agree with Mr. Kellock's account of the transaction as to himself and Mr. Edmonds being present?—No, I do not.

JOHN GODFREY sworn and examined. Mr. J. Godfrey.

19,801. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A tailor.

19,802. How long have you had the valuable possession of a vote for Totnes?—Since 1859.

19,803. You first voted then?—Yes.

19,804. What did you get for voting then?—Nothing at all.

19,805. Whom did you vote for in 1859?—For Mills and Gifford.

19,806. Who canvassed you for them?—I think Lord John Hay canvassed on behalf of his brother and Mr. Mills for himself.

19,807. Did any person on the other side come to you?—On the nomination night.

19,808. Who came to you on that night?—Mr. Donnall.

19,809. Who is he?—He is dead and gone now; he was a chemist here.

19,810. Was he a neighbour of yours?—No.

19,811. Was he a friend of yours?—No.

19,812. What did he say to you?—He offered me 60*l.* if I would vote for Dunn.

19,813. And you said, "No"?—I had promised before.

19,814. You did not get your 60*l.*?—No.

19,815. Did you go to the other side?—I told them of it the same night.

19,816. Did not they consider your case favourably. They did; I was watching one of their doubtful voters; they took him to the " Stars," and took him in there.

19,817. What did they give you?—They promised after the election to make me a present, but they never did so, and that is the reason I left them; they said they would make me a handsome present after the election was over.

19,818. Where was that?—That was at the " Bull " inn.

19,819. Who was there?—There was a meeting there

19,820. Where is the " Bull " inn?—At the head of the town.

19,821. What night was this?—On the Thursday or Friday night before the election.

19,822. Was it the day of the nomination?—I think in the evening.

19,823. Who kept the " Bull " inn?—Edward Willis.

19,824. Was he there?—I do not know whether he was or not.

19,825. Was it a private room?—No; it was in the large room where there was a meeting of the Liberal party.

19,826. Who was in the chair?—I cannot say; I did not stay there any time; I had the bird all right over at the " Seymour;" I was looking after him to keep him all right; I said, " Never mind the money; you can make me a present after the election is over."

19,827. Were the Mr. Michelmores there?—Yes; Charles Frederick, Jeffery, and Thomas.

19,828. Do not you think it was one of them who told you this?—I will not be positive who it was said so.

19,829. They were the principal persons engaged in the election?—They were; I have told Mr. Cuming of it repeatedly since.

19,830. Was Mr. Cuming there?—I think so.

19,831. And Mr. Chaster?—I will not be positive.

19,832. Was Mr. Windeatt there?—I will not be positive; the room was full.

19,833. Was Mr. Elliott there?—Yes; no doubt.

19,834. And George and John Mitchell?—I think not.

19,835. Was Mr. Farley there?—I think not.

19,836. Mr. Parnell?—I think he was at the " Seymour " that night.

19,837. Mr. Holman?—I will not be positive.

19,838. Were any of the Pengilleys there?—I think not.

19,839. You did not get your present; when 1862 came did you promise to vote for Dent?—I did.

19,840. Who had canvassed you in 1862?—Mr. Dent himself, I think.

19,841. Did you see Evens, or Harris, or Screach on that occasion?—No.

19,842. Did anyone tell you that you would have money if you went to the poll?—I was given to understand that, if I voted for Dent; I said I should never vote for the Whig party again; they broke faith with me, and I should break faith with them.

19,843. That was in 1862?—Yes.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

Mr. J. Godfrey.

1 Sept. 1866.

19,844. Did you get anything after the election from anybody?—After the election I received an envelope with a 5*l.* note in it "for services rendered."

19,845. Have you any idea where it came from?—No.

19,846. Was there any writing in it?—"For "services rendered."

19,847. No signature?—No.

19,848. Did you ask anyone who could have sent it?—I was not particular to inquire.

19,849. Which side did you think it had come from?—No doubt it was from Mr. Dent's side; they sent for me to come to the "Seymour," and said if I would vote for Pender they would pay me what they owed me. I said I would not come to vote at the eleventh hour when there was no opposition.

19,850. Who sent for you?—Mr. Condy; he sent my father.

19,851. What is his name?—William Godfrey.

19,852. Where does he live?—On the opposite side of the street.

19,853. Mr. Condy sent him to you?—Yes; at three o'clock in the afternoon.

19,854. To get you to vote for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

19,855. And they promised to pay you what they owed you?—Yes; that was the promise they had made before.

19,856. You mean to fulfil their promise?—Yes.

19,857. Is your father a tailor?—Yes.

19,858. Has he the honour to supply Mr. Pender with coats?—No; that is his brother.

19,859. You would not go to the "Seymour Arms"?—No; I had promised to vote for Mr. Dent, and I was not going to vote for Mr. Pender when there was no occasion; the election was safe before.

19,860. In 1863, what did you do then?—I voted for Dent.

19,861. What did you get for that?—30*l.*

19,862. Who did you get it from?—Frederick Evens.

19,863. Where did he pay you?—In the "Plymouth" inn.

19,864. That is in the upper part of the town?—Yes.

19,865. Had you any instructions to meet him there?—No; I was there accidentally.

19,866. He had agreed with you before?—No; he asked me how I was going to vote, and I told him that I should support Mr. Dent. He said, "If you "do there is a present for you." I put it in my pocket and voted for Mr. Dent.

19,867. Was it in gold or in notes?—In gold.

19,868. At the last election, in 1865, what did you get?—40*l.*

19,869. You voted for Dawkins and Pim?—I did.

19,870. Who gave you that money?—Mr. John Heath.

19,871. Where did he give it you?—At the "Seven Stars."

19,872. On what day?—On the day before the nomination.

19,873. At what time?—Some time in the evening.

19,874. Had you seen anyone to tell you that you were to go there?—No; I had been at work for that party; I had been canvassing for them, and they said they would give me 40*l.* if I voted all right.

19,875. Where was it given to you?—At the foot of the stairs.

19,876. Openly, out in the lobby?—Yes.

19,877. Was there anyone else there?—No; I think they were all in the large room.

19,878. Did you see any persons hanging about whose faces you did not know?—No; he went upstairs, and came down, and said, "There is a present for you."

19,879. Did you say what you had come for?—No.

19,880. Did he know that?—I went with Heard to see Smaridge, and report progress.

19,881. Smaridge was Shillabeer's brother-in-law?—Yes.

19,882. Had you managed him?—He had promised to come at 7 o'clock on the nomination day, and he did come.

19,883. And he was arranged with?—I know nothing of any arrangement; his vote was secured.

19,884. You came back and reported to Mr. Heath what you had done; what did he say to you?—He said, if the man was coming down it would be all right.

19,885. When was the first mention of the 40*l.*?—There was no mention of that whatever.

19,886. Did he go and bring you down the money?—Yes; provided that I voted all right.

19,887. He gave you the money before you voted?—Yes.

19,888. Did he bring it down in gold or in notes?—In gold.

19,889. Where were you standing when he went up stairs?—I was standing close to the bar.

19,890. Did you see how far he went upstairs?—I think he went on to the first landing.

19,891. Could you see or hear whether he went to a room to the left or to the right?—I was not looking in that direction; I saw the waiters going up there into the big room with a lot of grogs.

19,892. Did you afterwards go into the big room and have a grog?—I went up there, and was much amused at seeing a volunteer there.

19,893. Who was the volunteer?—It was Stoyle, and being a volunteer myself I looked upon him as a fresh recruit, and thought it looked healthy to see a new man enter the service.

19,894. But he was not the only person whom you saw there?—No.

19,895. Was the room pretty full?—Yes.

19,896. And a good deal of drinking going on?—Yes.

19,897. Did you operate on anyone except Smaridge in 1865?—No.

19,898. Did you canvass anyone?—No.

19,899. Who ordered you to go to Smaridge?—I had no direct orders from anyone. Heard said he was going, and asked me to go with him.

19,900. Did you see anyone else there at the time you reported to Mr. John Heath?—I think Evens was there.

19,901. Where was it you reported to Mr. Heath, in the lobby, or upstairs?—Upstairs in the front room.

19,902. Was Mr. Edmunds there with Mr. Heath?—I think not; I think Colonel Dawkins was there.

19,903. Was Captain Pim there?—I think not then.

19,904. Did you see Mr. Smith, who was here the other day?—I cannot say; the first time that I saw him was on Tuesday last.

19,905. You had never seen him before?—No.

19,906. Nor his clerks?—No.

19,907. Is that all you know about the election?—Yes.

19,908. Have you had anything to do with elections for the town council?—Yes.

19,909. Did you vote first of all for the Liberals, and then for the Conservatives?—Yes.

19,910. Which was the best paymaster?—I had nothing to do with paying there.

19,911. Not even a breakfast?—No.

19,912. Did you ever canvass for those elections?—No.

19,913. And you have had nothing to do with paying money for them?—No.

Mr. J. Hannaford.

JOSEPH HANNAFORD sworn and examined.

19,914. (Mr. Bere.) What are you by trade?—A baker.

19,915. Where do you live?—The lower part of the town.

19,916. Near the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

19,917. When did you first vote for Totnes?—For Mr. Mackenzie.

19,918. In 1857?—I don't recollect the date.

19,919. Lord Gifford, Mackenzie, and Gregory stood?—I forget.

19,920. Did you vote only for Mackenzie, or Mackenzie and Gregory?—Gifford and Mackenzie, I think.

19,921. Were you living in a house of the duke's then?—No, never.

19,922. Did you vote again when Dunn stood?—No.

19,923. Had you not got a vote then?—No.

19,924. Had you changed your house?—Yes; I had changed my residence.

19,925. You had not a vote till 1862?—No.

19,926. When Mr. Dent stood, and retired?—Yes.

19,927. Who came to you in 1862 on Dent's part?—I was solicited by Mr. Dent himself.

19,928. Anybody else?—The other side came as well.

19,929. Had Mr. Pender called upon you?—Yes.

19,930. Of course Mr. Dent and Mr. Pender did not say anything to you about money?—No.

19,931. Did anybody on Mr. Dent's behalf say anything to you about it?—No.

19,932. No intimation given to you that if there was a contest money would be about?—I forget now.

19,933. It is a probable thing that such a thing would happen?—I dare say it did happen.

19,934. Did you see anybody on Mr. Pender's side?—No.

19,935. In the election of 1863 you voted for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

19,936. What did you get for voting for him?—50*l.*

19,937. Given you by young Screach, was it not?—Yes.

19,938. Had he been to you before you arranged the price for your vote?—I do not know.

19,939. To your wife?—He never paid it to me.

19,940. Did he pay it to your wife?—Yes.

19,941. Did your wife pay it over, or keep it?—I do not know about that.

19,942. The money was paid to her?—Yes.

19,943. And you voted for Dent?—Yes.

19,944. Did she go to the "Seven Stars" to get it?—No.

19,945. Did Screach bring it?—No; I think it was paid at Bridgetown.

19,946. Where, at Screach's?—No; at my father's-in-law.

19,947. What's his name?—Thomas Mitchell.

19,948. Any relation to George or John Mitchell?—He is uncle to them.

19,949. What is he at Bridgetown?—He is residing with me at present.

19,950. What was he in 1863, when the money was paid at his house?—A shoemaker.

19,951. Was Screach working for him then?—No.

19,952. Then Screach paid Thomas Mitchell?—He paid my wife in Thomas Mitchell's house.

19,953. Did you see anybody on the other side at that election?—No.

19,954. Didn't they come and canvass you?—They came and canvassed me.

19,955. And asked you for your vote?—Yes; and I told them I had promised, and could not support them.

19,956. Had Screach been before they canvassed you on the Liberal side?—I do not think he had; but I do not recollect it.

19,957. What did you get in 1865?—60*l.*

19,958. You voted for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—Yes.

19,959. You got it then?—Yes, it was offered to me; there was no bargain or anything made.

19,960. Had not young Screach seen your wife about it?—No.

19,961. How was it you got 10*l.* more?—I do not know.

19,962. You had risen in value?—I suppose so; I had promised.

19,963. That was brought to your house?—Yes.

19,964. Had Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore been to see you?—No, never.

19,965. Had anybody on the other side been to see you?—No.

19,966. Not Mr. Parnell?—No, not at all.

19,967. Had you been to see them?—No, neither one of them.

19,968. Didn't somebody on that side come and say, "Which way are you going to vote," and didn't you say, "I have got 60*l.* on the other side; but if you will "give me 100*l.* I will vote for you"?—No; nothing of the sort. I had promised my vote for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim. I never went from my word.

19,969. You got 60*l.* for keeping your word?—Yes.

19,970. (Mr. Longe.) You signed a requisition?—Yes.

19,971. At the time did you understand you would get something?—No, nothing at all; nothing said.

19,972. Your father-in-law is Thomas Mitchell?—Yes.

19,973. Was he turned out of his house?—Yes.

19,974. When was that?—About two years and a half, it must be; I forget. He could not go whilst his wife was lying dead. They came and ordered him out of the house.

19,975. He had notice given to him before?—They wanted to turn him out while she was lying dead.

19,976. He had notice given him to leave?—Yes; I cannot answer that exactly.

19,977. What are the circumstances? What was he turned out for?—On account of not voting for the duke.

19,978. At which election?—I do not know when it was.

(Mr. Harris.) He voted for Dent in 1863, and was then turned out.

(The Witness.) He was turned out; and the message came from some one that he must get out, or his things would be removed, and he said, "I cannot till "my wife is buried."

19,979. He voted for Dent in 1863?—I do not know.

19,980. He is of Seymour Place, Bridgetown?—Yes.

19,981. Did he vote for the other?—On the Conservative side, I believe.

19,982. Was that the reason given him?—I'm sure I cannot tell. Old Mr. Michelmore came.

19,983. Thomas Michelmore?—Yes. And he was speaking to Mrs. Mitchell, and she says, "I did not "know anything about it;" but he says, "You'll "have to know." Mrs. Mitchell made answer, "I "do not know anything about, my husband is not at "home." That is when he came to solicit Mr. Mitchell for his vote.

19,984. That is before the election?—Yes; and Mr. Michelmore said, "You'll have to know."

19,985. Afterwards he was turned out?—Yes.

19,986. Do you know any other case of any other man being turned out?—I have heard of Mr. Turpin being turned out.

19,987. He had a little money?—I heard so.

19,988. You have heard it said that he had something?—Yes; but I cannot say any more than that.

WILLIAM HENRY JOHNS sworn and examined.

Mr. W. H. Johns.

19,989. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you had a vote?—Two or three years, I think.

19,990. Which way did you vote?—Conservative.

19,991. Always?—I have only voted once.

19,992. You voted at the last election for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—Yes.

19,993. Did you ever go to a man called Gillham?—Oh, yes; many times.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

Mr. W. H. Johns.

11 Sept. 1866.

19,994. About the election time?—I was frequently going there.

19,995. I believe you are brother cockfighters?—Yes.

19,996. And supposed to be a good man to send to Gillham on account of your influence in that sport?—I don't know about that.

19,997. Tell us what you did about Gillham?—I do not know but very little.

19,998. Did you offer him any money?—No.

19,999. Who sent you to Gillham?—Mr. Harris asked me if it was any good to name anything, and I said I would try him on.

20,000. What did you try on?—Talking of other business, cockfighting, and so on, we brought up electioneering, and I said, which way was he going to vote? And he said, he did not know. He said he would go for Mr. Most, and I thought that was a very good way.

20,001. You knew about money going?—Yes.

20,002. Did you tell him to go to the "Seven Stars"?—No.

20,003. Did you know that he did go to the "Seven Stars"?—Not that I am aware of.

20,004. Did you tell him where to get anything from Mr. Most?—I wanted to know what he would vote for. I asked him what he wanted, and he said, he must have a heavy sum, because if he did vote the other way, he must take up his awls and be off.

20,005. Was he the duke's tenant?—Yes.

20,006. Did he say what sum?—He did not; I wanted him to say.

20,007. He didn't tell you at all what he expected?—No.

20,008. Did he say to whom he should go to talk about it?—No.

20,009. What is Gillham?—A blacksmith.

20,010. Did you tell him where to go to?—No. He pretty well knew as well as I did.

20,011. Did he tell you where he should go to?—No, he didn't go so far as that.

20,012. Was Gillham the only voter that you talked to at the last election about his vote?—He was.

20,013. Did you get anything for your vote yourself?—30*l.*

20,014. Who gave it to you?—Frederick Evens.

20,015. How did that come about; did you ask him for anything?—He said he thought he could get a little for me.

20,016. Where was that?—At Mr. Goodridge's.

20,017. Where did you get the money?—Mr. Evens gave it to me down at the "Stars," in the back yard.

20,018. How did he give to you?—In gold.

20,019. When was that?—The nomination day morning.

20,020. Didn't you know that many voters got more?—I didn't trouble my head.

20,021. You were satisfied with 30*l.*?—Yes; I didn't expect so much.

20,022. Had you ever any money at any other elections as runner or fighting man?—No.

20,023. Were you mixed up with municipal elections?—No.

20,024. Never voted?—No.

20,025. Have you anything else to tell us about the last election?—No.

20,026. You were not a voter in 1863?—No.

20,027. What is your qualification?—House and workshop.

20,028. What rent do you pay?—10*l.*

20,029. Is it worth 10*l.*, or do you think you are too highly rated?—I am forced to pay it to get the house.

20,030. Who is your landlord?—Mr. Paige.

20,031. Who is he?—A land surveyor.

20,032. Is your rental exactly 10*l.*?—Yes.

20,033. Do you ever get anything thrown back?—No; he is not a man of that sort.

20,034. You pay 10*l.* actually, and vote upon your house and premises?—I do.

20,035. Had you been offered money on the other side the last time?—No.

20,036. Had anybody besides Mr. Evens said anything about money?—No.

20,037. Not Screach, or Mr. Edmunds?—No.

20,038. Did you ever see the mysterious stranger?—No.

Mr. J. Nickells.

JOHN NICKELLS sworn and examined.

20,039. (Mr. Longe.) How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Six years come Michaelmas.

20,040. You voted in 1863 and 1865?—Yes; I voted for Mr. Dent.

20,041. And you voted for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—Yes.

20,042. At the election of 1863, when you voted for Mr. Dent, who canvassed you then?—Mr. Dent himself.

20,043. Did you give him to understand that you would vote; did you promise him?—Yes; I promised to vote for him at once.

20,044. Did you have a little present afterwards for it?—Yes.

20,045. What did you get that time?—In Dent and Pender I got nothing.

20,046. You say you promised Dent, and voted for him?—Yes.

20,047. And got a present afterwards?—Yes.

20,048. What did you get?—32*l.*

20,049. Who gave you that?—Mr. Woodley.

20,050. How did you know Mr. Woodley?—I have done a great deal of work for him.

20,051. What is he?—A mason.

20,052. You worked under him?—No; I do smith's work.

20,053. What are you?—A smith.

20,054. Did Mr. Woodley talk to you before you voted?—No.

20,055. Had you not arranged with him for whom you were going to vote?—No.

20,056. Woodley had not told you?—Mr. Woodley had not been to me, to my knowledge, about any such thing.

20,057. Did nothing take place between you when he gave you the 32*l.*?—He came to me, and said he could get me a little money, and I said I would be glad of it; I do not go from one side to the other. I vote for the Tories.

20,058. Was that before you saw Dent that he said he could give you money?—I saw Mr. Dent before that, a good bit.

20,059. You had promised your vote before Woodley told you that?—Before I knew I was going to get anything.

20,060. He told you he could get you a little money?—Yes.

20,061. Were not you asked to vote on the other side at that time?—Yes.

20,062. Who asked you?—Mr. Pender himself.

20,063. Did Mr. Pender come alone?—No.

20,064. Who was with him?—I can hardly tell you. I did not know many people in Totnes then, but I think it was Mr. Windeatt, but I would not say exactly.

20,065. Which Mr. Windeatt?—The old gentleman, who is dead, I think.

20,066. Who spoke to you?—Mr. Pender asked me to vote for him. I told him no, I had promised Mr. Dent; he had been there before. But if I had not promised my vote I could not vote for Mr. Pender. I voted for the Tories.

20,067. Upon that, I suppose, Mr. Pender left?—Yes; he said he would see me again, and I told him it was no service, I intended to vote for Mr. Dent

20,068. Wasn't there a hint given you that something might be done for you if you voted for the Liberals?—I cannot recollect much about it; it is a long time ago.

20,069. Was not there any money offered on the other side as well as for Mr. Dent?—I do not know; when I promised Mr. Dent I didn't know I was going to have anything.

20,070. There was some hint thrown out that something could be done?—I forget.

20,071. You must remember that?—I always voted for one side.

20,072. Do not you remember some hint being thrown out that some gentleman would come and see you again, and that something might be done for you?—It is so long ago that I forget.

20,073. You do not seem to forget all about it. What was it, let us have it?—I do not know.

20,074. When you were asked to vote for Mr. Pender did you think something might be done for you if you voted that way?—There was that what I say.

20,075. There was some hint thrown out?—Yes. They came to me, two of them; Baker, the tailor, was one, and Mr. Dennis.

20,076. When did they come to you?—Before the election.

20,077. What did they tell you?—They said I could have almost any money I wanted if I would go over.

20,078. Mr. Dennis and Mr. Baker, the tailor?—Yes. They did not come both together. I do work for Mr. Dennis. Baker did not come in.

20,079. Dennis came to you?—He came to me.

20,080. What did Baker say?—In reason I could have almost anything if I would go and vote.

20,081. Vote for whom?—Vote for Pender.

20,082. Didn't he name any figure at all?—I asked Baker whether they would give me 200*l.*, and he said, "I dare say they would in a minute."

20,083. What did Dennis say?—He told me I could get anything in reason. He wanted to get me over; because I worked for him he thought he was going to get me over.

20,084. But he was going to get you something too?—Yes.

20,085. Why didn't you take it?—Because my mind did not lead me that way; but I did not know I was going to have anything then.

20,086. You were asked by Woodley then?—Yes.

20,087. It was Mr. Baker who suggested the 200*l.*?—I asked whether he thought they would give me 200*l.*, and he said he thought they would in a minute.

20,088. (Mr. Bere.) What is his christian name?—I do not know; it was Baker the tailor.

20,089. Where does he live?—New Walk,

20,090. Was it you that suggested 200*l.*?—I said, do you think they would give me 200*l.*, and he said, "I think they will in a minute."

20,091. What led you to think you would get so much as that?—I just said so; I was not going to vote if I had it.

20,092. If you had got 200*l.* you would not have voted that way?—I would not.

20,093. You suggested 200*l.*?—I said so.

20,094. You meant then to see whether you could get it?—He said he expected I could have it in a minute if I went over, but I would not go.

20,095. Then Mr. Baker came to you and asked you to vote for the Liberals?—Yes.

20,096. And then you asked what money you could get if you voted?—Yes.

20,097. Did he tell you who had sent him—No, he did not.

20,098. Didn't you ask him whom he represented?—I was to go to Mr. Michelmore.

20,099. He asked you to go to Mr. Michelmore?—Yes.

20,100. Which Mr. Michelmore?—I do not know.

20,101. Then you voted for Mr. Dent, and got 30*l.*?—I got 32*l.*

20,102. In 1865 were you still working for Mr. Woodley?—I do work in and out.

20,103. Who canvassed you then for your vote?—Colonel Dawkins.

20,104. Who did he come with?—Mr. James Heath came with him.

20,105. What did you tell them?—I told Colonel Dawkins that I would vote for him.

20,106. You didn't say anything to Colonel Dawkins about money?—No.

20,107. You knew better than that?—I did not know anything about it; I never asked anyone for any money.

20,108. You expected the same little present that was made you before?—I was thinking I might have such a thing.

20,109. You got it?—Yes.

20,110. Who gave it to you?—John Screach.

20,111. Young Screach?—Yes.

20,112. Did he give it to you himself?—Yes; he gave me 34*l.*

20,113. On the other side, didn't they ask you this time too?—I do not know.

20,114. Didn't Mr. Dennis and Mr. Baker try you?—It is not many of them that terrify me now.

20,115. Did Mr. Dennis ask you?—Mr. Punchard came.

20,116. When did he come?—He wanted me to vote for Mr. Pender this last time.

20,117. Who came first, Screach or Punchard?—Punchard. I didn't see Mr. Screach before he brought me the money; not to my knowledge in the election time.

20,118. What did Punchard propose?—He wanted me to vote for Mr. Pender.

20,119. How much did you think you could get from Punchard?—I do not know.

20,120. He gave you to understand you could get something?—He took away his work, that is all I know about it.

20,121. What is Punchard?—He has got a quarry, and keeps a pony.

20,122. How long before the election did Mr. Punchard begin to work you for your vote?—A week before that.

20,123. When did he take away his work?—I have not done anything for him since the election.

20,124. You were working for him before?—Yes.

20,125. What did he say?—Simply asked me to vote for Mr. Pender.

20,126. And Mr. Seymour?—Only Mr. Pender.

20,127. He didn't ask you to vote for Mr. Seymour?—No.

20,128. What did you tell him?—I told him I should not.

20,129. What did he say then?—I said I was going to vote for Pim and Dawkins.

20,130. And what did he say?—I do not know; he came and wanted me to vote.

20,131. You were talking some time?—Yes, and at last I got in a bad temper, and that started him. That is the way when they get on too much; they get rather out of the way, and I have done nothing for him since.

20,132. Is he the only person who asked you for your vote for Mr. Pender? Didn't Mr. Pender call upon you?—Yes, he came himself first.

20,133. Who came with Mr. Pender this time?—I do not know.

20,134. There was someone; Mr. Pender did not come alone?—There was some person with him, but I would not say who. Mr. Pender did not come into the shop, he came to the window.

20,135. Who came in and spoke to you?—Mr. Pender called me forward to the window. I went forward, and he asked me for my vote.

20,136. He didn't come into your shop?—No.

20,137. What did you say?—I told him I could not.

20,138. There was somebody with Mr. Pender?—Yes.

20,139. Who?—I cannot tell you; I think young Mr. Windeatt.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

Mr. J. Nickells.

11 Sept. 1866.

20,140. A young gentleman it was?—Yes.

20,141. You thought it was young Mr. Windeatt?—Yes, but I would not say exactly.

20,142. What took place when you said you could not vote?—He said he would see me again, but I said it was no use.

20,143. Who said that? Mr. Pender; and I said I would not give him the trouble, that I would not vote for him, and I dare say Mr. Pender would tell you the same.

20,144. Did anybody else call afterwards? Did Mr. Pender come again?—I cannot tell you; I did not take so much notice.

20,145. Mr. Pender left and said he would come again. Did he come again? No, because I told him he was not to. He knew it was no use.

20,146. Didn't anybody come from Mr. Pender and ask you again?—Yes; Mr. Punchard.

20,147. The second time?—Yes.

20,148. Did Punchard come a second time?—Four or five times.

20,149. Did he threaten you the next time, or tempt you in another way?—I can hardly tell you.

20,150. Did he hold out hopes of your getting anything, or prospects of your losing something?—If I would vote for him I would get something. I do not know that he named any sum, not that I know of.

20,151. Did you suggest 200*l.* this time?—No.

20,152. Anything reasonable, was that the offer?—It is a long way back.

20,153. What did he offer?—I do not think he had much money then.

20,154. Mr. Punchard told you you would get something if you voted for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

20,155. He never asked you to vote for Seymour?—No.

20,156. Did he say to you anything more of that something?—Not that I know of.

20,157. When was it that Mr. Punchard said this?—It was two days before the voting.

20,158. Did anyone else come with Mr. Punchard?—Not that I know of.

20,159. Mr. Punchard never named it before?—No.

20,160. Did he ask you to go to the "Seymour Arms," or Mr. Michelmore's, or anywhere?—No.

20,161. Where were you to get the something?—I supposed he was going to give it to me. I did not have much to say to him. I told him I was going to vote for the other man. I did not have much to say.

20,162. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did Mr. Screach pay you the 34*l.*?—In my bedroom.

20,163. In your own house?—Not my own house; I rent it.

20,164. How long before the election?—On the nomination day.

20,165. Did you ever vote at any election without being paid?—Yes.

20,166. Which?—The council election.

20,167. Did you vote at any Parliamentary election without being paid for it?—I think I voted for Mr. Dent.

20,168. What had you then?—I do not know.

20,169. You never did vote at any election without being paid?—No.

20,170. Have you ever voted at any municipal election without being paid? How often have you been paid at a municipal election for voting?—I had some twice.

20,171. Who gave it to you?—At one time Mr. George Heath, and Mr. Watson.

20,172. What you get from Mr. George Heath?—30*s.*

20,173. Who were you to vote for?—I forget; the Tories it was.

20,174. What Mr. Watson gave you was to vote for the Tories?—Yes.

20,175. Those are the only two times you have been paid at municipal elections?—Yes.

20,176. And the only two times you voted at parliamentary elections you received, at one time 32*l.*, and at the other 34*l.*?—Yes.

20,177. (Mr. Bere.) Did anybody else besides Mr. Punchard come and see you at the 1865 election? Did Mr. Elliott come and talk to you?—No.

20,178. Mr. Mitchell?—No.

20,179. Mr. Parnell?—I do not know.

20,180. I think Mr. Parnell came; when did he come?—I can hardly tell you.

20,181. Was it not just before the election?—I forget.

20,182. He came and had a long talk with you?—I believe he did.

20,183. Just about one or two days before the election, was it not?—I think it was.

20,184. Did he not say there was a little money to be had on the Liberal side?—Yes.

20,185. Did he put the figure; I think he did; come tell us; a little figure, I think?—No.

20,186. Did you not say the figure?—No.

20,187. Did any money pass, about 50*l.*?—I would not say; I forget.

20,188. You cannot say?—No, I cannot say, I forget.

W. Mitchell.

WILLIAM MITCHELL sworn and examined.

20,189. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you voted at Totnes?—1863.

20,190. What did you get the first time?—A sum was sent me.

20,191. How much was it?—I think about 25*l.*

20,192. How was it sent you?—I cannot tell who; I was very ill at the time; I had been ill six months.

20,193. You were not ill enough to be unable to vote?—I had been ill about three months, I had not been out of my bed; and I might say in 1862, when Mr. Dent was here last, I was ill then. It was not possible I could have voted at all. In 1863 I was still ill; I could not leave the house. I belonged to a sick society, therefore I was on the funds of the society, and the parties called on me. I did not see either of the parties that called on me at my house. They were given to understand that I could not vote even if I was well enough, on account of being on the funds of the society, because the society would not allow me to go out of doors.

20,194. Not even for such a purpose as that?—Unless I took myself off the funds of the society. I was taken off the funds of the society, and I voted.

20,195. Did your brother bring the money afterwards?—He brought 25*l.*

20,196. What is his christian name?—George.

20,197. Is he a voter?—No. He brought it home to me.

20,198. Did he get it from Mr. George Heath?—Yes, I think he did.

20,199. What did you get in 1865?—I had 80*l.*

20,200. Did you get that from Mr. George Heath too?—Mr. John Heath.

20,201. Where did he pay you?—At the "Seven Stars."

20,202. Did you go and sit down at the "Seven Stars"?—I went down on the Monday evening.

20,203. The day before the nomination?—Yes.

20,204. Had you been told to go down there by anybody?—No. I had been canvassed by the parties, and at that time I was living in a house that belonged to Mr. Michelmore.

20,205. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—Mr. Jeffery was the agent. It belonged to Mr. Philip Michelmore, and after the 1863 election I received a notice to quit. It was very well known what it was for. It was also rumoured about when the general election was likely to come that if I did not vote at all it would be withdrawn. Houses at that time were very scarce, in consequence of politics running so high, and I made up my mind that I would not vote at all. I think all the candidates but Mr. Pender came, and I gave them all the same answer, that I should not vote at all. On the night of the Monday I went to the "Stars" (I very often go to the "Stars"), and I had a glass of ale. I saw Mr. Heath. He said, "I understand you "are not going to vote at all?" I said, "No; I have "had notice to quit the house I live in, and it will "not do for me to get out in the streets. I will not "vote." He said, "We must have your vote; we are "run very close;" he said, "Will you step in here?"

20,206. Was that the room on the left-hand side?—The left-hand side as you go in.

20,207. Did you go in there with him?—I did. He said, "If you do vote I will recompense you for the "sacrifice you make." He was buying a house in the town that he said would suit me; it was a very large house and it would not put me to inconvenience; but after a time I consented to vote.

20,208. What did he do then; did he go out of the room?—No

20,209. Did he take some money out?—He gave me 50*l.*

20,210. Where did he take it from?—Out of his pocket.

20,211. In notes or gold?—I think he took it out of his pocket.

20,212. Was anybody else in the room?—I rather think there was.

20,213. Was it a person you knew?—I think he was a stranger; I would not be positive, I rather think he was.

20,214. Can you describe the stranger at all?—No, I cannot; it was late in the evening; the gas was on, it is true; but I cannot describe him.

20,215. Did the stranger speak during the conversation between you and Mr. Heath?—No.

20,216. Did you see him hand any money to Mr. Heath or anything to him?—No.

20,217. What did he give you the money in?—It was wrapped up in paper.

20,218. All in gold wrapped in paper?—Yes.

20,219. That was to vote for Dent and Pender?—Yes.

20,220. Mr. Heath found you a house?—No, he did not find the house.

20,221. He has not procured you a house?—I was obliged to go out of a small house that suited me very well into a house three times as large.

20,222. Did you know about the house before?—The house was empty for a long time.

20,223. Has your rent increased in consequence?—Yes; for that one I was giving 10*l.*, and now I am giving 28*l.* I dare say the rates and taxes and rent would come to 36*l.* or 37*l.* a year.

20,224. Did you see anybody on the other side when you came away from the "Seven Stars" that night?—Nobody.

20,225. They did not know how you were going to vote?—No.

20,226. None of them?—No.

20,227. They never crossed the bridge at all?—I was not tampered with at all. Mr. Seymour called on me the day before the election. I told him the circumstances, and that I wished the place disfranchised, for they had put me to great inconvenience. While I was talking to him Mr. Michelmore was looking on; I could see him peeping out round the corner. He knew about it. I told Mr. Seymour all about it.

20,228. When was it you had notice to quit?—It was in this way; I first took the house of the late Mr. Harrison; it got after that into Mr. Michelmore's hands through a mortgage. He did not know exactly when my year expired, and he sent me a running notice. I told Mr. Seymour about it.

20,229. When you told Mr. Seymour about this what did he say?—He said he knew these things did take place; "the best thing you can do is to promise to "vote for me and then it will be all set right," I says, "No, I will not do that, I have always voted for the "Conservatives, if I do not vote at all I will not "vote against them." He said, "Promise me you will "not vote against me," I said "No I shall not do "that."

20,230. (Mr. Longe.) Did you go into the smoking room at the "Seven Stars" that night?—Yes, I very frequently go down there.

20,231. At the time Mr. Heath gave you the money?—Yes.

20,232. You saw Mr. Heath?—I met him at the entrance as I was going in.

20,233. Are you quite positive that it was Mr. Heath who settled with you for the sum you were to have?—Yes.

20,234. No one else talked to you about it?—I would not be positive, I rather think it was the other side.

20,235. Who settled with you?—Mr. Heath.

20,236. Who gave you the money. He says, "I "think Mr. Mum was in the smoking room at the "time; did he have any money?—Yes; who gave it "to him?—I do not know but he had some"?—Mr. Heath gave it to me; I think there was a strange gentleman, but he did not say anything to me.

William Bovey sworn and examined.

Mr W. Bovey.

20,237. What are you?—A pastrycook and confectioner.

20,238. You are a voter?—Yes.

20,239. How long have you voted?—I voted at the last election.

20,240. How did you vote?—For Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

20,241. Who first canvassed you?—I cannot say exactly; I think that Colonel Dawkins came first and left his card, I was in the bakehouse and I did not see him.

20,242. When were you first offered any money for your vote?—On the Monday evening prior to the election on the Wednesday.

20,243 Who offered it to you?—Charles Pengilley.

20,244. What did he offer you?—He came to me and asked me if I had made up my mind to vote, and would 40*l.* be any consideration to me.

20,245. For whom were you to vote?—I was to vote for Pender and Seymour.

20,246. That Charles Pengilley was a relation of yours, was not he?—Yes.

20,247. What did you say to him about that?—I said "No, I have made up my mind to vote on the "other side, and I signed the requisition."

20,248. Then you did vote on the other side?—Yes.

20,249. What did you get for that?—Nothing.

20,250. Were you ever offered anything?—No, not by one single soul.

20,251. Neither Mr. Heath nor Mr. Screach?—Never any person came to me to mention about my voting but the four candidates. I may mention a circumstance, I am not certain whether it was the morning of the election or not, that is the only thing; Mrs. Heath came up as she is accustomed to have things from my shop, and I was in the shop and persons were there; she said, "You will come down "by-and-bye." "Oh yes," I said, "I will come down by-and-by, about 8 o'clock." That is the answer I made to all the candidates, for I never promised how I would vote for a particular reason.

20,252. You did not promise the Conservatives?—No.

20,253. What is the particular reason?—If you ask my reasons, I did not care to tell these people who I meant to vote for, I had heard so much about electioneering that I thought I would keep quiet as long as I could before voting.

20,254. I suppose doubtful appeared in the poll books to your name?—Oh, no; they pretty well knew

SIXTEENTH DAY.

Mr. W. Borey.

21 Sept. 1866.

which side I was going to vote. I knew a circumstance that made a great impression on my mind 16 or 17 years back, I was at Dartmouth at the time, at Mr. Lindsay's election, and Mr. Herbert; they would take and carry voters away.

20,255. You never had been a lame duck had you?—No.

20,256. You mean to say this, that when the other party knew where the votes were they would go after them, and you have known them to capsize the carriages?—That is it.

20,257. You thought the safest plan was not to let them know how you were going to vote, so that both the parties might think you were open to conviction?—No.

20,258. It was not the possibility of the one outbidding the other?—Decidedly not.

20,259. You never thought you would be offered any money by giving such trouble?—Decidedly not.

20,260. Your only fear was you might be carried away and capsized and peril your neck?—No.

20,261. Your object in keeping your vote till the last was that you might be offered a large sum of money?—Yes.

20,262. After Pengilley had offered you this money did he come back again and offer you more?—Yes.

20,263. He raised the figure?—Yes.

20,264. Still thinking you were then doubtful?—I told him every time he came that I had made up my mind. He was the only person who knew who I was going to vote for, and the only person I told I was going to vote.

20,265. He knew your first impressions had more influence than your convictions; what was the second time?—I think he came the same evening and offered 60*l.*

20,266. Did he tell you where he came from?—From the "Seymour."

20,267. Did he tell you why the "Seymour Arms" had procured him to make this offer?—It was on the Tuesday evening.

20,268. Answer my question?—Did he tell you at all why they had procured him to make his offer?—On the Tuesday when he came to me again he said, "Why do you not like to take the money from me, Mr. "Michelmore cannot come himself; because—

20,269. Because he might be watched?—Yes, those were the exact words.

20,270. He gave that as the reason why he came from Mr. Michelmore?—Yes.

20,271. You were still incapable of being tempted by the 60*l.*; what was the next offer?—He came to me again and said would 80*l.* do.

20,272. Which Mr. Michelmore did he say?—He did not say which.

20,273. When you would not take the 80*l.* how far did he go?—I said, "I have told you before, Charley, "I signed the requisition for them to come down on "the side I vote for."

20,274. He tempted you with 60*l.*?—He came in to borrow a pen to use at the poll, he says, "What "answer am I to take back?" I says, "I am not "offended with them, but I have made up my mind "to vote the other side."

20,275. When did they set to work to know that you were not offended with them but you should vote for the Conservatives. You were going to stand out to the last moment, to 3 o'clock, the public were to be kept in ignorance of it, but still you sent a message to somebody that you were not offended with them?—Not offended with the other side.

20,276. Not offended with Pender and Seymour?—No, my business would not allow me to leave the bakehouse till after two o'clock.

20,277. You wished to be on good terms with all parties?—Yes, as I was in business.

20,278. Eventually you determined to vote for the Conservatives?—Almost all my customers were Conservatives. I thought if I go against my party that support me I cannot look to them.

20,279. You cast up your books and put so many Conservative customers on one side, and on the other so many Liberals, and decided accordingly?—I have always had the opinion for voting for the Conservatives; the very first night I came to Totnes my landlady said, "I do not know what your politics are, this "has always been a Tory house."

20,280. She said so?—She said so to me; "This "has always been a Tory house, and you will get "most Tory customers." That is the foundation of it.

20,281. And if you had voted for Pender and Seymour the odds are you would have lost the custom of the Heaths at the "Seven Stars"?—I do not know.

20,282. Are the "Seymour Arms" people customers of yours?—They may have a cake now and then.

20,283. I suppose Mrs. Thomas supplies the "Seymour Arms"?—I do not know.

20,284. After the time you have told us of, did Pengilley again try you; what was the last time?—I believe the time was about seven in the morning, He says, "What answer shall I take back?" I forget exactly the words and the circumstances, but I said, "If it is anything above 200*l.* I will consider of "it."

20,285. Did he make any offer?—I merely said that to get rid of him.

20,286. Suppose he had come back with an offer of 200*l.*, should you have considered it?—I should have been in a fix.

20,287. You thought the change of politics would not be equal to it?—I hardly knew what to think.

20,288. Your real idea was it was not worth while selling yourself?—Not for 200*l.*

20,289. If he had offered 200*l.* it might have become a question?—I do not know why I said that; merely to get rid of him.

20,290. You heard no more about it?—No.

20,291. The reason you gave before was that you feared if you did not keep your vote dark you might be carried off and upset in a fly. You told Pengilley to tell Mr. Pender at 7 o'clock in the morning you should be down at three?—That was the answer I gave to the candidates.

20,292. Did it not occur to you, if you made it known at 7 o'clock on the polling day, you might possibly fall into some of the pitfalls?—I used to go into the country with bread, and coming home in the evening somebody might get hold of me unawares.

20,293. Your safety lay in staying in your bakehouse till the polling?—I do not think I went out all the week except at night.

20,294. You thought you might be waylaid in the country?—Yes.

20,295. Do you know anything more about the election of 1865?—No.

20,296. After the election was over did you offer your brother-in-law, Charles Pengilley, money, if he would split?—Mr. Edmunds came into the shop, and he said there was going to be a petition to Parliament, and he heard Charles Pengilley was going to be brought up as one of the most conspicuous persons; he asked whether I thought he would be inclined to give evidence of what he knew of it; I forget the exact words. He said he was sure of being convicted; I said he might be trusted.

20,297. Did you tell him that?—I did.

20,298. You signed the requisition?—Yes.

20,299. (Mr. Longe.) You had made up your mind from the first?—Yes, just so.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

Wednesday, 12th September 1866.

WILLIAM H. P. BOVEY recalled.

(Witness.) I wish to make an explanation.

20,300 (Mr. Bere.) What is the explanation?—In the former part of this inquiry Mitchell, the currier, in his evidence makes mention of my name. He says I was offered money on the Conservative side. I beg to deny that; and also that I was in communication daily with Mr. Edmonds; and I may say positively on oath I have never spoken to the man till months after the election was over.

20,301. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who did he say offered you the money?—He did not mention the name. I saw it in the "Mercury."

20,302. There was no name mentioned?—Not who offered the money.

20,303. Were you never offered money for the Conservatives?—No one ever insinuated such a thing.

20,304 The only money offered was by Pengilley?—That is all. No one ever insinuated such a thing.

WILLIAM KELLOW sworn and examined.

W. Kellow.

20,305. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—Fore Street.

20,306. What are you, an eating house keeper?—Yes.

20,307. You work for Mr. Condy?—Yes.

20,308. What is the name of the place you keep?—No name to the house.

20,309. Is Condy your landlord?—No.

20,310. Who is your landlord?—The charity trustees.

20,311. Do you know the name of the charity trustees? Mr. Bryett is their clerk?—Mr. Cuming is their clerk.

20,312. You pay your rent to him?—Yes.

20,313. Is Mr. Condy one of the trustees?—I believe he is now. He was not at the time I took the house.

20,314. How long have you lived in Totnes?—I was born here.

20,315. Have you lived here all your life?—Yes.

20,316. When did you first have a vote?—1865.

20,317. Was that a vote on your house which we have heard about?—Yes.

20,318. How did you vote in 1865?—For Pender and Seymour.

20,319. Do you know a man called George Robins Stone?—Yes.

20,320. Do you remember him coming to you?—Yes.

20,321. How long before the election?—I cannot tell.

20,322. Before the Sunday before the election?—I think on a Monday.

20,323. On the Monday before the election?—I think the Monday, the day before the nomination day.

20,324. What time of the day did he come to you?—I do not know. I met him in the street casually.

20,325. Had you known him well before?—Yes.

20,326. What did he say to you?—I can hardly be certain. He whispered in my ear that he could get me some money if I wanted it.

20,327. What were you to do for the money, vote for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—I understood it as such.

20,328. You knew Stone was a runner for the Conservatives?—Yes.

20,329. You were to vote for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—Yes.

20,330. How much money did he say he could get?—He told me first 100*l.*, then he said afterwards, "I "do not tell everybody, but I could get you 100*l.*"

20,331. You said you would think about it?—I am not certain; I may have told him something of the kind.

20,332. Who had been to canvass you on the other side?—No one. I beg your pardon; Mr. Seymour came the same day.

20,333. After you had seen Stone or before?—Before.

20,334. Had you promised Mr. Seymour your vote?—Yes.

20,335. Who was with Mr. Seymour?—No one. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore stood outside.

20,336. Had you anything to do with Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—Never.

20,337. Quite sure about that?—Yes.

20,338. You promised Mr. Seymour your vote, but you had one to spare; you did not promise Mr. Pender?—No.

20,339. When George Robins Stone offered you 150*l.* you began to think about it?—No.

20,340. Did you see George Pengilley that day?—No.

20,341. Did you see George Pengilley afterwards?—I may say at once that the whole of the affair about George Pengilley is untrue. I do not know anything about it. I do not know anything about the 50*l.*

20,342. You had no 50*l.* note?—No.

20,343. George Pengilley never carried a 50*l.* note to the bank?—I had never a syllable of conversation with him about election matters.

20,344. Did you have a piece of paper?—No, never saw a 50*l.* note.

20,345. Did you have any money at all from George Pengilley?—No.

20,346. From any Pengilley?—No.

20,347. From any person on that side?—Yes, on the morning of the election.

20,348. From whom?—I picked it up.

20,349. Where?—At Mr. Parnell's house.

20,350. How much did you pick up?—50*l.*

20,351. Was that a note?—No, gold.

20,352. Having picked it up you put it in your pocket?—Yes.

20,353. Did you pick it up in Mr. Parnell's drawing room or parlour?—Yes.

20,354. On the morning of the election?—Yes.

20,355. What time?—I would not be certain, I think about 7 o'clock.

20,356. How did you come to go?—I had some conversation before the election and he asked me how things were looking up, and I said I heard the Conservatives were looking up." He said "It is a great "temptation but you need not be afraid." And we never had any further conversation, but the night before the election he asked me to come up. He shewed me into the room and I saw it in a parcel and picked it up.

20,357. Was it on the table or the floor?—On the table.

20,358. Was it directed to you?—No.

20,359. Were there any other parcels there besides?—I did not see any.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

W. Kellow.

12 Sept. 1866.

20,360. Did you see any other persons picking up anything ?—No.

20,361. Did you see anybody waiting ?—No.

20,362. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you meet anybody going away ?—No.

20,363. Did you know there would be a parcel you were to take away ?—No ; I expected such.

20,364. Was there anything else in the room ?—Nothing that I know of.

20,365. Any ornaments ?—I do not know.

20,366. You expected it ?—I did.

20,367. When did you vote before that ?—I never had a vote.

20,368. At the municipal elections ?—No.

20,369. Never voted for the council ?—No.

20,370. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever say to any person that you were fortunate enough to pick up this parcel in Parnell's ?—No.

20,371. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you tell anybody how lucky you were to pick that up ?—No.

20,372. Kept it all to yourself ?—Yes.

Mr. H. D. Pearce.

Mr. Howard Drake Pearce sworn and examined.

20,373. (Mr. Bere.) You are the manager of the Devon and Cornwall bank here ?—I am.

20,374. Were you in that office at the time of the election of 1865 ?—I was.

20,375. Will you tell us when Mr. Pender first opened an account with you ?—The beginning of July 1865.

20,376. Did he open the account by a cheque for 500*l.* on Barclay's ?—He opened the account by a cheque, at least he did not open it ; Mr. Jenkins brought the cheque, I believe, for him.

20,377. That is Mr. John Sloggett Jenkins ?—Yes.

25,378. On the 1st July ?—The 1st July 1860.

20,379. 500*l.* on Barclay's ?—500*l.* ; I cannot say it was on Barclay's. If you will allow me to look at the books.

20,380. Is that your handwriting ?—It is.

20,381. Can you tell from that entry whether it was payable to order or bearer ?—No.

20,382. Can you from memory tell whether it was paid to order or bearer ?—I think to bearer.

20,383. Was it on a cheque of Barclay's or a piece of paper ?—I could not say that.

20,384. 500*l.* was paid in on that day ; did he ever pay in any more money to your bank ?—No more.

20,385. How much did he take out ?—He has drawn the whole of it now.

20,386. By cheques at different times ?—By cheques at different times.

20,387. When was the first cheque after the election ?—The first cheque was September 9th.

20,388. Perhaps you will send a copy of that account ?—I have a rough copy here if you would like to see it. (It was handed in.)

20,389. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is that a statement of the cheques that were drawn ?—It is.

20,390. (Mr. Bere.) There are two entries in your book of the 11th July, 1865, both in your handwriting one is Kellock, two 100*l.* notes, 200*l.*, gold, 200*l.* ; " and the other T. C. Kellock, three 100*l.* notes 300*l.*, gold 300*l.*" Can you give us any explanation of those two transactions ?—The only explanation is that I cashed those notes.

20,391. Do you remember cashing 500*l.* notes on the nomination day 1865 ?—I remember cashing several notes, and I believe 500*l.* is the correct amount ; anything in that book I can swear to, it being in my own handwriting.

20,392. This is your handwriting ?—Yes.

20,393. Therefore, from that, it is a memorandum that you yourself gave the change for those notes ?—It is.

20,394. And so that on that day you must have given Mr. Kellock 500*l.* for 500*l.* notes ?—Certainly.

20,395. You see the transactions do not take place at the same time ?—I see.

20,396. Can you tell at all what time in the morning that one is likely to have taken place ?—From the place it is put in I should think about 11 or 12 in the morning.

20,397. And that one ?—I should say just at the close of the day, because there are very few entries after it.

25,398. (Mr. Coleridge.) If those were brought by Mr. Kellock they would be entered as there ?—Certainly.

20,399. Suppose they were sent with Mr. Kellock's name on the back of them, would they have been entered in Kellock's name or in the name of the person who brought them ?—If sent by Mr. Kellock, in his name.

20,400. Not of any third person ?—Certainly not.

20,401. (Mr. Bere.) How should you have entered them ?—To that gentleman's name.

20,402. You would have made the messenger put his name ?—Yes.

20,403. You know Mr. Kellock's clerk ?—Yes.

20,404. Can you say from your own memory whether Mr. Kellock or his clerk brought the notes down ?—Mr. Kellock himself.

20,405. In both cases ?—In both cases.

20,406. Can you remember at all what you gave the money in ?—In gold.

20,407. I mean whether in bags or loose ?—I may have lent him a bag ; it is just possible ; I gave it in gold.

26,408. And you may have lent him a bag to take it away in ?—Yes.

20,409. After banking hours that day I believe that Captain King came in with a cheque, did not he ?—Yes.

20,410. He went into your private room with that cheque which you cashed ?—He did.

20,411. Tell me was that in notes and gold, or all notes ?—Bank and moneys.

20,412. You cannot tell from that how much notes and how much gold ?—Pretty well ; from recollection I should say 800*l.* bank notes, and I should say about 200*l.* gold.

20,413. Do you remember what Captain King did with the gold ?—He took it away.

20,414. Did you see where he put it. There is a serious discrepancy in the evidence in that matter ?—My impression is that he put it in a newspaper.

20,415. Did you give it to him loose, or put it up in anything, or count it over the table in your private office ?—Did you weigh it ?—Very likely I did, and gave it to him in a bag.

20,416. (Mr. Coleridge.) He said he took it loose in his pocket ?—I think the chances are that I should have given it to him in a bag, because we keep it in 200*l.* bags.

20,417. (Mr. Bere.) I will tell you the difference between the two statements. Mr. Kellock says he gave the cheque to Captain King. Captain King took it to your office and brought out a parcel. Captain King's statement is, that he went to your office, and you gave him the notes and that you gave him the gold loose, and that he put the gold and notes in his trousers pocket and took that money straight back, and that he gave it to the person he was told to give it to. I am in hopes that you may be able to tell which is the correct one ?—My impression is that the bank note were wrapped up in a paper and the gold was in a bag, and he put it in his pocket. We keep our gold in 200*l.* bags, so that I should have gone to the strong room and got it.

20,418. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he tell you what sort of money he wanted the cheque cashed in ?—He said gold.

20,419. All gold ?—All gold.

20,420. You could only give him 200*l.* ?—Yes ; I could have given him more, but there was a cheque for another 1,000*l.* they wanted to get cashed.

20,421. (Mr. Bere.) What did Captain King say to you when he came in ?—Well, he wanted to cash a cheque for 1,000*l.*

20,422. Did he show you the cheque ?—He did.

20,423. And it was a cheque drawn by Smith and Guscotte upon Ransom's ?—Yes, it was.

20,424. Payable to bearer ?—Yes.

20,425. Had you any communication from any person that they thought money would be wanted ?—Mr. Kellock called on me and said he should be glad if I would cash a cheque for Captain King for 1,000*l.*

20,426. When did he call on you and ask you that ?—I think it was about 12 o'clock in the day.

20,427. Before the bank was shut then ?—Yes.

20,428. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he say that it would be brought after banking hours ?—No.

20,429. (Mr Bere.) About 12 you say ?—Yes.

20,430. On the Tuesday ?—I think it is Tuesday it is entered there ; it was the day it is entered.

20,431. The cheque is entered Wednesday. That is I suppose because it was paid after banking hours on Tuesday ?—Yes.

20,432. That would not appear in your account as Tuesday's business ?—No.

20,433. Did Mr. Kellock say anything to you as to what the proceeds of that cheque were wanted for ?—No, nothing.

20,434. I do not know whether you take much interest in politics yourself ?—I do not.

20,435. Do you vote ?—I have no vote.

20,436. You pretty well suspected what it was for ?—Yes ; I had my impression what it was wanted for.

20,437. And you were prepared to cash the cheque when Captain King came ?—I was prepared otherwise.

20438. Should you have been prepared, I mean in the sense that a cheque was coming. You would not have known that unless you had been told ?—No, certainly not.

20,439. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Kellock when he called tell you the way he wanted the cheque paid ?—Certainly not.

20,440. Nothing about it ?—No.

20,441. It was Captain King said gold ?—I cannot say for certain whether Mr. Kellock said he should like to have all gold or not.

20,442. Did he say anything about how he should like to have it ?—I will not be certain.

20,443. Captain King said gold, and you gave him 200*l.* ?—I think either 200*l.* or 400*l.* in gold.

20,444. You were going to say there was another cheque ; at the time you cashed this one were you told there would be another for 1,000*l.* ?— We were.

20445. Did he ever come for another 1,000*l.* ?—No.

20,446. Either on that day or the next ?—No.

20,447. Did you take the numbers of the notes you gave for this 1,000*l.* cheque ?—No ; we never take the numbers of those which we give out, we always mark those that come in.

20,448. Was there anything peculiar on any one of these notes that you remember, any indorsement ?—Do you mean on the notes I gave out ?

20,449. Yes ?—Nothing, that I know of.

20,450. Have you got the numbers of these 100*l.* notes ?—No.

20,451. Those that were paid into your bank ?—By whom were they paid in ?

20,452. By Mr. Kellock.—I should not take the numbers of those. If you can produce the notes I can tell by a mark on the back where we got them from.

20,453. I thought you said you did not take the numbers of those which were paid out, but that you did of all those you which you received ?—Yes ; all the notes we receive we take the numbers of.

20,454. Then you must have received these 100*l.* notes ?—On the back of those notes we have a particular number ; if I could see that I could tell where we got them from.

20,455. On the 11th of July have you got the Bank of England numbers entered of those particular notes ?—No, I have not.

20,456. Here is your writing on the 12th of July in which you have put the number ?—The reason was that I did not know the man, and I cashed it for him.

20,457. You cannot help us to trace these 100*l.* notes unless we could find them ?—If you could produce the notes, and I dare say you might get them from the Bank of England, we could tell by the mark on the back who we had received any of them from.

20,458. But we cannot do that unless we knew the numbers. What did you do with these five 100*l.* notes ? My impression is that on the day of the election we exchanged 1,000*l.*, 500*l.* in bank notes, and 500*l.* in gold with the National Provincial Bank, the balance of the days' exchange was about 800*l.* more ; we had to pay them 300*l.* I believe. They went to the bank.

20,459. Was that the usual difference between you and them ?—It was generally 200*l.* or 300*l.* ; it varies.

20,460. Had there been any particular drafts on you that day ?—This 1,000*l.* I allude to, and these notes and cash.

20,461. That was not between you and the National Provincial ?—No. We have three waste books we use regularly every day. If you turn to another book on the same day you will find the exchange.

20,462. Remittances ?—Yes.

20,463. How would it be headed, "Banking Company ?"—I will show you.

20,464. Do you believe from this you paid in 500*l.* in notes to the bank and received 500*l.* in gold ?—Yes.

20,465. On that day did you send down to Plymouth for 1,750*l.* ?—I did.

20,466. Will you tell us why you sent down to Plymouth for the money ?—I had cashed this 1,000*l.* cheque, and I had reason to believe from Captain King that there would be another 1,000*l.* required in cash. I thought all that would have to be provided.

20,467. You had cashed that cheque on the evening of the day before ; there was time to write by post to Plymouth and get the money ?—Yes, there was.

20,468. What time did you send down Mr. Cole on the Wednesday ?—I think about 11 o'clock.

20,469. Who had been speaking to you before you sent him there ?—No one.

20,470. Had not Mr. Chaster been there ?—No.

20,471. Or Mr. Pender ?—I have never spoken to Mr. Pender in my life.

20,472. Or young Mr. Pender ?—I have never spoken to either of them.

20,473. Had you had any conversation with anyone on the Liberal side before you sent Mr. Cole over to Plymouth ?—No, I had not ; I thought of in this way, that Mr. Pender had a balance at our bank, and I considered it might be as well to be prepared. I was rather a novice in election matters at Totnes.

20,474, Mr. Pender had paid in a sum of 500*l.* in the early part of July and had not drawn any of it out ?—He had not drawn any of it out, but I was not to know that he would not ; I thought he might have required a portion of it.

20,475. Mr. Pender's account, as we understand, only amounted to 500*l.* ; why did you send over to Plymouth for 1,750*l.* ?—We had cashed 1,000*l.* cheque, and I had heard there would be an additional 1000*l.* required.

20,476. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you tell us how much gold you had in the bank at this time ?—I can by looking at our books.

20,477. I mean at the time when you sent over to Plymouth for the sum of 1,750*l.* ?—I suppose that is a question which you would hardly require me to answer; what is the amount of gold which we keep at our bank?

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

Mr. H. D. Pearce.

12 Sept. 1866.

20,478. It is rather material for us to know what amount of gold you had in the bank at this time. If you do not like to do so publicly you can write it down on a bit of paper?—I shall be very happy to show it you privately.

20,479. (Mr. Bere.) I see that on the 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th of July your reserves are very much smaller than they are on the 14th and 15th of July, how did that happen do you know?—We are always taking large quantities of gold and silver in this town, and our custom has been when we get an accumulation of it, more than we think we shall require here, to send it to some of our branch banks, particularly to the bank at Torquay.

20,480. Can you tell us this, whether on the 14th or 15th of July any of your customers paid in to their account at your bank any large sums of money?—No, not that I am aware of.

20,481. Had you several small sums varying from 30*l.* to 100*l.* paid into your bank by any of your customers within a short period after the election?—No, not that I am aware of.

20,482. You have stated there was a cheque drawn by John Heath to the credit of Mr. Matcham?—There was.

20,483. For 235*l.*?—We never saw the cheque, it was stopped.

20,484. Was notice sent to you?—It was.

20,485. Have you got the notice?—I have not got the notice, when that notice was given to us we put it on the file and when the stop was withdrawn we took it off.

20,486. The stop never was withdrawn with regard to that?—Yes.

20,487. When was it withdrawn?—One or two days afterwards.

20,488. My impression is it was given just before the election, a day before, and withdrawn afterwards?—Yes.

20,489. Was it given by delivery by Mr. John Heath on your bank?—I believe he sent up a ticket requesting us not to pay the cheque which had been given to Mr. Matcham.

20,490. As I understand you you have never seen that cheque at all?—Not that I am aware of.

20,491. What happened? Was the cheque, which had been drawn by Mr. John Heath, in favour of Mr. Matcham for 235*l.*, and a notice was sent up to you not to pay it when presented?—Yes.

20,492. And as far as you know it never was presented?—It never was.

20,493. Afterwards you received notice, some time after, that is was withdrawn?—I think verbally; I asked the question if the cheque had been arranged and he said yes.

20,494. Can you by any possible means fix the day when the notice to stop was given?—I could only do it from memory.

20,495. From memory?—Then my memory will tell me it was the day before the election.

20,496. On the 11th?—On the 11th.

20,497. Do you remember whether the ticket specified when the cheque was drawn and payable?—I cannot say, but it is usual to do so.

20,498. Would your attention have been called to the book particularly, supposing in the notice the day of the cheque becoming payable had been after the day in which the notice had been sent?—We should not pay in that case, it is illegal.

20,499. We know it is illegal.—We are very careful about that.

20,500. On the counterfoil in Mr. Heath's book the cheque is the 13th of July, would that make it likely that the notice had been given before the 13th?—I cannot say.

26,501. Your impression is that the notice was given upon the 11th of July?—It was.

20,502. Do you not charge something for stopping the cheque?—Oh, no.

20,503. Can you understand any reason why the stop was withdrawn and the notice given?—We of course do not know the circumstances of the case; if a cheque is stopped we attach a notice to that effect, and if the stop is withdrawn we remove it.

20,504. Do you know who told you to withdraw it?—My impression is there was a memorandum sent up by Mr. Heath.

20,505. That was to place the stop on?—Yes.

20,506. You told me the withdrawal was by word of mouth, who was it, do you remember, who spoke about it?—I think I spoke to Mr. George Heath.

20,507. Do you remember when?—I cannot be positive.

26,508. Or where?—I think several days afterwards.

20,509. Where, in your bank?—My impression is that——

20,510. Mr. George Heath came into your bank probably?—Yes.

20,511. Did he keep an account there?—He did.

20,512. Was he in the habit of paying money in?—He has opened on account I believe; he has had an account with us for about 12 months.

20,513. Will you let the Secretary see your credit deposit book?—Certainly; you mean the deposit of the ledger I suppose?

20,514. Yes. Messrs. Barclay & Co. are your agents in London?—Yes.

20,515. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is Captain King a customer of your bank?—He is not a customer, I cash cheques for him.

20,516. Did you have any conversation with him about his not having wanted the second 1,000*l.*?—No, I have not seen him since.

20,517. Did you have any conversation with Mr. Kellock about not wanting it?—I understood he had got it elsewhere.

20,518. When did you understand that from Mr. Kellock?—I think the day after.

20,519. The day after the election?—I am speaking from memory, I think the day after the election.

20,520. You do not think it was the day after you cashed the 1,000*l.* cheque, but two days afterwards?—I think so.

20,521. The cheque is cashed on the Tuesday, the election is on the Wednesday, and this was on the Thurday?—Yes.

20,522. Did Mr. Kellock came into the bank and tell you that?—I think so.

20,523. Do you remember the form of his communication?—I have no idea of it.

20,524. Your impression is he said he had got the money elsewhere?—Yes.

20,525. (Mr. Longe.) Do you remember a conversation with Mr. Kellock in which he told you that Captain King was likely to come and cash a cheque?—I do.

20,526. It occurred the day before?—No, the same day the cheque was cashed.

20,527. What did he tell you then?—He said "I "shall be glad if you will cash a cheque for Captain "King."

20,528. In the private room?—No, in the bank.

20,529. He told you the amount?—No, he did not.

20,530. What more conversation took place?—That was all the conversation that took place on that particular day.

20,531. Had you any conversation previous to that in regard to cashing cheques?—No, I think not.

20,532. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Kellock ever say where he got it elsewhere, did he tell you it was from the Torquay bank, he has told us he got it in the afternoon, that was the day before the cheque was cashed by Captain King?—I think it could not be that.

20,533. That must have reference to something else?—That must have been the same evening, I should imagine; I cashed this cheque, I suppose in the afternoon.

20,534. There is no doubt about the day?—No.

20,535. He has told us he got the 1,000*l.* from he Torquay bank on the Monday, so that this 1,000*l.* e referred to must be something else?—I think he nust have been under a mistake; there was a conersation about another 1,000*l.* at the time this was ashed.

20,536. He came up to the bank at 3 o'clock, and t that time he was gone to Torquay if that had been he same day?—I cannot explain that at all.

20,537. He told you he should not come for the econd 1,000*l.* because he had got it from the Torquay ank?—Yes.

20,538. Did Mr. Kellock tell you anything else esides that he had got it from the Torquay bank?—Ie told me the particulars.

20,539. What were the particulars?—That he had riven down there and seen Mr. Kitson, and that he ad the bank opened. Mr. Kitson got the bank open, nd the money was given him after banking hours.

20,540. Do you know upon what day he did that?—He did not tell me the day; I think the same day hat he called on me.

20,541. You imagine it was the same day that Captain King changed the cheque?—Yes.

20,542. What time he did come you do not emember?—Four o'clock.

20,543. Mr. Kellock has told us he walked up to he bank with him?—He did.

20,544. (Mr. Bere.) Did he come into the bank?—No, into the private parlour.

20,545. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was he present when ou gave the money to Captain King?—No.

20,546. Did he go out again?—Yes.

20,547. Before you gave the money?—Yes, he ntroduced Captain King to me.

20,548. What did he say?—"I have brought Captain King down; I want you to cash a cheque for him for 1,000*l.*"

20,549. He said that himself?—He did.

20,550. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon?—Yes, he lid.

20,551. He walked out, and you gave the money to Captain King?—Yes.

20,552. Had you any conversation with the other ide about any money being brought in at all by the Liberal party?—No, I had not.

20,553. Not Mr. Parnell, or Mr. Michelmore, or any of them?—No, I had not.

20,554. Had Mr. Cole any communication from hem?—No, I think not.

20,555. Would you have known it if you had?—Yes.

20,556. It would have been his duty to report it to ou?—Yes.

20,557. You only anticipated a run of money, not rom bringing in cheques of Mr. Pender or the other people?—Certainly not.

20,558. You had no communication with Mr. Chaster?—No.

20,559. Are you sure it was in the private bank parlour that Mr. Kellock introduced Captain King?—Quite sure.

20,560. The front part of the bank was shut up at that time?—It was; the clerks had not left the bank.

20,561. Did they come in at a back way?—Not through the bank; through a passage that leads into it.

20,562. Are there any of your clerks who can recollect being present that day, aad who can state that they saw Mr. Kellock go into the room?—I cannot say; the clerks had not left the bank.

20,563. Could they have seen him from the way where he entered into the bank parlour; would he have been seen by the clerks sitting in the bank?—I think so.

20,564. You have no doubt whatever that Mr. Kellock introduced Captain King; you had not known him before?—I had not seen him. I have been in the habit of cashing cheques for him brought by a servant, but all his own cheques, of course.

20,565. Did you take any guarantee from Mr. Kellock that this cheque would be honoured?—I did.

20,566. From Mr. Kellock?—Yes.

20,567. Was the guarantee in writing?—In writing.

20,568. Have you got it?—No, I have destroyed it now.

20,569. (Mr. Bere.) When did you destroy it?—I should think a few months ago.

20,570. What was the nature of the guarantee?—I said, "If you want me to cash a cheque for Captain "King, I have cashed his cheques and I know he is "a man of property and all that sort of thing, but "you must give me a guarantee."

20,571. Did he then and there write a guarantee?—He sent it down.

20,572. Was it stamped?—On a plain piece of paper. It was, I believe, something in this form, "I undertake to make good the 1,000*l.* cheque cashed "by Captain King, drawn by the different parties."

20,573. It was sent down in his writing?—Yes.

20,574. How long since have you destroyed the guarantee?—I cannot say; I think about three months.

20,575. Since the commission was issued?—I was turning over my papers that were of no use.

20,576. The commission was issued in June?—It may have been longer; I cannot say when I destroyed it.

20,577. Was it before the petition was tried in London?—I think so.

20,578. Did Mr. Kellock ask you to destroy it or give it up?—No, not at all.

20,579. Have you ever mentioned to Mr. Kellock it being destroyed?—No, never.

20,580. In the ordinary way of business, when you take a guarantee, and the instrument of which it is the guarantee is honoured, do you destroy the guarantee at once?—Not till I found the cheque was paid.

20,581. Why did you not destroy it when it was paid?—I dare say I did; I cannot say I did.

20,582. This cheque was drawn more than a year ago?—I cannot say to the time; it is possible six or nine months ago.

20,583. In the regular course of business you would destroy it when the cheque was paid?—Certainly.

20,584. This would be paid in July, 14 months ago?—Yes.

20,585. Will you say whether you did destroy it at once, or whether it was mislaid?—As I mentioned before, I was turning over my papers and I came across the document. I fancied it was of no use keeping it, and I destroyed it, but when I cannot tell you.

20,586. I see a cheque drawn by Mr. Pender for 200*l.*, Christie, do you know anything about that?—That has been drawn out very lately.

20,587. Was it payable to order or bearer?—It was. I had a letter from Mr. Christie saying that Mr. Pender would draw for this amount.

20,588. Who is he?—I have no idea.

20,589. Where did he write from?—I think from London; the cheque came from London.

20,590. Did he draw upon the balance of the account for the sum of 200*l.*?—He drew 200*l.* more than he had. Yes; Mr. Christie wrote me down to know whether to give interest or not. I wrote back to say it is not our custom.

20,591. Do you remember Mr. Christie's directions?—I think I may be able to produce the letter.

20,592. (Mr. Coleridge.) When Mr. Kellock called in the morning to say there was another 1,000*l.* cheque here, did you tell him you should require a guarantee? How early in the afternoon did Captain King come?—At the time he called in the morning I said, "I shall be happy to cash the cheque, but you "must give us your guarantee."

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

Mr. H. D. Pearce.

12 Sept. 1866.

20,593. When he called in the morning he told you it would be Captain King who would bring the cheque?—He did.

20,594. It was on that occasion you told him about the guarantee; did he send it before or after you cashed the cheque?—After.

20,595. Do you recollect when you received it?—I think the next morning.

20,596. Did you say anything to him? Was he present when Captain King said that another 1,000*l.* might be wanted?—Yes, he was.

20,597. Did he say anything about it?—He was the person that said it.

20,598. It was Mr. Kellock who said that another 1,000*l.* might be wanted?—Yes.

20,599. Did you tell him you should require a guarantee in the same way?—He did not say that; he would have done it.

G. Beer.

GEORGE BEER sworn and examined.

20,600. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—I drive at the "Stars."

20,601. Are you always employed by Mr. Heath at the "Stars"?—Yes.

20,602. How long have you had a vote?—About 18 or 19 years.

20,603. When was the first election at which you voted?—Baldwin's last election.

20,604. You voted for Baldwin?—Yes.

20,605. Have you always voted for the Conservatives?—Always.

20,606. When you voted for Mr. Baldwin were you in the employment of Mr. Heath?—No, of Mr. Webb; it was the same house.

20,607. You have always been at the "Stars"?—I have been there nearly 27 years.

20,608. Did you have any present for voting at that election?—I got a week's hard work, and never got a penny for it.

20,609. You mean by driving Mr. Webb's horses?—Yes, I never got paid a penny for it; not for my work.

20,610. Were you promised anything?—I expected to be paid for my work.

20,611. How are you paid generally?—By the people who are there; we get no wages.

20,612. What class of people were those who you drove about?—I drove Mr. Baldwin about canvassing, and other gentlemen; I cannot tell who they were. There was one party that I was out with for two nights.

20,613. Where did you go with them?—I took them away near to Ashburton, and then fetched them again in four or five days after.

20,614. How many of them were there?—I think there were four.

20,615. Were they what you call lame ducks?—Yes.

20,616. Who went to take care of them with you?—Henry Forster. His brother William was one of them; he is now dead.

20,617. Is Henry Forster in Totnes now?—Yes.

20,618. You got something for that?—No.

20,619. Was there no understanding that you were to have something for your vote?—I never asked for anything and never expected anything.

20,620. But sometimes they give it without asking?—Some have had it.

20,621. At that election there was a good deal of money going about?—I heard so.

20,622. You got none of it?—Not a halfpenny.

20,623. Did not your wife at that election get anything?—I am certain neither my wife nor myself had anything.

20,624. The next election was in 1857 when Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Gregory were here; do you remember that?—Yes.

20,625. Those gentlemen were at the "Stars"?—Yes.

20,626. Mr. Heath was the landlord then?—I think he was.

20,627. Were you employed again in the same work?—Yes.

20,628. Were there any lame ducks at that time?—No; I do not think I drove any at that time.

20,629. Did you drive Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Gregory about then?—Yes; canvassing.

20,630. What did you get then?—I gave in a bill then.

20,631. A bill for your services?—Yes; the other drivers, I believe, gave a bill to Mr. Edmonds, who was the agent.

20,632. And you got that bill paid?—It was sent down when the master's bill was paid.

20,633. You asked for Mackenzie and Gregory?—Yes.

20,634. Did you get nothing that time?—No; I never asked for anything and never expected anything.

20,635. It seems the servants came off the worst; the more they do the less they get?—That is so, I think.

20,636. Neither you nor your wife got anything for your vote that time?—Not a penny.

20,637. Did you ask for anything?—No; I never thought of asking.

20,638. In 1859 it was Mills and Dunn; was Mr. Dunn at the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

20,639. And were you employed in the same kind of work?—In the same sort of work.

20,640. Did you drive Mr. Dunn about?—Yes.

20,641. And Mr. Mitchell also?—Yes.

23,642. How did you manage then, do you remember? Did you send in a bill?—Yes, I think we did.

20,643. And did Mr. Edmonds settle your bill again as before?—Yes.

20,644. Do you remember what it was?—I do not.

20,645. Was there not a good deal of money going about at that time?—I heard so.

20,646. But you did not manage to get any that time?—Not a penny.

20,647. And you voted on that occasion?—I did.

20,648. For Mr. Dunn?—I did.

20,649. In 1862 do you remember the election, when Mr. Dent withdrew?—I do.

20,650. Did you again work hard on that occasion?—Yes.

20,651. You did not vote?—No; that was the first time; I think it was stopped on the night before.

20,652. Were you promised anything at that time?—No.

20,653. Did you not ask for anything?—No.

20,654. I suppose the other servants at the "Seven Stars" must have looked after themselves; there was plenty of money going about there at that time?—I do not think there was any voter in the yard at that time except me. I do not know that our ostler had a vote at that time, he has now.

20,655. The waiter, had he a vote?—The waiter who was there then, Clarke, who lives at Newton, he had a vote. The present waiter was not there then.

20,656. Did the waiter get some money for his vote on that occasion?—That I do not know.

20,657. Did you not tell Mr. Heath about it?—No.

20,658. And did he never offer you anything?—No.

20,659. Then how did you get paid in 1862?—We were paid by the master; he charged for the servants in his bill, I think.

20,660. In 1863, when the election followed very close on the preceding one, were you very busy then?—Yes, very.

20,661. Had you any lame ducks at that time?—Yes.

20,662. Who were they?—I think Stoyle, Norrish, Muggeridge; William Willis went as a guard.

20,663. Where did you go to?—I do not know the name of the place; we went away on a very dark night.

20,664. Is that the only trip which you had with the lame ducks on that occasion?—Yes.

20,665. And you voted for Dent?—I did.

20,666. Did you get anything on that occasion?—No, I did not.

20,667. You did get anything after the election?—No.

20,668. No one made you any present?—No.

20,669. Did you not get a little extra pay?—We generally get pretty good pay at election times; something different from what we do generally.

20,670. You do not charge three pence a mile then, but something more?—Sometimes we get a job of half a mile only, or a mile, and we should be badly paid for that if we got only three pence.

20,671. Then how do you charge for such jobs?—We are obliged to take the short and the long jobs together.

20,672. Did you send in your bill on that occasion?—I think master paid me; the servants were charged in the hotel bill.

20,673. In 1865 at the last election Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim were at the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

20,674. Did you have any lame ducks at that election?—No.

20,675. Did you bring Mr. Mum to the hotel on this last occasion?—That I do not know, I am sure; I might have done so.

20,676. Were there any lame ducks taken away in the carriages belonging to the "Stars"?—I do not think our carriages took any away.

20,677. What was your business?—Driving the gentlemen about canvassing, Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

20,678. And Mr. Murchison, did you drive him about?—I do not know him by name; there were some strange gentlemen who went about with Colonel Dawkins; I do not know their names.

20,679. How long were you working on that occasion?—Several days.

20,680. And you voted for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—Yes.

20,681. And you got something that time?—No; not a penny.

20,682. Did you ask for anything?—No.

20,683. Did Mr. Heath offer you anything?—No.

20,684. Were you ever offered anything by the other side?—No.

20,685. Or were you asked for your vote at all?—No; they knew it would be no good to ask me.

20,686. Do you remember one night your bringing down young Mr. Pender?—No; I took his luggage from the station one morning when he came down by the mail train; I was ordered to meet a gentleman, a friend of Captain Pim's.

20,687. On what morning was this?—I think it was a morning or two before the polling day; either the nomination day or the day before.

20,688. How many gentlemen came by that train, do you remember?—I do not remember; I took one, and Mr. Pender walked; I told him I would take his luggage to the "Seymour."

20,689. Did you know young Mr. Pender?—I had seen him with his father; I asked the servants at the "Seymour" when I went to be paid who it was, and they told me it was young Mr. Pender.

20,690. What was his luggage?—It was a square box and a portmanteau.

20,691. Did you ever hear what was in the box?—It was a very heavy box, it might be that square (describing it).

20,692. Was it very heavy?—Yes; 50, 60, or it might be 70 pounds weight.

20,693. What kind of box was it?—As far as I recollect it was polished wood.

20,694. With a handle to it?—No, I think a leather strap was buckled round it.

20,695. Was it covered with leather?—I think not.

20,696. What did you think it was when you got hold of it?—I thought there was gold in it. I came back to the yard and said I had taken a good whack of gold to the "Seymour" hotel.

20,697. Are you sure it was not a bag?—It was a box.

20,698. What made you think it was gold?—It was so heavy, I knew it could not be wearing apparel. I knew it was some metal or other by the weight.

20,699. (Mr. Coleridge.) It might have been cartridges?—It might.

20,700. Was it that sort of box which gentlemen carry about with them when they go out shooting?—I do not know that I ever saw one of them before.

20,701. Have you ever seen a gentleman with a gun-case who had a large box of that sort very heavy?—I have seen boxes like that with commercial gentlemen.

20,702. (Mr. Longe.) Was it Henry Forster whom you spoke of?—Yes, that was in Baldwin's election, he went as the guard.

20,703. Have you not seen him at this last election at the "Stars"?—I have always seen him about.

20,704. Do you know has he done anything of that sort lately?—Not that I am aware of.

20,705. Has he not been out getting voters with you?—Not since the time I spoke of.

Mr. Thomas Creaser Kellock recalled.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

20,706. (Mr. Bere.) I understand, Mr. Kellock, you have been annoyed at something which passed relative to the banking account, and I wish to clear up a misapprehension which exists on your part as to an entry in the ledger of your account with the National Provincial Bank, where there is the name of Kellock opposite to an erasure. We were necessarily anxious to inquire how that came there, I am sorry you were not satisfied, as we were perfectly satisfied with your own explanation of it. We are further strengthened as to its being a mistake by the evidence of Mr. Yabbicom yesterday, and we are perfectly satisfied with that part of the account?—You will allow me to say that I was very much annoyed at it myself.

20,707. You can well understand that an erasure being found in your ledger account we should wish you to explain it?—I have never seen that ledger account in my life, I produced my own books which were clear, and there were certain questions put to me which thoroughly misled me at the time.

20,708. And your pass-book explains it completely?—I am content with that explanation.

20,709. Have you told us all that passed between you and Mr. Pearce, either by word of mouth or in writing, as to the cashing of the 1,000*l.* cheque by Captain King?—I may say generally that at this distance of time, with the mind thoroughly occupied on matters of business, since it is impossible for me without explanation to enter into such minute details as were inquired about, but I answered the questions which were put to me to the best of my recollection. Since this inquiry has been going on, the subject has been recalled to my mind prominently, and many minor points have been brought to my recollection by the questions and the answers I have given, and I have endeavoured to rake up in my mind every incident connected with that cheque; and subsequent to Captain King's examination, I intended to tender myself as a witness to endeavour to give every explanation in my power of the matter. In reply, I believe I may say that I had an interview previous to the cashing of the cheque with Mr. Pearce.

20,710. Did you tell Mr. Pearce at that interview anything as to how the cheque was to be cashed, or through whom?—I believe I went to the bank for the purpose of cashing the cheque myself.

20,711. Was that after the cheque had been cashed

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

12 Sept. 1866.

as Torquay?—I cashed the cheque at Torquay on the day before.

20,712. The cheque was cashed at Torquay on the Monday, and this is the transaction on the Tuesday?—I wish, so far as my recollection goes, to be guided by anything in writing at the time, or by Mr. Pearce's evidence, as to any circumstances which Mr. Pearce has represented by way of explanation, and I shall be happy to give any further explanation that I can. I think I first went to the bank to get the cheque cashed myself; I then changed my mind on account of Mr. Cole being there, and went back and did not go in at all. I think I had an interview with Mr. Pearce a second time with the intention of cashing the cheque, and had some conversation with him about it.

20,713. Did you tell him how the cheque had been cashed, and when, or by whom?—Whether I had seen Captain King previously, and had asked him to do it, or whether I saw him afterwards and asked him to do it I am not clear; it is possible that I may have seen him previously and have gone to Mr. Pearce afterwards, and then arranged for him, Captain King, to call there and cash the cheque; it was either one or the other, I am in some doubt about it.

20,714. Mr. Pearce has stated here this morning that you came to him and told him that you would send Captain King?—Whether I saw Captain King previously or afterwards I am not clear.

20,715. When did you receive the cheque, in the morning or on the night before?—I do not know when, it was, I think, either in the middle of the day or afterwards.

20,716. Both the 1,000*l.* cheques are drawn on the same day and in the same manner?—I think Mr. Edmonds gave them both to me; on referring to his evidence you might find the time when the second was given to me.

20,717. Did Mr. Edmonds tell you he might want some more money before he gave you the second cheque?—That I do not recollect.

20,718. Do you remember where he gave it to you?—I believe at the "Stars."

20,719. Was it in your room?—I cannot acknowledge it as my room.

20,720. In No. 8, we will not call it your room?—I have no recollection where it was.

20,721. You are not certain whether you had spoken to Captain King before or not, but the impression which you have given us from your evidence has been that you met Captain King accidentally, and that you then on the spur of the moment instructed him to cash the cheque?—I believe that that was so, whether I went to the bank afterwards and told Mr. Pearce about it I cannot say.

20,722. That could hardly be the case, the 1,000*l.* cheque was not cashed until after banking hours?—I believe as I said before I had it previously at the "Stars" and went to the bank and did not cash it, it was not cashed until after banking hours.

20,723. The evidence is, "Q. In 1865 were you concerned in cashing a cheque at the Devon and Cornwall Bank?—A. As I was coming out of the 'Seven Stars' I met Mr. Kellock, who said, 'I want a cheque cashed, if you will do it for me I shall be much obliged to you,' I went and presented it and gave him the money in notes and gold." Considering that that must apply to the very time that you gave him the cheque to be cashed, does not it seem to convey the impression that you had a prior conversation about being prepared to cash the cheque?—I do not think I had, and my explanation would be this; that I must have gone to the Devon and Cornwall Bank after that conversation with Captain King, and arranged with Mr. Pearce for Captain King to call for the amount.

20,724. The mistake may be that Captain King in putting the conversation at 4 o'clock, when it took place earlier?—I am satisfied it was earlier than 4 and when one does recollect a fact it relieves one's mind and if you will allow me I will explain. I believe in my former evidence I say I was in some doubt whether I would not go somewhere else by the 2.55 train to get the cheque cashed. Without being able to remember the hour, that little feature leads my mind to the conclusion that I must have had the cheque at all events at 2.55 or previously.

20,725. Perhaps I had better read you the evidence to refresh your memory. I will read you the account you yourself gave. It is: "Q. When did you know "first that another cheque must be cashed?—A. After "the nomination was over, and we had returned to the "'Seven Stars.' Q. Then you and Mr. Edmonds "went up to your own little room?—A. I believe he "came to me. I do not think we went to the room; "he came to me shortly after and asked me whether "I could get another cheque cashed. Q. Did he give "you the cheque?—A. I believe I got it afterwards. "Q. From Mr. Smith?—A. He brought it to me. Q "It bore Mr. Smith's signature, Smith and Guscotte? "—A. I cannot remember. He brought me a cheque, "which I understood came from Mr. Smith, and asked "me to get it cashed. Q. When was that?—A. It was "about 2 or 3 o'clock. Q. What did you do with that "cheque?—A. I intended at first, whether it was my "own mind or Mr. Edmonds asked me, to go by the "2.55 train to get it cashed. Q. Where to?—A. I "suppose, where he thought I could get the money. "I do not think there was any place mentioned; but "I did not go, there was something said about going "by train, but I did not go. Q. Something was said "to you but you did not do it?—A. I met Captain "King, who is a gentleman who took an interest in "Totnes elections, and asked him to go and get it "cashed. Q. Did he consent?—A. He did. Q. "Did you tell him what it was for?—A. No. Q. "Come, now, did you tell him that it was for "the purposes of the election; one gentleman "does not ask another to get a cheque cashed "without giving some reason. What was the reason "that you did not do it yourself?—A. If you ask "me to give you direct evidence of the conversation "I cannot do so. Q. You did not say to Captain "King in the street, 'Here is a thousand pound "'cheque, will you get it cashed?' without telling "what it was for?—A. I think very little "passed. Q. Did you tell him that it was for the "purpose of the election?—A. I do not think I did. "Q. Did you tell him it was for your own private "purposes?—A. I do not think I did. Q. What "did you tell him it was for?—A. I told him "that I had a cheque for 1,000*l.* which I wished "to get cashed, and I believe he had previously been "a friend of Mr. Dent's at Totnes, and I suppose he "assumed it was for election purposes. Q. Did you "tell him it was for election purposes?—A. I do not "think I did. Q. Where did he get it cashed?—"A. At the Devon and Cornwall bank. Q. In this "town?—A. In this town. Q. Why did not you do "it yourself?—A. Because I did not wish. To tell "you the truth I regretted their having got the one "cashed on the previous day. Q. Are you quite "certain about this being the nomination day?—A. "I am certain in my own mind. Q. Not the election "day?—A. Oh, no; I may say positively it "was not the election day, because my own opinion of "the election——. Q. Was it after banking hours? "—A. Although it might be after banking hours, "after 3 o'clock, the bank had not closed, I believe, for the purposes of business. Q. Did some "conversation take place with Captain King? Did "he say it was past banking hours, or anything of "that sort?—A. I walked with him to the Devon "and Cornwall bank. Q. Did you go in with him? "—A. No. Q. How long was he in?—A. He went "in and got the cheque cashed, and came out again "and joined me in the street, and I walked back "with him. I dare say he was in the bank ten "minutes or a quarter of an hour. Q. How did he "bring the money out?—A. I did not see it till I "got back to the 'Stars.' Q. Did you tell him what "to get it in?—A. I do not think I did. Q. Come? "—A. I might have done so. Q. Suppose he had " brought it out in a 1,000*l.* note, that would not " have suited you. Did not you say 'Get this in " 'gold or small notes,' or something of that sort?— " A. I do not recollect. Q. Try to recollect. Here " is a transaction of a thousand pound cheque, and all " you have told us at present is, that you met a gentleman in the street and asked him to get it cashed? " —A. And he did so. Q. But do you mean to say " that you gave him no reason for wishing him to get " it cashed?—A. To tell you the truth, I do not recollect what passed at this distance of time. Q. " You do not mean to say that you met a gentleman " in the street and asked him to get a thousand pound " cheque cashed without giving any reason. The " natural thing would be that he would say 'Why " 'not do it yourself?'—A. I do not think he said " so. Q. Not something to that effect?—A. I do " not recollect. Captain King may be able to come " and refresh my memory on it. Q. If you gave no " reason for doing it, he would have thought you " might very easily have done it yourself?—A. I " know what passed in my own mind on the subject. " Q. I dare say you gave vent to it in words?—A. " That I did not wish to do it myself. Q. Did " you tell Captain King so?—A. Probably I may " have done so. Q. Did you tell him that you had " been to Torquay the previous day and cashed a " 1,000*l.* cheque, and that you did not like to do it " the following day?—A. No. Q. Was Captain " King on the Conservative committee?—A. No. " Q. Then as far as we have it at present, you did " not tell Captain King why you did not want to do " it yourself at all?—A. I do not think I did. Q. " Are you sure?—A. No, I am not sure. Q. Did " you give him any instructions as to the form in " which you wished to have the money?—A. No; " I do not recollect that I did so. Q. Will you swear " it?—A. I cannot possibly say that any conversation " occurred, it may possibly be. Q. Do not you recollect a conversation to the effect that you wished " to get this cheque cashed, and did not like to get " it done yourself, and would he get it done in gold " and small notes. I mean, supposing Captain King " had gone and got it done in 100*l.* notes, that would " not have suited you. Did you ever in your life ask " a gentleman to cash a 1,000*l.* cheque for you " before?—A. I do not think I did. Q. Did you " ever ask anybody to go to the bank to get a large " cheque cashed for you when you might have done " it yourself?—A. I do not think I did; certainly " not for electioneering purposes. Q. I mean, it is " not usual if you meet a man in the street, to ask " him to get a cheque cashed for you?—A. Certainly " not. Q. Did not Captain King perfectly well " know that it was election purposes you wanted him " to do it for?—A. I have no doubt in my mind that " he did know, but to tell you distinctly what words " passed I cannot. Q. Did not you tell him the " form in which you wished this money?—A. I may " have done so, but I do not recollect. Q. Did you tell " him before he cashed the cheque where to bring " the money to?—A. I waited for him, and walked " back to the 'Stars' with him. Q. Did you tell " him to go and get this cheque, and I shall wait for " you, and we will go to the 'Stars' together?—A. " I do not know that I did. Q. Did you tell him " not to give you the money in the street, but wait " till you got to the 'Stars'?—A. I do not recollect " anything of the sort. Q. You do not recollect " anything at all about it; about telling him where he " was to give you the money, now try to recollect? " —A. No. Q. Without having told him anything, " by intuition did he walk down by your side to the " 'Seven Stars'?—A. He came out of the bank and " walked to the 'Stars' with me. Q. When he " came out of the bank did you say 'Have you got it " done?'—A. No doubt I did, or something to that " effect. Q. (Mr. Bere.) Was not the reason that you " did not want to go to the Devon and Cornwall bank " because there was somebody on the other side of " the street you thought would know you, or in at the " bank?—A. That was no reason. That gentleman " has been in Court since, and I am told has given " evidence that I did go in and cash a 1,000*l.* cheque " myself. That is not the case. Q. (Mr. Coleridge.) " Who do you mean?—A. Mr. Cole. Q. (Mr. Bere.) " Mr. Cole is an active supporter of Mr. Pender?— " A. I believe so. Q. (Mr. Coleridge.) To the best " of your belief this 1,000*l.* cheque was cashed after " banking hours?—A. I believe it was cashed between " 3 and 4. Q. Because it appears in the book " as being cashed the polling day and not the nomination day. Did you cash another 1,000*l.* on the " polling day?—A. Certainly not. Q. Then you " went to the 'Seven Stars.' Where did you go to at " the 'Seven Stars?'—A. I went upstairs, I think to " Colonel Dawkins' room. Q. And Captain King " with you?—A. And Captain King with me. Q. " What had Captain King got the money in?—A. In " a parcel. Q. Done up in a parcel?—A. I saw it " when we got to the 'Stars.' Q. In Colonel Dawkins' room?—A. I cannot tell you the room; to the " first floor, whether Colonel Dawkins' or Captain " Pim's room I cannot say. Q. You did not go to the " little room, No. 8?—A. I believe we went to the " room which is between two large rooms. There is " a small room between a room called Colonel Dawkins' room and a room called Captain Pim's room. " Q. You believe it was that room; you do not believe " it was your own little room on the top of the stairs? "—A. This room is not at the top of the stairs between " the two rooms I have described. Q. The little room " No. 8 is just at the top of the stairs, facing the bedroom?—A. I do not think that room, but the room " between the two large front rooms. Q. Who was " there?—A. I believe I saw Mr. Edmonds. Q. " Who was present, now be careful with this; who " was present there while Captain King delivered " himself of his burden?—A. I believe we saw Colonel " Dawkins' servant. Q. Was anything said to Colonel " Dawkins' servant at this time?—A. So far as I recollect Captain King sent up, and to use your own " words, delivered himself of his burden by putting " the parcel on the table, and Colonel Dawkins' servant was asked to keep guard over it until I went " and called Mr. Edmonds, who came and took it. " Q. Colonel Dawkins' servant watched the money " before it was unpacked?—A. I believe so. Q. " Was that before Mr. Edmonds came in?—A. I think " so. Q. Did you see it unpacked?—A. I did. Q. " What did it consist of?—A. It consisted chiefly of " gold. Q. You had not asked Captain King to get " it in gold when he went to the bank?—A. Your " question has refreshed my memory as to the circumstances. I think part was in notes, and my reason " for thinking so is, that out of that 1,000*l.* Mr. " Edmunds repaid me the 300*l.*, the value of Captain " Pim's cheque which I had cashed for him the previous day. I believe that 300*l.* was given to me in " small notes. Q. Have you any doubt of it?—A. I " have none; when you asked me the question, at the " moment, I had forgotten it. Q. Having received " the 300*l.* in notes, were there any more notes left, or " was all the rest in gold?—A. That I cannot say. " Q. What is your impression?—A. My impression is " that the greater part was in gold. Q. Did you not " expect that you were to be recouped the 300*l.*?" I will put to you shortly the effect of that statement, with regard to your actually going to the bank; that you met Captain King without arrangement?— A. I did not say that.

20,726. That is the impression on my mind.—You have asked me a positive question on that this morning——

20,727. I am going to put to you the effect of that evidence. You then went to the Devon and Cornwall bank, you stayed outside and the money was brought out by Captain King into the street, that you and Captain King walked down the street to the "Seven Stars," that you and Captain King went up stairs into the room at the "Seven Stars" and there Captain King took out the money wrapped in a parcel and

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

12 Sept. 1866.

placed it on the table ?—There are two points I wish to explain : may I ?

20,728. Yes.—I do not think I said outside in the street, I said not in the room.

20,729. Did you go in with him ?—I went into the banking house.

20,730. Are you quite sure you did not go into the manager's room ?—I am almost positive in my own mind that Captain King went to the manager's room, and I waited in the ante-room or passage. I should like to hear Captain King's evidence on that point, it is a very minor one.

20,731. It is not a minor point, because there is a remarkable fact takes place there according to Mr. Pearce's statement. The shorthand writer will read the evidence to you but I will state the effect of it to you first. Mr. Pearce states that you came to him and intimated that Captain King would come and cash a cheque for 1,000*l.* about 11 or 12 o'clock in the morning, and that you and Captain King came to his room and that you introduced Captain King to him as the person who was to receive the money, that he asked you a question to which you answered, that you then left the room and Captain King received the money and you afterwards sent Mr. Pearce something in consequence of the conversation. Now first of all has that evidence of Mr. Pearce refreshed your memory sufficiently for you to be able to correct your evidence by saying that you went to the manager's room with Captain King ?—I believe I went into the room with Captain King, that I retired and stood outside the room while the money was paid to him.

20,732, That agrees so far, but until to-day we were not aware that you went to the manager's room yourself ?—Mr. Pearce will tell you that I am frequently in the habit of going to the bank and seeing him, so that it would not be an exceptional circumstance if I did so then.

20,733. It may make a difference with regard to Captain King as to whether you were present and introduced him and he was simply an instrument to receive the money for you whether he was an active agent in obtaining that money, therefore on his part I should wish you to correct your evidence, if my reminding you of what Mr. Pearce has said will enable you to do so ?—Let me say at once publicly that I am as desirous as possible of giving you all the information I can.

20,734. I am afraid your recollection is rather deficient ?—It may be so.

20,735. I had hoped that I should have refreshed your recollection with regard to another transaction that took place, after the conversation with the manager, did you send up anything to the manager afterwards?—It has this moment flashed across my mind that at one of my interviews, Mr. Pearce not knowing Mr. Smith or Smith and Guscotte, I gave Mr. Pearce a memorandum making myself responsible I believe,

20,736. You gave him a guarantee that the cheque for 1,000*l.* by Smith and Guscotte would be honoured ? —I believe I did do so, but if you ask me when it was, before or after I do not know, if you say I sent him something afterwards probably he may have trusted to my word.

20,737. Mr. Pearce's account is this that he asked you for a guarantee, that you intimated your willingness to give him a guarantee, that you went away and you subsequently sent up the guarantee in writing ?—Yes, and let me add to my evidence that at Torquay I did the same with Mr. Kitson.

23,738. I think it is a pity you did not tell us both those things before, the fact of your giving a guarantee with regard to changing the 1,000*l.* cheque?—I had asked my private friends as it were to do this, and I did not wish them to incur any responsibility.

20,739. You ought to have told us you had given a guarantee because it makes it a much more formal transaction than cashing a cheque. Having recalled to your attention the fact that you promised to give a guarantee at that interview with Mr. Pearce, did you also mention that cash might be required for another 1,000*l.* cheque in the course of that day, I will tell you that Mr. Pearce has said so ?—If Mr. Pearce has said so I may say I do not recollect doing so.

20,740. You know that there was a cheque for 500*l.* cashed on that day ?—I did not know till a long time afterwards.

20,741. Have you heard from Mr. Edmonds or read in his evidence, that Mr. Edmonds came to Mr. Smith for a 500*l.* cheque and Mr. Smith said, Shall I give you one for 1,000*l.*, and he said he did not think that was worth doing ?—I was not aware of it, on the nomination night.

20,742. Between the nomination night and the election morning. It was really all nomination and election, the people were up all night ?—I was not.

20,743. Can you remember having told Mr. Pearce that you might require in the course of that day or the next day another cheque cashed for 1,000*l.* ?—As I said before I could not wish if Mr. Pearce has given evidence to deny it. But I do not recollect having said so.

20,744. Are you quite sure that Mr. Edmonds had never told you that another 1,000*l.* would be wanted, and if it was wanted it would be forthcoming ?—I cannot remember it.

20,745. Did you go twice to Torquay ?—No, only once. (The shorthand writer read a portion of Mr. Pearce's evidence.)

20,746. (Mr. Coleridge.) I will explain the effect of it, which is this : Mr. Pearce said that at the time you introduced Captain King to his room, you said there might be another 1,000*l.* wanted. He said that in explanation of why he provided for that, you having had 1,000*l.* and saying you might want another 1,000*l.* that day and thinking it might straighten the resources of the bank he provided for it; therefore on seeing you afterwards he asked you why you did not come for the money, and you said you had provided it from elsewhere, and he asked you whether you got it from the Torquay bank and you said yes. What is to clear that up ?—If you will allow me to make an explanation I think Mr. Pearce is a little in error ; and I am reminded of it by this : when I was asked if I had changed three 100*l.* notes I said I believed I did, and that I did go to the bank the following morning. In the 1,300*l.* there were three 100*l.* notes, and Mr. Edmonds gave me the three 100*l.* notes the following morning to get cashed ; and then I think I told Mr. Pearce that I obtained the three 100*l.* notes from the Torquay bank. I think Mr. Pearce is in error in saying that the conversation took place about the Torquay bank at my second interview.

20,747. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Pearce says that you had told him that you might want another 1,000*l.* and on his asking you why you did not come for it, he having got the money ready, you said you did not want it, that you got it from the Torquay bank. Do you recollect any such conversation as that ?—I do not recollect any conversation, nor do I think I had any; except telling him that those three 100*l.* notes had been obtained from the Torquay bank.

20,748. Was it possible that a third cheque might have been cashed ?—I distinctly swear that only two 1,000*l.* cheques I got cashed. There was not another 1,000*l.* obtained to my knowledge or through me.

20,749. Had you obtained information from Mr. Edmonds that if another 1,000*l.* was required it would be forthcoming so that you might have said that to Mr. Pearce at the time he mentions. That might account for your telling Mr. Pearce that there was a possibility of your requiring it ?—I would rather say "No," judging of my own feeling.

20,750. Did Mr. Edmonds tell you "You have got those two done, and if there is another wanted it would be forthcoming ?—No.

20,751. You cannot account for it, except by a mistake of Mr. Pearce's, his saying that he would be ready to cash another 1,000*l.* cheque ?—I do not recollect it.

20,752. I am to understand, Mr. Kellock, about Captain King, that you were in error, and that you admit now that there was a pre-concerted arrangement that you should go and get the cheque cashed?—In the evidence I gave first I believe I gave one answer. "Did you see Captain King and arrange with "him to go to the bank?—I did." There was no question put; nor was my memory refreshed by any circumstance. On my coming in the morning without knowing the evidence I admitted that probably I had gone and made an arrangement.

20,753. You have admitted that you might have told Mr. Pearce that Captain King might want the cheque cashed. Had you made arrangement with Captain King about the time you went and told Pearce?—I believe I must have done so. I believe, having come out of the "Seven Stars," with this cheque, I met Captain King and asked him whether he would do it, and I must have gone to the bank and asked whether they would cash it.

20,754. You have get two meetings. You met Captain King at 11 o'clock in the morning?—No.

20,755. Mr. Pearce said, "you then came to give "notice about Captain King cashing the cheque"?—I think Mr. Pearce must be in error.

20,756. Mr. Pearce says he was prepared to cash the cheque and Captain King says he was prepared to do it, that he had no occasion to tell him what he wanted. It was all put ready. Now have you any doubt that you did give notice?—I have already admitted it.

20,756*a*. What time?—Mr. Pearce says 11 or 12 o'clock?—I think Mr. Pearce is in error.

20,756*b*. (Mr. Coleridge.) What time do you put it at?—I should put it between 2 and 3, and I should put my interview after 3 and before 4.

20,756*c*. Do you put the first interview with Captain King after you told Mr. Pearce?—No.

20,756*d*. Be careful; you say you put it between 2 and 3 and now you are going to put the interview with Captain King between 3 and 4?—I put my first dealing with the cheque between 2 and 3 because I intended to go off by the 2.55 train. I believe after that I returned to the "Stars" and did not do it. I then saw Captain King and first spoke to him about it.

20,756*e*. There is such a contradiction here. Are you quite certain that was the first time that you saw Captain King that day?—No; I think I had seen Captain King a dozen times.

20,756*f*. Was that the first time that you spoke to Captain King about getting the cheque asked?—Yes, after I determined not to do it through my name.

20,756*g*. Was it before you saw Captain King that you went to the bank?—I believe after I had spoken to Captain King and got his consent.

20,756*h*. That is about 3 o'clock?—From 3 to 4.

20,756*i*. How long was it between your obtaining Captain King's consent, going to the bank to give notice, and your going up again to get the cheque cashed?—I should say not more time than to walk that short distance.

20,757. As far as you correct your evidence, you say you saw Captain King somewhere about 3 o'clock, went to the bank and gave notice that he had consented and went with him to get the cheque cashed?—Yes, I think that is the effect of my evidence.

20,758. It is distinctly contrary to what Mr. Pearce said as to the time?—I think Mr. Pearce must have confused the interviews the one about the three 100*l*. notes and the interview when Captain King came.

20,759. How often where you in the bank that day?—I recollect twice.

20,760. You have told me three times?—I have stated the second matter as one transaction.

20,761. You were there three separate times?—I think I went afterwards with the guarantee.

20,762. (Mr. Bere.) You may have been three times in the bank that day?—I might; I mean two transactions.

20,763. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you think it was after you had been there and got the money that you sent up the guarantee? Mr. Pearce thinks it was sent up the next morning by one of your clerks?—I do not know.

20,764. Did you see Mr. Pearce after the money was got for the 1,000*l*. cheque?—I do not think I did.

20,765. It is a mistake about going up with the guarantee that evening? Mr. Pearce says he thinks it was sent?—I do not know.

20,766. Do you recollect whether you sent or took it?—I do not know.

20,767. Do you know where you drew up the guarantee?—I do not know. I think at the "Seven Stars"; I was there very often. I was not at the office for two days. I went to my office the next day after the election.

20,768. With regard to what passed, I should like to read Captain King's evidence?—Let me say plainly that I have seen Captain King's evidence, and have had a conversation with him, and I believe, if he were here with me and heard my explanation, and I heard his, we could clear up all these differences; because, as a man of honour and a gentleman, I do not believe that Captain King would come here and mislead you, and I am sure it is not my intention to do so.

20,769. You see there is a difference between you and him with regard, first, to the way in which the money was done up at the bank; and, secondly, with regard to the persons who were in the room when he paid it over; and he says there was no person there except Colonel Dawkins' valet, and that you were not there nor Colonel Dawkins?—If you will look at my previous evidence you will find I did not go in till afterwards, and I reminded Captain King of the circumstances yesterday. I said, "Do you "recollect my calling Colonel Dawkins' valet, who "was in his shirt sleeves, and I told him 'You need "'not stop to get your coat on, I want you here a "'minute;'" and my mentioning that about the man being in his shirt sleeves. Captain King said yesterday, "Really I think you must be right."

20,770. Do you remember whether the money you saw before Colonel Dawkins' valet, the gold was in a bag and the notes done up in a newspaper, or whether they were wrapped up?—I do not know whose answer it was, only a minute ago you read to me the evidence which stated that when Captain King went to the bank, Mr. Pearce states it was all done up in a parcel.

20,771. No, he says he put the notes in a roll or packet, and handed the gold in a bag.—Mr. Pearce's evidence?

20,772. Yes, Mr. Pearce's evidence. We were aware of the differences between your evidence and that of Captain King's, and we thought perhaps that he might be able to clear up the difference, and I think he did. I think his evidence and Captain King's agree. This is Captain King's:—"Q. You "went into the manager's room?—A. Yes, a private "place. Q. How was the money done up?—A. I "think the notes were in a roll." And that is what Mr. Pearce said. "I think the sovereigns were in a "bag." And that is what Mr. Pearce said. "I put "them into my trowsers pocket"; and that is what Mr. Pearce also said. "I think the sovereigns were "in a bag, I put them in my trowsers pocket. Q. What! "loose?—A. Yes; I took it all out loose, and put it "down on the newspaper at the 'Seven Stars.'"—You said gold in a bag.

20,773. So it was; that is what Captain King means by that, he took it loose in his pocket; the notes and gold were not wrapped up in the same parcel, in fact there was no parcel. Then it goes

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

Mr. C. Kellock.

2 Sept. 1866.

on :—" Q. You put the notes on a piece of news- " paper ?—A. Notes and gold. Q. Do you mean that " they were all out open on the table ?—A. Yes. " Q. Was Mr. Kellock in the room ?—A. He was " not. Q. Did he come into the room ?—A. No ; " there was no one left in the room but Colonel " Dawkins' servant."—I gave evidence to say that I called Colonel Dawkins' servant to come and guard, and I went into the room immediately afterwards with Mr. Edmonds when he took the money.

20,774. Where was Captain King then ?—He had left.

20,775. Was it open on the table or wrapped up, as far as your memory goes ?—My memory was that it was a kind of screwed up parcel in a newspaper.

20,776. Not done up as carefully at the money at Torquay ?—Certainly not.

20,777. Not that sort of parcel ?—No. With regard to that interview, I should like to be specific upon it, as far as Captain King's evidence goes.

20,778. (Mr. Coleridge.) Captain King says that he did not see you again till the next morning. Do you recollect whether you saw him ?—No. I may tell you there were a number of other persons there, and I will explain why I want to be specific on that point. I called Colonel Dawkins' valet to go to Captain King and keep guard of the money whilst I went to call Mr. Edmonds ; and having called him, when we came back I believe to the doorway of the room Captain King left. I went in and told the servant to leave, and Mr. Edmonds then took the whole money that Captain King had brought from the bank, and, whether the gold really was open or in a bag, my impression was it was wrapped up, and I never saw the open gold, and the question first put to me seemed to imply that the gold was loose on the table, and I did not recollect seeing the actual coin.

20,779. Now, one word about that cheque which John Heath paid or drew in favour of Mr. Matcham ? —May I ask if there is any farther little discrepancy, because I am desirous of clearing it. Might I ask you to make an appointment for Captain King ? He said he would come in again with me here and we could clear up anything. The public prints give the impression that that there was another 1,000*l.* cashed besides, as if two.

20,780. I will ask you as to that, do you know, or did you hear of any third 1,000*l.* cheque being cashed on the part of Colonel Dawkins at the time of that election ?—I never heard of it, and I am prepared distinctly to swear, as I said this morning, that those two, the one I cashed at Torquay and the other Captain King cashed at the Devon and Cornwall bank, were the only two I ever heard of.

20,781. Was any other 1,000*l.* cheque cashed, either through you or anybody else ?—Not to my knowledge ; decidedly not through me, and not to my knowledge through any other person.

20,782. Now that 235*l.* cheque which Mr. Heath gave Mr. Matcham ; when did Mr. John Heath speak to you about his having given that cheque ?—I have an impression that it was rather early in the election ; decidedly before the nomination day.

20,783. Before the nomination ?—Oh, yes, I think so.

20,784. Did Mr. Heath tell you, that in order to prevent any difficulties he had made that cheque payable on the 13th July, the day after the election ? —I mentioned in my previous evidence that I had been informed that the cheque was made payable the day after the election.

20,785. That would be the 13th July then. Can you at all fix the time when Mr. Heath told you he had drawn that cheque ?—I have an impression on my mind that it was the first money transaction I heard of in the course of that election, and it must have occurred at all events on the Friday or Saturday before the election ; somewhat early in the course of the election.

20,786. What was it that Mr. Heath told you with regard to that cheque ?—Beyond the fact that he told me he had drawn a cheque, payable the day after the election, for the Matchams or for Mr. Matcham ?

20,787. Did not he tell you it in was James Matcham, the son's, name ?—No, the father's.

20,788. If the son, Thomas Matcham, should be able to come back to vote for the Conservatives ?— I may say, that I do not know whether he told me that or not. The decided impression on my mind was that he had given that cheque payable the day after the election for the purpose of procuring the vote or votes of Mr. Matcham and the son, or one of them, and that I at that time thought that Colonel Dawkins would have been returned. I have no hesitation in saying at the moment we had not much conversation about it, but the moment he told me of it I at once said to him, or words to that effect, " It " is useless going on with the election after such a " daring act as that, which, if Colonel Dawkins is " returned, will have the effect of unseating him."

20,789. Did you give notice to stop that cheque at the bank, or did you suggest it ?—I believe he told me that he had done so.

20,790. Was it your suggestion that he had done so ?—I cannot say.

20,791. Can you say at all when he told you that he had sent notice to the bank and stopped it ?—I saw him every day, and frequently many times in the course of the day, several days prior to the election, and I do not recollect when that occurred.

20,792. Have Thomas Matcham's affairs been settled since ?—They have.

20,793. How was that done ?—By composition.

20,794. Was any money subscribed for him ?—No, not to my knowledge.

20,795. Or any money advanced by any of the persons concerned in the election as far as you know ? —The composition was after the election. I acted for him professionally ; held a meeting of his creditors. I think it was adjourned, probably once or twice ; some of the creditors would not accept the composition, and ultimately a composition was accepted by them, and guaranteed by his father-in-law Thomas Jacob Searle.

20,796. Did any of the Conservative party, Mr. John Heath, have anything to do with the money that was paid as a composition to those creditors ?—I have not the least idea that one of them had. I think it exceedingly improbable, because Matcham came back and voted for Mr. Pender and Seymour.

20,797. Do you think there was anything done on the other side ?—I have no knowledge.

20,798. Have you ever heard there was ?—Twenty times I have heard it, mere public rumour, but Mr. Matcham and his son, and Mr. Searle, being all three my private clients, I did not say a word to them on the subject.

20,799. You have heard that that composition with his creditors was assisted by aid from the Liberal party ?—I have heard so.

20,800. You have told us that a stop was put on the cheque, and that Mr. Heath told you so. Do you know when the stop was taken off. Did he ever tell you it had been taken off ?—I think he told me he had sent or should send one of his sons to Torquay ; that the cheque was lodged in another Mr. Matcham's hands at Torquay, and he should send and get it back again.

20,801. Did you ever see the cheque ?—I do not believe I ever saw it ; no, I have not the smallest idea that I ever saw the cheque.

20,802. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect whether before you saw Colonel Dawkins' servant in his shirt sleeves, Captain King was present there when you called ?—I believe we were at the top of the stairs, and I asked Captain King to step in.

20,803. Did you hear Captain King say to the man, " I do not know you, and you do not know me." Do you recollect him saying that ?—I was not in the room with Captain King, and I do not know what conversation passed between them. I hope I have made that clear. I am most desirous of doing so on any little point. Before having any conversation with Mr. Pearce, before saying a word to him or Mr. King, I wish to correct two answers I made in my previous examination.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

12 Sept. 1866.

20,804. Which are those?—They are very simple, but if the reporters have taken it correctly in the newspapers, I must have made a very foolish answer. I was asked by you whether I ever cashed another cheque for 1,000*l.*

20,805. No; it was whether you ever asked another person to cash a cheque for 1,000*l.* for you?—Whether I had done so myself, I think, the question is put in the newspaper, because I have no hesitation in saying, and Mr. Pearce will bear me out, that I have cashed cheques many thousands of times.

20,806. (Mr. Bere.) When you went to Torquay you drove out some way with Colonel Dawkins and Captain Fox?—Yes.

20,807. And left your carriage at a certain place you told us of?—Yes, Collaton.

20,808. At the time you went to Torquay, did you give anything to Colonel Dawkins?—At the time I went?

20,809. As you were leaving Colonel Dawkins to go and get the cheque cashed, and he returned to Totnes, did you put anything into his hand; because we have a letter from Colonel Dawkins, and I had better read you the statement, and ask you with respect to it. I cannot give you the exact words, but we received a communication from Colonel Dawkins yesterday, and he in that communication says to this effect, "As Mr. Kellock left me, he put a piece of "crumpled paper into my hand, which I believe to "have been a cheque?"—Did he say what he did with it?

20,810. I do not know what he did say he did with it?—A crumpled paper?

20,811. Yes, a piece of crumpled paper; have you any recollection?—Yes, I gave him the turnpike ticket to go back with, as I had paid all the expenses, and immediately after you pass Collaton there is a turnpike road.

20,812. I thought it ought to be explained?—I cannot recollect anything else. Those who know the road would enter, I think, into the probability of it.

(Mr. Bere.) Perhaps you will wait till I find the letter.

Mr. Howard Drake Pearce recalled.

Mr. H. D. Pearce.

20,813. Tell us with regard to the conversation which took place about cashing the cheque. Do you still put the conversation at as early an hour as at first?—I do certainly; my recollection is, that what I have stated is correct.

20,814. Can you tell this; did the conversation take place when Mr. Kellock came in to cash the first 200*l.* notes?—I think not; my impression was that the conversation took place about 11 or 12 in the day.

20,815. Before the nomination was over or after?—I really cannot tell. I thought the nomination took place about 12. I never attended a nomination.

20,816. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you that day got the money ready for Captain King, so that when he came there should be no question how he was to have it?—No, I think not. I had an intimation that he was to come.

20,817. He wished to have it in gold you told us?—Yes; I had only to go to the strong room for it.

20,818. And the conversation took place which you have deposed to, because you thought that Mr. Kellock would want another 1,000*l.* cheque cashed?—Yes; I think there were several demands for money.

20,819. Have you any doubt that Mr. Kellock told you there might be a second 1,000*l.* cheque to be cashed?—Not the slightest.

20,820. And about where he got this 1,000*l.* cheque; why he did not want yours two days afterwards; have you any doubt that he told you he had got it at Torquay?—Not the slightest.

20,821. That such a conversation did take place?—Yes.

Mr. Kellock recalled.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

20,822. Do you know of anybody having advanced any money for the purposes of the last election, on behalf of Colonel Dawkins, except Messrs. Smith and Guscotte?—Excepting Smith and Guscotte, no.

20,823. I mean the money that came through Messrs. Smith and Guscotte and Captain Pim's 300*l.*?—Certainly not.

20,824. Did you know of any money being sent down from London?—I never heard of a farthing; in fact, I am satisfied in my own mind that there was not.

20,825. From what you know of the money spent at the last election, do the sums of money paid by Smith and Guscotte and Captain Pim amount to enough to cover the whole that was spent?—I do; I am satisfied of it.

20,826. And if a 1,000*l.* was sent down from London you know nothing about it?—I do not, and I do not believe it.

20,827. I will read what Colonel Dawkins says, and you will, perhaps, explain it. It is a letter from Colonel Dawkins to me, as Chairman of the Commission, and he says, "Sir, I beg leave to forward to the Commissioners part of a letter from "the Honourable Charles Lane Fox. If I said in "my evidence that I then knew they had gone to "Torquay to cash a cheque, I should have said, that "I then (on giving evidence) knew, or had every "reason to believe, that Mr. Kellock had gone there "to cash a cheque. Mr. Kellock strongly pressed "Mr. Fox to accompany him, with which we were "surprised, and Mr. Fox did not much like going. "Mr. Kellock did not tell us the object of his going "to Torquay, but we considered it must have to do "with election matters. Mr. Kellock has no right "to say (if he does so), that he and Mr. Fox went "to Torquay to cash a cheque, what his object was "in so strongly wishing to take Mr. Fox with him, "I cannot state. I accompanied Mr. Kellock and "Mr. Fox part of the way in the carriage, only I "believe to enjoy the drive. I do not remember "canvassing on this occasion, and as foreseen, we "met another vehicle at a house, in which either I "returned or they proceeded." Now this is the part: "Before starting from Totnes, while I was "in the carriage waiting for Mr. Kellock, he came "and put unobservedly a piece of crumpled paper "into my hand, asking me to take care of it; I am "unable to state why he did so, I thought it best "to ask no questions. Soon after driving out of "Totnes, I took the paper and returned it to him, "without looking at it. I think it felt like the paper "of a cheque; I doubt if I had a glimpse of its "color." I put the facts wrongly to you. I had only casually read them. What is your explanation?—I have not the slightest recollection of having placed the paper in his hands when leaving Totnes; but I believe I must have put a paper in his hands when he left me at Collaton, and that he must have feared what it must be and thrown it away.

20,827*. "Before starting from Totnes, while I was "in the carriage waiting for Mr. Kellock, he came "and put unobservedly a piece of crumpled paper

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

12 Sept. 1866.

" into my hand, asking me to take care of it; I am " unable to state why he did so. I thought it best " to ask no questions. Soon after driving out of " Totnes, I took the paper and returned it to him, " without looking at it. I think it felt like the paper " of a cheque. I doubt if I had a glimpse of its " color ?"—I think in the course of the drive from Totnes to Sandridge, I offered to show, that may be, Colonel Dawkins, Lord Cranstoun's letter, which he had written to his tenants, which I believe he declined to read. That is the only explanation I have of that. On that or some other occasion I offered to do so, and he declined. The very object of our drive that day was to go to Sandridge and see Lord Cranstoun's tenants.

20,828. Had you told Captain Fox you were going to Torquay to cash a cheque ?—I do not believe that I ever told him, and I should like to add to my evidence that when we reached Torquay he never accompanied me to the bank or to Mr. Kitson's. I told him I should be absent for a short time and he took a walk and afterwards joined me in the coffee room hotel. May I ask whether there is anything in Mr. Fox's letter inconsistent with it ?

20,829. No; that is exactly the explanation he himself gives.—With regard to my pressing Captain Fox to go to Torquay, is that in Colonel Dawkin's letter ?

20,830. Well, he says you offered to take him to show him the place.—That was the fact.

20,831. (Mr. Bere.) You might very well strongly impress Mr. Fox to go for the sake of company instead of going by yourself ?—My servant got on the box of the carriage and Mr. Fox went on with me.

20,832. If Captain Fox had not gone your servant would ?—Yes.

20,833. We should not have asked you anything on that letter except it had been for the crumpled paper ?—I wish it to be distinctly known that Mr. Charles Lane Fox went to be my companion and I found him a most agreeable one.

Mr. G. Presswell.

Mr. GEORGE PRESSWELL recalled.

20,834. I think you told us when you were examined here some weeks ago that you had not any personal knowledge of any of the election affairs, except one instance in which you acted, I think, for Mr. Blount ?—I have not acted professionally for any man.

20,835. We rather took your answer to mean that you had not acted professionally or personally in any election. Did not you vote at the elections of 1863 and 1865, and interfered with regard to voters ?—I think not in 1865.

20,836. In 1863 ?—In 1863 I did call on two or three parties.

20,837. Who were those ?—A man called Tucker, Rossitey Bridge, farmer. I said I had called there to ask him if he would vote for Mr. Dent.

20,838. Are you quite certain that was in 1863 ?—I am. I thought he would have obliged me, and I said I had never asked a man. I had never said so much to any man else in my life, and if you will do it I shall be obliged to you, and he got a little excited and he said he thought he could not vote at all. He said parties had been offering him large sums of money to vote. I said I knew nothing about that.

20,839. Did he mention the names of any persons who had been offering him money ?—I think he said one of the Mr. Heaths had been out to him.

20,840. That was in 1863 ?—That was in 1863 when Mr. Dent was here. I went to try to get his vote for Mr. Dent. I said so. I did go purposely, and I found he had very strong feelings for some cause or other, and I found him in the field at work, and after talking I left him.

20,841. Was that all that passed between you and him on that occasion or any other ?—Afterwards I went to him on the day of the election. I drove out, and I think I saw him when his wife was present, and the man then was very excited, and I think his house had been besieged in some way or other, because, whilst I was there it was said there was a fly at the other end of the bridge in which Mr. Charles Webber was.

20,842. Is Mr. Webber alive?—Yes. I do not know myself that he was there, but I was told that he was in the chaise.

20,843. Was that all you knew about it ?—Yes; that is all in 1863.

20,844. Did you see him at all in 1865 ?—No. I may say I did not ask any man for a vote.

20,845. If Mrs. Tucker has ever said it was " nearly driving her mad; Mr. Presswell was here " yesterday and put down 100 sovereigns," that is not correct ?—It is quite false.

20,846. Had not you to do with Samuel Hill, junior in 1863 about his vote ?—No.

20,847. Did not you send Mr. Robert Michelmore to him ?—No, I never spoke to Mr. Michelmore in my life about election matters.

20,848. Did you know that Samuel Hill was about to be turned out of his house in 1863 ?—I recollect that I sent a distress there. I am almost in doubt about it without referring to my books. I was concerned for the parties entitled to the rent of his house.

20,849. Whom did you send to take the distress ?—I am not clear that I did, without referring to my books.

20,850. Did you have any communication with Samuel Hill about his house either by your own self or some agent ?—Except to get him out of the house. The house belonged to some young women in London and they wanted to sell the property and get the money. They were in want of money, but it would be of no use I found to offer the house for sale while we had such a tenant in it.

20,851. Did you ever send any person to Hill to tell him you would buy Hill's house if he would vote for Dent ?—Never.

20,852. That you swear ?—I do.

20,853. Do you know Messrs. Stranger and Bennett ?—I do.

20,854. Did you canvass them for Mr. Dent in 1863 ?—I must state exactly what passed with Stranger and Bennett. In a conversation with Mr. Mitchell and some others in a room at the " Stars " where there were a number of persons, I was asked by some one or two to go and see Stranger and Bennett. It was very well known that I did not like canvassing or asking persons for votes, and I refused at first so to do. Mr. Mitchell said to me I believe aside, " Do you think these respectable men you saw " there would be no inducement to." I said, " I " know nothing at all about them, and I should not " insult them by asking them if I knew how they " were going to vote." I did not know how they were going to vote. Mr. Mitchell said, " We will " give 500*l.* for any charitable or public purpose " they will name if they will vote for Mr. Dent; have " you any objection to say as much to them ?" I said, " No, I will go to them." I went to them, and in the counting house were two gentlemen, Mr. John Bowden and some other gentleman, I think Mr. Jenkins, but I am not positive. Upon entering they left the room and I said, " Well, here we are in " the election you see;" they said, " Yes." I said, " I " want to say something to you, and you will not take " offence at anything I am going to say. I do not " know how you are going to vote." " Well," they said, " we have not said how." " Well," I said, " I am " authorized to say that Mr. Dent or Mr. Mitchell, I " do not know which, will pay 500*l.* to any charitable " or public purpose you may name if you vote for

"Mr. Dent." They made no reply. We had a laugh and I moved round and went off again in a minute or two.

20,855. Did not Mr. Stranger say it would require more gold than Mr. Dent had to buy his vote?—I cannot say; he is just likely to say so.

20,856. Did not Mr. Bennett say, "That is an "answer which is sufficient for both of us"?—I cannot say, he might; it was a very short time that I was present.

20,857. You told us on the former occasion that you would be able to send us a copy of the charter?—Do you allude to the governing charter of the borough?

20,858. Yes; you said you would look for it and furnish us with a copy?—I will do so.

JOHN PACK sworn and examined.

J. Pack.

20,859. (Mr. Longe.) What is your occupation?—I am now living at the "Globe" hotel, Newton.

20,860. When were you last in Totnes?—I left there last Christmas.

20,861. Had you ever been a voter there?—No.

20,862. Are you any relation to James or Thomas Pack?—To Thomas Pack.

20,863. What relation is he of yours?—An uncle of mine.

20,864. You are no relation to James Pack?—None whatever.

20,865. When you were in Totnes before what was your employment?—I was boots and conductor of the 'bus at the "Seven Stars."

20,866. How long had you been there?—I was taken on in April 1859; I had lived there previous to that.

20,867. You had been there during several of the elections?—Yes; the first election when I was there was Mackenzie's.

20,868. At Mackenzie's election were you in the secrets of the hotel with regard to what was going on at election times?—No, in none whatever.

20,869. But the boots is an important man at the hotel?—I was only under boots then.

20,870. At that election you knew the gentlemen who were staying at the hotel?—No, I did not.

20,871. You knew the gentlemen who were staying in the different rooms?—At Mackenzie's time, I recollect Mr. Mackenzie very well.

20,872. Do you remember a strange gentleman being down there then?—I remember there were two or three there, but I cannot remember who they were.

20,873. Was it your impression that any of these strange gentlemen were engaged in managing the money matters of the election?—That I cannot say.

20,874. The next election was in 1859, when Mr. Dunn came down here, do you remember that period?—Yes.

20,875. Do you remember at that time any strange persons being down here who were supposed to be engaged in money matters?—Yes; I remember a gentleman and his wife being down here then.

20,876. He had brought his wife with him on that occasion?—Yes.

20,877. Was this person whom you have spoken of engaged in paying the money?—I cannot say whether he was engaged in paying money or not.

20,878. But was that your notion? He came there and kept himself rather retired; his name was not known, I suppose?—His name was not known.

20,879. His name was kept from you?—Yes.

20,880. Do you know what was the number of his room?—No. 9.

20,881. Was that a sitting room?—Yes, and there was a bed room adjoining to it, No. 5.

20,882. How did you speak of him; how was he called at the hotel?—We used to call him "No. 9 gent.;" I did not know his name.

20,883. Where you ever asked to show anybody to No. 9?—No.

20,884. Then how was No. 9 found out. Supposing that people wanted to see "No. 9 gent.," how did they find him out?—I do not recollect showing anyone there myself; I used to be engaged pretty well about the 'bus.

20,885. In 1862, when Mr. Dent was there, towards the close of the year, during that time had you one of those gentlemen there then?—No; I do not recollect any one in particular; I recollect Mr. Mitchell being there.

20,886. You mean with Mr. Dent?—Yes.

20,887. In 1863 was there anyone down there then; there was a good deal of money going about at that time?—Well it is a long time ago.

20,888. We will go back to 1862. Mr. Dent did not then go to the poll?—No.

20,889. Do not you remember Screach having something to do with electioneering matters then?—I recollect seeing him there.

20,890. Were you not sent to Screach?—No.

20,891. Were you not sent to tell him that there was some gentleman wanted to see him at the "Stars"?—I used to go over there occasionally.

20,892. Had you not used to be sent with messages from the "Stars" to young Screach?—Yes.

20,893. Were they put on a bit of paper, or how were they communicated?—I recollect going over there one day and telling Screach that he was wanted at the "Stars."

20,894. When was that?—That was in 1862.

20,895. Who was it that sent you?—Sometimes one would come and sometimes another would come with a message. I was acting only as boots.

20,896. Do you remember the money man being down in 1859?—I recollect him very well.

20,897. Do not you remember there being a man of that kind down there in 1862?—No, I cannot recollect.

20,898. Who sent you to Screach, do you recollect?—Either Mr. Mitchell, or Mr. Edmonds, or some of them. I was sent to various people with messages.

20,899. At the election of 1863, do not you remember a man being there?—Yes, I recollect a gentleman sleeping there then. According to the best of my remembrance the gentleman who was sleeping there then was thought to be Mr. Dent's brother; I considered him to be so.

20,900. You do not mean Mr. Mitchell?—No, it was someone in addition to Mr. Mitchell; we called him Captain Dent, I think that he slept in No. 8.

20,901. Had not you some tolerably good notion of what he was about?—No, none whatever.

20,902. You did not know that he had anything to do with money matters?—No, that is what I cannot say; I recollect his staying there, and I could swear to the gentleman if I were to see him again.

20,903. In former elections do you remember a man who was engaged in passing over the money?—Yes, that was in 1859; and I have reason to recollect him.

20,904. Why have you reason to recollect him?—Because he paid me very well for my services.

20,905. How much did he give you, can you tell us?—I do not recollect.

20,906. How much was it, as much as 5*l.*?—No; it was only for my services.

20,907. Was it half-a-sovereign?—I think that is what he gave me.

20,908. Did he employ you to go and see people?—No.

20,909. Then what did he pay you for?—I attended to him as boots.

20,910. And you were in his secrets?—No.

20,911. Then how do you know that he was engaged in paying money?—I heard so at the time; I was taken into the service just at the time of the election.

20,912. Did this man go by the name of Higgins?

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

J. Pack.

Sept. 1866.

—I cannot swear what name he went by; if I could recollect I would tell you.

20,913. In 1865 were you the boots or under boots?—I was boots then.

20,914. The head man?—Yes.

20,915. How long have you left the "Stars"?—I left last Christmas.

20,916. You were employed to see persons by different people who were at the "Stars"?—I was employed once, and only once.

20,917. Were you only sent once by the committee, or by Mr. Heath, or by anyone else?—I was sent once by Mr. Edmonds.

20,918. About what time was that?—On the night of the nomination.

20,919. Who was present then?—Mr. Edmonds.

20,920. Did you see any other gentleman?—I suppose Mr. Smith as well as Mr. Edmonds sent me.

20,921. What time was this?—About 8 or 9 o'clock in the evening.

20,922. Was that the first time you were employed in anything connected with the election?—That was the first time.

20,923. You were sent to someone, to have a conversation with him, whose vote it was thought you could get?—Yes.

20,924. Who was that?—My uncle, Thomas Pack.

20,925. Whom did you tell this to, as to your getting his vote?—Mr. Edmonds.

20,926. You said if there was any money to be had, what then?—The words that I used were, "What "shall I open my mouth to him about;" he said 100*l.*

20,927. And that was at 8 o'clock on the night of the nomination?—It might have been later than that.

20,928. Where was Mr. Edmonds when you had this conversation with him?—In the "Seven Stars," on the landing of the first floor by No. 5 or No. 6; he had a conversation with Mr. Smith about it.

20,929. Did you hear that conversation, or did you see them talking?—I saw them talking, of course I did not hear what they said.

20,930. Where was Mr. Smith then?—On the landing just behind.

20,931. Was Captain Pim there then?—I do not recollect seeing Captain Pim at that time.

20,932. Was Mr. Heath there then?—No.

20,933. Any one else there?—No.

20,934. They told you to try and get your uncle's vote for 100*l.*?—Or more if I could bring him down to the "Stars."

20,935. Did you go to your uncle?—Yes.

20,936. How did you get on with him?—He would not consent.

20,937. He thought he could get more?—Yes.

20,938. Did you go back to the "Stars" and tell them?—Yes, and they told me to go and see him early in the morning.

20,939. What time did you bring back the news that you could not get him?—After 12 it was.

20,940. Did you go again in the morning?—Yes, I did.

20,941. About what time?—I went home and someone came and called me.

20,942. Who was it who called you?—I do not recollect who it was; they came to me and rattled me up, and told me Mr. Edmonds wanted to see me. I said he must wait till I came down, and I went back to bed again; I was not going to get up at that time in the morning.

20,943. Were you called up again?—Yes.

20,944. About what time was that?—Half-an-hour or an hour after.

20,945. You were again sent for by Mr. Edmonds?—Yes, by Mr. Edmonds, they told me Mr. Edmonds wanted to see me.

20,946. And did you go?—I went down about six or half-past six.

20,947. Will you tell us your own story?—I saw Mr. Edmonds.

20,948. What did he say?—He told me to go and see Pack; I went and saw him; I went into his bed room while he was in bed, and waited until he got up.

20,949. That was to get his vote?—To get him to go down to the "Stars."

20,950. When you went and saw him what did you say to him?—I told him there was money to be had. He said it was of no use.

20,951. That he had had so much offered him on the other side; was that what he meant?—No, he did not say he had had anything offered him on the other side. I think he would rather have voted on the other side for nothing.

20,952. Than have voted with you for a great deal?—Yes.

20,953. You could not persuade him, and he would not come?—No.

20,954. When Mr. Edmonds sent you on the last occasion who was present then?—Mr. Smith.

20,955. Who else was present, can you say?—I cannot recollect. It was at the bottom of the stairs leading to No. 9 that I saw Mr. Edmonds, and he told me, "Pack is of no use now;" that was about half-past 8 o'clock; I suppose after some of these gentlemen who had got money had been voting; he said, "You had better go up and tell him to accept any-"thing he can get from the other side."

20,956. And did you go up?—No, I told him to go himself.

20,957. Had you any conversation with Mr. Smith?—He told me that he meant to carry on a scrutiny, and that if he could get anyone to say that they had accepted money from the other side he would pay them.

20,958. On this last occasion do you remember any person in the hotel who could have been Mr. Mum?—No, I cannot recollect anyone; I do not believe there was anyone.

20,959. Then if anyone has taken the part of Mr. Mum it must have been either Mr. Smith or Mr. Heath?—Mr. Smith, Mr. Heath, or Mr. Edmonds, one of them. I do not believe that there was any Mr. Mum; in fact I am sure there was not.

20,960. Which Mr. Heath do you think it was? Was it either of the young Mr. Heaths who are sitting near you?—No, I should think it was the old gentleman if it was anyone. I see that Mr. Smith swears that he slept in No. 15; I have do doubt that Mr. Smith did sleep in No. 13.

20,961. I suppose no one slept there with him?—No.

20,962. Who slept in No. 18; is that not one of the servants' rooms?—No.

20,963. Is that not a good sized room?—No, it is a small room.

20,964. Is it not as large as No. 13?—No, it is not.

20,965. Does not No. 18 look out on the side of the house or into the yard?—It is not so big as No. 13.

20,966. There is a tester bed in No. 18, is there not?—I know the room very well.

20,967. There is not so much room there as in No. 13?—No.

20,968. Is it not the second door when you get to the top of the stairs and turn to the right?—No, the door right opposite you at the top of the stairs is No. 16, and then you turn to the left.

20,969. Then No. 18 is the one on the right-hand side?—No, it is not; it looks towards the stable, towards the river.

20,970. Is it not down a passage to the left?—When you get to the top of the stairs you turn to the left.

20,971. You know these rooms very well, I suppose?—Yes.

20,972. Whose room was this on the occasion of 1863 which you have been speaking of?—I do not recollect anyone in particular sleeping there.

20,973. You know the rooms down this passage?—Yes.

20,974. Are they good rooms to the left? Are the rooms given to your best customers?—No.

20,975. Second-rate?—Yes.

20,976. Do the servants sleep in those rooms?—Some of them.

20,977. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are there two eighteens? No.

20,978. (Mr. Longe.) How many rooms are there in that passage?—Colonel Dawkins' servant slept in No. 11, that is, opposite.

20,979. Not that passage; the passage where No. 17 is; the passage as you go up the stairs?—Yes, I mean that.

20,980. There are several rooms there?—Yes.

20,981. What numbers?—They are in rotation, 18, 19, and 20, and as high as 24, beginning with 17.

20,982. 16 is on the opposite staircase?—Yes.

20,983. Are all these rooms second-class rooms?—Yes.

20,984. Do you remember at that time who were in any of these rooms at that time?—I cannot recollect.

20,985. Any of the servants of the house?—The servants were in 21 and 22.

20,986. Those are rooms where any of the members of the household would have access?—No, none whatever.

20,987. They would have access without interfering with the customers?—They must go over the staircase.

20,988. Any of the Heaths or any of them might have gone into those rooms without interfering with the customers; they were not customers' rooms?—No.

20,989. (Mr. Bere.) Do you remember the lame ducks Stoyle and Foote being put up there for the night?—Yes.

20,990. What room were they put in?—I think two or three slept in No. 17.

20,991. Were you there when they were put in the cellar?—I do not recollect any being put in the cellar.

20,992. (Mr. Longe.) Do you know Mr. Frederick Evens?—Yes.

20,993. Was he much about the "Stars" at the last election?—Yes.

20,994. You saw him a great deal?—Yes.

20,995. Did you see him upstairs at Nos. 20 and 22?—No, I do not recollect seeing him there. I recollect fetching him one Sunday evening, going to inquire for him.

20,996. What Sunday evening was that?—The Sunday evening before the election.

20,997. What were you sent to him for?—I do not know; Mr. Heath wanted to see him.

20,998. Mr. Heath sent you to him?—Yes.

20,999. Where was he to come to?—To come to the "Seven Stars" to see him.

21,000. What room was he to go to?—He did not say what room he was to go to.

(Mr. Bere.) You had better stay at present; we may want you again.

EDWARD WOODLEY called and sworn.

E. Woodley.

21,001. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A mason.

21,002. How long have you lived in this town of Totnes?—I was born here.

21,003. When did you first exercise the franchise and vote for members of Parliament?—I don't know whether before Mr. Dunn's time or not.

21,004. Now with regard to Mr. Dunn's election in 1859; what did you do then?—I canvassed William Willis, and I gave him 30*l.*

21,005. That is Dunn's election?—Yes. Then I canvassed Thomas Willis, and agreed with him for 60*l.* Then on the day of the election I met Elford coming down the street, and he said he would vote for 20*l.*

21,006. From whom did you get the money?—From Mr. Edmonds.

21,007. Where did you get it?—In the little room at the "Seven Stars."

21,008. Was that paid in gold?—Yes, and I paid Elford the night after.

21,009. Were these the only persons with whom you dealt in 1859?—I think so.

21,010. You had nothing for your vote then?—No, never in my life.

21,011. Had you anything for your work?—Not a farthing.

21,012. Nor any present?—No, at the election I never got a farthing.

21,013. In 1863, that is, Dent's election, Dent and Seymour, what did you do then?—I canvassed John Chapple and gave him 40*l.*, and John Nickels, and I think his was 30*l.* Then I come to Warren, and I canvassed him, and I had a great deal of trouble with him; a great many on the other side had been electioneering, and he asked me to give him 50*l.*, and I consented to give it to him.

21,014. How did you manage to circumvent those gentlemen on the other side?—I had some buildings in Bridgetown, and when the hare is not there men crop elsewhere.

21,015. Who were the parties you used to go and see?—They used to tell me that Mr. Bourne has been here and Mr. Michelmore.

21,016. Which Mr. Michelmore?—Mr. Jeffery.

21,017. Is Warren alive?—He is dead.

21,018. Did he tell you how much he had been offered by these men?—He didn't tell me how much he had been offered.

21,019. Did he vote for you notwithstanding?—Yes, and I gave him a sovereign, I think, to pay expenses; and on the morning of the election (he agreed before) I paid him 50*l.* in my workshop.

21,020. Did you pay him before he voted?—Yes.

21,021. Did you get the money from Mr. Edmonds?—Yes, all the money.

21,022. All in gold?—Yes.

21,023. Tell me is there a man named Barter?—Yes, that's my son-in-law.

21,024. Didn't you go and see him?—I will tell you that he married my daughter and we are generally all of a family on one side. They never asked me, but I went to Mr. Edmonds knowing the situation my son-in-law and daughter were in in business, and finding I was paying so much money I made it my business to ask for something, and Mr. Edmonds I think gave me 30*l.* for him, and I carried it to the counter for my daughter, he never received it and I never knew what I was going to bring.

21,025. You did bring it?—Yes.

21,026. You didn't take it back again?—No, certainly not.

21,027. What is the christian name of your son-in-law?—James Barter; he is ill.

21,028. This Mr. Elford did he vote for you right in Dunn's time?—Yes.

21,029. Didn't you go and try him in 1863?—I might have done so, I never offered a single farthing, I never offered anything.

21,030. Did he ever tell you what he could get on the other side?—No.

21,031. Have any people told you with regard to the election of 1863 that they had any money from the other side?—No, never.

21,032. In 1865 what did you do for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—I had nothing to do with it. I've been very ill and enough to do to take care of myself.

21,033. Nothing to do with the election?—No.

21,034. Did they send you anything as a present?—No.

21,035. In fact you have been out of pocket by the transaction?—No mistake about that, worse luck.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

E. Woodley.

2 Sept. 1866.

21,036. Did you get any situation for your sons ?—No. They have all to work hard here.

21,037. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you do all this out of love to the Conservative party ?—I always did it that way.

21,038. What made you do it ?—It was my hobby.

21,039. Who set you on your hobby, Mr. Edmonds ?—When I went to vote.

21,040. What made you take all that trouble in running about for money for other people if you got nothing yourself ?—No, not to vote.

21,041. Did you get anything for going out of your way ?—Nothing at all.

E. Baker.

EDWARD BAKER recalled and examined.

21,042. (Mr. Bere.) You were here the other day and were examined ?—Yes, on Monday.

21,043. You told us about a sum of money that had been offered to you, but you did not tell us anything about your having offered a sum of money to another voter ?—Me offered money ?

21,044. Yes.—There was none, sir.

21,045. Do you know a man called John Nickells ?—Yes, sir.

21,046. Did you see him either in 1862 or 1865 about the election ?—I saw him at one time.

21,047. When was that ?—I think it was three months after, at Mr. Seymour's election.

21,048. It was for Mr. Pender, the last election ?—I think it was.

21,049. Did you go down with Mr. Dennis to see him ?—No.

21,050. What had you to do with him the last election ?—Nothing.

21,051. I will read you what he has sworn : "There "was some hint thrown out by him if he came to me. "Baker the tailor was there. I came here and Mr. "Dennis ;" you did go down to him ?—Yes, I was sent down.

21,052. Who sent you ?—I think Mr. Windeatt.

21,053. What to do ?—To come to him at the "Seymour."

21,054. What did you do when you got down ?—I asked him to come over to the "Seymour ;" he did not satisfy me whether he would or not ; Mr. Dennis passed by at the time we were talking about the election, nothing more, and then it slipped out by Mr. Windeatt.

21,055. Did you say to him if he came over to the "Seymour" he could have almost anything he wanted ?—I deny it.

21,056. Have anything in reason ?—I told him he might perhaps get a something, but what I did not know, in regard of work, that is the work he would render to the duke. A man of the name of Orridge told him he would do a good thing for himself in regard of trade, and get a good deal of money.

21,057. "Q. Did he not name any figure at all ? "A. I asked Baker whether he would give me 200*l.*, "and he said I dare say they would" ?—No such thing has ever passed ; it is a lie of his.

21,058. You never told us anything about going to see him before ?—I was sent.

21,059. Why did you not tell the whole truth the other day ?—I was not asked.

21,060. You were not bound to conceal everything you were not asked ?—This is the election before. What I told you about was the last election.

21,061. You were asked about 1863 too, and "about any other election," whether you knew anything about that, was this when Mr. Dent stood against Mr. Pender ?—I think it was 1862. I do not want to conceal anything, but to tell you the truth.

21,062. What do you know about the election of 1862 besides this, were you sent by anybody else to Mr. Windeatt ?—No, I was over at the "Seymour," and three or four were there.

21,063. Who were they ?—Mr. Worthy, Mr. Richard Angel, and me.

21,064. Who else ?—Mr. Trotman.

21,065. Did Mr. Windeatt, jun. send you out to different people ?—No, anywhere where he wanted to send I used to go, with the telegraph from the "Seymour" to the station, anywhere where he liked to send me.

21,066. How many telegraphic messages did you take at that time ?—I cannot tell.

21,067. Used you to write them out at the telegraph office ?—They were brought to me by the servants.

21,068. In an envelope, sealed up or open ?—I believe they were.

21,069. What were they brought in, in an envelope or sealed up ?—I think they were sealed up.

21,070. Did you ever know what persons were telegraphed to or not ?—No, I know nothing about that.

21,071. Did Mr. Windeatt send you to anybody else ?—Not at that election.

21,072. Did you hear that he sent Trotman, or Worthy, or Angel, or any other people ?—Many people at different times.

21,073. Take Worthy ; to whom did he send Worthy ?—I think he went over to the blacksmith, Nickells.

21,074. Was it after you went or before ?—I cannot say.

21,075. What made Mr. Windeatt send you to Mr. Nickells ?—I do not know ; I was acquainted with Nickells.

21,076. Is "coming down to the 'Seymour'" the same meaning as "coming to the 'Seymour' hotel" ?—The same meaning.

21,077. When a man "comes in" he is supposed to be pretty sure to vote for the party ?—Yes.

21,078. And to receive a remuneration for voting ?—I do not know.

21,079. Did you receive anything ?—No.

21,080. Did you offer any voter anything in 1862 ?—What election is that ?

21,081. Pender and Dent ?—No.

21,082. In 1863 did you offer anybody money ?—When is that ?

21,083. Seymour and Dent ?—No.

21,084. Were you not one of the Liberal messengers then ?—Yes.

21,085. Are you sure you did not go and see people when you were sent for by Mr. Windeatt to see people ?—No, sir, it was Mr. Mills' election I was there.

21,086. That was in 1859 ?—Yes.

21,087. When Mills and Dunn stood ?—Yes.

21,088. What did you do at that election ?—That was all ; I was sent by the different parties where they wanted to send me, after carrying different things, letters and one thing and another.

21,089. Did they send you to any person with a parcel ?—I carried it to one man.

21,090. Who was that ?—John Huxham.

21,091. How much money was that ?—30*l.*

21,092. Who gave to you the money ?—I went into the "Seymour" and took it up in the room on the morning of the election.

21,093. Which room ?—The room on the right-hand side passing over the bridge.

21,094. As you come in at the front door ?—The room in the right-hand passage.

21,095. There were two rooms at the end ?—Yes, the third room down on the right.

21,096. Who was sitting there ?—No one at all.

21,097. Who told you to go to get the money ?—I met a gentleman in the passage, I followed him ; he opened the door and pointed his finger over to it, I went down and took the money up.

21,098. How did you know you were to take it to

John Huxham?—Because he had told me to get him some money.

21,099. Whom had he asked?—I think the committee.

21,100. Who were they?—Mr. Windeatt, Mr Parnell, and I think Mr. Fogwill. I cannot recollect.

21,101. Either of the two Michelmores?—Yes.

21,102. Which?—Mr. Jeffery.

21,103. Mr. Chaster, was he there?—I do not recollect.

21,104. Mr. Cuming, was he one?—I believe he was.

21,105. Mr. Condy was there?—I will not say. Huxham came to me and asked if I could get him a little money; he had been disappointed by the party.

21,106. The other side?—No, the same side; he never voted for the Tory party; he asked me for 5*l.*, as he was deceived. He asked me whether I could get him a little money. "I will put it into your "hands if you can get me a little money." I said, "Why "do you not apply to the other party." He said, "They "have deceived me twice, and by that means I shall "not ask them, I shall put it into your hands." I asked what he wanted. He says, "Get me what you can, "10*l.*;" I said, "Do you not mean to have more, you "may as well have more." He says, "Get me what "you can, I will leave it in your hands." I got him 30*l.*

21,107. You told the committee he wanted 30*l.*?—I told some of the party he wanted money, and they said it would be all right in the morning; I went in the morning, was shown into the room, took the money up and put it into my pocket.

21,108. Who was the person who showed it to you?—Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore.

21,109. Is he the only person that managed in 1859?—That is the only person.

21,110. In 1865 what did you do, at the last election, Dawkins and Pim?—I did nothing then.

21,111. You did not do anything against them?—No, nothing.

21,112. Did you see the committee in 1863 on the Liberal side? Who were the committee in 1863?—I cannot tell you now. I had nothing to do with it.

21,113. Did you not see in 1865, although you voted for Dawkins and Pim, somebody on the other side of the question?—No one.

21,114. Did you not see Mr. Punchard?—Yes.

21,115. Did you not talk about the election?—He came and asked me, I told him no.

21,116. When Mr. Huxham told you he had been deceived by the Liberals what name did he mention, Mr. Parnell?—That was the name.

21,117. Did not he also mention the name of Mr. John Elliott?—No.

21,118. Did you see Mr. John Elliott at the last election, talk to him about voting?—No, I know nothing about it.

21,119. Did you not see him?—No.

21,120. Nor talked to him at all?—No, nor he to me.

21,121. Is there anything else about any of the elections that you wish to be explained?—No, they set me on merely as a messenger; I know nothing more about it.

THOMAS BLANK sworn and examined. T. Blank.

21,122. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A boot and shoe maker.

21,123. How long have you had a vote for Totnes? 12 or 13 years.

21,124. You made a pretty good thing of it altogether?—No, sir; nothing great.

21,125. When did you first vote?—For Mackenzie.

21,126. In 1857?—I do not know what time it was, that was the man.

21,127. Mackenzie and the other gentleman?—I only voted for one.

21,128. Did you plump or did you split your vote?—I plumped.

21,129. What did you get for that?—Nothing.

21,130. You gave your plumper to Mr. Mackenzie for nothing?—I did so.

21,131. Were you promised anything?—No.

21,132. You were inexperienced at that time?—No.

21,133. There was not anybody to offer money?—No.

21,134. Did they offer your wife any?—My wife had got nothing to do with me then.

21,135. I hope you do not mean that you have separated?—No. I do exactly as I like, and she does not interfere with me at all.

21,136. Does she do as she likes at all?—Yes.

21,137. You both did as you liked in 1857 and got nothing between you; you did not like it?—No.

21,138. In 1859 did you vote?—For Mr. Dunn I did.

21,139. Do you always vote for the Conservatives?—Not always, I was always Liberal.

21,140. How came you to vote for Mackenzie in 1857, he was a Tory? You got no money paid for voting for Mackenzie; tell us the reason, there must been something?—I was tried on the other side, and I considered I was not paid enough.

21,141. What did they pay you for your work?—For my work?

21,142. Yes?—I had got to look after the men.

21,143. That was in Mackenzie's time?—No, in Mills' time.

21,144. When you voted for Mackenzie?—I had nothing to do with it then. Mr. Bryett came to me and said he wished me to vote for Mackenzie.

21,145. What was Mr. Bryett's influence over you?—He pressed me very hard.

21,146. Any money inducement?—No, nothing of the sort.

21,147. What form of inducement had the effect upon you to convert you?—I do not know.

21,148. Tell us what he said?—He came to me and wished me to vote for Mackenzie.

21,149. What reason did he give you?—He did not give me any reason at all.

21,150. You are a great friend of Mr. Bryett's?—No.

21,151. What, did he offer you to vote against your own party, and get nothing for it?—I have done so.

21,152. What did Mr. Bryett promise you?—He did not promise me anything.

21,153. Did he say you should have anything?—No.

21,154. Anything about your house?—No, he has nothing to do with my house.

21,155. What was the influence which made you turn against your own friends?—I do not know that I have done it.

21,156. No reason at all?—The only reason was I was hired for the election generally, looking after the men.

21,157. In 1862 you were hired?—Yes; I consider I was not paid enough.

21,158. What were you paid?—I cannot tell you exactly, it might be 15*s.* or 16*s.*

21,159. What, did you think you ought to have 15*l.* or 16*l.*?—No, a sovereign I thought.

21,160. And because you did not get a sovereign in 1852, Mr. Bryett persuaded you to vote for the Tories in 1857?—Yes.

21,161. Did you vote for Dunn?—I did.

21,162. Who persuaded you to vote for Dunn, being a Liberal; you were a Liberal and voted for the Tories again?—I did then.

21,163. How is that?—I am a Liberal now, and always was.

21,164. How came you to vote for Dunn? Who canvassed you?—I think they all came to me, all the candidates; I did not promise anyone.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

T. Blank.

12 Sept. 1866.

21,165. Did Frederick Evens come amongst others?—Yes, he did.

21,166. Was his canvassing of a more cogent order than the other?—It might be so.

21,167. What did he promise you for your vote?—He stated he would get me 60*l.* I saw no paper.

21,168. Was it not 40*l.*?—No.

21,169. What was it he gave you?—He never gave me anything that election.

21,170. What did he give your wife?—Nothing at all.

21,171. What did you get for voting at that election?—There was a gentleman came one evening after I was gone to bed, and I did not know who he was; I came down dressed, and that was the gentleman that came with Mr. Evens.

21,172. Mr. Evens introduced you to the gentleman?—Yes, he was a stranger to me, I do not know who he was; he was there talking when Evens went away. I opened the door and Evens went away, and then that gentlemen went away. I opened the door and the gentlemen was left behind by himself.

21,173. What did Evens say as he was going away, did he tell you to go back to the gentleman?—No, I went back to the gentleman and he went away. Then I went to bed.

21,174. Did he leave anything behind him?—I did not see anything that night; next morning I saw eleven 5*l.* notes, I picked them up in the kitchen.

21,175. Do you know how they got there?—No, I cannot tell anything about that.

21,176. Had anybody else been in the house but Evens and the gentleman?—Not that I know of.

21,177. I suppose you took care to be down first, before your wife?—I am mostly down first.

21,178. You were not surprised to find them, were you?—I thought I should see something the night before.

21,179. Did that gentlemen tell you to look out for a surprise?—No.

21,180. What did he tell you to do?—He wished me good night and went away.

21,181. What made you think you were going to find the notes there?—When I came down the next morning I was looking about, and I saw the notes thrown in behind some stool in the corner.

21,182. Had you suggested where they might be left?—No.

21,183. It was not Mr. Evens who gave you the notes?—No, he did not.

21,184. That was in 1859?—Yes.

21,185. It was 55*l.* you got?—55*l.*

21,186. Did you get anything from the other side?—No.

21,187. Did they tempt you?—No; they never came to me after they canvassed me first.

21,188. They thought it was of no use to canvass you?—It was of no use coming to me.

21,189. Unless they held out an inducement?—No.

21,190. In 1862 how did you vote, when Dent retired?—I did not vote at all.

21,191. Had you promised to vote for Dent?—No.

21,192. Who canvassed you that time?—All the candidates, I believe. I did not promise anyone; I never promise till I go and poll; no one.

21,193. In 1859 had you not promised to vote when these eleven 5*l.* notes were left for you?—No, I had not promised.

21,194. It was before the election?—I did not promise.

21,195. What do you mean, when you once passed your word you never went back from it?—I passed my word that I would not vote, and when it came to the push I did not vote.

21,196. Had you passed your word in 1859 that you would not vote for anybody but Mr. Dunn?—I never passed my word at all.

21,197. Had you passed your word to Mr. Dunn?—No, I did not.

21,198. Did you not promise also in 1862?—No.

21,199. In fact you kept in the market on the list?—I do not know about the market.

21,200. How do you mean by voting in 1862 when Dent retired?—I do not know; I did not make up my mind.

21,201. Had anybody promised you to vote for Dent in 1862?—No one.

21,202. When Mr. Dent retired, if you had gone to the poll what were you promised?—Nothing.

21,202*. Had not Mr. Screach been at you?—Not then.

21,203. Not in 1862?—No one.

21,204. Had Mr. Pender been with you, or had the Liberals?—There is an action between us.

21,205. You have told us about 1859, when you got eleven 5*l.* notes for Dent; then came the next one between Pender and Dent; did you get anything from Mr. Pender's people?—No.

21,206. Did you not get a 5*l.* note after the election?—Not a penny.

21,207. Do you remember getting 5*l.* in the same mysterious way about the latter end of 1862?—No, sir.

21,208. You are sure?—I am.

21,209. Did Evens give you anything?—When, Dent's election?

21,210. No, Dent and Pender?—No one.

21,211. In 1863, who canvassed you then?—Mr. Evens.

21,212. Did you promise to vote then?—No.

21,213. You did not pass your word at all?—No, I do not think I did.

21,214. Was not that the first time you passed your word?—I will not be certain whether I did or no.

21,215. Did you promise Evens to vote for Dent?—No, I did not.

21,216. What did he give you?—He gave me 30*l.*

21,217. Had he not said anything to you about 100*l.*?—There is 40*l.* besides that; he would have offered me 40*l.*; it was but 30*l.*; he brought me 20*l.* first; he said, "There is 20*l.*," and I said, "I shall "not take it;" and he said, "I meant to bring you "down 10*l.*" That was to vote for Dent.

21,218. What did they offer you to vote for Seymour?—Nothing.

21,219. Did they canvass you?—They canvassed me.

21,220. Did they tell you there was money going at the "Seymour Arms"?—I always voted the other way.

21,221. Did you vote for Dent?—I did vote for Dent.

21,222. Did you get anybody else to vote for Dent?—No.

21,223. Were you sent to give any money to anybody else?—No one.

21,224. In 1865, who canvassed you then?—All four.

21,225. Did you promise?—No.

21,226. You did not promise any of them?—Not one.

21,227. For whom did you vote?—For Seymour and Pender.

21,228. Had not Mr. Screach been to you at that time?—He came up to me when I was at work the same day; he came up to me and said if I went down it would be 150*l.* for me.

21,229. Where?—Down at the "Stars," and I went down.

21,230. That was old Screach?—That was old Screach.

21,231. Afterwards did Frederick Evens say anything to you?—No, before that.

21,232. What did he say?—He came to me; I would not promise him; I told him I would have nothing at all to do with it.

21,233. Why would you not have anything to do with him?—Because I did not like the man.

21,234. Whom did you not like, Dawkins and Pim?—I did not like Mr. Evens.

21,235. What did he say about giving 100*l.*?—He offered me 100*l.* to vote at the election. I told him that I would have nothing to do with it.

21,236. You did not promise at all?—No.

21,237. Had you promised Pender and Seymour at that time?—No.

21,238. Afterwards old Screach came?—He came after the nomination. He said, "Old chap, I want to ' see you, I want to borrow a pair of lasts;" he said, 'I wish you would go with me and there is 150*l.* ' if you go down to the 'Stars.'" I went down to the "Stars."

21,239. Was the 150*l.* there?—No; there was none at all.

21,240. Whom did you see at the "Stars"?—I saw Screach.

21,241. Anyone else?—No one in particular at all.

21,242. You had signed the requisition, had you not?—Yes, I had.

21,243. After signing the requisition you went over to the other side?—After Screach promised me the 150*l.*

21,244. You saw old Screach?—I went down with him.

21,245. Where did you go for the 150*l.*?—He said I was to come down to the "Seven Stars," and I should have 150*l.*

21,246. Did you see old Mr. Heath?—Yes; I saw him, but he did not say anything to me.

21,247. Did you ask him?—There was not anything said about the money after I came down at all.

21,248. At what time did he call upon you?—It must be the evening of the nomination. It was almost dark when I returned home.

21,249. As nobody said anything to you about money did you not remonstrate?—I think he wanted to stop me then and kidnap me.

21,250. To make a lame duck of you?—No; I came home by myself.

21,251. Did he give you some liquor there?—Yes, he did.

21,252. "All nations"?—I do not know whether it was "all nations" or not.

21,253. He did not give you enough to keep you in?—I was careful over that.

21,254. You got a little business at the "Seymour Arms"?—No; came home to my own house and I went to bed; there was some person sent up from the "Seven Stars" after that.

21,255. What didhe offer you?—He came up from the "Stars." I was gone to bed.

21,256. Did you see him?—No.

21,257. Did your wife?—No one; I came out on the stairs and he said, "Here, I want you to go down to "the 'Stars' directly with me." I do not know who it was.

21,258. What time was this?—In the night or the evening. I told them if anybody wanted me they must come where I was.

21,259. Did somebody come?—No; they did not come.

21,260. They left you alone?—No.

21,261. Did you have the 150*l.*?—I did not get it.

21,262. Did you go to Seymour and Pender's people and ask them to make it up to you?—No, I did not.

21,263. Did they come to you for Seymour and Pender?—The next morning Mr. Searle came to me and asked if I would go for a ride.

21,264. Thomas Jacob Searle?—Yes.

21,265. Where did you go for a ride?—He took me down on the plains.

21,266. What did you go and ride in, a cart or a fly?—A fly.

21,267. When you got there what did you do?—Voted for Pender and Seymour.

21,268. Did he give you a present afterwards?—No.

21,269. Do you mean you never got work after the election?—No.

21,270. Did Mr. Searle tell you where to find something?—No; he never said any word about money at all.

21,271. (Mr. Bere.) Did you give evidence to the solicitor against the petition who got it up; we have your evidence?—The evidence here I gave to him.

21,272. In your evidence you said Searle told you you would find something under the carpet. You did not find something under the carpet?—No.

21,273. Do you know whether Mr. Searle's evidence was taken?—I know he took it.

21,274. If he swears he told you you would find something under the carpet it is untrue?—Yes.

21,275. What did you get for voting at the last election?—I did not get anything.

21,276. Have you had nothing given to you since the last election?—No.

21,277. Not a 5*l.* note ever?—I had 5*l.* to go up to London, but I was never called.

21,278. What solicitor took your evidence before you went to London?—Mr. Tucker.

21,279. Did you not tell Mr. Tucker that Mr. Searle had told you you would find something under the carpet?—No, never; Mr. Tucker asked me.

21,280. Try and recollect what it was you told Mr. Tucker; did he come here to you?—No. I heard he was going to London, and I was served with a warrant or whatever you call it.

21,281. Who served the Speaker's warrant on you? Mr. Hill.

21,282. You were going to London?—Yes.

21,283. Where did Mr. Tucker take down your evidence?—Down at Mr. Searle's.

21,284. Was Mr. Searle present whilst it was being taken?—He was.

21,285. What did he say?—Mr. Tucker asked me whether I paid anything; I told him no. He asked me whether I had offered any person anything; I told him no.

21,286. Did you ask him about Mr. Searle saying who put some money under the carpet?—I never said a word to Mr. Searle about it.

21,287. How long were you up there?—I went away on Monday morning and returned on Friday morning.

21,288. What did you get first?—I got 5*l.*, and 3*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.* afterwards.

21,289. You paid all your expenses to London?—Yes.

21,290. And all your travelling expenses?—I paid them myself.

21,291. Out of the 5*l.*?—Yes.

21,292. Both ways?—Both ways.

21,293. Did not Mr. Tucker tell you that Searle had said he had promised you money for your vote, and that he told you where you were to find it?—He did not say any such thing.

21,294. That you mean to say?—Yes.

21,295. When you went into the fly what did Searle say to you?—He did not know which way I was going to vote.

21,296. He said he was going to take you for a drive?—Yes.

21,297. He did not say where he was going to?—No.

21,298. How far were you from the Plains?—My house is at the top of town, that is at the bottom.

21,299. You were talking about the election going on?—Hardly a word.

21,300. What did Searle say?—"I hope you will "not vote against us."

21,301. And what did you say?—I said, "You will "see when I come down."

21,302. How long was it before you did vote?—I went right down into the booth.

21,303. Between the time of your saying so and your voting what had been said to you to make you vote for Mr. Pender?—There was nothing said.

21,304. What did he promise you?—Nothing.

21,305. What did he give you?—Nothing.

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

T. Blank.

12 Sept. 1866.

21,306. Did he tell you where to find anything?—No.

21,307. Did he say anything to you about money? I do not remember.

21,308. You do not recollect a word being said that it would be as well for you if you voted on their side as on the other?—He did not say anything of the kind.

21,309. He asked you not to vote against them; did he give you any reason why you should vote for them?—No.

21,310. What did he say about money?—He said nothing about money.

21,311. Nor about the price of your vote?—No.

21,312. Or about anything being made right after the election?—No, nothing of the kind.

21,313. What did he say to you about voting?—He only asked me to vote for Pender and Seymour.

21,314. On your oath did he not tell you that you should have anything for so doing?—No.

21,315. Did he ask you what you had been promised on the other side?—I dare say he had heard that.

21,316. Did you tell him you had been promised 150*l.*, and had not been able to get it?—No.

21,317. And he thought the other side had behaved ill to you?—No.

21,318. What did he say of that?—Not a word about it. I do not think he knew that I had been offered money on the other side.

21,319. What sum did he name to you?—He did not name any sum at all.

21,320. Did he not promise you any money for your vote?—No.

21,321. Or that you should be remembered after the election?—No.

21,322. Did he say anything at all about it?—No.

21,323. Did you ever find any money after the election?—No.

21,324. Or did any person show you any?—No.

21,325. Did he tell you what other people had got?—No.

21,326. Or did you know the price?—No.

21,327. You at first said you were a Liberal and always voted for the Conservatives when you were paid, what made you vote for the Liberals without being paid?—Screach came to me and promised me 150*l.*, that was the reason.

21,328. Did you get anything more for voting for the Liberals?—I did not get anything.

21,329. You have not had a farthing either before or since, or up to this time?—No.

21,330. Has Searle talked to you about this matter?—No, not a word.

21,331. Or Mr. Parnell?—I have only seen him in the street.

21,332. Have you seen any one on the Liberal side?—No.

21,333. Did you tell Harris you had always had money, and would not vote without it?—No, nothing of the kind.

21,334. You had always had money?—No, the first election that I voted I had no money.

21,335. You remember the municipal elections in 1864?—Yes.

21,336. Whom did you vote for then?—I do not know.

21,337. The Liberals or the Conservatives?—The last time I voted in the council I was for the Liberals.

21,338. Had you not promised Mr. Edmonds you would vote for the Conservatives?—No, I did not; he came to me and I said that I would not vote for them.

21,339. Was he not going to give you a pound on that occasion?—I told him I would not vote for them; I asked him 2*l.* and he said he would not give it to me. That is how it was that on the last occasion I voted against them. I told him that they had promised me 2*l.*; I asked him about that and he said that was right. That was when he canvassed me for the last election, and I told him I would have nothing to do with him.

T. Lampen.

THOMAS LAMPEN sworn and examined.

21,340. (Mr. Bere.) How old are you?—I am 83.

21,341. You voted for Baldwin in 1839?—Yes, I did.

21,342. Did you get anything for voting for Baldwin?—No, never in my life; I always plumped for him.

21,343. When did you first get any money for your vote?—I never had any at all.

21,344. Nor your wife?—No.

21,345. Do not you remember when Mr. Petre was standing here?—Very well indeed.

21,346. You remember Mr. Petre and his agent coming round to you?—Yes, they came and offered me 50*l.*, and if I had given the two votes I should have had 100*l.* Mr. Teed was one of the candidates. They went over to Bridgetown, and there they compromised the thing; there was no election.

21,347. Do you remember their going over to Mr. Tracey's?—Yes.

21,348. Were you there yourself?—No.

21,349. You heard of it afterwards?—Yes.

21,350. You never saw the paper?—No, I never did.

21,351. On the last occasion, when Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim stood, did you see Mr. George Heath and Mr. John Heath?—Yes.

21,352. What did you say to them?—I was on the bridge, where I generally go when it is fine weather, and I went into the "Seven Stars," and John Heath said, "Neighbour, have you seen my son George," I said, "No; I am an old man and I should think of "having a little money this time if there was any "going." They talked about 25*l.* for each vote. Mr. Edmonds said I talked very high, and John Heath said to me, slapping his hand on my shoulder, "You shall have it;" but I never had a farthing.

21,353. They behaved very badly to you, I suppose you thought?—I thought they did to an old man like me.

21,354. Is that all you know about it?—Yes.

21,355. Did you ever ask him for it?—I told him about it several times.

21,356. You talked to him about your not getting it?—He told me several times that it could not be had; I told him that they had behaved very badly to me not to get me my money as they had promised me.

21,357. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had any other voters told you they thought he had kept their money from them?—Not anyone else.

21,358. Did anyone come to you on the other side?—Mr. Pender came.

21,359. And Mr. Michelmore?—No, he did not come.

21,360. Or Mr. Parnell?—No.

21,361. Did they offer you anything on Mr. Pender's side?—No; only my son told me he thought if I had voted on Pender's side that I might have got a little.

21,362. What is your son's name?—Thomas Lampen.

21,363. How old is he?—40 or 50.

21,364. How came you to talk about this?—The election was going on.

21,365. Has your son got a vote?—No.

21,366. Did he get anything for talking to you?—That I cannot say.

21,367. Has he ever told you that?—No.

21,368. You do not think that it was he who kept your money instead of Mr. Heath?—He did not go to Mr. Heath's, he was on the Whig side.

21,369. He has not talked to you anything about it?—He has talked to me some three or four times.

21,370. Was he not sent to do so by someone upon that side?—That I cannot say.

21,371. Did he not say that Mr. Windeatt had sent him to call on you?—That I cannot say.

21,372. He came some three or four times, did he not?—My son did.

21,373. Does your son live with you?—No. He was here ten minutes ago.

21,374. Is he in Court now?—No.

21,375. When was the first time you ever voted?—I voted for Cornish and Parrott.

21,376. There was no money going in those days?—Not so much.

21,377. When did you first hear of any money going about in Totnes; how long ago?—When Baldwin and Teed put up in 1841.

21,378. And I suppose it has been going about pretty steadily ever since?—Yes.

21,379. What did Mr. Pender say when he called on you?—He said, "Cannot you give me a vote." I told him I could not; he said, "You have got one "vote to part with;" I said, "I cannot vote on your "side, I am a regular Tory and I cannot go away "from it."

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

T. Lampen.

12 Sept. 1866.

21,380. Whom had you promised to vote for?—For Colonel Dawkins.

21,381. Did you see Captain Pim afterwards?—Yes.

21,382. What did you tell him?—I did not promise him.

21,383. How came you to keep your vote back; they never gave you anything for it?—No. I wanted to have 50*l.*, and Mr. John Heath told me I should have every farthing of it.

21,384. And you think he owes you that to this day?—I do.

21,385. You do not know any other voter whom he has not paid?—That I cannot say.

21,386. Do you think he got the money you were to have?—I do not know; it is most likely.

THOMAS DENNIS sworn and examined.

T. Dennis.

21,387. (Mr. Longe.) What is your occupation?—A fly proprietor.

21,388. Do you belong to any particular hotel?—No; only for myself.

21,389. How long have you had a vote?—At the last election.

21,390. That was the first vote?—Yes.

21,391. How did you get that vote?—By renting a field of Mr. Chaster's.

21,392. Who was the landlord, was it Mr. Chaster's field?—Yes.

21,393. Which way did you vote at the last election?—For Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

21,394. Who canvassed you for your vote first, Mr. Chaster?—No, he did not at all. I had left the field then. I left at Lady-day and the election was not till July.

21,395. You held the field then?—I left the field, the term was up at Lady-day and the election was in July.

21,396. You had given up the field?—Yes.

21,397. Who canvassed you for the Conservatives?—The one I saw was Captain Pim. I do not know the day, but it was about Tuesday I think.

21,398. Did Captain Pim come alone?—Yes.

21,399. Surely someone was with him?—There was no one with him. I was taking a glass of beer at the "Oxford Arms," and that was the only place I saw him.

21,400. What was the result; did you say you would vote for him?—He solicited my vote and I said, "I could not promise," but I said, "I promise "you one thing, I will not vote against you;" and he said, "Thank you."

21,401. Then did Narramore call on you?—Yes. That was the same day, the same afternoon. It was in the same place, the same house.

21,402. What house was that?—The "Oxford Arms;" Mr. Goodman's.

21,403. Is that where Captain Pim saw you?—Yes, where he asked me for my vote.

21,404. Was Mr. Narramore with Captain Pim?—No.

21,405. How long afterwards was it that Narramore came?—I do not know, it might be half an hour or a hour; it was in the course of the afternoon.

21,406. Did Narramore say that he had come from Captain Pim?—No.

21,407. Whom did he come from?—I do not know.

21,408. What did he say?—He said he wanted to speak to me and I went out of the parlour to another room by ourselves, and he said, "Have you promised "your vote?" and I said, "I have not to no one." I said, "I do as I like with my vote, I have no master "to please or mistress to affront;" and he said, "If "you have not promised your vote, will you vote for "our side?" and I said, "I cannot tell you what I "shall do, but I don't think I shall go against you "altogether." Then we had a talk, and he said, "I "will give you 70*l.* to vote for Colonel Dawkins." And I said, "Very well, we will talk about that "another day." I went away and he followed me. I saw him in the evening as we went into the passage to go into the room where we came from, and he said, "If you will give us both I will give you 100*l.*" I said, "Thank you, I will see you again;" and he said "You will not promise your vote till to-morrow." I said, "If I passed my word I would not," and the next day he came again and said, "Have you "promised?" "No." Then he said, "If you are as "good as your word, I am as good as mine;" and I said, "I will take you at your word." And then he gave me 100*l.* The second day, the nomination day, about 7 o'clock, he came and looked for me, and I said "All right, I will give you my vote." I didn't ask him for anything, he offered me 100*l.* and I took it.

21,409. He gave you the 100*l.*?—Yes.

21,410. And you gave him this piece of paper?—Yes.

21,411. Did you have any offers from anyone else, did anyone canvass you on the other side?—I was canvassed by Mr. Pender.

21,412. When was that?—The 5th of July that was.

21,413. That is very early?—That was the day of the month I think, because he bought some salmon of me the same day.

21,414. What did he give you a pound?—About fifteen pence I think.

21,415. How many pounds was it?—I cannot tell, about 12 or 14 pounds.

21,416. (Mr. Bere.) Did you get 19*s.* for it?—No, I don't think it was, I think about 17*s.* I am not sure, but it is in the book.

21,417. (Mr. Longe.) Did you do a little canvassing. Didn't you go to Mr. Nickells?—Oh, no.

21,418. (Mr. Coleridge.) You sold your vote for 100*l.*?—No he offered it to me.

21,419. You accepted it?—He offered it to me and I accepted it.

21,420. That is all?—That was all that was said.

21,421. (Mr. Longe.) Nickells said that Dennis asked him for his vote for Mr. Pender?—No.

21,422. How many Dennises are there in Totnes?—I do not know, there is one at the head of the town; it was not me.

21,423. (Mr. Coleridge.) When you went to the "Seymour" hotel about the fish, did you see a lot of people drinking there?—Yes.

21,424. Did you have any?—Yes.

21,425. Did you pay for it?—Yes, the first glass

SEVENTEENTH DAY.

T. Dennis.

Sept. 1866.

I did, which I ordered myself, then I went into the next room and then I had some.

21,426. No one paid for anything?—I do not know that they did or did not, I did not.

21,427. What did you have in that large room without paying?—Two or three glasses of grog.

21,428. Nobody asked you to pay?—No, I offered to pay and they said it was all right, I didn't offer to pay I was sitting alongside Mr. Prout clerk to Mr. Michelmore, and when I was about to go, about 10 o'clock, I said, "Mr. Prout, I will pay my share I am "going;" and he said, "All right, there is nothing to pay."

21,429. Did you see the maid servant?—She was there attending.

21,430. She did not ask you to pay?—No, she didn't say anything to me at all.

21,431. (Mr. Bere.) When you were making this bargain with Narramore didn't you tell him that Mr. Chaster had been with you?—No, I could not, he never did.

21,432. Had anybody been on the other side?—No.

21,433. Didn't Mr. Narramore offer you 40*l.* first?—No, he offered me 70*l.*

21,434. You are quite sure?—Yes.

21,435. If Mr. Narramore said he offered you 40*l.* and you said you had been offered 70*l.* on the other side, he is wrong?—He offered 70*l.* for one and 100*l.* for two and I took him at his word.

21,436. Who paid you for the fish?—I think Mr. Charles Michelmore.

21,437. Was it 19*s.* 6*d.*?—I do not know.

21,438. When you were paid, didn't he ask you if you would have a glass of grog?—No, I asked for it; and then we went into the other room.

21,439. (Mr. Coleridge.) How did you get the fish?—I went fishing.

21,440. You had a good time of it?—No, a bad time.

21,441. (Mr. Bere.) What time were you paid for the fish?—Seven o'clock I went.

21,442. Wasn't Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour in the room?—Yes.

21,443. Wasn't Mr. Moysey the farmer there?—Yes.

21,444. Mr. Mortimer?—I couldn't tell.

21,445. Mr. Berry?—I couldn't tell, the room was full of people.

21,446. You mentioned this in the House of Commons?—I don't know.

21,447. Was Samuel Cuming there?—Yes.

21,448. The two Thomas Searles?—Yes, that was Searle the father and the young one.

21,449. And Farley of Bridgetown?—I will not say exactly about Farley. The room was full, I cannot say exactly who was there.

21,450. Venn?—Yes.

21,451. George Mitchell?—Yes.

21,452. Stanning?—I cannot say for certain.

21,453. Was John Elliott there?—He was in and out.

21,454. He was an active man?—Yes, I know the room was full, I dare say there might be 150 there.

21,455. Did you see many voters going in and out?—Yes, there is always a lot the Monday before the election.

21,456. Do you mean that nobody talked to you about your vote?—Not a single man.

21,457. Did you hear any secrets?—No, they was at one end of the room and us at the other.

21,458. Who was us?—Me and Mr. Prout sat by my side.

21,459. Do you mean to say that he did not speak to you about it?—Not a single word, he lives at Newton, not a single word; us was off from the big table.

21,460. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you hear him talk to anybody else?—No, I suppose they thought they were all going to vote on one side.

21,461. They thought you were on their side?—Yes, I went in and had a glass of grog at the bar.

21,462. Which side would you have voted for if you had had no money at all?—I should have voted for Colonel Dawkins, I had made up my mind to vote for Colonel Dawkins.

21,463. And Captain Pim?—No, I do not know that. It was for this reason I had signed the requisition and I considered it nothing but fair and just to vote for him.

21,464. You thought it fair and just that you should get 70*l.*?—No, I should have voted if I had not had a penny, exactly the same.

21,465. If they had not known of your being at the "Seymour" you would not have got the 70*l.*?—I do not know I am sure. I go there almost every day with fish.

J. Pack.

JOHN PACK recalled.

21,466. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever see the young Mr. Heath's dress themselves up at election time?—No.

21,467. Did not you tell the clerk who summoned you here this morning that you had seen the young Mr. Heath's dress themselves up?—No.

21,468. In old clothes?—Yes; going about the municipal affairs; no wig, nothing of that sort.

21,469. (Mr. Coleridge.) You were not asked anything about a wig?—I was asked this morning.

21,470. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever see either with a moustache?—No.

21,471. Or paint their faces, or anything of that sort?—No.

21,472. (Mr. Longe.) Do you know which were the two servants sleeping down the passage in the two rooms you spoke of? Which were the rooms?—21 and 22.

21,473. Those are the rooms at the end of the passage?—No; Nos. 23 and 24 is at the end of the passage.

21,474. And 21 and 22 about half way down?—Very near about.

21,475. Who occupied those two rooms?—The cook and the chamber-maid occupied one, and the other two servants they kept in the house as well.

21,476. Now who slept in 19 or 20?—I cannot recollect anyone in particular.

21,477. No. 19?—No.

21,478. No. 18? Do you remember, were they all occupied?—They was at times.

21,479. If they had been occupied, would they have been occupied by servants?—They would have been occupied by people coming to and fro.

21,480. Were those rooms they used to put gentlemen into?—Yes, we used frequently to put them in there. It is hard to say.

Crawford.

HENRY CRAWFORD sworn and examined.

21,481. (Mr. Bere.) When did you first vote for the borough?—I beg your pardon, but I wish to ask you a question before going into that matter, and that is with respect to a part of Mr. Edmonds' evidence. I asked Evens, which he denies ever that he told Mr. Edmonds, that I were a swindler. It is published in the paper and may be a mistake of the reporter.

21,482. (Mr. Bere.) What have you to complain of?—

(The Witness.) Evens denies that he ever said anything of the kind, and Mr. Edmonds says that he said it through Evens.

21,483. (Mr. Bere.) That is a matter we cannot settle ; we shall see before the end of the examination whether there is any truth in it or not.

(The Witness.) The other is whether my name is signed to the requisition for Mr. Dent.

21,484. (Mr. Bere.) You must know whether you signed it?—No, I did not, therefore I wish to know whether it's a forgery.

21,485. You are a painter and glazier ?—Yes.

21,486. And a cab-driver ?—And I have a little ground as well.

21,487. Is that the way you get your vote ?—I vote on my house.

21,488. How long have you had the cab ?—The last 15 or 16 years.

21,489. Your last new cab ?—About three years.

21,490. Does it go by the name of the Seymour Company's cab ?—I do not know; what you choose to call it.

21,491. When did you first vote for Totnes?—In 1862.

21,492. Whom did you vote for in 1862 ? — For Pender.

21,493. At that election ?—Yes.

21,494. What did you get for that ?—Nothing at all, I should think.

21,495. What had he promised to you ?—Nothing.

21,496. Do you know at that election Mr. Thomas Parnell came to you ?—No, that was in the last.

21,497. In 1862 you got nothing from Mr. Pender ?—I did not expect anything.

21,498. Though you did not expect it, did you get anything ?—No, by no means.

21,499. You did not find an envelope without a direction for your services, with a 5*l.* note in it ?—Nothing of the kind.

21,500. Did any of the others visit you ?—I was visited by the Tory party.

21,501. Who was it ? — Young John Heath ; he came and offered 30*l.* or 40*l.* for my vote ; I refused him, and told him I would not do any such thing.

21,502. That was the last time ?—I think it was ; I am not positive. There was also a young man named Thomas Welch offered me 60*l.* for a small pig not an hour old.

21,503. Why did you not take it ?—I would not sell my conscience that way.

21,504. You would only have sold your pig ?—I would not do it.

21,505. You would not agree to that temptation ?—I would not.

21,506. Thomas Welch is dead ?—No ; it was the young man I saw ; the father is dead.

21,507. Was the father employed as one of the Conservative registration agents ?—I have heard he had something to do with it.

21,508. You would not take this money for your pig ?—No.

21,509. Did you see Evens or Screach in 1862 ?—No, I did not ; not to my knowledge.

21,510. In 1863 you saw them ?—Neither of them concerning the election.

21,511. Do you know Tucker and Andrew Distin ?—Distin and Tucker both came to my place, and Mr. Tucker called to me and says "If you vote for us you "shall have 40*l.* or 50*l.*"

21,512. That was to vote for Dent ? — To vote against Pender and Seymour.

21,513. In 1863 Pender was not standing ?—You are right, Sir ; it was Seymour alone.

21,514. They offered you between 50*l.* and 60*l.* ?—I told them no, I should have nothing to do with it. Mr. Distin went out of the passage before him, and Mr. Tucker followed directly after.

21,515. Did you get anything offered ; did they come again to you ?—They never came again.

21,516. Did they send anybody ?—I do not know ; there were others who came to me.

21,517. Who came to you ?—A shop-mate of mine named George Mitchell.

21,518. What was it he offered you in 1862 ?—I voted then the Tory side.

21,519. Which side did you vote ?—I voted for the Tories, as I have always voted on that side of the question.

21,520. Do you remember George Robins Stone coming to you ?—Yes.

21,521. That was in 1863 ?—It was the last election.

21,522. Did anything else happen in 1863 ?—Not particularly about money matters.

21,523. Mitchell had got the 60*l.* to pay you, I suppose ?—Yes, he had, he had got the money to pay me, he had got it in a little bag. I told him I would not keep him hanging about the place. I could not get rid of him. I showed him I was not drove for money or destitute, and I showed him a little of my own to convince him.

21,524. Was it in gold what he had ?—All in solid sovereigns.

21,525. Even the sight of the gold did not tempt you ?—I would not be tempted for any consideration.

21,526. You did not agree with Mitchell ?—Mitchell said to me, "If you do not like that, I will go and "get 10*l.* more." I said, "You may go and get it "if you like." I merely said that by way of getting rid of him out of the house. By that time he walked off, as I would have no more to say to him.

21,527. Did you not also see George Stoyle ?—I did.

21,528. What did he say to you ?—Not a word concerning money towards the election.

21,529. What else was it, was it work ; who had been your customers before the election ?—Who had ?

21,530. The Liberals or the Conservatives ?—I work for both.

21,531. It is not usual in Totnes, is it ?—I sometimes work for both.

21,532. What did George Stoyle come about ?—He came and asked if I was going out to spend half-an-hour.

21,533. How long before the election was that ?—The nomination night.

21,534. Did you go out with him ?—I did. I said I do not mind going out half-an-hour ; my wife was ill in bed, and I did not care much about it ; but I said if I do I will return in half-an-hour. He said, I am going to the "Seymour," and I said I will go with you if you like. On my way I was followed by a crowd in passing through the Alley by the "Dartmouth" inn. They began to rattle sticks over my head, saying, "He is coming down here." When I had got towards the turnpike gate, one got me by the arm and another cotched me by the coat.

21,535. Who got you by the arm ?—I cannot say ; when I got as far as the turnpike gate, I slipped from them and ran away. I went into the "Seymour."

21,536. Where did you go there ?—I went to the big room, where many sat drinking.

21,537. Did you have a glass of grog ?—I did ; what I had paid for.

21,538. Did you see George Stoyle while you were there ?—He came up to me.

21,539. Did he talk to you about your vote ?—He never said a word to me about it.

21,540. Did nobody ever say a word to you about your vote ?—No.

21,541. How many cabs were you keeping at that time ?—Three or four.

21,542. How long had you had them ?—I had got three at work at a time.

21,543. Three horses ?—No, two mules and a horse working.

21,544. What sort of a fly was it in size ?—One would carry four people. I have two that would carry four people, and the other carries two.

21,545. How long have you had the two ?—I should think eight or ten years.

21,545. Where did you buy it ?—One at Paignton, and the other I made myself.

21,547. Are you a carriage maker ?—I did a little to it.

21,548. (Mr. Coleridge.) You bought the wheels and had a man to help you put it together ?—I hire a man sometimes, a carpenter and wheelwright, and I do a little myself.

12 Sept. 1866.

21,549. (Mr. Bere.) Soon after the election of Seymour and Dent, did you not turn out a new fly?—After Seymour and Dent, not the one that I made myself.

21,550. Did you not have a new fly?—At Seymour's election I did.

21,551. What did you give for it?—I gave 70 guineas for it.

21,552. Where did you buy it?—Of Mr. Ash, at Torquay.

21,553. Where did you get the 70 guineas?—I worked for them, as every honest man ought to do to get it.

21,554. How did you pay for it, in a cheque or gold?—40*l.* was the first payment, and then I signed three bills that the whole should be paid in nine months, and I completed them in the nine months.

21,555. Who is Mr. Ash?—A coach builder.

21,556. Has he anything to do with the election here?—Not that I am aware of.

21,557. Is his christian name William?—John Ash.

21,558. Had you got to borrow 40*l.*?—No; I worked for it, I got it honestly.

21,559. Had you got it from the bank?—No, I never keep it at the bank; what I earn I keeps by me.

21,560. You had 40*l.* of your own at that time?—Yes.

21,561. You swear that there is no truth in the story that this carriage was given to you by the Seymour party?—No truth whatever, not the least particle of it, I am confident of it; they may say what they like, but it is false report. They say so in your presence, but if a hundred thousand came and said so I should say the same.

21,562. You never received any money for your vote?—No.

21,563. Never at any time?—I have been offered by the Tory party, but never by the Liberals.

21,564. (Mr. Coleridge.) Where did you purchase your horse?—I bought the horse of a man from Dartmouth.

21,565. How much did you pay for it?—15*l.* and a large pig.

21,566. Was that the day-old pig grown into a big one?—No, I think it was a young one.

21,567. (Mr. Bere.) Now the election of 1865; did George Stoyle come to you?—Yes.

21,568. To the "Seymour" hotel at night?—I was afraid to come back in the crowd. I was in danger of my life.

21,569. Why did they set upon you?—I do not know why they should set upon me, unless they wanted to bribe me to make a market for themselves; but they had not a chance. A great many squabbles take place.

21,570. Did they make any noise when you got out of your house?—No; I intended to come back again.

21,571. How long did Stoyle stay in your house before you came out?—I think he might have been there an hour.

21,572. You knew what he was there for; he was one of the bribers on the Liberal side?—I do not know, he never bribed me; he never offered me anything, and never said a word to me.

21,573. (Mr. Longe.) Did you ever find any money accidentally?—Never in my life.

21,574. Did you have credit from Mr. Ash in consequence of any letter that was sent?—No; I had dealt with him before. I bought two carriages from Mr. Ash before that.

21,575. Do you mean to say that the whole time Stoyle was in your house he did not talk to you about your vote;—No, never a word, which way I was going to vote. I do not remember his asking such a question.

21,576. Did you not tell him Mitchell had offered you 60*l.*?—I may have done that; I would tell any person of that.

21,577. Is it a very odd transaction, you are offered 60*l.* by the Conservatives, and you refuse it; Stoyle, a Liberal agent, comes to your house, sits with you for an hour, and then you go down with him to the "Seymour Arms"?—He never offered me a penny in his life, nor the worth of it.

21,578. Did he ask you to come down to the "Seymour" to see what you could get?—No, he did not.

21,579. Do you mean to tell me you did not expect to get anything when you went down to the "Seymour"?—No.

21,580. No orders for a new fly or anything of that sort?—None that I am aware of.

21,581. Did you have any?—A boy was coming up the street and gave me a note; it was to order my fly to be on the Plains the following day.

21,582. Who sent the note?—I think it was sent by Mr. Jenkins.

21,583. Was he down at the "Seymour" hotel when you got down there?—Yes, he was.

21,584. Did you see him there?—Yes.

21,585. This is the election of 1863?—No, no, the fly I had in 1863; this was for the last election.

21,586. In 1863 when you stayed all night at the "Seymour," were you employed that election?—Not in that election.

21,587. Did they give you any work that election?—No, I did not. I do not know that I was out at all.

21,588. I do not like to ask you unpleasant questions, but you say you are a man of money; is it the fact that you had 40*l.* of your own at that time?—I had, sir.

21,589. For the horse you gave 15*l.*, and the carriage 40*l.*?—Yes; I can give you a little account of the way I got it together.

21,590. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who helped you to meet those bills?—No one assisted me never; I never borrowed a shilling of anyone. I cut a rick of hay and made 16*l.* of it.

21,591. Where did you buy the rick of hay?—I bought the grass and cut it. I sold above 20 pigs that year.

21,592. At the time Stoyle was in your house, was there not Mr. Parnell too?—Stoyle was there; he came in and sat down with me for a few minutes.

21,593. Did not Mr. Mills come in?—I do not remember seeing him.

21,594. Nor Mr. Parnell?—I did not see him to my knowledge.

21,595. Where did you see him?—Not at all at that election to my knowledge. I may have seen Mr. Parnell at the hotel, but not to have any conversation with him that I am aware of.

21,596. You saw him at the hotel?—I think I saw him at the hotel.

21,597. If you have got any accounts to show how you got the 40*l.* and the 15*l.*, we shall be glad to see them?—I have no accounts at all.

21,598. You must be here to-morrow?—I shall be very proud to be here again.

Adjourned till to-morrow at half-past 10 o'clock.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

Thursday, 13th September 1866.

Lieutenant PENDER sworn and examined.

21,599. (Mr. Bere.) Are you captain in the 25th?—No, I am lieutenant.

21,600. Where were you in 1865?—I was quartered at Preston.

21,601. Did you come here to assist your father at the election?—No, merely as a looker-on.

21,602. When did you come here?—I started from Preston four days before the election.

21,603. Is that the Saturday before the election?—The Friday or Saturday before the election.

21,604. Did you start from Preston in consequence of any communication from your father?—Not that I am aware of.

21,605. Did you stay anywhere on your way?—I stayed in London nearly a day.

21,606. Did you go to Manchester?—No.

21,607. Did you stay at your father's house in London?—No, I think it was Rawlings' hotel, Jermyn Street.

21,608. Had you any interview with your father's then secretary?—No.

21,609. You did not see him at all?—No.

21,610. Did you see the manager of the London department of Mr. Pender's business?—No.

21,611. How long had your father been down here before you started from Preston, do you know?—I think I was here first.

21,612. Did not you find your father here when you came?—I think he was here.

21,613. Had you not heard from him when he was here canvassing before you came down?—Not that I remember. I certainly heard nothing about the election.

21,614. Had you received a communication by telegraph from him?—No, not to the best of my recollection.

21,615. Did you find a letter for you in London from him?—No.

21,616. Or from anybody connected with Totnes?—No.

21,617. What was the reason you came down?—I merely came down. It was an opportunity of getting leave, and I came down to look at the election.

21,618. Was Mrs. Pender in London then or in Manchester?—I think in Wales; I am not sure.

21,619. On the Sunday, the 9th of July, did you not have a telegram from your father in London?—I certainly do not remember any telegram.

21,620. (Mr. Coleridge.) What other Pender could there have been in London to whom a telegram could be sent?—None, I should think.

21,621. (Mr. Bere.) Did you yourself telegraph to your father?—I may have done so, but I do not recollect.

21,622. Are you quite sure you did not receive a telegraphic message from him on the 9th in London?—I certainly do not remember. I will not swear I did not, but I do not remember.

21,623. Did you go to the Whitworth Ordnance Office while in London?—To the best of my recollection I did not.

21,624. Or any office with which your father is connected?—I do not know where the others are.

21,625. (Mr. Coleridge.) You are quite sure that Mrs. Pender was not at Manchester at this time?—I think not.

21,626. On the 7th July did you send a telegraph?—I think not.

21,627. There is a telegram on the 7th July, Pender to Pender, Manchester?—It could not have been me.

21,628. Would your father telegraph so to one of his clerks in Manchester?—He might have done so.

21,629. Is he in the habit of doing so?—He might have done so.

21,630. Would not he telegraph to the manager?—He would telegraph to the firm.

21,631. What is the name of the head man?—Mr. Brown is the head man, I think.

21,632. Is there a Mr. Jacks?—He is in the business.

21,633. What luggage did you bring with you from London?—To the best of my recollection a large tin box, a hat-box, and a travelling bag.

21,634. What did the large tin box contain?—I think before I came to London it was filled with clothes.

21,635. A hat-box and another small box?—Only one hat-box and a leather bag.

21,636. You stayed at Rawlings' hotel?—To the best of my recollection.

21,637. Did you leave by train on the Sunday or Monday?—I left by the night train on the Sunday.

21,638. You got here early on the Monday morning?—Yes.

21,639. How did you get to the "Seymour" hotel?—To the best of my recollection I walked with my bag.

21,640. How did you get your luggage?—It was sent with the "Seven Stars" fly.

21,641. What was the size of the tin box? Was it one of the tin boxes in which regimentals are packed?—No, much larger; to hold clothes for a month or two months.

21,642. Had you got leave for two months?—No, I think about a week or 10 days.

21,643. You had no occasion to fill the tin box to the fullest extent?—No, but I generally travel with more than I require.

21,644. Had you a portmanteau as well?—No.

21,645. You heard what the man said?—Yes.

21,646. "Q. What was his luggage?—A. There "was a tin box and portmanteau"?—No.

21,647. Who came down with you?—I was asleep till I got to the station, and then I saw a gentleman who turned out to be Mr. Murchison.

21,648. Did he go to the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

21,649. Did you see what luggage he had?—I could not tell.

21,650. Could you form any idea of the weight of your box?—When full, over 100 lbs. I have got the box with me at the "Seymour Arms."

21,651. Have you got a cover to it?—It is a canvas cover to it.

21,652. It might be mistaken for a portmanteau?—It might.

21,653. The tin would not be seen?—No. I have seen portmanteaus of the same description.

21,654. You heard the description, had you any box answering to that description?—I think not.

21,655. (Mr. Coleridge.) I will read what the boots, Beer, says: "Q. What kind of box was it?—A. As far "as I recollect it was polished wood. Q. With a "handle to it?—A. No, I think a leather strap was "buckled round it. Q. Was it covered with leather?"—A. I think not. Q. What did you think it was "when you got hold of it?—A. I thought there was "gold in it. I came back to the yard and said I had "taken a good whack of gold to the Seymour hotel. "Q. Are you sure it was not a bag?—A. It was a "box. Q. What made you think it was gold?—A. It "was so heavy; I knew it could not be wearing ap-"parel. I knew it was some metal or other weight. "(Mr. Coleridge.) Q. It might have been cartridges? "—A. It might." Was it at all like a cartridge box?—Not at all; it was a very large box.

21,656. (Mr. Bere.) Have you in your possession any box answering to that description?—None.

21,657. Had you at that time?—I had not a box in my possession at that time, or ever had, and I have not a cartridge box, because I shoot with muzzle loaders.

21,658. Did you take from London to Totnes any more luggage than you brought from Preston to London?—No, nothing more.

21,659. Did you bring anything down for your father among your luggage?—No, nothing.

21,660. Nothing at all?—Nothing at all.

21,661. Did not you go to his house in Arlington Street and ask for letters, or anything of that sort, and bring them down?—No; Arlington Street was, to the best of my recollection, shut up.

21,662. You found no parcels waiting at "Rawlings' "Hotel" for you to bring down?—None.

21,663. I put it to you plainly, did you bring down to your father a large sum of money on that night?—Certainly not.

21,664. You went to the "Seymour" hotel?—I went to the "Seymour" hotel.

21,665. How long did you stay there?—I stayed there till after the election.

21,666. During that time you lived in the same room as your father, I suppose?—Yes, we had a common sitting room, but I was very little there.

21,667. What did you do principally?—I was at Berry Pomeroy, and looking about principally.

21,668. Did you go to canvass the electors at all?—No.

21,669. Did you see any of them?—Oh, numbers of them.

21,670. Did you speak to them or ask them for their votes?—No, I do not remember asking any of them for a vote.

21,671. Did you happen, out of curiosity, to go to the big room at the "Seymour" hotel at any time?—Yes, I was there.

21,672. How often?—I should think twice before the election, and the night of the election.

21,673. That was twice the Monday morning, the day you came down, and once the next day, Tuesday?—I think it was twice or three times; I know I was there before the election, and after the election was over.

21,674. Who were in the room that you knew personally when you went in before the election? What persons who were personally known by you did you see in that big room on any occasion?—I have seen on different occasions Mr. Cuming.

21,675. Mr. Brooking Cuming, the person who acted as your father's legal adviser?—The elder one, and Mr. Michelmore.

21,676. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—Both the Mr. Michelmores and Mr. Chaster, Mr. Windeatt, the elder, the two younger Windeatts, and someone who I think is called Captain Fowle, he has a wharf close to the "Seymour Arms" hotel.

21,677 Was there anybody else you knew, not belonging to Totnes, that you saw in the room?—I think there was my father's secretary there.

21,678. Who was he?—Mr. Heald.

21,679. Do you know whether he wore a white hat with a black band?—He did; of course I would not swear, but I think he did.

21,680. At the time you were in this big room were there a large number of persons in it?—Before the election there were a fair number; after the election it was crowded.

21,681. Was there eating and drinking going on?—Yes, there was.

21,682. You say you walked about the town; did you go into any of the banks here?—No.

21,683. None of them?—I did not go into the bank here; certainly not.

21,684. No communication with any of the officials connected with the bank?—No; I know none of them, even by sight.

21,685. Then how long did you stay after the election?—I could not say the number of days. It must have been that I either went away the day or the day but one after; I am not sure.

21,686. Then you went away. Did you go back to Preston?—I returned to Preston.

21,687. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you down here more than once during the election?—The last election?

21,688. Yes.—Only once.

21,689. You did not come and go?—No.

21,690. Were you down in 1862?—No; I was abroad in 1862, at Malta.

21,691. Nor 1863?—Nor 1863.

21,692. You have not told us yet when first it was arranged that you should come down?—Oh, it was merely I arranged it myself. I think I thought I should like to see the election.

21,693. Your father knew of it?—He knew I was coming, but he did not urge me to come, or anything.

21,694. Just to clear this up, what amount of money did you bring with you in gold?—I should think I brought enough just to cover my expenses. I should think 15*l.*

21,695. Was there a large sum of money in a little travelling bag?—No.

21,696. None at all?—No.

21,697. Who is Mr. Brice, of Edinburgh, who is constantly having your father telegraph to him?—There is Mr. Brice the architect; he was to have altered Arlington Street.

21,698. Was there a Mr. Simpson in Edinburgh?—That is the doctor.

21,699. Was he attending anyone connected with you at that time?—He was attending my mother.

21,700. Who was Mr. Reed, of Sunderland?—Colonel Reed, a brother-in-law of my mother.

21,701. Who is Mr. Gibbs to whom your father telegraphed several times?—Gibb I think, is the name.

21,702. Do you know who Mr. Gibbs is to whom a telegram appears to have been sent several times?—He is, I think, a large China merchant.

21,703. There appear to have been a great many telegrams from Pender to Pender, Manchester?—Those would be all to the firm.

21,704. Pender to Hay; that, I suppose, would be Lord John Hay?—Yes.

21,705. Is your father a member of Brooke's?—He is.

21,706. Did you bring any servant down here with you?—No.

21,707. Did any person come down in the same train with you who was known to you?—The only soul whom I saw in the train was Mr. Murchison.

21,708. Was he the only person who came with you by that train to Totnes that night?—No one got into the carriage with me. I was asleep all the way down.

21,709. Did you walk up here alone?—Yes.

21,710. How did you know your way; had you ever been here before?—I was here when Mr. Seymour and my father came down to give an account of their stewardship. I think that was the year before.

21,711. Was that at the same time the dinner was given to the volunteers?—No.

21,712. Then how long ago do you say it was?—I think it was the year before.

21,713. Do you know a Mr. Hatton, of Leith?—No, I do not.

21,714. Did you see any persons in your father's room at the "Seymour Arms" besides Mr. Heald, Mr. Cuming, Mr. Chaster, Mr. Michelmore, and those you mentioned; was there any person there whose name was unknown to you?—I think I knew the faces of all of them.

21,715. Was Mr. Parnell amongst them?—I do not know him by name.

21,716. Do you know Mr. Mitchell, of Bridgetown?—I know the name, and it is very probable that I might know his face if I saw him; but I was here such a short time that I do not recollect the names of many persons whom I saw.

21,717. I suppose you were a good deal in your father's room?—Not very much.

21,718. Where did you generally sit?—I was a great deal about. It was very fine weather at the time, and I used to go out walking; in fact, I avoided the room as much as I could.

21,719. Are you perfectly certain that you had no such box with you as the man at the "Seven Stars" has described, and that no person came down in that train with you who would have been likely to have had a box of that kind?—I certainly had not any box of that kind. Mr. Murchison may have had one.

21,720. This is a box which was carried across from the "Seven Stars" to the "Seymour" hotel, not one merely that might have belonged to a passenger and been given to the care of the conductor and by him put on the top of the 'bus. Do you know of any such box as would have answered this description?—I had, as I have said before, a hat box, a large tin box, and a travelling bag; my hat box is not the ordinary form of hat box; it is a square hat box covered with some shining stuff which looks like leather.

21,721. What was in that box?—Simply my hat; it is a hat box which will hold a suit of clothes at the top in the lid; a square box.

21,722. Did you put your dressing things in it?—No; I had my dressing bag in my hand; I always carry that myself.

21,723. Are you quite certain that you had nothing in your hat box besides your hat?—I will not swear there were not some cigars; there was nothing beyond that.

21,724. Was there anything in the hat box which would make it weigh anything like seventy pounds?—Certainly not.

21,725. Was there any money in the hat box?—None.

21,726. Did you receive any parcel when you were in Totnes?—None.

21,727. Did you ever go over to the "Seven Stars" while you were in Totnes?—On one occasion.

21,728. With Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—Yes.

21,729. What was that for?—He said he had some business to do there, and wanted some one to go with him. I said I would go.

21,730. Did you know the business he was going on?—No.

21,731. Where did you go to?—We turned to the right and went into the bar, and there I met Captain Pim, to whom I was introduced by Mr. Heath, and I think Mr. Heath escorted us out again.

21,732. Where did Mr. Michelmore go to?—I think he went upstairs; he disappeared from me.

21,733. Did you know he had a letter from Lord Cranstoun?—I think there was something of the sort.

21,734. Did you see the letter?—No; I know it had something to do with Lord Cranstoun's letter.

21,735. Did Mr. Michelmore tell you it was to get the votes of Lord Cranstoun's tenants for your father?—No; he did not mention anything about it to me.

21,736. Throughout the whole period, either before, during the election, or afterwards, had you anything to do, directly or indirectly, with any negotiation for the purchase of votes?—Certainly not.

21,737. Had you anything to do with the payment of any voter for his vote?—No; I do not think I even heard a voter canvassed; I certainly never remember asking anybody to vote.

EDWIN BARTLETT sworn and examined. Mr E.Bartlett.

21,738. (Mr. Bere.) What do you work at?—I have been a postboy 14 years.

21,739. What were you doing at the election of 1865?—Nothing, sir.

21,740. Were you employed to look after some of the voters?—I was employed at the "Seymour" hotel in 1863.

21,741. Were you a postboy then?—Yes.

21,742. Were you sent up from the "Seymour" hotel to go to Henry Crawford?—I was.

21,743. How long before the election of 1863?—I was employed on the night of the nomination day.

21,744. Did you go for him?—Yes.

21,745. Who sent you?—Mr. Hill.

21,746. What is his christian name?—I do not know.

21,747. Is it Samuel?—I do not think it is.

21,748. What room did you get your orders in?—In the kitchen.

21,749. Did he come down to the kitchen and tell you to go up to Henry Crawford?—Yes.

21,750. Then you went up to him?—Yes.

21,751. Where were you to bring him to?—I was to go to his own house.

21,752. You were to go to Henry Crawford's house, were you?—Yes.

21,753. Were you to bring him to the "Seymour" hotel?—Yes, sir, if I could.

21,754. Were you to offer him anything to bring him down?—No.

21,755. You went and got Henry Crawford?—Yes.

21,756. How long did you stay in the house with him before you got him down?—I met him coming out of the passage with George Stoyle.

21,757. Did you and George Stoyle come down with him to the "Seymour" hotel?—Yes.

21,758. What happened as you went down, was there a crowd and a row, and did you and Crawford and Stoyle go to the hotel?—Yes.

21,759. Were there a number of people who made a disturbance?—We went in the back way, and when we came on the Plains the people holloa out, "There he goes!" I got him over to the "Seymour hotel," and shoved him up the steps.

21,760. You got him in there safe?—Yes.

21,761. Where did you put him inside?—After he came inside the door I left him.

21,762. You had done your duty?—Yes.

21,763. Did you go and tell Mr. Hill you had got him?—I did.

21,764. Was Mr. Hill by himself when you told him?—Yes.

21,765. Where was he?—Coming in over the steps.

21,766. Did you see anybody else that night about Mr. Crawford?—I did not.

21,767. Do you know what Crawford got when he came down to the Seymour?—I do not.

21,768. Did you ever hear?—No.

GEORGE GRIFFIS sworn and examined. Mr. G. Griffis.

21,769. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you lived in Totnes?—Since 1861.

21,770. Where did you come from before you came to Totnes?—Dartmouth.

21,771. Had you voted at Dartmouth before?—Yes.

21,772. How many times?—Four or five times.

21,773. Did you often get something for voting at Dartmouth?—I was one of the unfortunate ones.

21,774. You did not get anything there?—No.

21,775. The first time you got a vote here was in 1863?—1862.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

Mr. G. Griffis.

13 Sept. 1866.

21,776. Did you vote for Mr. Pender?—No, I did not vote at that election.

21,777. Did you get anything offered you on that occasion?—No.

21,778. From neither side?—Neither side.

21,779. Did anybody call upon you from either side?—Yes.

21,780. Who called on you?—Mr. Pender called on me.

21,781. Besides Mr. Pender?—Mr. Dent came, and some one else.

21,782. Did you see any of the other members of the party, Mr. Screach or Mr. Evens?—No, they did not come near me.

21,783. You were turned out in 1863; did they come to you?—No.

21,784. Whom did you vote for in 1863?—For Mr. Dent.

21,785. What did you get for that?—Nothing, sir.

21,786. Not even a present?—Not a present.

21,787. Did you find anything?—Nothing at all.

21,788. Whose house were you living in then?—The duke's.

21,789. You were turned out, were you not?—Well, sir, I was turned out in this way; my house had got to come down for the building premises.

21,790. Where was your house?—At the top of Bridgetown, where those villas are built.

21,791. Were you able to pay your rent when you were turned out?—No, I was rather in difficulties at that time.

21,792. Did you go to Mr. Bryett?—I did.

21,793. Did Mr. Bryett pay your rent for you?—No.

21,794. What did he do for you?—He lent me some money.

21,795. How much did he lend you?—I think 30*l.*

21,796. How long before the election was that?—It was many months after the election.

21,797. Did you see Mr. Bryett before the election?—Never.

21,798. Or his clerk Narramore?—Never.

21,799. Did not Mr. Narramore come to you in the election of 1863?—He never spoke to me in his life. I hardly knew the young man at the time, not for electioneering purposes.

21,800. Had you seen him about any other purposes?—No, not at that time.

21,801. I will read to you what Mr. Narramore said: "Q. Do you know anything about Griffis? You "were going to tell something about him?—A. I was "sent to him with a letter to make some arrangement "with him." Did you see him, then, at the election?—No.

21,802. Do you not remember his coming?—I am certain he did not.

21,803. Mr. Bryett had lent you some money in 1863?—Yes; I think it must be in June.

21,804. June, 1863?—In the election just after Christmas.

21,805. Did you pay it back?—I did.

21,806. When did you pay it back?—He had timber of me for building a house and different things, and I paid some part of it.

21,807. How long was it before you worked out the whole?—Not long since; he never asked me or pressed me for money; he told me to work it out.

21,808. When did you make up the account at last, did you square it?—We have never done it yet.

21,809. It is not squared yet?—I think he must be something in my debt now.

21,810. Have you ever paid him anything in money?—I do not know that I have. I will not say whether I did pay him partly or not. I forget.

21,811. You would not say whether you did or not?—I forget. My wife is in the habit of paying money at times, and she may have done it.

21,812. Does your wife receive money besides you?—My wife receives and pays far more than I do.

21,813. Do you know whether your wife received anything for your vote in 1863?—I am certain she did not.

21,814. Do you think she would have told you if she had?—I fancy so.

21,815. Had you voted for the council before?—No.

21,816. How had you voted at Dartmouth?—I voted at the last election for the Liberals.

21,817. How was it you came to vote for the Tories when you got to Totnes?—The way was this: I fancied Mr. Michelmore was not treating me in the way I liked, and that made me rather vote against him.

21,818. How was it that he had not treated you as you liked?—That is, young Mr. Jeffery; his brother was a gentleman, and always used to stand by me. I could not say that of Mr. Jeffery.

21,819. What did he do to trouble you?—He would not allow me a fair living in my trade.

21,820. Was he a rival in your trade?—I used to deal with him for timber.

21,821. You used to buy his timber?—Yes.

21,822. Did he charge you too much?—More than I could get a living profit out of.

21,823. He got the best price he could for it?—Yes.

21,824. He sold you his timber dear, and therefore you voted against him?—That was not all.

21,825. What was the other part?—I had notice to leave on account of this building, and he put me to great disadvantage in my trade.

21,826. Because he would not sell you his timber cheap, and because you had to leave, therefore you voted for Mr. Dent?—I had been to some members of the other party to get a place for workshops.

21,827. What members of the other party?—Mr. John Heath down at the "Stars."

21,828. Where did you get a workshop from Mr. John Heath?—On his own premises.

21,829. Did Mr. John Heath ever say anything to you about voting for Mr. Dent?—He never spoke to me.

21,830. Did he not canvass you?—I do not know.

21,831. Did he not come and ask you for your vote?—He may have been in confidence with Mr. Dent.

21,832. What did you pay him for the workshops?—6*l.*

21,833. Where were they?—Just up behind the mill.

21,834. Are you renting them now?—I have now another one. I have got a shop at my own house.

21,835. That was all the consideration you got for your vote, the workshops?—I paid him the rent for it.

21,836. Had you gone to Mr. John Heath and told him Mr. Michelmore was going to turn you out?—I believe it was well known by Mr. Heath and every one else. I think he belonged to the building party.

21,837. He is a member of the building company that built those villas?—I think he is. He knew the house had got to come down and there was no place in Bridgetown.

21,838. Did you sign the requisition to Mr. Macleay?—I never heard the name before I saw that.

21,839. Did you sign any paper that Mr. Harris brought you?—Yes, it was for Mr. Dent, I think. I never heard the name of Macleay that I know of.

21,840. Is that your handwriting?—Yes, that is my hand.

21,841. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did not know that you had asked Mr. Macleay to come down?—I forget all about it.

21,842. Did you read it before you signed it?—I have forgotten all about it; it is plain enough there.

21,843. Did you read it before you signed it or not?—I do not believe I ever saw that side of the list at all.

21,844. How came you to sign your name to what you did not know?—Mr. Harris came bothering me, asking me to sign it to get down a man, and I just put down my name.

21,845. What did Mr. Harris tell you to make you sign the paper that you knew nothing about?—No doubt he told me it was to get down a member for Totnes, to get down a candidate.

21,846. On the Conservative side?—Yes.

21,847. Did he tell you what man?—He may have, but I do not know; no doubt it was Mr. Dent.

21,848. Did he state the name?—No.

21,849. Instead of Mr. Dent it was to ask Mr. Macleay to come down?—I forget the name.

21,850. Did Mr. Macleay come down and see you, as you had so kindly asked him?—No.

21,851. As far as the requisition goes, you know nothing about it?—No.

21,852. You signed it because Mr. Harris bothered you, I suppose?—I suppose so.

21,853. That is the general way with the requisitionists?—That is about the truth, I believe.

21,854. (Mr. Bere.) You voted for Mr. Dent in 1863, and you split your vote in 1865, did you not?—I did.

21,855. How did you come to do that?—I do not know how I came to do so.

21,856. Did you not get a little money on both sides for doing that?—No.

21,857. Did not your wife?—I am certain she did not.

21,858. Take care; did you not make an appointment to go and see a stranger at the "Seven Stars"?—No, I am certain I never did.

21,859. Did you see any person on the night before the nomination about the election?—No.

21,860. Had you talked to any person about the election before it came on?—Oh, I said I should vote for Mr. Pender.

21,861. Did you tell that to Charles Frederick Michelmore?—I might have said so.

21,862. What did he say when you told him you were going to vote for Mr. Pender?—Just the same as another man in conversation.

21,863. Just tell me what was said; what did he say to you about voting for Seymour?—He never said anything to me about Mr. Seymour. I never intended to vote for Seymour.

21,864. Did you tell him so?—I told many people so.

21,865. Did you tell him you intended to vote only for Mr. Pender?—For Pender and Colonel Dawkins.

21,866. When did you tell Mr. Michelmore that?—I do not know that I ever told him so, not privately, but in company.

21,867. Take care what you are saying?—It is the truth.

21,868. Did you not see some person the night before the nomination, before the election, and make an arrangement that you should go down to the "Seven Stars"?—No one.

21,869. Or your wife?—Not to my knowledge; my wife can answer for herself.

21,870. Where is your wife?—My wife is ill.

21,871. Is she here?—No, very ill; she will be quite willing to answer any questions.

21,872. Did your wife go down on the Monday before the election to the "Seven Stars"?—I know nothing about it.

21,873. Did you know she had money in the house afterwards?—No, we had before.

21,874. Had she money in the house afterwards that you had not there before?—Not to my knowledge.

21,875. Take care?—I am on my oath, and I am telling the truth.

21,876. That is what John Heath has sworn here, and I will read it: "Q. George Griffis?—A. There had been "an appointment for him to come down to our house "on Monday morning. Mr. Mum came down smoking "a cigar in the entry, and he said to me he had made "an appointment to meet some voters there; amongst "a number of people, Griffis. He had evidently seen "him the night before. I then saw Griffis' wife "coming across and she said her husband could not "come; she was to come for the money. I said to "Mr. Mum, 'Griffis is a doubtful card; he is under "'the thumb of some of the people on the other side, "'and I would not advise you to pay him. Q. What did "'Mr. Mum say?'—A. He said, 'We have made it all "'right, I can rely on her." The woman came over "and in my presence they began counting whatever "sum they had arranged, which was handed to her." Do you mean to say what you have?—There was no appointment made with me, not at the "Stars."

21,877. Where was it?—Nor with Mr. Heath.

21,878. Where was the appointment made, and with whom?—By my wife, not with me.

21,879. You think your wife can tell all about it?—She did not mention it to me, not about any time to meet at the "Stars."

21,880. Did she tell you she was going to get some money for your vote?—She told me a long time after.

21,881. What did she tell you?—She told me she had had a present from the "Stars."

21,882. How much?—I do not know the exact amount.

21,883. How much?—I believe it was 50*l.*, I expect—

21,884. Why did you not say that before?—She did it before I knew anything about it.

21,885. (Mr. Coleridge.) You knew all this when you were first asked the question. You have been fencing with us ever since?—I say it was not myself.

21,886. You might just as well have told us the circumstances, you know that a payment to your wife is a payment to yourself. What became of the 50*l.*?—I suppose it was put in the trade.

21,887. What did you get on the other side?—Not a farthing; nor ever was offered a farthing by any party.

21,888. You had better take care?—I am taking care.

21,889. Was your wife offered anything?—No; I do not believe one of the party ever spoke to her.

21,890. Do you know Thomas Jacob Searle?—Very well.

21,891. Did you see him before the election?—Very often.

21,892. Did you have many dealings with him before the election?—He pays me scores of pounds a year.

21,893. How much before the election?—Not a farthing. I did not receive any money not from the barking season.

21,894. After the election had you got a payment?—No, no account.

21,895. Have you got any accounts at all?—No, not particular ones.

21,896. What do you mean by that?—Nothing more but just in my timber trade.

21,897. Is that the only trade you carry on?—No, I am a wheelwright.

21,898. Do you not keep an account of the customers you have got and the sums of money they owe you?—Yes.

21,899. (Mr. Bere.) We shall require a medical certificate from the doctor as to your wife not being able to attend and be examined to-day, who is her medical attendant?—Dr. Kellock.

21,900. Do you think she is able to come here to-day?—No, she is not.

21,901. Is she well enough to be examined if we went down to your house?—Yes, I think she could come into the room.

RICHARD NORRISH sworn and examined.

Mr. R. Norrish.

21,902. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you been a voter?—I have only voted once.

21,903. What do you vote for?—A quarry and store-rooms.

21,904. What do you pay a year for it?—10*l.*

21,905. Who did you vote for at the last election?—Dawkins and Pim.

21,906. Who canvassed you?—Both of them.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

Mr. R. Norrish.

13 Sept. 1866.

21,907. Who else came, did Frederick Evens or Screach come?—No.

21,908. Or either of the Mr. Heaths?—I saw Mr. Heath the Saturday previous to the election.

21,909. Who told you to go to the "Stars?"—No one.

21,910. Who sent you to the "Stars" to get a bag of money?—I will tell you who told me to go; I had no bag of money.

21,911. Who told you to go?—I will tell you by-and-bye.

21,912. Who sent you to the "Stars" on the Saturday before the election?—I engaged with Mr. Heath on the Saturday evening.

21,913. Which Mr. Heath?—John Heath, the old gentleman. I was not at home, I was at a place called Cornworthy, I saw Mr. Heath on the Saturday evening with some gentlemen at the door of the "Stars."

21,914. Did he call you to him?—He did, he saw me coming and he said, "Here is one of our old fellows "whom I can depend upon." I said, "They tell me "there is some money knocking about, I should like to "have a little of it this time."

21,915. You had had some money before from Mr. Heath in reference to the municipal elections?—Yes, I was always paid for the labour I had done.

21,916. What did you say to him?—I said I was a poor man, and that a little would do me good. I said I hoped it would not be like it was in Mr. Dent's time, he came down here, and ran away, and did not give anything.

21,917. You had no vote then?—No, but I was a watcher then.

21,918. What did he say to you?—He said if I would look after the lame ducks at the upper part of the town that if they did come to a contest he would guarantee that I should have 1*l.* a-day for looking after the lame ducks.

21,919. Did you look after them?—I did.

21,920. How many of them were there?—I think three or four.

21,921. Did you go and see Mr. Heath after this to get your money?—I did not see him except when he was knocking about the town on the Sunday. On the Monday evening there was a meeting at the "Seven Stars," and I went down there.

21,922. What did Mr. Heath give you?—He never gave me anything, not Mr. Heath.

21,923. Then who did give it you?—It was a darkish young gentleman in No. 1 room. I should think he might be such an aged man as Mr. Heath.

21,924. But Mr. Heath you would hardly call a young gentleman?—Ho, he is not.

21,925. Was Mr. Heath present then?—No, he showed me where to go.

21,926. What became of Mr. Heath?—Mr. Heath stood in the lobby or in the passage.

21,927. What was the gentleman doing when you got in?—He had got a book before him, pens, ink, paper, and so on.

21,928. Anything besides?—He had got some money there.

21,929. The sight of which rejoiced your heart no doubt; what did he say?—He said that Mr. Heath had given me a good character, saying that I was always true to their side, and he gave me a little parcel.

21,930. What did that little parcel contain?—Four 5*l.* notes.

21,931. No gold?—Not a farthing in gold or silver.

21,932. Did you consider that you had been well paid?—I said I was very much pleased with the present.

21,933. And I suppose you went and voted for Dawkins and Pim in consequence?—I did.

21,934. And you would have been equally pleased if you had had a present from the other side, and you would have voted for Pender and Seymour?—I do not believe I should if they had given me 50*l.*

21,935. Do not you think that 100*l.* would have bought you for Pender and Seymour?—I am a poor man, but I do not think it would.

21,936. Is that all you got at that election?—That is every farthing I got.

21,937. At Mr. Dent's election, not when he ran away, but when there was a contest, were you a watcher?—Yes.

21,938. What did you get for watching?—I think I had 7*s.* 6*d.* a-day.

21,939. For how many days?—That I cannot tell.

21,940. Was it a fortnight?—Not so long as that.

21,941. How much money did you get altogether?—Not much, I was forced to sub.

21,942. How much did you have altogether?—I think best part of 3*l.* or 4*l.*

21,943. Who paid you that?—Young Master John Heath.

21,944. Did the other young Mr. Heath give you anything?—No.

21,945. What did you do for that?—I watched the lame ducks.

21,946. Now the election when Mr. Dent did pay, did you look after the lame ducks?—I went away with two or three parties, I went to Devonport.

21,947. With whom did you go to Devonport?—I think one was called Searle.

21,948. How many of those lame ducks were you looking after?—They were all voters.

21,949. How did you look after them?—I gave them something to eat and drink and put them to bed at night, we went to Downchurch.

21,950. How did you go there?—With flys.

21,951. How long did you stay there?—Not very long, there were enemies in the camp.

21,952. You had to move on?—Yes, and go to Kingsbridge Road.

21,953. Did you take the train?—Yes.

21,954. How long did you stay before you took the train?—As soon as the train came.

21,955. You gave them something to drink and kept them quiet?—Yes.

21,956. The train took you to Plymouth?—Yes.

21,957. When you got to Plymouth did you find some one looking after you?—No, but we went to Devonport.

21,958. What made you go to Devonport?—There is a friend's house there, a wheel within a wheel. I was not the head man.

21,959. Who was the head man?—Mr. Evens.

21,960. Was he with you?—He went away.

21,961. He saw you safe with your birds, and went away and left you in charge?—I did not see him again till we came away.

21,962. How long before the election?—Several days.

21,963. How long did you keep them at Devonport?—I would tell you the time if I could recollect.

21,964. Did you come from Devonport to Plymouth?—Never, till we came back for good.

21,965. Where did you put up?—I think the "Three Elms" or the "Three Trees," near the dockyard.

21,966. What did you do with the lame ducks, did you look after them?—They slept in two rooms, I slept with Searle, and others in a double-bedded room.

21,967. Did you sleep with your eyes open?—No. I was very comfortable.

21,968. You had a great deal to drink?—Yes, no mistake.

21,969. They were comfortable enough to be quiet?—Yes.

21,970. Who told you to bring them back?—Mr. Evens ought to have come back to us, we had not money enough, and obliged to borrow of the landlord.

21,971. The landlord lent you money?—He came with us.

21,972. To get his money?—To get the bill paid.

21,973. What did the bill come to?—More than 20*l.*

21,974. For how many days?—There were six of us.

21,975. How many days?—I do not know.

21,976. What was the name of the landlord?—I do not know, he was a biggish man.

21,977. He kept the "Three Elms?—Yes.

21,978. When did you come back?—We came back on the polling day.

21,979. You kept them till the polling day, and came by an early train in the morning?—The first train in the morning.

21,980. Did you take them to the poll?—No, to the "Seven Stars." I had nothing to do with them.

21,981. You delivered them to the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

21,982. Do you know where they were put, in the cellar or where?—I do not know.

21,983. Were they comfortable before they came from Plymouth?—Yes.

21,984. Had a good breakfast?—Yes.

21,985. Something to drink to keep them comfortable?—Yes.

21,986. And you only got 3*l.* or 4*l.*?—Yes, and very good for a working man.

21,987. You were better paid the next time, when you got 20*l.*?—Yes, I was a voter then.

21,988. When Mr. Dent left you in the lurch, what did you do then; did you take any lame ducks away?—Not that time.

21,989. What did you do?—Only knocking about like the rest, seeing after our men, that other men should not take them.

21,990. That was the time when Mr. Dent would not go to the poll?—Yes.

21,991. What were you to have that time?—This was the captain (Mr. John Heath).

21,992. What were you to be paid?—I think 5*s.* a day.

21,993. How long were you employed?—I think a week.

21,994. How much did you get?—I think 30*s.*

21,995. That is when Mr. Dent went away without paying?—That is the voters.

21,996. That was a great hardship?—I think they felt it.

21,997. Were you at the "Seven Stars" when a demonstration was made about the withdrawal of Mr. Dent?—I think I was.

21,998. There was great dissatisfaction?—Yes.

21,999. And they thought Mr. Dent had swindled them by not going to the poll?—I do not know what they thought. I do not know anything about electioneering.

22,000. Do you recollect some women making a row?—Well, most of the women about there was pretty tightish.

22,001. They make more noise than the men at elections?—They do when they get on.

22,002. Did you see any women there with baskets waiting for their money?—I do not know about baskets; I saw plenty of them there.

22,003. Had you ever been a watcher at a former election, 1859?—Yes, since 1832.

22,004. Have you been paid every time?—Yes.

22,005. What is the most you ever got at an election for watching?—I never did keep an account.

22,006. Did you ever have more than 5*s.*?—I do not think so much.

22,007. Who generally employed you?—Generally the Mr. Heaths.

22,008. Is that all you know about elections?—No; I know back years ago.

22,009. How many times did you vote at the municipal elections?—Twenty years and more.

22,010. Were you always paid for what you did then?—I always got paid my day's work.

22,011. What did you get paid?—Sometimes it did not run to more than 2*s.* 6*d.*; I have had as much as 3*s.* 6*d.*

22,012. Did you never get 1*l.*?—No.

22,013. Did you never get paid for your vote at a municipal election at all?—Never in my life.

22,014. At the last contest did you vote?—I did.

22,015. What did you get then?—Nothing more than my day's work.

22,016. Did not you hear that money was going about?—I have since.

22,017. You would have got some if you had known?—Yes, I should have liked, but I never did.

THOMAS BLACKLER sworn and examined.

Mr.T.Blackler.

22,018. (Mr. Longe.) What is your occupation?—A marble mason.

22,019. How long have you had a vote for the borough?—A good many years.

22,020. Which was the first election you voted at?—I think it was for Lord Seymour.

22,021. Do you remember the election of 1859?—Mr. Dunn's; yes.

22,022. Who did you vote for?—Mr. Dunn.

22,023. Who else?—No one. Oh, yes, I did, I voted for Lord Gifford.

22,024. You split your vote?—Yes.

22,025. You were occupying a house of the Duke of Somerset's then?—No, it did not belong to the Duke of Somerset; I occupied stores on the quays of the Duke of Somerset's.

22,026. You voted for the duke's candidate?—Yes.

22,027. And also for the Conservative?—Yes.

22,028. Did not you hear anything about that afterwards?—No.

22,029. Did Mr. Michelmore say anything to you about it?—No, not at that election.

22,030. Did you get anything from the Conservatives then? what did you get from Mr. Dunn?—40*l.*

22,031. Did you get anything from the other side?—I did not.

22,032. Were you canvassed on the other side?—Both sides.

22,033. There was no prospect held out to you on the other side?—No.

22,034. No prospect of either losing your stores or getting any money?—No.

22,035. Now comes the election of 1863, Mr. Dent's?—The first or second?

22,036. Well, 1862?—I did not vote at all.

22,037. Were you canvassed in 1862?—Yes, I was, but there was no contest and I did not go to the poll.

22,038. Were you canvassed by both sides?—Yes.

22,039. Did you then hold the stores of the duke?—Yes.

22,040. Did you have a visit from Mr. Michelmore then?—No.

22,041. Who canvassed you?—Both canvassed me, I believe.

22,042. But who?—They both canvassed me. I did not promise either one of them.

22,043. Did Mr. Michelmore call on you?—I think he did. I did not promise anyone. I did not vote at all.

22,044. That was 1862?—Yes.

22,045. Then the next occasion were you canvassed at all?—I was canvassed.

22,046. For Mr. Dent?—Yes.

22,047. For Mr. Pender also?—No, Mr. Seymour.

22,048. Were not you canvassed for Mr. Pender?—Yes; I do not know exactly; I think I was.

22,049. Did he canvass you personally?—I have forgotten; I cannot tell you.

22,050. I think in 1863 you promised your vote to some one then. Mr. Michelmore canvassed you for Mr. Seymour, did not he?—He did, but I did not promise.

22,051. You promised your vote?—No, I did not.

22,052. Do you remember that interview?—He came and asked me whether I would vote for Mr. Seymour. I told him I could not promise.

22,053. Who canvassed you on the other side?—I forget now; I think Mr. Dent himself, but I did not promise him.

22,054. How did you vote?—For Mr. Dent.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. Blackler.

13 Sept. 1866.

22,055. How much did you get for it?—I got 80*l.* for it.

22,056. Who gave it to you?—Mr. George Heath.

22,057. After that you did not hold the stores much longer?—No, I was turned out of them.

22,058. What was the reason given?—He never told me. I suppose it was that I did not vote for Seymour. I always thought so.

22,059. You had not voted for him; you had voted for Mr. Dunn before?—No; I had voted for Mr. Seymour. I never promised more than one vote. I told him so.

22,060. Did Mr. Michelmore tell you that he had heard of your having had money?—No, I do not think so. I know he never said anything to me about money.

22,061. You merely had notice, and nothing was said?—No, nothing was said; the notice was sent in by the clerk.

22,062. Now, the last election of 1865, did not Mr. Harris bring you a requisition to sign?—I think he did; I almost forget what for. I signed one, I know.

22,063. You do not know what for?—Well, it was to get some gentleman down here as a candidate; I forget his name.

22,064. One of the Conservatives?—I did not concern myself much about those things.

22,065. Now, at this last election which way did you vote?—I voted for Mr. Dawkins and Mr. Pender.

22,066. You had thrown over Mr. Seymour?—Yes, I had thrown over Mr. Seymour altogether. I did not vote for him, because he turned me out. He came to canvass me, and I told him I would not.

22,067. Who canvassed you for Mr. Pender?—No one did not ask me to vote for him.

22,068. Why did you vote for him?—Because I chose to do. He was a good man, I thought.

22,069. Did Mr. Chaster call on you?—No.

22,070. You had no interview with Mr. Chaster?—No; he did not call or no one asked me.

22,071. Mr. Chaster employs you sometimes, does not he?—Yes, very often. I work for all parties here in the town; that is the reason I sometimes split my vote, because I get my bread by it. They come to me when they want anything done.

22,072. Was not Mr. Chaster managing some work for Mr. Pender?—The schools.

22,073. And he employed you?—Yes, the party did amongst them. Mr. Cuming did, I believe, come to me about a foundation stone, about a school building.

22,074. When were you first employed about the schools?—I really cannot tell now. I could with my books.

22,075. Was it before or after the election?—I think it was after; I cannot be certain of that; I think it was.

22,076. Was it before or after?—Let it be when it will, I cannot tell you.

22,077. At all events you were employed by Mr. Chaster?—Yes; Chaster was there and Mr. Cuming.

22,078. That is the reason you gave your vote?—No.

22,079. What was the reason?—I had no particular reason, only I had to please all parties in the way of trade.

22,080. Did not Mr. Farley call on you?—What Farley; Farley of Bridgetown.

22,081. Yes, Farley of Bridgetown?—No.

22,082. Thomas Jacob Searle?—No, none of them.

22,083. You did not see them at all at that time?—No.

22,084. Who was it called upon you for Mr. Pender?—No one.

22,085. Surely some one canvassed you?—No.

22,086. Not Mr. Pender himself?—No, he did not; I never spoke to him in my life.

22,087. Now, on the other side who canvassed you; Colonel Dawkins?—Well, I think Mr. Heath asked me to vote for him.

22,088. Did not he ask you to vote for both?—Yes, he asked me if I would. I told him I could not tell. I did not promise, and I have never spoken to one of them. He came to my house once or twice, and I was not at home.

22,089. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you meet anyone accidentally at Farley's?—No.

22,090. Did you ever meet anyone at Farley's?—No.

22,091. On the morning of the election, did not you meet Mr. Searle at Mr. Farley's?—No; I do not speak to Mr. Searle.

22,092. Did you meet him anywhere else?—No, he might be walking about the house, but I never spoke to him; he never speaks.

22,093. Whom did you meet at Farley's during the election?—No one to have anything to say about the election.

22,094. Whom did you meet there?—I do not know whether I was there or not.

22,095. Were you or not?—I cannot tell, I might.

22,096. Whom did you meet there?—Perhaps I might meet Farley.

22,097. What did he say to you?—Not a word. Now you won't get anything out of me, because I am as innocent as a baby, and I won't tell you no lies.

22,098. (Mr. Longe.) Going back to the last election, when Mr. Michelmore called on you, you did not vote for Seymour?—He came down to me at Farley's, the tailor; that is my son-in-law.

22,099. Did not he tell you you would lose your stores?—No, I was out of the stores before that election. I told Mr. Seymour I would not vote for him because I was turned out of his stores. He says, "I cannot help that," and Mr. Michelmore was there, and I said that Mr. Michelmore could if he had liked. And he said, "My back is pretty broad, it will take a "good piece of cloth to make me a coat." That was in my son-in-law's shop, who is a tailor; Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, not the old gentleman. That is the words that passed between us.

22,100. Mr. Heath you say canvassed you for Colonel Dawkins?—Yes.

22,101. What did he promise you?—Nothing.

22,102. He promised you nothing?—No.

22,103. You got 80*l.*?—Yes, I would if could, but I got nothing.

22,104. You got something this last time?—No.

22,105. Your wife did?—No, my wife died years before that.

22,106. Your wife died about 1865?—My wife died the 3rd September 1863, is the day her died. There is a grand mistake about that. I was accused of having had money, but I had none, I assure you. Harris accused me of having money several times, he wanted me to go to London for having money, but I told him it was no use; he could get nothing out of me because I had nothing.

22,107. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you mean to say, that having sent the requisition up to the Conservative candidate who came down, and having voted for the Conservatives before, you voted for the Liberals on the last occasion without having anything?—I did.

22,108. And in spite of your being turned out of the stores?—Yes.

22,109. What was the reason?—Well, for the sake of my trade, I got work from all parties.

22,110. (Mr. Longe.) You got money before?—Yes, I have told you all the money I got.

22,111. Do you mean you signed the requisition for the Conservatives this time and got no money?—Upon my life I did not. If I don't go from this place any more, I would not tell you a lie about it. If you catch me in a lie you punish me, do you hear, I give you leave to do that.

22,112. (Mr. Bere.) You may depend upon it you will be punished if you do not tell the truth?—I hope I shall, that is all.

22,113. (Mr. Longe.) Did you have any conversation with anyone on the Conservative side about money matters?—Not one single word. No one ever came to me except to Mr. Michelmore when he met me in my son-in-law's shop with Mr. Seymour, and then I positively refused to vote for him, and told him what it was for, and after I had voted for Mr. Pender I met Mr. Michelmore down on the Plains, and he showed me the list of the polling, and I think Mr. Pender's was then 100 exactly. He says, "There "Blackler, what do you think of that." I says, "Well, sir, I am very glad of it, Mr. Pender is a very "nice man." On the other side he showed me Mr. Seymour's, and he said, "Now, what have you to say "about that"? And I said, "Nothing, only he "turned me out of the stores at the election." That is all that passed between us.

22,114. You knew that money was going about at this last election?—I did; but I could get none of it. I never asked nobody for no money; if freely given me I took it, but I never asked no man for a penny.

22,115. You got 80*l.* without asking?—Yes, it was offered, and I took it. I never asked nobody.

22,116. (Mr. Bere.) It was pretty well known that you wanted it?—Well, I did want it.

22,117. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you get anything paid to you after the election?—Not a farthing.

22,118. You said you voted so as to please all parties?—I worked for all, and I voted in the way of trade.

22,119. Do you find you have pleased all parties?—I have not had any fault found anywhere.

22,120. You have not lost any custom?—Not that I know of.

22,121. You voted one one way and one the other?—Yes, I have done so several times. I did in Lord Seymour's time.

22,122. Have you the building of the schools?—No, I am putting the mantle-pieces in, and I did the foundation stone as they call it.

22,123 (Mr. Bere.) Have you a contract for that?—Yes, a mere agreement with Mr. Cuming.

22,124. (Mr. Coleridge.) What does it amount to?—About 7*l.*, all of it. I dare say 8*l.* by the time it is finished.

22,125. Is that all you are going to do for the school?—Yes, I believe so.

22,126. The mantle-pieces cannot be many, or very good ones?—No, they are plain ones; four of them I think about 30*s.* each, that is all.

Mr. James Heath sworn and examined.

Mr. J. Heath.

22,127. (Mr. Bere.) Where are you living now?—Exeter.

22,128. Are you acting as a veterinary surgeon there?—I am.

22,129. Where is your place of business?—The Southernhay.

22,130. How long have you been there?—Rather more than 12 months.

22,131. Were you there before the election of 1865?—No.

22,132. You were just going?—Just starting.

22,133. Had you been up to Exeter to see anything about the business?—I think I had been there on a visit to some friends and looking about.

22,134. Were you in or about Exeter at the time of the election?—No.

22,135. You were down here?—I was in Totnes during the whole time.

22,136. How long before the election had you been up to Exeter?—I cannot remember, a few days, staying with some friends.

22,137. Was that some weeks before the election?—Some weeks, I think, before.

22,138. That was to see whether you were likely to do well in Exeter?—That is the only reason.

22,139. Did you find that people were willing or likely to support you there?—I did.

22,140. You found you could get a good many good friends?—Yes.

22,141. Did you go to any people to see whether they would be likely to give you their custom?—I do not know that I did.

22,142. Did you send a card round, or anything of that sort?—No, not at that time, I had not made up my mind to go then.

22,143. Did you go and see young Mr. Collins at the "Queen's" hotel?—No, I do not know that I was ever there.

22,144. There are a good many people who live in Queen Street who have to do with horses?—Yes, I know. I did not know it then.

22,145. Do you know Mr. Brown living there?—Yes, very well.

22,146. Do you know any other of the shopkeepers in Queen Street?—Yes.

22,147. Was Mr. Brown a friend of yours before?—Yes.

22,148. Did he recommend you to come and set up in Exeter?—I do not know that he did, I do not remember it.

22,149. Do you know Mr. Thomas, a hatter there?—I did not at that time. I do now.

22,150. Since you have been living in Exeter?—Yes.

22,151. Were you down here when Colonel Dawkins first came?—I think I was.

22,152. Do you remember who came with him?—I do not.

22,153. Did not you see him. Do not you remember the actual time of his arrival?—I do not think so.

22,154. What room in your house were you staying in?—I was living there.

22,155. What room were you occupying as a bedroom?—A private room on our own side of the house, without any number.

22,156. Which side do you call your side?—The left-hand side.

22,157. That is the side appropriated to the family, is it?—Yes, chiefly.

22,158. The rooms where customers are put are on the right-hand side of the house?—Yes.

22,159. Were you introduced by your father to Colonel Dawkins?—I believe I was.

22,160. Did you work for him at all; canvass for him?—I do not think I canvassed for Colonel Dawkins at all; I do not remember it; I may have done.

22,161. Were you a voter at that time for Totnes?—I was.

22,162. What did you vote on?—Before I went to London my brother and I occupied a house together on the Plains, a joint occupation.

22,163. Did the joint occupation continue while you were in London?—When I came down there I slept there for the purpose.

22,164. Were you ever objected to?—I believe I was.

22,165. The revising barrister confirmed your vote?—Yes, certainly.

22,166. Were you examined as a witness?—Yes.

22,167. Although at that time resident in London, you occupied in Totnes also?—Yes, Totnes was my home.

22,168. How many days and nights during that year did you stay in Totnes?—I slept there all the summer months during the vacation, from May till October or November.

22,169. Were you at the college in London then?—I was.

22,170. Though you were introduced to Colonel Dawkins, I understood that you did not go to work for him at first?—No.

22,171. Did you promise him your vote?—Yes.

22,172. When was the first time you began to work in the election of 1865?—When Captain Pim came down.

22,173. Were you fascinated by Captain Pim, or was Captain Pim fascinated by you first?—It was mutual, I think.

22,174. Did you go about with Captain Pim?—I did.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

Mr. J. Heath.

13 Sept. 1866.

22,175. Were you alone when you were canvassing the electors, you and he together?—The whole time alone nearly.

22,176. Did any solicitor come with you?—I do not remember.

22,177. Mr. Thomas Kellock?—We might not go for the purpose of canvassing, we might occasionally meet a solicitor and go and speak to the voters.

22,178. Captain Pim had told you he was not going to spend any money?—He had.

22,179. Did he tell you that he had not much to spend?—No.

22,180. When you were canvassing the people did you find that you generally came after Colonel Dawkins or before him?—After.

22,181. Did you find that those who promised Colonel Dawkins to vote for him were pretty ready to promise you too?—Most of them were, except the other side of the bridge.

22,182. Did you find many people on the other side of the bridge who promised to vote for Colonel Dawkins who would not promise to vote for Captain Pim?—No, not many. They had not probably promised to vote for Colonel Dawkins. They said they would like to vote for Captain Pim but they could not; they liked the look of him.

22,183. But principally people did vote for Dawkins and Pim?—Yes, the majority.

22,184. Was that the first election in which you did anything?—No.

22,185. Had you been concerned in 1863?—Only in one case of fetching a voter to the poll.

22,186. Who was that?—A man called Lake, of Fleet Mills.

22,187. Where did you fetch him from?—From his house.

22,188. And you brought him up to your father's?—Yes.

22,189. Where did you keep him?—I brought him the back way through the race-course and over the railway bridge, because he was afraid to come through Bridgetown, up to the back part of the hotel, and put him in the smoking room and there left him.

22,190. Was that all you had to do with him?—Yes.

22,191. Although you had nothing to do with it, you knew that money was flying about then?—I could guess pretty well.

22,192. I suppose you, as well as anybody living in Totnes, knew that no candidate was likely to be returned unless a good deal of money was spent. And when you went to the people who had promised Colonel Dawkins had you any doubt that very many of them had been promised or received money?—I have no doubt many had received money.

22,193. You have heard the description as a matter of course, on the Conservative side, that a good many voters you went to promised their votes to Captain Pim and that class of men?—Yes.

22,194. So that Colonel Dawkins' money had paved the way for your canvass for Captain Pim?—Very likely.

22,195. Do you think they would have voted for Captain Pim if he had been the only candidate, if he had not spent any money?—They would not have voted at all; they would not have lost their time to go to the poll to vote for anyone.

22,196. In the course of your canvassing with the Captain, did any of the electors ask him to consider them on his part as well as Colonel Dawkins?—I do not remember that they did. There were some gentlemen's houses I did not think it my place to go into, and I let him go alone.

22,197. I believe you accompanied him to Mr. James?—I did.

22,198. But you did not go in?—I did not go in.

22,199. We have had rather a difference about that. Did Colonel Dawkins go with Captain Pim to Mr. James?—I do not think he did; I am not quite sure.

22,200. Were you and Captain Pim alone when you went to Mr. James?—I am not sure whether his friend Mr. Murchison was there, or whether I was alone.

22,201. Do you remember Mr. Murchison coming down?—I do not remember the time of his coming; I remember seeing him here and Captain Pim.

22,202. And his going round the town with you?—I do not believe he did. He may have done in one or two places. He did not regularly canvass with us.

22,203. How long did Mr. Murchison stay here?—I do not know; a few days only, I think.

22,204. I mean, was he down some little time before the election?—Not more than a few days, I think.

22,205. Did not he come down on the night of the Sunday?—I do not know.

22,206. You have heard young Mr. Pender examined; he came down by the same train?—It is very likely he did; I do not know.

22,207. Are you connected with the telegraph office here?—No.

22,208. In the course of that day did you send a message from Mr. Murchison to Mr. Charles Wescomb, of Exeter?—I do not know; I may have done.

22,209. You must remember?—I do not, indeed.

22,210. You do not telegraph so often in your life that you do not remember?—I may have done so.

22,211. Did not you during the time Mr. Murchison was down here telegraph from him to Mr. Wescomb?—Very likely; I do not know for certan that I did.

22,212. Did not Mr. Murchison tell you that he was going to telegraph to Mr. Wescomb?—I have no recollection.

22,213. Did you receive a telegraphic communication from Mr. Wescomb, addressed to Mr. John Heath?—I do not recollect it.

22,214. Are you quite sure about that?—I do not remember ever seeing the telegram at all.

22,215. Do you remember your father going to meet a train in consequence of receiving a telegram from Mr. Wescomb?—No.

22,216. Just think whether you did not on that day receive a telegraphic message from Mr. Murchison to Mr. Wescomb?—I do not know that I did; I do not think I did.

22,217. Do you remember whether any telegraphic messages came to Mr. Murchison?—I do not. I should not receive them if they did.

22,218. You were about with Captain Pim and Mr. Murchison, or Captain Pim's friend. Had Captain Pim a separate sitting-room from Colonel Dawkins?—Yes, I think he had.

22,219. And was Mr. Murchison in the habit of staying there?—Yes.

22,220. And you were in the habit of course of staying there with Captain Pim?—Very seldom I went there.

22,221. Where did you generally see Captain Pim?—He came to the bar when he wanted to go out, and asked if I was ready.

22,222. Did you make up a poll book, a canvass book?—Yes.

22,223. Have you got your canvass book?—No.

22,224. What did you do with it?—I never knew it would be wanted, and never took any care of it. It was a small printed list merely, not a book.

22,225. As you went round I suppose you entered those who promised?—Yes.

22,226. Those who were doubtful and those who were certain against you. Did you not think that might be a useful thing in case there should be an election at some future time?—I never took any care of it.

22,227. Do not you think you could find it?—No; I have not the remotest idea what I did with it.

22,228. Did you throw it away after the election?—No; I did not throw away any of my papers.

22,229. You must have it among your papers?—No; I do not know what became of it.

22,230. Have you looked for it?—I have not it among my papers at Exeter, and I have no papers here at all.

22,231. You looked for it among your papers at Exeter?—I did.

22,232. And cannot find it?—No.

22,233. Just think again about that telegram?—I have not the remotest recollection about having received a telegram or given one to either of the parties.

22,234. You would not say you have not done?—I will not, because I cannot recollect.

22,235. Did Mr. Murchison talk to you about Mr. Wescomb?—No; Captain Pim told me he knew him. Mr. Murchison I do not recollect speaking to.

22,236. Do you know whether there was any telegram from Mr. Wescomb to Captain Pim, or from Captain Pim to Mr. Wescomb?—I do not know.

22,237. What did Captain Pim tell you about Mr. Mr. Westcomb?—He said he was a friend of his.

22,238. Did he tell you what were their relations?—No; not a word.

22,239. Did you know?—No.

22,240. Did you know that they had to do with mining matters together?—No.

22,241. You did not know?—No.

22,242. Did not Captain Pim talk to you about mines he was engaged in?—No; he told me that he was interested in mines abroad.

22,243. Mines in Cornwall?—I did not know he was.

22,244. Did Mr. Murchison tell you he was interested in mines in Cornwall?—No.

22,245. Nothing at all?—No; I did not know that he was till now.

22,246. Did you see Mr. Smith, the attorney, while he was living in your father's house?—I may have.

22,247. You have seen him here, have not you?—No.

22,248. Have not you seen him since he was down here this time?—No.

22,249. When did you first come to Totnes?—Monday week.

22,250. You have been here ever since?—No; I came again last Monday.

22,251. Did you go back again on Monday week?—Yes.

22,252. Should you know Mr. Smith again if you saw him?—No; I do not know that I ever spoke to him.

22,253. Do you mean to say that you never saw Captain Pim in communication with each other?—I do not know Mr. Smith; I was never introduced to him in my life, and I do not know that I ever saw him.

22,254. Do you know the person who slept in No. 13 in your father's house?—I do not know what bed rooms anybody slept in.

22,255. Did you ever go to No. 13 bed room?—No.

22,256. Take care?—Not to the bed-room.

22,257. Take care; where did you go; are there two No. 13's in your house?—No.

22,258. Do you mean to say that you never went to No. 13 during the election?—Never. I do not know that I was ever on the bedroom landing that side of the house; I heard there was a gentleman in No. 13.

22,259. Did not you know whether that was Mr Smith?—I did not know; I did not know Mr. Smith.

22,260. Was it a person who was a stranger to you?—Yes, but I did not know what room he was in; I heard there was a stranger in No. 13.

22,261. Just describe him?—Somewhere about your height and figure; might be a little older.

22,262. I thought you said you had never seen him?—I had seen a gentleman, but I did not know whether it was Mr. Smith or anybody else.

22,263. Was he older or younger than I am?—Older.

22,264. Grey hair and greyish whiskers?—I think he had, but I am not quite sure; there were several strangers about.

22,265. Your boots has sworn here, and he is a man likely to know these things, there were no strangers about the house, except Mr. Smith and Colonel Dawkins' valet?—He knows better than I do; he was in the house certainly.

22,266. You say you do not know Mr. Smith by sight?—I do not.

22,267. (Mr. Longe.) What do you mean when you say you do not know Smith; you do not know who was the person in No. 13; and yet you know the stranger?—Yes, I know there was a stranger.

22,268. Of course you saw hundreds of strangers, which one do you mean?—One spoke to me about going to see a voter.

22,269. Where did he speak to you?—At the bottom of our stairs.

22,270. What voter did he speak to you about?—Robert Smaridge.

22,271. (Mr. Bere.) What colour hair had he?—I think greyish, or lightish grey.

22,272. Any moustache?—I do not think he had; I did not look particularly at him.

22,273. You did not look particularly at a stranger who spoke to you about going to see a voter?—No.

22,274. Do you mean to try to persuade us to believe that, that a person who was a stranger to you asked you to go to a voter for him and you did not notice him particularly?—I heard there was a stranger in the house, and a gentleman told me to go and see a voter and gave me something to carry to him.

22,275. What did he give you to carry to him?—A parcel.

22,276. What was in the parcel?—I did not see; it was heavy, most likely money.

22,277. Where did he give you that?—At the bottom of the stairs, just by the bar door.

22,278. Where was your father then?—I do not know, he asked for my father.

22,279. What day was it?—Whether it was the nomination day or the day before I am not sure.

22,280. Are you quite certain he did not give you that bag in No. 13?—I am certain; I never went into No. 13 during the election, and I do not know that I was on that flight of stairs at all.

22,281. (Mr. Coleridge.) If you did not know the stranger I suppose he knew you, or he would not have given you the parcel?—Very likly; he asked me for my father.

22,282. How did he address you?—I was in the bar and he says, "You are Mr. Heath's son?" "I "am." "Is your father here?" "No, I will look for "him." And I went to look for him and I could not find him; and he said, "You will do just as well I "dare say. There is a man called Robert Smaridge "at Shillibeer's, cow keeper, at Warland; take it to "him and get him here if you can."

22,283. Did you take it to him?—I did.

22,284. Did Smaridge know about it?—He seemed to understand.

22,285. Did you take a receipt?—No.

22,286. What did Smaridge say when you came?—I asked whether he was there of Shillibeer's wife, I think. I had never seen the voter before, and I think it was Shillibeer's wife's side he was, in the kitchen.

22,287. What did he say when you saw him?—I asked if he was Robert Smaridge; he said yes. I said I have a parcel for you and I want you to come to our house immediately. I left the parcel and I said I should wait outside, and in a few minutes he came out and went to our house with me.

22,288. When you got him in the house what did you do when you got him to your house?—I left him in the large room.

22,289. Were any other voters there?—A lot of voters.

22,290. Who were looking after them?—I do not know exactly.

22,291. Was your brother?—My brother was in and out of the room.

22,292. Who else?—Young Willis was in and out of the room.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

Mr. J. Heath.

13 Sept. 1866.

22,293. Frederick Evens?—He was in and out of the room too.

22,294. Screach?—I do not know whether he was in the room, I did not see him.

22,295. Mr. Kellock?—I think he was there.

22,296. Mr. Edmonds?—I did not see him.

22,297. Mr. Smith?—I do not know Mr. Smith.

22,298. Do you know Mr. Smith's clerks, Mr. Daw and Mr. Lind?—No.

22,299. Did you know there was a stranger there with two clerks about the house?—I heard there were two of Mr. Smith's clerks in No. 6, but I did not see them.

22,300. Who else was in the house; I do not mean voters who were being kept, but those who assisted in keeping them?—Mr. Norrish was going in and out, and a lot of them.

22,301. (Mr. Bere.) Was Smaridge the only person you took money to?—No; William Allery.

22,302. Where was that?—I think it was in No. 1.

22,303. Did he come out and say he could not wait, and did you go upstairs, and did you say "I will go " and get it for you?"—I do not recollect that circumstance. I know my father gave me a bag which I thought contained money, but I did not see the money.

22,304. Where did he give it to you?—In the entrance to our house.

22,305. Did you go and look for it in consequence of Allery coming out and saying he could not be kept?—I cannot recollect; I might have asked him whether he had any money for Allery, and he gave me a bag, or whether he gave it to me and said, "Take " that to Allery," I do not know; Allery will be able to remember the circumstance.

22,306. Allery has already sworn to it. Did you make a statement to the person who took down your evidence that you were going to give here to-day?—Yes.

22,307. Was that statement read over to you?—I do not know.

22.308. Just take it in your hand?—Yes. (The witness referred to the proof.)

22,309. It is No. 13 I am calling your attention to; that is all?—I believe that was the gentleman in No. 13. I had heard there was a strange gentleman in No. 13 but I never went in.

22,310. You believe the gentleman you received the money from was the gentleman sleeping in No. 13?—I understood so.

22,311. Who told you that?—I had heard Screach ask for No. 13.

22,312. Did you see Screach go upstairs?—Yes, many times; and Evens had asked me for No. 13.

22,313. Were those the only two that asked you for it?—Yes, that I recollect.

22,314. Had you told them where to go in order to find No. 13?—They appeared to know.

22,315. Then why did they ask?—They asked if they could go to No. 13, and I said walk up, and then they walked up.

22,316. Were those the only two persons you operated upon in 1865?—The only ones I have the slightest recollection of.

22,317. Was not there another whom you promised money to?—I do not recollect. If you can tell me the name.

22,318. Do you know Joseph Barker?—Yes.

22,319. Did you promise him some money?—I do not know that I did.

22,320. Did you canvass him with Captain Pim?—Yes.

22,321. Where did you canvass him?—At his own house.

22,322. Did he promise you his vote?—If I recollect right, Barker told me that a little money would do him good; and I said he should not be forgotten, or something to that effect. Till you mentioned his name I had no recollection of it.

22,323. Perhaps there may be a great many more if one only knew their names to refresh your recollection. Just think; were not there others you had to do with at that time?—No, I do not know any others.

22,324. On the morning of the election, do you remember Narramore and Willis coming to Captain Pim's early on the night of the election probably?—No.

22,325. Did you go out at all on the night or the morning of the election to see any voter?—I sent Captain Pim off at 4 o'clock in a carriage to fetch a voter.

22,326. You sent Captain Pim off?—Yes.

22,327. Where to?—I think to a country voter.

22,328. What was his name? — A respectable farmer.

22,329. What name?—Pearce, I think; he used to live at Follaton.

22,330. Did Captain Pim go off in the carriage?—Yes.

22,331. Who with him?—He went alone; the post-boy drove him.

22,332. What post boy, George Beer?—I do not recollect.

22,333. How many post boys had your father at that time?—Three regular ones, but we generally took on a man or two extra at election time.

22,334. You do not know which drove him?—No.

22,335. When did Captain Pim come back?—The election morning, but I did not see him return. He came back and took a gentleman to the poll.

22,336. Did he succeed in taking Pearce to the poll?—Yes; he promised him the day before if he was fetched.

22,337. He had seen Pearce the day before?—Yes.

22,338. How far was it from Totnes?—Six or seven miles.

22,339. Then what was the use of going at three or four in the morning?—An hour and a half he would be going out.

22,340. What going six or seven miles?—It might be eight or nine miles.

22,341. Follaton is not so much?—He lived on Sir Walter Carew's estate at Dean then.

22,342. What time did Captain Pim bring him back?—I think between seven and eight.

22,343. Are you quite certain that he was not living at Follaton at the time?—Certainly.

22,344. Had he left the farm place then?—Yes.

22,345. And lost his qualification?—He had at the time.

22,346. You also thought it was not a good vote?—I do not think it was not a good vote on the scrutiny.

22,347. Did you go or send anybody out to see some voters at Bridgetown?—Not that I recollect. I went with Captain Pim to canvass in Bridgetown.

22,348. Who were those?—Nearly all.

22,349. I mean on the morning of the election, did Captain Pim direct you to go and see any particular voters that morning?—No.

22,350. I understand you were not present when the conversation took place between him and Narramore and Willis?—No.

22,351. How many times did you see this stranger who paid you the money?—I do not know that I saw him again.

22,352. Only that once?—Only that once.

22,353. Did you never see him with Captain Pim?—No; and I was nearly always with Captain Pim.

22,354. You say you were not there in the sitting-room?—No.

22,355. So he might have gone and seen him in the sitting-room?—He might.

22,356. Are you quite certain you did not go with your brother and Arthur Niner on that morning?—Certainly; I think I helped to put the horse in and sent them off.

22,357. Did they tell you where they were going?—No.

22,358. You knew pretty well?—No.

22,359. Which way did they go?—Over the bridge:

I thought they were going out into the Berry preserves.

22,360. Did you think they might find some birds?—Duck or game.

22,361. (Mr. Coleridge.) At the time of the election 1865 you were living at Exeter?—No.

22,362. When did you go to live at Exeter?—In the latter end of July or August following.

22,363. You were about almost constantly with Captain Pim from the time he came to the time he went away?—Yes, almost.

22,364. Captain Pim has told us that on the night before the election he did not go to bed at all?—Nor did I.

22,365. Do not you recollect Narramore coming to him?—I do not recollect the circumstance.

22,366. Do you recollect Captain Pim asking you to find a messenger to go and fetch Narramore?—No.

22,367. Very early in the morning?—No.

22,368. You had a good deal of conversation with Captain Pim afterwards?—Very likely; he went away shortly afterwards.

22,369. Did he tell you that he had sent Narramore to offer large sums of money to different voters?—I have heard 10*l.*

22,370. You knew that before this inquiry I suppose?—I heard Captain Pim say, "I have sent a "fellow to offer a lot of the duke's men large sums of "money to make him pay more, just for a lark."

22,371. Did he say whom he had sent?—No.

22,372. Did he say whom he had sent to?—No.

22,373. To raise the price, and make him pay dearer?—Yes.

22,374. Did you sleep at your father's house during the election, or your own voting place?—I think at my father's house.

22,375. I suppose you never went to bed before Captain Pim had gone; you saw him the last thing?—If he had done canvassing I went to bed.

22,376. What room did you sleep in?—A private room; the private side of the house is not numbered.

22,377. You have told us the description of the stranger who gave you the money. Are you certain he had not dark hair; you said you thought it was greyish?—I did not look particularly at it.

22,378. What is your impression?—I think it was dark hair turned grey.

22,379. What colour whiskers?—I cannot say.

22,380. Greyish whiskers?—I did not look particularly.

22,381. Any moustache?—I do not think he had.

22,382. Was his hair always the same colour when you saw him?—I only saw him that once.

22,383. Did you see a gentleman about at that time with dark hair and dark moustache and light whiskers?—Colonel Dawkins had dark whiskers.

22,384. Anybody else?—No. I tell you I was very little on that side of the house where strangers occupied.

22,385. Were you often in No. 1?—No, very seldom.

22,386. Did you ever see any voters in No. 1?—Allery, I think I saw in No. 1.

22,387. Did you ever give money to anyone in No. 1?—I think I did to Allery, either in No. 1 or the entry.

22,388. Whom else did you give money to in No. 1?—Nobody.

22,389. Thomas Gillham?—No.

22,390. Are you sure of that?—I will not be positive.

22,391. Just try and think?—I do not think I did.

22,392. You do not think you gave anything to Thomas Gillham in No. 1?—No.

22,393. Did you see him in No. 1 just before the election?—No, I do not think I did.

22,394. How many voters in all did you see in No. 1?—I do not think I saw any others but what I mentioned.

22,395. No others but Allery?—No.

22,396. Then you gave Allery a bag?—Yes.

22,397. What did it contain?—I do not know; I believe it was money.

22,398. Did you ever see a gentleman about the house who obviously was wearing a dark wig during the election?—No.

22,399. Did you ever wear one yourself?—No.

22,400. Did you never once change the colour of your hair?—No.

22,401. You are certain?—Quite certain. I never did in my life; this colour is quite good enough for me.

22,402. Did you ever buy a wig at Exeter?—Never.

22,403. Any moustache?—No.

22,404. Did you never dress up in one?—Never.

22,405. Never at any time?—I did on Guy Faux night, making a bonfire.

22,406. Did you keep that Guy Faux suit and wear it during the time of the election?—No, I never saw it I should think for five or six years.

22,407. Then at election time you never disguised yourself in any way?—Never at any time.

22,408. Did you have some private theatricals here?—Never.

22,409. You never dressed up?—No; my brother did.

22,410. Which of your brothers dressed up?—My brother as a captain; a military suit.

22,411. Not an election captain?—No.

22,412. You can tell us who slept in No. 18 during the election?—No.

22,413. You were very full during the election, were not you?—Yes.

22,414. Had you this house, this joint occupation at this time?—Yes.

22,415. Who was living there?—My brother and his wife.

22,416. How came you not to sleep there?—Because I was so late to bed at election time.

22,417. Did you ever see any voters there late at election times?—Very late.

22,418. What is the latest you saw them at the time of the election time?—Crawford was late going over the bridge with a mob with him.

22,419. Was the house open all night during the election?—The night before.

22,420. But was it the other nights, three or four nights before?—I do not think it was; I was not up all the night.

22,421. Was it open the day before the nomination?—I did not stay to see.

22,422. Was it Monday?—I do not think it was.

22,423. Or the Saturday?—I do not think it was.

22,424. (Mr. Longe.) You remember the election of 1863?—Yes.

22,425. You were in the hotel then?—Yes.

22,426. Did you know the Mum then?—I saw him, because he was on our side of the house, and I passed the room.

22,427. (Mr. Bere.) Was he in No. 9 then?—Yes.

22,428. (Mr. Longe.) How did you know who he was?—I heard the waiters and them say there was a Mr. Mum in No. 9.

22,429. Do you think the waiters know more than Mr. Heath and Mr. Heath's family with regard to what goes on in the house?—Yes.

22,430. In the 1862 election, was there a Mr. Mum then?—I do not know. I was a youngster.

22,431. There was only six weeks difference?—There was no contest. I do not know.

22,432. We understand that in the 1863 election, when you took no part in the election, you knew there was a Mr. Mum in the house, and that you knew what he was doing?—I guessed what he was doing, and I knew there was a man.

22,433. If there was a man, which I very much doubt, do you mean to say it would not be known?—It was at Dunn's election in 1859, not Dent's.

22,434. I asked you as to 1863?—I beg your pardon,

GHTEENTH DAY.

Ir. J. Heath.

3 Sept. 1866.

it is my mistake. I never saw any stranger at Dent's election at all.

22,435. Your father has told us there has been a stranger down there every time?—There may have been. He knows better than I do.

22,436. Your father has told us there was a stranger every time?—He knows better than I do.

22,437. You do not know anything about him in 1865, with the exception of of what you told us before, that there was some man came to you whom you never saw before or after?—Yes.

22,438. That is all?—Yes.

Mr. T. Marshall.

THOMAS MARSHALL sworn and examined.

22,439. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you Colonel Dawkins' valet?—Yes.

22,440. How long did you live with him?—Two years the 2nd of last April.

22,441. Were you a soldier?—I was then.

22,442. You left the regiment with him as soldier servant?—Yes.

22,443. You were with him when he went on half-pay, had you served your time?—I purchased my discharge when I went from Totnes.

22,444. Do you recollect Colonel Dawkins coming here?—I came with him.

22,445. I think he told us that was about the 4th of July?—I cannot recollect the day of the month, somewhere about that.

22,446. Eight or nine days before the election?—Yes.

22,447. When you came did Mr. Smith come with you?—No.

28,448. I do not mean with you, but with Colonel Dawkins?—No.

22,449. Are you sure he did not?—I cannot recollect.

22,450. Mr. Smith was staying as Colonel Dawkins' guest at the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

22,451. You attended to him?—Yes.

22,452. Brushed his clothes and that sort of thing?—Yes.

22,453. Mr. Smith says and Colonel Dawkins says that they came together, and that Mr. Smith paid Colonel Dawkins' fare, that rather looks as if it was so?—I cannot remember. It is probable it was so.

22,454. Did Captain Fox come at the same time?—No; he came afterwards.

22,455. You attended to Captain Fox?—Yes.

22,456. What room did Mr. Smith occupy?—No. 13.

22,457. You are quite sure?—Yes.

22,458. You have been to the house and looked at it.—Yes.

22,459. While attending to Mr. Smith was he often in the room in the daytime?—I cannot say. I used to go in the morning to call him and take him hot water.

22,460. At what time?—Between 7 and 8 o'clock.

22,461. Used he to get up and come to breakfast at the proper time?—Not always.

22,462. Out of the nine or ten days how many times do you think he came down to breakfast?—I do not think he was down more than half his time.

22,463. When he not did come down to breakfast did he have his breakfast in his room?—He took his breakfast by himself.

22,464. What time did Colonel Dawkins breakfast?—Nine, half-past nine, or ten.

22,465. Was he often as late as ten?—Yes.

22,466. How late have you known Mr. Smith come to breakfast?—As late as 11 or 12.

22,467. Have you known Mr. Smith have anything taken into his room, tea or soda water?—I do not recollect.

22,468. Do you recollect whether you have taken anything?—I do not think I did.

22,469. Do you know whether the chambermaid has?—I think if anybody waited on him it would be the waiter.

22,470. The waiter says it would be the chambermaid?—I cannot say.

22,471. Was Mr. Smith constantly about with Colonel Dawkins?—I think he was about with Colonel Dawkins a great deal of his time.

22,472. Did he take all his meals with Colonel Dawkins?—He did not.

22,473. He always breakfasted with Colonel Dawkins, did he not?—I think he used to breakfast in No. 6 sometimes.

22,474. That would be with his two clerks?—Yes, the same room.

22,475. It is a sort of public room, No. 6?—Yes.

22,476. A small coffee room?—Yes.

22,477. If he came too late to breakfast with Colonel Dawkins did he have breakfast in Colonel Dawkins' room or No. 6?—No. 6.

22,478. Captain Fox generally was at breakfast?—Yes.

22,479. Did Mr. Smith generally dine with Colonel Dawkins?—He did sometimes, not often.

22,480. Are you sure of that?—He did not more than half his time, I should say.

22,481. I suppose you do not know whether he did or did not dine with Colonel Dawkins?—No.

22,482. Now Colonel Dawkins came down, as we heard, about 10 days before the election, but you are not certain about Mr. Smith coming with him?—I am not certain.

22,483. What were your instructions from Colonel Dawkins as to any communication you had with Mr. Smith?—My instructions were, when anyone asked who he was I was not to say.

22,484. Colonel Dawkins or Mr. Smith?—Colonel Dawkins; I was not to satisfy them.

22,485. How long was that before the election?—When we first came down.

22,486. With reference to Mr. Smith what were your instructions?—Not to give any information.

22,487. Do you recollect any particular stranger coming down and asking to see Colonel Dawkins?—Oh, no.

22,488. Do you recollect Mr. Lind?—Yes.

22,489. He was a stranger?—No, I had seen him before at the office.

22,490. When you have gone on messages?—Yes.

22,491. You knew who he was?—Yes.

22,492. Do you recollect anybody else coming?—Yes, another clerk, Mr. Daw.

22,493. Besides those, do you recollect a particular stranger coming?—No; I saw many strangers about.

22,494. You saw Mr. Kellock?—Yes, I know him.

22,495. You saw him constantly with Col. Dawkins?—I saw him very often.

22,496. And Mr. Edmonds?—Yes.

22,497. Do you recollect Mr. Kellock coming in with another gentleman on the day before the election, and bringing some money?—I cannot recollect Mr. Kellock bringing any, but Mr. Lind told me I was to go to No. 6 and wait there. After I was there some few minutes some money was brought and put upon the table.

22,498. Mr. Lind had given you notice that money was to come?—He did not say there was any coming, I was to go and stay in the room till someone came; and I think Mr. Lind brought the money and put down some papers; and I was to fold it up in papers and it would be taken away.

22,499. Do you recollect whether that was on the Monday or the Tuesday?—The polling day. I cannot remember the day or the date.

22,500. Do you recollect on two occasions receiving money?—No; never but one.

22,501. Are you quite sure about that? I do not want to trap you, but do you recollect on one occasion being in your shirt sleeves?—I am certain I never had money more than once. I cannot say whether I was in my shirt sleeves that time.

22,502. You do not recollect Mr. Kellock saying "Never mind about being in your shirt sleeves, come "and watch this money till Mr. Edmonds comes"? —I cannot recollect whether I was in my shirt sleeves or not.

22,503. The nomination day, of course you recollect that?—Yes.

22,504. The day before the nomination day, the Monday; do you recollect whether the transaction about the money was the Monday or Tuesday?—It must have been on the Monday; I did not receive any on the Tuesday.

22,505. It would be on the Monday?—I think it must have been on the Monday.

22,506. Do you recollect Captain Fox going to Torquay with Mr. Kellock?—No, I do not.

22,507. Do you recollect some money on the Tuesday about which you have spoken being brought into the room Number 6?—Yes, I recollect. I am pretty sure Mr. Lind put it on the table, and Mr. Lind or Mr. Edmonds took it away. I would not be sure which it was. I believe they were both there.

22,508. Are you sure Mr. Kellock was not there? —I cannot remember.

22,509. Do you know Mr. Kellock?—Yes.

22,510. You are quite sure that Mr. Lind or Mr. Edmonds were the persons who brought the money? —I think so.

22,511. Was it not a gentleman whom you did not know by sight, with a light grey moustache and light hair, who brought the money in?—I cannot remember anything of that sort.

22,512. You recollect the money being brought in and put on a piece of newspaper?—I think it was put in two pieces of paper.

22,513. What was the money in?—I will not be sure, but I think it was in a little bag, and it was shaken out on the paper loose; there were some notes as well.

22,514. Can you tell us the numbers of the notes? —No.

22,515. Or the amount in gold?—I could not say. I should think some hundreds.

22,516. Were you told the amount by anyone?— No.

22,517. Was it Mr. Lind or Mr. Edmonds who shook out the money?—I cannot remember. They brought the money in, and I think it was Mr. Lind who shook it out.

22,518. When it was shaken out of the bags did you see what it had been in before? Whether it had been made up in a neat parcel?—I think it was brought in there in a paper and laid on the table on two half sheets of paper.

22,519. Are you quite sure that it was not brought in tied up in a neatly made parcel like a sort of bankers' parcel?—I do not remember.

22,520. Your impression is that it was brought there in a loose piece of paper?—I think it was.

22,521. It was shaken out you think by Mr. Lind, and afterwards was taken away by Mr. Edmonds?— By Mr. Lind or Mr. Edmonds.

22,522. Had anything been said by anybody before the transaction took place about your watching the money?—No.

22,523. Had not Mr. Kellock, if he was there, said "Never mind your shirt sleeves, will you wait till I "fetch Mr. Edmonds"?—I cannot remember, he might have done so.

22,524. Do you know Captain King?—No, I do not.

22,525. On the following day do you recollect being alone in No. 6, when a gentleman came again with some money?—No, never.

22,526. You have no recollection of that?—I never had anything to do do with money but that once.

22,527. It has been sworn it was on the Tuesday, not the Monday, and that Mr. Kellock came in and said to you, "Never mind your shirt sleeves, watch "this money till Mr. Edmonds comes;" have you any recollection of that?—I have not.

22,528. Will you undertake to swear that such a thing never did happen?—I will swear I never had but one lot of money.

22,529. Do you remember being in your shirt sleeves when you had this lot of money?—I cannot say.

22,530. Were you likely to have been in your shirt sleeves at 5 o'clock in the day?—I might have been, not generally so late in the day as that.

22,531. What time did this transaction about the money take place?—I do not know.

22,532. Cannot you say whether it was 3, 4, 5, or 6 o'clock?—It was some time in the afternoon, I cannot say when.

22,533. There was no valet with Mr. Smith or Captain Fox?—No.

22,534. You are certain there were not two transactions about money?—I am.

22,535. Was that on the day before the election or before the nomination?—It must have been the day before the nomination.

22,536. Are you quite sure of that? Have you anything to fix it in your mind?—I could not swear to it; but I think it was the day before the nomination.

22,537. You have no sort of recollection of Mr. Kellock?—No.

22,538. Or of his saying anything about not minding your shirt sleeves?—I cannot remember that.

22,539. You know Mr. Lind well by sight?—Yes; perfectly well.

22,540. Will you describe what sort of looking person he is?—He is about 5 feet 10 in height, and dark.

22,541. Any moustache?—I think not any.

22,542. That is the only transaction of the kind you know of?—Yes.

22,543. Have you any doubt that it was Mr. Edmonds or Mr. Lind who brought the money into the room?—I think it was Mr. Lind who brought it.

22,544. You think you know Mr. Lind so well that you cannot be mistaken in that?—I did not think I ever should be called on to speak to this. I cannot swear to it; but that is what I think.

22,545. If it was not Mr. Lind who brought it, was it not some stranger whom you had never seen?—I cannot tell.

22,546. A man with a light moustache?—I cannot remember.

22,547. Your impression is it was Mr. Lind or Mr. Edmonds?—I cannot think it was anyone but Mr. Lind.

22,548. You have no doubt it was one or the other? —Just so.

22,549. You have no doubt Mr. Lind shook out the money?—I think so.

22,550. And Mr. Edmonds carried it away?—The money was brought there in a parcel, and thrown out on this newspaper.

22,551. Was it merely twisted up loosely, or was it a neatly made up parcel?—I think it was neatly made up; about six inches wide, and a foot long.

22,552. Do you remember subsequently some more money being brought in?—No.

22,553. You are quite sure of that?—Never but once.

22,554. You are positive that only once you had anything to do with money?—Only once.

22,555. What fixes it in your mind that it was the day before the nomination, and not on the Tuesday; what occurred to make you think so?—I could not say which day it was. I fancy it was near the nomination, we had been there some time. I do not think it was the nomination day.

22,556. Was it the day after the nomination?—It was not after that.

22,557. What makes you say it was not the nomination day?—I cannot remember what day it was; it was some time before the nomination. I cannot say how long.

22,558. What occurred on the nomination day to make you think it was not that day?—I was in front of the hotel nearly all the time.

22,559. But that was over by 11 o'clock; were you in front of the hotel from 2 to 6?—I cannot remember. I cannot be certain what day it was.

22,560. Can you give us any reason why you prefer saying it was the day before the nomination to the day of the nomination?—I think it is most likely that it must have been before; they would want the money for the election.

22,561. Have you no better reason than that for saying so?—No.

22,562. Was it the day when Captain Fox went to Torquay?—I do not know when he did go.

22,563. You know nothing of that?—Nothing at all.

22,564. Now put entirely out of your mind what they would want the money for, and try and recollect whether this may not have been on the nomination day?—I am sure I cannot say; it must have been before the nomination day, I think.

22,565. Have you any other reason for saying so, except that you think the money was wanted?—I have no particular reason.

22,566. When did you know that the money was wanted?—I heard about that on both sides. I heard that both sides were bribing from different people who were going in and out.

22,567. Who told you that your own side were bribing?—No particular person told me.

22,568. You heard a general rumour of it?—There were a great many said they were bribing all about.

22,569. What did old Mr. Heath say to you about it?—Nothing at all.

22,570. Or either of the young Mr. Heaths?—It was none of the Mr. Heaths who told me so.

22,571. Do you know Brown, the waiter at the "Stars"?—Yes.

22,572. What conversation had you with Brown about bribery going on?—I had no conversation with him.

22,573. You heard nothing from Brown about it?—No.

22,574. About your being ready to receive some money, or anything of that sort?—No, never.

22,575. You did not know that the money was coming?—I did not know it. Mr. Lind said that I was to go into the room and wait for a few minutes, and almost directly this money was brought to me.

22,576. What time was that in the afternoon?—I could not say.

22,577. Was it as late as 4 o'clock?—I cannot say.

22,578. Have you read any of the reports of this evidence in the newspapers?—No. I did not know that I was coming here as a witness until I received a telegram from the colonel yesterday morning.

22,579. Captain King and Mr. Kellock have told us that on the nomination day they went into the room No. 6, and put down a sum of money on the table, that they told you not to mind your shirt sleeves, but to wait until Mr. Edmonds came. Captain King was a gentleman who had a light moustache?—I do not remember any such gentleman at all.

22,580. Are you quite certain that at the time you received the money Mr. Lind was there?—I fancy that Mr. Lind brought the money in.

22,581. Are you sure that you are not confounding Mr. Lind with Captain King?—I do not know any Captain King at all.

22,582. Captain King was a gentleman who had a light grey moustache?—I cannot remember such a man.

22,583. So far as you recollect, Mr. Lind brought it, and Mr. Edmonds was present?—I do not know whether he was present when it was brought in, he must have been present when he took it away.

22,584. How many gentlemen were present when the money was brought in, more than one?—I cannot remember more than one.

22,585. And that one was Mr. Lind?—Yes.

22,586. How came Mr. Edmonds to be there; did anyone go and fetch him? Did you go?—No. I did not go out of the room until after the money was gone.

22,587. Did Mr. Lind fetch Mr. Edmonds?—I do not know.

22,588. Were you left alone with the money?—Yes; the door was fastened I should think for a minute, or thereabouts.

22,589. Who was that done by?—By Mr. Lind, no doubt; he went out of the room.

22,590. And locked you in?—No; the door was merely shut, it was not locked; he pulled the door after him.

22,591. You were not locked in?—No.

22,592. Nor did you lock anyone out?—No.

22,593. How long after that did Mr. Edmonds come in?—They came in both together.

22,594. In some two or three minutes?—It might have been longer.

22,595. Were you standing up all that time looking at the money?—No; I folded it up ready to be taken away.

22,596. What necessity was there for doing that if it had been already done?—It was shaken out by Mr. Lind, and I was told to wrap it up in the newspaper.

22,597. And Mr. Edmonds came in with Mr. Lind and took it away?—Yes.

22,598. Are you quite certain of that; are you sure that Mr. Edmonds came in at all?—As well as I can remember it was either Mr. Lind or Mr. Edmonds who took it away; one of the two.

22,599. Are you sure that no stranger came in?—I cannot remember any.

22,600. That no third party came in at all?—I cannot say.

22,601. (Mr. Longe.) Captain King has told us that he was the person who took this money there. Surely you must have made some mistake; he was alone with you in the room, and that you kept guard over it?—I cannot remember Captain King or any strange gentleman being there.

22,602. (Mr. Coleridge.) You are sure you had nothing to do with money on two occasions?—Quite certain.

22,603. Where were you on the afternoon of the nomination day between 3 and 5 o'clock?—I might have been in the tap of the hotel during some of the time.

22,604. Whose room was No. 6?—I think Mr. Smith was in there.

22,605. You would not have gone into No. 6 unless you had been sent for?—No.

22,606. Were you never sent for to No. 6 at any other time?—Not for that purpose.

22,607. How often had you been sent for to No. 6?—Sometimes I used to answer the bell instead of the waiter.

22,608. Do you mean to answer the bell for Mr. Smith?—Yes.

22,609. Were you ever sent for into No. 6 except on this afternoon to wait for something?—Never, except on one occasion.

22,610. You are sure of that?—Quite sure.

22,611. And this transaction took place on the Monday before the nomination?—As far as I can remember.

22,612. Can you tell us of what this money consisted?—I cannot.

22,613. Were there as many as a hundred sovereigns in gold?—I should think there were 200 or 300.

22,614. And the rest in notes?—There were a great many notes; I cannot say how many.

22,615. Were there as many as 20 notes?—I cannot say.

22,616. Were there as many as 30?—I cannot say.

22,617. Were there as many as 10?—I think there were more than 10.

22,618. Was it a regular roll of notes, or what?—I think as well as I can remember they were all crumpled up.

22,619. Did you have the curiosity to see the amount of any one of the notes?—I do not know the amount.

22,620. Did you see a 100*l.* note there?—I cannot tell you.

22,621. (Mr. Longe.) If you recall it to your mind, I think you will find you are not carrying out your instructions at all. It was not Mr. Lind, it was a strange gentleman, and what he said to you was, 'You don't know me; I don't know you." There was that understanding between you that you were not to know one another; he was about three minutes in the room with you, and then took the money away. Was that not really the case?—I fancy there was some such thing; I think I did hear those words.

22,622. Someone came in, and it was an understood thing that you were not to know him. You did not know him, and he gave you the money?—He might have said so. I am certain it was Mr. Lind who told me that I was to go into that room.

22,623. (Mr. Bere.) And did not the person say, 'You don't know me; I don't know you"?—Yes, I think I do remember those words.

22,624. (Mr Coleridge.) Are you quite certain that it was Mr. Lind who had the money and shook it out of the bags?—Yes.

22,625. Might it not have been on the Tuesday instead of the Monday?—I do not think it was.

22,626. You cannot fix it in your memory, except that the money might be wanted earlier?—I have no other reason for thinking so.

22,627. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever say anything about leaving a stranger in the room with the money to anyone?—No. I never said anything to anyone during the time I was there.

22,628. You were cautioned about that?—No. The colonel requested me if anyone inquired who he was I was not to say anything, they were to find out.

22,629. You were told that anything you heard in the house you were to keep to yourself?—I never remember anyone saying any such thing.

22,630. Did Mr. Smith ever tell you anything like that?—That I cannot remember.

Mr. William Kellock sworn and examined. Mr. W. Kellock.

22,631. (Mr Bere.) You are a surgeon in Totnes?—Yes.

22,632. Have you been to see the wife of George Griffis?—I have.

22,633. Is she in a fit state to be examined here?—She cannot get out of her bed.

22,634. Were you not at one time a tenant of the Duke of Somerset?—Yes.

22,635. Were you not turned out?—Yes.

22,636. How long ago?—Some years ago

22,637. What was the reason given to you?—I guessed the reason.

22,638. Because you had voted against the duke?—I voted against his nominee.

22,639. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you think this woman in a fit state to be examined if we went to her house?—If you could put it off for a few days it would be much better, unless it were absolutely necessary.

22,640. (Mr. Longe.) As to your eviction, had you notice to quit without any conversation with the duke's agent?—I think Mr. Michelmore gave me notice to quit.

22,641. How soon was that after your adverse vote?—I met him on one occasion, and he said "I shall 'give you notice to quit your fields." Afterwards at Michaelmas I received the regular notice to quit, and I never went into the fields afterwards.

22,642. Was there any understanding that you took your fields as a good Liberal, and would vote in a certain way?—No. I never voted in that way.

22,643. How came you to get your land from the duke?—Mr. Michelmore let it to me. He knew I was an old freeman. I have a house for which I pay 25*l.* a year, and out of which I might have made two votes, but I never thought of anything of the kind.

22,644. You had your land without making any terms?—I made no terms whatever.

22,645. They knew you would not vote on their side?—I never did except when the duke was a Conservative.

22,646. When was he a Conservative?—I have forgotten the date.

22,647. You can hardly say that. In 1852 he stood as a Liberal?—I believe Sir George Adams was the chairman of his committee when he first came out.

22,648. Was not that an uncontested election?—It is so many years ago that I forget.

22,649. Mr. Cornish retired and Lord Seymour was elected in his stead?—Yes.

22,650. Do you know of other cases where persons have been evicted soon after an election by Mr. Michelmore?—I have heard so.

22,651. Can you give us their names?—I think there was a man of the name of Sercombe, and I believe there were others. I never interfere about elections. I have an old political squib with some five or six names to it which came out at that time.

22,652. How old is that?—There is no date to it.

22,553. How many years back was it?—Soon after I was turned out.

22,654. Was it when you voted for Dunn?—I dare say it was. I always voted for the Conservatives.

22,655. Of course you allude to old Mr. Michelmore?—Yes; he is dead.

22,656. (Mr. Bere.) When did you first have a vote for Totnes?—At Pender and Seymour's election.

22,657. Who did you vote for then?—Pender and Seymour.

22,658. Do you mean the last election?—No.

22,659. Did you vote for Pender in 1862?—Yes, I think I did.

22,660. Did you vote for Seymour against Dent?—Yes.

22,661. What did you get for voting for Seymour?—Nothing.

22,662. Did anyone come to you on the other side, from Dent?—Yes.

22,663. Who came to you?—A man named John Tucker.

22,664. What did he offer you to vote for Dent?—He offered me 20*l.*

22,665. Would you not take that?—No.

22,666. Did you say what you would take?—No.

22,667. Did you tell the other side that you had been offered 20*l.*?—I do not think I did.

22,668. Are you sure you did not?—I might. I would not say.

22,669. Are you a son-in-law of William Shillabeer?—I am a brother-in-law of Samuel Shillabeer.

22,670. Did he get anything for you in 1863?—Yes, he got something.

22,671. How much did he get?—He got 10*l.*

22,672. And handed it over to you?—Yes.

22,673. Was that all that he handed over to you?—That is all I had.

22,674. How much did he have?—That I do not know.

22,675. Which Mr Tucker came to you, the one at Roester Bridge?—No. A man in this town, a butcher.

22,676. Do you know whom Samuel Shillabeer got the 10*l.* from. Did he tell you?—No, I do not think he did.

22,677. Do you know where he got it from?—He got it from the party who I voted for.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

Mr. R. Smaridge.

13 Sept. 1866.

22,678. From Charles Frederick Michelmore?—I do not know.

22,679. Do not you think he did?—Perhaps he might.

22,680. He got it from the Liberal party at any rate?—Yes.

22,681. Who told you that he got it from Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore?—I do not know that he did get it from him.

22,682. Were you not told in 1863 that it came from him?—I do not know who he got it from.

22,683. In 1863 did you not promise John Tucker to vote for Dent?—No, not exactly.

22,684. Did you promise him a little?—I told him I did not know which side I should vote.

22,685. Did he tell you to come to the "Seven Stars"?—He asked me to go there.

22,686. And did you not go?—I did go.

22,687. Where did you go to at the "Stars"?—I cannot tell you.

22,688. Was it in the back room or the little room?—That I do not know.

22,689. How long were you there?—Not very long.

22,690. You slipped out and was caught by Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—I got out of the "Stars."

22,691. Did not Mr. Michelmore get hold of you?—I went down to Shillabeer's, and Mr. Michelmore came in.

22,692. And took you to the "Seymour"?—Yes.

22,693. You were kept there all night?—Yes.

22,694. And taken up the next morning, and you then voted for Seymour?—That is the second election.

22,695. Did not Mr. Charles F. Michelmore keep watch that day?—He was there.

22,696. How many were there?—I do not know. Shillabeer was with me.

22,697. Were you in a room by yourselves?—For some time.

22,698. Who else were there?—They were all voters for Totnes, I believe, but were strangers to me; I was a fresh one.

22,699. You did not try to get out that night?—No.

22,700. You were too well satisfied?—I did not go out.

22,701. What did you get when Mr. C. F. Michelmore kept watch over you?—He promised to get me 30*l.*, but he never paid me; I never had it.

22,702. Did you not occupy the same field with Mr. Shillabeer that time?—Yes.

22,703. Had you a single head of cattle on it then?—Yes, a good many.

22,704. Who paid the rent?—I did.

22,705. To whom?—To Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

22,706. Was it not Samuel Shillabeer who paid the rent?—No; I went with the rent to him many times.

22,707. Did you get the money from Samuel Shillabeer to pay it with?—Sometimes I did.

22,708. Always, was it not?—I do not know about always.

22,709. How many times have you ever given a sixpence yourself towards the rent?—That I cannot tell.

22,710. Whom, in 1865, did you vote for?—I voted for Dawkins and Pim.

22,711. You turned round on the other side?—Yes.

22,712. What made you turn round? How much money was it that made you turn round that Samuel Shillabeer brought you in a bag?—Not Samuel Shillabeer.

22,713. William Shillabeer?—No.

22,714. Who brought it?—One of Mr. Heath's sons.

22,715. James or John?—Mr. James I think.

22,716. Where did he bring it to?—Down to Mr. Shillabeer's.

22,717. You were there waiting?—I was.

22,718. Whom had you negotiated with?—Mr. John Heath

22,719. How much did you get then, 50*l.*?—60*l.*

22,720. I think they objected to your vote, and you got struck off the register. You have not a vote now?—I have not.

22,721. You got your 60*l.* from Mr. James Heath. What had they been offering you on the other side?—I do not think they offered me anything.

22,722. Some of them came to see you?—Mr. Michelmore came to my house. I was coming to Totnes, and he met me on the hill.

22,723. What did he say to you?—I think it was that I should be put on.

22,724. Did you not see Mr. Samuel Parnell?—He never came to me to my recollection.

22,725. Did he send to you?—Send where?

22,726. Anywhere?—I never had anything to do with anyone else but Mr. John Heath.

22,727. Did you go to Mr. Samuel Parnell?—No.

22,728. Did you try to find out how much you could get on the other side?—No, I never said anything about it.

22,729. How did Samuel Shillibeer vote last time?—The same way as I did.

22,730. And for the same reasons?—That I do not know.

22,731. Samuel Shillibeer had voted for the Liberal side before, had he not?—Yes.

22,732. Is there a William Shillibeer?—Not that I know of.

22,733. Did you go down to the "Seymour" at all the last time?—No.

22,734. You were rather afraid of being taken off?—I did not go there.

22,735. They brought a fly to take you to the poll, and you would not go in the fly?—I did not go.

22,736. They sent a "Seven Stars" fly for you, and you were afraid to go into it?—When?

22,737. The last time, 1865?—Not at that election, that I recollect.

22,738. Did you walk up to the poll?—I did.

22,739. Did you poll early?—Yes.

22,740. Did you walk from your own house to the poll?—No.

22,741. Where were you?—At the "Seven Stars."

22,742. You spent the night at the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

22,743. In a bedroom?—Yes.

22,744. With William Stoyle and William Foote?—I do not know.

22,745. Did you sleep there?—Yes, I slept there.

22,746. How many in a bed?—Only one beside myself.

22,747. How many beds in a room?—That I do not know; may be two or three.

22,748. (Mr. Coleridge.) You were so comfortable when you went to bed that you cannot recollect?—I cannot say.

22,749. (Mr. Bere.) Who was your bedfellow? If there was a bedfellow you must know who was there?—I do not know, sir.

22,750. (Mr. Coleridge.) How many slept in the room?—I think there were two beds in the room.

22,751. Two in each bed?—Yes.

22,752. Who were in the other beds?—I do not know.

22,753. Who was in your bed?—I do not know about that.

22,754. Come now, it was not your wife?—Oh, no, sir.

22,755. Who was it?—I tell you I do not know any person who was there.

22,756. Was it Foote?—I cannot say.

22,757. (Mr. Bere.) Were you pretty well on when you went to bed that night?—On what, sir?

22,758. What is the peculiar liquid that you like best?—I am not particular.

22,759. Were you pretty well drunk when you went to bed that night?—No, I do not think much.

22,760. Surely you can remember who was your bedfellow?—I do not know the party.

22,761. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was he a voter?—I dare say he was.

22,762. Did he go up to vote with you the next morning?—Not with me; I went up with James Heath.

22,763. (Mr. Bere.) Did you see Mr. Jeffery Michelmore about your vote last time?—I met him coming home.

22,764. What did he say to you about it?—He asked me whether I was going to vote for Seymour? I said "No."

22,765. What did he say then?—He did not say very much. I told him I should not vote that side this time.

22,766. Did he ask you why?—Yes, he did.

22,767. What reason did he give?—I told him.

22,768. That you had got 60*l.* for voting the other way?—No.

22,769. What did you tell him?—Because they did not pay me what they promised me the time before.

22,770. (Mr. Coleridge.) How much had they promised you?—30*l.*

22,771. And they did not pay you?—No.

22,772. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Jeffery Michelmore say if you voted for him he would make it all right this time?—I think he did.

22,773. (Mr. Coleridge.) How much would he have paid you altogether if he had given any?—He did not say.

22,774. How much did you expect?—I cannot tell what he expected.

22,775. What did you expect?—I did not say anything.

22,776. What did you think?—I did not say anything, because I did not want to vote for him at any price.

22,777. What price would have made you vote for him?—None.

22,778. Not 100*l.*?—No.

GEORGE GRIFFIS recalled and examined.

Mr. G. Griffis.

22,779. (Mr. Bere.) Where have you been since you went up to your house and came back here?—I have been at home.

22,780. Have you been at home?—I have not been in my own house.

22,781. Have you been with somebody else; have you been to see Mr. Searle?—No; I went up to Mr. Sawyers and had a glass of grog.

22,782. You became a bankrupt in 1863, did you not?—I did.

22,783. Just look here (showing a book to the witness); that is the account that is made out in your handwriting?—I believe it is.

22,784. And you say this is an account of what you have paid; had you paid Mr. Bryett 20*l.* at that time before you became a bankrupt?—I am sure I do not know.

22,785. When did you borrow money from Mr. Bryett; after the election of 1863, did you not?—After the election of 1863.

22,786. 28*l.*, was it not?—I think 30*l.*

22,787. When did you repay it; did you pay any part of it back to him before you became bankrupt?—Yes, I think I did; I think it was all paid and the interest what I borrowed then.

22,788. When did you borrow any more from him?—I borrowed money from him since that.

22,789. How much?—I cannot tell you.

22,790. How much have you paid back?—Oh, I paid it all back, and many pounds since that. I believe Mr. Bryett is in my debt now.

22,791. We were asking you about Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle when we sent you home to get some accounts; you produce an account book, is that the only account you have got?—That is all.

22,792. You do not seem to have had a large number of customers according to that book?—That is the only book that I have got.

22,793. Are you quite certain that you ever paid Mr. Bryett a single shilling of the money you borrowed before your bankruptcy?—I do not know; I had been doing work for Mr. Bryett.

22,794. Be careful. You answered me just this minute and said that the 28*l.* which Mr. Bryett had lent you shortly after the election of 1863 was paid back by you to him before you became bankrupt?—I did not hand him the money, nor did I pay him; it was my wife that had got the money; he did not let me have the money itself.

22,795. There was a distress put into your house by Jeffery Michelmore, and your wife went to Mr. Bryett and he paid the distress out?—He did; I told you so before.

22,796. Did you ever pay back to Mr. Bryett before your bankruptcy a single penny of the money Mr. Bryett paid for the distress?—I do not know whether I have or not.

22,797. What business you got did you enter it as an account of monies paid off?—My wife can explain that better than I can; my son and my wife keep the books.

22,798. There are two accounts in your book, one is to Budgett and the other is Blight; are those your only two customers?—My accounts are kept in my head; I am a very poor accountant myself.

22,799. I am asking about Thomas Jacob Searle. How much money did Thomas Jacob Searle pay you, whether for work or anything else, within a month of the election, either before or after?—Not a farthing.

22,800. When last did he pay you any money?—This year.

22,801. This?—I think there is the bark.

22,802. How did he pay you?—Several pounds.

22,803. How much?—I have had pounds.

22,804. How many tons of bark?—About 30*l.*

22,805. About how many tons of bark?—I cannot say exactly; at the moment you ask me to say I cannot tell; I cannot tell everything from my head in a minute.

22,806. Your head is the only place where you keep your accounts?—Five or six tons of bark.

22,807. 5*l.* 10*s.* a ton?—More than that, 5*l.* 15*s.*

22,808. What month was that?—I think the bark was delivered in the June month.

22,809. When before had he paid you any money?—Not for 12 months

22,810. Had he not paid you some money in July 1865?—No; I do not think I had done any work for him then, or anything.

22,811. Did he not pay you some money?—No.

22,812. Or your wife?—Nor my wife.

22,813. When last before June 1866 did he pay you any money?—I think it must be 12 months, or thereabouts. I sold him some bark the year before. I only deal with him in the bark way.

22,814. What is he?—A tanner.

22,815. You sell him the bark?—I sell him my bark.

22,816. Has your wife received any money from Mr. Searle?—No, sir.

22,817. Take care?—I am certain of it.

22,818. You are certain of that?—I am.

22,819. At any time?—At no time.

22,820. Or your son?—Nor my son.

22,821. Nor anybody for you?—Nor anybody for me.

22,822. Or from anybody else on the Liberal side?—Never.

22,823. Or has your wife received any money?—Never.

22,824. If Thomas Jacob Searle says he gave you the money he is saying what is not true?—I will swear to that, and it is the truth I say.

22,825. That may be?—It is truth, too.

22,826. You are the only George Griffis of Totnes?—I am the only George Griffis, excepting my son.

22,827. However, Jacob Searle says, "I also gave

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

Mr. G. Griffis.

13 Sept. 1866.

"money to George Griffis?"—I say if he tells you that he tells you a great falsehood.

22,828. Did he give it to your wife?—No, sir.

22,829. Are you quite sure about that?—She has deceived me if she has done so.

22,830. That 50*l.* that she did get, what became of that?—We spent it.

22,831. When did she tell you first about the 50*l.* she got from Mr. John Heath?—I think it was the day after the election.

22,832. She told you nothing about it before?—No, nor I never went to Mr. Heath's house.

22,833. I did not ask that; I asked if your wife ever told you she was going to Mr. Heath's house to get some money?—It appears she went there.

29,834. Did she tell you she was going?—No, she did not.

22,835. Did you know she was going?—I never knew she was gone till she had been and back again, the day after.

22,836. Who talked to you about your vote at the last election besides your wife?—I really do not know; I know who canvassed me.

22,837. Who canvassed you?—I recollect the parties that called on me; Colonel Dawkins, he called on me; I promised him directly as soon as he called. I said, "I shall vote with you, sir."

22,838. When did you say that?—I think it was on the Monday or Tuesday; I cannot tell you the day of the month.

22,839. Did Mr. Finch, Mr. Durant's steward, come and see you?—Yes, he did.

22,840. How long before the election?—He called at my house; I was not at home.

22,841. When had you seen him?—Perhaps not a month before the election.

22,842. Did you see him just after the election?—I may have seen him a few days after.

22,843. A few days before?—I am sure about that; he came to my house and I was not at home.

22,844. Did he leave a message with your wife, which she gave you?—He said he hoped I would support Pender and Seymour.

22,845. That is the message your wife gave you?—Yes.

22,846. Did he say what he would do if you voted for Pender and Seymour?—Not a word.

22,847. Did he have any dealings with you about that time?—No.

22,848. Did you buy or sell some timber?—I buy it down there just by Mr. Durant's.

22,849. Were you buying timber then?—No, I did not buy any for several months, before or after.

22,850. Was Mr. Finch the person you generally bought the timber of?—Yes, he is the managing man.

22,851. Did you not buy some timber or did he not sell you some timber about that time?—No, he did not.

22,852. Did you sell him some?—No.

22,853. Have you done any work for Mr. Durant?—I do his wheelwrighting work.

22,854. Did he owe you a large bill?—No, he did not.

22,855. Did Mr. Finch promise you work for Mr Durant at that time?—I had done it before.

22,856. Or leave word with your wife?—Not at all.

22,857. Did you see Charles Frederick Michelmore about the election?—I see him very often.

22,858. Did he ask you for your vote?—I do not recollect that he did.

22,859. You must recollect it?—If he had I should not take any notice of him.

22,860. Why? Did you not tell him you were going to vote for Mr. Pender?—Yes, if he asked me no doubt I did.

22,861. Did you vote for Pender and Dawkins?—For the two men I promised.

22,862. Who were those?—Dawkins and Pender.

22,863. To whom did you promise to vote for Pender?—I promised him myself when he called on me

22,864. (Mr. Longe.) You said you got something from Mr. Pender, did you not?—Mr. Harris said so; he told a good many things that he knew nothing at all about; that is my opinion.

22,865. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you told all you know about it?—I can say so, as far as I know.

22,866. You have nothing more to tell us?—I do not know that I have.

22,867. Or about what your wife had to do with the election?—Yes, sir.

22,868. Whatever it was she never handed it at the time to you?—I never had a farthing of it. I would rather it had been true, I should have been a 50*l.* better man.

Mr. S. Hilley.

SAMUEL HILLEY sworn and examined.

22,869. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you a voter?—I am.

22,870. When did you first vote?—I voted for Mills and Earl Gifford. I think that was the first.

22,871. What did you get for that?—I got a very small amount; I got nothing before I voted.

22,872. What did you get?—I got a balance paid of 12*l.* odd (an account I owed) by the party.

22,873. Who paid you that?—Mr. Forde. That was done after I voted.

22,874. Who paid it?—Mr. Forde put a stamp to the amount of the balance that I had with him.

22,875. It worked off the balance?—I had promised my vote before that; he came to me came to me in the morning, and asked me how I was going to vote; "Mills and Gifford," I said; when I came back he had put the stamp to the balance.

22,876. You got 12*l.* for having voted?—Yes, I had.

22,877. On the next occasion, 1862, when Dent and Pender stood, who canvassed you?—They both canvassed me.

22,878. And in 1857 you got the balance of your bill paid off?—Yes.

22,879. Do you recollect 1859, when Mr. Dunn stood?—I do.

22,880. Did Frederick Evans give you 30*l.*, or not?—He did.

22,881. What for?—Voting for Dunn.

22,882. Now we come to 1862, Dent and Pender; what did you get then?—Nothing.

22,883. How were you going to vote?—Going to vote for Mr. Dent.

22,884. What were you promised if the election had come off all right?—I dare say I should have got some, but it happened I never asked for money.

22,885. You were not strong enough to withstand the temptation?—I suppose I was not able, nor anybody else.

22,886. Were you ever told at Dent's election you could have as much as 30*l.* if you voted for him?—Evans did.

22,887. Never told you more than 30*l.*?—Never.

22,888. Never put it at a higher figure?—No.

22,889. You were to have had 30*l.*, but Mr. Dent ran away and you got nothing?—I do not know that I was to have anything. I have no doubt I should have had the same as the rest.

22,890. In 1863, Seymour and Dent. What did you get then?—I got 30*l.*

22,891. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Evens brought it to my house; he did not give it to me.

22,892. That was to vote for Dent?—Yes.

22,893. Were you offered anything to vote for Seymour?—No.

22,894. Were you offered anything to vote for the Liberal side?—No; when I passed my word I did not have any offer.

22,895. You got 12*l.*; in 1857, 30*l.*; and in 1862 you were promised 30*l.*?—I do not know that I was promised.

22,896. You expected it?—I had no doubt I should have it; I did not get so much as some of them.

22,897. Now as to 1865; what did you do in 1865; who did you vote for?—Dawkins and Pim.

22,898. Who canvassed you?—Pim; I only saw him.

22,899. You did not do quite so well in 1865 as you had done before?—No.

22,900. How is that?—I do not know.

22,901. Who promised you anything in 1865?—Mr. Evens came to me, but there was nothing said about it; he went away and I did not see him afterwards.

22,902. You gave an I. O. U. for something afterwards?—No.

22,903. Whom did you give it to?—Mr. Heath.

22,904. Which?—Mr. George.

22,905. Where?—Up in the telegraph office.

22,906. What did he do with you when you gave him that piece of paper?—He gave me 20*l.*

22,907. Whom were you to vote for?—Pim and Dawkins. He did not say what for, but I supposed it was for that.

22,908. And you did vote?—I did.

22,909. What were you offered on that occasion?—Nothing.

22,910. Do you mean that the people did not try you?—Mr. Pender canvassed me at my shop. I told him I had promised my vote, and he did not come to me after.

22,911. Did he promise you a situation?—No.

22,912. Did he offer you any inducement to vote for the Liberal side?—I defy any man to say so.

22,913. Did you vote at the municipal elections?—Yes.

22,914. What has been the price?—I vote just as I think proper. I never study politics at the municipal elections. I vote for the man I like, and as an independent voter.

22,915. The man you like is generally the man that can pay something?—No.

22,916. Do you mean your virtue is so great that you never received anything at a municipal election?—I did receive several years ago 5*s.* for being messenger.

22,917. That is all you ever received for a council election?—Yes.

22,918. Have you told us all you ever received for electioneering altogether?—Yes, I believe I have.

22,919. The whole of these elections together you have received, as far as I make it out, is 10*l.* 2*s.* 5*d.* which is what your franchise has been worth?—92*l.* 5*s.* I had promised my vote when a gentleman came and asked me, and I said I was going to vote so-and-so.

22,920. Have you ever voted at any election for members of Parliament that you have not received something for it?—No.

22,921. You never would?—I do not know about never. I believe there are very few that are independent voters.

22,922. Captain Pim canvassed you the last time?—Yes.

22,923. What did he say to you?—I cannot say.

22,924. Did he tell you his political views?—No.

22,925. He never talked about politics?—I do not trouble my head much about that.

22,926. Did he come and say, "I am Commander Pim"?—I knew who he was.

22,927. Who brought him?—Young Mr. Heath.

22,928. Who did he say he was?—He introduced him as Captain Pim.

22,929. What did Captain Pim say?—I had signed the requisition that I would vote for those parties.

22,930. Did you know whom you had signed the requisition for, whom you had asked to come down?—I thought it was Colonel Dawkins.

22,931. Were you not very much surprised to hear that it was Mr. Macleay?—I was surprised to hear it.

22,932. Is that your signature (referring to the requisition)?—Yes.

22,933. What did Mr. Harris tell you about this thing? Did he read over all this top part to you, the requisition to Mr. Macleay?—I have no doubt he did, but I have forgotten it.

22,934. You did not know you had offered the honour of the borough to Mr. Macleay?—No.

22,935. You did not care who it was so long as there was a contest and money going on?—That is about it.

T. Mugford.

THOMAS MUGFORD sworn and examined.

22,936. (Mr. Longe.) What is your occupation?—A dealer in oysters and shellfish.

22,937. How long have you lived in Totnes?—I suppose 30 years.

22,938. How long have you had a vote?—The first time I got it was at Mr. Dent's election.

22,939. Which election?—The first.

22,940. 1862 and 1863?—Both the elections.

22,941. Whom did you vote for then?—Mr. Dent.

22,942. Now in 1862 who canvassed you?—Mr. Dent himself.

22,943. And who else?—I cannot say now.

22,944. With Mr. Dent you do not know who it was?—I do not know who it was with Mr. Dent.

22,945. Was he the last person who asked you for your vote?—Yes.

22,946. Were you asked for a promise?—Yes.

22,947. And you promised it at once?—Yes.

22,948. Had you made up your mind before that?—I never voted for the Liberal party.

22,949. Were you canvassed on the other side?—Oh, yes.

22,950. At that election?—Oh, no.

22,951. Were you canvassed by Mr. Pender?—I was canvassed by Mr. Pender.

22,952. What did you tell him?—I told him I should not vote for him.

22,953. What did you get in 1862? Did you hear there was any money going?—I had a present he gave me inside the "Seven Stars." I think it was 10 sovereigns some gentleman promised me, but I do not know who it was that gave it me.

22,954. At the "Seven Stars"?—Outside the "Seven Stars."

22,955. You are speaking of 1862, the last election?—That is the first election.

22,956. What did he give you?—Ten sovereigns.

22,957. Did you not ask for it?—No, I did not.

22,958. You understood there was money going?—I did.

22,959. What time in the day was it these 10 sovereigns were paid?—I should say the afternoon, I think.

22,960. You were a lucky man at that time?—Very lucky.

22,961. A good many went down for money and could not get it?—I cannot tell.

22,962. That was the time when Mr. Dent ran away without paying?—I do not know.

22,963. You remember that, he did not go to the poll?—No.

22,964. You do not remember anything about the election?—I do not know any more. When the election is going on I go forward and poll.

22,965. You did not poll that time?—I polled the first time Mr. Dent came.

22,966. You were one of the five?—I was one of the five, and you will find my name there.

22,967. After that you remember another election?—Soon after, but I cannot say exactly.

22,968. That was Seymour and Dent?—That was Seymour and Dent.

22,969. At that election who canvassed you?—Mr. Dent.

IGHTEENTH DAY.

T. Mugford.

3 Sept. 1866.

22,970. Were you canvassed, and did you promise him?—Yes.

22,971. And you got 6*l.*?—That I have before said.

22,972. You were bound to vote again the same side?—No, I do not know about being bound.

22,973. You thought you would get another 10*l.*?—No, I did not.

22,974. Why did you vote for Dent the second time?—Because I do not like the name of Seymour. I have told everyone the same; I never will vote for one of the family.

22,975. Why have you got such an antipathy to the Seymours?—Because I think they are a disgraceful lot.

22,976. But why?—To see how the duke has acted here, and made quite a corruption here.

22,977. You would never have got the 10*l.* if he had not made the corruption?—I cannot say anything about that.

22,978. As soon as you got a vote you determined to vote against the Seymours?—I never voted for one of the Seymour family; I do not like the name.

22,979. What did you get in 1863?—I got nothing that time.

22,980. The 10*l.* had to buy both votes at that time?—I cannot say about buying at all.

22,981. You got nothing but 6*l.* for your votes?—They gave me a present.

22,982. The second time they did not give you anything at all?—No.

22,983. Did you ask for anything?—No, I never asked for anything.

22,984. There was more money going the second time than the first?—No, I cannot say; I mind my own business.

22,985. You got nothing, you were promised nothing, and you asked for nothing?—No.

22,986. I now come to the last election, 1865; whom did you vote for then?—I voted for Captain Pim and Colonel Dawkins.

22,987. Who canvassed you at that election first?—They both canvassed me.

22,988. Did Mr. Seymour call upon you again?—Oh, yes, he called at one time.

22,989. And Mr. Pender called too?—He called outside the door.

22,990. You were civil to him and received him?—I was civil enough to tell him I should not vote for one of his name.

22,991. Who was with Mr. Seymour when he called?—I cannot tell you.

22,992. Who is your landlord?—Mr. Putt.

22,993. John Putt?—In Fore Street.

22,994. Mr. Pender called on you?—Yes, he called on me.

22,995. And asked you for your vote?—Yes.

22,996. And you objected to him?—I told him I should not vote for one of the party, not for the Liberal party.

22,997. Who was with Mr. Pender?—I think it was Mr. Jeffery Michelmore; he was on the outside.

22,998. Only Mr. Pender came in?—There was some other gentleman; I do not know his name.

22,999. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore remained outside?—I think so; and Mr. Charles Michelmore, I think, was one.

23,000. Where was Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore?—He was outside too.

23,001. Who came in; was it Mr. Chaster?—No, he would not come to my house.

23,002. Would he not come to you?—Not he, sir.

23,003. What is the matter with Mr. Chaster?—I do not know.

22,004. Was it Mr. Windeatt?—No.

22,005. Not young Mr. Windeatt?—No.

22,006. You do not know who it was?—No; I believe two strange men came; I do not know them.

23,007. Did he say he would call again?—No, he did not.

23,008. Did you give him to understand anything?—I gave him to understand I should not vote for him. He shook hands with me, and said he wished everyone would give as much satisfaction as I did. If all said the same, he would know what to do.

23,009. Did you not have an interview with some one from the "Stars"?—No; Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour called first before the other two.

23,010. Who came to you from the Conservative party and canvassed you for the Conservatives?—I think it was Mr. Kellock called with Mr. Dent.

23,011. Which?—Young Mr. Frederick.

23,012. And Colonel Dawkins?—And Colonel Dawkins, and Mr. Edmonds I think.

23,013. There were three?—There were three of them altogether.

23,014. When they called how did you receive them?—They came in, and they said, "Mr. Mugford, "is he in?" I said, "Holloa! what is up? You "used to call me Tom, and now you come with "Mr. Mugford. Why so?" I said, "If you call me "Tom, you shall have my vote."

23,015. So they secured your vote by calling you "Tom;" did they give you something else?—"Tom," that is what I am called now.

23,016. Did you promise your vote?—Yes; since he called me "Tom."

23,017. After that they gave you 25*l.*?—I do not know who did do it.

23,018. Someone did?—I cannot say they did not.

23,019. But someone called on you; how did you get it?—I got 25*l.* at No. 1 in the "Stars."

23,020. Who sent for you?—No person. I was going down to meet the steamer, and as I am very fond of a drop of beer, I went in and had a glass of beer. They said, "Who are you," I said, "Mugford."

23,021. Who asked you your name?—There were many going in and out.

23,022. Tell us all the story?—I got the 25*l.* that was handed over to me. I went home very proud upon it.

23,023. Who handed it over to you?—I do not know.

23,024. Did he give you 25*l.* with a lot of people about; was it openly before a lot of people; or did he call you into a little room?—I went in to have a glass of beer, which I often do.

23,025. Where was it this 25*l.* was given to you?—I do not know.

23,026. Yes you do know; was it in the street?—No, in No. 1.

23,027. How many people were in No. 1?—I dare say there might be a score.

23,028. Were there scores of people there when he gave you the money?—I did not say scores, I said there might be a score.

23,029. Do you mean to say 25*l.* was given to you in the room where there were a score of people present at the time?—I should think there must be a score there; perhaps they went in with the same errand as I did, to have a drop of beer.

23,030. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was it in; in a bag, or loose?—In a little bag.

23,031. Was it Mr. John Heath that gave it you?—No, because I should know he.

23,032. (Mr. Bere.) What sort of a man was he?—Such a man as that gentleman near you, as far as I can recollect, because I was half tight then.

23,033. (Mr. Coleridge.) I suppose you got tight after you got it?—Oh, yes.

23,034. Did you take it home to your wife?—I went right home to my wife with it.

23,035. With all the money?—I think I spent 6*d.* of it by way of a treat.

23,036. Was it a glass of grog?—No, I do not think that; it was beer.

23,037. You got tight on that?—No, not till the next day.

23,038. Should you have voted for Mr. Seymour if he had called you "Tom"?—No, sir; as I said before, I do not like the name of him.

23,039. What is your objection to the Seymours?—They are a bad lot.

RICHARD BOWDEN, jun., sworn and examined.

23,040. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you ? — A carpenter.

23,041. Are you a voter ?—Not for the borough.

23,042. Never had a vote ?—No.

23,043. What did you do at the last election ? Tell us your own story ?—I went to try to get William Reeve at Dartmouth.

23,044. When did you go ?—The Saturday before the election.

23,045. Which way were you in politics ?—Always was on the Tory side, the Conservatives.

23,046. You went to bring back this voter for Colonel Dawkins ?—Yes.

23,047. Who sent you ?—I went by my own free will.

23,048. Did anybody tell you that you had got influence, or were the proper person to go ?—No.

23,049. Had you ever seen any of the Conservative committee ; Mr. Edmonds, or any one of them ?—I had.

23,050. What was said ?—I said I thought I could manage to get William Reeve to vote for the Conservative side.

23,051. How had he voted before ?—I think one time he voted for the Conservatives.

23,052. Did he ever vote for the Liberals ? Did'nt he in Dent and Seymour's election ?—I don't know.

23,053. You thought you could get him ?—Yes.

23,054. Did you tell Mr. Edmonds so ?—Yes.

23,055. What did he say ?—If you can get him, you had better employ a trap and go.

23,056. Did he say how much you might offer him ?—No.

23,057. Did you go and see him ?—Yes.

23,058. What did you say to him ?—I said I could get you a certain sum if you'd come with me.

23,059. What sum did you say ?—I do not know.

23,060. Was it a 100*l.* ?—No.

23,061. More ?—Less than that.

23,062. What was it ; 80*l.* ?—I will tell you. I said to him, "If you will come with me I will get you "a certain sum of money." I went to see him on board of a vessel, and I said, "Bill, shall I speak to "you ?" "Yes," he says, "Dick, if you will." I said, "Will you come ashore," and he said, "Yes." and I said, "I shall get you 80*l.*, and no person will "know if you'll go with me." He said, "I can "do better on the other side." I said, "Won't you "come with me," and he said, "No."

23,063. Did he say how much he was offered on the other side ?—No.

23,064. Who was it ?—I cannot tell you.

23,065. Whom did he say ; come recollect, we must have it ?—You mustn't have it if I can't tell.

23,066. You said you knew ?—He mentioned no offer. He said a certain party offered him a sum of money.

23,067. Did he say who the party was ?—No.

23,068. Did you ask him ?—No.

23,069. Did you ask what the sum was ?—No.

23,070. Did you spring it up to a 100*l.* ?—No.

23,071. Tell me all about it ?—It was a certain sum of money, and that is all I know about it.

23,072. Then you went away ?—Yes, I did.

23,073. Didn't you try and persuade him to come ?—I did.

23,074. What did he say ?—"I shall not go, I can "get more on the other side."

23,075. Didn't you try to tempt him by offering him more ?—No.

23,076. Didn't you try to outbid the other side ?—No.

23,077. Didn't he mention the names of the other side ?—No.

23,078. No names ?—No.

23,079. Did he mention Mr. Lorimer's name ?—No.

23,080. Did he mention Mr. Latimer's name ?—No.

23,081. No names ?—No.

23,082. You are quite sure ?—Yes.

23,083. Not even Mr. Parnell ?—Parnell was a man I would'nt look at.

23,084. But he might have looked at him. Did he mention Mr. Pender or Mr. Michelmore ?—No.

23,085. How did he vote ?—I think on the other side.

23,086. Had you been about in 1863 ? What had you done ?—Nothing at all.

23,087. Didn't you canvass with anybody ?—No.

23,088. What else did you besides this at the last election ? What other voter did you go to ?—None that I recollect.

23,089. Was there any other that you went to ?—None at all.

23,090. Did you canvass with anyone ?—No.

23,091. Reeve was the only one ?—Yes.

23,092. Did Mr. Edmonds tell you to go and canvass anyone else ?—No.

23,093. You came and told Mr. Edmonds that you had had a bad journey ?—Yes.

23,094. Did he tell you to go and offer him something ?—No.

23,095. The Saturday before the election you went ?—Yes.

23,096. Who went with you ?—Richard Bartlett.

23,097. Did he make any better offer to Reeve ?—No.

23,098. Did he tell Richard Bartlett who offered him the money on the other side ?—No.

23,099. (Mr. Bere.) To whom did you report the unsuccessful result ?—To one of the party.

23,100. Where ?—At the "Seven Stars."

23,101. In the big room ?—In the passage, something like that.

23,102. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever see the mysterious stranger at the "Seven Stars" ?—I saw different parties.

23,103. Did you see the gentleman called Mr. Mum ?—That is humbug.

23,104. Did you see him ?—No, I did not.

23,105. No stranger about ?—No.

23,106. Did you see Mr. Smith ?—I cannot say.

23,107. Do you know Mr. Smith ?—I cannot remember.

Mr. J. Edmonds.

JAMES EDMONDS sworn and examined.

23,108. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a gardener living at Marldon ?—Yes.

23,109. How far is that from Totnes ?—Five miles.

23,110. Whose employ are you in ?—Dr. James Sherrard.

23,111. How long have you lived there ?—Since last May.

23,112. Where were you living before then ?—With Mrs. Taylor, of Torquay.

23,113. How long have you been a voter for the borough of Totnes ?—I believe four years.

23,114. Was the first election when Mr. Dent and Mr. Seymour stood ?—Mr. Pender I think was the first.

23,115. Mr. Pender and Mr. Dent stood ?—Yes.

23,116. Do you know John Sandford Screach ?—Yes.

23,117. Did he come to you in 1862 ?—He came to me at Mrs. Taylor's several times.

23,118. Did he offer you first of all 50*l.*, and then a 100*l.* ?—Various sums.

23,119. The first sum was too small, you wouldn't have it, and it got up pretty high, to 150*l.* ?—I never saw any money.

23,120. Didn't he come and take you from Torquay to Totnes ?—Yes.

23,121. Weren't you given to understand that you

EIGHTEENTH DAY,

Mr. J. Edmonds.

13 Sept. 1866.

could have 150*l.* if Mr. Dent stood?—Yes; but I told him I had promised my vote before that.

23,122. You had promised your vote?—Yes, for Mr. Pender.

23,123. Whom did you promise that to?—To Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

23,124. Had he been to Torquay to canvass you?—I think not.

23,125. How was it that you had promised your vote for Mr. Pender if Mr. Michelmore hadn't been there?—He was there on one occasion, but I do not recollect what occasion.

23,126. What was your qualification?—I occupied some landed property rented under the Duke of Somerset.

23,127. Land and building?—Yes.

23,128. How many qualified in the same spot?—No one.

23,129. What was the rent?—18*l.*

23,130. What was the building, a cowshed?—Yes.

23,131. An open linhay?—Yes, formerly a barn; but I had the property a long time before I had a vote.

23,132. In 1862, did Mr. Screach come to you and say, if you wanted it and Mr. Dent stood, you were to have 150*l.*?—I never told them that I would vote.

23,133. You gave him reasonable hopes?—That is another thing.

23,134. You were driven by Mr. Screach from Torquay?—We walked and rode together.

23,135. You had a share of Mr. Screach's horse?—Yes.

23,136. When you got to Totnes you found that Mr. Dent was not going to the poll?—He left me at Bridgetown, and I went to the hotel.

23,137. And you found that Mr. Dent was not going to the poll?—I was promised, but I never got it.

23,138. The first time you voted was in 1862?—Yes, I think that was the first time I had a qualification.

23,139. Do you remember when Mr. Dent and Mr. Seymour stood in January of the next year?—Yes.

23,140. Did Screach come to you again?—I hardly remember, I think he did.

23,141. Did he offer you 80*l.* then first of all?—I am not certain; he offered me several sums I know.

23,142. And you refused it then?—Yes.

23,143. Had two men, named Elliott and Callard, been to see you at that election before Screach came? Do you know Mr. Callard, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore's clerk?—Yes, Elliott was at Torquay, 23,144. Was Mr. Callard?—I do not know. Perhaps Callard may have, both might have been.

23,145. Had Mr. Callard been there?—Yes, I think so.

23,146. To ask you for your vote?—Yes.

23,147. Had you promised it?—I think I gave a satisfactory reason why I should vote for Mr. Seymour.

23,148. Did he give you a satisfactory reason why you should do so?—No.

23,149. Was anything said about money?—No.

23,150. Then Screach came and offered you 80*l.* to vote for Dent?—I do not know whether he came after or before.

23,151. Didn't Screach come more than once?—More than twice.

23,152. At one of the times didn't he bring 100*l.* in gold?—I never saw his gold, but there was something, and he said there was much, and he could get me something more.

23,153. What was it in, a bag?—I think it was.

23,154. What did it sound like?—Gold or copper.

23,155. You didn't trouble yourself to look at it?—No.

23,156. You didn't think it was copper?—No. I do not think I troubled myself. I told him then it was too late.

23,157. Did he afterwards offer you 200*l.*?—He never offered me 200*l.*

23,158. Was it 150*l.* the highest bid?—Never so much as 200*l.*

23,159. After he made you the last offer on that occasion did you say you would drive into Totnes the next day to see him?—I do not recollect that.

23,160. You may have done so?—In the way of conversation, I might have said so, but I do not recollect it.

23,161. You didn't go to him?—No.

23,162. You went to Mr. Callard?—I came from Torquay with one of the carriages who came and took me.

23,163. Who came with you in the carriage?—I do not know. The carriage was coming up, it was sent up to Mrs. Taylor's, otherwise I would have walked.

23,164. When you came to Totnes, did you see Mr. Callard?—Yes.

23,165. In the big room?—One of the rooms.

23,166. Did you go down the passage?—To some of the top rooms.

23,167. Whom did you see there?—I saw Mr. Callard.

23,168. Did you see Mr. Seymour?—I do not know. Mr. Seymour never canvasssed me.

23,169. Mr. Thomas Michelmore?—No.

23,170. Mr. Jeffery?—I think I did.

23,171. Mr. Charles Frederick?—I do not recollect who was in the room, I saw no one on any special purpose.

23,172. Didn't you go to one of the rooms and find a little bag?—No.

23,173. You're not so lucky?—No.

23,174. Did you get any money at all at that election?—No.

23,175. Have you ever had any?—No.

23,176. On either side?—No.

23,177. You have been offered money?—Yes, a good deal.

23,178. Why didn't you take it?—I did not feel inclined to, I thought more of my principle.

23,179. What are your principles?—I am Liberal in principles.

23,180. Just come here. Did you sign that requisition (showing witness a paper)?—Mr. Harris never brought me any requisition.

23,181. Who brought it?—I believe John Sandford Screach, senior, of Bridgetown.

23,182. Was he a Liberal?—He has been, I believe

23,183. Did he tell you what you were signing?—Not particular. I didn't see the names.

23,184. Did you ask what you were signing?—No.

23,185. I suppose that you understood that? Is that your handwriting (showing a paper to witness)?—I do not dispute that I put my name to it. Yes, that is it.

23,186. Did you read this part?—No I did not.

23,187. 'Tis a pity you didn't read that now?—I don't think I can.

23,188. Yes you can. (The witness read the paper.)—I never saw that before and never read it.

23,189. Do you sign things without looking at them?—In such things I am not particular.

23,190. What made you sign the thing that Screach brought you without reading it?—I do not know.

23,191. He told you it was about an election?—Yes; that there was no one to come and contest the borough without the signatures, and that is the reason I helped to fill it up.

23,192. You wanted a contest?—I had no reason to want one.

23,193. Your vote was worth nothing without it?—And nothing with it.

23,194. We shall see about that; you signed the requisition?—Yes.

23,195. You voted for Pender and Seymour?—Yes.

23,196. Did you go on the day of the nomination to the "Seymour" hotel?—Yes.

23,197. Did you have a breakfast there?—Yes, I did, I believe.

23,198. Did you receive any money that day?—No.

23,199. Take care. Did you not receive money that day?—No. I know what you are coming to.

23,200. Then you had better speak it out?—The transfer.

23,201. What did you transfer?—Sold some property or transferred it to Mr. Henry Michelmore, of Newton.

23,202. The brother to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—Yes.

23,203. How much did he pay you for the house? It was a house, wasn't it?—Yes.

23,204. How much was it?—140*l.*

23,205. When did he pay you, on the day of the election?—I never took the money.

23,206. Was the money offered to you on the day of the election?—The business was done on the day of the election.

23,207. Was the money there when the business was done?—I believe so.

23,208. Where did you have this transaction?—In one of the rooms of the "Seymour," down stairs, I think.

23,209. At the end of the passage?—I think it was.

23,210. Was Mr. Henry Michelmore and you alone?—I think persons were in and out. I think Mr. Cuming was in and out.

23,211. Was the 140*l.* in notes or in gold?—All I saw was in gold.

23,212. Who has got the title deeds of the property now?—Mr. Michelmore.

23,213. When did you get the money?—It was transferred that very morning, I assigned the deeds to Mr. Michelmore that morning, we could not meet before that morning, or we did not meet.

23,214. Are you still a voter for the borough of Totnes?—No.

23,215. When were you struck off?—I hardly know whether it is 12 months; I think it was the last registration.

23,216. Who is the tenant of your house now?—Thomas Glyde.

23,217. Wasn't Diggins a tenant?—No.

23,218. Of any house of yours?—No, I occupy the house myself.

23,219. We must know something more about the 140*l.*; was it put on the table when you went in?—No, there was not so much, I had paid a portion of the balance.

23,220. To whom did you pay the money?—The property was purchased by Mr. Michelmore.

23,221. Mr. Charles Frederick?—Yes; and I put it into Mr. Henry Michelmore's hands to get it put all to rights.

23,222. To whom were you going to sell it?—I was not going to sell it, I was going to purchase it; it was in dispute a long time. I never had the title deeds, and then I put it into Mr. Michelmore's hands to manage it.

23,223. Who was the 140*l.* to go to?—Mr. Michelmore purchased it for me, and he had to pay back the remainder.

23,224. How much had he to pay back?—I cannot tell.

23,225. How much did you pay?—The property was sold at 140*l.*

23,226. What was the balance?—I believe I had advanced on the property a sum of 65*l.*

23,227. You could not get that money?—I could not; that is right.

23,228. How much money was handed over to you?—I agreed to sell for 140*l.*

23,229. You had only advanced 65*l.*?—Only 65*l.*

23,230. How was it you managed to get property worth 140*l.* for 65*l.*?—I had no property; I deposited the money with Mr. Henry Michelmore.

23,231. How much did you deposit?—95*l.* I bought the property at 120*l.*; then I advanced 60*l.* and 20*l.*, which made it up.

23,232. How did you pay the 120*l.*?—It was paid to Mr. Charles Frederick Mitchelmore, but he keeps his accounts so bad that I can hardly tell you how much I had paid him.

23,233. Do you know what became of the 120*l.*?—The 120*l.*; the sum paid to Mr. Michelmore?

23,234. How did you know?—I did not know about it; I left it to Mr. Henry Michelmore; he is my attorney.

23,235. How much did Mr. Henry pay you?—He balanced my account and paid me 95*l.*

23,236. Did he pay it to you?—He put it to his account.

23,237. You got credit for 95*l.*?—Yes.

23,238. The day of the election?—On the transfer of the deeds.

23,239. A man called Glyde is your tenant?—Yes.

23,240. Do not you receive the rent yourself?—I have done.

23,241. When did you last receive the rent?—Last quarter day.

23,242. After the election did you see Mr. Diggins, Mr. Edmonds' clerk?—Yes; he came to serve me with a notice.

23,243. Did he give you a glass of beer?—We took a glass of beer.

23,244. Where?—I think at the "Royal Oak," Marldon.

23,245. Did he say to you that he wanted you to go to Mr. Edmonds about this business?—Yes, he did.

23,246. And did he say if you can put us up to a dodge about it?—Yes, that was it. He did'nt say it there; I said I would not go in at all.

23,247. Did you tell him you had nothing to say?—Yes.

23,248. What did he say?—He said he knew that I knew a great deal.

23,249. Did he say that you would have money to tell him what you did know?—He did.

23,250. How much?—He did not mention a sum.

23,251. 50*l.*?—No; 10*l.* or 20*l.*

23,252. Do you know Robert Tucker, of Ashburton?—I know Mr. Tucker, the solicitor.

23,253. Did he see you about the election petition?—Yes.

23,254. Did you tell him a story which he wrote down?—I do not know.

23,255. Did he ask you some questions?—Yes.

23,256. Did he write down your answers?—Yes he did.

23,257. Where was it; at the "South Devon" inn?—No; it was at the "Seymour" hotel.

23,258. When?—I cannot tell.

23,259. Had he sent for you to go over to the "Seymour" hotel?—Someone had; I did not know who I was to meet.

23,260. Did you get a letter to go to the "Seymour" hotel?—Yes.

23,261. From whom?—I think from Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

23,262. To go and see Mr. Tucker?—I think so.

23,263. As soon as you got Mr. Jeffery Michelmore's letter did you go to the "Seymour" hotel?—I think I did.

23,264. And saw Mr. Tucker?—I saw Mr. Tucker.

23,265. Did Mr. Tucker ask you some questions and write what you said in answer?—Yes.

23,266. Did Mr. Edmonds' clerk, say you can have 10*l.* or 20*l.*, or perhaps 50*l.* if you can put us up to a dodge or two?—He may have said so.

23,267. Did you tell Mr. Tucker?—I do not think I did; perhaps 10*l.* or 20*l.*

23,268. Not 50*l.*?—Perhaps I might name sums of money.

23,269. You didn't pay for your breakfast at the "Seymour" on the morning of the election?—No.

23,270. (Mr. Longe.) You had nothing to do with the message from Captain Pim before the election?—I never saw Captain Pim or Colonel Dawkins. I never saw any of the candidates before the election. They never canvassed me any of them; I know but very little, being away.

23,271. (Mr. Bere.) You must get your accounts and produce them before us?—Tomorrow.

23,272. All of your accounts and all your papers relating to your house?—Yes, I will.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

Mr. T. Blank.

13 Sept. 1866.

THOMAS BLANK recalled.

23,273. (Mr. Bere.) I hope that your memory is a little better than it was the day before yesterday?—I do not know anything different than I did.

23,274. Do you remember what happened with you and Thomas Jacob Searle about money?—I do not remember anything at all.

23,275. Did you find any money, or remember where you found any money since the day before yesterday?—No.

23,276. You cannot recollect that?—No.

23,277. You cannot remember whether Mr. Searle told you where to find it?—No.

23,278. Do you remember being at the "Seven "Stars" the Monday before the election?—Yes.

23,279. Was Mr. Screach there?—Mr. Screach came to my house.

23,280. He was with you?—He went with me.

23,281. When you went there, do you remember your wife coming there?—She came to inquire for me.

23,282. Did she tell you that there was a gentleman up at your house waiting to see you?—No.

23,283. Take care?—There was not anyone at my house, I will be on my oath.

23,284. Did she tell you that there was someone at your house?—No.

23,285. Did she tell you that someone wanted to see you?—No; I think not.

23,286. What did she tell you?—She called for me.

23,287. For what?—To come home, because she was not very well; she was ill.

23,288. How far is your house from the "Seven "Stars"?—Hardly a quarter of a mile.

23,289. Was she very ill?—Not very ill.

23,290. Had she got nobody that she could send?—No.

23,291. (Mr. Coleridge.). Had the money disagreed with her?—She had not got any money.

23,292. (Mr. Bere.) Are you quite certain?—Quite certain.

23,293. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did she show you any?—No.

23,294. (Mr. Bere.) Did she tell you there was a doctor at the house?—No.

23,295. She did not want a doctor?—No.

23,296. Come; she did'nt come and tell you she was ill?—She came for me to come home, and to see what I was about.

23,297. She was looking after you?—She came to see where I was.

23,298. Did she think that you had got into bad company?—I do not know.

23,299. Is she a Liberal in politics?—She does not trouble herself about that; she does not interfere in that.

23,300. Didn't she come down and tell you that Mr. Searle was at your house?—No.

23,301. Or anyone else?—No.

23,302. Did you go to your house in consequence of her coming down?—Yes, I went straight home.

23,303. Did you find anyone there?—No.

23,304. Anyone in the house or near the house?—No.

23,305. Did you see something that was not there when you went away in the morning?—It was in the evening.

23,306. Did you find something that was not there when you left the house?—I didn't find anything at all.

23,307. Had your wife found anything?—No.

23,308. Nothing at all?—I never heard her say she did, nor I do not think she did.

23,309. You are certain about that?—Yes.

23,310. Who took you to the poll?—Mr. Searle; but I did not know that he was going to take me to the poll. I thought he was going with me for a drive; I thought I was going in the country.

23,311. What bank do you put your money in?—I have no money in a bank.

23,312. Take care?—No.

23,313. When did you draw it out?—I never drew it out.

23,314. Had you got an account with the bank at the time of the election?—No.

23,315. Had you money on a note in the bank?—No.

23,316. Not in any bank?—No.

23,317. Not in England?—No, nor anywhere else.

23,318. Had you lent money to anyone?—No.

23,319. You must come back again?—It is all true what I have stated, and no mistake. I might have lent my brother-in-law some money seven or eight years ago.

23,320. (Mr. Coleridge.) How much was that?—I gave it to him. I did not lend it to him.

Mr. T. Lampen.

THOMAS LAMPEN, jun., sworn and examined.

23,321. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a voter?—No.

23,322. Your father is a voter?—Yes.

23,323. At the last election did you go and see your father about his vote?—I met him in the New Walk. I merely asked him how he was going to vote this time. I said, "I hope you will get something for "yourself this time."

23,324. Did you not say that if he voted on Mr. Pender's side you thought he might get a little?—I might have made some such remark out of curiosity, but I knew that all the men in the world would never turn him.

23,325. You do not think alike; you are a Liberal, and he is a Tory?—We are not all of one principle.

23,326. You have voted for the Liberals in the council?—That would depend.

23,327. Depend on what?—On the party who I felt disposed to vote for. I never received a farthing from a man in my life, or even a pint of beer.

23,328. You did tell your father he might get a little money on the other side?—I might have said I thought he had better try the other side. If I did say so I would not deny it.

23,329. Had anyone been to you to ask you to go to your father?—Not a soul.

23,330. Whose house do you live in?—The house belongs to Mrs. Marshall.

23,331. Were you a watcher at the last election?—No.

23,332. Or at any of the elections?—The first time that Baldwin came here I was.

Mr. G. Penny.

GEORGE PENNY sworn and examined.

23,333. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—A grocer.

23,334. How long have you had a vote?—For 25 years.

23,335. What was the first election at which you voted?—I voted in 1847. I was put on the list in 1841.

23,336. Who did you vote for then?—For Seymour and Ricardo.

23,337. What was your qualification?—A house in Fore Street.

23,338. Was there any money about then?—I do not think there was. I never asked.

23,339. Did you hear of it?—No.

23,340. The next election in 1852, whom did you vote for then?—For Mills and Seymour.

23,341. There was some money about then?—I heard there was.

23,342. Did you get any?—I did not. I never asked.

23,343. Were you canvassed by the Conservatives?—Yes, by Mr. Baldwin.

23,344. No offer of money was made to you?—None whatever.

23,345. In 1857, whom did you vote for then?—Lord Gifford and Mills.

23,346. Were you canvassed by the Conservatives?—I was.

23,347. By whom?—I cannot remember.

23,348. Was there money about then?—I heard so.

23,349. Was there money got by people on both sides?—There may have been, but I never saw or heard of it myself until after the election.

23,350. Was any offer of money made to you?—When the two Liberal candidates came to me I pledged my word to vote for them.

23,351. Did not the Conservatives offer you money?—No, they merely asked.

23,352. They did not offer you any money?—Not a farthing.

23,353. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are your customers Liberals or Tories?—I do not ask them. I think they are about half and half.

23,354. In this town I thought persons only dealt with those who agreed with them in political principles?—That is not so. I deal with lots of Tories.

23,355. (Mr. Longe.) In 1859, whom did you vote for then?—For Gifford and Mills.

23,356. Were you canvassed by Mr. Dunn?—Yes.

23,357. Did Mr. Mitchell call on you?—I do not know him.

23,358. Was any offer made to you then?—None.

23,359. Was any present made to you afterwards?—Never, direct or indirect.

23,360. In 1862 did you vote?—I did.

23,361. Whom did you vote for?—For Pender.

23,362. Were you canvassed by Mr. Dent?—I think so.

23,363. Was any offer of money made to you?—None.

23,364. Did you get anything from the other side?—No; there may have been something spoken of as a joke, not a reality.

23,365. Was that in 1862?—No, in 1863.

23,366. When Dent and Seymour stood?—Yes.

23,367. Whom did you vote for then?—Alfred Seymour.

23,368. Were you canvassed by Mr. Dent?—I believe I was.

23,369. Had you no visit from Frederick Evens or Screach?—I never knew them in my life; they never came inside my house.

23,370. Was anything offered you at that time by anyone?—I was offered by old John Heath 100*l.*

23,371. How was that; did he call on you?—He did not; he met me accidentally in the street, and asked me whether I would not do something for them that time; he said "I can manage 100*l.* for you." I said, "Let us have it." I went over to the "Stars" to get it; they were just beginning to fall out amongst themselves, and I cut my stick.

23,372. You did not get it?—No.

23,373. If you had got it how should you have voted?—I cannot say.

23,374. When was this offer made to you?—The night before the election.

23,375. That was the only offer made to you?—Yes.

23,376. At the election of 1865 you had another offer from the Conservatives through young Narramore?—Yes.

23,377. Was that the only offer you had?—Yes.

23,378. When was that made?—On the morning of the election Narramore and another youngster like himself were passing up the street, and he said to me, "You are run away again; we can give you "something." I said, "Let us have it." He said, "We can get you 350*l.*" I said "You keep the 150*l.* "for yourself, and bring me the 200*l.*; you know "where I am."

23,379. You did have a bonâ fide offer from Mr. Heath?—That was at another election.

23,380. Did you not look out for something this time?—I never looked out.

23,381. When this offer was made by Narramore, you did not believe it?—No, nor anyone else.

23,382. No offer had been made before that?—No.

23,383. And you got nothing afterwards?—No, direct or indirect.

23,384. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had old Mr. Heath said anything to you?—No, he never spoke to me.

23,385. (Mr. Bere.) Is your house your own?—Yes.

23,386. Although no offer was made to you on the Liberal side, did anyone who had a strong influence over you press you to vote on that side?—No one.

23,387. Has not Mr. Huxham some influence over you?—No, he never asked me to vote in his life.

EDMUND TUCKER sworn and examined. Mr. E. Tucker.

23,388. (Mr. Bere.) Are you one of the gentlemen who signed the petition?—Yes.

23,389. How long have you been a voter?—About 20 years.

23,390. Have you always voted for the Conservatives?—Yes.

23,391. And did you ever receive any money for doing so?—Certainly not.

23,392. Have you ever given money to anyone else?—No; I never offered the slightest inducement in my life.

23,393. In 1863 did you go with Mr. Sparke Distin to see Crawford about his vote?—On my way home I called on Mr. Distin to wish him good night, and he told me that he was going to Crawford's to bespeak a carriage on the following day to take his son to school, and asked me if I would go with him. We went into the passage and on our way in we ran up against a man; it was between the two lights.

23,394. Do you know who he was?—I have since heard it was Samuel Parnell. Mr. Distin called out for Crawford, and I heard an answer from the court. We went through a passage and saw Crawford in the yard, and Mr. Distin asked him to come round the next morning at 9 with a carriage to take his son to school; that was all I heard.

23,395. Did you leave Crawford's before Mr. Distin did?—We left together.

23,396. Could anything have passed between Crawford and Distin which you did not hear?—Certainly not.

23,397. No offer was made by you to Crawford of 50*l.* for his vote?—Certainly not.

23,398. Is there any other person in Totnes of your christian name?—No.

23,399. Could Mr. Distin have made that offer without your hearing it?—I do not think it is possible.

23,400. Do you remember the election of 1862, when Mr. Dent withdrew?—I do.

23,401. Did you know anything of a set of people called the slippery company?—They were talked of.

23,402. Did one of the Searles tell you on that occasion that you were too late?—I was at the "Stars" on the night of the nomination, and as I was going out I met Mr. Kellock; he asked me where I was going; I said I was going home. He said, "Stay with me, and we will go across the bridge to "see what is going on." At the gate Mr. Kellock went on the lower side and I passed on. When we were about half-way across we saw Thomas Jacob Searle, and he said, "Well, old chap," or words to that effect, "what are you going to do to-morrow; "you are too late now for the bargain is made; they "might have had me and four or five others."

23,403. Did you hear from other people any information that they had been bribed or been offered money on the Liberal side?—Never.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

Mr. E. Tucker.

13 Sept. 1866.

23,404. Except that one instance?—That is the only instance I ever heard of.

23,405. (Mr. Coleridge.) What caused you to sign the petition?—I happened to be at the "Stars," and on my way home I met Mr. Edmonds who asked me if I would return for a moment, and called me into a room behind the bar. He said Colonel Dawkins was determined to petition against the sitting members, believing he had a strong case sufficient to turn them out, but he could not present a petition unless he had the signatures of two Conservatives.

23,406. You knew there had been enough dirty work on your own side to prevent their obtaining the seat?—That I knew nothing of.

23,407. Were you not aware that large sums had been spent in Totnes for more than 20 years on both sides?—I have not the least doubt of it.

23,408. And when Searle said what he did you knew that bribery had been going on upon that side?—I did.

23,409. Although you did not know the persons who had been administering it?—I did not.

Mr. J. E. Lloyd.

JOHN EARLE LLOYD sworn and examined.

23,410. (Mr. Bere.) You are the other petitioner?—I am.

23,411. You are a partner with Mr. Bentall?—Yes.

23,412. How came you to sign the petition?—One evening I was sitting in my dining room when Mr. Frederick Kellock came in and asked me if I would go over with him to the "Stars," and there I was requested to sign the petition.

23,413. How many times have you voted at the elections for a member of parliament?—I think some three or four times.

23,414. Did you ever receive any money from any one for so doing?—Never.

23,415. Did you ever give money to any one for so doing?—No.

23,416. Or used any improper influence as to obtaining their votes?—No, never in my life.

Adjourned to to-morrow at half-past 10.

NINETEENTH DAY.

NINETEENTH DAY.

T. Marshall.

14 Sept. 1866.

Friday, 14th September 1866.

THOMAS MARSHALL recalled.

23,417. (Mr. Coleridge.) Since you were examined have you been thinking over the circumstance about the money?—Yes, but I cannot remember.

23,418. Are you still convinced it was Mr. Lind who came in, and not a stranger?—I am not positive; I could not swear to it.

23,419. Do you think if you saw the person who came in you would know him?—I do not know.

23,420. Are you at all more positive to say whether it was the Monday or the nomination day?—I could not say. I remember a gentleman saying, "You do "not know me, and I do not know you."

23,421. Do you think that was said by a stranger or Mr. Lind?—It must have been said by a stranger. It was someone I did not know I am positive.

23,422. You do not think it was Mr. Lind who, knowing you, said "You do not know me, and I do "not know you"?—I think it was some stranger who said that.

23,423. Having recollected that, can you recollect whether it was Monday or Tuesday?—I cannot.

23,424. Do you remember anything about Mr. Kellock saying "Never mind about your shirt "sleeves"?—No.

23,425. You cannot say for certain, it may have been Tuesday?—It may have been.

23,426. Did Mr. Kellock come into the room?—I cannot remember.

23,427. If a stranger came into the room did Mr. Lind come in also; are you sure Mr. Lind was there?—I am sure Mr. Lind said I was to go to the room.

23,428. Mr. Lind told you to go to the room before the stranger came?—Yes, before anyone came.

23,429. You were told to go in there and wait?—To go in and wait for some few minutes; and directly this money was brought and put upon the table. I think it was in two brown paper parcels; then it was emptied and wrapped into newspapers.

23,430. Who took that away?—I do not know; some stranger took it away I think.

23,431. Was it not Mr. Edmunds?—It might have been.

23,432. You know Mr. Edmunds?—Yes.

23,433. Do you recollect someone coming in shortly afterwards?—I cannot recollect.

23,434. Do you recollect Mr. Kellock coming?—No.

23,435. Whom do you recollect, besides the stranger, coming to the room?—I cannot recollect anyone.

23,436. You are not sure whether Mr. Lind came?—No.

J. J. Phillips.

JOHN JERMAN PHILLIPS sworn and examined.

23,437. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—Carpenter.

23,438. How long have you been a voter for Totnes?—I think in 1859 I first voted for Mr. Dunn.

23,439. What did you get for voting for Mr. Dunn?—20*l.*

23,440. Who gave you that?—I think Mr. Even Evens. He gave it to my wife.

23,441. Is that the first money you had ever received for voting?—Yes.

23,442. Hadyou voted before for the council?—Yes.

23,443. Did you never have any money for that?—I have been paid for my day's work; never got a farthing besides.

23,444. Never any other money?—Not for the council.

23,445. Where did Evan Evens pay you?—At our house.

23,446. He paid your wife?—Yes.

23,447. Had he been to see you before he came to pay your wife?—I was working at Torquay at the time, and could not see him.

23,448. He came to see your wife?—Yes.

23,449. And gave her the money?—Yes.

23,450. Did she make the bargain for you?—I do not know that she made any bargain; what was offered she took.

23,451. Are you quite sure about that? Because they say the wives are more difficult to deal with than the husbands. Did you have any communication on the other side?—In 1859 I voted for Earl Gifford and Mr. Dunn.

23,452. What did you get for voting for Earl Gifford?—Nothing.

23,453–55. Who asked you to vote for him?—Mr. Michelmore.

23,456. Thomas?—Yes.

25,457. Did not you get any little present after the election?—No, not from them; I never had a penny more.

23,458. Did not you go to the "Seymour" and have a little to drink?—I was going to Bridgetown on some business and they asked me to go; I did not stop above a quarter of an hour. I did not go for the sake of the drink.

23,459. In 1862 were you canvassed for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

23,460. When Mr. Pender and Mr. Dent stood?—Yes.

23,461. Did you vote at all?—Yes, I voted for Dent.

23,462. Were you one of the five then?—I had nothing to do with any man but myself.

23,463. There were five men who voted for Mr. Dent in 1862, when Mr. Dent did not go to the poll, do you remember that time?—Yes.

23,464. Not the time he stood against Seymour?—Then of course, if he did not stand, I did not get anything.

23,465. Did anybody tell if anything was to be had if he did stand?—No.

23,466. In 1863, when he stood against Seymour, what did you get then?—I had 30*l.* given me by Mr. Evens.

23,467. The same Evens?—No, Mr. Frederick.

23,468. Are you quite sure it was 30*l.*?—Certain of it; because I had it from him, then I got 10*l.* more about two weeks afterwards.

23,469. You got 10*l.* more about two weeks afterwards?—Yes.

23,470. How did you come to get that?—Because I acted in a proper manner, and they thought 30*l.* not enough for me.

23,471. When did they find out the propriety of your conduct?—Always.

23,472. How long after the election was it?—I cannot say.

23,473. Who paid you the extra 10*l.*?—They paid my missis.

23,474. Who paid it, Frederick Evens?—No.

23,475. Who?—Mr. Heath.

23,476. Mr. John Heath?—Yes.

23,477. Do you know if Mr. Heath paid any other people?—No.

23,478. How was the 30*l.* paid, in gold or notes?—Upon my life I cannot say.

23,479. Did you see any of the other side then, Mr. Michelmore, Mr. Parnell, or any of them?—They came to canvass me.

23,480. Did you tell them you had promised?—Yes, and that I could not run from my word.

23,481. Did they ask whether you could be persuaded to run from your word?—I believe I told Mr. Seymour that I had promised the other side and could not run from my word, and he said what difference was that.

23,482. Did anybody tell you that it might be worth your while to run from your word?—No.

23,483. In 1865 who did you vote for, Dawkins and Pim?—Yes.

23,484. What did you get?—20*l.*

23,485. Was that all you got?—Yes.

23,486. Who paid you?—Mr. Heath. I do not know whether he knew what he had got; he brought it in.

23,487. Where did he pay you that?—In the "Stars."

23,488. No. 1?—I do not know the number; it is the first door as you go in on the left.

23,489. Was there anybody in the rooms besides Mr. Heath?—There was a person I believe talking to some one on the lobby, but I did not take notice who.

23,3490. Who told you to go down to the "Seven Stars"?—I cannot tell; they was all going, I believe.

23,491. You heard that a good many were going, and you went down with them?—Yes.

23,492. When you got to the "Seven Stars" who told you to go to No. 1?—I do not know that anyone did.

23,493. How did you know that No. 1 was the proper room to go to?—There was a young man with me of the name of Chudleigh.

23,494. Had he gone down on some similar errand?—No, he was a watcher

23,495. He knew pretty well where to go?—Of course he did.

23,496. Did he take you to No. 1?—We went in together; he went in, and I went in after and stopped there about 10 minutes or a quarter of an hour.

23,497. Who else was there?—No one at all.

23,498. How long did you stay by yourselves?—It might be 10 minutes or a quarter of an hour.

23,499. Who came in then?—Mr. Heath.

23,500. Old Mr. Heath?—Yes, and he put it in my hand. I did not know what it was before I went out and counted it, but it was 40 half-sovereigns.

23,501. Was it in a bag?—I think it was in paper; I am not exactly sure, I did not take much notice of it.

23,502. Did you see any person else about the house excepting John Heath and yourself?—Well, there was many in the lobby; I did not know any of them.

23,503. Did you see any person you did not know?—There was a great many I did not know. I did not pay particular attention to look them slap in the face.

23,504. And that was all you got?—Yes.

23,505. Had you not got 20*l.* would you have voted at all?—Yes; I did vote, but it was not much use.

23,506. But would you have voted if you had not got the 20*l.*?—Yes, that I should have done most likely. I should not have gone to the other side at any rate.

23,507. Would you have taken the trouble to vote if you had not got the 20*l.*?—Yes, I should; because if I promise a person I do not like to run from my word.

23,508. Did you not promise because you expected something?—They offered it me; I never asked them for anything.

23,509. If you thought nothing would be given you would you have promised them your vote?—I do not know; if the other side offered me a lot of money perhaps I might change my mind.

23,510. Did the other side offer you anything?—No.

23,511. Did any of them come to try you at all?—Yes.

23,512. Who came to try you in 1865?—Mr. Seymour, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, and I think Mr. Brooking Cuming.

23,513. How did Mr. Jeffery Michelmore try you?—He asked me to vote for Seymour, but Mr. Cuming did not speak a word to me.

23,514. What did Jeffery Michelmore say when he asked you to vote for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—I do not know; he said nothing at all, but Mr. Seymour——

23,515. What did he say?—He said if I had promised what difference was that, I had no occasion to vote for them. That was the only time I saw him, and Mr. Michelmore saw me come off the roof of the "Seven Stars," and I heard him say "That is the "man."

23,516. Did they offer you any money?—No, they did not.

23,517. Did you hear that money was going about at that time?—Yes; everybody heard that I suppose.

23,518. Did you see anybody on the other side?—No.

NINETEENTH DAY.

J. J. Phillips.

4 Sept. 1866.

23,519. (Mr. Longe.) When Mr. Heath paid you the money did you say you did not wish to have any strangers ?—No.

23,520. Do not you remember this. This is what Mr. Heath has said, that you "are paid 20*l.* in my "presence." Then the question is "From whom ?— "Mum was at the door. He said he did not want "to have anything to do with strangers, and I handed "him a bag." Do you know anything of that ?—I never heard it; that was outside the door.

23,521. Do you remember what you said ?—No, I never said such a thing.

23,522. Did you see a man in the room ?—No. Of course the man that came down with me was in the room when he paid me or gave me a paper.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds recalled and examined.

23,523. (Mr. Coleridge.) You remember asking Mr. Kellock to get the cheque for 1,000*l.* cashed here ?—Yes.

23,524. Did you tell Mr. Lind that he had gone to get it cashed ?—I did not.

23,525. Did you tell Colonel Dawkins' valet to be ready to receive some money, and to go into a particular room ?—I did not. I never spoke to him on the subject.

23,526. Then how would Mr. Lind have known of this money being brought by Captain King ?—I cannot conceive, except through Mr. Kellock. Certainly not through me.

23,527. What arrangement did you make as to receiving the money ?—Mr. Kellock brought it to me, not in our own room, there were two or three people there writing letters, and he brought it to me in a little bedroom on the left, I do not know the number.

23,528. Did he bring it to you himself straight from the bank ?—I do not know whether he brought it straight from the bank.

23,529. Did you ever go into a room with Colonel Dawkin's servant in his shirt sleeves ?—No. Mr. Kellock brought it to me in a bedroom.

23,530. Do you recollect going into a room the night before, when the money was brought from Torquay, and seeing any one in their shirt sleeves ?—Never.

23,531. Did you ever see the servant keeping watch over some money in his shirt sleeves ?—Never.

23,532. How did Mr. Kellock deliver the money to you which was brought from Torquay ?—It was done up in a parcel.

23,533. In what room was that ?—In our own room.

23,534. About what time did he give you the money he got from the bank here ?—between half-past three and four o'clock.

23,535. Had that money been opened before he gave it to you ?—No, it was all done up in a news paper parcel.

23,536. And was the money brought from Torquay also done up in a parcel ?—Yes; there was loose paper outside of it.

23,537. Mr. Kellock gave you both these sums himself ?—He did.

23,538. That you are quite certain of ?—I have not the least doubt of it.

G. Please.

George Please sworn and examined.

23,539. (Mr. Bere.) When did you first have a vote ?—I voted for Dunn first.

23,540. What did you get for doing that ?—Not a farthing.

23,541. From neither side ?—No, from neither side.

23,542. Were any offers made to you ?—None at all.

23,543. Did you vote in 1863 ?—The next time I voted was for Dent.

23,544. What did you get for that ?—Now I remember I did not vote. I did not get anything.

23,545. Why did you not vote then ?—I was not wanted.

23,546. When you were wanted did you vote for Dent ?—I did.

23,547. Did you get anything ?—Not a fraction.

23,548. Were you offered anything ?—Not a farthing.

23,549. Did you see anyone on the other side ?—Yes, on both sides.

23,550. Did the other side offer you anything ?—Not a farthing.

23,551. Then in 1865 you voted for Dawkins and Pim ?—Yes.

23,552. What did you get for that ?—I was in difficulties then and I was put to rights. I had 20*l.* in money.

23,553. Who gave you the 20*l.* ?—Mr. John Heath.

23,554. Where, down at the "Stars" ?—Yes.

23,555. How did he give it to you ?—In a paper parcel.

23,556. Where did he give it you ?—Exactly at the bottom of the stairs.

23,557. Not in any room ?—No.

23,558. Had you seen anyone before that to ask for money ?—Yes, I saw this party.

23,559. Who was "this party" ?—I saw Mr. John Heath in the street, I had been offered money on the other side for my second vote, and he said to me, "I will see that you shall have something."

23,560. Who was it who had offered you money on the other side ?—Robert Lorimer.

23,561. How much had he offered you ?—He said 5*l.* or 10*l.*, or what I would like to have.

23,562. Where did he offer you this ?—In my shop.

23,563. How long was this before the election ?—Some three or four days.

53,564. Do you think it was on the Saturday ?—I think it was on the Thursday or Friday before, I am not certain.

23,565. What did you say to him ?—I said I had always voted Conservative and I should then. He said, "You can have something if you will vote for "Pender." I said that would not induce me to vote on their side at all.

23,566. Then you went down and saw John Heath ?—I keep a grocer's shop, and I was walking from my shop to the market and I saw as many as 40 or 50 persons about electioneering, and I tapped Mr. Heath on the shoulder and said, "You promised "me that you would do something for me if it laid "in your power."

23,567. When did he promise this ?—When I was in difficulties just before, He said if there should be an election he would try what he could for me.

23,568. How long before that had you been in difficulties ?—Some 12 months, I think.

23,569. Had you been to see Mr. Heath about it ?—Certainly I had.

23,570. Was he one of your creditors ?—No. I passed through the court and he had to do my business. Mr. John Heath.

23,571. And he promised to do something for you if an election came on ?—Yes, if it lay in his power.

23,572. And then you reminded him of his promise ?—Yes. I wanted some money; he asked me what I should consider fair, and I said "If I can "get 20*l.* I shall think myself well off."

23,573. He gave you 20*l.* and you voted for Dawkins and Pim ?—Yes.

23,574. Do you know anything of the municipal elections ?—No. I never had a farthing then.

JOHN PYLE sworn and examined.

23,575. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—A smith.

23,576. You live in Fore Street?—Yes.

23,577. Have you lived there several years?—26 or 27 years.

23,578. For whom did you first vote at that time, your first election?—When Mr. Mills first opposed Mr. Baldwin.

23,579. There was a good deal of money about then?—There was a talk about it, I did not see any of it.

23,580. Did you get anything that election?—I did not.

23,581. Any offer?—No.

23,582. Neither side?—Neither side.

23,583. The next election was Mackenzie and Gregory?—Yes.

23,584. Whom did you vote for at that election?—I voted for Mills and Lord Seymour.

23,585. Were you canvassed by the Conservatives?—Not then; Mr. Baldwin canvassed me.

23,586. For Mackenzie and Gregory?—No, he did not then; he canvassed me at the first election.

23,587. At Mackenzie and Gregory's election?—Mr. Mackenzie canvassed me.

23,588. At that time was there any money offered to you?—None to me.

23,589. Did you hear of any money being given by anybody?—There is money spoken of at every election, ever since I knew anything about it.

23,590. You remember that at that time other people got money?—I do not know. I saw nothing about it.

23,591. You had no money?—No, not a farthing.

23,592. In 1859, Dunn's election, there was a good deal of money going about then?—There was, I believe.

23,593. Whom did you vote for then?—For Dunn and Earl Gifford.

23,594. You split?—Yes.

23,595. You were canvassed by both sides?—Yes.

23,596. Who canvassed you for Mr. Dunn?—I think Mr. Dunn himself; I think his lady spoke to me afterwards, Mr. Bryett was present.

23,597. Mr. Bryett was with Mrs. Dunn?—Yes.

23,598. Did he offer you anything?—No.

23,599. Did you understand you could get something from the Conservative's if you split?—No.

23,600. Why did you split?—Because I was doing some work for some gentlemen on the Plains, and they said if I would give them one vote they would take it as a great favour and they would do what they had it in their power to do for me in the shape of work. They owed me 70*l.*

23,601. Who was that said so?—They were Mr. Heath, Mr. Bentall, and Mr. Gillham of the "Dartmouth" inn.

23,602. Those three were Conservatives?—Yes.

23,603. Who was it spoke to you?—Mr. John Heath.

23,604. What did he tell you?—He said if I would give them one vote they would always give me work; they said they would be satisfied with one.

23,605. You say "they"?—Mr. Heath.

23,606. How do you know that he spoke for the others?—Well, sir, that is the word I believe.

23,607. What were you working at, who were your employers at that time?—Mr. Heath.

23,608. Was it for the town council, or whom?—Not the council.

23,609. You were doing some work on the Plains?—Yes.

23,610. Whose property was it?—His private property at the "Seven Stars."

23,611. What had Mr. Bentall to do with that?—I have worked for Mr. Bentall I should say for 15 or 16 years.

23,612. On his private property?—Yes.

23,613. Did he give you to understand if you voted you should have work?—Mr. Bentall never spoke a word to me.

23,614. Why did you mention those two gentleman's names just now; if you were in Mr. Heath's employment, what had the others to do with it?—I had been working for the three on the Plains, they owing me nearly 70*l.*, and Mr. Heath said, "You have "got work from the Conservatives on the Plains," I said "I have sir, from you, Mr. Bentall, and the other "gentleman, Mr. Gillham."

23,615. You worked for Mr. Gillham?—Yes, he has several houses.

23,616. You had been working at those houses?—Yes.

23,617. When Mr. Heath spoke to you had not either of those gentlemen spoken to you?—Mr. Gillham and Mr. Bentall never mentioned a word to me.

23,618. Why did you mention those three names?—Because Mr. Heath mentioned it to me.

23,619. He said, "You have been working for the "Conservatives, therefore you should give your "vote"?—He did, and I said, "I will then."

23,620. If you would what did he promise you?—To maintain me, and to do the best in their power.

23,621. Mr. Heath did not offer you anything else?—He never offered me anything.

23,622. Did you keep on?—I work for him at the present time. I believe he owes me now for work from 40*l.* to 50*l.*

23,623. Now the next election of 1862, Pender and Dent?—I voted for Mr. Dent.

23,624. Who spoke to you, who canvassed you for your vote?—Mr. Dent and Mr. Edmonds were together.

23,625. Who canvassed you on the other side?—Mr. Pender.

23,626. What did you tell Mr. Pender when he called?—I told him I could not vote; I had promised Mr. Dent, and I would stick to it.

23,627. Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Dent canvassed you; did you get any present at that time from the Conservatives?—Nothing at all.

23,628. Now we come to the next election, 1863, Seymour and Dent?—Dent.

23,629. In 1865 who canvassed you; whom did you vote for?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

23,630. Who canvassed you?—Captain Pim did not canvass me; he called at the house and left his card, and so did Colonel Dawkins, and Mr. Pender canvassed me at my workshop, and Mr. Windeatt was along with him.

23,631. What did you tell Mr. Pender?—I told him I should not have a vote for him.

23,632. You said you had promised your vote on the other side?—No, I did not.

23,633. Whom did you promise your vote to; you had always voted for the Conservatives?—No, I had not always.

23,634. Did you get anything?—I never got a farthing more than I have got now.

23,635. (Mr. Bere.) On either side?—From either side.

23,636. (Mr. Longe.) It is said you got something?—I know that; I am aware of that.

23,637. You have heard it said?—Again and again.

23,638. It is not true that you ever got anything?—No.

23,639. You are employed by Mr. Heath still and by the party?—Yes, I have work now in hand for Mr. Bentall and for Mr. Heath

NINETEENTH DAY.

14 Sept. 1866.

Mr. Thomas Creaser Kellock recalled and examined.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

23,640. (Mr. Coleridge.) I wish to ask you a question as to how the money was brought from the bank on the last day. Colonel Dawkins' valet thinks that, to the best of his impression, it was on the Monday; are you quite sure that it was on the Tuesday?—Quite sure.

23,641. Was it Mr. Lind who went into the room with you?—No.

23,642. It was Captain King?—It was.

23,643. How did the money get to Mr. Edmonds?—Mr. Edmonds came into the room with me.

23,644. He has sworn most distinctly that you brought it up to him in a bedroom upstairs?—That sum?

23,645. Yes, that you gave him the sum you brought from Torquay. You were in that little room, No. 8, and that the sum you got from the bank here was brought to the bedroom by you, upstairs. Are you quite positive about it; do you recollect it?—My recollection serves me so far as this, that after Captain King went into the room I asked Colonel Dawkins either to go to him or he went back with me to the room; whether we went to that room or whether we took ourselves to another room in the house I should like to be satisfied about.

T. Marshall.

Thomas Marshall recalled and examined.

23,646. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is this the gentleman who came in with the money on that occasion?—I cannot say, sir; I know both Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Kellock.

23,647. Was it one of those two gentlemen that came into the room?—I cannot remember.

23,648. You did not take this gentleman (Mr. Kellock) for Mr. Lind?—No, I know Mr. Lind well, and I should most likely remember. I was to go into the bedroom and wait, as well as I can remember.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

Mr. T. C. Kellock further examined.

23,649. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you told Mr. Lind this money was expected?—I do not recollect speaking to Mr. Lind upon the subject at all.

23,650. You do not recollect seeing Mr. Lind?—I do not recollect speaking to him on the subject.

23,651. Mr. Edmonds says you never came to the room that day with the money?—Will you ask him did I not come to the door?

Mr. T. H. Edmonds.

Thomas Hunt Edmonds further examined.

23,652. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he get into the bedroom or come to the door; which room was it?—The room where Colonel Dawkins' valet was watching over the money.

23,653. Did you ever see him keeping guard over the money?—I never saw him in connexion with money in any way.

23,654. Did you on the nomination day, after the cheque was cashed of which we are talking, come to No. 6 whilst that young man was there?—No, I did not.

23,655. Were you staying in the bedroom where Mr. Kellock brought the money?—No, I was not; he came out on to the landing, and he said, "I have got "the money all right, just go into the private room." We went into the first bedroom we came to.

23,656. Did Mr. Kellock give you the money?—Mr. Kellock was in the bedroom on the same floor upstairs.

23,657. On the same floor?—Yes.

23,658. Are you quite certain Mr. Kellock brought the money, and that you did not go into the room and take it off the table?—Quite certain.

Mr. T. C. Kellock.

Mr. T. C. Kellock further examined.

23,659. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you think now that you did take the money that Captain King brought you?—My previous impression was that he gave it to Mr. Edmonds.

23,660. On the last occasion you told us Mr. Edmonds fetched the money; it was put together by Colonel Dawkins' servant and Mr. Edmonds fetched it?—He has stated that.

23,661. In thinking it over you agree with him that you must have carried the money out of the room and given it to him in the private room?—I do not recollect which room it was in.

26,662. Do you recollect giving him the money you brought from Torquay the night before?—Certainly not.

23,663. Do you recollect in which room you gave it—I do not recollect.

23,664. Was it in No. 8?—The rooms are very near together on the same landing, and when you said that to me just now I remembered I had gone upstairs.

23,665. He was in error?—As I previously stated in my evidence, I did not recollect going upstairs more than once, and that was on a particular occasion in Mr. Smith's bedroom.

23,666. The point at issue is whether you carried the money out of the room after Captain King brought it in, and you gave it to Mr. Edmonds, or whether Mr. Edmonds came and fetched it; have you any doubt whether he took it out or you gave it to him?—I cannot recollect.

23,667. You would not undertake to contradict Mr. Edmonds on that point?—When I say I cannot recollect I would not go so far.

23,668. You would not go so far as to contradict him upon that point?—Would you ask him the further question whether it was not the fact that I went to see him and that he came to the landing?

(Mr. Edmonds.) I have stated that it was on the landing; where you came from I do not know. You said, "I have got the money all right."

(Mr. Coleridge.) The reason I asked the question was, you carefully abstained from acknowledging that you had any handiwork in the handling of the money when you were here before. It is distinctly proved that you had the handling of it, because you conveyed it to him, and you did touch the money after Captain King had deposited the money on the table?—I intended rather the contrary, but I did not state distinctly that I did receive 300*l.* of that money at that interview.

23,669. When did you receive it; you did not receive it at No. 6 from Colonel Dawkins' valet?—No, because he had left. I believe it is quite correct what Mr. Edmonds has stated, that when I got back to the room to Colonel Dawkins the valet had left.

23,670. Mr. Edmonds has said you were together in the bedroom with this money; it was then, after you were in the bedroom, that you got the 300*l.*?—I dare say it was.

23,671. It was not deducted in No. 8 before you took the money up?—Very likely not.

23,672. (Mr. Bere.) It becomes important in this way, from the difference of the description given of the way in which this money was treated, there might have been another sum of 1,000*l.*?—I have distinctly stated that there was not.

CHARLES PITTS sworn and examined.

23,673. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A labourer.

23,674. Where do you live?—Out behind Fore Street.

23,675. What do you vote on?—A house.

23,676. How long have you had a vote?—1851, I think.

23,677. Did you not vote in 1849?—No.

23,678. Do you recollect the election of 1857, Mackenzie?—I recollect that was the election that I had nothing to do with.

23,679. Did you vote?—Not till 1862.

23,680. Whom did you vote for?—No, 1863 was the first time I voted.

23,681. Whom were you going to vote for at the election going on?—Mr. Dent.

23,682. What were you promised for your vote?—100*l.*

23,683. Who by?—Frederick Evens.

23,684. Had you been offered anything on the other side, Mr. Pender's people?—No.

23,685. Had they canvassed you?—I do not know.

23,686. Mr. Michelmore and Mr. Pender waited on you?—Mr. Pender did.

23,687. Was anything offered you on that side?—No.

23,688. So they got you to vote, and you did not get the 100*l.* for your vote; you went down to the "Stars" and you found you could not get the money?—No.

23,689. Did you get anything at all at that election?—No, not a shilling.

23,690. Now the next election, when Seymour and Dent stood, did you promise Mr. Dent?—Yes.

23,691. What were you to have for voting?—30*l.*

23,692. The market was down?—Yes.

23,693. Who promised you?—Frederick Evens.

23,694. Did he pay you?—I suppose it must be; I found it in the chimney.

23,695. When did you make the discovery?—He told me to look about.

23,696. How long did he promise you before the election?—It might be a week or 10 days.

23,697. How long was it before you began to look about?—I did not trouble my head about it; I did not go out of doors; he came to my house.

23,698. Had you bargained for 30*l.*, or were you surprised to find it?—The bargain was made; that was what he said was allowed to each man.

23,699. Did you try to get anything more out of him?—No; after the election I told him he had got more and kept the rest himself.

23,700. What did you hear he got?—40*l.*

23,701. You told him that he kept 10*l.*?—Yes.

23,702. How long was it before the election that he told you to look about?—He brought in 10*l.*

23,703. Did you find that up the chimney?—Yes.

23,704. When did you find the money?—I found 20*l.* two or three days afterwards.

23,705. Was it gold or notes?—Gold.

23,706. When you told him he had kept 10*l.* what did he say?—He said he had given me every farthing.

23,707. Did you go to the "Seven Stars" that election for the money?—No.

23,708. Did not you ask Mr. Heath for it?—No.

23,709. In 1865 whom did you vote for?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

23,710. What did you get?—45*l.*

23,711. Who paid it?—Screach.

23,712. Did you tell Screach that he had got 40*l.* and kept 5*l.*?—No; he told me he had tried to get 50*l.* for me, but he could not; he paid me 40*l.*

23,713. Where?—In master's cellar.

23,714. Was that in gold or notes?—Gold.

23,715. When did he pay you the odd 5*l.*?—I think on the nomination day.

23,716. What did you do with Mr. John Heath that time?—Nothing.

23,717. Your name is Charles?—Yes.

23,718. Mr. Heath said, "Charles Pitts was at our "house, the 'Seven Stars,' one night. When he was "just leaving he was sent for by the other party." Who sent for you on the other side, the Liberals?—No one.

23,719. That is untrue?—Yes.

23,720. You were never sent for to the "Seymour Arms"?—No.

23,721. Quite sure?—Yes.

23,722. By no one else, by the other party?—They came up to look for me, because they saw me talking to Mr. Pender's servant.

23,723. What is Mr. Pender's servant's name?—I do not know.

23,724. What were you talking about?—I do not know. I think he stopped, because it was raining, in the passage.

23,725. Did you talk to him about the election?—No.

23,726. Was he Mr. Pender's servant or the secretary?—They told me the servant, and Mr. Seymour's was there too. They were both there together.

23,727. The two servants?—Yes.

23,728. Do you recollect being at the "Seven Stars"?—Yes, I was there.

23,729. When you were coming away do you recollect their keeping you back to prevent your coming away?—No.

23,730. Mr. Heath says you were sent for by the other party; that they retained you, and you were arranged with in his presence?—No such thing.

23,731. Do you mean that when Screach arranged with you Mr. Heath was not present?—No; he arranged with me in the cellar where I was working.

23,732. Not at the "Stars"?—No.

23,733. That is not true what Mr. Heath has said?—No, certainly not. They did not prevent my going away.

23,734. Mr. Heath was asked this. "Who sent for "Pitts"? And he says, "As he was leaving the "the smoking room there was a suspicion that he was "deserting, and a sharp look out had to be kept on "him." Do you recollect that?—I do not know the smoking room. I was in some of the rooms behind.

23,735. That is all you know about that election; and you voted for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—Yes.

23,736. In the election of 1863 were you squared with by Mr. John Heath in the "Seven Stars"?—No.

23,737. Was Mr. Heath present at any time when Evens arranged with you?—No.

23,738. Where was it that Evens arranged with you?—At my own house.

23,739. About the municipal elections, how often have you voted there?—Pretty nearly every time. I think I have been on about 16 years.

23,740. You distribute your favours by voting for the Liberal party at the municipal election?—No.

23,741. Did Mr. Parnell ever give you anything for voting?—No. I never voted on that side.

23,742. Did Mr. Parnell offer you money to vote?—No.

23,743. Did you have anything?—2*l.* once.

23,744. Who paid it?—Frederick Evens.

23,745. Did you have anything else?—I have only been paid once. I had a breakfast.

NINETEENTH DAY.

C. Pitts.

14 Sept. 1866.

23,746. You were only paid once ?—Yes.

23,747. What did you give Evens back from that for luck ?—I do not think anything ; but I gave him 1*l.* out of the 30*l.*

23,748. Why ?—He told me it was always usual.

23,749. Did you give Screach anything back out of the 5*l.* ?—I gave him 1*l.*

Mr. JOHN HEATH sworn and examined.

Mr. J. Heath.

23,750. (Mr. Bere.) Where are you living ?—In London.

23,751. Are you in business ?—Yes.

23,752. What as ?—As an architect.

23,753. How long have you been in London ?—I left the second week in July.

23,754. Up to that time had you been practising here as an architect ?—Yes.

23,755. Architect and surveyor ?—Yes.

23,756. Were you in partnership with your father ?—No.

23,757. Entirely on your own account ?—Yes.

23,758. Is your brother George also an architect ?—No.

23,759. The reason I ask is, I saw a receipt signed, the other day, George Heath, for John, George, and John Heath ?—I never heard of such a thing being done.

23,760. How long have you taken an interest in elections ?—I first took an interest in Dunn's time.

23,761. That is the first parliamentary election ; but had you taken an interest in the council elections ?—Not before that time.

23,762. Was that the first time that you had a vote ?—No ; the first time was for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim at the last election.

23,763. Had you not a vote before ?—No.

23,764. What did you do in Dunn's election ?—In Dunn's election I gave 30*l.* to a man named John Perrott, in Bridgetown.

23,765. How had Perrott voted before ?—I do not think he had voted before.

23,766. You gave him 30*l.* ?—Yes.

23,767. Did he vote for Dunn ?—Yes.

23,768. Where did you get the 30*l.* to give him ?—Mr. Edmonds gave it to me.

23,769. At the "Stars" ?—Yes.

23,770. Do you remember where Mr. Edmonds gave it to you. Was it out of the room No. 8 ?—Mr. Edmonds gave me the money in No. 8.

23,771. Did you see where he took it from then ?—No, I did not.

23,772. Had you gone to Mr. Edmonds and told him that you thought Perrott could be got at for 30*l.* ?—Yes.

23,773. I suppose you had to make reports ?—No, I did not.

23,774. Did not you receive instructions from various members of the Conservative committee to go and see different individuals ?—No. I never received instructions.

23,775. Did you go on your own account ?—If I thought I had any influence with a man I used to try it on.

23,776. I presume you and your father talked about it, and he said, I suppose, "John, you can do so-"and-so"?—I cannot recollect his saying it.

23,777. Mr. John Perrott voted all right that time ?—Yes.

23,778. Did you have anything to do with a man named Clarke ?—Yes.

23,779. That was the waiter ?—Yes, I gave him 40*l.*

23,780. Where did you get that ?—From Mr. Edmonds.

23,781. You gave it to his wife ?—Yes.

23,782. Did she come and ask for it ?—No. I went to her and made a bargain, and then got the money and took it.

23,783. Did you make a bargain with the husband or the wife ?—The wife.

23,784. She sold the vote ?—I bought it of her.

23,785. Did you find in your dealings with the husbands and the wives that your experience accords with the other canvassers, that the wives are harder to deal with than the husbands ? Want more money for the votes ?—I think that is the only case where I dealt with a wife. No, there was another. My opinion is that the ladies fancy they are hardly responsible ; if they receive the money that the husbands are not bribed.

23,786. Clarke voted all right then ?—Yes.

23,787. Did you see Robert Lake ?—Yes.

23,788. What did you give him ?—I think that was Dent's election.

23,789. Did you not see anybody else except John Perrott and Clarke in 1859 ?—I think I called on a man named Turpin, and offered him money.

23,790. Is that Edward Randle Turpin ?—Yes.

23,791. What did you offer him ?—I did not name any amount.

23,792. Had you been authorized to go and see him ?—No.

23,793. You had known him before ?—Yes.

23,794. And you thought you could influence him ?—I did not know ; I thought I would try and see what he was made of.

23,795. Did you find he was made of easily convertible stuff ?—He voted on our side.

23,796. Had he voted for you before ?—I do not know, I have no doubt some one had been there before me.

23,797. Did you see a man named James Chaming ?—I did not see him before the election. I fancy a day or two after I saw him. I knew him, and I remember his saying he was surprised that nobody had called upon him and offered him money.

23,798. Did you say you were surprised too ?—I think I made answer he should not be left out next time.

23,799. In 1859 had you always got money when, you wanted it from Mr. Edmonds ?—Yes.

23,800. Did you know that there was a mysterious stranger living in No. 9 sitting room, at that time, who called himself "Higgins" ?—I heard so.

23,801. Did you not see his card ?—Yes.

23,802. What was on his card, do you remember ?—"Mr. Higgins."

23,803. No address, I suppose ?—No.

23,804. Was that a card handed into the bar when he first came ?—Yes, I think so.

23,805. Did he go by the name of Higgins, or the generic term of "Mum" ?—I do not think I heard his name mentioned during the election.

23,806. Did you ever see him ?—Yes.

23,807. What sort of a man was he ?—Rather short, light complexion.

23,808. What age, about ?—I should think about 50.

23,809. He always occupied No. 9 room ?—Yes.

23,810. And the bedroom beyond it ?—Yes. I only saw him once crossing the passage to No. 9, and father pointed him out to me and said to me, "There "is Mr. Mum," or "Mr. Higgins," I do not know.

23,811. Or the "Doctor" ?—I never heard that term.

23,812. "Higgins" used to go out a great deal with the money himself ?—I do not know whether he did or not.

23,813. In 1862, when Mr. Dent withdrew, did you go to any of the voters and offer them money, or say money would be forthcoming, if they voted for Mr. Dent ?—Whatever I tell you must apply to the other elections, I cannot separate them.

23,814. What you know applies to 1862 and 1863 ?—Yes.

23,815. Did you go to Clarke in 1862 and see his wife again ?—Yes.

23,816. What did you give him at that election?—40*l.*

23,817. Did you consider the bargain remained from 1859 or should you make a fresh bargain?—I cannot exactly tell you what took place.

23,818. Besides Clarke, did you see Robert Lake?—Yes.

23,819. What is he?—He was a miller then.

23,820. Is he alive?—I believe he is, I never heard of his death.

23,821. What did you give him for his vote?—100*l.*

23,822. Where did you get that from?—Mr. Edmunds gave it to me.

23,823. In the same room as he got it from in 1859?—Yes.

23,824. Do you know how Lake had voted before, or whether he had voted before?—I do not think he had voted before.

23,825. Did he vote for you all right?—Yes.

23,826. Did he ask you for 100*l.*, or did you offer it to him. I do not suppose you began by offering him 100*l.*?—I went to him first.

23,827. He occupied a mill at Berry Pomeroy?—Yes.

23,828. He was a tenant of the duke's?—Yes.

23,829. You went and asked how he was going to vote?—Yes. I cannot exactly tell you what took place.

23,830. Do you remember what sum of money you began by offering him?—I do not think I offered him any.

23,831. The end of it was you paid him 100*l.*?—Yes.

23,832. Had you told Mr. Edmonds that you wanted 100*l.* to offer Lake?—I told him Lake would vote for 100*l.*

23,833. And you got it?—Yes.

23,834. John Raymond, what did you do with him?—James Raymond.

23,835. What did you do with him?—I took him a cheque.

23,836. From whom?—My father gave it to me.

23,837. Who drew it?—I did not look at it. I believe it was one of father's cheques for 30*l.*, but I did not look it.

23,838. Was it in an envelope?—No, open.

23,839. You took it and gave it to James Raymond. Had you arranged his price before?—No, someone else did that.

23,840. Now William Reeve, did you send him or pay him something then?—40*l.* I gave William Reeve, I am not quite sure. If he said 30*l.* it might be.

23,841. Did you get that from Mr. Edmonds?—Yes.

23,842. In gold?—Yes, in gold.

23,843. Had you seen Reeve before to settle what sum of money he was to have?—I had seen Reeve several times during the election.

23,844. And at last settled what sum of money he was to have?—I believe I did.

23,845. Samuel Saunders, what did you give him?—He and Reeve were together.

23,846. Did they vote for Mr. Dent as they ought to have done?—Yes.

23,847. That is William Reeve of Fore Street?—That is William Reeve.

23,848. During that time did you receive money from anybody else but Mr. Edmonds and your father?—No.

23,849. Did you ever see any mysterious person about the house at that election?—No, I did not.

23,850. Did you ever act as the mysterious person yourself?—No.

23,851. Were you engaged in these private theatricals that took place at Totnes?—Yes.

23,852. How long ago was that?—I should think that would be two years ago.

23,853. Did you act with your own hair, or did you get a wig for that purpose?—I put on a moustache.

23,854. No wig?—No wig. I believe I powdered.

23,855. What became of the moustache?—I am sure I cannot tell you.

23,856. Did you wear it at the last election?—No.

23,857. Had not you something to do with John Light at the election of 1863?—Yes.

23,858. What did you have to do with him?—I think I gave him 40*l.*

23,859. Was he living at Bovey Tracey then, or was he living here in Totnes?—I do not remember; he was always somewhere, not in Totnes. He did not vote.

23,860. Did you give him the money to prevent his voting?—That is it.

23,861. Had he voted the other side before?—Yes.

23,862. He refused to vote for you, but intimated that he would stay away if you would pay him?—

23,863. Can you remember at all where you saw him, here in Totnes, or where?—At his own house; I do not think I saw him at all; I saw the wife.

23,864. That negociation was through the wife?—That was through the wife.

23,865. She said that she would put up with the loss of his company for 40*l.*?—Yes, at least, I do not know; she may have gone with him.

23,866. Were those the only people you had anything to do with in 1863, as far as bribing and actually giving away money went?—Who were they?

23,867. You have spoken as to Light, Saunders, Reeves, Raymond, Lake, and Clark?—I think they are all.

23,868. Goodman, had not you something to do with him?—No.

23,869. Samuel Goodman?—No.

23,870. Or a man called Mitchell?—No.

23,871. When you paid a voter money had you to receive a per-centage.

23,872. (Mr. Coleridge.) You never got anything thrown back like Screach and Evens?—No.

23,873. (Mr. Bere.) Do not you remember that in 1863 you heard that Goodman was up at the "Oxford Arms"?—Goodman lived at the "Oxford Arms."

23,874. Did you hear that a man called Mitchell, on the other side, was looking after him?—No.

23,875. Did not you go up to take care of him and remove him, or take care that he was taken off?—I have no recollection about it; never heard that there had been any fuss whatever about Goodman.

23,876. "Do you know anything about a man "called Samuel Goodman?" This is Stone's evidence. "That was in 1863, I heard that he was at "the 'Oxford Arms,' in Mr. Goodman's house." That is another person then that keeps the house?—That is another Goodman.

23,876*a*. "On the morning of the poll John Heath, "junior, went and took him off somewhere?"—It is a mistake; I never did.

23,876*b*. Do you know whether anybody or your brothers did?—I never heard of it.

23,876*c*. Did you hear of a man called Samuel Goodman being taken away at the time of the election?—No.

23,876*d*. Though those were the only persons you actually paid money to, were there other persons you negotiated with in 1863?—No.

23,876*e*. Henry Crawford, did not you see him?—I saw him.

23,876*f*. And did not you offer him something?—Yes, I offered Crawford some money.

23,876*g*. What did you offer him?—I forget what it was.

23,876*h*. Was it 50*l.*?—It was certainly as much as that.

23,876*i*. Quite as much as that?—Yes.

23,876*k*. What did Mr. Crawford say when you offered it to him?—Well, I was just near Crawford's house and someone told me that Mr. Parnell had just come out there. I did not know whether Crawford was going to vote for our side or not, and I went in and found him in the kitchen. I asked what

NINETEENTH DAY.

Mr. J. Heath.

14 Sept. 1866.

Mr. Parnell had been there about. "Of course I know "what it is; he has been here I suppose making it all "right with you. How much is he going to give "you?" He would not tell me, and I think I then offered him 60*l.*

22,876*l.* Did he say that Mr. Parnell was not going to give him anything?—No, but promised to see me again.

23,876*m.* (Mr. Bere.) You hear this Mr. Crawford? (Crawford.) I do.

(The Witness.) Mr. Mitchell, the painter, perhaps will remember the circumstances. If my memory serves me right he told me about Mr. Parnell having come down to Crawford's.

23,876*n.* (Mr. Bere.) What is Mitchell the painter's christian name?—I do not know; I think he works for Crawford. William Mitchell I think he is called.

23,877. Did not you see Mr. Cole, one of the Dartington farmers?—Yes.

23,878. And did not you offer him some money?—Yes.

23,879. What did he tell you?—I think he told me he could not vote on our side.

23,880. He was at that time and still is a tenant of the duke's, is not he?—Yes.

23,881. He is a farmer of Champernowne's, but has one or two fields from the duke?—Yes.

23,882. Did he tell you that he should lose his fields if he voted for you?—No, he would not be likely to tell me that.

23,883. Did you see a man called Chamings?—Yes.

23,884. He told you before that he was surprised that people did not call on him and you determined that he should not be surprised again?—I called on him.

23,885. What did you offer him to vote for Mr. Dent?—I think I offered him 100*l.*

23,886. Would he take that?—No.

23,887. Why not; was he a tenant of the duke's? Well, I never thought that he could be bought, although he said so, and said he could bring two or three others with him. I never believed it.

23,888. Did you get any authority from any person to offer him 100*l.*?—No.

23,889. You offered it on your own authority?—Yes.

23,890. John Drew, did you see him in 1863?—Yes.

23,891. What did you tell him?—I had not very much to say to him; I met him just outside his house about half-past 10, I think, at night, and stopped him as he was walking away and exchanged a few words with him. It was getting near the point when Mr. Michelmore and Mr. Pender came along.

23,892. How near were you to the point?—I asked him what he wanted, or something of that sort.

23,893. Did he give you an answer?—No.

23,894. Was he so uncertain in his amount with you that you could not get it from him. Was it clear that he wanted money?—Evidently.

23,895. You could not find out how much?—No.

23,896. Before you could arrive at the amount Mr. Pender and Mr. Michelmore came up?—Yes.

23,897. Had he voted for them before?—I believe he had.

23,898. Did you see him again?—No.

23,899. Marks; do you know anything about them?—No.

23,900. You know who the Marks' are, do not you?—Yes, I know them very well.

23,901. They are farmers who live in Dartington?—Yes.

23,902. Are they tenants of Mr. Champernowne?—Yes.

23,903. And also tenants of Lord Cranstoun and the duke?—I am not aware that they are.

23,904. Did not you see either of them in 1863?—I have no recollection of it.

23,905. Did you receive any intimation from them that money was going on the Liberal side?—No.

23,906. Do you know whether it was one of your brothers?—I never heard anything of it.

23,907. Did you go up to a man called Willis to see Mr. Earle of South Brent?—Yes.

23,908. Who is he?—He is a farmer.

23,909. Had he voted against you or with you before?—I think he had always voted with us.

23,910. Did you tell him to come to the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

23,911. Did he come?—Yes.

23,912. What time did he come on the morning of the election?—I think I saw him there about 11.

22,913. All the money was gone at that time was not it?—I do not think there had been any at all.

23,914. That was 1862, the time there was no money?—Yes.

23,915. Can you tell us how it was that in 1862 the voters were not paid the money they were promised before the day of the election. At other elections they were often paid days before, but at this election nobody was paid according to the story told here; nearly everybody was promised sums of money and it was not known until the night before the election day that Mr. Dent was not going to the poll. What caused that difference?—I never paid any money until the day before the election.

23,916. You never did in any case?—Never at any time.

23,917. Some of the other persons employed did?—I did not. I should not have thought it a wise step.

23,918. Did you see Mr. Earle again in 1863?—No.

23,919. You never saw him after?—I never saw him at the second election.

23,920. John Gillham, jun.?—I offered him I think 100*l.*

23,921. On your own authority?—Yes.

23,922. Did you offer that with the idea that he would take it?—Yes, I had an idea.

23,923. He did not take it, did he?—No.

23,924. Did he refuse at once?—No.

23,925. There was a little troubling about it, was there?—Yes.

23,926. Did he tell you why he refused it?—He never refused it with me. I left him with the understanding that I was to see him again, and I looked out for him.

23,927. He voted on the other side did not he?—Yes.

23,928. He is one of the Bridgetown tenants?—Yes one of the duke's tenants.

23,929. You were not at the poll when he came there, were you?—No.

23,930. You did not see how he came up to the poll?—No.

23,931. Robert Morgan, did you see him and promise to give him a sum of money?—I called on him and offered him a sum of money.

23,932. He was living in one of Mr. Michelmore's houses?—Yes.

23,933. Could you make anything of him?—No.

23,934. Did you offer him 100*l.*?—I think I did.

23,935. Was that on your own authority?—That was on my own authority.

23,936. Now John Phillips, did you tell him that money was to had if he voted for Mr. Dent?—I think I told him he could have 20*l.*

23,937. Did he get it?—I never saw him afterwards. I found out from some other source that he was in other hands.

23,938. William Allen?—I offered him 60*l.*

22,939. What is he?—A tailor.

23,940. Had he voted against you before?—I do not know.

23,941, How did he vote?—He voted against us.

23,942. Did he hold out any hopes to you of voting for you if he had money?—No.

23,943. Then why did you go to him if he was not an uncertain man?—I went to try him.

23,944. Were you friendly with him?—I had never spoken to him before.

23,945. Had you been told to call on him by any particular person?—No.

23,946. Did he say he had had any offer of money from the other side?—No.

23,947. Edward Randle Turpin; did you see him that year?—I think I had a conversation about the election, but I did not make any bargain with him; he voted on our side.

23,948. He got it from some one else?—I think you will find that he did.

23,949. At that election you knew that money was going about on your side. Did you know that money was going about on the Liberal side?—Yes.

23,950. Did you hear from voters themselves, how much had been paid to them on the Liberal side?—No.

23,951. Never?—No.

23,952. Whom did you see actively employed by the Liberals at the election?—All those men whose names have been mentioned.

23,953. They were the men who were usually employed on that side?—Yes.

23,954. Did you ever go into a voter's house after one of the Liberal messengers had been in there?—No; I do not remember except in the case of Crawford.

23,955. You were here in 1865; where were you living?—On the Plains.

23,956. In your own house?—Yes.

23,957. With James Heath?—Yes.

23,958. A joint occupation?—Yes.

23,959. In 1863, did you see any stranger there?—No; I did not.

23,960. Did you hear of anyone being in No. 13?—No.

23,961. Or inquiring for anyone there?—No.

23,962. The only person who came down with Mr. Dent was Mr. Mitchell?—Yes.

23,963. In 1865 had you a good deal to do with the election?—No; very little.

23,964. Had you less to do with that than in 1863?—Yes.

23,965. What was the reason, had your interest in it fallen off?—I do not know; I never had anything to do with it; I took no interest in it at all.

23,966. Were you thinking of leaving Totnes at that time?—Yes.

23,967. In 1863 you had not begun to think of leaving Totnes?—I had not.

23,968. We know that money had been spent in 1863 and in 1865, from your knowledge of what had been going on at those elections, at which should you say the most money was spent, in 1863 or in 1865?—I should say in 1863, considerably.

23,969. Should you think the Liberal side spent more money in 1863 than in 1865?—Yes.

23,970. Can you give us any reason for that opinion; you have heard that some money was spent in 1863 on the Liberal side?—I should not give that as a reason, whatever I may have heard.

23,971. Can you give us any better reason?—I think the election of 1863 was contested with a great deal more spirit than the election of 1865 on both sides. I think all through the election of 1863 it was very uncertain up to the close of the poll.

23,972. There was a majority of only 8, neither side would be very certain of success?—I do not think they stopped at a few hundreds.

23,973. The uncertainty raises the price and causes more money to be spent?—Yes.

23,974. When did you first know that Colonel Dawkins was coming down in 1865?—Not till I saw his address.

23,975. Had you not received any notice from the Conservatives that a candidate was coming down?—There were rumours of which I took no notice about several candidates.

23,976. You signed the requisition to Mr. Macleay?—Yes.

23,977. Had you ever the curiosity to ask what was the reason he did not come down and stand?—No, I do not think I ever heard.

23,978. After Colonel Dawkins' address did you go about and canvass for him?—No; I never canvassed for him.

23,979. Did you meet him and Captain Pim on one occasion?—No, I do not think I ever saw them together except on the hustings.

23,980. Have you met them together with your brother James?—No.

23,981. Have you met Captain Pim with your brother James?—Yes.

23,982. Where did you go with them?—I accompanied them for two hours.

23,983. Where did you go with them?—Up through the town.

23,984. Did you see any particular voters?—Merely a general canvass.

23,985. Were there any persons to whom you paid money in 1865?—No.

23,986. No one at all?—No.

23,987. Were you much at the "Stars" in 1865?—Not much.

23,988. When you were there did you see any mysterious person about the house whose face you did not know?—There were many people there whose faces I did not know.

23,989. Did you hear of any person answering the description of the man who you say had been here in 1859 and 1863?—No.

23,990. Did you ever sleep at the "Stars" during the last election?—No.

23,991. Although you did not give anyone a bribe, did you go to negotiate with some people?—I went to offer some money.

23,992. To whom?—To Chamings and Ruby. I am not certain whether Wherry or not.

23,993. Was that on the morning of the election? Yes.

23,994. Was that after you had seen Captain Pim?—I do not think I saw him.

23,995. Did you hear your brother James examined yesterday?—Yes.

23,996. Do you remember his telling us that Captain Pim had gone out in the morning to canvass some voters who were at a distance?—Yes.

23,996*a*. That he had come back and your brother took some directions from him and that you all went off somewhere in a gig to some place in the country?—I think my brother made some mistake about the horse and gig. If I remember rightly, someone had returned with a gig, I think it was Screach, and I got into the gig and drove off.

23,996*b*. Had not Captain Pim told you to go out somewhere?—No; I had not seen Captain Pim that morning.

23,996*c*. Or Narramore?—No.

23,996*d*. Or Willis?—I think I saw Willis.

23,996*e*. Did he not ask you whether you could not go somewhere?—I think I took it entirely on my own hook when I went out to Chamings.

23,996*f*. Had you had anything to do with Ruby before?—No.

23,996*g*. How much did you offer them?—I think I offered them 100*l*. each; it may have been more.

23,996*h*. Did you see them at their houses?—Yes.

23,996*i*. They must have been up early in the morning?—Chamings had just got up.

23,996*k*. What did you say to him?—I offered him 100*l*. to vote on our side.

23,996*l*. What did he say to that?—He said it would be of no use.

23,996*m*. Did he say that he had been offered money on the Liberal side?—No.

23,996*n*. What did Ruby say?—He said it was of no use.

23,996*o*. Does he live near to Chamings?—Yes. I thought Ruby was one of those men who Chamings had been talking about before, and I went out there to find it out for myself; he would not tell me the names, he said that he might bring some two or three with him.

23,997. Had you not spoken to someone about going to see these men, and to offer them money?—I do not think I had.

23,998. Are you quite sure of that? It is not very likely you would have gone out there without seeing some one and having had authority from them to offer this money?—I turned out early in the morning for the sake of assisting in the election. I did not know it was all up at that time.

23,999. You had not been told of that?—No.

24,000. How late had you been up the night before?—11 o'clock, perhaps.

24,001. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever receive any money from anyone except Mr. Edmonds?—Not besides the cheque which my father gave me.

24,002. How were you remunerated for your trouble?—I never got anything.

24,003. Were you not paid as an agent or sub-agent?—At all these elections I never received a farthing.

24,004. And you never made any charge?—No, never.

24,005. (Mr. Bere.) You remember the man who was examined the other day who was the boots at the "Stars" at this time?—Yes.

24,006. Was he a likely person to know whether any stranger was in the house or not?—I should believe what he said; I have a very good opinion of him.

24,007. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you first hear of any mysterious stranger?—Only when this matter was first talked about.

24,008. During the time of the election, except Mr. Smith, you never heard of any mysterious stranger?—I never heard of anyone. If I had been asked at the time I should say there is, no doubt, because there had been at previous elections.

24,009. At previous elections had you known of there being a mysterious stranger?—In 1859 I had.

24,010. You had known of his being down then?—Yes, I saw him,

24,011. And in 1862?—I heard that he was there in 1862.

24,012. Or in 1863?—I must put those two together.

24,013. Do you mean that the same person was there in 1862 and 1863?—I think he was.

24,014. Did you know his name?—No; I never heard it.

24,015. Then who told you that he was there?—I cannot say who told me. I remember having heard say Mr. Mum has come.

24,016. You heard that in 1862 and in 1863?—Yes.

24,017. Did you hear of any Mr. Mum having come down in 1865?—No.

24,018. When Mr. Mum was there it was generally well known in the house?—Yes; I used to hear of it a couple of days or so before the election.

24,019. And do you believe that there was anyone down in addition to Mr. Smith and his two clerks?—I cannot give any opinion on that.

24,020. You saw him in 1859 and you heard of him in 1862 or 1863, you heard nothing of him in 1865; do you believe that there was anyone there?—I could not undertake to say whether there was or not.

24,021. (Mr. Bere.) Had you anything to do at the election of 1863 with a man named Coombes?—No.

24,022. Did you see many people over here from Ashburton at the time of the election, who voted on the other side?—A good many people came over here from Ashburton and most of them I think were voters on the opposite side.

24,023. Were there many of these who had voted for the Liberal member who were over here?—I think there were.

24,024. Did you see Mr. Tucker and Mr. Jardine over here?—I think I saw Mr. Tucker, I do not know Mr. Jardine.

24,025. (Mr. Longe.) At all these elections your father and yourself had a general authority from Mr. Edmonds that you might set to work and make yourselves as active as you could as soon as the operations commenced?—Mr. Edmonds always knew that we were about with our eyes open ready to come and tell him anything.

24,026. There was a sort of confidence in you to make offers and settle these matters with the voters?—I never told Mr. Edmonds of anything unless I thought it was something worth telling him, I would often tell him something, and he would say, "Some-"body has told me about it before."

24,027. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you ever any doubt when you had offered these men money that Mr. Edmonds would let you have the money to pay them?—Not the slightest.

24,028. Did you ever promise a man any money and when you came to speak Mr. Edmonds about it, he said it was too much and would not let you have it?—No, certainly not, I should not have told Mr. Edmonds of them unless the men had accepted the offer.

24,029. Has not Mr. Edmonds said to you, you had better try and do it for less?—There could have been no necessity of that sort.

24,030. Mr. Edmonds has always let you have the sums that were requisite to keep your promise?—Yes, he has always done so.

24,031. Mr. Edmonds did not grumble at the amount of the offer, 100*l.*?—I remember when he gave me Lake's money he did not say anything, but he laughed, as much as to say that was coming it rather stiff.

24,032. How much did you give Lake?—100*l.*

24,033. Was that the only 100*l.*?—That is the only 100*l.* that I ever paid.

24,034. You never paid a voter earlier than on the day before the election?—Never, I think they were all on the election day.

24,035. You dealt with those voters who were left no doubt to the very end, we have heard that others were paid several days before the election?—Those voters whom I paid I had settled with the week before, I should think; or at least I had agreed with them.

24,036. Can you give us any instance of a voter, with whom you had agreed, afterwards having voted on the other side?—No, never.

24,037. Who has said he was sorry he could not keep his promise but he had had better terms offered him on the other side?—I cannot recollect any one instance.

24,038. In the election of 1862 when Mr. Dent withdrew and did not pay anyone, was any money requisite before the day of the election?—I do not know, I did not pay any money at that time, I think I had agreed with Lake before that election and when Mr. Dent gave it up he went and voted on the other side.

24,039. What had you agreed with him for?—For 100*l.*; at that election he came in here on the morning of the nomination.

24,040. Do you recolleet any election when the money was kept back so late as the day of the election, was it not always going about as early as the nomination day?—I do not know that, I never paid any so late as on the nomination day.

24,041. Used you to pay these voters before or after they had voted. Did they trust you or did you trust them, which has been the usual way?—I believe that I paid Lake after he had voted, I think so.

24,042. Then he trusted to you to pay him?—Yes.

24,043. Did you ever take a receipt from any of these men?—No.

24,044. Or anything in the shape of an I.O.U?—No.

24,045. You took nothing at all, no paper of any kind?—No.

NINETEENTH DAY.

14 Sept. 1866.

Charles Pitts recalled and further examined.

C. Pitts.

24,046. (Mr. Bere.) Were you turned out by the duke some years ago?—By Mr. Gillham, my landlord.

24,047. What do you rent under him?—A house.

24,048. Is Gillham a regular duke's man?—Yes.

24,049. What do you give for your house?—6*l.* a year.

24,050. Were you turned out of your house after voting at the election in the council for the Conservatives?—Because I would not vote for the Liberals they took me off the rate book.

24,051. Were you rated for the house?—Yes.

24,052. Did they turn you out of the house?—Yes, and I kicked up a row about it because they put me off the rate books, and after I had agreed with my landlord to pay the rates they gave me notice to leave, I asked him the reason, he said that he could not do as he liked, that he must do as Mr. Michelmore ordered him.

24,053. Who said that to you?—Mr. Gillham.

24,054. Whom did you get the notice from?—From Mr. Gillham, he let the house to a man of the name of Knapman, I was to give up the key to him and after that Mr. Michelmore heard of it and told Mr. Gillham not to let him have the house.

24,055. You did not hear him say that?—I asked Mr. Michelmore if I was to give up the key to Knapman, and he said, "No, to Mr. Gillham."

24,056. Was Knapman a Conservative?—I think he voted for the Conservatives, he had notice to leave too, he was a tenant of Mr. Michelmore's.

24,057. Is that all you wish to say?—Yes.

James Raymond sworn and examined.

J. Raymond.

24,058. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—I am driver of the bus at the "Seymour Arms" hotel.

24,059. How long have you done that?—Two years last June.

24,060. What were you doing before that?—I had worked as a post boy before that.

24,061. Where?—At the "Stars" and at the Railway hotel.

24,062. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Ever since 1862.

24,063. Did you vote at Dent's election?—I did.

24,064. Were you then living at the "Stars"?—I was out of service then.

24,065. Had you got a house then?—Yes.

24,066. What is it that you vote for?—I rented a shop in Fore Street.

24,067. Does your wife keep that?—Yes.

24,068. And you voted for that?—Yes.

24,069. Did you vote for Dent or Seymour?—For Dent.

24,070. How much did you get for your vote?—I got 50*l.*

24,071. Who paid you that?—George Heath paid me 20*l.* and John Heath gave me a cheque for 30*l.*

24,072. Who made the bargain with you?—I never made any bargain.

24,073. Then was it Mrs. Raymond who made the bargain?—They went to my wife, I believe.

24,074. And she arranged that you should have 50*l.*?—I suppose so.

24,075. First of all you were offered 30*l.* and you thought that was not money enough?—I had 20*l.* first.

24,076. You did not think that was half enough?—I was promised that by Mr. George Heath.

24,077. When did you go into the service of the people at the "Stars"?—Twenty years ago last summer.

24,078. We will not go into matters so long ago as that; where you in service at the "Stars" during the last election?—No.

24,079. Then what were you doing?—I was driving the bus at the "Seymour Arms."

24,080. Which way did you vote at the last election?—I voted for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

24,081. And do you still drive the bus at the "Seymour Arms" hotel?—Yes.

24,082. And has not Mrs. Beazley turned you off for voting in that way?—No.

24,083. What did you get paid for your vote?—70*l.* I got.

24,084. Did you get only 70*l.*?—That was all.

24,085. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes.

24,086. Who paid you this money?—Screach; he made a mistake in what he said here, he said he gave me 80*l.*, it was only 70*l.*

24,087. Was it all in gold?—Yes.

24,088. That is somewhat better than bus driving, I should suppose?—Yes, rather better.

24,089. Had Screach made the bargain with Mrs. Raymond on this occasion?—I did not make any bargain, he brought the money to my house and left it on the table.

24,090. I think Mrs. Raymond must have had something to say to him?—No, she did not.

24,091. And you got 70*l.* for voting for Dawkins and Pim?—Yes.

24,092. Did not some of the people at the "Seymour Arms," ask you to vote on their side?—Yes.

24,093. Who was it who asked you to vote for them?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore and Mr. Seymour came to me.

24,094. What did you say to Mr. Michelmore?—I did not promise him, I told him that I should see him again.

24,095. Did he say that he would see you again?—I do not know that he did.

24,096. Did he go and have any talk with Mrs. Raymond?—I do not think he did.

24,097. What did Mr. Seymour say to you?—I cannot recollect what he said, he asked me for my vote.

24,098. You did not tell him that you had got 70*l.* from the other side?—I had not got it then.

24,099. When were you first promised it?—I was never promised it at all, it was brought to me.

24,100. Then when did you get it?—On the Monday before the nomination.

24,101. Who brought it to you?—John Screach.

24,102. If you had not got any money should you have voted at all?—I might.

24,103. If you had been offered money on the other side, and had not got any from the Conservatives, how should you have voted then?—For the Conservatives.

24,104. Would you have taken money from the other side and voted for the Conservatives?—No.

24,105. (Mr. Coleridge.) What makes you vote for the Conservatives?—I began with the Conservatives first, and there I shall end.

24,106. Do you know what a Conservative is?—I do not know, I think they call them Tories.

24,107. Do you know the difference between Whigs and Tories?—I do not, I have voted twice at the City election and never got a farthing.

24,108. Did Mrs. Beazley ever find out that you had had 70*l.* for voting for Dawkins and Pim?—Not until now.

24,109. But you cannot say what may happen now?—No, I was fearful of that on coming here.

24,110. How did you vote in the Council?—For the Conservative party most times; the last time I voted for two and two, that was since I have been at the "Seymour."

24,111. How is it you did not split your vote on the last occasion, you were at the "Seymour" then?—I had the money then, that made me vote for Dawkins and Pim.

24,112. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever have any money

NINETEENTH DAY.

J. Raymond.

14 Sept. 1866.

at the Council elections?—I was paid for a day's work some time since, I had half a sovereign.

24,113. Where were you living then, at the "Seymour"?—Yes.

24,114. Who gave you the half sovereign?—Young Mr. Screach.

24,115. And then you voted for the Conservatives?—Only two and two.

24,116. Would you have had a pound if you had voted for all four?—No.

24,117. How long is it since you lived at the Railway hotel?—I left there five years ago come Christmas.

24,118. Do you remember any contest for the council while you were living there?—Yes.

24,119. Do you know a man of the name of Coombes a Liberal?—Yes.

24,120. And did he not send you for a trip to Knowle in order that you might not be able to get back in time to vote?—Yes, he made me go and drive him there.

24,121. But I believe you drove him there and back very quick, and got back in time to vote?—Yes.

24,122. After the election did anyone at the "Seymour" speak to you about having voted contrary to their party?—No.

24,123. Did Mr. Michelmore do so?—No, I have never said a word to him since.

24,124. Did you sign the requisition?—Yes.

S. Shillabeer.

SAMUEL SHILLABEER sworn and examined.

24,125. (Mr Bere.) How long is it since you voted first?—I voted for Baldwin and Seymour in 1849.

24,126. How did you vote then?—For Baldwin and Seymour.

24,127. You split your vote then?—Yes.

24,128. Did you get anything for it?—Yes.

24,129. How much?—30*l.*

24,130. Who did you get it from?—From Mr. Baldwin.

24,131. Who paid it you?—Mr. Goodman; he is dead now.

24,132. And he paid it you in gold?—Yes, after the election.

24,133. The next election was in 1852, did you vote then?—I think that must have been the first time I voted.

24,134. Did you vote again in 1857, that was the last time Mr. Baldwin stood?—I voted only once for Mr. Baldwin.

24,135. How often were you paid for voting for Mr. Baldwin?—Once.

24,136. Do you recollect 1859, Mr. Dunn's election?—Then I voted on the other side.

24,137. For both the Liberals?—Yes.

24,138. What did you get for voting for them?—I do not know that I got anything then.

24,139. When Gifford, Mills, and Dunn stood you voted for the two Liberals?—If I got anything then it was 30*l.*, I cannot recollect.

24,140. Who would you get that from?—Mr. Charles Michelmore made me a present, if that was the time.

24,141. Of how much?—30*l.*; I will not be positive.

24,142. Do you mean Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore, who is now alive?—Yes, I used to pay my rent to him.

24,143. In 1862, when Dent withdrew, you voted for Pender?—Yes.

24,144. What did you get for that?—30*l.*

24,145. Who gave you that?—Mr. Michelmore. I had a present from him some time after the election.

24,146. Did you not get 10*l.* to give to Smaridge?—Yes, both at the same time.

24,147. How long was that after the election?—It might have been three or four months.

24,148. Was it not between the two elections, that of 1862 and that of 1863, that Mr. Michelmore gave you the 30*l.*?—Yes, but what time it was exactly, I cannot tell.

24,149. Very soon after you had the 30*l.* from Mr. Michelmore there was another election, when Mr. Seymour stood, what did you then get?—Nothing.

24,150. What were you promised?—30*l.*

24,151. Whom by?—Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore.

24,152. How was it that you did not get it?—I suppose that he got it himself, and he kept it.

24,153. How do you know that he got it?—I was told so.

24,154. By whom were you told so?—He told me so himself.

24,155. Was Smaridge promised anything at that election?—Yes, I believe so.

24,156. And did he not get it?—No, he told me so yesterday.

24,157. Instead of giving you anything they locked you up at the "Seymour"?—I went over and stayed there, I was not locked up.

24,158. Did they lock Smaridge up?—They did not lock him up, they kept him there.

24,159. And they asked you to watch him?—Yes; to look after him.

24,160. Did they give you plenty of drink which you did not pay for?—I paid for what I had sometimes.

24,161. While you were watching Smaridge did you pay for what you had on that night?—I think not, they were treating me.

24,162. At that election you voted for Seymour?—Yes.

24,163. And in gratitude the duke's people turned you out?—Yes, they said I was a dead man.

24,164. What did they mean by that?—They said I was dead; I was very ill. On Michaelmas day they said I was dead, and they sent me a notice.

24,165. What do you mean by that, what did you rent of the duke?—A field.

24,166. You and Smaridge together?—No, they were separate fields.

24,167. How many acres are there?—Between seven and eight.

24,168. What has Smaridge got?—He put his cows in there sometimes.

24,169. You both voted for these fields?—Yes.

24,170. Who paid the rent, you or Smaridge?—Smaridge paid the rent.

24,171. You paid no rent at all for your field?—I paid for the keep of cows.

24,172. To whom?—To Smaridge.

24,173. How much for the cows?—He was renting a little place under me. We kept our cows together.

24,174. What did he pay for this?—16*l.* a year.

24,175. Did your cows eat 16*l.* worth a year?—He had to pay me money for that.

24,176. How would you balance the account?—He gave me 13*l.* for the field.

24,177. When you balanced your accounts how did he pay you?—I do not know exactly how it was.

24,178. How much did you allow for the keep of the cows?—Sometimes more, sometimes less.

24,179. How many cows do you keep?—Sometimes I had four, sometimes five.

24,180. How much did you allow for their keep per head?—3*s.* 6*d.* per week each.

24,181. How much did you receive from him at the end of the year? Smaridge paid all the rent, and you kept your cows there?—No; I had got a field.

24,182. Where was your field?—A little way nearer to the river; the one I rented besides.

24,183. What did you pay for that?—About 10*l.* a year.

24,184. To whom?—Mr. Michelmore.

24,185. Did Smaridge pay 13*l.* beyond that?—His was another field.

24,186. Used you to pay his rent?—The one I rented myself I paid 10*l.* for.

24,187. Did you pay that, or did he ?—I paid it.

24,188. In 1865 had you a vote ?—Yes.

24,189. How did you vote ?—For Dawkins and Pim.

24,190. Are you sure of that ?—Yes.

24,191. What did you get for it ?—60*l.*

24,192. Who paid it to you ?—John Screach.

24,193. Where ?—He paid my wife down at my house.

24,194. What did Smaridge get ?—I think he got the same.

24,195. Have you made it up with Mr. Michelmore as to voting against the Liberals ?—I have got the field now ; Mr. Michelmore knew he was in the wrong.

24,196. What was he wrong about ?—Because he gave me notice to leave.

24,197. You had voted against the dnke ?—Yes ; I had got a chance of having a field on the other side.

24,198. They did not think it worth their while to turn you out ?—I suppose so.

24,199. You have got Smaridge's field now ?—Yes.

24,200. How did you get that ?—Through Mr. Michelmore.

24,201. How did you get that ?—He knew that I was right.

24,202. Did Mr. Michelmore offer you anything at the last election ?—No.

24,203. Were you canvassed by Pender and Seymour ?—Yes.

24,204. What did you say to them ?—I told them I had promised the other side.

24,205. Did they ask you the reason why you would not vote for them ?—I told them the reason I should not vote for them.

24,206. Did you say why ?—Because they had given me notice to leave the field.

24,207. Why did you not vote for Mr. Pender ; you were always a Liberal before, what made you vote for the Conservatives ?—He was not satisfied with one vote, he wanted both.

24,208. How much might you have had if you had voted for both ?—They never offered me anything ; if I passed my word that was enough.

24,209. And you thought it would be better to get 60*l.* ?—When they told me of it after I got better I made a promise that I would not vote for them at the next election.

24,210. You were a lucky man ; you got better, got 60*l.*, and kept your field ?—I have got another field in its place.

24,211. Have you had anything since the 60*l.* was left with your wife ?—No.

24,212. Where was that left with your wife ?—In the house.

24,213. In what part of the house ?—In a little room.

24,214. Do you know who left it ?—John Screach.

24,215. How long before the election ?—On the nomination day.

24,216. Has anyone left any money for you there since ?—No.

24,217. Is that the last money you got ?—Yes.

24,218. Have you had anything from Mr. Heath ?—No.

24,219. Did Mr. Heath ever pay you at any election ?—No.

24,220. None of the Mr. Heaths ?—No.

24,221. Or Mr. Frederick Evens ?—No. Screach asked me if I should be satisfied with 50*l.* ; I said yes ; when he came he brought me 60*l.*

WILLIAM SHINNER sworn and examined.

W. Shinner.

24,222. (Mr. Longe.) What relation are you to Edward Shinner ?—Brother.

24,223. How long have you had a vote for Totnes ?—Ever since Dunn's election.

24,224. Who did you vote for then ?—Mr. Dunn.

24,225. How much did you get then ?—15*l.*

24,226. Who gave it to you ?—Frederick Evens.

24,227. In 1862 when Mr. Dent was down here, were you canvassed then ?—Yes.

24,228. Who canvassed you ?—I think it was young John Heath.

24,229. You did not vote then ?—No.

24,230. How much were you going to have then ?—That I cannot tell.

24,231. You expected something then, I suppose ?—They did not ask me, I had promised my vote.

24,232. Were you down at the "Stars" that night ?—No ; I was not there.

24,233. In 1863, the next election, whom did you vote for then ?—Mr. Dent.

24,234. Who canvassed you then ?—Young James Heath, and Evens.

24,235. What did they give you then ?—I had 30*l.* then.

24,236. Who gave it to you ?—Frederick Evens.

24,237. On the other side were you canvassed for Mr. Seymour ?—No, I was not.

24,238. Did they not call upon you ?—Yes ; I did not promise them ; I always took one side ; they did not think it worth their while.

24,239. You always voted on one side ?—Yes.

24,240. Whom did you vote for in 1865 ?—For Dawkins and Pim.

24,241. What did you get afterwards ?—I had 20*l.*

24,242. Who gave it to you ?—Frederick Evens.

24,243. Were you canvassed on the other side ?—No ; Mr. Parnell asked me if I would vote for them.

24,244. How long before the election ?—I suppose two or three days.

24,245. What did you tell him ?—I told him I did not know who I should vote for yet.

24,246. Did he say he would call again ?—He said "I will see what I can do."

24,247. Did you hear from him again ?—No ; no one came to me from the Liberals.

24,248. What did he mean by saying he would see what he could do ?—I do not know what he meant. He called at my house and said Mr. Pender was coming there directly. Mr. Pender and Mr. Parnell came to my house and asked me if I would promise them ; I said I had not promised anyone ; he said he would see me again, and see what he could do.

24,249. What did he mean by that do you suppose ?—To see if I would promise him to vote for Mr. Pender.

24,250. Then what was he going to do ?—I cannot say.

24,251. What do you suppose he meant by that ?—That I cannot tell.

24,252. That he would see what money he could get for you ?—I cannot say ; I do not know.

24,253. Was that what he meant ?—I suppose so.

24,254. Did you tell him you were going to vote for the Conservatives ?—They had not been to me then. I had not promised anyone.

24,255. You only got 20*l.* you say ?—That is all.

24,256. You got nothing after the election ?—No.

24,257. Did your wife get anything ?—Not a halfpenny.

24,258. On which side have you voted at the municipal elections ?—I always voted on the Tory side.

24,259. What did you get ?—Sometimes I never had anything.

24,260. (Mr. Bere.) You voted for Mills and Gifford in 1857 ?—That I think was when Mr. Michelmore took me away from my house.

24,261. Which Mr. Michelmore ?—Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore.

24,262. Where did he take you to ?—He took me from my house down to the voting booth.

24,263. What had he done to you before ?—Nothing to me.

NINETEENTH DAY.

W. Shinner.

14 Sept. 1866.

24,264. Had they given you anything to drink?—No; not a glass; one or the other were bothering me.

24,265. What did you say to him?—He told me he would turn me out of the house if I did not vote for Mills and Gifford.

24,266. Was it his house?—He had a mortgage on it.

24,267. Who was your landlord?—I used to pay rent to Samuel Hill.

24,268. Was he the owner?—Yes.

24,269. What time did Mr. Michelmore come to you?—In the middle of the afternoon.

24,270. What were you about?—I was attending my horses in the stable, he took me down in a fly to the "Seymour."

24,271. Did you have anything to drink before you went to the poll?—Nothing.

24,272. You were taken there as a friend of Mr. Michelmore's and was obliged to vote for Mills and Seymour?—Yes.

24,273. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

24,274. Did Mr. Michelmore come to you in 1863?—When I was in bed he came and spoke to me and I went back to bed again and did not see him; he never came again.

24,275. Did he not come to you at the last election?—No, I never saw him again.

24,276. Did he come to see your wife?—No.

24,277. What did he come to your house for?—To ask me to vote on his side.

24,278. Did he ever promise you anything?—He promised me 5*l.* I never had it.

24,279. Was that at the time when he took you by the collar?—He promised me 5*l.* at Dent's election.

24,280. Did Mr Parnell ever promise you anything?—No.

24,281. Did Mr. Heath ever promise you anything?—No.

24,282. What did you get for voting in the council?—Sometimes I did not have anything. Sometimes I had a day's work.

24,283. Was that the most you ever got?—I had 2*l.* one time.

24,284. Who paid you that?—Frederick Evens.

24,285. Have you not been paid several times?—No.

24,286. Have you always been paid by Evens when you voted for the council?—Yes.

24,287. Not by Screach or by any other person?—No.

24,288. Evens is the man who always looked after you?—Yes.

24,289. Did Mr. Parnell ever offer you any money at all?—Not a farthing.

24,290. Not to vote on their side?—No.

H. Seaman.

HENRY SEAMAN sworn and examined.

24,291. What are you?—I was a draper and I came to live here 17 years ago.

24,292. Have you been on the Conservative side of politics ever since that time?—Yes, on the Conservative side.

24,293. I believe you take a conspicuous part on the Conservative side, and you have proposed the Conservative candidates from time to time?—Yes.

24,294. Did you propose or second Mr. Dent in 1862 or 1863?—In 1863 I did second him.

24,295. Were you actively employed on the committee at the time?—No, I was not.

24,296. What part did you take in the election?—Merely in seconding Mr. Dent.

24,297. Did you take a part in any election before that?—Yes, I have.

24,298. In 1862?—In 1862, I seconded Mr. Dent.

24,299. In 1859 were you actively employed in the election?—No, I was merely a seconder.

24,300. Were you not actively employed?—Never.

24,301. Did you take any part in the election of 1865?—None whatever.

24,302. You voted?—No.

24,303. You did not vote?—No.

24,304. What was the reason that made you abstain from voting?—I had an impression that these elections were got by corruption.

24,305. Was that impression produced by what you found taking place in 1859 and 1863?—I had an idea that there was a good deal of corruption, but I never found it out till there was a fact that confirmed me that the elections were carried by corruption, and that was some one calling on Elford who lives at Gerston with me, that person came up to see him and offered him 200*l.* for his vote.

24,306. Do you know what it was you heard was offered and who offered it?—I was told afterwards it was one of the Heaths.

24,307. When did Elford tell you about it?—On the same day when he saw this party.

24,308. At what election was that?—I think it must have been Dent's election in 1863.

24,309. Did you make any inquiries about it?—He came and told me; that was the first idea I had personally that there was any corruption.

24,310. I suppose you heard rumours?—I heard rumours.

24,311. Long before that?—Yes.

24,312. Did Elford take the money?—He did not, he said he should not be happy if he did.

24,313. His happiness did not depend on his taking money, I am afraid he has taken a good deal at different times?—I was not aware of it, I heard that he had taken it once, 20*l.*

24,314. When was that?—Mr. Dent's election; but I did not know it.

24,315. Did you hear from whom he got it?—No, I did not.

24,316. No name mentioned at all?—No, I read it in the paper; but I think it was Stoyle.

24,317. Is that all you have got to tell us about the elections?—That is all.

24,318. Were you present when Mr. Dent held a meeting at the "Seven Stars"?—What meeting.

24,319. Was there not a Conservative meeting at the "Seven Stars" at which Mr. Dent spoke, when there were a good many people and he addressed those who were sitting there?—I was not present; I was away.

24,320. On the nomination day did you hear a speech made by Mr. John Heath?—Yes, I did.

24,321. What did he put forward before the electors as Mr. Dent's principal qualification for being a good candidate for Totnes?—As a wealthy man.

24,322. With millions at his back?—Yes.

24,323. Did you suggest that Mr. Dent was a good man because he had taken a good deal of trouble to open up some of the unknown seas in China and was an adventurous man?—I knew he was a wealthy man, and some friends of mine in London had spoken highly of his character.

24,324. Did you look forward to his wealth or was it the impression that he had been a useful man in China and had opened up certain rivers to the commerce of the country?—That was it.

24,325. Mr. John Heath took the money view of the matter and considered he was a person with millions at his back?—Yes.

24,326. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you suggest that he might open the Dart in the like manner?—No, I never had anything to do with those transactions.

24,327. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you lived here?—17 years, I had a leasehold.

24,328. Who was the first person you got the lease from?—Mr. Farwell who was the agent for Mr. Barry Baldwin.

24,329. In 1849 ?—Yes.

24,330. What was the length of it ?—14 or 21 ears.

24,331. Did you take it at 21 years ?—I had it for 4 or 21 years, it was optional.

24,332. Have you exercised your option ?—It was ptional in both parties.

24,333. Did you rescind it ?—No, I did not. The Duke of Somerset is the purchaser of the property.

24,334. When did the Duke of Somerset buy the nterest ?—About four years since.

24,335. Before the election of 1863 ?—Yes, it was ast before. I had an unexpired term of about two ears.

24,336. You did not take it till 1851 ?—I cannot ell you till I refer.

24,337. Was not one reason why you did not nterfere in the election of 1865, because you were romised a renewed lease by Mr. Michelmore ?—No.

24,338. Were you promised it ?—I expected I ight have had notice from the Duke of Somerset, ut I had no notice of it.

24,339. Did you speak to Mr. Michelmore about it ?—No, I did not. He came to me and said, "Now, you will in future pay the rent to me."

24,340. You talked about the lease expiring between he elections of 1862 and 1863 ; it was 1865 when it xpired ?—Yes, it did.

24,341. The duke might have insisted on your giving t up if he had chosen ?—Yes.

24,342. Did he do so ?—No, he did not.

24,343. Did he renew the lease ?—I hold the roperty on the same principle as his other tenants.

24,344. What is that ?—Tenant from year to year.

24,345. Was it not in consequence of your being a enant from year to year of the Duke of Somerset hat you did not vote at the last election ?—No, certainly not.

24,346. Would you have voted at the last election if you thought Totnes was a place where a candidate might come in honestly ?—As a Conservative. I have a respect for territorial rights, and I should have given my vote.

24,347. Was it because the Duke of Somerset was your landlord ?—No, certainly not.

24,348. What do you mean by respecting territorial rights ?—I did not feel disposed to vote. I was away out on business and I did not vote.

24,349. (Mr. Coleridge.) Should you have voted for Mr. Dent ?—Certainly I should. I have the greatest possible respect for Mr. Dent.

24,350. You would have voted for Mr. Dent in spite of your respect for territorial rights ?—I should for Mr. Dent, but not for anyone else.

24,351. If Mr. Baldwin had been your landlord ?—I do not know whether I would or not. That is impossible to say.

24,352. Should you have voted for Dent had he stood the last time ?—No, I should not.

24,353. Do you know the younger Mr. Dent was requested to stand ; is he a cousin of Mr. Dent ?—That I cannot tell.

24,354. (Mr. Longe.) You have spoken of the election having been carried by corruption, what do you mean by "carried by corruption" ?—I mean to say the elections generally in this borough have been carried by corrupt parties in purchasing votes. I have never had an instance brought home to me. I mean that generally speaking they are carried in that way.

24,355. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you not believe that at the last election much more money was spent by the Conservatives than by the Liberals ?—I can hardly give an opinion. I believe so.

24,356. In Mr. Dent's election, did he spend more than Mr. Seymour ?—I have an idea that he did.

24,357. If it should turn out that he spent double what Mr. Seymour spent, should you still adhere to the opinion that the excess was obtained by corruption ?—In this borough I would.

24,358. How do you account for Mr. Seymour beating Mr. Dent ; if Mr. Dent spent double the money would there not be the duke's influence superadded to a certain amount ?—I think there are certain influences that act upon the mind of man that you cannot divest yourself of.

James Wherry sworn and examined.

J. Wherry.

24,359. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been a voter ?—At the last election.

24,360. Was that the first time ?—Yes.

24,361. You have not been long resident in Totnes ?—No.

24,362. Whom did you vote for at the last election ?—Pender and Seymour.

24,363. Did anybody come to you on the other side ?—Oh, yes.

24,364. Who came ?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

24,365. Did not Mr. John Heath come to you ?—No.

24,366. Not at all ?—I met him in the road.

24,367. Were you passing down to the "Stars" ?—I was coming round.

24,368. Did Mr. John Heath call you in ?—No, I stopped in the road.

24,369. Did he come out and speak to you ?—Yes.

24,370. What did he say to you ?—He asked me to vote for Colonel Dawkins ; I said I had promised my vote to Pender and Seymour ; he said he would give me 50 sovereigns to vote for Colonel Dawkins, or rather lend it.

24,371. What did you say to that ?—If he gave me double the money I would not go from my word.

24,372. Whom had you promised ?—The candidates themselves.

24,373. Did Mr. Jeffery Michelmore come with them ?—No, he had nothing to do with me at all.

24,374. Did you tell Mr. Heath at the time when he offered you the 50*l.* there was a good deal of money going on the Liberal side ?—I knew nothing about it. I took no notice about the money matters. One could not shut one's ears as to what was going forward.

24,375. Had you seen Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore about the election ?—No.

24,376. None of them ?—I am quite sure of that.

24,377. Whose house do you live in ?—Mr. Chaster's.

24,378. Did he have nothing to do with your vote ?—No ; he asked no one to vote for himself or anybody else.

24,379. Does he turn anybody out who does not vote with him ?—I know that he employs the Conservative party to do his work.

24,380. Have you any trade or profession ?—No.

24,381. Do you know Mr. Samuel Cuming ?—Very well.

24,382. Did he have nothing to do with the way you vote ?—No, sir. Mr. Samuel Cuming is master of his own horse.

24,383. You and he ride the same horse ?—Yes.

24,384. Does his carry an equal pitch ?—Quite right, sir.

24,385. You did not get anything for your vote ?—No, I should be sorry for it.

24,386. You had no benefit ?—No sir ; I take a pleasure in voting.

24,387. We have heard of people who never wanted or asked, but they found something. Did you ever find anything ?—My chimney is too close for that.

24,388. Is your table too narrow ?—Nobody came into my house that I know of.

24,389. Is there a Mrs. Wherry ?—No, I am sorry to say.

NINETEENTH DAY.

J. Wherry.

14 Sept. 1866.

24,390. Nobody to look after the house in your absence?—Yes.

24,391. Does the lady exercise any influence upon your vote?—No woman in the world could.

24,392. Did not she?—No.

24,393. Do you think any of the Liberal people came to see you?—Not to my knowledge.

24,394. Not with a little present to you?—No.

24,395. Nothing of the sort?—No.

24,396. Neither you nor she ever found anything of the sort?—No.

24,397. No little present?—No.

24,398. Nothing came by post?—No.

24,399. Did not Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore come up to you on the morning of the election?—Perhaps he did.

24,400. He walked down with you early to poll?—No. I went to the poll by myself.

24,401. Was he walking near?—Oh, no.

24,402. At what time did you vote?—I was the 17th person that voted.

24,403. Had you received instructions to vote?—No instructions from anyone.

24,404. You must have voted before half-past 8?—I dare say that was the time.

24,405. At what time in the morning did you see Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore?—I do not know really.

24,406. You must have seen him before you voted?—I could not help seeing a person if he came up to my garden.

24,407. What time did he come up?—About 7 o'clock.

24,408. What did he come up for?—To see if I was at home.

24,409. Did he think they might carry you off?—They carried off my gates.

24,410. Who did?—The roughs.

24,411. Was that to make your being carried off the easier?—I do not think that; but they had a lot of donkeys turned into my garden.

24,412. Were they for the Liberals or the Conservatives?—They were no friends of mine.

24,413. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were there a lot of voters turned into your garden?—They voted the wrong way for me.

24,414. (Mr. Bere.) Before an election have you heard what the usual reason for voting in Totnes was?—I have heard a great deal; I have my own mind. I voted for Plymouth many years for the Liberal side.

24,415. At Plymouth there were no good reasons for voting, I mean good in the sense of Totnes reasons?—I cannot say.

24,416. Have you heard there were solid reasons for voting in Totnes?—I have not.

24,417. Did you say before the election you did not care a pin for who you voted, that you should vote for solid reasons?—Unfortunately it has been mentioned in this hall, since you have had the honour of sitting there, but there never was a greater mistake, I assure you.

E. Shinner.

EDWARD SHINNER sworn and examined.

24,418. (Mr. Longe.) What is your occupation?—A currier.

24,419. Are you a master tradesman or a workman?—I work for myself now.

24,420. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—I should suppose now 14 or 15 years.

24,421. Do you remember the election you first voted at?—Yes.

24,422. For whom did you first vote?—Mr. Dunn, no, Mr. Mackenzie.

24,423. That was in 1857?—Yes, sir.

24,424. Who canvassed you then?—I do not know whether I was canvassed at all. I was for Mackenzie and Gregory.

24,425. Did you get a present for it?—Nothing at all.

24,426. Why did you vote?—Because I felt interested in the men.

24,427. You did not know anything about them?—I was on the Conservative side.

24,428. You were a Conservative then, were you?—Yes.

24,429. In 1852 were you canvassed?—I do not think I was.

24,430. In 1859 whom did you vote for?—I cannot recollect.

24,431. Mr. Dunn was the Conservative candidate?—I voted for Mr. Dunn.

24,432. Who canvassed you for Mr. Dunn?—Mr. Dunn himself.

24,433. After the election did they give you a present?—They did.

24,434. How much was that?—Me and my brother William had 30*l.*, that was 15*l.* each. I took the money over to my brother.

24,435. Who gave it to you?—I do not know, a stranger.

24,436. Where was it given to you?—In my own house.

24,437. A strange gentleman?—I do not know the man.

24,438. Was it Higgins whom we have heard something about in 1859?—I did not hear of him.

24,439. Whom did the stranger come with?—Frederick Evens.

24,440. Had Frederick Evens talked to you before?—I believe he had.

24,441. He had given you to understand if you voted for Dunn you would get something?—Yes.

24,442. Were you canvassed on the other side that time?—I do not think I was.

24,443. You forget then?—I do not believe I did.

24,444. In 1862, when Mr. Dent first stood, he was a Conservative, do you remember being canvassed at that time?—Yes.

24,445. Whom by?—Mr. Dent.

24,446. By Mr. Pender?—I was not.

24,447. Who came with Mr. Dent?—Mr. Edmonds.

24,448. Whom did he see when he called?—I promised to vote for Mr. Dent.

24,449. You got something?—I did not; I did not vote at all that time.

24,450. Were you told to go to the "Stars" and see Mr. F. Evens again, and did you not?—He did not come again.

24,451. Did you not go down to the "Stars" on the night before the election?—No, not that time.

24,452. Did your wife go?—Nor my wife.

24,453. You did not go at all?—No.

24,454. There were a great many disappointments at that time?—I do not know.

24,455. You were disappointed?—I was not.

24,456. Were you going to give your vote for Mr. Dent?—For Mr. Dent.

24,457. The election after is 1863, it was Dent again?—I promised him then, and I had 25*l.* for my vote.

24,458. Who gave it to you?—I received it of Frederick Evens.

24,459. On the other side were you canvassed for Mr. Seymour that time?—I do not know; if I was I never saw him. He may have called at my house.

24,460. Do you not remember being asked to vote for Mr. Seymour?—I do not.

24,461. Not by anyone?—He may have called on me since I was from home.

24,462. Your wife, was she at home; did they not talk to her about your vote?—They may, I cannot tell.

24,463. She did not tell you anything about it?—No.

NINETEENTH DAY.

E. Shinner.

14 Sept. 1866.

24,464. You did not hear that any money could be got from Mr. Seymour?—I did not.

24,465. In 1865, the last election, who did you vote for then?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

24,466. Who canvassed you?—Colonel Dawkins.

24,467. Who was with him?—I cannot tell you; I think Mr. Edmonds.

24,468. Did Frederick Evens call again?—No, he did not.

24,469. What did you get this last time?—Nothing for voting.

24,470. Nothing at all?—Not for voting.

24,471. Did you not see Screach?—I did not.

24,472. You saw Mr. Heath, I think?—I saw Mr. Heath on the Saturday week before the election.

24,473. I think you had a little transaction with him about your house?—Yes; I saw Mr. Heath at the "Plymouth" inn. I sold him my house at the "Plymouth" inn, and he gave me one sovereign in earnest.

24,474. And how much deposit?—I promised to meet him at Mr. Bryett's office in the course of the afternoon, between 3 and 4 o'clock, which I did.

24,475. He was present?—He was not; his clerk was there.

24,476. Who was that?—Mr. Narramore.

24,477. Who were the parties, Mr. Heath and Mr. Narramore?—My son was there with me. I sold him the property for 400*l.* I would have an agreement drawn and signed, but Mr. Heath said he would give me a sovereign now, and he would give me a cheque for 39*l.* afterwards, and that was to close the bargain. I took the rest of the money. I sold it as a bonâ fide bargain. I think he turned out an ungentleman-like man. 400*l.* I was to have.

24,478. You only got 40*l.*?—I got the 40*l.*, and Mr. Heath had a property worth 400*l.*

24,479. (Mr. Coleridge.) Why not sell it now for 400*l.*?—I would sell it to any man, or to you, if you please.

24,480. You got 40*l.* for nothing?—He backed my sale.

24,481. (Mr. Bere.) He was not the only person who offered you 40*l.* for your house, was he, at the last election?—I might have sold it to another party.

24,482. Who was that?—I might have sold it to Mr. Michelmore.

24,483. Which Mr. Michelmore?—Charles Frederick Michelmore.

24,484. He was going to give 400*l.* too?—Yes.

24,485. Why did you not take it?—I like dealing with honest men. I do not like dealing with rogues.

24,486. (Mr. Coleridge.) You thought Mr. Heath was a more honest man than Mr. Michelmore?—I do not mean to say that he cannot be a right man.

24,487. How did you deal with Mr. Michelmore?—I agreed with him for 400*l.*

24,488. How did you begin; did you publish the sale of your house?—There had been papers up about the sale a long time. Mr. Michelmore went down to Mr. Bryett's, and I received a letter from Mr. Bryett to go down and sign the contract.

24,489. You mean that Mr. Bryett was to sell the house for you?—Yes.

24,490. Did you instruct Mr. Bryett or Mr. Narramore to sell your house?—Mr. Bryett himself.

24,491. And you went down with Michelmore?—I received a letter from Mr. Bryett to meet Mr. Michelmore at his office at 1 o'clock on Saturday. I went there; I was there twice and Mr. Michelmore was not there. I went away and sent down my son to say as he had not attended the purchase was voided.

24,492. (Mr. Bere.) When you went to Mr. Bryett's with Mr. Heath, had Mr. Bryett anything to do with it? Did he tell you, you had agreed to sell it to Mr. Charles Michelmore? The sale between yourself and Mr. Heath you, know, was no more than a corrupt bargain for your vote. Have you paid back that 39*l.* to Mr. Heath?—No, the money was forfeited at the time he told me.

WILLIAM VALLANCE sworn and examined.

W. Vallance.

24,493. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A licensed hawker and marine store dealer.

24,494. Where do you live?—Leechwell Street.

24,495. How long have you been a voter for Totnes?—The last election was the first.

24,496. What did you vote upon?—Upon a house, garden, and stable.

24,497. What did you pay for it?—14*l.* and repairs.

24,498. How did you vote at the last election?—For Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

24,499. Who canvassed you?—Colonel Dawkins.

24,500. Who came with him?—Mr. Edmonds.

24,501. What did Mr. Edmonds say?—Mr. Edmonds did not say anything more than that he came with Colonel Dawkins.

24,502. Did you say at once you would vote, or that you must think about it?—I said at once, I promised him my vote.

24,503. What did you get for your vote?—50*l.*

24,504. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Heath.

24,505. Where?—At the "Seven Stars."

24,506. Was it No. 1, the first door on the left?—No, it was on the landing.

24,507. What did he give it to you in?—Gold.

24,508. Was it loose?—Yes.

24,509. He counted it out?—Yes.

24,510. There was no bag?—No bag.

24,511. You put it loose in your pocket?—Yes.

24,512. Were you offered anything by Mr. Pender's people?—No.

24,513. Did not Mr. Michelmore offer you anything?—He did not call on me at all.

24,514. You got your 50*l.* and went and voted?—Yes.

24,515. Do you know a woman called Mrs. Grace Tucker?—Yes.

24,516. Do you know a man called Crawford?—Yes.

24,517. Do you know that she was attending Crawford when he was ill, just about the election time?—I heard that Grace Tucker was attending of him.

24,518. Attending Mrs. Crawford?—Attending Mrs. Crawford.

24,519. Have you voted at the municipal council elections?—Yes.

24,520. What did you get there?—I never got anything but once.

24,521. When was that?—It will be three years ago now.

24,522. What did you get then?—I was going off to my business, and I would not stop at home unless I was paid for loss of time.

24,523. How much?—30*s.*

24,524. Which way did you vote?—For the Tory party.

24,525. Who told you to go and get this 50 sovereigns?—No one did not tell me to go.

24,526. How came you to go there?—Why, Frederick Evens I met in the evening; no one had not been to me. I met him in the lane, and he asked me whether anyone had been to me, and I said no one had been to me.

24,527. What do you mean? Had not Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Edmonds been to you?—Yes. He asked whether any of the party had been up that day.

24,528. What party?—The Tory party.

NINETEENTH DAY.

J. Vallance.

Sept. 1866.

24,529. But Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Edmonds had been ?—Yes.

24,530. You did not consider that they were anybody ?—This was the day before the nomination.

24,531. Nobody had been that day ?—That day.

24,532. And you told him that nobody had been ?—I told him that no person had been.

24,533. What did he say then ?—He asked me to go along with him, and I went down to his house, and he asked me to ride down in the cab with Stoyle, and I did so.

24,534. You went to the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

24,535. What did you do ? Did you go and tell Mr. Heath that he was to give you something ?—No. Mr. Heath said there was something for me.

24,536. When had you first been promised anything ?—Not till that same evening.

24,537. Who promised it to you ?—Evens.

24,538. Had you ever asked for anything before ?—No, nothing.

24,539. Did you know you were going to get something to vote ?—I did not get a farthing for it.

24,540. You would have been very disappointed if you had not ?—No.

24,541. Had you been employed at former elections as a watcher, or anything of that sort ?—No.

24,542. Do you know anything more about the election ?—No.

24,543. Do you know anybody else who got money ?—No.

24,544. Nobody has told you that they got money ?—No.

24,545. Nobody has offered you money ?—No, no one else did call on me.

S. Saunders.

SAMUEL SAUNDERS sworn and examined.

24,546. You are a bootmaker living at Totnes ?—Yes.

24,547. And you voted for the first time in 1863 ?—Yes.

25,548. For Mr. Dent ?—For Mr. Dent.

24,549. Your politics not being very well known at that time, you were made pretty secure then, were not you ?—I was not promised anything.

24,550. But you were given something ?—Yes, 40*l.*

24,551. Who gave you it ?—Mr. John Heath, the young one ; he stated it to-day.

24,552. Were you taken away with Wm. Reeve ?—That was the time before. I was not taken away, I went voluntarily.

24,553. Where did you go to in 1862 ?—Exeter.

24,554. Who paid your expenses ?—I paid my own.

24,555. Did you want to vote at that election ?—I was not asked to vote.

24,556. What made you go to Exeter then ?—I I went off on the spree.

24,557. Did anybody help to pay the expenses of the spree ?—No.

24,558. Nobody at all ?—About a fortnight after a little parcel was sent me containing 5*l.* for services rendered.

24,559. Was that for the services you rendered on the spree ?—I do not know. I paid my own spree.

24,560. Did the spree cost you 5*l.* ?—No, I made a little out of it.

24,561. In 1865 you voted for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim ?—Yes.

24,562. How much did you get for that ?—I was paid a week's work.

24,563. How much ?—20*l.*

24,564. Are you a master shoemaker ?—Yes.

24,565. Who paid you ?—George Heath.

24,566. At your own house ?—No, at his office ; he engaged me there the week before.

24,567. How many pairs of shoes did you make him ?—None.

24,568. What were you engaged at ?—I was out in the evening.

24,569. Doing what ?—Looking about.

24,570. You made your boots and shoes in the day and canvassed in the evening ?—No, I do not suppose I did anything all the week.

24,571. Did you give him an I. O. U. for it ?—I do not think I did.

24,572. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever get 20*l.* in your life for a week's work before ?—I do not think I have earned as much as that. I have had nearly as much in my business.

24,573. You know you were bribed with the 20*l.* ?—I do not call it a bribe.

24,574. (Mr. Bere.) Is that your writing (handing an I. O. U. to witness) ?—I think it is.

24,575. Having seen that paper, do you still say you got 20*l.* for a week's work ?—I have not the least recollection of giving that.

24,576. Is that your writing ?—No, I know it is not my writing. I do not think really it is my handwriting.

24,577. Look at it again ?—I would not tell an untruth.

24,578. Look at the signature ?—I cannot positively swear it is my writing.

24,579. Could you swear that it is not ?—No.

24,580. Write your name (the witness wrote his name ?)—I do not recollect ever doing it. I would not swear it is not my writing. I do not know whether it is or no. I do not recollect giving him that for it.

24,581. Now, having looked at that, and seen the I. O. U., do you still say that George Heath paid you that money for a week's work or for your vote ?—He did not say anything about vote. He said, "Here is "20*l.* for you."

24,582. He did not say anything about a week's work either ?—No ; he said, "I want you to be "looking about this week, and you will have some-"thing for it."

24,583. (Mr. Coleridge.) You got 20*l.* for your week's work ?—Yes.

24,584. And your vote ?—Yes.

24,585. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know Reeve ?—Yes.

24,586. Did you live next door ?—Yes, I did then.

24,587. Did you ever talk to Reeve after the election ?—This last election I think I did.

24,588. Did he vote the same side as you did ?—No, he voted for Pender and Seymour.

24,589. Did he tell you why he did not vote on the same side ?—No, I do not think there was much said about election ; directly after he came from the election he came by the house and said, "Is Sam made "all right ?"

24,590. That was you ?—Yes. I was in the back kitchen at the time, and he said, "If he is not he will "not be." He says, "I have made mine."

24,591. Did he say that to Welch ?—Yes, he said that to Welch.

24,592. Was that the old one who is dead, or the young one ?—The young one who is alive now. I did not hear all of it, but just that bit. I was in the kitchen.

24,593. Were not you curious enough to find out how much he had been made all right with ?—He said he had had 40*l.*

24,594. Did anybody come to you on that side ?—No.

24,595. Did not Reeve come and ask you to vote ?—No.

24,596. How was it that he came to think you would be made all right on that side ?—Because we had been paid at the previous election.

24,597. By the Liberals ?—No, the Conservatives, he voted for then.

24,598. Who paid this 40*l.* ?—Mr. Heath paid it.

24,599. Did you see Mr. Seymour at the last election ?—Yes.

24,600. Did Mr. Seymour promise you anything ?—He said I had better come to London to work, and he would give me all his work and get more for me, and he said he paid a very good price for his work.

24,601. When did he say that?—A day or two before the election.

24,602. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever do work for him?—No.

24,603. Did he not only make you this offer by word of mouth, but send you down something to sign?—That was about a month before the election. I wanted to give the business up if I could; and my uncle once got me a situation, and I thought I could get one better when I had a vote, and I asked him a long time before the election.

24,604. Mr. Seymour?—Mr. Holman.

24,605. Is he your uncle?—I say my uncle got me one once; Mr. John Angel, the cabinet maker, he got me one once.

24,606. How long ago?—Through Mr. Mills, nine years ago. He got me a place in the Post Office, but I did not pass; I went to London, but did not pass when I got there.

24,607. Did you see Mr. Holman?—Yes, I saw Mr. Holman, and said, "If your party could get me a "situation I would support the Liberal side;" and he said, "Very well, I will see what I can do." And in a day or two there was a letter came down to say that Mr. Seymour would get me an appointment, and then one or two letters passed, and there was an appointment to a situation in the Liverpool Custom Office.

24,608. Could not you pass?—My age was too much.

24,609. Have you that letter?—I have it at home.

24,610. Will you let us see all those letters?—I have no letters; Mr. Holman had the letters.

24,611. Did you sign anything then?—No, I did not sign nothing.

24,612. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were not you sent a paper to sign?—No, a printed form that I was to apply to the nearest port, but my age was too high, and it was no use trying for it.

RICHARD TILLEY sworn and examined.

R. Tilley.

24,613. (Mr. Longe.) What is your occupation?—I am grocer.

24,614. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Ten or a dozen years or more.

24,615. You voted in 1859, I think, for Mr. Dunn?—Yes.

24,616. Did you vote before that?—I think I voted for Mr. Baldwin.

24,617. Did you ever vote for a Liberal candidate?—No, I believe not. I have only voted on one side, I think.

24,618. Always for the Conservatives?—Yes.

24,619. You are sure of that?—I think so.

24,620. Do you remember the election of 1859, when you voted for Mr. Dunn?—Yes.

24,621. Did they give you anything afterwards?—No.

24,622. Nothing at all?—No.

24,623. Now, in 1862 Mr. Dent first came; who did you vote for then?—I did not vote at all.

24,624. Who did you promise your vote to?—Mr. Dent.

24,625. Did you get anything?—I did not vote at all the first time.

24,626. Who did you promise it to; who canvassed you?—Mr. Dunn and Mr. Edmonds.

24,627. But who in 1862?—Mr. Dent and Mr. Edmonds.

24,628. Were you canvassed on the other side?—They called round.

24,629. Who called?—I believe both parties called. I did not see them; was not at home at the time.

24,630. In 1863, whom did you vote for then?—Mr. Dent.

24,631. Did he give you anything afterwards?—He gave me 20*l.*

24,632. Who gave you the 20*l.*?—Mr. George Heath.

24,633. Who promised you the 20*l.*?—Was never promised at all.

24,634. Who canvassed you for Mr. Dent?—Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Dent.

24,635. Did not Mr. Edmonds give you to understand?—No, he never told anything about it.

24,636. When you promised your vote did not you expect anything?—I never said a word about it.

24,637. You promised your vote, and never said a word about it?—No.

24,638. How came they to give you any money?—I do not know.

24,639. In 1865, do you remember, were you canvassed on the other side?—Yes, they were there on the other side, but I was not at home to see them.

24,640. Do you mean to say they did not canvass you personally?—No.

24,641. Was your wife at home?—Yes.

24,642. Did they ask her about your vote?—I dare say they did; they called there.

24,643. Who called?—Mr. Pender.

24,644. Who called with him?—I do not know who was the man.

24,645. Do you remember Samuel Parnell calling?—Not with them.

24,646. When was it he came?—He was there every week at my house, or two or three times a week.

24,647. He is a friend of yours?—Yes.

24,648. Whom did you vote for this last election, 1865?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

24,649. What did they give you this time?—Nothing at all.

24,650. Who canvassed you?—I was not at home when Colonel Dawkins called, but I saw Commander Pim myself down at the "Stars."

24,651. But whom did you see besides?—I saw Mr. Edmonds.

24,652. Did you see Mr. Heath?—No, Mr. Heath never said a word to me.

24,653. You never saw Mr. Heath?—No.

24,654. Did you see Mr. George Heath?—This last election?

24,655. Yes.—No, I never spoke to him that I remember.

24,656. Was there no promise made to you by any of the Heaths?—No, not this last election.

24,657. Not of 20*l.*?—No.

24,658. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know Clarke, the man who was waiter at the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

24,659. Did not you tell him you had been treated very badly, because Mr. Heath had promised you 20*l.* and kept it himself?—Yes.

24,660. You are quite sure about that?—Yes.

24,661. Are you the only voter called Tilley in Totnes?—I believe so.

24,662. Did not they offer you any money at all?—No.

24,663. Did you go and see whether you could get any money?—No; I do not think I went inside the "Stars" during the last election.

24,664. Did anybody come to see you about it?—No.

24,665. Did you meet them accidentally in the street?—No.

24,666. Or find a packet on the table?—No.

24,667. Or in the chimney corner?—No.

24,668. (Mr. Longe.) Did you ever complain to anybody this last time?—No.

24,669. You got paid before, and you thought to have something this time?—Never but once in my life.

24,670. (Mr. Bere.) Why did not you get it this time?—I did not know anything was about.

24,671. What, did not you hear money was about?—I heard more than I heard before.

24,672. If you had known money was about you would have gone and asked?—I never went.

24,673. But if you had known it you would have

NINETEENTH DAY.

14 Sept. 1866.

gone and got some money?—Yes, perhaps I should, if I had known where it was.

24,674. (Mr. Longe.) Was it this last election that Mr. Parnell was speaking to you?—No.

24,675. When was he speaking to you about voting?—No, he knew I never voted on that side.

24,676. Did he try?—He never promised me anything in his life.

24,677. Had he told you you could get something?—He never said a word about money; he asked me to vote on the other side.

G. Mitchell.

GEORGE MITCHELL sworn and examined.

24,678. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A painter.

24,679. A master painter?—No, a journeyman.

24,680. Did you work for Crawford?—I worked with him.

24,681. Do you remember, some time when he was working with you, talking to him about his vote?—Yes, we have talked about it many times; we used to talk and chaff about it pretty much.

24,682. Did you chaff about it at the last election?—No, I had nothing at all to do with the last election.

24,683. 1863?—Yes.

24,684. Had Mr. Frederick Evens told you to chaff him?—No, we had talked about it some weeks before.

24,685. Did you ask him when working with him how he was going to vote?—Yes.

24,686. What did he say?—He said he did not know hardly, and that a trifle would do him good.

24,687. Did you communicate that to George Frederick Evens?—I did.

24,688. And having done that, did Evens tell you you might offer him some money?—Yes.

24,689. How much?—50*l.*

24,690. Did he give you the 50*l.* to take down to him?—Yes, I took it up to his house.

24,691. In gold?—Yes.

24,692. Where did you take it to him?—His own house.

24,693. Was he at home when you got there?—Yes, and his wife as well.

24,694. Did you show him the 50*l.*?—I did.

24,695. Then what did he say?—He called me outside the door, and said if I would get 10*l.* more he would vote for Mr. Dent and give me 50*s.* out of it, and I went and got him the 10*l.* more.

24,696. Did he vote for Dent?—No.

24,697. Did he give you the 50*s.*?—No.

24,698. Did he take the 10*l.*?—I showed it to him, but he would not have it.

24,699. Did you carry back the 60*l.* to Evens?—Yes, I did.

24,700. Who was there at the time?—George Stoyle; he was sitting one side the fireplace and I the other.

24,701. And did Crawford and Stoyle go to the "Seymour Arms" immediately afterwards?—Yes, and his wife's brother.

24,702. What was his name?—I do not know the name. I heard Crawford say it was his wife's brother, and I heard young Hill was in the "Stars" the same time I was there.

24,703. Have you ever talked to Crawford about the money you offered him at that time?—Yes, we have talked about it several times. He said he was stupid he had not had it. He said if ever he had the chance again he should be wide awake, or something to that effect; I cannot tell the words exactly.

24,704. Do you know yourself anything about the elections besides that?—No, I never interfered.

24,705. Did you ever offer money to a man called John Diggins?—No, never had anything to do with any election, and should not then if we had not worked together.

24,706. (Mr. Bere.) Have you voted for the elections to the council?—No, I never had a vote.

E. R. Turpin.

EDWARD RANDELL TURPIN sworn and examined.

24,707. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you voted for Totnes?—Ever since 1832, when the Reform Bill passed.

24,708. Have you voted at every election?—I voted at every election on the Liberal side till 1862.

24,709. And then for the first time you deserted?—Yes.

24,710. And did you desert them in consequence of some inducement from Mr. Screach, junior, being presented to you?—What I left them for was the bad behaviour of Jeffery Michelmore in taking away my work.

24,711. What are you?—A carpenter.

24,712. Did he take away your work?—Yes; after he came into a little power he began to show it.

24,713. He did not like you?—No.

24,714. Why?—I do not know, I never did any harm.

24,715. He liked somebody better?—I suppose so.

24,716. Whom did he give his work to?—A young man of the name of Elliott.

24,717. Son of John Elliott?—No, son of William Elliott; his father is dead.

24,718. Whom did you vote for after that?—I was going to vote for Mr. Dent in 1862.

24,719. Had you been promised anything in 1862?—Frederick Evens came over, but there was no arrangement made; he led me to believe there would be something.

24,720. You did not come to any sum?—No.

24,721. You voted for Dent in 1863?—Yes.

24,722. What did you get?—50*l.*

24,723. Who gave it to you?—Screach.

24,724. Where did he pay it to you?—At Thomas Mitchell's, Bridgetown.

24,725. Had you made an appointment to meet him there?—I do not know that I had, he called me ther I think.

24,726. Did he pay it before the election?—Yes, three or four days before the election.

24,727. Were there other people to be paid besides you there?—Yes.

24,728. Who?—Thomas Mitchell, Joseph Hannaford. I do not know any more but Diggins, I think he deserted.

24,729. Did Diggins and you get 50*l.* a piece?—Yes, but he voted differently afterwards.

24,730. Was it given to you in little bags, or counted out to you?—Counted out.

24,731. Whom did you vote for in 1865?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

24,732. Did you sign the requisition?—I believe I did.

24,733. How much did you get for your vote in 1865?—60*l.*

24,734. From Mr. Frederick Evens?—No.

24,735. Who?—Screach brought it. I did not know what I was going to have before he brought it.

24,736. Did he bring it to your house?—No.

24,737. Where?—Joseph Hannaford's.

24,738. That was the place of payment in 1865?—Yes, he met me in the street.

24,739. Had he arranged with you that you were to have something?—Before?

24,740. Yes.—Certainly no arrangement made; I did not know what I was going to have till he brought it to me.

24,741. In 1863 were you turned out of land you held of the Duke of Somerset?—Yes.

24,742. Did you go and see Mr. Thomas Michelmore about it?—I will show you a letter I had from Mr. Michelmore, and he promised to see me again.

(Handing in a letter of the 28th September 1863 to enforce the yielding up of possession.) I did not know he was going to turn me out because he said he would see me again about it.

24,743. When did he give you notice?—Lady day.

24,744. Why, did he tell you?—Yes, because I voted against them.

24,745. Did he tell you that he turned you out not only because you voted against them, but because you had been bribed to vote against them?—I do not know anything about that. I dare say he knew I got the money, but then he offered me the same money if I would turn again.

24,746. Who offered you that?—Mr. Cross, the senior clerk; he came up to me several times and asked me to turn again, and said he would give me the same money to break my promise and turn again. I told him I would not if he gave me 500*l.*

24,747. When did he offer you that?—Cross came up, I think, the night before the election.

24,748. Dent and Seymour's election?—Yes.

24,749. He offered you 50*l.*?—Yes; he offered me the same money as I had got from them to pay it off, if I would turn and vote for them.

24,750. He learned you had 50*l.* on the other side?—Yes.

24,751. Did anybody offer you anything in 1865?—No. I was never canvassed, because they knew it was no good.

24,752. Is Mr. Cross living in Totnes now?—I believe he is; I do not know that he is. He is clerk of the chapel of ease at Bridgetown; his christian name is Richard.

24,753. As long as you got work from the Liberal party you voted for them?—Yes, and I should never have turned against them if they had behaved as they should have done.

24,754. As soon as you lost the work you intimated you should vote against them?—They have never paid me my expenses attending the election, or anything.

JOHN HENRY TOPE sworn and examined. J. H. Tope.

24,755. (Mr. Longe.) What is your occupation?—A baker.

24,756. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Since the last election for the borough.

24,757. Only since the last parliamentary election?—Yes.

24,758. Whom did you vote for?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

24,759. Who canvassed you?—Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Edmonds.

24,760. Who canvassed you on the other side?—Mr. Pender; I do not know who the other gentleman was.

24,761. You got something afterwards at the "Seven Stars," did not you?—Yes.

24,762. What was it?—Ten 5*l.* notes.

24,763. Who gave it you?—Mr. George Heath. I beg pardon; I was going up Mill Lane, I had promised Colonel Dawkins my vote, and I was going up to the "Seven Stars" bar, and Mr. George Heath ran against me, and he says, "Here, I want to see "you." He says, "I have 50*l.* for you." I says, "I should like to have it." And he says, "If you "come over in a few hours time you shall have it." I did not go over before the evening, and Mr. John Heath paid it to me.

24,764. Had no one told you beforehand you would get that from the Heaths?—Never; not a single word about it.

24,765. That was the first time you knew there was any money at all?—Yes.

24,766. Had not you given anyone to understand that you wanted some?—No, not a word.

24,767. This was Mr. George Heath?—Yes.

24,768. He told you to come down, and Mr. John Heath gave you the money?—Yes.

24,769. How did he give it you?—In ten 5*l.* notes.

24,770. What day was it? "Two days before the "election he came to our house and received a bag "from Mr. Mum." You do not remember anything about that?—He is a liar if he says so.

24,771. He gave it to you himself?—He did; he gave me ten 5*l.* notes.

24,772. You never saw Mum or the bag?—No, I do not know Mr. Mum any more than you.

24,773. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you see any stranger?—No, only George Heath and his father.

24,774. (Mr. Longe.) Were you canvassed by the other side?—Yes.

24,775. Whom by?—Mr. Pender.

24,776. What did you tell him?—That I should not vote for him.

24,777. Did you give any reason?—No.

24,778. You told him plump that you would not vote for him without any reason at all?—Yes.

24,779. Who was the gentleman who was with him?—I cannot say now, really.

24,780. I want you to tell us?—I do not know him.

24,781. Did you ever see the gentleman before?—Yes; he is, of course, one of the gentleman in the town.

24,782. Was it young Mr. Windeatt?—No, I do not think so.

24,783. Was it Mr. Parnell?—No.

24,784. Was it Mr. Chaster; was it Mr. Jeffery Michelmore or Mr. Pengilley?—Oh! no.

24,785. Who was he; you must know?—Upon my word I really do not know.

24,786. (Mr. Bere.) Did anybody give you any reason for voting for Mr. Pender?—No.

24,787. Did he promise you anything?—No.

24,788. Did he offer you anything?—No.

JOHN WATSON sworn and examined. J. Watson.

24,789. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—An innkeeper.

24,789*. What is the name of your inn?—The "Lord Nelson."

24,790. Where is it?—At the lower part of the town.

24,791. In 1863 do you recollect the election?—Whose was that?

24,792. Seymour and Dent?—The first time I voted it was for Dent.

24,793. Did you vote for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

24,794. What did you get?—Nothing.

24,795. Did you have a party at your house and the bill paid?—No.

24,796. When was the first time that you had a bill paid for the Parliamentary elections; was that in 1863?—I never had a bill paid.

24,797. Did not you have a bill paid of 6*l.* or 7*l.*?—For the town council election, about 26*l.* or 27*l.*

24,798. When was that?—In Dent's election, the election following; the second time Mr. Dent came here.

24,799. Who paid it?—Mr. John Heath.

24,800. Then you voted for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

24,801. Do you know a man called Rolstone?—Yes.

24,802. What had you to do with him at the last election?—I sent a letter to Bath.

24,803. Anything in it?—No.

24,804. What did you say in the letter?—The only thing I stated was, "If you will come down I "will see that your expenses are paid forward and "back."

24,805. Did you get his expenses?—I did.

NINETEENTH DAY.

J. Watson.

14 Sept. 1866.

24,806. From whom ?—Mr. John Heath.

24,807. Is Rolstone a near relation of yours ?—No, Samuel Rolstone and me are great friends.

24,808. You are both tenants of John Heath ?—No ; when my missus goes away she goes and stays at Bath.

24,809. At the last election had you any bill paid ?—No.

24,810. Not a bill of 5*l.* or 6*l.* ?—No, not a farthing ; did not ask for it.

24,811. Did nobody offer you anything ?—Neither Mr. Pender nor Mr. Seymour.

24,812. Did Mr. Heath ?—No.

24,813. Mr. Screach ?—No.

24,814. None of the Heaths ?—No.

24,815. Frederick Evens ?—No.

24,816. Nobody offered you anything ?—No, not a farthing.

24,817. Did you have a present sent you after the election ?—No, never got a farthing.

24,818. All you got was a bill run up at the municipal election paid in 1863 ?—Yes.

24,819. Are you sure that no bill was paid in 1865 ?—No.

24,820. After the election of 1865 did Mr. Heath pay you any bill for liquor had in your house ?—No, I never asked him for anything.

24,821. You keep the "Lord Nelson" ?—Yes.

24,822. Is there a man of your name keeps the "Oxford Arms" ?—No, that is Goodman.

24,823. Mr. Heath says you kept the "Oxford "Arms" ?—That is not the case; I never kept the "Oxford Arms."

24,824. Were the watchers allowed to come to your house, and were you paid the bill ?—No.

24,825. In the printed poll book you are put down as of the "Oxford Arms." Have you changed the name of your inn ?—Never ; it is a mistake.

24,826. Has it been the "Lord Nelson" as long as you have been in it ?—Yes.

W. Byne.

WILLIAM BYNE recalled and further examined.

24,827. (Mr. Bere.) Is your memory better than it was ?—A little.

24,828. Have you not sent all those notices at the instigation of the Liberal party ?—I saw Worthy, and I believe the first words that were said were, "Good evening," and he asked if I had been objected to, and I said, "No, I do not think I have been "objected to." And then he asked me if I would sign some notices, and I said I would if he would find the papers. And he said, "I shall see you again," and he came to me again in the night ; and he said if I would came to Mr. Windeatt's office the next morning the papers would be ready ; and I went.

24,829. What did you do then ?—I signed a lot.

24,830. In Mr. Windeatt's presence ?—No.

24,831. He made out the papers ?—No, the clerk made them out.

24,832. What is his name ?—I do not know.

24,833. What are you going to get for that ?—Nothing ; I never made any bargain.

24,834. You know perfectly well that you are to get something ?—No, I never expect to get anything. I went to Mr. Windeatt's office to inquire, but I did not see him. I went to see him to give you a full explanation.

24,835. What land have you got now ?—That you heard so much about from Mr. Harris.

24,836. What have you got now ?—I have got that, two fields belonging to the Duke of Somerset.

24,837. How much do you pay for those two fields ?—One 16*l.* and all outs, and the other 17*l.* and all outs.

24,838. Is that the full value of them ?—Yes.

24,839. That you swear ?—For the one I took first I took at the same rent as the former tenant.

24,840. Who was the former tenant ? — Joseph Adams.

24,841. How many acres are there in the two fields ?—The one I took first was called five acres, but there is a piece let off, and it does not come up to five acres.

24,842. Is that the field you give 16*l.* for ?—Yes.

24,843. What is the acreage of the other ?—Three acres and three quarters. I will tell you in a moment.

24,844. Are the fields next each other ?—In the Sharpham Road.

24,845. Are they the same sort of soil ?—Yes, but one has plenty of water and the other has none.

24,846. Which has plenty of water ?—The biggest.

24,847. How is it that 17*l.* for the smaller and 16*l.* for the other ?—One is a much more level field.

24,848. Are they both pasture fields ?—Yes.

24,849 Have you got the receipts for the rent ?—Not here.

24,850. When did you first take the field ?—The big field I first took possession of the latter part of February, but it was an understood thing that I was to pay the rent to Michaelmas, because there was a good bit of grass, and I was to pay the rent in consideration of the grass.

24,851. Were you not let that field because you voted for the Liberals at the last election ?—No.

24,852. Do you mean that Mr. Michelmore would have let you the field if you had not voted ?—I think he would let anybody a field now ; there is an alteration in the times from what it was.

24,853. You pay a rent of 16*l.* for five acres of land ?—Yes.

24,854. How much money did you get at the last election ?—None.

24,855. Your wife ?—No, my wife never interferes.

24,856. How do you know that ?—She never told me, and I do not think it is likely.

24,857. What do you mean by being a contractor ?—I take work by contract.

24,858. You are a scavenger ?—Yes.

24,859. Have you got horses and carts ?—I have got one ; I had more before.

24,860. How long since you had more ?—I sold one after the last election.

24,861. Was that in consequence of not getting anything ?—No, because Mr. Bryett, who I used to do a lot of work for, turned me off his work.

24,862. Mr. Michelmore took you on ? — Not exactly.

24,863. He has given you a great deal of work ?—That was by tender.

24,864. Where is that job ?—It is at Blackawton.

24,865. How long did it last ?—About a month.

24,866. How much did you get paid for that ?—I do not know.

24,867. How long was the job to last ?—I had several horses and carts.

24,868. How long did you work at that job ?—About a month.

24,869. How much did you get for it ?—I cannot recollect.

24,870. Yes you can ?—I am sure I cannot.

24,871. How many hogsheads of lime did you draw ?—I cannot say, two at a time.

24,872. How much money did you get for them ?—I think I had some 100 and odd hogsheads.

24,873. How many odd hogsheads ?— I do not know.

24,874. Yes you do, and you'll have to sit there again till you remember ?—I really cannot tell you now from memory.

24,875. How much money did you get ?—I cannot say.

24,876. Was it 20*l.* ?—I cannot say.

24,877. Was it 25*l.* ?—I cannot tell ; I do not know whether I have it in my pocket-book.

24,878. How far is it from Blackawton ?—I think somewhere about 11 or 12 miles. I drove the lime from Cornworthy to Blackawton.

24,879. How many journeys did you take in a day?—Only two.

24,880. That is four hogsheads of lime a day?—Yes.

24,881. Let us look at your pocket-book?—It is only some memorandums.

24,882. That is what we want to see?—There it is, but there is nothing in it.

24,883. We will keep it till to-morrow morning?—There is something in that how to manufacture voters.

24,884. (Mr. Longe.) Where did you spend the evening before the election?—Home.

24,885. What time did you go home?—Perhaps about 6 or 7 o'clock.

24,886. Were you not at the "Seymour" hotel?—Not until after I voted.

24,887. Who was it went to the "Seven Stars" to see Captain Pim?—I do not know; I did not.

24,888. You remember the story about that?—I do not know anything about the story. I did not go to the "Seven Stars" till the next morning, but I was afraid I might have a little drop too much of "all nations."

24,889. You went there the next morning?—Yes; I saw Mr. Kellock and Mr. John Heath, and Mr. Kellock said I ought to remember that on the morning of the election I said I would not vote for the Conservatives unless they would give me another lease of the land.

24,890. You signed the requisition?—That signature was got from me by false pretences.

24,890*. You said on the last occasion it was a forgery?—I do not know that.

24,891. What is a false pretence?—I can prove it by witnesses, by my wife and daughters, Mr. Harris came about the requisition, for me to sign the requisition for Mr. Dent, I first objected to it, and I said if I signed the requisition I should be liable to vote, and he said "Oh no, not at all." I would not be liable to vote, but being a tenant of Mr. Dent's that I ought to sign it, and I would wish you to sign it more than any person, I said I will sign a requisition and understand if Mr. Dent comes I will give him one vote and the other vote I will do as I like with.

24,892. Why didn't you keep your promise?—Mr. Dent did not come, Mr. Harris came, and said he was in a hurry. "I have several places to call at to-" night and if you will clap your name down there," pointing, "that will do"; and I understood that it was for Mr. Dent.

24,893. That is not the requisition we are speaking of?—But that is the requisition I am speaking about; I only signed one.

24,894. Your name is not on the requisition to Mr. Dent?—That is the way he took me in, and if you like you can call my wife and daughters.

24,895. We do not doubt your word on that.—When Mr. Dent did not come I thought I was relieved from my liability.

24,896. (Mr. Coleridge.) It was not for the party but for Mr. Dent individually?—Yes.

24,897. You say you went to the "Stars" in the morning. You heard about you and the 11?—There was no 11 with me.

24,898. There were 12 men that signed the requisition to Mr. Macleay and voted against him?—I do not know anything about it, Mr. Macleay's name was not mentioned.

24,899. You heard that there was some men that signed the requisition and voted the other way?—Yes.

24,900. You knew that you were one?—I heard so, but I didn't know anything more than that I didn't sign a requisition to Mr. Macleay.

24,901. At the time that you went to the "Seven "Stars" you knew that your name was down then?—I did not. It is since the election that I have been told that I signed a requisition to Mr. Macleay, I didn't know anything about it before.

24,902. (Mr. Bere.) You got all the papers about the Broomborough Estate Manufactory?—Yes.

24,903. You know as a fact that all those votes were not submitted to the Revising Barrister?—Yes, they passed the Revising Barrister.

24,904. They were withdrawn?—No. They all voted at the election.

24,905. Robert Harris, Gilbert, and Narramore those were put on?—Yes.

24,906. Is this the acreage of the fields mentioned here (referring to a document)?—Yes.

24,907. Is that the acreage of the field mentioned in the notice?—No.

24,908. Can you tell us what the value of the land that is mentioned in the notice, not according to the rent you give but the fair rent?—No.

24,909. Can you tell us of your own knowledge what the value of the land is?—No.

24,910. Is it worth 110*l.*?—I should think not.

24,911. When was it you first made an application to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore about the land?—I think shortly after Michaelmas I heard a man was going out, and I made an application for the field and I think he said it was promised, but he would try and let me have the other.

24,912. Did you hear that Mr. Dent was going to let his land by auction?—Yes.

24,913. Was it in consequence of your hearing that it was going to be let by auction that you left?—I said I would not vote unless I got another lease, I wanted to pay the fair full price.

24,914. Why did you not go in for it by auction?—Perhaps I might, but Mr. Harris says they would not let me have another acre of land now.

24,915. Who was it spoke for you to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—I am not aware.

24,916. Was it Mr. Hannaford?—I am not aware that he did.

(Mr. Bere.) You may go away and bring an account of the hogsheads of lime. We shall let you off till Tuesday morning.

HENRY CRAWFORD recalled and further examined. H. Crawford.

24,917. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect the time of your wife being ill?—Yes.

24,918. Do you recollect Mrs. Tucker being with her?—Yes.

24,919. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

24,920. Do you know that while Mrs. Tucker was nursing your wife that she showed her 50 sovereigns that she had received?—No.

24,921. Not in your presence?—No.

24,922. And if she says so it is untrue?—Yes.

24,923. Soon after the election did your wife give you some money unexpectedly?—Nothing at all, on the last election I received 30*s.* for carriage hire.

24,924. Did you receive any sum as a present at all?—No.

24,925. Was not the horse and carriage bought with the money you got at the last election?—No, and I can account for it.

24,926. Do?—In the first place I adopt my trade and my wife drives.

24,927. Drives the flys?—Yes. I am at my trade and between the two we have been able to put by 10*s.* a week, and at that time I had about 30*l.* and sold a rick of hay for 14*l.* or 15*l.*, some to Samuel Huxham, some to Mr. Bearns, some to Mr. Goodman, at the "Oxford Arms," and some to Mr. Shinner, and so I sold the rick in that way.

24,928. And what did you get for it?—14*l.* to 15*l.*

24,929. But that would not pay for the horse and carriage?—I have not finished yet; I sold a carriage to a man at Plymouth, and I sold a horse to a farmer.

24,930. What did you get for the two?—I did not

NINETEENTH DAY.

H. Crawford.

14 Sept. 1866.

get 20*l.*, I sold them too cheap. Then I sold about 20 pigs.

24,931. Where did you get the pigs from?—I reared them and it is known to the court one had 11 and the other nine.

24,932. What did you get for them?—Some 10*s.* and some 12*s.*, they were suckers.

24,933. What age were they?—Six weeks old; and two sows to Mr. Woods at Painsford Mill.

24,934. If you didn't get any money what were you offered?—Nothing by the Liberals.

24,935. What were you offered, anything?—I was offered by Mr. Mitchell 50*l.* or 60*l.*

24,936. You would not have the 50*l.* or 60*l.*?—No.

24,937. Do you know that your wife has said that she had some money?—Not at the election.

24,938. What did she have it for?—I had no money.

24,939. What time did she have any money given?—I do not recollect her ever having any money.

24,940. What do you mean by saying at the election?—Whether she might not have showed them that when George Mitchell offered me some money I showed him some money to show him that I was not without it.

24,941. You told us nothing about George Mitchell the other day?—I think I did, I did not want to tell a falsehood.

24,942. (Mr. Coleridge.) You didn't get anything for your vote at the election?—No.

24,943. No present?—No.

24,944. Nothing?—No. I got 30*s.* for fly hire for Pender and Seymour.

24,945. Who paid you that?—Mr. Tucker one half, and Mr. Callard the other.

24,946. Why didn't you say it was Mr. Michelmore's clerk?—That is him.

24,947. Did they give you anything or offer you anything?—No.

24,948. Did young Mr. Tucker offer you anything?—I do not know.

24,949. Did Mr. Callard offer you anything?—No.

24,950. What conversation had you with Mr. Michelmore at the last election?—I do not know that I had any.

24,951. Didn't Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore have any conversation with you?—Not that I remember. I think we drunk a glass of grog, I paid for a glass of grog for him at the "Seymour."

24,952. What made you say that you got more on the Liberal side, when you were offered 50*l.* or 60*l.*?—I never said anything.

24,953. That is a mistake?—Yes.

24,954. There was no money offered on the Liberal side?—No.

24,955. You knew money was going about?—I heard of it.

24,956. Were you not expecting an offer?—No; because I promised Mr. Pender the first time and Mr. Seymour each time.

24,957. (Mr. Bere.) Did you hear what George Mitchell swore here to-day?—Yes.

24,958. Was the account he gave true?—Yes, I think it was.

24,959. What do you say to his saying that you said if you could get 10*l.* you would give him your vote?—I wanted to get rid of him.

24,960. Should you have taken it?—No.

24,961. You heard what John Heath said?—Yes.

24,962. Was that true?—He made a slight mistake.

24,963. What was that?—He said 60*l.*, but it was only as high as 40*l.*

24,964. Did you tell him that Mr. Parnell was with you before?—I remember since that I said it was the early bird that catches the worm, but Mr. Heath you are not going to catch me.

24,965. What made you go to the "Seymour" hotel, and get locked up?—I do not know that I was.

24,966. You were kept there?—They persuaded me not to go out.

T. Welch.

THOMAS WELCH sworn and examined.

24,967. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a neighbour of Mr. Crawford's?—No, I work with him.

24,968. Did you have a talk with him after the election of 1863?—Yes.

24,969. What did he say?—He told me that Mr. Michelmore gave him the money, or let him have the money, and he said if you get me money I will go with you, but I am not going to vote without getting the money.

24,970. Did he tell you that he got money in 1863?—Yes, when the scrutiny was coming on he says to me I do not care for them, I got nothing at the last election, but at the first election I was a little better off.

24,971. Did he tell you that he had been made a man by the election of 1863?—He had been, I believe.

24,972. Were you working together before the last election?—Yes.

24,973. Before that was he a man who had a good deal of money?—I never saw him with a sovereign before.

24,974. You saw him with money afterwards?—Yes, I have seen him come and offer to bet 10*l.*

H. Crawford.

HENRY CRAWFORD recalled.

24,975. (Mr. Bere.) You have heard that, is that true or false?—I did say I was a little better off but not that election. I spoke of it, it was the last election that was the carriage hire, that was the only thing that I could expect to be better off in.

24,976. I have abstained from asking you unpleasant questions, but I shall be obliged to ask you them if you do not tell the truth. What were your wages in 1863 as a painter and glazier, in 1863?—We were getting 1*l.* a week.

24,977. Are you quite sure?—We have these last three or four years.

24,978. A 1*l.* a week?—We are now, it was 18*s.* before.

24,979. How long was it 18*s.*?—Three or four year ago.

24,980. Has your wife ever been unfortunate?—Yes.

24,981. How long ago was that?—Eight or ten years gone.

24,982. Were you in good circumstances then?—Not particular.

24,983. How many horses and cabs had you then?—I think I had no horses, I had mules then.

24,984. What were you earning then?—I cannot tell what I was earning then.

24,985. Go back to eight years ago when your wife got into trouble?—I do not know, 16*s.* or 18*s.* per week.

24,986. How was it that she came to get into trouble?—Through a mistake.

24,987. A mistake through which she was sent to prison?—Yes; but tis no disgrace to me, I can tell you that I cannot help it, it was through false swearing.

24,988. At that time had you got any money?—I was not destitute.

24,989. Nearly?—Perhaps so.

24,990. Where did the mules stand most of the time, in the pound or in the cabs?—I turned them into the road.

24,991. When did you turn them into the road ?—Several years.

24,992. Were they running up and down the road in 1863 ?—I believe they were.

24,993. If you had 40*l.* at the end of 1863 why had you the mules running up and down the road ?—I couldn't get a field.

24,994. Could you get a stable ?—Yes.

24,995. Could you get hay ?—Yes, but a number of people do it here, I was not the only one here that did that.

24,996. When did you first keep your horse ?—I had four or five horses before the election.

24,997. Did you sell them at that time ?—I had one died.

24,998. When was that ?—I cannot exactly tell you now.

24,999. Did you borrow any money at this time ?—Yes, I remember now that I borrowed before this time, but I borrowed 3*l.*

25,000. From whom did you borrow that ?—From Mr. Nicholas John Hill.

25,001. When ?—Before the election, before I had voted.

25,002. When did you repay it ?—I never paid it.

25,003. Yet you bought this carriage for 70*l.*, and you paid 40*l.* and gave bills for the other ?—Why I didn't pay it was, that I put it against what I had done at the municipal elections and never charged for it.

25,004. What had he to do with the election ?—He was acting for Mr. Cuming I suppose.

25,005. What bill have you got against the Liberal party for work done at the elections ?—I never made out any.

25,006. Have you borrowed any other money ?—I do not recollect any.

25,007. You did not remember the 3*l.* ?—I did not, but I do not wish to tell an untruth.

25,008. It is as bad to keep back what is true as to tell what is untrue, and that you have been keeping back things I think noboby who has heard your evidence can doubt ?—I am afraid that I have rather a shallow memory.

25,009. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you got any bills for the municipal elections which were paid afterwards ?—No.

25,010. (Mr. Bere.) Have you a field in which the mules run now ?—I have a field.

25,011. What is the rent of it ?—5*l.*

25,012. When did you pay the rent ?—I have not paid any lately because the fences were damaged, and I have told Mr. Michelmore that I would not pay any until they were repaired.

25,013. When did you pay the last ?—Over a half year agone.

25,014. Have you got the receipt ?—No.

25,015. Upon your oath have you paid a 6*d.* for that field ?—My wife has, I have sent it.

25,016. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you seen the receipts ?—No.

25,017. (Mr. Bere.) Didn't you send the money, and didn't Mr. Michelmore send it back again ?—Not that I am aware of.

25,018. Upon your oath don't you know that your wife took the money and when she took it he said you were not to pay it because you had voted right ?—No.

25,019. What is the size of the field ?—Two and a half acres.

25,020. Is 5*l.* its value ?—It may be worth more now I have put a lot of dung on it, but it was not worth more then.

25,021. Do you know any other field let for that ?—Mr. Harris's father had it for the same sum I think.

25,022. If Mr. Harris had got it as a bargain I think you would have told us ?—I have heard Mr. Harris say, I think, that his father paid 5*l.* for the same field.

25,023. (Mr. Longe.) How soon after the election did you get this field ?—I think it was shortly after the election.

25,024. Do you know who was occupying it at that time ?—Mr. Harris occupied it before I had it.

25,025. Did you say anything to anyone on that side down at the "Seymour" about wanting the field to put in horses ?—I had asked for the field at different times years before that.

25,026. At that time ?—I do not remember the time I asked the Tory party for the field.

25,027. Did Mr. Michelmore know you wanted the field ?—Yes, I remember going over to the ground I had in Little Hempson parish, and he called on me and said, do not carry all your dung that way because there will be a field to put some dung on.

25,028. You were passing through the street ?—Yes, that was all that passed about the field when he named the further taking of it.

(Mr. Bere.) You may sit back.

(Witness.) You have not asked anything about Mr. Parnell's affairs.

25,029. (Mr. Bere.) Can you tell us anything about about Parnell the gardener ?—That is my last election.

25,030. John Parnell; tell us what you know about him ?—Yes, I know him; he came to me and asked if I would vote for the Tory party and I said no. He says is 50*l.* of any use to you, and I said no. I went away, and he then said will 60*l.*; he said I am authorized by Mr. Bryett to come to you and offer you 50*l.* or 60*l.* for your vote. I refused and he went from 60*l.* from 100*l.* I refused, and he said he was authorized by Mr. Bryett and could get the money in the course of half an hour if I would pledge my word. I refused to do so.

25,031. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you ever had a disagreement with Mr. Bryett ?—No, he never disagreed with me. Mr. Parnell called on me again on Sunday morning before the Commission opened, and he said to me, "Crawford, do not say a word of what passed "between me and you at the election," he says, "For God's sake do not say a word about it, for I "do not wish to have it known."

25,032. What did you say ?—I said, All right, I will not; it is all quiet at present. Mr. Parnell now wants to pull his head out of it because Mr. Mitchell stated part of it. Mr. Bryett took Mr. Parnell down to Mr. Harris; Mr. Parnell was making use of Mr. Bryett's name. Mr. Bryett asked me if I would mention it and I told him I would.

25,033. Are you sure he did make use of Mr. Bryett's name ?—I am positive he did make use of Mr. Bryett's name to me.

25,034. Did he say he could have it from Mr. Bryett's house ?—Yes.

25,035. Did he say whether he had the money in Mr. Bryett's house ?—No.

25,036. Did he say he had told him ?—He said he could get it in Mr. Bryett's house in half an hour or less. I doubted it.

25,037. Did he tell you to go down and see Mr. Heath at the "Seven Stars ?"—He did not, Stoyle did; I was abed. I made a mistake about Mr. Harris.

25,038. What day was that ?—The nomination day.

25,039. Did you go to the "Seven Stars" ?—No; I never went near him. Mr. Stoyle came up and rattled at my window and said he wanted to speak to me, if I would go down to the "Stars" there was 150*l.* for me.

25,040. You told us something about A. S. Distin and Edward Tucker He came here and said on oath that what you said is untrue, do you still give the same account of it ?—I cannot help what he says. He comes into my passage, and when he came in he said to me, if you vote for us you shall have so much. I will not be positive whether 40*l.* or 50*l.*, or 30*l.* or 40*l.*, but he said I should have some money if I voted for them. I gave him no answer; he turned and walked out. Mr. Distin was near behind him, and he turned out of the passage first.

25,041. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever ask for the 40*l.* ?—No.

NINETEENTH DAY.

H. Crawford.

14 Sept. 1866.

25,042. Did he ever give it to you?—No; I never looked for it.

25,043. Have you ever heard of any money?—No.

25,044. Perhaps when you come again you will remember where you got the 40*l.* that you paid to Mr. Ash, and when you took up the bills?—I have got the bills in my pocket.

25,045. Where did you get the money?—By my earnings, and the hay and the pigs.

25,046. How did you take up the bills, the 30*l.* that was left?—I had got the hire of a horse and carriage for nine months, and my own earnings as well to make it good.

25,047. Have you got any family?—I have a son in his 28th year.

25,048. What does he do?—A carpenter learning the trade.

25,049. Have you paid for his apprenticeship?—I find him in grub and clothes, and he has wages.

J. Edmonds.

JAMES EDMONDS recalled and examined.

25,050. (Mr. Bere.) You have given us some accounts and some receipts here, what is the meaning of that, when was it written (handing a document to the witness)?—Some time after receiving a letter from Mr. Henry Michelmore.

25,051. When was that?—Several months ago.

25,052. Were not those two letters written at the same time?—All written at the same time by my own hand.

25,053. That is your handwriting?—Yes. When I gave up the receipts.

25,054. Who did you give them up to?—To Mr. Henry Michelmore.

25,055. What for?—The transfer of the business.

25,056. Take care what you are saying, were you the tenant in 1865?—Since May 1865.

24,057. How did you come to pay Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore 5*l.* for rent. Look at that (handing a receipt to the witness)?—I believe it is all right.

25,058. Was it your house or his?—It was purchased in the former case.

25,059. Was it your house or his?—I have never got the writings of it; whether it is mine I do not know. I gave it to Mr. Henry Michelmore to settle.

25,060. Have you paid the insurance on this house that you say you sold to Mr. Henry Michelmore?—No.

25,061. Did you insure the house in the office for which Mr. Harris is agent?—No.

25,062. Where did you insure it?—I have a house besides that.

25,063. The house of which Mr. Blight is the tenant is not insured?—No; that is the house in question, the house that is insured is not in question.

25,064. Look at those two receipts?—They are the receipts for all the money.

25,064*. When did you pay it over to Mr. Michelmore?—I have not paid it over at all.

25,065. Have you been talking about the evidence that you have either given here or were going to give here, saying what you would do, and what you would tell?—No.

25,066. That you swear, take care?—If you have Mr. Henry Michelmore here he will tell the truth of the case.

25,067. Have you not said that you did not intend to tell the Commissioners anything that you could help?—No more than the truth.

25,068. Did you not say you would not tell the Commissioners anything but what you could help?—I do not know that I said that.

25,068.* Did you not say so?—I am not certain whether I have said that or not. I will tell the whole truth. I cannot defend myself without Mr. Henry Michelmore and Mr. Harris.

Adjourned to to-morrow at half-past 10 o'clock.

TWENTIETH DAY.

R. Tope.

15 Sept. 1866.

TWENTIETH DAY.

Saturday, 15th September 1866.

RICHARD TOPE sworn and examined.

25,069. (Mr. Bere.) You are employed on the South Devon Railway, are you not?—Yes.

25,070. As what?—As switchman at the station.

25,071. How long have you been in that employment?—Fifteen years altogether.

25,072. But here?—A little over seven years.

25,073. Have you been a voter ever since you have been here as switchman?—Nearly all the time.

25,074. Did you first vote in 1863?—In 1863.

25,075. Whom did your vote for then, Seymour or Dent?—Dent.

25,076. What did you get for voting for him?—30*l.*

25,077. Who gave you that?—Frederick Evens.

25,078. Where did he give it to you?—In my house.

25,079. Had you made any bargain before?—No.

25,080. Had you seen him to talk to him about it?—I have seen it before. I saw him when Mr. Dent was here.

25,081. In 1862?—Yes.

25,082. Did he make you an offer?—He said he would give me something.

25,083. And in 1863 he gave you 30*l.*?—Yes.

25,084. At your house?—Yes.

25,085. To you yourself?—Yes. He left it on the table.

25,086. And you took it up?—Yes.

25,087. Was it in gold or notes?—Gold.

25,088. Left in a parcel?—Yes.

25,089. What did you get in 1865?—Nothing.

25,090. Did not you ask for anything?—No. I never asked for anything at any time.

25,091. You said you would have a little if it was going?—It was brought to me.

25,092. And you did not refuse it?—No.

25,093. Would you have voted without it?—Yes.

25,094. In the same way?—Yes.

25,095. If 50*l.* had been offered on the other side, what would you have done?—I would not have taken it.

25,096. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did they offer you anything on the other side in 1863?—Not exactly.

25,097. Tell us what it was. There was something you know?—He said, I should not be sorry for it afterwards.

25,098. Who said that?—Mr. Seymour.

25,099. Did he say anybody would come and talk to you?—No. He asked for my vote.

25,100. Did Mr. Parnell, Mr. Holman, or Mr. Michelmore come and talk to you?—No.

25,101. Was any influence brought to bear upon you by the railway authorities in 1863, any instructions from the directors as to how they wished you to vote?—It was rumoured as such.

25,102. Which way was it said the directors wished you to vote?—I never heard anything.

25,103. You said just now it was "rumoured"?—It was said so.

25,104. Which way was it rumoured?—It was said that some of the Liberal party had spoken about it, but they would have nothing to do with it.

25,105. Who was the chairman of the railway then?—I think Mr. Woolcombe.

25,106. Who was chairman in 1865?—Mr. Woolcombe.

25,107. Was any pressure put upon you in 1865?—No.

25,108. Did the superintendent or the station-master speak to you about your vote?—No.

25,109. Or any of the directors?—No.

25,110. You were allowed to vote as you liked?—Yes.

25,111. And some voted one way, and some another?—Yes, I believe so.

25,112. Was anything offered to you in 1865?—No.

25,113. Did you ever go to the "Seven Stars" to inquire if there was any money going?—No, I never went out of my house.

25,114. You went to the poll without getting anything?—Yes.

25,115. Did they send you anything as a present afterwards?—No.

25,116. Did you vote at the municipal elections?—I have done so.

25,117. Did your never get anything for voting?—Once, 30*s*.

25,118. Who gave you that?—Mr. Evens.

25,119. To vote for whom?—For the Tory party; I never voted for any other.

25,120. Thirty shillings and 30*l*., is all you received for votes in Totnes?—Yes.

JOHN BEARNE sworn and examined.

J. Bearne.

25,121. (Mr. Bere.) You are not a voter for Totnes now?—Yes. I was born in Totnes, and I have been a resident in Totnes all my lifetime.

25,122. Have you a vote now?—Yes. My story is short, simple, and true.

25,123. Then let me have it?—And I hope you will not keep me.

25,124. If you will tell us it shortly, simply, and truly we will let you off?—As I tell you I am a resident all my lifetime, and I should say, truthfully, for the last 30 years I have been and voted for the borough as well as the town council, and with the exception of two or three returns, where my vote has been objected to from the holdings. However, I ultimately gained it on different holdings, and I now retain and continue as a voter for the borough ever since. Regarding the manner of voting I always, with the exception of once, supported the Liberal party, which I call myself.

25,125. When was that once?—Your will hear if you will hear me out. And regarding of the different returns I always won, and my general impression has been, up to very recently in fact, almost till I have seen it on the election inquiry, that there never was no bribery on the Liberal side; that was my impression, because never having been offered anything induced me to think that way. But, however, I see there is a little fault on both sides since the inquiry resumed. As it regards myself I have been throughout the different times always been to the poll and voted according to my mind. The first occasion that I voted otherwise than for the Liberals was Dunn's election; and in Dunn's election a gentleman well known to you present, he is present himself now, offered me a trifle for supporting Mr. Dunn.

25,126. What is his name?—Mr. Harris. However, I did not exactly acquiesce at first, and however I was desired to call at his house, and I did so, and it may be a day or two before the election, I cannot say, and he did not pay me, but there is a gentleman who did, whom I should not know again, paid me 35*l*. in 5*l*. notes, and when the election came on I voted I believe for Earl Gifford and Mr. Dunn, and since that, whatever elections have transpired, I cannot say unsolicited, because I have been solicited by both candidates, but I have been to the poll unshackled by anyone. As I have told you before I have never been offered any sum from the Liberal party, but I cannot say so by the other party, for I was tried rather stiff at the last election. Mr. Frederick Evens said I could have 60*l*. if that would be of any service to me, first. That would not satisfy me exactly, and then he thought he would try 100*l*. However, besides myself, there is my wife and children which were grown up, and they were all on the Liberal side, and the influence led that way, and consequently prevented anything emanating from the offer of Mr. Evens. I told him how my family was situated, and could not fall in with his idea, and he tried to prevail upon me to accept 100*l*. I told him on the morning of the election, if I had taken it, I should have undoubtedly returned it, as I had given my mind to the Liberals; and, as I told you before, I never had a farthing before for voting for them, and there ends my tale.

25,127. (Mr. Coleridge.) At Dent's election did the Conservative party try you?—I would not swear that they did or did not. If they did I did not fall in with their ideas or receive anything.

25,128. Did not Evens have a turn at you in 1863?—No.

25,129. Who was it?—The only two parties was young Mr. John Heath. One time I met him on the Plains, and he says, "Are you not going to give us a "vote?" I said, "Are you not going to give us a "vote?" and he said, "Perhaps, I might if you do "us." He said, "Will you promise," I said, "I "would not." He said, "You might give us a vote," I said, "My dear fellow, I am not like Tom, Dick, or "Harry, I have a mind and I will carry it out."

25,130. That must have been the last time?—No, 1863.

25,131. It could not be, it was only a single election?—My memory may fail me.

25,132. In 1863, when Seymour and Dent stood, did anybody offer you anything?—That is the time I speak of.

25,133. No. There was only one return then, the conversation must have been when two votes were to be had?—Then it is my mistake, it is only one vote.

25,134. Did anybody offer you anything in 1862, when Dent and Seymour stood, and Dent retired?—The only party who offered me money is what I told you, nobody else.

25,135. Was anything said to you about money on the Liberal side?—Never.

25,136. Did Mr. Holman ever speak to you about money?—Never.

25,137. 35*l*. is all you have been good for, for your vote?—Yes.

25,138. Have you ever voted for the council?—Yes, various times.

25,139. Always Conservative?—No. I have voted occasionally for the Conservatives, because I valued the principles of the men I voted for.

25,140. Did you have anything to vote for the council?—Never. When I had it was many years ago, previous to the building of the new market. There was the "King's Arms" then where the market now stands, and there was a breakfast provided and

TWENTIETH DAY.

J. Bearne.

15 Sept. 1866.

Mr. Tippett presided over the breakfast and he would not let them take the breakfast before they voted. There was a contest between him and his friends, and he said he knew there was one at the breakfast before he polled.

25,141. Did you have your breakfast?—Yes; and I voted for my own side, that is the only thing I have had. As regards the municipal elections, I have been and voted afterwards for whom I chose, unsolicited by anyone.

E. Evens.

EVAN EVENS sworn and examined.

25,142. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you lived in Totnes?—50 years.

25,143. What have you been during that time?—A tradesman; two and thirty years a silversmith.

25,144. And jeweller?—Yes.

25,145. You have taken a good deal of interest on the Conservative side in these elections?—Yes, in common with my brother townsmen.

25,146. You are no relation of Frederick Evens?—Yes, a brother.

25,147. And of George Evens?—A brother.

25,148. When did you first have a vote?—About 30 years ago; that was almost as soon as the Reform Bill passed.

25,149. Did you vote at the election of Parrott and Cornish?—No.

25,150. Did you vote at the election of 1837 or the election of 1835 when Lord Seymour and Mr. Parrott stood?—No.

25,151. Did you vote for Sir George Adams at the election of 1837?—Yes.

25,152. That was the first?—I think it was the first, I am not sure.

25,153. Did you receive any money for voting at that election?—No.

25,154. When did you first receive any money for giving your vote?—I was never offered a halfpenny in my life.

25,155. Never?—No man dared to insult me.

25,156. Did you offer other people?—At that election?

25,157. No. Which was the first election you ever offered money to others?—The election of Mills and Baldwin.

25,158. Was that in 1852?—I really cannot tell the date.

25,159. Whom did you offer it to?—A person called Uram.

25,160. How much did you offer?—30*l.*

25,161. From whom did you get that money?—From the gentlemen proceeding as the managers of the election.

25,162. Who were they then?—Really, I can scarcely tell you.

25,163. Mr. Gill, Mr. Bentall, or Mr. Bastard, were they members?—I do not know whether Mr. Bastard was.

25,164. Mr. Gill?—I think so to the best of my recollection.

25,165. Mr. Bryett?—No; I think it was Mr. Farwell, the late solicitor here; he was conducting the election.

25,166. Was there any person from whom money was to be had besides the committee; was there a stranger down?—Not at that time.

25,167. Was the man you mentioned the only person you offered money to?—The only person.

25,168. You offered him the money to vote for Mr. Baldwin?—Yes.

25,169. And he voted for it?—Yes.

25,170. Had you anything to do with the election of 1857?—Who were the candidates?

25,171. Mackenzie and Gregory, Lord Gifford and Mills?—I do not recollect interfering in that election in any way whatever.

25,172. In that way?—No, I did not.

25,173. Did you have anything to do with the election of 1859; Dunn's election?—I did.

25,174. To whom did you offer money then?—John Jerman Phillips, who gave his evidence yesterday.

25,175. How much did you give him?—20*l.*, and a man of the name of Arthur Venning.

25,176. What did you give him?—60*l.* Then there was another man, John Corney.

25,177. What did you give him?—I should tell you I was in the "Seven Stars," and very near his own house. I met him in the room and I asked him whether he would oblige us by voting for Mr. Dunn. He said, "Mr. Evens, I do not wish to vote at all." I said, "If you can oblige us by voting for Mr. Dunn, "I have no doubt I can get you a present." He said, "I really must repeat the desire I have of not voting." I said, "Well, if you think proper to keep your word, "I will make you a present of 30*l.*" He said, "Mr. "Evens, if I think proper of voting I can get a very "handsome sum on the other side of the bridge."

25,178. Is John Corney alive now?—Yes.

25,179. If he thought proper he could get a handsome present on the other side of the bridge. You knew what he meant by that?—Yes; the "Seymour" hotel, of course.

25,180. Did he vote?—Well, I should say I paid in the evening; left 30*l.* with his daughter at his house. The next morning the first thing I heard when I arrived at the committee room, was that John Corney had been and voted against us. I immediately put my hat on my head and went over and demanded the money of the daughter and succeeded in getting it.

25,181. Did you pay this money in gold or notes?—I could not say.

25,182. What did you do with the money you got back?—I took it to the committee.

25,183. To whom did you pay it?—I put it on the table. Mr. Bryett would be the professional man there conducting it, and took it.

25,184. Was Mr. Kellock there?—I could not say.

25,185. Mr. Edmonds, was he there?—I recollect Mr. Bryett had the principal conducting of the election.

25,186. You are quite sure he was there when you put the money down?—Quite sure, because he called my attention to it. In the first place, I should tell you there were various rumours about this little affair, and two or three years ago he called at my shop and said, "Mr. Evens, I confess I behaved very ill to "you," and he asked me to shake hands and hoped I would not be angry.

25,187. Who was there to distribute this money at that time?—There was a stranger there.

25,188. Was his name "Higgins"?—I think that was it.

25,189. What room did you see him in the "Seven Stars"?—The first room on the left; there is a staircase running upon the left as you enter the porch, and it was the first on the left.

25,190. Is that No. 9?—I do not know the number.

25,191. When you saw him was he generally alone or in company?—Generally alone, at least those were the only occasions I went.

25,192. Did you see him more than once?—Not at that election. I do not know whether I paid those men the same evening.

25,193. Did you get the money in a lump sum?—No, separately.

25,194. Did you get it in gold from him?—I think I paid Phillips in notes.

25,195. Had you arranged with these people before as to what sums they were to receive?—I went to them to know what they would do.

25,196. And then you came back and got the money?—It was quite a matter of business. I asked them to vote, and they said, "Give me so and so," and I said I would do so.

25,197. You say Mr. Bryett was a most active man at that election ?—Yes ; at that election.

25,198. Were those the only three persons you had to do with ?—Yes.

25,199. Did you get any remuneration at all ; I do not say in the way of a bribe, for the services you rendered the Conservative party ?—I must repeat that I never had the attempt made.

25,200. Or get any situation ?—Never. I beg pardon, I should tell you that Mr. Dunn sent for me one day unsolicited on my part. I was not aware that anybody had introduced to him that I had a son. I went to him at the "Seven Stars," and he and Admiral Keppel were in the room. He asked me whether I had not a son in London ; I said, "Yes." He asked me his occupation, and I told him he was in a merchant's warehouse, and he said, "Mr. Evens, do "not let him stay there, and I will get him something "very good." According to his request I wrote to him the same evening, and really took my son from his situation although it was a very good one at the time. He never fulfilled his engagement from that time to this.

25,201. That was Mr. Dunn ?—Yes.

25,202. You were more successful were not you with Mr. Seymour ?—He never obtained him a situation.

25,203. Did not he ?—No.

25,204. Did not he get something for one of your sons ?—No, not at first.

25,205. You took no interest, I believe, in the election of 1862 ?—No.

25,206. Nor again in 1863 ?—No.

25,207. Was not the reason why you took no interest in those two elections, because there were some peculiar circumstances affecting Mr. Seymour and your son ?—Not Mr. Seymour, it was the Duke of Somerset.

25,208. What were those circumstances ?—The Liberal party gave me a nomination.

25,209. To a Government appointment ?—Yes, to a Government appointment.

25,210. In the Admiralty ?—Yes, that is the nomination, and my son went up, passed the examination, and succeeded.

25,211. Had you written to ask for the nomination ?—I had merely sent in an application for the nomination.

25,212. Had you sent it in directly to the duke, or to Mr. Michelmore ?—To Mr. Michelmore.

25,213. At the time you sent in that to Mr. Michelmore, did Mr. Michelmore say anything to you about your vote ?—Never a word up to the present time. There has not been the least stipulation whatever.

25,214. (Mr. Coleridge.) I think the last time out of gratitude you did vote for Mr. Seymour ?—Yes, one.

25,215. The time before not at all ?—I did not, I told each one of the candidates that I should not vote.

25,216. (Mr. Bere.) Did you take any part in the last election except voting ?—Never.

25,217. You never offered anybody any money ?—Never.

25,218. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you often at the "Stars" during the last election ?—Only once, I went down there on the morning when Colonel Dawkins came down as a candidate, to hear him express his sentiments ; I never took anything in the house.

25,219. Are you an older or younger brother of Frederick Evens ?—I am the oldest of the family.

25,220. No one ever insulted you by offering you any money ?—No.

25,221. Did you consider that you were insulting those people to whom you offered money ?—No, certainly not.

25,222. But you consider it would have been an insult if offered to you ?—Yes, there was a difference in their position.

25,223. Supposing that the sum of money offered had brought you to an equal position, that 500*l.* had been offered to you and 50*l.* to the other man, would that make any difference in your view of the case ?—Certainly not, I am happy to say.

25,224. You know the Rev. W. H. James ?—Yes.

25,225. He has been in the habit of dealing at your shop ?—Yes.

25,226. Your wife related some conversation to you that she had with him while this Commission has been going on ?—She came home last Saturday week, and said she had met Mr. James in the street, who shook hands with her and told her he had not been to see me lately, on account of this political inquiry.

25,227. Why should he not have been to see you ?—He felt unhappy from the imputations which had been cast on him of late.

25,228. He was well enough to call on you but not well enough to be examined ?—I have seen him passing along the street daily.

25,229. Then why should he be afraid of coming to your shop ?—I am perfectly ignorant of the reason.

25,230. What is there in your position which makes it dangerous for the Rev. Mr. James to call at your shop ?—There are a number of gentlemen coming in and entering into conversation.

25,231. But why should the Rev. Mr. James be afraid of coming to your shop, is it because you are the brother of Frederick Evens ?—I cannot tell.

25,232. Is it not a remarkable thing that he should make an exception to visiting your shop because this Commission was going on ?—It would be a very remarkable thing if I were to be accountable for other men's observations in the street.

25,233. You would not make the same objection to going to his house ?—I never was in his house.

25,234. But you would not make the same objection ?—Certainly not.

25,235. Did your wife tell you whether Mr. James said anything about Mr. Edmonds' evidence when she met him ?—No, that was all that transpired.

25,236. At the time Mr. Dent came down here had you any conversation with Mr. James about a sum of money ?—I really forget the exact time, I might have had some conversation with him.

25,237. Something about the sale of a house ?—I heard him say he would be happy to sell his house, if I knew anyone of my own party or any other person who would buy it.

25,238. Was he particular that it should be some one of your party ?—He had no objection to my suggesting it to my friends.

25,239. Did he say what he wanted for it ?—He said he wanted 700*l.*

25,240. What had he given for it ?—I have heard he gave 400*l.*

25,241. So that if any one would give him a profit of 300*l.* he should be happy to dispose of it ?—Yes, but he had made many improvements in it.

25,242. Did he say that if he got 700*l.* he would not be particular on which side he voted, or even in going away ?—He said he should not be particular or care on which side he voted provided he got 700*l.* for his house ? This is really a breach of confidence in my telling what took place in my shop.

25,243. We must not have any breach of confidence complained of here. Did he not say he would either go away and not vote, or he was not particular on which side he voted, if he could get this money for his house ?—I do not think that he suggested leaving the town.

25,244. He said he should not be particular on which side he voted ?—Yes.

25,245. He gave you to understand that he would vote for that side which purchased his house ?—Just so, at that time.

25,246. Have you been interested in the elections for the council ?—Yes.

25,247. Have you ever stood yourself ?—Yes.

25,248. Were you successful ?—No.

25,249. I suppose you have spent a good deal of money ?—In common with other candidates.

25,250. What did it cost you ?—On the first occasion it cost me from 15*l.* to 20*l.*

25,251. When was that ?—Some three or four years ago.

25,252. Was it in 1859 or in 1863 ?—I cannot tell you the dates.

25,253. Who were associated with you, Mr. Kellock, or Mr. Bastard ?—Mr. Oldreive of Bridgetown was one, Mr. Willis the butcher was another, I cannot recollect the others.

25,254. How was it that you were defeated ?—I can account for it, several men who had promised me their votes did not fulfil their engagement ; some of them through threats, intimidation, and bribes, on the other side.

25,255. Where do those persons live who were prevented from voting by intimidation ?—On the duke's property.

25,256. They were intimidated by Mr. Michelmore you suppose ?—They told me that they had received notice that if they did not do as they were told they would be ejected.

25,257. And I suppose you have no doubt that the municipal elections are carried by bribery ?—Not the least doubt.

25,258. Which of the two parties bribe the most on those occasions ?—I believe it is quite a race, the strongest purse beats.

25,259. In the election for the town council, is not the duke's influence overpowering, and is it not very difficult for a Conservative to come in against them ?—It is exceedingly powerful, there can be no question about that.

25,260. Do you think the Conservatives spend more money than the Liberals at those elections ?—I have no reason to think so.

25,261. Do you agree in the opinion which has been given here, that the reason the Conservatives get the best of the municipal elections, though they do not of the parliamentary, is that the classes who vote at the elections for the council are more Conservative in their views ?—I believe that if the town was left without the interference of the duke that it would be really Conservative.

25,262. You believe that the Conservatives have increased their parliamentary qualification, and how do you account for that ?—My idea of the way the change has been produced has been that ever since Mr. Mills' time the resources have been lessened.

25,263. (Mr. Bere.) On that side ? — Yes, on account of the various exposures that have taken place in respect of the charity monies.

25,264. (Mr. Coleridge.) Has not Mr. Pender helped ?—I do not think he has been so liberal.

25,265. (Mr. Bere.) Do you think that in parliamentary elections the Liberals have bribed as much as the Conservatives ?—No, they never had occasion to do so.

25,266. They have got the influence of the duke at their back, and the Conservatives have to fight against them ?—Yes, but notwithstanding that, it has been an admitted fact that the party have had to bribe.

25,267. (Mr. Coleridge.) Since the Duke of Somerset's influence became overpowering ?—Up to the present time they have been obliged to resort to it ; I have heard it acknowledged by them.

25,268. (Mr. Longe.) What reason do you give for the successes of the Conservatives at the municipal elections ?—The last check the Liberals received was when Mr. Mills died.

25,269. You attribute the successes of the Conservatives partly to the want of resources of the Liberals ?—Together with the imputation cast upon the party generally on account of the exposures that have taken place in respect of the charity funds.

25,270. That is, owing to the want of resources of the Liberals they did not give so much money as the Conservatives ? — They have at the parliamentary elections.

25,271. To what do you attribute the successes of the Conservatives at the municipal elections ?—The Conservatives are men of more property, and they do not hesitate to subscribe. When the exposure took place respecting the charity matters there was a strong reaction against the Liberals.

25,272. A reaction in public feeling ?—Yes.

25,273. What do you mean about the charity matters ; give us the names of the charity trustees to begin with ?—That is a very important feature as regards the political feeling of the town, and since that took place there has been a new batch.

25,274. What was the exposure about ?—That a great quantity of money was unaccounted for.

25,275. What year ?—It has been accruing for a great number of years past.

25,276. When was the exposure ? — About two years since.

25,277. Who were the charity trustees then ?—I do not think there were more than three or four of them ; they have died since.

25,278. And there have been elected fresh ones ?—Yes, there is a new batch made now.

25,279. At the time of the exposure I was speaking of, you say a number of trustees have died and fresh ones have been elected in the place of those who have died ?—Quite so.

25,280. Can you give me the names of the surviving trustees ?—Mr. Charles Webber was one.

25,281. Was he a Liberal ?—Yes ; and Mr. Toms.

25,282. What was Mr. Toms ?—A Liberal ; and Mr. Huxham.

25,283. Mr. Samuel Huxham ?—Yes.

25,284. Is he a Liberal ?—Yes, he was ; he has died, and Mr. Toms has died. There is Mr. Presswell and Mr. Windeatt.

25,285. Mr. Presswell was a Conservative at that time ?—Yes.

25,286. And all the rest have been Liberals always ?—Yes.

25,287. What amount of money was found to have been improperly dealt with ?—From the public reports and statements made about it I think it was 500*l.* or 600*l.* Mr. Brooking Cuming can tell you.

25,288. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was the report at the time ?—My own impression was that it was applied to municipal elections, and I told them so candidly.

25,289. (Mr. Bere.) What are the charities in Totnes ?—They are divided into different classes ; different gifts to aged people ; some 10*l.* a year.

25,290. Was it from the aged people who got them that they got votes for the Liberal side ?—I do not think that was so ; they are obliged to draw.

25,291. Was there a serving out of bread and meat ?—That was discontinued for a great many years.

25,292. And it is not given out at all ?—Not to the extent that it ought to have been.

25,293. But they give some ? — I really forget. The gifts have been quite revived now, and they are existing.

25,294. Who is the clerk to the charity trustees ?—Mr. Cuming.

25,295. Who was the clerk at that time ?—Mr. Cuming.

25,296. Is there anything else you wish to tell us ?—No ; I never had the least idea of telling you this.

25,297. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know anything more about Mr. James's desire to sell his house ?—No.

25,298. He did not wish to vote for Mr. Seymour ?—I heard him say that.

25,299. If he had bought the house he would ?—No doubt of it.

25,300. He did not make that an absolute bar to the transaction ?—I heard him express some dissatisfaction as to Mr. Seymour's private career, or something of that kind.

25,301. (Mr. Longe.) You attribute the former successes of the Liberals at the municipal elections to their having money from the charity funds ?—Mr.

Mills, I am confident, used to support them very extensively.

25,302. And you also said there was some money spent on the part of the Liberals ?—I should not be justified in saying that.

25,303. At all events Mr. Mills supported them ?—That I have heard is acknowledged by the party.

25,304. Since that time those resources have been wanting on the Liberal side?—Yes.

25,305. Is that not exactly the same, the success of the Conservatives is due now to the resources that the Liberals have not?—Together with that; all that is explained.

ANDREW SPARKE DISTIN sworn and examined. A. S. Distin.

25,306. (Mr. Bere.) You are an ironmonger?—Yes.

25,307. How long have you carried on business in Totnes ?—Since 1849.

25,308. And you have voted at all the elections ?—At all times.

25,309. I need not ask you the question ; have you ever received money for your vote from anyone ?—No.

25,310. Have you ever offered anybody else any money ?—No.

25,311. There has been an allegation against you by Mr. Crawford that you and Mr. Edward Tucker went to his house, and that you offered him money, 50*l.* or 60*l.*, for his vote?—It is not the fact.

25,312. Tell us how it happened that you went to Mr. Crawford's ?—My eldest boy was at school about four miles off, at Brooking. Crawford had driven him up two or three times, and I went to him for a carriage in the evening, and going by the door I called on Crawford. There was a long, dark, greasy passage, and I saw a light along it. I passed the house, and saw someone standing in the passage, and I said, "There is a light ; there is somebody here." I went in, seeing the light, and saw Crawford, and I requested him to come down the following morning to take my son to school. On our returning again this person I saw in the passage was gone.

25,313. Who was that person ?—It was so dark that I cannot tell you. I said, "That is very like "Mr. Parnell." It was so dark that I could not see his face. On coming along the passage further I saw the kitchen door was open, and there I saw Mr. Nicholas Hill, Mr. Cuming's clerk, sitting down.

25,314. Who was that ; is he here ?—He is now in America. Knowing this young man, I said, "Are "you keeping company with Mr. Crawford ?" He said, "I am coming up," and as we were very friendly we came home.

25,315. That was in 1863 ?—Yes.

25,316. Was that all that passed ?—That is all.

25,317. Did any mention of money pass between you and Crawford at any time ?—No.

25,318. You are one of the Conservative committee ?—I am.

25,319. When were you first ?—I have been $2\frac{1}{2}$ years ; since I knew of it.

25,320. Since you began to know about elections ?—I knew nothing about elections. I did not take any part in it ; it is managed by three or four, Mr. Edmonds, Mr. Heath, and Mr. Kellock.

25,321. Did they not communicate what they knew to the rest of the committee ?—It would not be right at all times to do that. I went so rarely that I know nothing about it.

25,322. In 1863 and 1865 did you not go down to the "Seven Stars" ?—Very likely.

25,323. You learned how the voters were to be got at ?—No, sir. I am a member of the Building Company, and they had occasion to meet at the "Stars" frequently, in No. 1 room, and when I have been down the town, if I have seen a light there, knowing it was the smoking room, I used to open the door, and on one or two occasions I have seen Mr. Kellock there. I have had a circular, perhaps, before. He said, "I wish you would stay." I said, "I will, "if you come up about 9 o'clock, as I have always "done ; that is my time to be home."

25,324. Do you remember a circular being sent round with "Very important" marked upon it ?—Oh ! several.

25,325. Used you to attend often ?—No, sir ; if I have been down the town I should have gone in.

25,326. Not happening to go down the town you did not go ?—I never made it a point to go.

25,327. Have you anything more to tell us about the elections for the borough or the elections for the council ?—No. I canvassed the town in 1864, and I am happy to say that I received a great many promises.

25,328. Were you successful ?—I was.

25,329. What did it cost you ?—20*l.* I should tell you I refused to stand for the council, but a friend of mine Mr. Phillips was not very well and asked if I would stand for the council. I attended a meeting at the "Stars," and when they spoke about money, I told Mr. Frederick Kellock that if it was to be no more cost than the ordinary expenses for printing, somewhere about five pounds, I did not mind ; they said about that, and then I said that I had no objection. Afterwards some one said 10*l.*, in a round sum, and I said "No," but I afterwards consented to 10*l.* ; and last February I met Mr. Heath, and he said, "I am a "lot of money out of pocket ;" and I said, "How do "I know you are money out of pocket ?" and he said I owed him more than 10*l.* "What for ?" "The last election." I said, "I would not spend any "money." "You would not have me losing 10*l.* on "your account ?" and I said "No." And on February 7th, I think, I gave him a cheque for 10*l.*

25,330. Is that all the money that your candidature cost you ?—Yes ; and a great deal too.

25,331. (Mr. Coleridge.) Although you have told us you never gave or received money for the election did you offer any money ?—No.

25,332. Ever offer any yourself ?—No.

25,333. On either side ?—No.

JOHN SANDFORD SCREACH recalled and further examined. J. S. Screach.

25,334. (Mr. Coleridge.) How were you remunerated for your trouble on the different occasions ?—I received 50*l.* as I told you, and I had a little reward for some men that I did pay.

25,335. There was a man here yesterday who said he gave you 1*l.* back, Charles Pitts ?—That is true.

25,336. Out of all that you paid at the last election, how many gave you something back ?—I do not remember anyone but Pitts.

25,337. Nobody else ?—I am not clear.

25,338. Did you not get something back from old Mr. Raymond ?—Not a farthing.

25,339. Who gave you the money for Raymond ?—I had it from the stranger at the "Stars."

25,340. In a sum for Raymond, or in a lot all mixed up together ?—I had 200*l.*, and I paid Raymond out of that. He says 70*l.*, but I think I gave him 80*l.* He says I am wrong, and I do not say that he is wrong.

25,341. You say you gave him 80*l.* because you do not know how to account for the money without it ?—I thought I gave Joseph Hannaford 50*l.*, but he says 60*l.* I have made a mistake, and if Raymond said 70*l.* I suppose it was 70*l.* instead of 80*l.*

25,342. That is the way of transferring it ?—Yes.

25,343. No doubt Raymond is right ?—I have not the least doubt that he is.

25,344. The election of 1863, how many voters gave you back money ?—None but Diggins of Bridgetown.

WENTIETH DAY.

. S. Screach.

5 Sept. 1866.

25,345. What did he give you ?—50*l.*

25,346. I do not mean that, but who gave you anything ?—Not a penny.

25,347. In 1859 ?—In 1859 I paid none.

25,348. If it was only one person who gave it you, that must be fixed in your memory, and Charles Pitts was the one ?—I do not recollect anything except that.

25,349. You said some of those men gave you something ; who do you recollect gave it ?—I do not recollect. I did not know till I had read it in the paper. I had forgotten about Pitts giving me the sovereign.

25,350. Cannot you recollect anyone else —No ; no one else.

25,351. Did not anybody give you 30*s.* ?—If anybody has given evidence, and you will tell me, probably I can recollect, but I do not recollect it myself.

25,352. You did not do with Pitts ?—I did not.

25,353. Pitts seems to be the only person who is in the habit of giving money. He gave Evens something, and understood it was usual, and he gave you the sovereign also because it was a regular thing ?—He did so.

25,354. That was not a regular thing ?—I never had anything to my knowledge.

S. Sims.

SAMUEL SIMS sworn and examined.

25,355. How old are you ?—66.

25,356. You have had a great deal to do with electioneering in your time ?—Yes.

25,357. When did you first vote ?—For Baldwin I think, at his first election ; I think the first election but I am not quite sure.

25,358. Did you always vote for the Conversatives ?—Yes.

25,359. Never voted for the Liberals in your life ?—Yes ; voted for Lord Seymour.

25,360. Are you a tenant of the Duke of Somerset's ?—No.

25,361. Had you voted for Baldwin and Seymour ?—I think I voted for Seymour whether I voted twice or once I do not know.

25,362. Do you recollect anything about the elections before Baldwin came ?—No.

25,363. Ever since Baldwin's time, there has been money spent on the Conversative side we have heard ?—I believe there has.

25,364. When did you first know of any money ? What was the first time you got money ?—The first time I got money was in Mr. Dent's election, which was brought to me, and I took it as a voluntary gift. I never sought after it, or seek after it. I never asked for any.

25,365. Did you never get an offer of anything in Baldwin's elections ?—Never a penny.

25,366. Never got an offer of anything from anybody on either side of anything at all at Baldwin's elections ?—Never.

25,367. Were you offered anything at Dunn's election ?—No.

25,368. Dent in 1862, was it then that you were offered the money ?—1863.

25,369. You were going to tell us what you got in 1863 ?—Yes.

25,370. But were you offered anything in 1862 in case Mr. Dent went to the poll ?—No.

25,371. What were the circumstances in 1863 ?—I got presented to me in the cellar in which I am occupied in by Mr. George Heath 25*l.*

25,372. Gold or notes ?—In gold.

25,373. When was that ?—In 1863.

25,374. But before or after the election ?—Whether the day of the nomination or the day of the election I do not know.

25,375. Either the one or the other ?—Yes.

25,376. You knew that Mr. Heath was engaged on the Conservative side ?—Yes. I knew that he was engaged for the Conservatives.

25,377. And you voted for the Conservatives ?—I always did.

25,378. And you pocketed the 25*l.* ?—I received it as a gift. I never asked for it, or sought for it, and never said to any of the party that I wanted money.

25,379. Did you say that you would rather not have it when it was brought to you ?—I did not.

25,380. Do you think they would have given it to you without your being a voter ?—I do not know.

25,381. Did you hear of their giving it to any non-voters the day of the election or before ?—No.

25,382. You knew that it was given to you for your vote ?—I did not believe that it was.

25,383. What for ?—I have always been on the Conservative side and supported them, and I did not want to be dragged to the poll. I was ready to go to the poll, and record my vote as a straightforward honest voter.

25,384. You got your 25*l.* for being a willing horse ?—I dare say it was.

25,385. You might have had it if you were not a voter ?—I do not know.

25,386. Anything by the other side ?—I do not know.

25,387. If you had voted on the other side would you have returned the money ?—I would not have voted on the other side.

25,388. Were you offered anything on the other side ?—No.

25,389. In 1865 (having tasted blood in 1863), what did you get then ?—Nothing.

25,390. That was for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim ?—I had not a vote then ; I had left the residence.

25,391. You were not a voter, and nobody rewarded you with 25*l.* for past services ?—No.

25,392. (Mr. Longe.) Did you keep it a secret about the 25*l.* ?—Yes ; it was handed to me.

25,393. And you kept it a secret ?—Yes, of course I did.

J. Sampson.

JOHN SAMPSON sworn and examined.

25,394. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been a voter for Totnes ?—I can scarcely tell you. I imagined I was a legitimate voter at Dunn's election.

25,395. Were you an illegitimate voter ?—I was on the list prior to that, but I had not been in occupation a sufficient time to be a legitimate voter.

25,396. Did you tender your vote ?—I think so.

25,397. What did you get for not voting in 1859 ?—As much as Paddy shot at, nothing at all.

25,398. Did you ask for anything ?—I did not.

25,399. Were you offered anything ?—I was.

25,400. Who offered you something ?—Mr. Mum, I suppose, of the day.

25,401. Who was Mr. Mum ?—I do not know.

25,402. Where did you see him ?—I saw him there, and I have not seen him since.

25,403. Where did you see him ?—At my house.

25,404. He called on you ?—Yes.

25,405. And did you tell him that you had not a good vote ?—Yes.

25,406. What did he say ?—He said they would put up with that, and they would make the best of it.

25,407. Did he say it would be a good thing for you if you did vote ?—No.

25,408. What did he tell you ?—He said, if I wanted 190*l.* I should have it.

25,409. That is the 1859 election?—Yes.

25,410. Did you happen to want 190*l.*?—I was in want of a good deal of money, but I did not want it in the way that I thought he would give it to me.

25,411. How came you to talk about not voting?—I was not a legitimate voter.

25,412. How did you come to talk about voting?—I do not understand you.

25,413. You say you wanted to vote, and he did not mind your vote being a bad one?—No.

25,414. And he asked you whether 190*l.* would do you any good?—Yes.

25,415. And you would not have 190*l*?—No.

25,416. Did you say you were not a good vote at all?—Yes.

25,417. Did he say if you would not vote at all, that that would be something, and he would give you something for that?—No.

25,418. Did Mr. Mills and Earl Gifford come to you?—Yes.

25,419. Who came on their part?—Mr. Mills and Mr. Cuming.

25,420. Did you tell them that you were not a good vote?—Yes.

25,421. Did you tell them that your vote was bad?—Just so.

25,422. What did they say?—Mr. Cuming said he would indemnify me; and afterwards said I was a legitimate vote by succession.

25,423. Had you passed from one house to another?—No; but the property was bequeathed to my wife, and I succeeded to her predecessors.

25,424. Had you been the tenant?—No; but my wife's grandmother keeping on the business, Mr. Cuming said, by succeeding to that property we were entitled to vote upon it. I do not know whether it was correct or not.

25,425. Was that vote objected to before the revising barrister?—No.

25,426. Who told you it was a bad vote?—I understood that I was to be in possession for 12 months.

25,427. Not in all cases?—No.

25,428. In 1863 did you get anything for your vote?—Not a farthing.

25,429. Was there not something about a mortgage upon your house?—Yes.

25,430. What was that?—190*l.*

25,431. That was the curious sum that was offered to you in 1859?—I imagined it was to free me from any influence.

25,432. Who held the mortgage?—Samuel Huxham, senior.

25,433. Did he ask you for your vote?—No.

25,434. In 1863 was the mortgage paid off?—1862.

25,435. Between December and January?—On the 18th December 1862.

25,436. Who paid it off?—I called upon Mr. Edmonds, and he promised to get it done.

25,437. What made you go to him to get it paid?—I had notice.

25,438. From Mr. Huxham?—Yes.

25,439. Had you refused to vote for Mr. Pender in 1862?—I never voted.

25,440. Had Mr. Huxham canvassed you?—No.

25,441. Had Mr. Michelmore canvassed you?—Yes.

25,442. You refused?—Yes.

25,443. And then Huxham sent you notice?—I am not about to connect anything of that sort.

25,444. But I want to connect it. When did you receive notice to pay off the mortgage?—Three months prior to December.

25,445. It was not till after the election of 1862, when Mr. Pender was returned, that you went to Mr. Edmonds to try and get the money?—I went to Mr. Edmonds when the term of the notice was expired.

25,446. Had Mr. Edmonds been your man of business?—Once.

25,447. Had you been to him before?—I do not know that I had.

25,448. Did you ever employ any other attorney?—I have.

25,449. Who have you employed here?—Mr. Cuming and Mr. Bryett.

25,450. Who drew the mortgage?—I cannot tell you. It was drawn for 20 or 30 years.

25,451. It was a transfer of the mortgage?—Yes.

25,452. And you succeeded to the mortgaged house?—Just so.

25,453. Then you saw Mr. Edmonds; and did he tell you that he could arrange it for you?—Yes.

25,454. It was paid off?—I did not know to whom till six months afterwards, when Mr. Helms came to demand the interest for the principal.

25,455. He came to ask you for the money?—Yes.

25,456. Did he tell you that he had advanced 190*l.*?—Yes.

25,457. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he serve you with notice?—No. These are some of the receipts I received (referring to some papers).

25,458. Had not Huxham said to you "If you run "your head against a post you must take the con- "sequences of it"?—Not at that time.

25,459. When did he say that to you?—At Dunn's election, I think. I beg pardon; a certain person said Mr. Huxham had said so much, and I made it my business to call upon him, or spoke to him in the street, and he owned having said so; I felt a little warm upon the matter, and some unpleasant words passed between us, and he said, "If you run your "head against a post it is your own fault." These were his parting words.

25,460. Do you happen to know that Mr. Helms though he advanced the money really advanced it for Mr. Dent?—I do not know. Mr. Helms told me it was his own money, and I went and saw Mr. Edmonds afterwards to see whether it was correct, and he said it was, and I was perfectly right in paying it.

25,461. Who has the mortgage now?—I think Mr. Helms.

25,462. You do not pay him now?—Not Mr. Helms; he said he had transferred it to Mr. Bryett.

25,463. Did not you tell Mr. Edmonds that you were afraid that Mr. Huxham would put the screw on?—How could I, having had notice to pay off. Mr. Edmonds must have known. I could not say that. The least I could say was that he had put the screw on.

25,464. Had he put it on?—I do not know.

25,465. Mr. Edmonds has said you came to him?—Yes.

25,466. Had you voted for the council before you began to vote for the borough?—I had.

25,467. How had you voted then?—I voted one and one, I voted for Mr. Frederick Michelmore and Mr. Bovey I never troubled myself much about politics.

25,468. Mr. Edmunds says, with regard to the transaction "Q. Captain Helms has told us something "about a mortgage of a man named Sampson, can "you explain it?—A. Yes it was between the first and "second election. Mr. Mitchell told me that if any "person here required a loan of course with proper "security, I might be sure that Mr. Dent would "advance the money, and then Mr. Sampson told me "that Mr. Huxham had a second mortgage on his "house, and that he was afraid he would put the "screw on him. I mentioned it to Mr. Mitchell "and he said, oh, very well I will supply the money, "provided you can get a valuation made, Mr. Heath "made a valuation, I think it was valued at 140*l.*, "and I represented this to him and accordingly the "transaction was carried out, and the money paid by "Mr. Helms, he handed it over to me and I handed "it over to Mr. Huxham or his solicitor 190*l.*, was "the amount." Who held the first mortgage?—Mr. Bastard.

25469. Did you go to Mr. Bastard and ask whether he would take the second mortgage too?—No.

25,470. Did you vote for the Conservatives in 1865?—Yes.

TWENTIETH DAY.

J. Sampson.

15 Sept. 1866.

25,471. For Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim ?—Yes.

25,472. Did you have any offer made to you on either side ?—I was only at one meeting. They canvassed me, Captain Pim and Colonel Dawkins both.

25,473. Did you see them treating people on the other side ?—I was at none of their meetings.

25,474. It was in consequence of your gratitude to Mr. Helms for having paid this mortgage that you voted for the Conservatives ?—When ?

25,475. In 1865 ?—No ; I was always a Conservative.

25,476. How was it you voted in the council for one and one ?—I was under an obligation to Mr. Michelmore.

25,477. Was that a monetary obligation ?—No ; he did something towards giving a recommendation to son.

25,478. Though you did not vote in 1859, did you go and see any of the voters ?—No.

25,479. Do you know a man called John Pearce ?—That was not until after the election.

25,480. Did you go and see him ?—Yes.

25,481. Who sent you to see him ?—Mr. Harris.

25,482. Are you quite sure Mr. Harris sent you, or the stranger with whom you had talked about the 190*l.* ?—Mr. Harris sent me to ask for a certain sum of money, supposed to be paid by this stranger of whom I have spoken.

25,483. Did you go down ?—Yes ; but that is after the election and could not have any influence.

J. Rees.

JAMES REES sworn and examined.

25,484. (Mr. Longe.) How long have you had a vote ?—I think the first time I voted was the last time when Lord Seymour was a candidate, I think that was in 1852, I had not a vote before at least to the best of my recollection.

25,485. Whom did you vote for them ?—Seymour and Mills.

25,486. For the Liberals ?—Always on that side.

25,487. Were you canvassed on the other side, Mr. Baldwin's ?—Yes, they always canvassed me on both sides.

25,488. Was anything offered you then by either side ?—Nobody ever offered me any money.

25,489. Now 1857, Mackenzie and Gregory ?—Yes, I was canvassed by all four of the candidates just in the usual way, the same as every other voter is, I never give them any trouble I always tell him at first what I am going to do and always do it.

25,490. Whom did you vote for then ?—Lord Gifford and Mr. Mills.

25,491. In 1859, Dunn's election ?—On that occassion I voted for Lord Gifford and Mills.

25,492. Were you canvassed by Dunn ?—Yes.

25,493. Was anything offered you ?—No, I have told you before that no one offered me any money.

25,494. Now Mr Dent's election in 1862 ?—You are referring now to the contest when Mr. Dent retired.

25,495. Yes ?—Well I was canvassed on that occasion by Mr. Pender and by Mr. Dent both.

25,496. You were canvassed by Mr. Dent were not you ?—Yes.

25,497. Had not you something to do with Captain Helms ?—Yes, in the way of business, no other way ; he never canvassed me or asked me which way he was going to vote.

25,498. What was the business ?—Mr. Harris in a very unnecessary way has referred to the business, but I have no objection at all to be examined into it.

25,499. He lent you some money ?—Yes ; he lent me money on a mortgage in 1862, three years before Mr. Dent came here, and I will leave you to say what that had to do with that election.

25,500. Which way did you vote at that time ?—I voted against Mr. Dent.

25,501. Were you canvassed on the other side at that time ?—Yes, in the usual way, just as a mere matter of form.

25,502. No offer was made to you at all ?—No one ever offered me money and for the simple reason that I am not a person to take money.

25,503. The last election 1865 ?—I was canvassed then by all four candidates.

25,504. Was no offer made to you ?—No offer was made to me on that occasion, I told both the Conservatives that they were only brought here to be victimized by the Tories, and I voted against them.

25,505. You got nothing ?—I was never offered anything.

25,506. You got nothing ?—I got nothing.

25,507. Was any present made you ?—I never had a farthing from anyone.

25,508. (Mr. Bere.) Are you on the Liberal commitee ?—No.

25,509. Have you taken an active part for the Liberals ?—Yes.

25,510. Canvassed a good deal for them ?—I never canvassed anybody.

25,511. What do you mean by taking an active part then ?—Taking an interest in the election.

25,512. Do you mean walking to the poll to vote and nothing more ?—That is all.

25,513. Is your house your own ?—It is.

25,514. You do not hold under the duke ?—No, nothing to do with him.

25,515. Have you been a candidate for the council ?—Never.

25,516. Have you ever voted for the council always ?—Always.

25,517. Have you ever canvassed for it ?—Never, I never asked anybody to vote either for the borough or any other purpose in my life.

25,518. We thought it right to summon every person who is a voter in Totnes, and to call all those before us whose names were mentioned, to give them an opportunity of explaining anything said against them ?—(Handing in a paper) There is Mr. Charles Michelmore's account in that transaction which Mr. Harris has been so anxious to refer to, and I leave it to the Court to say what connection it has with this matter.

25,519. Who holds the mortgage now ?—The same persons.

25,520. Captain Helms ?—Yes, I suppose so.

25,521. You paid the interest to Captain Helms ?—Regularly.

J. Elford.

JOHN ELFORD sworn and examined.

25,522. (Mr. Bere.) Do you live at Gerston ?—Yes.

25,523. Do you work for Mr. Leaman ?—No.

25,524. Did you at one time ?—Yes.

25,525. How along ago ?—Ten years.

25,526. Had you got a vote for the borough then ?—No.

25,527. When did you first have a vote for the borough ?—I think Mr. Dunn's election.

25,528. In 1859 ?—Yes.

25,529. Did you see Mr. Edward Woodley in 1859 ?—Yes.

25,530. And what did he give you ?—20*l.*

25,531. Was that the sum you asked for ?—I think I told about 25*l.* first.

25,532. Could not he get more for you then ?—That is what he said.

25,533. That is what you took ?—Yes.

25,534. You voted for Mr. Dunn ?—Yes.

25,535. What did he give it to you in?—In notes I think.

25,536. At your own house?—Yes, he brought it up after the election.

25,537. Did you get anything in 1862 or 1862 or 1863?—No.

25,538. Did not Woodley come to you again?—I met him once in the road, but he never said anything to me about the money. He asked me to vote for them and I told him I should not.

25,539. Whom did you vote for?—Mr. Seymour.

25,540. What made you vote for Mr. Seymour?—That is my principles.

25,541. Then you had gone against your principles for 20*l.* at Mr. Dunn's election?—Yes.

25,542. You came back to them for how much in 1863?—I did not get any money.

25,543. None at all?—No.

25,544. Did not you see anybody from Mr. Seymour?—No.

25,545. Had not you something to do with the man in 1862?—No.

25,546. Did you see a man called the black man in 1862?—No.

25,547. In 1863?—No.

25,548. You never saw such a man at the "Seven Stars"?—No.

25,549. Did not you go down to the "Stars" that year?—No.

25,550. You are sure somebody had not called on you about your vote for the Liberals before you spoke about your vote to Mr. Woodley?—When?

25,551. You met Mr. Woodley in the street, and he asked you how you were going to vote, and you said you would not vote for him. Had not you seen anybody from the Liberal camp?—No.

25,552. Nobody at all?—No.

25,553. If they had offered you another 25*l.*, would not you have voted for the Conservatives?—No.

25,554. What change had come over you between 1859 and 1862?—Well, that is my principle. I am a Liberal.

25,555. Then the 20*l.* made you vote for the Conservatives in 1859?—Yes.

25,556. Would not 25*l.* or a little more have made you vote for the Conservatives in 1863?—No.

25,557. Had Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore been to see you just about that time?—He never called on me in his life.

25,558. Did Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—No.

25,559. Did you ever meet him?—No; Mr. Jeffery Michelmore came there with Mr. Seymour, but they never said anything about any money.

25,560. Did either of the Michelmores ever give any money to you?—Not before the election.

25,561. After the election?—I lost two cows in 1864.

25,562. What time in 1864 did you lose two cows?—They made me a present of one.

25,563. Who?—Mr. Michelmore.

25,564. Which?—The old Mr. Michelmore, Mr. Thomas Michelmore.

25,565. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did they give you the cow, or the money to buy the cow?—The money.

25,566. How much?—20*l.*

25,567. (Mr. Bere.) What time of the year was that?—March, 1864.

25,568. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did they give you anything after the election of 1865?—No.

25,569. Did anybody give you anything?—No.

25,570. Or during the election?—No, that is all I ever had.

25,571. (Mr. Bere.) That was 20*l.* the cow and 20*l.* the other side?—Each side.

25,572. (Mr. Coleridge.) What side are you now?—The Liberal.

GEORGE COLE sworn and examined.

G. Cole.

25,573. (Mr. Longe.) Where do you live?—At Windmill Down.

25,574. Who is your landlord?—The Duke of Somerset.

25,575. How long have you had a vote?—I think five or six years to the best of my judgment.

25,576. And how many times have you exercised it?—Only twice.

25,577. In 1863 did you vote?—Yes.

25,578. Do you remember Dent's election?—I do.

25,579. Who canvassed you on that occasion?—I do not know that anyone did at that time.

25,580. Did no one at all canvass you?—I was coming up the street one day, and I met Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour the night before the election, and they asked me if I would vote for them on the Liberal side.

25,581. At this last election how did you vote?—For Seymour and Pender.

25,582. Did not the Conservatives pay you a visit on that occasion?—Yes; and the time before.

25,583. Whom did you see?—Narramore was one, and Colonel Dawkins, as he was said to be; he was a stranger to me, was the other. I was passing up the town the night before the election, when Narramore says to me, "I want you to give this gentleman a vote." I says to him, "Who is the gentleman?" and he said, "He is Colonel Dawkins." I then said, "I cannot give you any vote, for I have promised mine already." He said, "Nonsense; come along with me and have a glass of grog." Narramore and I had been great friends; we had been boys together. He said, "Will you go into the 'Stars'?" I said, "No." He said, "Then will you go into Sawyer's?" I said, "No, I would not like to go into either of those places."

25,584. Who was Sawyer's?—The "Castle" inn. I said, "No, I had rather go up the street;" and so we went into Bovey's.

25,585. Who was he?—That was a Tory inn.

25,586. What was the name of the inn?—The "Plymouth" inn. Then he said, "What will you have to drink?" I said, "If it is agreeable to you I should like to have a drop of the best brandy." After I had had that he said, "Won't you have another one?" I said, "Yes, I do not think two will do me any harm after I have been at work all day." I then said to the young lady, Miss Bovey (she is now Mrs. Watson), "If you will be particular and draw it good I don't mind if I have another." Then Narramore says to me, "This gentleman who was with me wants to talk to you. I dare say you know that I am canvassing for this gentleman." I said to him, "It is no good your canvassing me for this gentleman; I have told you that before." He said he would give me a good sum of money, and I said to him, "If you were to give me as much as the biggest horse in Totnes could draw it would be of no use; no money would buy me."

25,587. What reason did he give for asking you these questions, or saying this to you?—He said, "I could get you 400*l.* or more." I said, "Nonsense." Then I told him that the money he would get me would be only a bribe and would do me no good. I said, "I do not want it; I get my living in a straightforward way and would rather be without it." Then he told me he would come and see me in the morning. I said, "Don't do that, because if you do you will have to go back as you came." On the following morning he came up to my house. I was told that a gentleman wanted to see me, and when I found that it was Narramore, I said to him, "I told you it would be no good your coming to me." He said, "You had better take the money; it will do you a great deal of good; the duke's tenants are going to turn as well as you." I said to him, "You have lost your labour." He then took me out to a place where I had some pigs, and he said to me, "What shall I give you for those four pigs?" I said to him, "They

"are promised already to some one at Newton Mar"ket." He said, "I will give you 400*l.* for those pigs
"if you like to take it." I said, "That will be no
"good to me, for I have promised them already."
The value of them would be about 35*l.* I then said to him, "Where are you to get the 400*l.* from? For
"a man like you to have 400*l.* one would suppose
"some robbery had been committed." He said, "I "can get it for you in quick time." I then told him it was of no use his going on in that way; that he would have to go back as he had come.

25,588. Did he tell you where he could get it from?—No.

25,589. Did he tell you whether some gentleman had not authorized him to call on you?—He said, "Yes;" it was the gentleman whom I had seen along with him the night before.

25,590. Who did he say that was?—I think he said it was Colonel Dawkins.

25,591. Are you sure that he said it was Colonel Dawkins?—I think so.

25,592. Did you think this was a bonâ fide offer which he made to you?—We had been like two brothers, and I think he would have been a very bad man to tell me a falsehood.

25,593. You did not think he was playing the fool with you all this time?—If he had brought me as much as the strongest horse in Totnes would draw, I should not have sold my word. I could have had 400*l.* for my pigs if I had liked.

25,594. Although you did not take any money for your vote you helped your party a little?—I had too much business to attend to at the time.

25,595. What relation of yours is William Cole?—He is an uncle of mine.

25,596. Did you not get his vote?—No.

25,597. Had you not some talk with him about voting?—No.

25,598. David Manning; did you not talk to him about voting?—No; he did as he liked, as I should have done.

25,599. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know Henry Crawford?—Very well.

25,600. Did you ever sell him any pigs?—I have, and bought pigs of him too.

25,601. How long ago is that?—I should think three or four months ago.

25,602. We must go a little further back than that?—Well, about two or three years ago I bought some, and sold him some.

25,603. How many should you say?—Two breeding sows.

26,604. Had he got any other pigs at the time?—That I do not know.

24,605. (Mr. Coleridge.) At which election had you had anything to do with the Conservatives about your vote?—I never did trouble myself about any voting.

25,606. Whose tenant are you?—The Duke of Somerset's. I also rented under Mr. Sandridge, and under Mr. Watson.

25,607. Were you promised anything if you had given your vote on the Liberal side?—No.

25,608. Do not you know that you would have been turned out if you had not voted on their side?—I do not know that. I think I pay them as my rent quite the value of the land.

25,609. Then I suppose you would not mind being turned out?—No. I am independent of them or of anybody else.

25,610. How many acres do you hold under the duke?—I think it is 23 or 24.

25,611. And what rent do you pay?—The rent is 80*l.* a year for the house and land.

25,612. Where is it; in the valley or on the hill?—It is on the top of the hill.

25,613. Not the best ground that can be got?—Perhaps it is the worst on the hill. I came there last, and I suppose I had to take what other people would not have. I was formerly a collector at a turnpike gate, but as I had a family I thought it was a good place to settle down in for a little rest.

25,614. (Mr. Longe.) Who are the other persons who occupy land with you?—No one. I rent it myself.

25,615. Are there not other persons who have votes?—There was at one time a field belonging to Gerston; that is about three years ago.

25,616. Who was that?—His name was Hoppin.

25,617. (Mr. Coleridge.) How many times have you voted?—I have voted twice.

25,618. And always Liberal?—Yes.

25,619. With regard to the municipal elections, for whom have you voted?—I have given Mr. Heath a vote, when he was proposed as a guardian.

25,620. How came you to do that?—He had been doing business for me, and I thought he was a very fit man.

25,621. After what has taken place do you still think so?—I think so still. It is better to have some one there who are on opposite sides, otherwise no good comes of them.

25,622. There was another person who had a vote from your land?—Yes.

25,623. What is his name?—George Fitze for one field.

25,624. (Mr. Bere.) There were seven of them, were there not?—I only know of those two. I do not know of any more.

25,625. Do they vote now for that land?—I do not think they do.

25,626. Are you quite sure that your land does not bring seven votes to the duke?—No, it does not.

25,627. (Mr. Coleridge.) How did they claim any right to the land; did they do anything for it?—I used to take cows in, and had 4*s.* a week for each cow.

25,628. Then, who did you pay the rent to?—To Fitze.

25,629. And not to the duke in addition?—No. I paid them by the week.

25,630. And they paid the duke?—That I do not know.

25,631. You have been told not to know that?—I would not come here to tell a falsehood.

25,632. When you took the field was there not this understanding between you; that you were to ask no questions as to who paid the duke, and that you were to pay them weekly?—I took the field by the week, and then I had notice to leave the field, and I gave up possession of it.

25,633. Did they afterwards turn anything into it of their own, or was it at your command?—I cannot be answerable for that.

25,634. (Mr. Bere.) Have you paid anybody by the week for the rest of the land?—Yes. I have kept my cows during this summer in another field.

25,635. Whom did you pay the money to for that field?—To George Fitze. There is another field where I had my cows in.

25,636. Whom did you pay the money to?—To George Fitze.

25,637. Was he not the agent for the Ashburton Company?—That I am not aware of.

J. Elford.

JOHN ELFORD recalled and further examined.

25,638. (Mr. Bere.) Did not Mr. Heath come to you in 1863, or to your wife?—Yes.

25,639. What did he offer you?—He offered her 200*l.*

25,640. Why did you not take that?—I had given my word to the other side.

25,641. But you would have taken it if you had not given your word?—No, I should not. Mr. Harris came to me and offered me 150*l.* the night before, but I told him it was no good.

25,642. Did not the other side offer you any money?—No, they did not.

25,643. Did not they call on you?—I did not see them. I went and voted.

25,644. Did you get nothing afterwards?—No; no more than I have told you.

25,645. Have there been other votes made upon your field?—No.

25,646. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes.

25,647. Who votes for your fields besides yourself? No one.

25,648. How many fields have you got?—Two.

25,649. And what is the rent which you pay for them?—I pay 45*l.* a year for them.

25,650. Whom do you pay your rent to?—To Mr. Jeffery Michelmore; it is paid twice a year.

25,651. Is it not the fact that you pay so much a week for each head of cattle that are put in that field?—No.

25,652. Are you rated for that field?—Which field do you mean?

25,653. How much rent do you pay?—I pay 45*l.* a year.

25,654. What is the extent of each of the fields?—One is hardly six acres, the other is a little more.

25,655. Then besides those two are there any other fields which you use for your cattle?—There are not now; there were four or five years ago.

25,656. Whose fields were those that you made use of? Who did you pay for the use of them?—I paid Fitze.

25,657. And you paid so much a week for each head of cattle?—Yes.

25,658. How long is it ago that you are speaking of?—About five years ago.

25,659. How much do you pay a week for a cow?—Four shillings a week for a cow.

25,660. And how much for a horse?—That I do not know; I never had any horses there.

HENRY BARTLETT sworn and examined.

H. Bartlett.

25,661. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you been a voter for this borough?—I think since 1842 or 1843.

25,662. How have you generally voted?—I always voted on the Conservative side.

25,663. Did you ever get anything for your vote?—I never got anything in my life.

25,664. Did you not get anything at Mr. Dunn's election?—No.

25,665. Do you recollect Mr. Dunn's election in 1863?—Yes.

25,666. And your wife going down to the "Seven Stars"?—No; my wife never went inside the door of the "Seven Stars."

25,667. Is there any other Bartlett than you in Totnes?—I do not know that there is.

25,668. Mr. Heath has said in his evidence "Bartlett was one of those men whom I had never seen; "his wife came down to the "Seven Stars." Had there been some intimation sent to you that your wife should go down to the "Seven Stars"?—No, that is not me; it must be some mistake; I never had anything to do with it.

25,669. Have you a brother of the name of Jubal Bartlett?—Yes.

25,670. I am afraid you have been brought here by mistake. Did you yourself ever give anyone any money for voting?—No.

25,671. Or did you ever promise anyone any money?—Never.

25,672. Have you ever told any voter that it would be better for him if he voted for your side?—I never did.

JUBAL BARTLETT sworn and examined.

J. Bartlett.

25,673. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you been a voter for Totnes?—I think since 1863.

25,674. Do you remember Mr. Dent's election?—Yes.

25,675. On that occasion which way did you vote?—I voted for Mr. Dent.

25,676. Who canvassed you on that occasion?—I can hardly tell.

25,677. Did Mr. Evens come to you?—No.

25,678. Or Screach?—No.

25,679. Or Frederick Evens, did he not come?—I do not think I ever saw anyone; they called at my house.

25,680. Who called?—I suppose it was Mr. Dent.

25,681. Do you know whether they asked your wife to go down to the "Stars"?—No; I heard of that being said, but that was a mistake.

25,682. Do you recollect your wife having gone down to the "Stars"?—I do not know anything about it.

25,683. Did your wife give you some money about that time?—No.

25,684. Did any person give you any money about that time?—Yes.

25,685. Who was it, do you remember?—I think it was Mr. Heath.

25,686. Where did he give it you?—At the "Seven Stars."

25,687. Who had told you to go to the "Seven Stars"?—I cannot say; I was very often down there.

25,688. Were you not sent for to the "Stars"?—No; I went of my own accord.

25,689. When did he give you the money?—I think it was the day before the election.

25,690. In what room did he give it you?—In a room near the stairs.

25,691. Was it No. 1, the first room to the left as you go in?—I think the room was at the head of the stairs.

25,692. What did he give you?—He gave me 20*l.*

25,693. How did he give it you?—In gold.

25,694. Was it loose or in a bag?—It was loose.

25,695. That was given you to vote for Dent?—Yes.

25,696. Did you ever get any more?—No.

25,697. In 1865 who was it that gave you anything?—I did not get anything.

25,698. Did not Mr. Heath offer you anything?—No.

25,699. How did you vote on that occasion?—I voted for Dawkins and Pim; I think I was rather late.

25,700. Had they promised you anything on that occasion?—No; I had always voted on that side; the election was all over when I came down.

25,701. Had you not been sent for to the "Seven Stars"?—No.

25,702. Had you not gone down to see Mr. Heath about anything?—No; I never had anything more than what I have mentioned.

25,703. Did you not expect something in 1865?—I dare say I should have had something if I had not been so late.

25,704. When did you first find that out?—About 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

25,705. Did you not tell Mr. Heath it was a pity that you had not come down earlier?—No; I do not think I said anything about it.

25,706. Had you anything to do with any of the elections before 1863; were you ever employed in any way?—Yes; I have been employed at every election since 1832.

25,707. How were you employed; what was it that you did?—I was employed in the band; and I was paid for that.

25,708. You got some money on that occasion?—

TWENTIETH DAY.

J. Bartlett.

5 Sept. 1866.

Yes; we had a week's work, I think, when Lord Seymour came down here as a Tory.

25,709. When was that?—When he came down here first all the Tories voted for him, and we were employed for a week, for which we got 10*s.* or 12*s.* a day.

25,710. You were employed yourself in the band?—Yes; as far back as 1832.

25,711. What instrument did you play?—The French horn.

25,712. How many of you were there?—There were 12 or 14 of us.

25,713. Did you go on playing all day and all night?—Pretty nearly so in Lord Seymour's time. Sometimes we were out before daylight, and we used to get a quart or two of ale before about 8 o'clock, and then we began for the day.

25,714. Did you get any "all nations"?—No.

25,715. Did you play at the last election?—No; the last election when we were out was Mackenzie's; they do not have bands now; at Mackenzie's election we only played him in.

25,716. And what might you have got for that?—Five shillings a-piece.

25,717. So that your vote has been worth only 20*l* to you?—That is all.

25,718. Do you ever have your band out at the municipal elections?—No.

25,719. How have you voted on those occasions?—For the Tories always.

25,720. And what have you got for so doing?—Not a farthing; I have been a few shillings out of pocket.

25,721. You are not a member of the council yourself?—No.

25,722. Is your brother a member?—No.

T. Willis.

THOMAS WILLIS sworn and examined.

25,723. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been a voter?—The first time I voted was at Baldwin and Mills' election.

25,724. Was there any money flying about at that time?—I did not receive any.

25,725. Who did you vote for then?—For Mills.

25,726. Have you always voted for the Liberals?—No.

25,727. When did you change your side?—I voted for Dunn once.

25,728. Who influenced your vote then; was it a person of the name of Woodley?—Yes.

25,729. How much did he give you to change?—I got 60*l*.

25,730. Did he come down and see you?—Yes, he saw me.

25,731. In the street was it?—Yes.

25,732. Had he a little conversation with you?—Yes.

25,733. Did he say how much he would give you?—He did.

25,734. Where did he pay it to you?—He left it on the table in the kitchen.

25,735. Was it in a parcel?—No, loose.

25,736. In notes?—Yes.

25,737. How did you vote in 1863?—I have voted on the Tory side since.

25,738. Have you any other reason but the 60*l*. which made you change your side?—No.

25,739. Did you not go to the Liberals and say, I would vote for you on this occasion, but I now vote because I have had 60*l*. given me; will you give me anything on your side?—No, never.

25,740. Why did you not go to them?—I was satisfied with the 60*l*.

25,741. Did anyone ever offer you any money on the Liberal side?—Never.

25,742. They thought you were a safe man to vote for them?—I do not know what they thought.

25,743. Did you not hear from them afterwards that they were disappointed at your not having voted for them?—I never heard so.

25,744. No one came to see you?—No.

25,745. Had you a quarrel with Mr. Michelmore before you voted?—No, I never had such a thing.

25,746. Or been turned out of your house or land?—No.

25,747. Or any of your friends?—No, not at that time.

25,748. When were they turned out?—My brother was turned out from some land.

25,749. What is his name?—John Willis.

25,750. And nothing but the 60*l*. made you turn round?—Nothing else.

25,751. Did you get anything in 1863?—Nothing.

25,752. Or in 1865?—Nothing.

25,753. Was anything offered to you?—Nothing.

25,754. Was that the only time that you were ever bribed?—Yes.

25,755. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you nothing in 1862, when Mr. Dent did not go to the poll?—No.

25,756. Were you active in offering any other men anything?—I never offered a man a penny in my life.

25,757. Have you ever voted for the council?—Yes.

25,758. Did you ever get any money for that?—Never.

25,759. How did you vote then?—I voted for Mr. Samuel Huxham.

25,760. And then you voted for the Conservatives?—That was the second time I voted.

25,761. Have you had a vote for the borough longer than you have had for the council?—I can hardly tell you that.

25,762. Did you not vote for the Liberals in the council when you voted for them in the borough?—About that time I suppose.

A. Venning.

ARTHUR VENNING sworn and examined.

25,763. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—I am not in any business.

25,764. What have you been formerly?—I was a cyder merchant.

25,765. How long have you been a resident of Totnes?—For several years.

25,766. When did you first have a vote?—At Dunn's election.

25,767. How did you vote?—For Dunn.

25,768. Did anyone offer you any money?—Yes.

25,769. Who was it?—Mr. Evens.

25,770. What did he give you?—60*l*.

25,771. Mr. Evens was always a good friend to you at the elections?—I may say the family was.

25,772. Was it Frederick Evens who gave you the 60*l*.?—No; Mr. Evens who was examined just now.

25,773. In 1863, what did you get for voting for Dent?—50*l*.

25,774. Who gave you that?—Mr. Frederick Evens.

25,775. Were you offered anything on the other side then?—No.

25,776. Were you offered anything in 1862, when Mr. Dent did not go to the poll?—No.

25,777. Were you told there was something for you?—No.

25,778. Where did Mr. Frederick Evens pay you this money?—In my own house.

25,779. In gold?—Yes.

25,780. In 1865, what did you get for voting?—I got 60*l*.

25,781. Who paid you that?—Frederick Evens.

25,782. Where?—In my own house.

25,783. Was that in gold?—Yes.

25,784. Did you give any receipt for these sums of money?—Never.

25,785. You seem to have made a pretty good thing of your vote?—Pretty good.

25,786. Have you voted at the municipal elections?—Always.

25,787. Did you ever get anything for your vote then?—Nothing.

25,788. The sums did not run high enough there?—I never asked for anything.

25,789. Are you quite sure you are correct in saying that Evens paid you in your own house in 1865?—I am quite certain.

25,790. Were you ever sent to the "Stars"?—I never was inside the door of the "Stars" at an election.

25,791. You are certain he paid you at your own house?—Quite certain.

25,792. Was your wife present when he paid you?—Yes.

THOMAS BLANK recalled and further examined.

T. Blank.

25,793. (Mr. Bere.) Perhaps you will be able to tell us a little more than you did on the last occasion. What happened between you and Thomas Jacob Searle on the morning of the election?—He came into the passage and said he would see me all right. I do not know how long it was, but I think in about ten minutes he sent his son to me to come down to his house. I did not go down to his house, but I went down the lane, and met him in the lane near the South Devon back door, and then he went into the stable, and behind the door he gave me a little bag.

25,794. How much did he give you?—110*l.*

25,795. In gold or in notes?—In gold.

25,796. Why did you not tell us all about this before. Have you been talking to Searle about it?—I have not been to Searle.

25,797. Has he been to see you?—Yes; he came to me in the passage.

25,798. Did not Searle say something to this effect, that if you held your tongue, and he held his tongue, we should never find it out?—He told me not to say anything at all about it.

25,799. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did he give you permission to tell us, last night?—No; yesterday morning.

25,800. He came to you yesterday morning, what did he say; let us have it all out?—I forget the exact words.

25,801. You must remember; it was only yesterday morning that he told you?—He said it would be better to make a clean breast of it.

25,802. Did he then ask you how you had liked sitting in Court to refresh your memory?—No.

25,803. When was it he told you that you were not to split, but to hold your tongue and not to tell us anything?—I think it was this day week.

25,804. You mean since we have been here?—Yes. I was coming out at the back door and I passed Searle, and he said, "Be firm."

25,805. What else did he say?—Nothing else.

25,806. Who else was present?—I do not know that anyone was present.

25,807. Was your wife present at the time when he said this?—No; I was coming down the back way.

25,808. Since the election have you ever had any conversation with him, except upon that occasion?—No.

25,809. Not before the occasion of your going to London?—Yes.

25,810. What did he say to you as to what you should say when you went to London?—He did not say anything.

25,811. Did he not then tell you to be firm?—No.

25,812. But when he heard this Commission was coming down, what did he tell you to do then, to be firm?—No.

25,813. How often has he told you to be firm?—Only last Saturday.

25,814. And you have been firm until to-day?—Yes.

25,815. And would you have continued firm until the end if he had not given you permission to speak out?—I do not know about that. I know the truth must come out.

25,816. (Mr. Bere.) Did it ever occur to you that all this time you were committing perjury, and did not Thomas Jacob Searle know it just as well?—No, it did not.

(Mr. Bere.) Do you know what you are liable to now; that you are liable to be sent from here to Exeter and tried at the next assizes for wilful and corrupt perjury, and Thomas Jacob Searle for subornation of perjury, for which you may at least have two years imprisonment with hard labour. It is not a matter of joke for persons to come here and deliberately attempt to conceal what they know because of the request of another party.

25,817. (Mr. Longe.) Who went up to London with you about the petition?—There were different persons.

25,818. Was there not someone specially with you?—No, I do not know how many went up; they were in different parties.

25,819. Was Mitchell with you?—Yes.

25,820. What did he do with you?—He did nothing with me.

25,821. But he kept you with him?—Part of the time.

25,822. He knew all about these little secrets which have now come out?—No, he never knew a word of it that I know of.

25,823. (Mr. Bere.) What did you do with the 110*l.*?—I spent some of it.

25,824. Did you give any of it to any other voters?—No.

25,825. You kept it all yourself?—Yes.

25,826. (Mr. Coleridge.) How much of it have you got now?—I do not know.

25,827. Have you any in the savings bank?—I have none in the bank.

25,828. You kept it all at home?—I have spent most of it.

25,829. Did you not give Searle a sovereign for his trouble?—No.

25,830. Can you tell us anything about any other elections?—No, I cannot.

25,831. Were you offered anything in 1863 at Dent's election on the Liberal side?—No.

25,832. What did you get for your vote in 1863?—30*l.*

25,833. Were you offered anything in 1859 at Dunn's election by the Liberals?—No.

25,834. Was this the first time that the Liberals had ever been liberal with you?—They offered me something at Mill's election; I think I was offered 20*l.*

25,835. By whom were you offered 20*l.*?—By Thomas Worthy.

25,836. Did you take it?—No, I did not.

25,837. What did you get on the other side?—I did not get anything from them.

25,838. How came you not to take the 20*l.*?—I suppose I had over-stood the market.

25,839. Were you ever mistaken in that way before?—That was the first time that I had voted.

25,840. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever get anything from Searle for voting in regard to the council?—I had 3*l.* on the last occasion.

25,841. How much did you get the time before?—I voted for the opposite party then.

25,842. How much did you get from them?—I think I got a sovereign.

25,843. We want to know from you what passed between you and Mr. Searle since the first time he spoke to you about it; where were you when he spoke to you?—In the back lane.

25,844. Was he standing at the door?—No.

TWENTIETH DAY.

T. Blank.

5 Sept. 1866.

25,845. Had you passed the door of the house?—I was coming up the back lane of the house. He was at Mr. Condy's back door talking to someone.

25,846. Who was he talking to?—He was talking along with Byne.

25,847. William Byne?—Yes, I went in and he came in along with me.

25,848. Did he say anything to you then; did he ask you when you were going to be examined?—I was coming up.

25,849. Had you told him?—I was coming home. I had been down the back lane last Saturday evening with some work.

25,850. What day was it when you were first called up here?—I cannot tell you; on Wednesday, I think.

25,851. You had seen him before about this, had you not?—Last Saturday.

25,852. Before the Saturday; that was not the first time he talked to you about it?—Yes, it was the first time he said anything to me about it.

25,853. He had spoken to you before this Saturday about what you were going to say here?—What I was going to say here?

25,854. Yes?—He told me.

25,855. You got a summons, did you not?—Yes.

25,856. Did you go and talk to Mr. Searle about the summons?—No, never a word to him about it.

25,857. Did he come down and talk to you about it?—No, he never said anything to me about it.

25,858. Now just let me hear what Mr. Searle told you when he said you might come up here and tell the truth?—He did not say anything else.

25,859. How much did he say you might tell?—He did not tell me anything that I was to say; he only said, "Make a clean breast of it."

25,860. Was that the reason he said you knew what he would allow you to say?—That is when I took this here money he made me promise not to say anything about it.

25,861. That is your reason for not having said anything about it here?—(No answer.)

25,861*. Do you remember what words Mr. Searle said to you about telling the truth?—He only said, "Make a clean breast of it;" that is all he said to me; he did not say what.

25,862. Did he say clean brush or clean breast?—It might be breast, I cannot tell.

25,863. How do you know what you were going to say; did he refer to what you were going to say when he said, "Keep firm"?—I do not know what he meant.

25,864. You must have been talking to him about it?—No.

25,865. Or somebody else?—No.

25,866. Was your wife talking to him?—No.

25,867. Where had you been to that night; what public-house do you generally go to?—I do not go to any public-house at all.

25,868. None at all?—No.

THOMAS JACOB SEARLE sworn and examined.

T. J. Searle.

25,869. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live? — In Totnes.

25,870. What are you?—A tanner and fellmonger.

25,871. Had you some conversation with Thomas Blank about giving his evidence before the Commission?—There has been a little said.

25,872. What have you said?—I told him he had better go down and state the truth.

25,873. What had you said to him before; take care?—I wish to state the truth.

25,874. What did you say to him last Saturday?—He said something to me about what he should say before the Commissioners.

25,875. What did you say?—I said, "You had "better be firm."

25,876. Were you at that time talking with William Byne?—I do not know; I might have been.

25,877. Were you talking to him about what he was going to say before the Commissioners?—No.

25,878. What do you mean by telling him to be firm?—He seemed to be nervous about it. I had read the evidence, and I thought I would go and tell him that he had better come and state the truth in Court.

25,879. Was that all that passed between you and him?—That is all that I am aware of.

25,880. Who else have you seen that have been witnesses upon this Commission?—I have seen Griffis.

25,881. Did you tell him to be firm?—I did not.

25,882. Did you tell him what he was to say?—I told him he had better come and tell the truth.

25,883. When did you tell him that?—Yesterday.

25,884. Did you see anyone who had not been examined?—No one.

25,885. Nobody at all?—Not that I am aware of.

25,886. Did you see anybody except Blank and Byne?—No.

25,887. Did you not see Griffis before he was examined?—I did not.

25,888. When did you first hear what Blank had said?—I read it in the paper.

25,889. What day was it when he was first examined; was not Wednesday the first day when he was examined?—I do not know.

(Mr. Blank.) Wednesday.

25,890. (Mr. Bere.) Then you read it on the Thursday morning?—I suppose I did.

25,891. Did anybody come down to you after the Court was over for the day and tell you what happened here?—No.

25,892. How often have you yourself been in Court?—I was here but once, and it was this day week.

25,893. Was it before you spoke to Blank, or after?—He perhaps can tell you the time.

25,894. We want an answer?—It was some part of the afternoon; I cannot tell you to an hour.

25,895. Do you know whether he was subpœnaed as a witness for that day?—I do not know that.

25,896. Did you ever come up here to see who were summoned as witnesses?—No.

25,897. Did anybody report to you or tell you from time to time who were going to be examined from day to day?—I merely went by the paper.

25,898. That is all the information you received?—Yes.

25,899. You read about Blank's evidence on the Thursday; you knew what he stated "to be firm"?—I did.

25,900. Why did you not go down to see him and tell him?—The first time I saw him I spoke to him and told him he had better come and tell the truth.

25,901. Did he say, first of all, that he had been detained in Court in consequence of the statements he had made?—I saw that he had been detained one day and I thought it my business to tell him.

25,902. Did you not mean when you told him "to be firm" that he should tell only what we were likely to find out and nothing more?—I do not think that; he seemed very nervous over it.

25,903. What do you mean by being "firm"?—At the idea of coming before the Commissioners.

25,904. You were nervous when you came to tell the truth?—I do not know.

25,905. You do not often tell the truth?—When I do come I do. I shall keep nothing back.

(Mr. Bere.) You know what you are liable to now. The facts connected with this man's evidence will be reported by the Commissioners to Her Majesty's law officers to determine whether you shall not be prosecuted for subornation of perjury.

25,906. (Mr. Coleridge.) Now tell us when you said that to Blank "to be firm," what had he said to you before?—I cannot tell you what it was.

25,907. You can tell perfectly well, it is only a week ago; what did you tell him to be firm for?—He was nervous.

25,908. How did you see that he was nervous?—He shook; he did not like the idea.

25,909. How do you know what he was nervous about?—Perhaps he did not like to state it.

25,910. You tell us he said nothing, what had he told you or said he was nervous about?—I suppose he did not like to acknowledge he had taken a bribe; I expect that was the reason.

25,911. What did he tell you he was nervous about when you saw him in the street and thought him a little nervous?—He called on me; he brought me up in the road as I was walking up.

25,912. What did he say?—He said what should he say when he got down before the Commissioners?

25,913. What did you say?—I said, "Be firm."

25,914. Is that all you said?—That is all.

25,915. Is that all he said?—No.

25,916. Upon your oath was there nothing more said, was the whole that he said "What am I to say "when I get before the Commissioners"?—I think I said, "Be firm."

25,917. What did he say?—He said he should.

25,918. Did he ask you how he was "to be firm"? What else occured, that is not all?—Nothing that I am aware of.

25,919. By being firm you meant hold his tongue?—Perhaps so.

25,920. You say "perhaps"?—I say so.

25,921. Why could you not say so before? You say it might have been you meant by being "firm," to "hold his tongue;" you let this poor fellow come here and perjure himself in order that he might save you?—I did not want him to save me.

25,922. What did you mean by telling him to be firm?—That was the meaning.

25,923. Do you not know perfectly well when you did that you were guilty of subornation of perjury, and also making this poor fellow, who knows no better, commit perjury for your sake; was that what you meant?—I suppose that is the meaning of it.

25,924. Now tell me, when did you tell him first that he might open his mouth?—Yesterday.

25,925. What made you do that?—I thought it would be better.

25,926. Did he not come and tell you he was in a precious fix about this?—No, he did not.

25,927. What did he tell you?—I went to his shop.

25,928. What did he tell you first?—Nothing.

25,929. Had he sent up to you?—No, he had not.

25,930. You had never been to see him during all this time that he was detained in court?—One day.

25,931. What day was that?—When I read the report in the paper I went to him.

25,932. What day was that?—Yesterday.

25,933. You knew he was detained here a great deal before yesterday; when did you first go to him?—Yesterday.

25,934. When did you first know he was detained here?—Not till I read the paper yesterday morning.

25,935. How often do you read the paper?—Almost every day.

25,936. Did you not know that he was detained here ever since last Wednesday?—No, I did not.

25,937. Did you not read the papers on those days?—Sometimes I do, and sometimes I do not.

25,938. On your oath do you not read every single syllable that takes place in this court during these proceedings?—No.

25,939. What days have you missed?—I cannot say.

25,940. Did you the first day Blank was examined?—No, I did not.

25,941. Did you ever ask to see him?—No.

25,942. Did you try not to see him?—I did not.

25,943. Was it to you too great an exertion?—I did not know what day he was coming forward.

25,944. You say that yesterday was the first time you had an opportunity of going down to him, what time did you go?—In the morning.

25,945. You went down to his house?—I was walking by and he called.

25,946. Who was present when you saw him?—I saw his workman in the shop, and he came out to me.

25,947. What did you say to him?—I told him he had better go down to state the truth.

25,948. Did you tell him why?—I did not.

25,949. Did he ask you why he was to state the truth?—No.

25,950. After you told him not to state the truth before, how came you to tell him that?—I said that he had better go down and make a clear breast of it, and tell the truth.

25,951. What did he say then?—He would do so.

25,952. Did he ask you what had made you alter your mind about telling the truth?—Nothing of the sort.

25,953. What had made you alter your mind after telling him to be firm?—I thought the better plan was to go and state the whole facts, and not to tell a falsehood about it.

25,954. You told him to tell a falsehood at the beginning. You told him in the beginning to go and tell falsehoods, what made you alter your mind?—I thought it the better plan, on reflection, to tell him.

25,955. Did you take any advice?—I did not.

25,956. Did you consult any attorney?—No.

25,957. Did you consult anybody about it.—No.

25,958. It was your own reflections that made you think it was the better plan to tell the truth?—Yes.

25,959. You mean to tell the truth?—Yes.

25,960. If you had been examined before him you did not mean to do it?—I did.

25,961. Did you mean that he should come and perjure himself that you might come and contradict him on your oath?—I do not mean to say one or the other.

25,962. Do you mean to tell me that you meant him to come here and swear to one thing, and you were coming to contradict him on your oath?—I never told him to say anything.

25,963. You have told me you meant by being "firm" he was not to tell the truth; did you mean to tell the truth when you came?—I did.

25,964. If you had been examined that day?—I dare say I should.

25,965. Did you mean at that time to tell the truth or not?—I intend to tell the truth.

25,966. Did you at the time you told him to tell a falsehood mean to tell the truth yourself?—Yes.

25,967. Did you mean to tell falsehoods to back up his?—I cannot say.

25,968. You know he has told some, is that your case; did you mean to be firm yourself at that time?—Yes, I did.

25,969. It is in consequence of what has happened that you told him to make a clean breast of it?—Yes.

HENRY CRAWFORD recalled.

H. Crawford.

25,970. (Mr. Bere.) Is your memory better than it was?—I ask your pardon if I have said anything wrong.

25,971. When you say that Mr. Edward Tucker and Mr. Distin came down to your house in 1863 was Mr. Parnell in your house at that time?—I cannot answer, I dare say he may be, I will not be certain of it 25,972. Will you swear that he was not?—I cannot.

25,973. Was Hill in the house?—He may have been.

25,974. Did you not see him sitting in the kitchen?—I cannot recollect whether he was, I have no doubt he was there.

25,974. Have you the least doubt that Samuel Parnell was there?—No.

25,976. Will you swear he was not?—I cannot.

25,977. Was Hill in the house?—He may have been.

25,978. Did you not see him sitting in the kitchen?—I believe he was. No doubt he was there.

25,979. Have you any doubt that Parnell was there?—No doubt he was there.

25,980. Was the 60*l.* paid to your wife?—My brother-in-law gave her 60*l.*

25,981. Where is he?—He does not reside in Totnes.

25,982. What is his name?—Samuel Nichol.

25,983. Where does he live?—At Kingsbridge.

25,984. What is his address?—Goveton, near Kingsbridge.

25,985. Have you seen Parnell since the Commission was opened?—No.

25,986. Has he a wife?—Yes.

25,987. Did Parnell say that you were not to say anything about the money that she had had, because it would be all right?—Yes.

25,988. Is your wife in Totnes at the present moment?—Yes.

25,989. When was it that Parnell told your wife not to say anything?—I think last evening.

25,990. Who told you not to say anything before when you were examined here? You have been examined here two days; who was it told you that?—I do not know anything about it.

25,991. There have been people speaking to you. Did anybody tell you to be firm?—No.

25,992. Was it not your wife?—Not that I am aware of.

25,993. Was it not your wife who told you not to say what had happened?—I forget.

25,994. No you do not. Was it not your wife who told you not to say what had happened in 1863?—Perhaps it was.

25,995. You know it was?—I forget for the minute.

25,996. No you do not. Now consider. Was it your wife who told you not to say what had happened in 1863 about the money?—I cannot say.

25,997. Yes you can?—I do not wish to say any falsehoods about it; I wish to state as it was.

25,998. You say it was not your wife?—I do not know whether it was or not.

25,999. Yes you do. You know perfectly well that it was your wife?—Likely it was.

26,000. You know it was your wife. Who else has seen you besides your wife about this matter?—No one.

26,001. Whom else have you talked to about what you were going to say here?—I have not talked to anyone.

26,002. Whom has your wife talked with about it?—I do not know particularly. She may have talked last evening with Mr. Parnell.

26,003. Did Mr. Parnell come to your house to see her?—No.

26,004. Where did she see him?—I do not know. Perhaps she went to his house.

26,005. Did not you when you went from the court, send your wife to Mr. Parnell to ask leave for you to tell the truth?—I do not know.

26,006. Did not you do so?—I do not know that I did.

26,007. Did not you send your wife to Mr. Parnell?—She may have gone.

26,008. Did not you send your wife to Mr. Parnell?—I cannot recollect.

26,009. Answer me that question?—It may have been so.

26,010. Did your wife say she was going to Parnell?—I do not know; I cannot answer.

26,011. You must remember this. Did not you send your wife, or did she say that she was going to Parnell to get leave to tell the truth?—I do not know about leave to go; to ask if anything had transpired, something in that way; I do not know the particulars.

26,012. What message did she bring back?—I think Mr. Parnell told her it was all right.

26,013. And not to say anything about it?—(No answer.)

26,014. You hear the question. Did not she come back and tell you that Parnell said it was all right and you were to say nothing about it?—Just that. I do not know whether she did. I do not want to tell lies.

26,015. (Mr. Coleridge.) "Just about that"?—I do not know the particulars.

26,016. That is the effect of it?—Yes. I do not know the particulars.

26,017. I will ask you again. That carriage that you bought afterwards, was it not bought with the money that Parnell paid your wife?—I do not know. I had got plenty of money myself besides that.

26,018. How much money had you?—I told you.

26,019. I do not believe a word you say, not a single word?—Then it is no use my talking.

26,020. You may save yourself from the consequences of perjury perhaps if you tell us the truth, it may possibly save you, but not necessarily at all?—I will give you every satisfaction I can.

26,021. In 1865 were you offered 50*l.* from Mr. Bryett by Parnell the gardener?—Yes.

26,022. Had you promised Pender and Seymour?—Yes.

26,023. Had you seen Parnell before that?—Yes.

26,024. Had he mentioned a sum of money?—I do not know.

26,025. Take care. Had he mentioned a sum of money, S. Parnell, the same man?—Samuel Parnell, in 1865?

26,026. Yes?—He merely said, "Go and vote; 60." I never had any money, and have never seen any.

26,027. You know what it meant?—Those are the facts of the matter.

26,028. Do you remember Parnell coming down to your house on the Sunday morning before we came here?—Parnell the gardener called after me in the street.

26,029. I mean the Sunday before we came here?—That is before the Commission.

26,030. That is Mr. Thomas Parnell?—Mr. J. Parnell. He went so far to offer me 50*l.* or 60*l.*, and said he was sent by Mr. Bryett. That is with regard to the election of 1865.

26,031. Did he come to you on the Sunday before came here, on August the 23rd, and say that you were not to say a word about his offer to you in 1865?—I met Mr. Parnell in the street, and he called to me and said, not to remember everything, every word that had passed between him and me, and it would not be known; I said, that he said, he was sent by Mr. Bryett to offer 50*l.* or 60*l.*, and he made use of Mr. Bryett's name, that he was sent by Mr. Bryatt, and it went from 100*l.* to 150*l.* and 200*l.*, but I did not accept it.

26,032. Did he offer you 50*l.* or 60*l.* to hold your tongue?—No; to vote for the borough. He offered me 50*l.* or 60*l.*, and went to 100*l.*, from 100*l.* to 150*l.* and 200*l.* Since that, I have had an interview with Mr. Parnell, and Parnell says he did not make use of Mr. Bryett's name, but he did.

26,033. Has John Parnell seen you at all since we have been sitting here?—No.

26,034. Have you had any talk with him?—No, not since I met Mr. Parnell in Mr. Harris's shop.

26,035. Mr. Robert Harris?—No. Mr. Harris the painter's.

26,036. What passed between you?—He said he did not make use of Mr. Bryett's name, that is all, but he did.

26,037. When did you have that conversation?—That was the Thursday following after Mr. Mitchell's evidence, the currier.

26,038. Did John Parnell ask you not to say what you knew ?—No ; but he tried to deny Mr. Bryett's name. That is the only thing he tried to get out of.

26,039. What is the day that you were first examined ?—I do not know, I forget now.

26,040. (Mr. Coleridge.) Now by degrees we have got a little from you, tell us a little more ?—I cannot tell you any more, that is the fact.

26,041. Nonsense, you can tell us more. You paid 40*l.* for the carriage ?—Yes.

26,042. And you owed 30*l.*, and you gave a bill for it ?—Yes.

26,043. If you received 60*l.*, why did you not pay more money for the carriage ?—I do not know.

26,044. Come, why was it ? You have told us that you began earning money directly, and that you had lots of money. You had 40*l.* by you, and you got 60*l.*, that was 100*l.*, and you bought a 15*l.* horse. Why did you not pay for the carriage without drawing a bill ?—I have kept some.

26,045. You swore yesterday that you paid off that bill, that you earned enough money to pay it off ; why did you keep the bill ?—I kept it for expenses.

26,046. You told us yesterday that your reason was that you were earning money so that you could pay it off ; on your oath did you earn 30*l.* between the drawing of that bill and the paying of it off ?—I might by selling what I had got, pigs and things.

26,047. What did you do with the 60*l.* ?—I made use of it to spend.

26,048. Where did you keep all this money ?—I did not put it in any bank.

26,049. You kept it in the house ?—Yes.

26,050. To be always ready if wanted ?—Yes.

[Sarah Crawford, the wife of the witness, here came into court, and the witness addressing her said, "I have told everything, all about "the circumstances."]

26,051. (Mr. Coleridge.) That is a contempt of court, and you had no business to make any such observation. Now did you not pay the whole of that 60*l.* that you received, except 5*l.* for the horse and carriage ?—I forget. Perhaps I may have done.

26,052. You had not 40*l.* That was a mistake ?—I had some money.

26,053. Had you 20*l.* ?—I cannot answer it.

26,054. Had you 10*l.* ?—I do not know.

26,055. Will you swear on your oath that you had 10*l.* by you when you received that 60*l.* ?—I cannot answer.

26,056. On your oath had you 5*l.* ?—I might.

26,057. On your oath had you 5*l.* ?—I cannot answer it.

26,058. Had you a single pound ?—It must have been a pound.

26,059. Had you 2*l.* at the time you received that 60*l.* ?—Yes.

26,060. Had you 3*l.* ?—Yes.

26,061. Four ?—I showed it to Mr. George Mitchell.

26,062. How much ?—I showed him 8*l.* or 10*l.*

26,063. Will you swear you had more than that ?—I do not know.

26,064. You swore yesterday you had 40*l.* ?—I cannot swear.

26,065. Will you swear you had 9*l.* ?—I cannot say.

26,066. Had you 10*l.* ?—I do not know.

26,067. Will you swear you had 8*l.* ?—Yes.

26,068. You swore you had 40*l.* yesterday ?—Yes.

26,069. What made you swear that yesterday ?—I should not have done so if I had not been told not to say anything.

26,070. Who told you that ?—My wife.

26,071. Your wife having told you not to say anything, you came to commit perjury. Now tell us more about it ?—I do not know.

26,072. You know that you had 8*l.*, and you know that you spent every sixpence of that money that you received in buying that carriage and horse ?—I cannot say more about it.

26,073. Is that not so ?—I may say it is so.

26,074. Those things must come out. It is your own fault. Now, when did you first hear that there was to be a Commission at Totnes ?—Some time ago.

26,075. Whom did you talk to about the Commission coming ?—I do not know particularly.

26,076. Tell us the somebody ?—I do not know.

26,077. Who came to you ?—I do not know.

26,078. Whom did you have a first conversation with ?—I do not know.

26,079. Did Mr. Samuel Parnell come to you ?—I do not know.

26,080. Did they talk with you ?—I do not know.

26,081. Who told you that Parnell had given Nichols the money for you ?—My wife ; I do not know.

26,082. Your wife told you that Parnell had given Nichols the money for you ?—I believe so.

26,083. You have no doubt about it ?—I do not know.

26,084. It was either your wife or Nichols ?—I believe my brother-in-law received it.

26,085. Who told you that he received it from Parnell ?—I do not know.

26,086. Who knew about it except Nichols and your wife ?—No one.

26,087. It was either Nichols or your wife ?—Yes.

26,088. You are sure ?—I do not know.

26,089. Nobody else knew about it ?—No.

26,090. Then it must have been Nichols or your wife ?—I do not know.

26,091. It was one or the other ?—Yes.

26,092. After you were told that it came from Mr. Parnell, and heard that the Commission was coming, did you go to Parnell to know what to say ?—I did not.

26,093. Did your wife ?—I do not know.

26,094. Did your wife tell you what to say ?—I do not know.

26,095. When was the first communication through your wife, or from Nichols or Parnell, as to what you were to say ?—I do not know.

26,096. When was the first time that your wife spoke to you about the evidence ?—I do not know.

26,097. Was it before we came down ?—I cannot answer.

26,098. Was it two months ago ?—It may be, it may be less.

26,099. Was it not immediately you knew there was going to be a Royal Commission here ?—I do not know.

26,100. Was it not ?—I do not wish to tell a lie.

26,101. Was it when the Commission was first talked about ?—I do not know when, I have no recollection of anything of the kind.

26,102. You told us that she did talk to you about it ?—It may have been last evening.

26,103. On your oath do you mean to tell us that you cannot say whether your wife mentioned the circumstances of this Commission till last evening ?—It might have been likely enough.

26,104. When was it ?—A month ago, I cannot say.

26,105. Will you swear it was a month ago ?—I cannot swear.

26,106. Will you swear it was not a month ago ?—I cannot say.

26,107. On your oath will you swear it was not more than a month ago that that was mentioned ?—I do not know ; it is no use for me to say.

26,108. You are afraid your wife is going to say what is true. Out with it, was it before we came down ?—It may have been, I do not know.

26,109. You know it was ?—I have not the slightest recollection.

26,110. Was it a month ago, or last night, or before you came here to give your evidence ?—I do not know ; I did not pay any attention to anything of the kind.

26,111. If you paid no attention, how came you to come here and tell lies instead of the truth?—I did not think it would come out, and find out what I had.

WENTIETH DAY.

26,112. Was it not in consequence of what your wife said that you came here and gave your evidence as you did?—It may be.

26,113. Did not your wife tell you it was what Mr. Parnell wished you to do? On your oath did not your wife tell you that?—I do not know, it may have been.

26,114. You said so just now?—It may have been.

26,115. Why do you say one thing in one minute, and another in another?—I have no recollection.

26,116. Five minutes ago you said so?—I have no recollection.

26,117. You have forgotten since my friend examined you?—I told him so.

26,118. Then why deny it now?—It may have been so.

26,119. Why not say straight out like a man that it was so?—I said so.

26,120. Was not the reason that you came here and behaved as you have, that it was Mr. Parnell's wish?—He told my wife, I think, to say nothing, it was all right.

26,121. It was Mr. Parnell's wish that you should come here to say what you have said?—Yes.

26,122. Mr. Parnell has instigated you to commit perjury, and you have come here to carry out his behests?—Something like that.

26,123. (Mr. Bere.) At the last election where were you? At the "Seymour" hotel?—I went inside the door, and I came away.

26,124. In 1863 were you there?—Yes.

26,125. Was it in 1863 that you were there all night?—Yes.

26,126. Were you with George Mitchell and Sloggett?—Sloggett; I do not know about Mitchell.

26,127. How many bottles of wine did you drink?—I do not know.

26,128. How many grogs?—A good many grogs.

26,129. Were you rather sick, and wanted to go out?—Yes.

26,130. And they would not let you go out?—No.

26,131. Did you ask?—Yes.

26,132. And they would not let you go?—I do not know.

26,133. Steady! Who would not let you go?—I was too tipsy to go.

26,134. And that lasted till the next morning?—Yes.

26,135. And you voted tipsy?—I got a little fresh by that time, I dare say.

W. Byne.

WILLIAM BYNE recalled and further examined.

26,136. (Mr. Bere.) Did you see Thomas Jacob Searle this day week?—I might have spoken to him.

26,137. I will have no "mights;" did you see Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle this day week, and have a conversation with him?—I saw him almost every day.

26,138. Did you not have a talk with him about the evidence you were going to give?—No.

26,139. At his back door?—I have not been to his back door.

26,140. At your back door?—It may have been.

26,141. Did he say anything to you about the matters that had passed between you?—Nothing whatever, nothing happened between me and him.

26,142. About the money he gave you?—He never gave me any.

26,143. Nor promised any?—No.

26,144. Who gave it to you then?—Mr. George Heath gave me 80*l.*

26,145. Who gave it to you on Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle's side?—I had none.

26,146. Did you not know of any coming from him?—No.

26,147. Has Thomas Jacob Searle said nothing about the evidence that you were going to give to day?—No, nor anyone else.

26,148. Did you see Mr. Blank near at the time?—No.

26,149. Do you remember talking to Mr. Searle?—I might speak to him every day.

26,150. Do you remember talking to Mr. Searle, and Mr. Blank passing?—I do not; I do not remember seeing Mr. Blank pass.

26,151. At Mr. Condy's back door?—I do not think I spoke to him there.

26,152. Do you remember seeing Mr. Searle and Mr. Blank there?—I do not remember such a thing.

. Crawford.

SARAH CRAWFORD sworn and examined.

26,153. Are you the wife of Henry Crawford?—I am.

26,154. In 1863 did you get some money from Mr. Parnell or Mr. Nichols?—I did not get it from them.

26,155. Who did you get it from?—My brother.

26,156. William Nichols?—No, Samuel Nichols.

26,157. Is he living near Kingsbridge now?—Yes.

26,158. Where was he living then?—At the same place.

26,159. He got a sum of money for you?—Yes.

26,160. How much?—I believe 60*l.*

26,161. You know it was?—I was very ill, and did not see it at the time, but I understood it was 60*l.*

26,162. Was Grace Tucker nursing you then?—Yes.

26,163. Did you show her the money?—No.

26,164. Did you talk to her about it?—No, I remember her talking about it, about her getting something which made her tipsy, and I heard her say then, but she did not see the money.

26,165. Was that all that passed with regard to the last election?—Yes.

26,166. How did Mrs. Tucker know about the 60*l.*?—I do not know that she did know.

26,167. But she talked about it?—She says this morning that she never said so, she strongly denies it, and I know that she did not see it.

26,168. Had you not talked to her about it?—I did not

26,169. Are you quite sure you were not so ill, that you did not know what you said?—I am sure I did not tell her.

26,170. Where did you get the money that you got from Nichols?—He brought it to me.

26,171. In your house?—Yes.

26,172. Were you in bed?—Yes.

26,173. What was it in?—To the best of my recollection in a pocket-handkerchief.

26,174. Gold or notes?—Gold.

26,175. What did you do with it?—Kept it a length of time.

26,176. Where did you put it? Under the pillow?—I do not think I did.

26,177. Did you get out of bed to put it away?—I think I put it into the box.

26,178. Did you get out of bed?—Yes.

26,179. Was not Grace Tucker nursing you then?—She was.

26,180. Would not she know of an invalid getting out of bed and putting something into a box? Was she constantly in the room?—I cannot say.

26,181. You would have taken care not to put it away in her presence?—Yes.

26,182. Was she outside the door?—I cannot answer.

26,183. Was the box locked?—Yes.

26,184. Where was the key?—I do not know.

26,185. Under the pillow?—I do not know.

26,196. Was it about the room?—I do not know.

26,187. Did you give it to your husband?—I did not, most likely.

26,188. Do not you give him all the money?—Not all, not my own affairs.

26,189. Is your business different from your husband's?—Yes.

26,190. Do you buy the flies?—Yes.

26,191. Do you buy the carriages?—I do not know, but I know the bargains.

26,192. Do you say what carriages are to be had?—Yes.

26,193. Did you put this to your account or your husband's?—What is his is mine, I suppose.

26,194. I dare say there is an account that he does not know anything about?—I dare say there is, that I do not tell him of.

26,195. And he does not tell you of?—I am sure I do not know. I never asked him.

26,196. Did you see Mr. Parnell last night?—Yes.

26,197. What did you go and see him about?—I went to ask him what he had to say in the affair; whether he had been unfolding the business or not.

26,198. Did you find he had not unfolded the business?—He told me that he could not recollect, and he asked me to refresh his memory.

26,199. And did you refresh his memory?—I did.

26,200. What did you tell him?—I told him what took place.

26,201. Did he remember better then?—He said, "I really cannot tell."

26,202. Did not he say it would be all right?—He did not say it would be all right. He said, "I "really cannot tell, but if the thing took place, and "of course if it is brought to my memory I must say "so."

26,203. Had you previously told your husband not to say anything about it?—Not further than this; I said this, "It is of course a great disgrace on the "part of Mr. Parnell and on the party, and I have "endeavoured to cloak it, but if I could not I could "not."

26,204. Had not Mr. Parnell told you not to say anything about it?—He did not.

26,205. Are you sure about it?—I am quite sure.

26,206. You went to Parnell to find out whether he told or not?—Yes.

26,207. Whether he intended to tell?—No doubt. I should have told if he had not.

26,208. You think you would?—Yes.

26,209. When did you make up your mind to that?—I made up my mind that as soon as I was called into court I would tell the truth.

26,210. Was the reason of your coming to tell the truth because your husband was kept here from day to day?—Certainly not.

26,211. (Mr. Longe.) You went to Mr. Parnell to know whether anyone else could tell of this story but you or your husband, and whether anyone would be likely to let it out?—I asked what he had said.

26,212. You wanted to know whether he would tell the story; if so, your husband might?—If he had said he gave us 30*l.* he would tell a falsehood. He says really he cannot remember.

26,213. (Mr. Coleridge.) He remembers your having something, but he does not remember how much?—That is it. That is what he tells me.

26,214. Who told you first of all that the money came from Parnell?—I cannot say, I must trust that to my brother. He gave me the information of the place he had been to.

26,215. Tell us the information that your brother gave you?—He said he had gone downstairs.

26,216. Where?—Into my kitchen, and had been directed where to go.

26,217. Where?—Just in the arch. He is a stranger in the place, and by the directions he gave I concluded it was Mr. Parnell. I have been informed that Parnell was mixed up in the matter.

26,218. From the directions that he gave you you thought that it was Parnell?—Yes.

26,219. Did he describe the gentleman to you?—Yes.

26,220. That description tallied with Mr. Parnell?—Yes.

26,221. You have no doubt it came from Parnell?—No doubt.

26,222. At the time that you got the 60*l.* had you got very few sovereigns in your house?—Very few. Let me see——

26,223. 8*l.* your husband says?—There was more money than that.

26,224. He only knew of 8*l.*?—I cannot say, but there was more.

26,225. You kept two accounts, one a private account, a little store of your own; you did not tell me about that?—I always keep that.

26,226. That does not go into the fly business?—I keep it, I ask for it, and claim it.

26,227. You did not give him that money to buy the new fly and the horse?—I did not; the little store that I had.

26,228. What was done with it?—It was to keep me through Christmas and sickness.

26,229. Anything that he had to add to the 60*l.* for the fly and horse must have come from somewhere else?—Certainly.

26,230. (Mr. Bere.) Did not you go yesterday to Mr. Parnell and try to find out whether he had told anything?—I did.

26,231. Did he tell you not to say anything?—No. He says, "I really cannot recollect, but" he says, "if it comes to my memory it must come out."

26,232. What did he say you were to do?—He did not say whether I was or not to, I do not recollect that he did, to the best of my recollection.

26,233. Take care.—I told him that I should tell.

26,234. Tell what?—That I should tell you when I was summoned here.

26,235. (Mr. Coleridge.) Why did you not tell your husband to tell the truth?—He can do as he pleases.

26,236. He consulted you. He does not do much without your help. Did you tell him this morning that he had better come and tell the truth?—Yes.

26,237. Was it this morning that you told him?—I am confident, and I think I did last night.

26,238. Yesterday morning you told him to come here and keep it back?—I did not.

26,239. When did you tell him not to tell the truth?—I never told him.

26,240. Not in so many words, but to try and keep it back?—I did not. I do not think he wanted to expose Mr. Parnell and the party. I think Mr. Parnell is the only man to blame.

26,241. He came here to try and shield Mr. Parnell?—No doubt, as much as himself.

26,242. Did you never tell him to come and shield Mr. Parnell?—Last night.

24,243. What did you tell him when he first came here?—Nothing. I said do as you are minded.

26,244. Did he tell you he would not tell the truth—He did not.

26,245. What did he say?—I do not remember his answers.

26,246. When he told you that he was made to sit here because he would not tell the truth what did you say?—I said, "If you are obliged to tell, tell," but I would not have told if a secret was confided to me.

26,247. You thought it was honour towards Mr. Parnell not to tell?—A great deal.

26,248. You did not mind yourself or your husband getting the 60*l.*, but you did not want Mr. Parnell mixed up?—No.

26,249. (Mr. Bere.) You are in an awkward situation both you and your husband, and the end of it may be that both of you may stand at the court at Exeter on trial for perjury; take care. Did you not go to Parnell, and did not he tell you that you were not to say anything about it?—His words to me were, "Mrs. "Crawford, I cannot recollect." I said, "Mr. Parnell, "you know what took place." He says, "I really

TWENTIETH DAY.

S. Crawford.

" cannot remember." Then, sir, I brought things to his mind, and he says, " Well, I think I do recollect " something of it." " Well," I says, " Mr. Parnell, " remember, when I am called to court I shall tell the " truth of it, and you must take the consequences."

26,250. Did not he then say, " You had better hold " back "?—No, he did not. He said, " If it must come " out, it must come out."

26,251. You have been giving an account to this gentleman (pointing to Mr. Bowen), is that the same that you have given me?—Yes, I believe that is it. Really I would tell you if I did recollect.

26,252. Did not you go and tell your husband that Mr. Parnell wished him not to say anything about it?—I do not know.

26,253. Take care,—I rather think I did.

26,254. (Mr. Longe.) Did Mr. Parnell know that your husband was keeping it a secret?—Of course, when he gave it him.

26,255. Did not he say that was all right?—I do not think those were his words, those were not exactly his words.

25,256. (Mr. Coleridge.) But to that effect?—No doubt about it.

26,657. (Mr. Bere.) You must stay at present.

G. Griffis.

GEORGE GRIFFIS recalled and examined.

26,258. (Mr. Bere.) What did your wife get for you in 1865?—50*l.*

26,259. Where did she get that from?—The " Stars."

26,260. From Mr. Heath?—I believe so.

26,261. What did you get after the election?—30*l.*

26,262. Whom did you get it from?—Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle.

26,263. Where did you get it?—He brought it to my house.

26,263*. Gave it to your wife?—Yes.

26,264. And she told you at the time?—Yes.

26,265. Have you had any talk with Mr. Searle as to what you should say?—I saw him yesterday morning.

26,266. What did he say?—He said, " I wish I had " seen you before you entered the court. I should " like for you all to go and tell the truth."

26,267. Had you seen him before about it?—Never.

26,268. Who was it told you to go and tell those falsehoods?—Part of my own forgetfulness, and part of it I did not like to divulge the secret.

26,269. Did not Mr. Searle tell you to keep it secret?—No.

26,270. Did not he tell you when he gave you the money?—No. I did not expect that. It was about a fortnight after the election.

26,271. Did not you expect to have it at all?—No.

26,272. What was it in, gold or silver?—Gold, I think.

26,273. Why did you tell us that you had money from the Conservatives, and conceal that you had money from the Liberals?—I do not know why.

26,274. Why did not you? What is the reason you told a falsehood about it?—I am very sorry I did so; that I had not told to the best of my knowledge.

26,275. You told us the truth about Mr. Heath paying you 50*l.* to your wife, why not tell us about the 30*l.* to your wife?—I do not know.

26,276. Have not you been told by somebody since the Commission was here, not to say anything about what happened on the Liberal side, and to tell all you could on the Conservative side?—I am sure I have not.

26,277. What have you been told?—Nothing more than I have said.

26,278. What inn do you go to in the evening to have a glass?—The " Plymouth " inn.

26,279. What particular friends have you?—No particular friends.

26,280. Those who come in to see you, are they most of them Liberals?—Mixed together.

26,281. Have you not had a talk with someone on the Liberal side about this, saying, " They have " found out a great deal on the Conservative side, " but they should not find out anything on the " Liberal side"?—No.

26,282. Quite sure?—Yes.

W. Reeve.

WILLIAM REEVE sworn and examined.

26,283. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—Nearly opposite the market.

26,284. How long have you had a vote for Totnes? In 1863 I think was the first.

26,285. Was that the time that you were offered 100*l.* by Richard Bowden?—No.

26,286. When were you offered that?—That was in 1865.

26,287. What did you get in 1863?—40*l.*

26,288. Who from?—John Heath, junior.

26,289. Where did he give it to you?—The " Seven Stars;" I think it was in the passage.

26,290. Or in the little room?—No, not in the room.

26,291. Is that all you got in 1863?—Yes.

26,292. Whom did you vote for?—Mr. Dent.

26,293. Did any of the Liberal party come to you then?—I had no offer whatever.

26,294. Not in 1863?—Not in 1863.

26,295. What did you get in 1865 from the Liberals?—I got nothing.

26,296. Yes you did?—Not directly; I received nothing.

26,297. Did your wife receive it?—Well, I do not know.

26,298. You had better take care what you are doing.—I cannot swear that she received it from anyone.

26,299. Did you get 60*l.* somehow or other after the election?—Yes.

26,300. And did Robert Lorimer bring it to your house?—No.

26,301. Who did?—I do not know.

26,302. You had better tell us all you know about it?—I am really telling. He did not bring 60*l.* to my house.

26,303. Who did bring 60*l.*?—No one, not no stranger; if brought to the house at all my missis brought it there.

26,304. Where did she get it from?—Well, I believe from Mr. Lorimer, not from Mr. Lorimer, but from Mr. Lorimer's house; I do not know who she received it from.

26,305. Was it 60*l.*?—Yes, 60*l.*, three 20*l.* notes. I did not receive them.

26,306. What become of them. Did your wife have them?—Yes.

26,307. Is your wife at home?—Yes, she is recently confined.

26,308. How long ago?—Nearly a fortnight.

26,309. What did you do with that money?—I did not receive it.

26,310. What did your wife do with it?—Carried it to my father's.

26,311. What are you?—I am a joiner.

26,312. Does your wife keep the shop?—Yes.

26,313. Was your shop shut up to the 20th January 1865?—About that time. It would be January 1866; I am not positive as to the month that it was reopened in. I have no doubt it was about that time.

26,314. How long had it been shut before?—Well, I had been working at Dartmouth about four months; it was shut in the meantime, the missis was ill.

26,315. Shut all that time?—Not all that time.

26,316. Did you buy a quantity of fresh goods with that 60*l.*?—The shop was being shut; after I left Dartmouth I opened the shop in a different way. I made furniture in overtime and some things I bought at sales.

26,317. At the time you got this money paid you did not you owe Mr. Samuel Huxham a large bill?—Yes.

26,318. And did not you pay him after the election?—1863.

26,319. 1865?—I cannot recollect.

26,320. Just tell us; did not you pay Samuel Huxham a large bill just after the election of 1865, just after you got this money?—1863 I did; that was 1863.

26,321. Did not you do it in 1865 too?—I do not recollect 1865.

26,322. Did you owe any money to Mr. Huxham in 1865?—Yes.

26,323. Have you paid him?—Not all.

26,324. How much did you owe him at the end of July 1865?—I cannot tell you the amount.

26,325. Was it 20*l.* or 50*l.*?—It was not 50*l.*

26,326. Was it between 20*l.* and 50*l.*?—I do not know whether it was as much as 20*l.* or not, near about that.

26,327. How much have you paid of it. Did not you go to pay, or your wife, Mr. Huxham 20*l.* notes in payment of his bill?—No.

26,328. Then what did she do with the 20*l.* notes?—Gave them to my father.

26,329. What is your father's name?—Samuel Reeve.

26,330. What did she give it to your father for?—To take care of it, I suppose.

26,331. Could not you or she take care of it yourselves?—Yes, possibly.

26,332. When did your father give it back to you?—In little and little.

26,333. Have you ever sent any other money in your life to your father except that to take care of? What made you send the money over to your father. Come, it was not to take care of it?—I had nothing to do with receiving the money. She carried it there and told me of it afterwards.

26,334. Carried it where?—To my father's.

26,335. Who told her to carry it there?—I think it was a mutual agreement between her and myself.

26,336. Did she tell you she was going to get some money from Mr. Lorimer?—She told me she had got some after the election.

26,337. Had she gone and taken it over to your father's at that time?—Yes; it was the day of the election.

26,338. Did you know she was going to get any money before she did get it from Mr. Lorimer?—I expected so.

26,339. What made you expect it?—I voted in the morning, that was in 1865, and I did know, I expected some from the intimation that I had from Mr. Lorimer.

26,340. Had Mr. Lorimer given you any intimation that you would be paid some money before that?—He asked me to trust him. He said, "Will you vote?" I said, "Yes, certainly, I intend to vote for Mr. Pender "and Mr. Seymour;" and I said I would trust to him.

26,341. When did he say that to you?—I do not know whether it was the night before the election.

26,342. Did he say how much he could get for you?—No.

26,343. Did you mention how much you wanted?—No.

26,344. You had had money from the Conservatives in 1863; why did you not something in 1865 too?—Because I was differently situated.

26,345. What was the difference in your situation?—I was working for my father in 1865, and in 1863 I was working at strangers.

26,346. Is your father a strong Liberal?—Yes.

26,347. You were working for him in 1865?—Yes.

26,348. Was it because your father was a strong Liberal that your wife went and took the notes there to him?—I do not know that.

26,349. Did you tell your father you were going to have some money from Mr. Lorimer?—I am not certain I should say that.

26,350. Did you go and tell him, as your father, that you trusted to get some money from Mr. Lorimer?—I do not recollect it.

26,351. What did your father get?—I am sure I do not know.

26,352. Have not you heard him say what he got?—No.

26,353. Is he alive?—Yes.

26,354. Do not you know that he got money from Mr. Lorimer too?—No.

26,355. Did not he tell you so?—No.

26,356. Did you never hear it from Mr. Lorimer or anybody else?—Never in my life; I never heard anyone say he had any.

26,357. When Mr. Lorimer told you you might get some money, did you tell your wife that she had better take it to your father's?—She told me so, and I said, "Very well."

26,358. Did she give you any reason?—No.

26,359. None at all?—Not many words passed about it.

26,360. Did not your father give you some advice as to what you were to say before the committee of the House of Commons?—No.

26,361. Did not he say that you had better say the money did not come from Mr. Lorimer?—No.

26,362. Nor about the three 20*l.* notes?—No.

26,363. What did he say to you about the evidence before the committee?—I do not recollect ever touching the subject.

26,364. When were you served with the warrant to go up?—Saturday as we went up on Monday.

26,365. The Conservatives served you?—Yes.

26,366. Mr. Edmonds' clerk?—Yes.

26,367. Did not you go over to your father when you got your warrant served?—No.

26,368. Were you working for him?—Yes, I was working for him.

26,369. Were you living in his house?—No.

26,370. Where?—He is living in the higher part of the town; I am living below the arch.

26,371. Did you happen to see him in the course of the day?—The first summons was before.

26,372. Did you see him between the first and second?—Yes, I told him I was summoned.

26,373. What did he say?—He did not say anything particular, any more than he said, "If you are "summoned you will have to go."

26,374. Did he say what you were to say when you got there?—No, I kept my own counsel.

26,375. When your wife took the three 20*l.* notes down to your father do you imagine that he did not know how she got the three 20*l.* notes?—Yes, he pretty well knew.

26,376. Did not your wife tell him?—I was not there. I do not know what she told him.

26,377. Had not your father been to you before the election of 1865 to ask you about your vote?—Not to ask me about my vote, because he knew I would vote for Pender and Seymour, which I had given him to understand before I went.

26,378. Did not your father tell you how to vote, and tell you he would go and see Mr. Lorimer and make it all right?—No.

26,379. Or something of that sort?—No, he never mentioned Lorimer's name; I do not recollect it.

26,380. Well, that he would go to the "Seymour" and tell the Seymour party"?—I was working at Dartmouth.

26,381. Did not your father tell you he could get something for your vote?—No.

TWENTIETH DAY.

W. Reeve.

15 Sept. 1866.

26,382. What ?—I do not recollect anything.

26,383. You had had some money for the Conservatives in 1863 ?—Yes.

26,384. You were going to vote because you were working for your father for the Liberals in 1865. Did not you think you ought to have something for turning round ?—I rather expected I should have.

26,385. Did not you talk to your father about what you expected ?—I told him that Mr. Bowden had been down to me.

26,386. And had offered you 100*l.* ?—Father came down to Dartmouth, and I rode home with him, but he never said nothing about money nor Mr. Lorimer.

26,387. That was after your father had been down to Dartmouth ?—Yes.

26,388. And did you tell your father that Mr. Bowden had been down to Dartmouth and offered you 100*l.* ?—I do not recollect the amount exactly.

26,389. Well, money to vote for the Conservatives ?—Yes.

26,390. And did not your father say, "I will see "what can be done on the other side ?"—I wrote to him, not told him ; he was here and I at Dartmouth.

26,391. What did you say to him ?—That they was come to try to get me.

26,392. The Conservatives were ?—Yes.

26,393. Did you say in that letter that you must have something from the Liberals ?—No, I do not recollect it.

26,394. Did not you say you must have something from the Liberals ?—No, I never had no transaction about money with father.

26,395. Did not you tell your father that he must see whether he could not get something for you from the Liberals ?—No, I never asked him a question.

26,396. You wrote this letter for your father ; did your father come down for you to Dartmouth ?—Yes, I do not know that he came down on purpose.

26,397. Did he drive down ?—He rode down.

26,398. Did you go back with him ?—Yes.

26,399. Was your work down at Dartmouth ?—Yes.

26,400. What made you go back with your father ?—His persuasion.

26,401. How did he persuade you ?—He was afraid the other party would take me.

26,402. Did not he say when he persuaded you that he would see what could be done for you on the other side ?—No.

26,403. Take care.—I will take care.

26,404. Did not your father tell you he thought he could get you some money on the other side, perhaps he did not use the word "money ;" did not he say "Oh, we will manage that for you" ?—No, he did not ; on my oath he did not ; not then or any other time to the best of my recollection.

26,405. You say you trusted you would get something, how came you to trust to getting something. Who had been with you ?—Mr. Lorimer.

26,406. When did he first speak to you about it ?—The night before the election.

26,407. Then it was not your father, but Mr. Lorimer told you this ?—Yes.

26,408. Your father can tell us what became of the 20*l.* notes ?—Yes.

26,409. What time did you vote in 1865 ?—I do not know the exact time ; it was always before the money was fetched.

26,410. Pretty early was not it ?—Yes, between 9 and 10 I should think.

26,411. What time was the money fetched ?—Towards the evening.

26,412. Did you or Mr. Lorimer tell your wife to go down and fetch the money ?—I did not tell her to go for the money.

26,413. What did you tell her ?—I told her that Mr. Lorimer wanted to see her, or someone in there wanted to see her.

26,414. Where ?—Into Mr. Lorimer's.

26,415. How did you learn that Mr. Lorimer wanted to see your wife ?—Decidedly, he said he would remember me.

26,416. He did not say he would remember your wife ; why did you send your wife and not go yourself ?—I do not know ; no particular reason that I know of.

26,417. Did you think the money was better in her hands ? Had you agreed that she should go for it, you and your wife together ?—I was going away down the street, and I told her she might as well go in.

26,418. How far does Lorimer live from you ?—Only a door or two.

26,419. Now has Mr. Lorimer seen you since you have been down here ?—Yes, I dare say.

26,420. Has he talked to you about this little transaction between you and him ?—No, I never stopped to say as much.

26,421. Has he not talked to you about it ?—No.

26,422. Nor to your house and talked to your wife ?—No.

26,423. Did not he come a fortnight ago, or Mrs. Lorimer ?—Not to my knowledge.

26,424. Did not your wife tell you so ?—No.

26,425. Did not some of the neighbours come in and ask you as you are going away ?—No, I do not believe it, because a fortnight ago the missis was upstairs, nor not a month ago, nor two months between my missis, Mr. Lorimer, Mrs. Lorimer, or myself, nor yet since the election.

26,426. About half-past 11 on the morning of the election did you go into Thomas Welch's yard ?—I do not recollect.

26,427. Did you talk to Thomas Welch that morning ?—I do not know. Of course our houses joined each other and we frequently talked together.

26,428. You have given some evidence before ?—Yes.

26,429. Did you know a man called Samuel Saunders ?—Yes, that is a neighbour of mine.

26,430. Did not you come to Mr. Welch's yard and ask whether Sam had made it all right. You know Samuel Saunders has been here and sworn to it ?—I could not swear that he did.

26,431. Could you swear that he did not ?—I think I could. I do not recollect it. I have not the least recollection.

26,432. Did not you say what a fool he had been. "I am all right, but I have not got as much as I was "promised" ?—I believe that is a great untruth.

26,433. That you did not say that ?—That I did not say that.

26,434. Did you see Welch the next morning ?—I do not suppose that there was hardly a day passed but what I saw him.

26,435. Did you say the next morning, "I am very "sorry" ?—I do not believe there is any truth in it.

26,436. Will you swear you did not ?—I will not swear I did not, but I do not believe there is a particle of truth in it.

26,437. Did you go down in time during the last election to the Seymour ?—Yes.

26,438. When did you go down there ?—The night before the election.

26,439, Was that where you saw Mr. Lorimer ?—No, we went down the street together.

26,440. Did you go into the "Seymour" together ?—Yes.

26,441. Did you go into the big room ?—Yes.

26,442. Did you have a talk there about what money you could have ?—No, no conversation at all there.

26,443. Who was there besides you ?—A lot of people, and I had a drop of something to drink there.

26,444. Did Mr. Lorimer tell your wife who the money came from ?—I do not know.

26,445. Did she tell you from whom she got it ?—She never told me, and I never knew.

26,446. Did Mr. Lorimer tell you from whom the money was coming ?—No.

26,447. Did not mention a name ?—Not as regards money.

26,448. What name did he mention ?—He asked me if I intended to vote for Pender and Seymour, and he said he was a friend of Mr. Pender's, and I told him that I did intend to vote for Pender and Seymour, although they had not canvassed me. I was at Dartmouth.

26,449. Did he say he could get money from Mr. Pender ?—No ; he said he would see if he could get something for me, and I trusted to Mr. Lorimer. I voted and trusted to what I could get afterwards.

26,450. (Mr. Coleridge.) You knew when you you voted you would get something ?—No, because he did not promise.

26,451. But you felt convinced you would ?—Yes, I should have been disappointed if I had not.

WILLIAM PENGILLEY sworn and examined.

26,452. (Mr. Bere.) What are you ?—A bootmaker.

26,453. Have you a cousin called George Pengilley ?—A nephew.

26,454. When did you first have a vote for Totnes ?—In 1863.

26,455. Whom did you vote for then ?—Mr. Dent.

26,456. What did you get for that ?—60*l.*

26,457. Who from ?—20*l.* from John Heath, junior, and 40*l.* from Mr. Heath, senior.

26,458. How came you to get the money in two sums ?—Because after I had got 20*l.* I heard that others were getting 100*l.*, and as I voted against my principles I applied for more.

26,459. Had you voted in the municipal elections for the Liberals ?—Yes.

26,460. Who first induced you to vote against your principles at that election ?—A man called Manning, the churchwarden.

26,461. Nicholas Manning ?—Yes.

26,462. Did he come and offer you the 20*l.* ?—No.

26,463. How was it ?—He came to me one evening in the shop, and said he had just stopped at the "Stars," and seen a gentleman, and there was a man come down worth millions of money, and there was not a bit of harm in it, and he was going to pay every man for voting for him. I said I would give it my consideration, and afterwards I saw Mr. Edmonds he called on me, the solicitor ; he said if I would vote on their side he would see that I was rewarded ; and then John Heath, junior, called on me and gave me 20*l.*

26,464. Did you go down to his house ?—Yes.

26,465. And did you get the 20*l.* ?—Yes.

26,466. Gold or notes ?—Gold.

26,467. Where ?—In his house.

26,468. What room ?—In his office, I think.

26,469. The left hand side ?—No, across the Plains I mean.

26,470. He gave it you there ?—Yes.

26,471. Did you go and vote for Dent ?—I did.

26,472. And after you had voted for Mr. Dent you heard that others had had their hundreds ?—No, before the election I heard others were receiving 80*l.* and 100*l.*, and as I was going to vote against my principles I applied to Mr. Heath, and I told him I could get more on the other side.

26,473. Who told you you could get more on the other side ?—It was offered by Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore through a friend.

26,474. Who was the friend ?—A gentleman called Martin of Plymouth.

26,475. What christian name and address ?—Mr. Henry Martin, 33, York Street, Plymouth.

26,476. How much had Mr. Martin offered you ?—He had not offered me anything ; it was through him ; he came here on a visit.

26,477. Whom did he come to visit ?—He came here to visit me.

26,478. He was staying with you ?—Yes, he came up for the election.

26,479. Was he a voter ?—No, but he was a native of Totnes.

26,480. He was interested in the election ?—Yes.

26,481. He was an acquaintance of Mr. Michelmore's ?—Well, he was a strong Liberal, and wanted to persuade me not to vote for Mr. Dent and Mr. Seymour.

26,482. How much did Mr. Michelmore offer you through him ?—I do not know how much he offered, he said he could get me more from Mr. Michelmore.

26,483. More than 20*l.* ?—Yes.

26,484. On that you went down to John Heath, senior, and told him this, and he gave you the 40*l.* ?—Yes.

26,485. Did you go back and tell your friend, Mr. Martin, you had got it ?—Yes, he knew I was voting against my principles.

26,486. Did he think you could get more money from the Liberals than 60*l.* ?—I thought he could.

26,487. Did he tell you he could ?—To the best of my recollection he told me he could get 80*l.* for me.

26,488. Is that all that passed about the 1863 election ?—That is all.

26,489. What happened about 1865 ? Were you back to your principles then ?—I did after all I am very glad to say.

26,490. Had George Pengilley anything to do with your going back ?—Yes, he had.

26,491. Had a 50*l.* note anything to do with it ?—He brought it to my house, but I refused to take it.

26,492. You signed the requisition, did you ?—Yes, I did unwillingly.

26,493. Who asked you ?—A man called Harris brought it to me one evening in a great hurry and asked me to sign the requisition, I think for Mr. Macleay ; I refused to sign it, I said I had made up my mind never to do such a thing. He said he wanted to get a certain number of names in order to get a man to come down to contest the borough, and he plagued me to do it, and I did, but I was very sorry for it immediately afterwards.

26,494. Did he say why he wanted a man to contest the borough ?—No money would be spent unless he got a man down. After being once on the side I was willing to stay with them, but I am very sorry for it.

26,495. What did you get at the last election ?—I received 50*l.*

26,496. From whom ?—From Mr. George Pengilley.

26,497. Did you give it back again ?—No, the 45*l.* was in my house.

26,498. I asked whether George Pengilley had not something to do with it, and whether the 50*l.* had not something to do with it, and you said you gave it back again ?—No, I did not say that.

26,499. You did not take the note that time ?—No.

26,500. Did he take the note down to the bank and bring you back 50 sovereigns ?—He could not do it in time ; I voted at half-past 9.

26,501. What did he do ?—He got me gold.

26,502. Then Screach brought you the 45*l.* ?—He brought it to me two days before.

26,503. Did he take a receipt ?—Yes.

26,504. What did you do with the 45*l.* ?—I gave it to Mr. Screach.

26,505. Were you examined by Mr. Tucker at the "Seymour" hotel about the evidence you were going to give before the committee ?—Yes.

26,506. You had been served with a warrant on behalf of the Conservatives, had you not ?—Yes, I had.

26,507. Did Mr. Tucker read it over to you and ask you questions, and did you answer them ?—Yes.

26,508. Did Mr. Tucker write down the answers

TWENTIETH DAY.

W. Pengilley.

15 Sept. 1866.

and afterwards read over what you had said to him?—Not to my knowledge; I do not believe he did.

26,509. Did you sign it?—I did.

26,510. Just look here, is that your handwriting (showing a paper to the witness)?—Yes.

26,511. Now look at that, "I am a voter for Totnes; "I voted for Pender and Seymour; I had no money; "I had no promise of money or any bribe whatever, "but voted according to my principles for the two "Liberals conscientiously;" who told you to say that?—No one.

26,512. You went down and told Mr. Tucker a deliberate lie, and you meant to perjure yourself afterwards?—No, I did not intend to perjure myself.

26,513. This is the evidence you were going to give before the Committee of the House of Commons?—I should not have given that evidence; if I had I should have told them as I have now told you.

26,514. You think it makes a difference whether you are on your oath or not on your oath?—Yes, I do.

26,515. Do you mean to say you have seen nobody at all about what you were going to say before the committee?—No one asked me.

26,516. Not Mr. George Pengilley?—Nobody at all.

26,517. I suppose you thought nobody knew about this business of Pengilley's?—What business.

26,518. This business of the 50*l.* note; that nobody knew about it?—I do not know what you mean.

26,519. Did you think it was known that George Pengilley had given you 50*l.* for your vote?—Yes; it was rumoured about the town.

26,520. What made you conceal it from Mr. Tucker if it was rumoured about the town?—I was not going to tell him all I knew.

26,521. He was examining you not for the Conservatives, but for the Liberals, why did you not wish to tell him all the truth?—I did not wish to tell him.

26,522. Why did you tell him anything at all?—He asked what I knew directly; I said nothing.

26,523. Were you examined before the Committee?—No.

26,524. What was the reason you were to be examined as a witness before the Committee at all, was it not to deny that you had had any money from George Pengilley?—I suppose as I returned the 45*l.* they considered I must have had money on the other side.

26,525. Was not the purpose for which you were to be called for Mr. Pender, before the Committee, that you had said that you had had this 50*l.* note from Pengilley?—I do not understand you.

26,526. It was rumoured about the town that you had 50*l.* from George Pengilley; was not the purpose for which you were subpœnaed as a witness to confirm that rumour?—Yes.

26,527. Why, did you not tell Mr. Tucker that you had had nothing to do with it?—I wished to keep it a secret till I was obliged to give it up, and if I was put on my oath I should have told them as I have now told you.

26,528. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you not know that if you had done that you would have been injuring your own party?—I should mind myself first.

26,529. Would it not have been the better thing to have told Mr. Tucker the truth, when he could have used his own discrimination about whether he would call you or not?—I was sent by the Conservative party.

26,530. But Mr. Tucker wanted to know on behalf of your own party what you knew about the matter?—I told him nothing.

26,531. (Mr. Bere.) You told him you had been bribed by Screach?—Yes.

26,531a. What was it made you conceal a bribe from the Liberals?—I did not care about telling him of it.

26,532. Are you certain nobody spoke to you about holding your tongue?—Not a single person.

26,533. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did not think it worth while that Mr. Tucker should be fore-armed, and so forewarned?—I thought if I could keep it a secret I would do so.

26,534. You knew he was engaged by the party, and whatever he told you would be kept secret unless it was used in the Committee?—The party had gone to London, and would have known nothing about it.

26,535. You objected to Mr. Tucker knowing about it?—I would not let any one know about it.

J. Crocker.

JOHN CROCKER sworn and examined.

26,536. (Mr. Bere.) Were you employed as a waiter at the "Seymour" hotel on the Saturday before the election of 1865?—No.

26,537. What is your name?—John Crocker.

26,538. You are the ostler at the "Seven Stars?" Yes.

26,539. There is another John Crocker, a waiter?—Yes.

26,540. How long have you had a vote?—1863.

26,541. You voted for Dent?—Yes.

26,542. What made you vote for Dent?—I had no other reason than that I belonged to the Conservative party.

26,543. And to the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

26,544. Did you have any good reason for voting?—Never, nothing more than that I was getting my living from the Conservative party.

26,545. No money?—I think not.

26,546. Did you vote in 1865?—Yes.

26,547. How did you vote then?—Captain Pim and Colonel Dawkins.

26,548. What did you get for that?—Nothing. I have not seen the colour of it.

26,549. Were you employed as ostler?—Yes.

26,550. Did you drive a little?—I drove Colonel Dawkins over to Broomborough.

26,551. What did you get for that?—I never got anything.

26,552. How long have you been the ostler?—Ten years.

26,553. Did you keep an inn on your own account, or a tap?—I kept the tap.

26,554. Are people entertained at election times at the tap pretty freely, at the "Seven Stars"?—No, not but once.

26,555. When was that?—I think the town council election.

26,556. How long ago?—I cannot tell the date.

26,557. How long ago was it?—I have the bill; it is in court.

26,558. Was it in 1864; was it for Mr. Heath's expenses when a candidate?—I really cannot tell you.

26,559. How much did the tap bill amount to?—I cannot tell; the bill is in my own handwriting.

26,560. Was it 5*l.* or 6*l.*?—No, I should not think it was 3*l.*

26,561. You had your bill paid, whatever it was?—It was paid.

26,562. Is that all the money you had?—That is all the money I ever had.

26,563. Did you ever get anything for voting for the town council?—Never in my life.

26,564. You never had any money at all for voting for the borough or town council elections?—No.

26,565. Did you have any after?—Never; none.

26,566. Do you live in the house?—I rent the tap, and I rent a house opposite.

26,567. Who from?—The master.

26,568. At what rent?—5*l.* the dwelling house.

26,569. What is the tap?—It costs 30*l.* a year.

26,570. Is it a pretty good business, the tap at the "Seven Stars"?—Enough for a small place.

26,571. It is a sort of thing you would not like to be turned out of?—I should not like to be turned out of it exactly.

26,572. Do you supply everything in the house and the beer and spirits?—No, I have nothing to do with that.

26,573. Just come here, look at that [showing a bill to the witness].—That is my writing.

26,574. Just take it and explain what it means. Read the first item, what is the date of it?—November 2nd.

26,575. 5*l.* Master George?—Yes.

26,576. Skinner 1*l.* What did he get that for?—Voting.

26,577. Who told you to give him that?—Master George.

26,578. The next man is James Timewall 1*l.* Was that for voting for Mr. John Heath?—Yes.

26,579. The next 10*s.*?—James Holman.

26,580. Beer for men 9*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.*?—Yes.

26,581. Was it supplied by you in one day?—Yes, a day and night.

26,582. How many were there drinking?—I cannot say the number.

26,583. If you were to vote for the Liberals do you think you would be turned out of your house and the tap?—I cannot say I never had the question put to me. I consider that where a man gets his living that is the party he ought to support.

JOHN PEARCE sworn and examined.

J. Pearce.

26,584. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—A cowman.

26,585. How long have you been a voter?—I have been in Totnes 22 years.

26,586. Do you remember the first election at which you voted?—I know the gentlemen, but I cannot recollect the date.

26,587. The gentlemen's name you can recollect?—Yes.

26,588. Who were they?—Baldwin one, Lord Seymour and Ricardo I think.

26,589. That was in 1847?—I think so.

26,590. Did you get any money that time?—Not a farthing.

26,591. In 1852 there was Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Mills. At that election for whom did you vote?—I voted for the Liberals always.

26,592. Did you get any money?—I was promised they would do something for me. I did not ask and never thought of having it.

26,593. Who canvassed you, Mr. Mills?—Yes, Mr. Mills and Lord Seymour.

26,594. At that time you were promised something and did not ask for anything?—I did not ask for it, not to them.

26,595. Was it sent to you afterwards?—I never asked for anything, and I have come here to tell you the truth.

26,596. What did Mr. Parnell promise you?—He promised, something.

26,597. Did you get anything?—Some time afterwards I think two months he used to come to my dairy, and when he paid a bill he said there is a present for you, and the missus brought it home in an envelope, and that was 20*l.*

26,598. Were you tempted by the other side that time?—Not that time.

26,599. In 1857, the time of Mackenzie and Gregory. Do you remember that election?—The two Liberals Lord Gifford and Mr. Mills? I voted for them, and as soon as they came and asked me I promised to vote for the Liberals.

26,600. Did anybody promise you money that time?—No.

26,601. After the election was a present made to you?—No. Not that election to my knowledge. I had it twice, but I cannot say exactly whose it was.

26,602. You had it twice from Mr. Mills?—Yes.

26,603. Was one the election of 1859?—Yes, it may be.

26,604. You remember when Mr. Dunn was the Conservative candidate, was that one?—I do not know whether Mr. Harris sent down a man.

26,605. Sent a man to you?—Sent a man to my house?

26,606. Tell us about that?—I will tell you; I will give you the truth; I intended to say the truth; I am in the habit of telling the truth; I wanted to come and clear myself of what I have been accused. Mr. Harris sent down a man I think called Smith; he came to my house, and he said to my wife I have come here for 40*l.* with your husband to vote for Dunn.

26,607. That is the man that came to your house?—Yes, and he said I had got the 40*l.* to vote for Dunn. She said, I am certain he won't, he has never changed, and never will. He put his hand in his pocket and took out the money; she saw it was gold, but he didn't count it. She said, It is no good staying here, I will not take it. He said, I will come in the evening and see Mr. Pearce, and I will bring 10*l.* more, and that will make 50*l.*

26,608. That was the stranger said that?—Yes, and I said I will lock up my doors for I am an early man. He came down again in the evening, we had been in bed about an hour, and there was a knock at the door; my wife looked out and no doubt it was Mr. Harris and Mr. Smith, and that passed off. Then on the polling day about 6 o'clock or half-past 6 Mr. Sampson up under the walk sent to my house to have the 40*l.* left. Mr. Harris sent him down to have this 40*l.*

26,609. Harris sent Sampson down?—Yes for the 40*l.* I said there was no such in my house, and my wife said she didn't have it and wouldn't take it; so I said "Where is the man that brought it down?" "At the 'Stars.'" I said, "Then bring him with you" "and I will wait for an hour," but Sampson never came, nor the stranger never came, and I went and got a friend to go to Mr. Harris to hear what he had to say, and I said. How came you to send that man Sampson for the 40*l.*

26,610. Do you deny that the 40*l.* was left?—Quite so.

26,611. Was 25*l.* left?—Not a farthing.

26,612. You got 25*l.* from some one to vote for Dunn?—No.

26,613. Not a promise to vote for Dunn and 25*l.* left?—No.

26,614. You didn't vote for Dunn?—No; and no money left. I said to Sampson, That man never came up, and I went to Harris and asked what he meant by sending a man, and he denied it. Mr. Harris cannot deny it now, it was one of his dirty tricks.

26,615. In 1862 you voted for the Liberals?—Yes.

26,616. In 1859 you voted for Mills and Lord Gifford?—Yes.

26,617. What did you get for voting? What did Mr. Barnes give you?—Never had anything, never spoke to me.

26,618. Did he leave a parcel with you?—No.

26,619. Did you get anything for voting for the Liberals?—I had this what I say.

26,620. Do you remember who gave it to you the second time?—Mr. Parnell.

26,621. You had it twice from the same person?—Yes.

26,622. In 1862, Dent's election, Dent and Pender?—I had then, after it was all over, 20*l.*

26,623. Who gave you that?—Parnell.

26,624. That is the third time?—Yes, and no more.

26,625. Now on the Conservatives; were you promised anything for the Conservatives?—Not that I know of.

26,626. Were you tried again by the Conservatives?—I remember their coming down one evening.

26,627. Who was it?—Evens, I think; but we would have nothing to do with him, I had promised before.

TWENTIETH DAY.

J. Pearce.

25 Sept. 1866.

26,628. In 1863 there was another election ?—Who were there then ?

26,629. Alfred Seymour.—Yes.

26,630. How did you vote then?—I voted for Mr. Seymour.

26,631. Did you get anything ?—Not a farthing.

26,632. How was that ?—Didn't ask for it.

26,633. You had not asked before ?—I didn't look for it.

26,634. The last election of 1865 ?—Nothing then.

26,635. How did you vote?—For Pender and Seymour.

26,636. Who canvassed you the last time for the Liberals ?—Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour.

26,637. Didn't you see Mr. Parnell again ?—I can't remember seeing Mr. Parnell again.

26,638. Didn't you expect something again ?—I said I had.

26,639. But this last time ?—I never asked for anything, and never looked for it; Mr. Pender came and asked me, and I gave him my vote.

26,640. When you gave him your vote did not you expect to get the usual 20*l.* ?—No ; I had not got a farthing.

26,641. And nothing offered on the other side either ?—No.

26,642. To you or your wife ?—No; I got nothing.

D. Blight.

DAVID BLIGHT sworn and examined.

26,643. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you been a voter ?—16 years.

26,644. When did you first vote ?—For Mills and Gifford.

26,645. What did you get at that election ?—Nothing.

26,646. And nothing promised you ?—No.

26,647. What did you get at the election of 1859 ?—Nothing.

26,648. What in 1863 ?—Nothing.

26,649. When were you paid for your vote ?—I was never paid for my vote ; never a glass of grog.

26,650. And never promised anything ?—No.

26,651. And never got a present afterwards ?—I will come here and look at you, and every one in court, and say I did not.

26,652. Did you have a conversation with Mr. Harris at the election of 1863, Dent's election ?—No.

26,653. Don't you recollect Mr. Harris having a conversation with you ?—No.

26,654. And your telling him that you would like to have something if there was money going ?—No ; but I was tempted in Dent's election.

26,655. Who was it ?—John Heath.

26,656. By how much ?—200*l.*

26,657. Where did he tempt you ?—In my cart linhay.

26,658. What did you tell him ?—I said it was a heavy sum of money. I do not want anything more than my rights. Then he said, "This will buy four "fine strawberry horses," and I said, "I have "enough for my labour."

26,659. Did he tell you where you were to go and get this money ?—I was to go to the "Stars" directly.

26,660. Did you go ?—No.

26,661. Did you tell him that you would not ?—I left the cart linhay and I thought of my wife and family and children, and I voted always for the Liberals.

26,662. Did you go to the "Seven Stars" ?—No.

26,663. Did you go back and tell him ?—I said, "Master, I am much surprised at having you come "here and tempt me with money, for your father "never knew me to shift or turn."

26,664. What did he tell you then; did he tell you anything more ?—He said I would have a strong opposition come against me.

26,665. What are you ?—A haulier.

26,666. What horses do you keep ?—It depends; 8 or 10.

26,667. You never had an offer besides that ?—No.

26,668. You never had any present from the Liberal party ?—No.

26,669. Not after the election ?—No.

26,670. Never anything on the table or up the chimney ?—No.

26,671. Nor your wife ?—No.

26,672. Did you ever find any money in your waggon or carts ?—No.

26,673. Never had a horse left by mistake ?—Never. It has been said, "There's an election horse," but I can say it is not.

26,674. You never had a strange horse that you did not pay for ?—No.

26,675. (Mr. Bere.) You are a tenant of the duke's ?—I rent a little.

26,676. How much ?—One field I give 9*l.* for.

26,677. And the other, the marsh ?—Five guineas.

26,678. How long have you rented that ?—A long time.

26,679. What is your qualification ?—My house and stables.

26,680. Worth more than 10*l.* ?—Yes.

26,681. Didn't you tell Mr. Harris in the election that this time you would mind yourself ?—He came to me at the quay when I was picking up stones. He says, "Oh! Mr. Blight." I says, "Oh! Mr. "Harris." We are very friendly ; I am friendly with everybody, Whig or Tory ; and he said, "Is it "any use coming to your house, master, with 60*l.* or "80*l.*" I said, "No, Mr. Harris, not in the election ; "I never took it, and wouldn't now."

26,682. Did you take any ?—No, not at the time of the election.

26,683. For the council ?—No, not a copper.

26,684. Have you ever had a present of 60*l.* or 80*l.* ?—Not at any time.

26,685. Did you have it for anybody else than yourself ?—No, my wife and family work hard.

26,686. Whom did you tell what Mr. Harris had offered you ?—I never told anyone.

26,687. Did not you consider about it, and ask whether you should take it ?—No, I used my own mind on the subject.

26,688. Do you have Mr. Michelmore's hauling ?—I work for him or anyone.

26,689. Did not you think that you would have been turned out of your field at the last election if you had voted against him ?—I didn't; I get my living by the public at large.

26,690. Would you have lost the hauling for the Duke of Somerset if you had not voted ?—Never asked any questions.

26,691. Do you think you would have been allowed to keep your field and employed as haulier for the Duke of Somerset if you had not voted ?—I never tried.

26,692. You have heard of other people being turned out ?—Yes, but I never tried.

Mr. R. Tucker.

Mr. ROBERT TUCKER sworn and examined.

26,693. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a solicitor practising at Ashburton ?—I am.

26,694. I believe you were employed on behalf of Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour to get up evidence against the petition ?—I was, last March.

26,695. There are certain papers and documents in your possession which we consider necessary to be produced. We now call on you to produce all correspondence connected not only with the election for Totnes in 1865, but the election for Ashburton in 1865?—I have brought here every paper connected with the Totnes election; the Ashburton correspondence in 1865 I must object to produce.

26,696. Then the court will be obliged to use their power to enforce the production of those?—All I say is, that there is nothing whatever which is relative to Ashburton in any way connected with the election in Totnes.

26,697. That is for us to judge of?—Very well; I will produce the letter book if you think proper to have it. I may say I have no objection personally.

26,698. (Mr. Coleridge.) We only ask them for our own use, not for the purpose of being put in evidence?—Personally I have no objection, but as the agent of Mr. Jardine I think I should not be bound to produce documents connected with any other election. There is nothing which affects Totnes in any way.

26,699. (Mr. Bere.) Perhaps you will produce them?—I will.

26,700. (Mr. Coleridge.) Let us have the letter book for that period, May, June, July, and August.

26,700*. (Mr. Bere.) Who was returned for Ashburton in 1859?—Mr. Askell.

26,701. Was there an inquiry before the House of Commons into that election?—There was an inquiry.

26,702. Before a Committee of the House of Commons?—There was.

26,703. Have you a copy of the evidence given before the Committee?—I think it is in the hands of the solicitor in London, the London agent.

26,704. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who was your London agent then?—I forget; I cannot tell at this moment; I can send you the name.

26,705. Was it Mr. Coppock?—No.

26,706. Mr. Cooper?—No.

26,707. Mr. Baker?—No. I can send you the name; I cannot recollect it now.

26,708. (Mr. Bere.) Are you sure you have not a copy yourself?—A copy of the evidence?

26,709. A copy of the evidence and the proceedings before the Committee, a printed one.—I do not know at all. If I have a copy you should have it. I have not the slightest objection to produce that.

26,710. That is all we want to ask you at present, except I may ask you this one general question,—You produce your draft brief and draft notes?—Yes.

26,711. Did you take the evidence of the witnesses mentioned in that draft case at the various places mentioned in this town, or at one only?—Will you allow me to look at it? (It was handed to the witness who referred to it.) Some were taken in London, these are additional evidence taken in London, and I have put them separately.

26,712. Did you extract that evidence by asking them questions to which they gave you answers, or did they give you statements?—I took this evidence at the "Seymour Hotel," I think in March last. I was concerned for Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour in getting up the case in defence of their seat. I took nearly the whole of this evidence; I believe the whole with the exception of Mr. James and Mr. Butland's evidence, at the "Seymour Hotel." I am speaking from recollection, and I believe all the others were taken at the "Seymour Hotel."

26,713. Did you take any at the "South Devon Inn"?—No, never.

26,714. Did you read over to each witness after you had drawn out his statement?—Yes, I did; and they signed the notes. I should say I did what I will never do again, because the last seven years I have not worked my brain, but I did not know that I should be concerned so long in it. I wrote all this myself and read over every word. That is not my handwriting; it was written by Mr. Windeatt in London. I examined the witnesses and he wrote.

26,715. That is Mr. Thomas White Windeatt?—Yes; Thomas White Windeatt.

26,716. (Mr. Coleridge.) Does the brief for counsel contain the whole, that is, that draft?—Yes. I never saw but the outside. Messrs. Smith and De Gex were the London agents, and I sent a statement of the facts to them. Of course I saw the brief day by day but not the inside.

26,717. You never saw them compared?—I never saw them compared.

26,718. As far as you know the paper was made to contain all that was in your copies?—Yes; I sent them copies of this evidence, and a statement of facts for the purpose of ascertaining exactly how the thing stood. How they prepared this brief I do not know. I have no moral doubt that if the brief were handed to me I should find word for word.

26,719. No one else was employed in getting up the evidence besides yourself?—No one.

26,720. (Mr. Bere.) So that in fact you are answerable for all the evidence?—I am responsible for the evidence from beginning to end.

Adjourned until Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

Tuesday, 18th September, 1866.

JOHN ACKRELL sworn and examined.

26,721. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A mason.

26,722. How long have you lived in Totnes?—All my lifetime.

26,723. How long have you been a voter?—I do not know; between 18 and 20 years, I think.

26,724. When did you first vote, in 1847?—I voted the first time that I had a vote.

26,725. Was that when Mr. Blount stood?—No; long after that.

26,726. Had you anything to do with Blount's election?—Yes; I was hired by the Tories.

26,727. What did they give you?—4s. a day, 5s. a night, and all my meat and drink.

26,728. Was that all you got from the Tories?—Yes.

26,729. When did you first vote?—I voted for Lord Seymour, the present Duke of Somerset, the first vote.

26,730. Was it Lord Seymour, Ricardo, and Baldwin?—I am sure I cannot say.

26,731. Whom did you give your vote to?—I do not know. Mr. Baldwin at one time came to my house and offered me 200*l.* for my vote.

26,732. Who did that?—Mr. Baldwin himself offered it.

26,733. Was that the time that Ricardo stood against him?—I dare say it was; I am not certain about that.

26,734. He came to your house and offered you 200*l.*?—Yes, the night before the election.

26,735. Did you take it?—Certainly not. I never had a penny piece of bribe all my life.

26,736. Why did you not?—I knew myself better. I belonged to the other side.

26,736*. What are you?—I am a Liberal, of course I am.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

J. Ackrell.

18 Sept. 1866.

26,737. You told me that you were employed by the Tories; when did you change?—I never changed.

26,738. Were you employed by the Tories?—I was. I was working for a Tory master, and he said he would stop my work, and I was to go up to Prout's ropeyard to make up my time if I liked.

26,739. What did you go there for?—I went to fight the way when there were rows in the street, or anything of that.

26,740. What did you do in Mackenzie and Gregory's time?—I voted for the Whigs; never voted for a Tory at all.

26,741. How many times have you had an offer of money to vote for the Tories?—I do not know that ever I was offered any money except that once. There is chaffing and joking every election, but never to my knowledge was I offered any money at that time.

26,742. Where do you live?—Warland.

26,743. Who is your landlord?—Myself. It is my own house.

26,744. Do you rent any of the duke's land?—No; never did.

26,745. Whom do you work for principally?—I work for different ones throughout the town.

26,746. Do you do the duke's work?—I have of late years.

26,747. How long have you done his work?—I should think five or six years. I have done part of it, part of it in Totnes; only a job or two over in Bridgetown.

26,748. Who was the man who did it before you?—Jewel, he was called.

26,749. And you succeeded him?—Yes.

26,750. Who gave it to you?—Young Mr. Tom Michelmore gave it to me.

26,751. You have been working ever since?—I have till Christmas last.

26,752. What is the reason you left off?—My health failed. I have been crippled up with the gout.

26,753. You never had any money?—Never a penny piece, neither in the council nor the borough, and I will challenge any man in the world to say he ever gave me one, I do not care who he is.

26,754. If you had no money, did you ever ask for any?—I never did.

26,755. Did anybody on your side make you a present?—Never in my life.

26,756. Who built the schools that Mr. Pender subscribed to?—I built the walls.

26,757. A pretty good contract?—I do not know that it is. It is left to be measured and valued.

26,758. Who is to measure and value it?—Mr. Cuming; he was the architect. But I would as soon that a stranger measured and valued it, and sooner; no fear about that.

26,759. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you ever offered any money except on that occasion?—No, I do not think I ever was.

26,760. Not any offer in Pender's election?—Nothing but Bob Harris, who came chaffing, and said I had better get 150*l.*

26,761. What did you say?—I said I thought it would be a useful thing. And then when Dent was coming in he came to me, and I said, "Get out of "the way, you damned fool."

26,762. What were you offered on Pender's side?—Nothing.

26,763. Did Mr. Parnell offer you anything?—No.

26,764. Mr. Searle?—Never talked to him.

26,765. Or Mr. Elliott?—No.

26,766. Mr. Michelmore?—No.

26,767. Now the next election, Seymour's election, Seymour and Dent; were you offered anything then?—I would not take it.

26,768. Were you offered anything?—Never offered by that party in my life.

26,769. You said you were offered by Harris?—Not that party. I did not consider Harris was an offer because I did not suppose an election was coming on. The man was not dead when he came and asked me if 150*l.* would be of any service.

26,770. Was that before Seymour and Dent, or before Pender and Dent?—I do not know which it was.

26,771. Was it when Lord Gifford was known to be ill?—I cannot answer about that. It is about four years agone.

26,772. At the last election did Harris offer you anything?—No, he never came near me; he took care of that. He offered me to turn some houses into a chapel, and I said I did not work for such chaps, I only worked for gentlemen.

26,773. When did you have the contract for the schools that Pender built?—I never had any contract; I was ordered to build them.

26,774. When was it?—June or July.

26,775. July of what year?—1865.

26,776. Directly after the election?—I do not know.

26,777. After or before?—I cannot recollect when the election was, what month; it was about June or July.

26,778. When Mr. Pender canvassed you for your vote what did he say about building the schools?—He never canvassed me.

26,779. Did Mr. Seymour?—I never saw him till he was on the hustings.

26,780. Who did canvass you at the last election?—I never spoke to Captain Pim or Colonel Dawkins.

26,781. I did not ask you that; I asked who canvassed you?—Mr. Michelmore asked me for my vote.

26,782. When he called did he say anything about the schools?—No.

26,783. Did Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No.

26,784. Who spoke about the schools?—Mr. Sam Cuming.

26,785. Did he canvass you for your vote?—No.

26,786. What did he say about the schools?—He said you have to come and build the walls.

26,787. Did he say that was for voting for Pender and Seymour?—He did not.

26,788. Did you suspect it?—I did not.

26,789. Was anybody employed about the schools that did not vote for Pender and Seymour?—I do not know.

J. Briggs.

JOHN BRIGGS sworn and examined.

26,790. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you vote at the last election?—No.

26,791. You had lost your vote?—Yes, I was cut off.

26,792. You voted in 1863, did not you?—I voted in 1862.

26,793. Who did you vote for?—Mr. Pender.

26,794. That was the time when Mr. Dent withdrew?—Yes, that was the time when he did not stand the contest.

26,795. What did you get for voting for Mr. Pender that time?—Nothing at all.

26,796. Were not you offered anything?—If I voted for Mr. Pender I was told I should have a present afterwards.

26,797. Did you have it?—No, I did not, but some of the others did.

26,798. Who made the offer to you?—Mr. Frederick Michelmore at the "Exeter Inn."

36,799. Did he tell you where he could get the money afterwards?—No, he said that every working man who voted for Mr. Pender should have a present afterwards.

26,800. Did Mr. Michelmore tell you who you were to look to for it?—No, he did not say anything at all about it.

26,801. Did you go and ask him for it?—No, I did not ask him at all.

26,802. How came you as you, were promised a present and did not get it, to find out that you were not to get it?—I found the others had it and I had none, and I thought to myself the next time I vote for that party they shall tell me of it.

26,803. Tell me the names of the others who you knew had it?—Thomas Kinsman.

26,804. What did he tell you he got?—He told me he was going to have 20*l.*, but had only 10*l.* of it then.

26,805. Who else?—I do not know, but several said, "I have had something, have not you had it?"

26,806. Did they tell you who gave it to them?—Thomas Kinsman's aunt gave it to him, Mrs. Kinsman, but who brought the money to her I do not know.

26,807. Was Thomas Jacob Searle one of those who were busy at that time?—I do not know.

26,808. Mr. Parnell?—I do not know.

26,809. When did you complain about not getting your present after voting for Mr. Pender?—I told many of the Liberal side.

26,810. And did you complain of that with a view of getting the money?—I do not know that I told any individual at that election. I did not go to them again.

26,811. Did you tell Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No, I did not go.

26,812. Then you did not try to get it?—No.

26,813. You thought it ought to be brought to you?—Yes.

26,814. Did they bring anything to you?—They never brought anything. Never a farthing.

26,815. Did they bring it to your wife?—Not they, they thought I was too far bound to vote that side.

26,816. Why were you so bound?—Because I was a tenant of the duke's.

26,817. They thought that as a tenant of the duke's they might have you for nothing?—Yes, that I should do as I was told.

26,818. In 1863 you went into the country on a journey before the election, did not you?—Yes.

26,819. Who took you?—Mr. Frederick Evens.

26,820. That was to Kingsbridge, was not it?—Well, he came and asked me whether I would like to go to Kingsbridge, because Thomas Kinsman was down there, and him, and Sandy Smith, if I would like to have some company, and go for a ride. He said, I will pay for it.

26,821. He asked you to vote for Mr. Dent I suppose?—Yes.

26,822. And then he told you you should have 25*l.*, did not he?—He carried it up to my missis as I was going away.

26,823. Did he give it to your missis?—He put it on the table, and she took it up.

26,824. And I suppose you and she spent it afterwards?—I got some of it, but I could not get it all; if a pound was wanted I had it.

26,825. How long did you stay at Kingsbridge?—We went down on the Wednesday, and stayed there till Tuesday morning at 4 o'clock.

26,826. Then you were brought back, and you polled for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

26,827. As you had voted for Mr. Dent, I believe you got notice to turn out from the duke's land?—Yes.

26,828. Was it a house, or was it land of the duke's you voted on?—I had a little orchard, a field and cottage.

26,829. The cottage you lived in?—The cottage you lived in.

26,830. Who gave you the notice?—John Callard, Mr. Michelmore's clerk.

26,831. Was it to turn out that day six months, or what?—He brought it about Michaelmas.

26,832. Have you the notice?—No, I suppose it is torn up now. I was to leave at six month's notice at the expiration of the tenancy.

26,833. The regular notice?—The regular notice.

26,834. Did he tell you why you were turned out?—No, he did not say why, because I trusted for it, because others were served so.

26,835. You knew pretty well that you should have to go?—I knew.

26,836. Did not you get more than 25*l.* when you knew that you should be turned out of your cottage?—Yes, I had 10*l.* after that.

26,837. When was that given you?—In the middle of the day after I voted in the morning, Fred. Evens promised me that down at Kingsbridge, he said he would give me a present, I never asked him for anything.

26,838. Your missis then got 25*l.*, and you had all your grub at Kingsbridge paid for, and you got another 10*l.* for having your grub paid for?—Yes, that is it.

26,839. That 10*l.* you kept yourself; you did not give that to your missis?—Of course I carried it home. where there is a family.

26,840. Did you get anything else after you had got notice, or was turned out of the cottage?—No.

26,841. Did you complain to Mr. Thomas Michelmore of being turned out?—No, I did not say a word to him, because I was as independent as he was. If I could not work for one person I could for another.

26,842. Then you lost your vote, and did not vote at the last election?—No, I was a good vote before, and then they cut me off.

26,843. It was as good as a loss of 35*l.* to you?—20*l.*

26,844. You were quite out of it?—Yes.

26,845. Did not they give you anything for the sake of auld lang syne?—No, they did not look at me then.

26,846. Did not they employ you?—I was out one night for a couple or three shillings.

26,847. How often have you voted at the municipal elections?—Twice or three times.

26,848. How often were you paid for it?—Twice.

26,849. What did Mr. George Heath give you at one time?—I never had one penny from Mr. George Heath in my life.

26,850. Which of the Mr. Heaths paid you?—Neither one.

26,851. Who paid you?—I think I had 5*s.* from the Liberals when I voted for the Liberals in Bridgetown, for a days work.'

26,852. What have you had from the Conservatives since you have turned round?—Another 5*s.*, I think, that is all I had.

26,853. Did not Frederick Evens give you a pound or 30*s.*, or something of that sort?—I forget now; he might have.

26,854. Who gave you 1*l.*? Was it Mr. Heath or Evens?—I think Frederick Evens gave me 30*s.* or thereabouts. I was pretty near tight.

26,855. Did not Mr. George Heath give you something at one time?—Never a penny.

26,856. Neither of the Heaths?—No, the man who gave it me was Frederick Evens.

26,857. Did you get anything in the "Stars" at the election of 1863?—After I voted I had some breakfast.

26,858. Did you get any money there when you voted for John Dent?—That is when Evens gave me the 10*l.*

26,859. Was that given to you in No. 8 just at the top of the stairs?—No; facing the front door there is a pair of stairs with a smoking room behind.

26,860. Are you quite sure that Mr. George Heath has not paid you anything?—Never paid me anything. Neither of them.

THOMAS KINSMAN sworn and examined.

T. Kinsman.

26,861. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Thirty years.

26,862. When did you first vote?—For Lord Seymour and Parrott against Sir George Adams.

26,863. At the election of 1837?—Yes.

26,864. Have you continued to vote ever since?—Yes.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

T. Kinsman.

18 Sept. 1866.

26,865. And always on the same side?—Yes, always straight forward.

26,866. You are not the Thomas Kinsman who was taken off to Kingsbridge?—No, that is a nephew of mine. I was never taken anywhere.

26,867. Is your name Thomas?—Yes. I have a nephew of the same name.

26,868. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did not your wife give the last witness the 25*l.* he has spoken of?—No, my wife had nothing to do with him.

26,869. (Mr. Bere.) You have always voted for the Liberals?—Always. I never deviated at all.

26,870. What are you?—A baker by trade.

26,871. Have you always been that trade?—No. I was once a schoolmaster.

26,872. What sort of a school did you keep?—The Commercial School.

26,873. Do you know of your wife having paid your nephew any money?—No. She never had anything to do with him.

26,874. Has he any other aunt besides your wife?—My wife never paid him any money, and he will say so if you have him forward.

26,875. Did you not once apply to Lord Gifford for a situation?—That had nothing to do with my vote at all.

26,876. Did you do so or not?—I did.

26,877. Did you get the situation?—I did not.

26,878. What situation was it?—I asked him if there was anything in the Customs, or anything of that sort.

26,879. Which of your nephews was it?—A brother of the one who is here.

26,880. When did you ask that?—Many years ago.

26,881. Did you vote in 1865?—I voted at every election.

26,882. Was your nephew living with you in 1863?—I dare say he was.

26,883. Were you living next door to some people of the name of Foote?—No, that is my house.

26,884. A house belonging to you?—Yes.

26,885. Did you ask for this situation while the canvass was going on?—No, I sent a note to him.

26,886. While Lord Gifford was down here?—I do not recollect.

26,887. Just think of it. Did you not send him the letter while he was at the Seymour Hotel canvassing?—No, I never sent to him at the Seymour; if I sent him a letter, I think it was directed to him at the House of Commons some time before the election.

26,888. How many times did Lord Gifford stand?—Three or four times.

26,889. He was elected in 1855 for the first time, and he stood a contest in 1857 and in 1859?—I voted for him every time.

26,890. When did you write to him for the situation?—That I cannot remember.

26,891. What is your qualification?—My own house, which belongs to me.

26,892. Where do you live?—In Fore Street, exactly opposite the Plymouth Road.

26,893. You must remember when you wrote for the situation?—I do not.

26,894. What has become of your nephew?—He is living in Totnes as a baker.

26,895. Was he in business at the time you wrote for the situation?—No.

26,896. What is his christian name?—William.

26,897. How long has he been a baker?—Twelve months.

26,898. Was he in any other business before?—A journeyman baker.

26,899. How long before he went into business had you written for the situation?—That I cannot tell.

26,900. Was it in consequence of your not getting the situation that he went to learn the trade of a baker?—No, he was brought up under me as a baker.

26,901. Is it thirty years ago since he learnt the trade of a baker?—No, not so much as that.

THOMAS KINSMAN, jun., sworn and examined.

T. Kinsman, jun.

26,902. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a nephew of Thomas Kinsman the elder?—I am.

26,903. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Since 1862.

26,904. Who have you voted for in the election for the council?—I never voted in the council at all.

26,905. That was the first time you voted?—Yes.

26,906. Who came to you in 1862 about your vote?—Not any person.

26,907. You did not vote in 1862?—Yes, I voted for Pender.

26,908. What did you get for that?—I had 20*l.*

26,909. Who gave you that?—My sister gave it to me.

26,910. What is your sister's name?—My sister's name was Amelia Kinsman. She is dead now.

26,911. Where was she living then?—She was living along with me, at my aunt's.

26,912. Do you mean the wife of the gentleman who has been just examined?—Yes.

26,913. You and your sister were living there at that time? At that time I was married. I was not living there; I was working there.

26,914. Where did she give it to you?—She gave it to me in my own house; she gave me 10*l.*

26,915. Where did she get it from, do you know?—Mr. Samuel Parnell gave it to her, I suppose.

26,916. When did she give you the other 10*l.*?—I had it by instalments. I had 5*l.* a long time afterwards.

26,917. Who gave it to you?—My sister gave it to me.

26,918. The other 5*l.*, where did you get it from?—I got it from her. I think Mr. Parnell gave her the 10*l.* altogether, but she kept it back for fear I should spend it rather too quick.

26,919. Did she not get the 20*l.* from Mr. Parnell all at once?—No.

26,920. Did your aunt know anything about it?—I do not believe that she did.

26,921. Did any one come and give your sister this money, or did she fetch it from anywhere?—I think she fetched the second lot; whether any one came with the first lot I do not know.

26,922. You were at work at this time and were not able to be seen; your sister would be able to be seen by some one?—I suppose so; I did not know where she was going to.

26,923. Do you recollect telling a man of the name of Briggs anything about this?—We were together.

26,924. Did he not tell you what he had got?—I understood from him that he was going to have the same as I had.

26,925. He told you that he was going to have 20*l.*, did he?—Yes, so I understood.

26,926. Did he not afterwards tell you that he did not get anything?—Yes.

26,927. In 1863 who did you vote for?—Mr. Dent.

26,928. What did you get?—Altogether I got 35*l.*, I was to have 40*l.*

26,929. Who promised you the 40*l.*?—Mr. Evens.

26,930. You went to Kingsbridge?—Yes.

26,931. How much did he give you then?—I think 18 sovereigns.

26,932. How many times did he pay it you in?—Twice.

26,933. Did he give you the rest of the 35*l.* when you came home?—Yes.

26,934. Did he give it you in sovereigns?—My wife took it. I found the first on the chimney-piece hanging up.

26,935. In a bag?—Yes.

26,936. Where did you find the second?—At the "Seven Stars."

26,937. Is your wife alive?—Yes.

26,938. At the election of 1863, what did they offer you on the other side?—Nothing. I never saw anybody. I went away a long time before the election. Mr. Evens came up after I had got away, and he gave a sovereign to a man named Smith to get me out and make me drunk.

26,939. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did not your sister go to Mr. Parnell before the 1863 election?—I do not know.

26,940. (Mr. Bere.) Did you see your sister after the election, and did she not talk to you about the way you voted?—She told me that I had done what I ought not to have done.

26,941. Did you say you got some money on the Tory side, and the Liberals would not give you any?—I have no doubt I did; but I never spoke to her for a long time.

26,942. (Mr. Coleridge.) When was it Mr. Parnell first spoke to you about having voted wrong in 1863?—I never spoke to him in my life.

26,943. Not after the election, did he never speak to you?—No.

26,944. Did Mr. Searle?—No.

26,945. Did Mr. Michelmore?—No.

26,946. Did no one on the other side complain of your having turned round in 1863?—No, they never spoke to me.

26,947. (Mr. Bere.) Who did you vote for in 1865?—I had not a vote then.

26,948. You did not get any money then?—No.

26,949. Is that all the money you ever had that you have stated?—Yes.

26,950. Were you employed in 1865 about the election?—No, I have got too much work to do to be employed.

26,951. You must ask your wife to come up?—She has got five or six children to look after, and I have got to go to work.

26,952. What was your qualification in 1863, what did you vote on?—On a house.

26,953. Did Foote vote on the same house?—Yes.

26,954. Who receives the rent for it?—My uncle.

26,955. (Mr. Coleridge.) You must tell your wife to get somebody to look after the children, we want to know what money she got from the "Seven Stars"?—She got it from Mr. Evens.

26,956. She told you that?—Yes.

27,957. What did she tell you she got it in?—In a little bag.

27,958. You got 35*l.* altogether?—They considered my expenses.

27,959. Were these 17 sovereigns in a little bag?—Yes.

27,960. How many little bags did she get?—Two.

27,961. How much in each?—35 sovereigns altogether.

27,962. You must send your wife up here; we must know all about it?—They gave us some money to go to Kingsbridge, two or three sovereigns.

MARY KINSMAN sworn and examined.

Mary Kinsman.

26,963. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect Mr. Parnell leaving a sum of money in your house in 1862 for your nephew?—Yes, I do. It was between my niece and Mr. Parnell; I believe it was 20*l.* at two different times.

26,964. Were you present when Mr. Parnell left it?—I was not; his sister took it, but I knew it.

26,965. Who told you about it?—My niece.

26,966. Did she tell you what Mr. Parnell had left the money for?—No.

26,967, Did she not say it was for voting for Mr. Pender?—No.

26,968. Did she not tell you whether Mr. Parnell himself left it, or had he sent it?—I think he left it himself.

FRANCIS COOMBES sworn and examined.

Mr. F. Coombes.

26,969. What are you?—A draper.

26,970. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Since 1859.

26,971. Who did you vote for in 1859?—Mr. Dunn.

26,972. Who were you canvassed by on that occasion?—By Mr. Dunn. I do not know who was with him at the time.

26,973. Were you canvassed on the other side?—Yes.

26,974. Who canvassed you then for Lord Gifford and Mr. Mills?—I think Mr. Mills came and Lord Gifford.

26,975. On the last occasion did you have any interview with Mr. Parnell?—No, not on electioneering business; I was constantly seeing him.

26,976. (Mr. Longe.) Did you receive anything at the time you voted in 1859?—I did not.

26,977, Do you remember Mr. Dunn being down here and Mrs. Dunn?—I do.

26,978. Mrs. Dunn was a good customer of yours?—Yes, a tolerable customer, not to any great extent.

26,979. Do you know how long she dealt with you?—I think a week or a fortnight.

26,980. She ran up a bill at your shop?—She did.

26,981. Do you remember what the amount was?—I think 8*l.* or 9*l.*

26,982. Did you vote at the election in 1862?—I did not.

26,983. Did you promise your vote in 1862?—I did not.

26,984. Were you canvassed?—I was canvassed.

26,985. Who by?—By Mr. Dent and Mr. Pender.

26,986. You did not promise to either?—I did not.

26,987. Your principles were not made up at that time?—No.

26,988. You were open to conviction by either party?—I did not feel inclined to vote, so I left and went away. I was not at home during the election; I went to London.

26,989. There was no lady down on that occasion to deal in your shop?—No, I believe not.

26,990. You remember going up to London?—I do.

26,991. What took you to London?—I saw Mr. Parnell on the nomination day, and I said, "It is "likely to be a strong contest to-morrow, and I would "rather be out of the way altogether. I think I should "like to go away and get into London to go to Suffolk "to see my friends, and I shall be out of the way."

26,992. This you told Mr. Parnell?—Yes, I did.

26,993. Did you go to Mr. Parnell?—No; it was in the shop.

26,994. What did he come for?—He did not come for anything particular. He was frequently in and out having a chat. We are very friendly.

26,995. Talking about the election?—Most likely so.

26,996. Who opened the conversation?—That I cannot tell.

26,997. Did he call about your vote?—No. Most likely. I do not think anyone asked me about my vote at all on that occasion. I cannot tell whether I said to him, or whether he made the proposition to me, "If you go away, we must pay your expenses," or whether I said to him, "I shall expect my expenses "paid." It was one way or the other, I could not undertake to say which.

26,998. You told this to Mr. Parnell, and your expenses were paid?—They were paid.

26,999. Who by?—By Mr. Parnell some two or three months after.

27,000. That was the December election?—Yes, 1862.

27,001. How much were you to have for expenses which Mr. Parnell paid you?—10*l.*

27,002. He gave you that sum?—Yes.

27,003. On that occasion did you ask the Conservatives whether they would pay your expenses?—No, I did not.

27,004. Why should Mr. Parnell pay them?—I do not know why.

27,005. Why one side more than the other?—That I cannot tell you.

27,006. There must have been some other conversation. I suppose you had told Mr. Parnell that you would vote for Mr. Dent if he did not pay your expenses?—No, I had promised. It has come to my recollection, that either Mr. Heath or Mrs. Heath, or some of them, were constantly asking me about my vote for Mr. Dent, and I said I would not vote against him.

27,007. You promised Mr. Heath?—Mr. Heath or Mrs. Heath. They were in and out of the shop, and I said, "I promise you this much, I will not vote "against Mr. Dent."

27,008. You had told Mr. Parnell that you had promised?—Most likely.

27,009. When you promised Mr. Heath did not Mr. Heath make some proposition to you that you would get some little present?—No.

27,010. Nothing about any money?—No.

27,011. Any remuneration of any kind?—Mr. Heath I ascertained came to my house in the evening and found that I was gone. He came after I left; I went by the mail train.

27,012. He saw your wife?—He saw my daughter I believe.

27,013. Did not he see your wife?—I have no wife.

27,014. What did he tell your daughter?—He merely inquired if I was in, and my daughter told him, I suppose, that I was gone away.

27,015. Did he ever say that you were losing a good thing?—I never heard that he said anything of the kind.

27,016. Do you know that he did not say anything of the kind?—If he had she would be most likely to have told me I think.

27,017. The next month, January, you were back again then?—Yes.

27,018. How did you vote at that election?—I did not vote. That is in 1863.

27,019. Yes. Who canvassed you for the Conservatives that time?—Colonel Dawkins.

27,020. No, no; the 1863, six months after?—I am not aware whether Mr. Dent called again in 1863 or not, I believe he did.

27,021. Did you have any conversation with Mr. Heath?—I had.

27,022. How long before the election?—I had several conversations with him.

27,023. Did he call upon you?—He did.

27,024. Give us the effect of this conversation?—He said, "Well, you have voted for us before, you "may as well give us your vote again." I think something to that effect, and I said, "No, Mr. Heath, I "cannot vote, I would rather not vote at all.

27,025. What reason did you give him?—I told him I was under certain obligations on the other side, and I would much rather not vote.

27,026. What were the obligations that you were under to the Liberals that you told Mr. Heath of?—He did not ask me to whom I was under obligations.

27,027. But we must know?—I did not tell him.

27,028. What were they?—I told him I was under obligations.

27,029. What were they?—I was under obligations with reference to borrowed money.

27,030. (Mr. Bere.) You owed Mr. Samuel Huxham 200*l.*?—No.

27,031. How much?—I think 100*l.*

27,032. You owed somebody else a similar sum?—I owed Mr. Parnell a sum of money.

27,033. 100*l.*?—I think so.

27,034. (Mr. Longe.) Those were the two persons?—Yes; and I had overdrawn at the bank, the Devon and Cornwall.

27,035. Had you interviews with the manager of the bank with regard to the sums overdrawn?—I had not.

27,036. Is that a Liberal bank?—I believe it is. Mr. Heath told me at the time, "You have no occa-"sion to have any fear as to the bank; they have "been spoken to, and they will not interfere in any "way."

27,037. Mr. Heath told you that?—Yes.

27,038. Then you did go into your difficulties with Mr. Heath?—Just so far I think.

27,039. There was no doubt that you were opening that to Mr. Heath with the view of his helping you out of your difficulties?—No, not at all.

27,040. Did not he make an offer with regard to the bank and with regard to your other debts?—No.

27,041. He did not hold out any prospect of being able to relieve you?—No. I think Mr. Heath has confused one election with another with reference to that.

27,042. (Mr. Coleridge.) What election are you referring to?—That is the election I am referring to now.

27,043. (Mr. Longe.) You went away again that time?—No, I did not; I stayed, but I did not vote.

27,044. (Mr. Bere.) When were you a bankrupt?—I was not a bankrupt exactly.

27,045. When did you make a composition with your creditors?—Somewhere about four or five months.

27,046. Have you got the composition deed, and the arrangements that were made in consequence?—I have not got them.

27,047. Who has got them? Who was your solicitor?—I employed no solicitor.

27,048. Has Mr. Parnell got them?—No; I suppose the accountants have got them.

27,049. Where were the proceedings conducted?—In London.

27,050. Why were they not done here or at Exeter?—My creditors sent from London.

27,051. Your wholesale creditors in London?—Yes.

27,052. They sent people to look at your affairs?—Yes.

27,053. Have you got any statement at all of what you owed at that time?—I have not.

27,054. What did you pay?—6*s.*

27,055. How much out of that did you pay to Mr. Parnell? Did Mr. Parnell ever get 6*d.* of that composition?—Yes.

27,056. How much has Mr. Parnell ever had?—He has had somewhere about 15*l.*

27,057. When did he get it?—He has had it at different times.

27,058. When did Mr. Parnell advance the 100*l.*?—He never advanced it in the whole amount; it was had from Mr. Parnell at different times, running through long course of years. I was in the habit of going to Mr. Parnell and asking him at different times if he could lend me 5*l.* or 10*l.*, or 14*l.* or 15*l.*, as the case might be.

27,059. What was Mr. Parnell then?—He is an accountant and secretary of the gas company.

27,060. Was he an accountant and secretary of the gas company when he used to lend you small sums of 5*l.* or 10*l.*?—Yes.

27,061. When Mr. Huxham lent you the 100*l.* did you get it in the same way?—No; I had 50*l.* at a time, I think.

27,062. What security did you give Mr. Huxham? Did you give him a note of hand?—A note of hand.

27,063. When did you give him that?—I really do not know when that was.

27,064. You must remember that people do not borrow 100*l.* and forget it?—Well, I cannot tell when I first borrowed the money from Mrs. Huxham.

27,065. Was it Mrs. Huxham?—Yes.

27,066. Was it after old Mr. Huxham's death?—No.

27,067. How was it you borrowed it from Mrs. Huxham?—Mrs. Huxham was the person I asked.

27,068. Was she a relation of yours?—No.

27,069. A customer?—Yes.

27,070. And you knew her in that way?—Yes.

27,071. Have you got any of your account books at home?—No, I have not.

27,072. Have you got any books that contain entries of your transactions in 1862 or 1863?—I have not.

27,073. What accounts used to be kept when you owed Mr. Parnell the sum of money?—I used to give him an I. O. U.

27,074. Did Mr. Parnell produce those I. O. U.s before the persons who settled your affairs in London?—Yes; but after it got to a considerable amount he said he would rather I would give a note of hand for them.

27,075. When did you give him a note of hand?—Some time early in 1866, this year.

27,076. Are you certain the sum that you got from Mr. Parnell was only 100*l.*?—I got more.

27,077. How much?—Altogether?

27,078. Yes. Was it 200*l.*?—Yes; but it was not so much in 1863.

27,079. Just think. When did you give Mr. Parnell an I. O. U. and the note of hand?—I believe either in January or February this year.

27,080. When did you first make the offer to compound with your creditors?—I think it was early in April.

27,081. What was the state of your affairs in January? Were you solvent or not?—No.

27,082. Did you know that you were insolvent when you gave Mr. Parnell a note of hand for 200*l.*?—I had not gone into my affairs.

27,083. Had you good reason to believe that you were insolvent when you gave Mr. Parnell a note of hand for 200*l.*?—I knew I was in difficulties—great difficulties. I was constantly borrowing money and getting bills renewed.

27,084. Did you give Mr. Parnell a note of hand when you were served with a notice to appear before the House of Commons' Committee?—No, I believe not.

27,085. Did you give Mr. Parnell a note of hand after you knew that there was going to be a petition?—Yes.

27,086. Now take care?—I believe not.

27,087. Did you not give Mr. Parnell that note of hand after you heard of the proceedings, or that a petition was going to be presented?—I do not know when I heard about the petition.

27,088. Just think.—If you can tell me the date of the month it was in I am ready to state.

27,089. You told us Mr. Parnell came to you and suggested it would be better to give him a note of hand. When did he come for that purpose?—I believe that I went to his house to borrow some more money.

27,090. When was that?—The beginning of the year, January or February.

27,091. When were you first examined as to the evidence that you were to give in London? You were examined, were you not?—By Mr. Tucker.

27,092. When did that happen?—I do not know what month it was in.

27,093. Do not you remember going to the "Seymour Hotel?"—I remember, but I do not know what month it was in.

27,094. Was that before or after you had given the note of hand?—I really cannot tell you.

27,095. Just think; we cannot be satisfied with symptom of not recollecting. You must remember such a thing as that?—If you can tell me the month.

27,096. You remember going to Mr. Tucker, and giving Mr. Tucker some evidence?—Yes.

27,097. Was that in 1866 or last year?—I should suppose it was in 1866; I really do not know; I would willingly tell you.

27,098. (Mr. Coleridge.) You are sure Mr. Tucker did examine you at some time?—Yes, I saw him at the "Seymour Hotel."

27,099. Did he write down what you said?—I do not know.

27,100. You must remember that?—He did not keep me two minutes I think.

27,101. What did he ask you about?—He asked me if I knew anything about the elections.

27,102. What did you tell him?—I said, "No, I "never interfered with the elections but little. I "did not take an active part."

27,103. Did you tell him what your transactions were with Mr. Parnell?—No.

27,104. Do you mean that that was all that occurred, that Mr. Tucker asked you whether you knew, and you said, No, and he went away. Did not he write something down?—I do not think he did; he asked me if I always voted for the Liberals, I said, "No, I "voted for Mr. Dunn."

27,105. Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour in 1865?—No, Mr. Pender only.

27,106. What was your inducement to vote for Mr. Pender in 1865?—I thought he was a very suitable man for the House and for the town.

27,107. What did you hear about money from Mr. Pender's side?—There was a great deal of talk about money flying about, but I never heard of any particular sums.

27,108. Did anybody offer you any particular sums?—Never.

27,109. (Mr. Bere.) Did not Mr. Parnell come down and tell you that you must give him a note of hand for 200*l.* because it might be awkward if he came before the committee?—No.

27,110. Did not you tell Parnell before you gave him the note of hand what the state of your affairs were?—No.

27,111. Quite certain about it?—Yes.

27,112. Do you know whether the bank objected to the amount that Mr. Parnell was entered as a creditor of yours?—Yes, I believe so.

27,113. By how much was your debt to Mr. Parnell reduced? How much was he allowed to rank as a creditor for?—I believe 200*l.*

27,114. What had you entered him at?—That was the amount, I think, 200*l.*, or 205*l.* I think it was; there was some odd sum.

27,115. Are you sure it was not 250*l.*?—Yes.

27,116. The bank objected to the amount?—Yes.

27,117. Was that objection of the bank's successful? Did they reduce Mr. Parnell's debt?—No.

27,118. He was entered as a creditor for 200*l.*?—Yes.

27,119. When did you give him the note of hand?—I know in 1866.

27,120. What became of the I.O.U.s that you had given him from time to time?—I received them.

27,121. What did you do with them?—Destroyed them.

27,122. Where?—I believe I destroyed them at the time.

27,123. Where?—At Mr. Parnell's house, I believe.

27,124. Where did you draw out the note of hand? Did Mr. Parnell draw out the body of it and you sign it?—Yes.

27,125. At his own house?—Yes.

27,126. Did he tell you to destroy the I.O.U.s?—I did destroy them.

27,127. Did not he tell you?—I do not know.

27,128. When did Mr. Parnell first begin to lend you money?—I think as far back as 1859.

27,129. After the election of 1859 or before?—After, I believe.

27,130. From 1859 to 1865 Mr. Parnell lent you sums amounting to 200*l.* with interest?—Yes.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

Mr. F. Coombes.

18 Sept. 1866.

27,131. What interest were you to pay?—I believe he charged me 5 per cent.

27,132. Did he give you any account in which the interest was entered?—Not in which it was entered.

27,133. How do you know that the sum for which you gave a note of hand was 200*l.*?—The note itself did not amount to 200*l.*; the note I gave him, I believe, was for 150*l.*; there were 200*l.* owing him altogether.

27,134. How were the other 50*l.* secured?—By an I.O.U.

27,135. Was that borrowed after the note of hand?—No.

27,136. Then why not cancel the note of hand at at the time the others were given?—I told him at the time that I would give him a note of hand for 150*l.*, and I would endeavour to pay off the others and take the I.O.U.s.

27,137. What are the names of your accountants in London?—Honey and Humphreys.

27,138. Where do they carry on business?—In Ironmonger Lane.

27,139. Was not the agreement between you and Mr. Parnell that the money lent to you should be settled in this way; that you should give a note of hand for 150*l.* and have another 50*l.* for voting for Mr. Pender?—Most decidedly not.

27,140. There was no such understanding?—No.

27,141. That you swear?—That I will.

27,142. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you pay this 150*l.* in your account when you compounded with your creditors? Was not Mr. Parnell's debt 205*l.*?—205*l.*

27,143. What did you do with the I.O.U.s?—Mr. Parnell holds them still.

27,144. You never had as much as 200*l.*; you let the interest run on until it was 205*l.*?—I believe so.

27,145. Did you ever pay him any interest at all?—No, never in my life.

27,146. From 1859 to the present time you have paid no interest?—No, I never paid any distinct interest.

27,147. Did you ever pay anything off during this time?—I was frequently borrowing of Mr. Parnell.

27,148. When did you first borrow anything of him?—Sometimes I would have money of him and pay him back in a fortnight.

27,149. Have you ever paid him a farthing since 1862?—I have borrowed money of him and paid it back again frequently.

27,150. That you do not include in the 205*l.*?—Just so.

27,151. In what sums would that be?—Perhaps 5*l.*

27,152. When you had 5*l.* from him how long would it be before he had it back?—Perhaps in two or three days, perhaps a fortnight.

27,153. This transaction was altogether distinct from the running account?—Quite so.

27,154. Apart from these little sums, have you ever paid him a farthing off the running account from the time it began?—I used always to give him an I.O.U. for the money I had; when I paid him back I had the I.O.U. given up.

27,155. You paid no interest upon that?—Certainly not.

27,156. Did you ever pay him a farthing off the running account?—No, not off the running account.

27,157. And you never paid him any interest?—No, I never paid him any distinct interest.

27,158. Then out of that 200*l.* Mr. Parnell has had about 16*l.*?—Yes.

27,159. Not quite so much as the interest for his money?—He has not.

27,160. I suppose that is all that he is to have?—No; he will receive his money with the other creditors.

27,161. Upon the whole sum 6*s.* in the pound?—Yes.

27,162. You told Mr. Parnell you were going away and did not wish to vote; did he say what you might have for staying?—No, he did not.

27,163. He knew your circumstances and that the money would be of value to you; did he say what you might have if you stayed?—No.

27,164. Did he say anything about your being able to get any money at the election of Dent and Pender to pay off his debt?—No.

27,165. Or about forgiving you your debt if you stayed and voted for Pender?—Never.

27,166. Between that election and 1863 did he continue to advance you sums of money?—Yes.

27,167. In 1863, when you did not vote, did Mr. Parnell say anything to you about money?—No.

27,168. When did he pay you the 10*l.* for your expenses in going away? Was that before the election of 1863?—That I really cannot say.

27,169. How long did you stay away?—I was away about a week.

27,170. Where did you go to?—I went from here to London and from there to Suffolk.

27,171. Was that about five weeks before the following election?—It must have been after the election of 1863.

27,172. What did he give you for not voting in 1863?—Nothing.

27,173. Did he say what you would have if you did not vote?—No.

27,174. Did Mr. Michelmore say anything about that?—No.

27,175. Did Mr. Heath say you need not be frightened about the bank in 1862; he knew your circumstances and that you had an overdrawn account?—Yes.

27,176. Did he say what sum you might have for voting for Dent?—I might tell you a circumstance about 500*l.* which has been mentioned.

27,177. What was that?—Mr. Heath came to me in the course of the election and said, "If you make up "your mind and vote for Dent, 500*l.*," and he walked away laughing, and I regarded it as a piece of chaff. I do not believe there was anything intentional in the matter.

27,178. Did you not know that Mr. Heath's chaff was of a practical nature, and was followed up by some result?—I never had much faith in it.

27,179. You knew Mr. Heath was dealing with money?—I did not.

27,180. (Mr. Longe.) On the day of the election did you not say you were waiting for Mr. Heath to see if the 500*l.* was coming?—I did not.

27,181. Did you not say that to Mr. Harris?—No, I pledge my honour I did not.

27,182. Never mind your honour; you are on your oath here. Did you not say in the afternoon you were waiting for Mr. Heath?—No; I do not remember having any conversation with Mr. Harris about it at all.

27,183. Did not Harris ask you to come to the poll?—Very likely he did in the course of the day.

27,184. When he came did you not tell him you were waiting for Mr. Heath?—I do not remember.

27,185. Will you swear you did not?—Yes, I can swear I did not.

27,186. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you go to the "Stars"?—No.

27,187. Was anything offered you on the other side that day?—Not a farthing.

27,188. What made you vote for Pender and not Pender and Seymour?—I knew that Mr. Heath has a strong objection to the Seymour interest, and I did not wish to run counter to him exactly.

27,189. You did not dare run counter to Mr. Parnell, and you did not like to run counter to Mr. Heath?—Mr. Parnell never had any influence over me on account of what I borrowed from him; I exercised my own judgment.

27,190. What do you mean by that; you told us you were under obligations which prevented your voting in 1862 and 1863?—I was under obligations certainly.

27,191. Was not the reason you did not vote because your were under those obligations?—No; that was not my reason.

27,192. Then what was your reason for not voting in 1862; you have already sworn you were under obligations to Mr. Parnell, Mrs. Huxham, and the bank, do you wish to withdraw from that?—I stated to Mr. Heath that I was under those obligations, and that I had rather not vote. I do not know that anyone exercised any influence over me.

27,193. You did not vote?—I did not.

27,194. (Mr. Bere.) Have you told us what really was in this deed of composition? Who were the trustees?—To guarantee the payment? Mr. Parnell and my brother.

27,195. In that deed is he described as having advanced 200*l.* in order to pay the composition?—I do not know how the deed is worded.

27,196. Did Mr. Heath give you anything for going away in 1862?—No.

27,197. Or any one on that side?—No.

27,198. When did you pay Mrs. Huxham?—I paid her off the money and borrowed it again. In 1866 I owed her, with interest, 104*l.*

27,199. Was she one of your creditors?—Yes.

27,200. Where did you get the money from with which any portion of the composition was paid?—Of course I was continuing the sale of my stock.

27,201. Did you not get it from Mr. Parnell?—No.

27,202. Will you swear you did not get from Mr. Parnell the sum with which you paid the first 3*s.* in the pound?—No; I have had no money from Mr. Parnell since.

27,203. Where did you get it from?—I have been selling my things. It has been paid in three instalments.

27,204. What did your debts amount to altogether?—I think about 2,000*l.*

27,205. Where did you get the 200*l.* to pay off the first instalment of 2*s.* in the pound?—I have had the sale of my goods. My shop has been open from day to day.

27,206. Would you try to make us believe you got the 200*l.* out of the profits of your trade since April?—I had the whole stock of goods.

27,207. Did you sell your stock by auction?—No.

27,208. Have you got 200*l.* to pay your creditors out of the profits of your trade since last April?—Not out of the profits of my trade; I have been selling the whole of my stock.

27,209. Selling your stock at a loss?—I do not mean to say that. I have the whole stock to sell off to realize the money.

27,210. When did you pay the first instalment?—In July.

27,211. To whom did you send the money; did you pay each creditor separately or send it all to your accountants in London to distribute?—I paid it through the bank.

27,212. Through what bank?—The Devon and Cornwall Bank.

27,213. How did you pay it?—I took up the cash to pay it.

27,214. Did you take 200*l.* and pay it into the Devon and Cornwall Bank; is that what you mean?—I took up money sufficient to meet the instalment to the Devon and Cornwall Bank.

27,215. What cash did you take to the bank?—I believe 100*l.* and some odd pounds. Some of my creditors are allowing me time to pay them off as I can.

27,216. Which of your creditors are allowing you to do that; is Mr. Parnell one of them?—Yes.

27,217. Who else?—My brother at Torquay.

27,218. How much is his debt?—Over 300*l.*

27,219. Anybody else?—My father.

27,220. How much is his debt?—I think 400*l.* odd.

27,221. And who else is there?—Mrs. Huxham.

27,222. That is 1,000*l.* off it as to which you are not paying anything at present?—Yes.

27,223. Are you sure that you took as much as 100*l.* to the bank to pay off the other 1,000*l.*?—Yes, I did.

27,224. Did you take it in pounds, shillings, and pence, or how?—I took it in actual cash; I had no banking account then.

27,225. Was that money which you had received over the counter?—Yes.

27,226. The whole of it?—Yes.

27,227. Since the month of April?—Yes.

27,228. Had Mr. Parnell lent you anything between April and July?—No.

27,229. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

27,230. When was the last time that he lent you any money?—He has not lent me anything since the arrangement with the creditors.

27,231. When last before then had he lent you anything?—I cannot say exactly.

27,232. Was it a week before the arrangement?—It was a long time before. I should think last year.

27,233. What was the last sum he lent you?—That I cannot say.

27,234. Was it 50*l.*?—No; nor yet 20*l.*; some small amount.

27,235. Do you think you took over 100*l.* or under it to the bank in July?—It was over.

27,236. How much over?—A few pounds, 3*l.* or 4*l.*

27,237. What did you direct the bank to do with the money?—I gave them the names of the parties, the different creditors, and where it was made payable.

27,238. Were all of your creditors living in London?—No, not all in London; there were some at Manchester.

27,239. All of them away from here?—Yes; all away from here.

27,240. When was the next instalment due? What were the dates?—They were three, six, and nine months.

27,241. Until those are paid off the other 1,000*l.* is not to be paid off at all?—No; Mrs. Huxham will be paid; my brother and my father will remain unpaid.

27,242. Mrs. Huxham and Mr. Parnell do not come in under the present distribution?—They will take it kindly as I can pay.

(Mr. Bere.) You will please to write a letter by this night's post to the accountants in London, and desire them to send down your composition deed.

27,243. (Mr. Longe.) I must ask you again about the election of 1863. Were not you in the "Stars" several times during the polling day?—I was not there at all.

27,244. Which Mr. Heath was it that you negotiated with?—Mr. Heath, senior.

27,245. Did you not see Mr. George Heath that day?—I might have seen him, but not to have any serious conversation with him at all.

William Cole sworn and examined.

Mr. W. Cole.

27,246. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—In Dartington parish.

27,247. Do you rent land of Mr. Champernowne?—Yes.

27,248. And also of the duke, do not you?—Yes.

27,249. How much do you rent from the duke?—Handy nine acres; but one field they call six that I have a vote on.

27,250. How many else have votes on that field besides you?—None.

27,251. What is the building on it?—Stone walls and thatch.

27,252. Open linhays for the cows to run in?—Open linhays for the cows.

27,253. For how long have you voted on that qualification?—When Mr. Pender came here first.

27,254. That was the first time?—That was the first time.

27255. Who put you on the list of voters?—Mr. Michelmore.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

Mr. W. Cole.

18 Sept. 1866.

27,256. He told you to go and make a claim?—Yes.

27,257. Did he ask you which way you were going to vote?—Yes; they told me when I took the ground.

27,258. They told you how you were to vote when you took the ground?—Yes.

27,259. Whom did you take the ground of, Jeffery Michelmore?—I applied myself.

27,260. To whom did you apply?—To old Mr. Michelmore. I was there to pay the rent, and I told him that I wanted a field handy the turnpike road.

27,261. At what rent?—I agreed the rent at 20*l.* a year, and then I paid 18*l.*

27,262. You had it before for 20*l.*?—No; he asked 20*l.* Mr. Jeffery wrote to me a letter first, and then he said 20*l.*, and I told him it was too much money, I could not give it, and he said 18*l.*, and that was my rent.

27,263. What did he say when he agreed to take off 2*l.* a year?—He did not say anything then.

27,264. When did he first tell you how you were to vote?—When Mr. Mills—they was not dead then, they was living; before that took place.

27,265. When you took the ground did he tell you you were always to vote for the duke?—Well, he said he should wish me to vote.

27,266. At that time were you holding under Mr. Champernowne?—Yes, at the same time.

27,267. How much did you hold under him?—About 20 acres; from that to one and twenty.

27,268. He is the other way of thinking, different from the duke, is not he?—Well, he did not say nothing.

27,269. Did you vote for Mr. Pender?—I did.

27,270. Did you vote for Mr. Seymour in 1863?—I did.

27,271. What did you get either time for voting?—Nothing at all.

27,272. You would have got the sack if you had not?—I do not know that, sir.

27,273. Since you have been a tenant of the duke's have you ever had a little present at Christmas?—No.

27,274. Never?—Never.

27,875. Did not Mr. Thomas or Mr. Jeffery Michelmore ever present you anything?—No.

27,276. Or to your wife?—No.

27,277. He never sent anything to your wife?—No.

27,278. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes.

27,279. Do you think she always tells you what money she gets?—She never had any or I.

27,280. You are quite certain about that?—Quite certain.

27,281. Did any of the other side come to offer you anything?—Yes.

27,282. Who came, Mr. John Heath?—Young John Heath came.

27,283. When did he come to you, which election was it?—The morning the polling day was.

27,284. Seymour and Dent, or the last one when Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim stood?—That was Mr. Pender's time.

27,285. The first time Mr. Pender ever came?—Yes.

27,286. What did young Mr. John Heath come to offer you then?—150*l.*

27,287. And would not you take it?—No.

27,288. Did he come to offer you anything when Mr. Seymour stood?—No.

27,289. He tried you the first time and did not again?—He tried that first time and was afraid to come again.

27,290. Did not he try you in 1865?—No, he did not.

27,291. Did anybody else try?—Yes.

27,292. Who?—Mr. Shinner.

27,293. He came to you?—He came to me.

27,294. From whom did he come, who sent him?—I do not know who sent him.

27,295. What did he offer?—He did not offer me nothing.

27,296. What did he come for?—To try and get me to vote.

27,297. For the Conservatives?—Yes.

27,298. Did not he offer you something for becoming a vote for the Conservatives?—No.

27,299. Did not he tell you where you could get something?—No.

27,300. Was nothing said about the "Seven Stars" then?—No.

27,301. Or a lot of money was going about then?—No, he did not say nothing about the money.

27,302. Are you quite sure you would not be turned out of your field if you did not vote?—I am sure of nothing.

27,303. Did not you tell Mr. Champernowne so?—No, he was a gentleman and did not compel me.

27,304. Did he never canvass you for your vote?—No.

27,305. What?—No.

27,306. Are you quite certain about that?—He never canvassed me; I saw Squire Champernowne myself before I did vote, but he never came to me.

27,307. Did you say to him you should lose your field if you did vote?—No, I did not.

27,308. Did not you tell him you should lose if you did vote for anybody except the duke?—No; I told him I had promised and could not go against my promise.

27,309. Are you quite sure that Mr. Edward Shinner did not offer you 100*l.* then?—No, he never offered me a pound.

27,310. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who did offer you anything the last time?—No person offered me any money.

27,311. Did they offer anything besides money?—No, nothing.

27,312, (Mr. Bere.) Did you see Mr. Pender at all during the last election?—I saw him, and others saw him, the day the electioneering was. I saw him but never spoke to him. Yes, he came to my house first.

27,313. Did he see you?—Yes, he did see me and I promised him.

27,314. Did not he tell you something about this being a good thing for you?—No, he never mentioned it.

27,315. Who are the other Dartington tenants who have votes on the Seymour property; who besides you of the tenants of Mr. Champernowne?—I do not know.

27,316. Are not there two men called Marks?—Yes; two Marks. There is Henry Marks I think.

27,317. Who else?—Several in the parish. Mr. Barnes I should think has one of the linhays I should say.

27,318. Did Mr. Seymour canvass you?—No, I never saw either one.

27,319. The last time?—I never saw either one.

27,320. You only saw them the first time?—Only the first time. I never saw either one the last time; either one of the four.

27,321. What is the name of your wife?—Susan Cole.

27,322. When you are out about the farm do not you think she does a little in the electioneering line?—I am quite sure she does not.

27,323. There are so many wives in Totnes who do?—Yes, but my wife is not one of that sort.

27,324. I expect she does and does not tell you, that is the truth of it. Do you know that she tried to get a little money out of the Conservatives the last time?—No.

27,325. She did not tell you that?—No.

27,326. That she had been offered money?—Perhaps she might; perhaps Mr. Harris might have offered her money.

SUSAN KINSMAN sworn and examined.

27,327. Are you the wife of Thomas Kinsman the younger?—Yes.

27,328. Did you go down to the "Seven Stars" at the last election to get some money?—Yes, sir, 18 sovereigns.

27,329. In a bag?—Yes.

27,330. Did you find 18 sovereigns in a bag hung up in the house?—17.

27,331. Who gave you the bag at the "Seven Stars"?—Mr. Frederick Evans.

27,332. Where was he then?—In the billiard room as you go up from the kitchen.

27,333. What was done when you went down to the "Seven Stars"?—Nobody was with him.

27,334. Who was there; where was he standing?—By the side of the billiard room door; he beckoned to me to come to him, I did not know what he wanted.

27,335. Who told you that?—Frederick Evans came up to me and said, "You had better come down "and look after your husband." I did not know that he had gone away till he came back, because he asked me to wait outside the door. Alexander Smith was between them, and he is now at Torquay.

27,336. They took your husband away?—Yes.

27,337. He left 17 sovereigns to give you a little comfort during your husband's absence?—Yes.

27,338. And you got 18 more?—Yes.

27,339. Is that all?—Yes.

27,340. You got it from Frederick Evans; was any one else in the billiard room when you were there?—No.

27,341. Did you see any of the Heaths?—No.

27,342. Or any person whom you did not know?—I saw plenty in the smoke room.

27,343. Do you know anything about your husband having money in 1862?—I heard him say his sister brought him 10*l.* at one time and 10*l.* afterwards; I never had the money; I know nothing about it; I never saw it.

27,344. Did anybody come in 1863?—No one; the Liberals came in 1862.

27,345. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know whether his sister kept 10*l.* to give it to him in small sums for fear he should spend it?—Yes, she did, and she gave him 1*l.* and 2*l.* when he wanted it.

WILLIAM SMALE sworn and examined.

Mr. W. Smale.

27,346. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you been a voter for Totnes?—Ten years.

27,347. What are you?—The railway company's agent.

27,348. You first voted in 1857?—I did.

27,349. Who for?—Mills and Gifford.

27,350. Were you offered anything to vote against them?—Never.

27,351. What were you offered to vote for them?—Nothing.

27,352. Was no money given you?—Nothing; I never wanted it.

27,353. You are the company's agent?—I was at that time the goods clerk at the station.

27,354. As you are the railway company's agent have you got some power over some of the men?—Not the least.

27,355. How many men are there under you?—Only my man, one man.

27,356. Did you vote in 1862?—I did not.

27,357. How was that?—For this reason; I voted in 1857 and 1859.

27,358. Did you get anything for voting in 1852?—No.

27,359. Was anything offered you?—Nothing at all.

27,360. You voted for the Liberals?—Yes.

27,361. Who for in 1862?—In 1860 I broke my residence and went to Newton; I came back here, leaving the management as the company's agent. I had a great many kind friends on both sides of the question, and I said, if you will let me alone I will have nothing to do with politics.

27,362. Had you a vote in 1862?—I had. I was on the register.

27,363. Who was it you told that you would not vote in 1862?—John Diggins, Mr. Edmond's clerk, can explain the matter. I was objected to in 1863. I had business that called me away, and I said, "Look here, "Diggins, withdraw the objection, and I will give "you my word I will not vote against the party; but "if you make me stop at home to sustain the vote and "resist the objection, I will go against you through "thick and thin." The objection was withdrawn, and consequently I kept my word.

27,364. You mean, at the time the revising barrister was revising, you wanted to go away from home?—Yes.

27,365. You did not want to stay here to sustain your vote?—I told Mr. Diggins if he would withdraw the objection and leave me alone I would have nothing to do with it.

27,366. How were you treated in 1862?—I was canvassed by both parties, and I told them I would not vote.

27,367. Did you give a reason?—I believe I did, I will not be certain; at all events that was the reason.

27,368. You would abstain for that election, but you were brought to vote afterwards?—No, I did not; I said I would not if they let me alone.

27,369. In 1862, and they let you alone?—Nothing was said to me in 1863.

27,370. Why did you not vote in 1863?—For the very self same reason, I had passed my word.

27,371. I suppose they thought from your not voting Liberal in 1862 you might be got for the Conservatives in 1863?—Just so.

27,372. What did Mr. Heath come and say to you about that?—Mr. Harris has spoken truly the other day in some part of his evidence, when he said he had my room as a committee room, which he had.

27,373. How came you to let it him?—As a matter of business.

27,374. It is rather unusual, is it not? We never hear of the "Seymour Arms" being used as a Conservative committee room.—If they had not had it the Liberals would.

27,375. What did you get for your committee room?—5*l.*

27,376. What did Mr. Heath offer you?—He came in the afternoon a little after three.

27,377. On the nomination day?—On the day of the polling; he offered me 500*l.*

27,378. Votes were worth anything then?—I told him I was not to be bought. He then said he would double it if I would promise to leave the house.

27,379. Did he offer to pay the money?—If I was prepared to take it. I said I should not.

27,380. You believe it was to be had?—I do. I am certain of it.

27,381. Are there any other people who vote the same way as you that go with you?—No.

27,382. You have no voters that you carry with you?—Not the least.

27,383. That is a largish sum; you told him you would not have it?—A good character is better than 1,000*l.* at any time.

27,384. Did he show you any money at the time?—No, but he led me to suppose that he had the 500*l.* in his pocket.

27,385. How did he do that?—From having his hand in his pocket when he came in.

27,386. In 1865 you thought you were absolved from your promise?—I said they would not let me

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

Mr. W. Smale.

18 Sept. 1866.

alone; but the Tories are such a tenacious lot, they are a regular bull-dog lot; they would hunt you to the skin of your teeth.

27,387. Who canvassed you in 1865?—I think Mr. Kellock called with Colonel Dawkins, and Mr. John Heath with Captain Pim.

27,388. Did they promise you anything?—Oh, no.

27,389. Mr. Harris offered to make you a station-master?—He offered me a situation as station-master with 200*l.* a year on some line or other.

27,390. The line of which Lord Devon was chairman?—I expect it was the one of which Mr. Potter was the chairman. I did not know more about it.

27,391. If you thought there was such a thing to be had, and you had had time to consider of it?—I have nothing to do with such dirty blackguards as Harris.

27,392. When did Mr. Harris offer you that?—I cannot say when; it must be just before the election.

27,393. You told him you would have nothing to do with it?—I did; in addition to that they had got down the Pickford's people. They were trying to bribe me.

27,394. Are you a Pickford's agent?—No, sir.

27,395. Did anybody else offer you anything at that election?—No, not a farthing.

27,396. (Mr. Bere.) When did you cease to be goods manager at the station?—1858.

27,397. When did you set up as an agent to the company?—1861.

27,398. Did it require a good deal of capital to start it?—No.

27,399. How much do you think?—About 70*l.*

27,400. Did you borrow any of it?—I did.

27,401. Of Mr. John Bowden?—I did.

27,402. When did you pay it back?—I paid him three months since.

27,403. Did you owe Mr. John Bowden money at the time of the election?—I did, I am not ashamed to own it.

27,404. Did you pay him interest?—I did.

27,405. What?—Five per cent., or whatever was the rate of discount at the time.

27,406. The bank rate of discount?—Yes.

27,407. (Mr. Coleridge.) 10*l.* or 12*l.* per cent.?—Never so high as that. I paid it off before the high prices.

27,408. Used Mr. Bowden to canvass you at all?—No, he never asked me which way I was going to vote.

27,409. (Mr. Longe.) How much did you get for Mr. Pender's committee room?—5*l.*

27,410. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you find any Conservatives come there by mistake?—No.

27,411. You did not find any miraculous conversions owing to your committee room being engaged?—No. I have handed a book to Mr. Bowen.

27,412. (Mr. Bere.) Never mind about that now.

Mr. W. Satchwell.

William Satchwell sworn and examined.

27,413. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A tailor.

27,414. Where do you live?—At Warland.

27,415. Whose house do you occupy?—It belongs to the society, I am a member of it.

27,416. A building society?—No.

27,417. What society?—A local society.

27,418. What sort of a society?—A mechanics' society.

27,419. A mechanics' institute?—No.

27,420. Who is the secretary of it?—William Foote.

27,421. Are you all of the same politics in the society?—No.

27,422. How long have you had a vote?—The first time I voted was for Mr. Ricardo.

27,423. What date?—I do not know the date.

27,424. Were you one of those who went down to Mr. Ricardo to ask him whether he was going to bribe or not?—No.

27,425. Did you vote for him because you thought he was not or was going to bribe?—I did not know whether he was or not.

27,426. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

27,427. Did you ask for anything?—No.

27,428. Were you canvassed by Mr. Ricardo?—I saw Mr. Ricardo and promised him.

27,429. You would not have voted for Lord Seymour?—No.

27,430. Whom did you vote for in 1857?—I voted for Mr. Mills.

27,431. Not for Lord Gifford?—No.

27,432. Did you vote for the Seymour candidate at any election before?—No, sir.

27,433. Are you quite certain how you voted in 1857?—I do not recollect the candidates.

27,434. Mackenzie, Gregory, Mills, and Gifford?—I voted for Mr. Mills.

27,435. Did you not vote for somebody else too?—Oh, yes.

27,436. How is it you voted for Mills and not the other?—Mr. Mills came to me, and I promised him, as I thought he was the best Liberal of the three.

27,437. Was he more liberal to you?—I never had a farthing. I thought he was Liberal in his politics, and I voted for him.

27,438. He called himself a Conservative?—I know that, but I thought I would vote for him.

27,439. Whom did you vote for in 1859; Dunn and Mills and Gifford?—I voted for Mr. Mills.

27,440. Not for Mr. Dunn?—No.

27,441. Did you get anything that time?—No, I was never offered anything.

27,442. Were you offered anything on the other side?—No.

27,443. You voted for Mr. Dunn?—Yes.

27,444. Who offered you anything?—Mr. Harris.

27,445. How much did he offer you then?—He got me up to his house; he said he wanted me to do some work for him; I went up and waited for some time; at last he put me into his office. I did not know who was there, but some one was there, and asked me if I was going to vote for Mr. Dunn? I told him I was not going to vote that side of the question. At last he had got something in his hand and he shoved it in my waistcoat pocket whilst he stood at the desk.

27,446. What was it?—25*l.*

27,447. Did you carry it home?—I did; I did not know what it was.

27,448. You thought it was bank notes?—It was dark; I told him I should not vote for Mr. Dunn. His answer was, "I shall not see you again, I am going to "Cornwall to-night."

27,449. What did you do with the 25*l.*?—I kept it.

27,450. You voted for Mr. Mills?—Yes, I did.

27,451. Do you not think you ought to have given the 25*l.* back?—I did not ask for it; he gave it to me as a free gift to help me to go on.

27,452. Was that all the temptation you had?—That's all.

27,453. What temptation had you when you voted in 1862 and 1863?—How I voted I forget now.

27,454. Seymour and Dent?—I voted for Seymour.

27,455. In 1859 did you not see somebody on the Liberal side?—No.

27,456. Are you quite certain about it?—They never tempted me with any money, they always make sure of me.

27,457. Have you got a wife?—Yes.

27,458. Does she ever get any money?—No.

27,459. She never told you?—If she had I should have known it.

26,460. Did you ever have an envelope with a mysterious 5*l.* note in it?—No.

27,461. Did you find anything in a stable, or on the chimney-piece, or on a table?—No.

27,462. What did you do in 1865, the last time?—I voted for the Liberals.

27,463. What did you get for doing that?—I never was offered anything.

27,464. Were you offered anything on the other side to vote for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—I only tendered my vote; it was expunged three years ago.

27,465. You did not vote the last time?—I tendered my vote.

27,466. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did Mr. Parnell offer you?—He never offered me any money.

27,467. There was some one; now tell us who it was?—I cannot recollect; it was a strange gentleman who gave me the money; I do not know who it was.

27,468. Where did he see you?—I was passing by the "Dartmouth" inn and some gentleman came to the garden and asked if it was my name; I said yes.

37,469. What sort of a man was it?—A slightish man.

27,470. With a white hat and a black band round it?—No.

27,471. What money did he offer you to vote?—He offered me 30*l.* for a waistcoat; I told him I had not got one at the price.

27,472. Which way were you to vote?—The Conservative side.

27,473. Who was the gentleman who called on you and talked with you about money at the election?—No one at all.

27,474. Not Mr. Elliott?—Yes, Mr. Elliott.

27,475. John Elliott?—I never had any conversation with him.

27,476. Nor Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle?—Yes.

27,477. What conversation had you with Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle?—None whatever.

27,478. Nor Mr. Parnell?—No, sir; Mr. Parnell said, "Will you go all right?" I said, "I will go all right."

27,479. Were you paid since the election?—I had 20*l.*

27,480. Who was it paid it?—I think it came from the hands of Mr. Parnell.

27,481. How did it come to you?—I believe he gave it to me.

27,482. Where?—At my own house.

27,483. After the election?—Yes.

27,484. How long after the election?—Some time.

27,485. Bank notes or gold?—gold.

27,486, You got 20*l.* since the last election, though you did not vote?—No, I did not.

27,487. It was after the 1863 election Mr. Parnell gave you this?—Some time after.

27,488. Did you not say it was very unfortunate they would not let you vote the last time?—I was not out of doors for a fortnight.

27,489. Did yot have something by way of consolation for your vote not being accepted?—Nothing at all.

27,490. You rendered your vote for Pender and Seymour?—Yes; I had not been out of doors for a fortnight; I went to see the doctor, and I went back into Mr. Windeatt's. He said, "You may as well tender your vote." I said, "I do not know much about it, I will go, however."

27,491. What time did you tender it?—I carried up a written paper to the mayor.

27,492. What did he say?—He did not say anything.

27,493. You did not make a waistcoat for the stranger who came outside your garden?—No.

27,494. Did he pay you in advance?—No.

27,495. What has it been worth altogether from the very time you have had a vote: how much have you had altogether in your lifetime?—20*l.* and 25*l.*

27,496. Is that all?—Yes.

27,497. How old are you?—60.

27,498. Did you vote at the municipal elections?—Yes.

27,499. What did you have for voting then?—I think about 15*s.* or 16*s.*; we all had a jolly good breakfast.

27,500. What besides?—Half-a-crown each man.

27,501. You never had 1*l.* from anyone?—No; I always voted for the Liberal side.

27,502. Did Mr. Huxham ever give you anything?—I never received a halfpenny.

27,503. Did Mr. Michelmore ever give you anything?—No.

27,504. Was there anything?—No.

27,505. Do you know George Fitze?—He never offered me a penny in his life.

27,506. Did George Fitze ever give you 50*l.*?—Mr. Harris offered me 50*l.*; he is the only one that ever offered me any.

27,507. I thought you said he gave you 25*l.*?—That is another election.

27,508. Tell us about that; when was the 50*l.* offered?—That is Mr. Dent's election.

27,509. The first or the second one?—I cannot tell you.

27,510. He gave you 25*l.* at one, and offered you 50*l.* at another election?—I was talking to Mr. Lane and he came by with some hand bills that he had brought from Mr. Michelmore of Newton. On my way home he ran after me and offered me 50*l.* to go for Mr. Dent. I told him no, I would not.

27,511. You voted against him?—Yes; I told him I should vote against him; I gave him to understand that.

27,512. Now when Mr. Harris gave you the 25*l.* that he slipped into your waistcoat pocket, did you mean to have voted for the other side for that?—Of course not.

27,513. Did you not go after that to George Fitze's house?—Yes.

27,514. You are sure?—Quite certain.

27,515. Do you recollect meeting Mr. Harris after you came out of George Fitze's house, and saying you did not mean to vote for him?—I did not go to him at the election time.

27,516. You knew about George Fitze at the election?—No.

27,517. Did he ever offer you anything?—Never.

27,518. George Fitze, the grocer?—I know him very well.

27,519. Did you tell him of Harris having given you 25*l.*?—Mr. Harris blowed about it.

27,520. Now tell us; you have had more than the 20*l.* and the 25*l.* in your lifetime?—When, sir?

27,521. It will come out; you had better tell us. Do you mean to swear that this is all you ever received? Come, tell us, on your oath, did you ever receive more than the 25*l.* and the 20*l.* you told us of at any election?—I might have had plenty if I had had a mind.

27,522. Tell us what you had; out with it; on your oath, what have you received in addition to the 20*l.*? You have told us about the 25*l.*?—I do not know but I had two 20*l.*

27,523. Who was it from?—It must come from the Liberal party.

27,524. Who gave it to you? Mr. Parnell?—Yes.

27,525. Was it in 1862 as well as in 1863 that Mr. Parnell gave you 20*l.*?—At two elections going.

27,526. Was it at the two elections that came very close together?—No, I got nothing for one of them.

27,527. You got nothing for 1862?—No.

27,528. When was it given by Mr. Parnell? Was not it after the last election? You have told us Mr. Parnell gave 20*l.* after the 1863 election; when did he give it you, on your oath?—After the election.

27,529. Was the second 20*l.* you got after the 1863 election?—I forget the dates.

27,530. How often did Mr. Parnell pay you?—Twice.

27,531. When did he first pay you?—I do not know.

27,532. Was it in 1859?—No.

27,533. Do you recollect what was the first time Mr. Parnell paid you? You say Mr. Harris paid you 25*l.*?—No; I did not have anything.

27,534. Was it after that?—After that.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

Mr. W. Satchwell.

18 Sept. 1866.

27,535. Was it in 1862 when Mr. Dent retired?—No; I had nothing then.

27,536. He told us he paid you twice; in 1863 was the first time he ever paid you?—If I had made a memorandum of it I should be able to tell.

27,537. Was 1863 the first time he ever paid you? It might have been.

27,538. When was the next time?—Before the coming election.

27,539. That was in 1865?—I cannot say.

27,540. Tell us all about it. When was it he gave you the other 25*l.*?—I had it two elections going; I cannot recollect which.

27,541. Just try and recollect?—I should say it was not in 1859.

27,542. It was not in 1862; you were paid in 1863 for the first time. When was it you got the second 20*l.*? Did you get that 20*l.* before the 1863 election or after?—I cannot recollect.

27,543. When was it? Are you quite certain that you did not get 20*l.* after the last election, though your vote was refused?—No.

27,544. Will you swear that Mr. Parnell did not give you anything after the last election?—I never had a farthing.

27,545. What did you have before?—I voted for Seymour.

27,546. Before the last election, when your vote was refused, what did Mr. Parnell give you for voting? Nothing at all.

27,547. What did he give you upon that election?—I had nothing at all; I cannot recollect at all when it was he gave me the 20*l.*

27,548. Was it not the same occasion that Mr. Harris gave you the 25*l.*?—No, it was not.

27,549. Are you sure it was not after Mr. Dent's time, when Mr. Dent withdrew?—I cannot recollect that.

27,550. Try and recollect; it must have been in 1859, 1863, or 1865, that you got the other 20*l.*; was it 20*l.*, or something more?—20*l.* I believe.

27,551. How long ago was it that you last received any money from Mr. Pender through an election?—The election before the last.

27,552. After 1863?—Yes, I know I tendered my vote; it was before I tendered my vote.

27,553. How long before you tendered your vote?—I got nothing at all for tendering my vote.

27,554. How long before you tendered your vote was the last time that Mr. Parnell paid you?—I cannot recollect.

27,555. Was it long before?—It might have been; it was some time after I voted; he gave it as a free present and that is all I know about it.

(A short adjournment here took place.)

27,556. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you improved your memory?—Yes, a little.

27,557. When was it Parnell first gave you the 20*l.*? Think about it. Are you quite sure it was not in 1859?—Perhaps it might be; I cannot recollect.

27,558. Will you swear it was not the same election that you received the 25*l.* from Mr. Harris?—It may have been.

27,559. Before we adjourned you swore that it was not?—I could not recollect it.

27,560. You have sworn to what is distinct perjury, because you swore it was not the same election that you received the 25*l.* Was it not that election?—I recollect myself that it was.

27,561. Then why did you not recollect before?—I could not recollect.

27,562. What you wanted us to believe was, that you did not receive the money upon both sides. Now it was in 1863 that you received the 20*l.* from Mr. Parnell?—Yes.

27,563. On the last, what did you receive?—20*l.*

27,564. What did you receive at the election when Dent withdrew? What did Parnell give you?—I cannot recollect.

27,565. He gave you something?—I do not know.

27,566. Did he give you something?—I think so, but I cannot recollect.

27,567. You have sworn he did not four or five times. Now try and recollect what it was?—I cannot recollect. I do not know.

27,568. Was it more than 10*l.*?—Yes.

27,569. Was it over 15*l.*?—Yes.

27,570. Was it 20*l.*? (No answer.) Was it 30*l.*? What was it when Dent withdrew?—I cannot recollect.

27,571. You have sworn it was more than 15*l.* Was it 20*l.* or more?—20*l.* or 25*l.* I cannot recollect.

27,572. Which was it? 25*l.*, was it not?—20*l.* or 25*l.*

27,573. You have sworn here to-day that all you received was 20*l.* at one election, 25*l.* at another, and we have now got to 85*l.* instead of 45*l.* at last. Now tell me what you received after the 1865 election when you tendered your vote?—Nothing at all.

27,574. From anybody?—No.

27,575. What did you receive before the election?—Nothing. I did not receive anything at all at that election.

27,576. You tendered your vote, you had always been bribed by Parnell, and you had voted at no election without bribery by Parnell. What was it that he offered you if you would vote for Pender and Seymour at the last election?—Nothing at all. I was not out of doors for a fortnight.

27,577. What did you get indoors?—Nothing at all.

27,578. Did he pay you anything?—No.

27,578. Did he pay the doctor's bill?—No.

27,580. He never came to see you?—No; I never saw him at all.

27,581. Who did he send to you?—No one at all.

27,582. Who came to talk to you?—I told you that I saw Mr. Windeatt.

27,583. He was the only person?—Yes.

27,584. Windeatt, knowing that you had a bad vote, told you to go and tender it?—He asked me. I objected at first.

27,585. What was the inducement that he gave you to go and tender your vote after you objected?—Nothing at all.

27,586. Do you know John Watson?—I know a Watson who keeps the "Lord Nelson."

27,587. What did he offer you for your vote?—Nothing.

27,588. Did he offer you 100*l.*—No.

27,589. No other sum?—No.

27,590. What election was it that he talked with you?—I never had a talk with him.

27,591. Watson never said anything at all at any election?—No.

27,592. Try to recollect?—No.

27,593. If he comes here and swears he offered you 100*l.* it is false?—Yes.

27,594. Which side does Watson want people to vote for?—The Conservative side.

27,595. Did not he ask you to tender your vote for the Conservative side?—He never spoke about it.

27,596. Not at the last election, but at any election?—He never said a word about it.

27,597. When did you last see Mr. Parnell?—The last time was down the street at the door.

27,598. To-day?—No.

27,599. Have you not seen him here to-day?—I have seen him, but not to speak to him.

27,600. When did you last speak to him?—Last week.

27,601. What did you talk to him about, the election? Come, out with it; we shall have all this out?—I asked him what it was he gave me, but he could not recollect.

27,602. What did he tell you?—He could not recollect.

27,603. And you could not recollect?—No.

27,604. What was it he told you that he had given you?—He did not tell me.

27,605. Did he tell you how many times he had paid you? Did he say he had paid you three times, and did he tell you that it was four, and you had forgotten?—It was some time after the election.

27,606. What was it you told Parnell that he had paid you? three times, and did he tell you it was four?—No.

27,607. What did he tell you?—I was not there a minute; I went to the post office, and I do not think I told him.

27,608. The last time before?—I have not been but once.

27,609. Since the last election, what conversation have you had?—Never had any.

27,610. You told us of one?—Only that one.

27,611. When you knew the commission was coming, did not Parnell have a conversation with you about your evidence?—No.

27,612. On your oath, has he never spoken about your evidence till last week? What was the conversation you had about your evidence?—I do not know what it was, unless I said I got the money.

27,613. What did he say?—I had better say so.

27,614. When?—When I saw him one evening.

27,615. How long since?—Last week.

27,616. You had a conversation with him before when he told you not to say so?—I do not recollect.

27,617. Was not there a conversation when he told you to keep it back?—He never told me.

27,618. Not in those words; but was not there a conversation that you had with him when you were summoned? Come. Mr. Parnell will have to come and tell us, and you may as well tell us at once. You have committed gross perjury, and your only chance is to tell the truth?—I do not recollect.

26,619. You recollect. What was the first conversation you had when you were summoned here?—I recollect I asked him if he knew what money he had given.

27,620. That was at the post office; but you had a conversation after you were summoned as a witness?—I recollect that I asked if he knew what money he gave me, but he said he did not recollect.

27,621. When was that?—Last week.

27,622. But before that; when did you get the summons?—Friday.

27,623. But the first summons?—About a fortnight or three weeks ago.

27,624. And as soon as you got that summons did you go to Mr. Parnell?—Not immediately.

27,625. How soon afterwards?—I was at his house. I was doing some work, and we got on to talk about it.

27,626. How long was it after you got the summons that you had a conversation with him?—The last week or the week before.

27,627. Was it not before or directly after you got the summons?—No.

27,628. How soon after the summons?—I think the week before.

27,629. What was it you said to him then?—I forget now.

27,630. Did he tell you not to speak out what you knew? (No answer.) You know he did. What was it? Come, out with it?—I cannot recollect.

27,631. You recollect perfectly well. Now I tell you, as I tell others, that if you do not speak out, it is a serious matter whether you will not be committed at once and sent to Exeter gaol?—I cannot recollect.

27,632. You have recollected a great deal by degrees and we shall get more?—I asked him if he could recollect, and he said he could not, and he asked me and I could not.

27,633. What has made you recollect now?—I have looked over the papers to see when the elections were.

27,634. That has nothing to do with it. What made you recollect the three 20*l.* you have had from Mr. Parnell?—I thought it over.

27,635. Have you not been thinking it over since you got the summons?—No.

27,636. Not till to-day; No.

27,637. On your oath, what did Parnell tell you when you first went with the summons?—I cannot recollect.

27,638. You recollect perfectly well. You recollect the three sums of money. Be careful. On your oath, what was it Parnell said to you?—I recollect I asked what he gave my wife.

27,639. What did he say then? Did he recollect giving your wife something?—I do not know.

27,640. Was that in addition to the three twenties that you have told us of; he gave you three twenties. When was it he gave your wife some?—I do not know.

27,641. Does your wife know?—I cannot say.

27,642. When did he give this money to your wife?—I do not know.

27,643. Come; when was it?—I do not recollect anything about it.

27,644. Now, look here, we shall stand here till you tell us, and the odds are that you shall go to Exeter gaol. What was it that Parnell said about your evidence. Do not wait to hear the questions, but tell us what you know. You are sworn to tell the truth?—I cannot recollect.

27,645. Recollect what you can recollect about that?—I do not know.

27,646. Yes you do. Parnell told you not to drag him into it, did not he?—No.

27,647. What did Parnell tell you to say? You went to him for advice, and what advice did he give you the first time?—"I think," he says, "you had "better let it out."

27,648. Did he say that the first time or the last time?—The last time.

27,649. How often had you seen him about your evidence before the last time?—Only once.

27,650. What did he say then?—I asked him if he recollected whether he had got anything against me or not, and he said——

27,651. What did he say? Do not be afraid of Mr. Parnell's coming; go on?—I do not recollect.

27,652. You recollect that you asked him whether he had got anything against you, and if you recollect the question you recollect the answer?—He said he believed he had.

27,653. What was it he had?—I did not ask him, and he did not tell me.

27,654. What was it?—He did not tell me.

27,655. Then he asked you what you had against him?—Yes; and I said I did not know.

27,656. Did he not tell you the best thing was for neither of you to know? Come now; what was it. You recollect the one part of a conversation and you do not recollect the other?—I was not there two minutes.

27,657. I do not care about that. You got an answer to your question. What was it he said?—He said, "I think you had better tell it out."

27,658. That was the last occasion. If he said that on the first occasion there was no necessity to say it on the last occasion. What was it? come, out with it?—He said, the best way was to out with it.

27,659. That is on the last occasion; but on the first occasion?—The same story the first occasion.

27,660. What did he tell you?—The same as I tell you now.

27,661. Did you show him the summons?—No; I told him I had a summons, and asked him if he had anything against me.

27,662. What did you mean by that?—Electioneering.

27,663. Did you refer to a book?—No.

27,664. What did he say?—He said, "What you "have had you had better tell."

27,665. That is the last occasion?—Both occasions.

27,666. Did not he tell you that you had better keep his name out of it?—I do not recollect that he did.

27,667. Then, if he gave you that advice you have come here to tell a parcel of lies?—I do not recollect.

27,668. You do not recollect! You have been

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

Mr. W. Satchwell.

18 Sept. 1866.

talking to Mr. Parnell, to your wife, and was it owing to Mr. Parnell's evidence that you gave the evidence that you did?—No.

27,669. Mr. Parnell advised you to give honest evidence, and then you give this?—He told me to tell the truth.

27,670. Did he not tell you on the first occasion not to out with the truth, and on the second occasion that it was better?—Probably he might.

27,671. Perhaps he might! Was it not on that occasion that he told you not to tell; was not that what he told you?—He never did.

27,672. What were the words he said? — I do not know.

27,673. The best thing you can do is to tell the truth. You told me just now, that on the first occasion he told you not to tell. What did he say when he told you not to tell?—I do not recollect much about it.

27,674. He gave you to understand that you were not to tell on the first occasion, did not he?—He said it would be all right.

27,675. The second occasion he changed his mind, and told you to tell?—Yes.

27,676. Will you swear that he ever told you to tell? On your oath, did he ever tell you to tell the truth?—I think he did.

27,677. You think he did! Will you swear he did?—I cannot tell.

27,678. Will you swear that he ever told you to tell the truth?—It would be the best thing to out with it.

27,679. Will you swear he ever said that, that you were to out with it?—I think he did.

27,680. Will you swear it?—I do not know.

27,681. Will you swear he did not tell you not to tell?—No.

27,682. Did you see him last night?—No; I saw him in the street as I was passing the door.

27,683. When did you last speak to him?—The end of last week.

27,684. Last Saturday, after Blank was examined, and Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle?—I think it was.

27,685. Did you have any conversation about what Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle and Blank had let out? — No, I was not there long enough.

27,686. Did you have any conversation with him? —I was not there three minutes.

27,687. Did you mention Blank's evidence to him? —I think I did.

27,688. What did he say? — He did not pass any remarks upon it.

27,689. Was it not after that that he told you it would be best for you to tell? — I think he did from what I recollect.

27,690. Did you speak to him about Blank's evidence, or he to you?—I think I spoke to him.

27,691. Did not you say, "They have got it out of "Blank, and perhaps I might as well split too"?—Perhaps I did.

27,692. Did you?—Yes.

27,693. You went and said as Blank had split, you might as well split, or words to that effect?—Yes.

27,694. Then why did you not tell us that long since? Now that you have recollected so far as that, you recollect that he told you on the first occasion not to tell. On your oath, did not he tell you not to tell? —I would not swear to it at all.

27,695. Will you swear he did not?—No.

27,696. Did he tell you to be firm?—No.

27,697. What did he tell you on the first occasion? —I asked him if he had anything against me, and he said "I do not know; you will be able to go on very "well; I have got nothing against you."

27,698. "And you will be able to pass through?" —Something to that effect.

27,699. Did you say, "Take care and not tell, and "I will not tell, and it will be all right?"—No.

27,700. You did not expect that he was coming to anything against you?—No.

27,701. If you knew that he was going to tell anything against you, you would not have kept it back? —I did not think.

27,702. Is all you have told us the truth? What he said first was not till Saturday, that you had better tell?—I do not know that it was Saturday.

27,703. Was it after Blank's examination?—Yes.

27,704. And you said it was in consequence of Blank's examination that he gave you this advice? — Yes.

Mr. S. Nichols.

SAMUEL NICHOLS sworn and examined.

27,705. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live? — Goveton.

27,706. How far from here?—12 miles.

27,707. How long have you been there?—I was born there, but I have been absent. I lived there the last time about five years.

27,708. Are you brother to Mrs. Henry Crawford? —Yes.

27,709. Did you bring her a sum of money at one of the elections?—Yes.

27,710. Which election?—I think in 1863.

27,711. Where did you get the money?—I cannot positively tell you where, but I can tell you whereabouts. I do not know anybody in Totnes, except my brother-in-law and sister, but I will describe where it was. It was somewhere near to the arch across the street.

27,712. How did you come to get it?—A young man guided me on the opposite side of the street, and pointed his finger to the door.

27,713. Where did you see him?—Outside of Crawford's.

27,714. Who was the young man?—I never saw him before or since.

27,715. Did you speak to him?—He knew me. He had been at the house along with a great many others, and I had seen him.

27,716. You had seen him before then?—The same evening.

22,717. Did you speak to him first, or he to you? —He spoke to me.

27,718. What did he say? — He said, "Where are "you going to, Crawford?" I said, "Do not you go "bothering there; my sister is ill;" and he said, "Are you going anywhere?" I knew. I said, "Yes, down the street;" and he said, "Are you "going to get anything?" and he said, "I know."

27,719. Had Mrs. Crawford told you that there was money to be had? — I do not know. There was some person said that "you had better go and get it, "as your sister is ill."

27,720. Was Mr. Parnell there? — I would not know him if I was to see him.

27,721. You do not know him?—No; I have never seen the man since.

27,722. Was it a young man who took you down and showed you the door?—Yes.

27,723. Can you say where it was now?—I do not think I can.

27,724. What did you do?—I went in.

27,725. Whom did you find?—I found a gentlemanly person there.

27,726. Which side of the arch was it, the upper or lower?—This side, I think.

27,727. Which side of the street?—The left-hand side going down.

27,728. This side?—Yes.

27,729. That is Mr. Parnell's house?—I do not know.

27,730. Is it not the present post-office?—I do not know. I have never been in Totnes more than on one occasion.

27,731. When you got in and saw this gentleman, what did you say to him?—He appeared by some means to know what I came there for.

27,732. Had you seen him before?—No.

27,733. Did you see him at the house?—I did not mix with the people who came.

27,734. Did you know what they were about?—Yes, I guessed.

27,735. What did you guess?—I thought they were about politics.

27,736. And bribery?—Yes, both parties.

27,737. Can you say whether you saw the man in the house at your brother's?—I cannot say.

27,738. What did he say; "Have you come from "Crawford's"?—Words to that effect.

27,739. And you said, "Yes"?—Yes.

27,740. And what did he say?—He said, "Stop "here a minute."

27,741. Where?—In the passage.

27,742. Was there a light?—No; very dark.

27,743. What time in the evening?—It might be 8 o'clock.

27,744. What time of the year?—It must be in January, I think. I cannot say to the exact month.

27,745. He left you in the passage?—Yes.

27,746. How long did he stay away?—I cannot say.

27,747. Did he come back?—Yes, and he said, "Come in here."

27,748. Were there rooms on each side of the passage?—Yes.

27,749. Were you pointed to the room, and did you go in?—Yes.

27,750. What did you find there?—A sum of money.

27,751. What in?—In sovereigns.

27,752. What, in a bag?—No.

27,753. Where was it?—On a table.

27,754. Was it counted in tens?—No; I can count 60*l.* without that.

27,755. Did you count it?—I did.

27,756. Did you know what you were to have?—No.

27,757. You knew pretty well?—Within a few pounds.

27,758. You went to get 60*l.* Did you see the man as he came out?—When I came out I saw him.

27,759. You came out and gave the money to your sister?—Yes. To the best of my recollection she was upstairs ill.

27,760. Was there a woman named Grace Tucker attending upon her?—No, not at that time.

27,761. Did you give her money whilst she was lying in bed?—I do not know whether she was sitting on the side of the bed or in the bed.

27,762. How long did you stay afterwards, after you gave her the money in the bed-room?—That night.

27,763. You stayed that night in the bed-room?—I stayed that night in the house.

27,764. How long did you stay in the bed-room?—I cannot say.

27,765. Did you see what she did with the money?—She put it in a box.

27,766. Did you see her?—Yes.

27,767. Did she get out of bed?—Yes.

27,768. Where was the box?—Standing in the room.

27,769. By the window?—To the best of my recollection it was.

27,770. What did she do to the box?—I do not know, more than close it.

27,771. Was the box shut?—I think it was.

27,772. Had she to unlock it?—She had to open it.

27,773. Did she lock it after she put the money in?—I cannot distinctly say.

27,774. In 1865 did you get some money for her?—No, I was not there. I have not been at Totnes since, except once, a twelvemonth ago last races.

27,775. Is that all you know about it?—Yes.

27,776. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you any vote?—No.

27,777. Where do you live?—At Goveton.

27,778. How far from here?—Twelve miles.

27,779. How did the person know you?—I had been given to understand by others that he had been backwards and forwards and had seen me.

27,780. Whom were you given to understand that by?—My sister told me he knew me.

27,781. Did your sister tell you who it was?—No.

27,782. Were there people there bargaining?—Some person went to the door with me, and when I went outside he said, "Are you going, so-and-so?"

27,783. Who was it?—A young man who wore a cap.

27,784. What did he say?—He said, "Are you "going down the street?" and I said, "Yes."

27,785. Was any name mentioned to you?—None whatever.

27,786. Do you know Mr. Cuming here?—No.

27,787. Do you know a young fellow called Hill?—No.

27,788. Describe the young man?—He was a young man with rather a fair complexion, and wore a cap.

27,789. What age?—I should say at that time about 20 or 21.

27,790. Had you seen him in your brother's house?—I had seen him.

27,791. When you came back with the money did your sister ask you where you got it from?—I cannot say that she did. I know I gave it to her.

27,792. Are you quite sure she did not ask you where she got it from, who gave it to you, and how you came to bring it?—No.

27,793. Has she given you anything for your trouble?—No; not a farthing

27,794. Did not she tell you to go down after it?—No,

27,795. Nor Crawford, her husband?—No, never. I never saw either of them about the affair.

27,796. What sort of a man was the man who gave you the money?—A shortish set man.

27,797. What kind of whiskers?—I could not say.

27,798. Should you know him if you saw him again?—I do not know.

27,799. Are you sure?—If you were to show me the man I might say yes; but I do not think I could.

27,800. If he was in here, do you think you could pick him out?—I do not know. I did not see him distinctly by the light.

(Mr. Parnell was requested to stand up.)

27,801. (Mr. Bere.) Is that the person?—I cannot say.

27,802. Some such built man?—Yes.

27,803. Have you the least doubt that that is the man?—I cannot positively say. It was some such man.

27,804. Will you swear he was not the man?—No, I could not swear it.

(Mr. Coleridge.) Now go down the street, where you think you got the money, and tell us if you can speak to it.

(Mr. Bere.) And go into the post office and into the passage, and see if you know the room.

JOHN CROCKER sworn and examined.

Mr. J. Crocker.

27,805. (Mr. Bere.) Were you employed as waiter at the "Seymour" hotel at the election of 1865?—Part of the time.

27,806. How long were you employed there?—I left on the Saturday night before the election.

27,807. Why did you leave?—Because I received very different treatment after the election was going on from what I did before.

27,808. How long had you been there?—I should think about 15 months, occasionally, not always.

27,809. How long had you been a voter for Totnes—Never.

27,810. You were a voter then?—Never a voter for the borough.

27,811. You left because they treated you differently to what you expected?—Yes.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

Mr. J. Crocker.

18 Sept. 1866.

27,812. Was Mr. Jeffery Michelmore there?—Yes.

27,813. Were you employed to attend on Mr. Pender?—Always before that.

27,814. Mr. Pender had his own servant with him?—One servant.

27,815. What room did he occupy as sitting-room?—No. 4 and No. 5, two sitting-rooms. The bed-rooms I do not know anything about.

27,816. How long had he been there before you were turned away?—I should think about 10 days.

27,817. Had you attended upon him all the time with his servant?—No.

27,818. Who had attended upon him besides you?—They had got a woman who had been there called Ann Satchwell.

27,819. And she attended upon him?—Yes.

27,820. Had you had unpleasant treatment before the Friday before the election?—Yes.

27,821. What was that?—There were other parties in the house who said I should not be wanted because I was on the opposite side.

27,822. Who said that?—Mrs. Beazley told me of it.

27,823. Parties were talking about your being on the opposite side?—Yes.

27,824. You had not a vote for the borough?—No.

27,825. Had you a vote for the council?—Yes.

27,826. Did you vote for the Conservatives?—I did.

27,827. On the Friday, did not Mr. Jeffery Michelmore say, "Mind you do not say anything "about what you see here; or, if you do, I will turn "you out of the house"?—He did, in No. 6 sitting room.

27,828. How long before had Ann Satchwell left?—I think she left soon after Mr. Harrington, the former proprietor, died.

27,829. When did he die?—I cannot say; I should think he must have died about 15 or 16 months before that.

27,830. (Mr. Coleridge.) After Seymour's election?—No, I do not think he did.

27,831. (Mr. Bere.) He died after the election of 1863?—Yes; I knew nothing about it then.

27,832. How did you know Ann Satchwell while she was living there; you were in the habit of going to the house?—Yes, I know Mr. Harrington well.

27,833. How long had she been a waitress there?—I cannot tell that.

27,834. A long time?—Yes.

27,835. She went away after Mr. Harrington died?—Yes.

27,836. How long after his death?—I cannot tell you.

27,837. Do you know where she went?—I heard it was Somersetshire.

27,838. Do you know whether she stayed at the same place till she came back again at the last election?—I do not.

27,839. Do you know where she came from when she came back this last election?—I heard it was Somersetshire.

27,840. How long before the election did she come back?—I saw her there day after day, occasionally with Mrs. Beasley, and I heard some of the servants say she was coming back before the election.

27,841. How long before the election did you see her first?—Three or four days.

27,842. Did she come before Mr. Pender came?—No, I do not think.

27,843. How long after Mr. Pender came did she first come?—I think she came the day after Mr. Pender.

27,844. Do you know how she came to the Seymour hotel. Was it at Mr. Pender's special request?—That I cannot answer.

27,845 Do you know who paid her?—No.

27,846. You do not know that?—No.

27847. Do you know whether she was directed to wait upon Mr. Pender herself?—It appeared so to me.

27,848. Did you receive any instructions not to attend on Mr. Pender from Mrs. Beazley?—Yes.

27,849. When?—Two or three days before the election.

27,850. Was that the first time you received instructions not to attend Mr. Pender?—I think it was.

27,851. You are quite sure about that?—Yes.

27,852. How long had Ann Satchwell been there before you received notice not to attend on Mr. Pender?—Well, I cannot tell what day it was I received notice, only Mrs. Beazley told me, or I heard the servants say so.

27,853. You say Mr. Pender came 10 days before the election, and Ann Satchwell came the day after?—I think it was Friday. I did not put down the day of the month, because I did not feel any interest in it.

27,854. How long had Ann Satchwell been in the house when Mrs. Beazley spoke to you?—Two or three days.

27,855. What did Mrs. Beazley tell you?—She said she had been informed I was not wanted there, and had better not wait on any of the rooms.

27,856. Any of the rooms?—Any of the rooms they occupied.

27,857. Who?—Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour.

27,858. Who had come first, Mr. Pender or Mr. Seymour?—Mr. Pender, I think, came first.

27,859. Did Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour occupy the same sitting room?—They dined together.

27,860. Did they keep the same sitting room during the day?—I cannot tell, because I never went into the room.

27,861. Had you gone into any before you received the warning of Mrs. Beazley?—I waited on Mr. Pender when he came.

27,862. And when did Mr. Seymour come?—I cannot tell.

27,863. When he came did you wait on him too?—No.

27,864. You never waited on Mr. Seymour?—I did on the former occasion.

27,865. Did Mr. Seymour bring a servant?—Yes.

27,866. Did you wait on Mr. Seymour in 1863?—I was not there.

27,867. When had you waited on Mr. Seymour before?—I waited on him when they were down, I think, in the fall of the year after Parliament was prorogued.

27,868. In 1863?—1863. I do not know the date.

27,869. Mrs. Beazley told you this, and then did Mr. Jeffery Michelmore tell you what you told us, not to say anything about what you saw there; "if you "do you shall be turned out of the house, and if you "do not you shall have a handsome present after the "election was over"?—No, Mr. Jenkins told me that in the commercial room.

27,870. John Sloggett Jenkins?—Yes.

27,871. Was he constantly about the house at that time?—Yes.

27,872. Did he and Mr. Chaster, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, and Mr. Holman, occupy No. 5 as a sitting room?—Well, they were there occasionally.

27,873. Were not they there very often?—Yes.

27,874. Was not that the committee room?—I cannot say. I never went into any of the rooms. This Ann Satchwell answered all the bells that were rung there then.

27,875. Have you been turned out?—No; I have to leave at Christmas, or my mother-in-law has.

27,876. Is that Mrs. Stammers?—Yes.

27,877. You are her lodger?—Yes.

27,878. And Mrs. Stammers has received notice to quit?—Yes.

27,879. When did they give her notice?—On the 21st June last.

27,880. That was after you had given your evidence before the committee?—Yes.

27,881. Who gave you notice?—George Fitze gave my wife notice.

27,882. Did he tell her anything when he gave her the notice?—He asked to see Mrs. Stammers, and my wife said he could not because she was unwell. She is 82 years old.

27,883. How long has she been a tenant of the duke's?—About 23 years, and the family before have had leases under the Dukes of Somerset for the last 150 years.

27,884. And your wife told him he could not see Mrs. Stammers because she was unwell. What did Mr. Fitze say?—He said he could leave it on the house.

27,885. Did he?—Yes.

27,886. Did he give any reason why he gave the notice?—No.

27,887. None at all?—No.

27,888. Have you ever seen Mr. Fitze in the matter?—No.

27,889. Is it George Fitze, junior or senior?—George Fitze, junior.

27,890. Have you ever seen Mr. Michelmore since the notice was given?—I have seen him, but I never talked to him about it.

27,891. Have you had any reason given you why your mother-in-law got notice?—The only reason given was, that when my sister-in-law was here from Swansea she paid the rent.

27,892. Whom to?—The office.

27,893. Was it Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—I do not know to whom it was; she paid it to the office, and the message was, that they did not want to get rid of Mrs. Stammers, but only of Crocker.

27,894. Did they say why they wanted to get rid of Crocker?—No.

27,895. Though she has been tenant of the duke's for 23 years, because you gave evidence in support of the petition against the Liberals before the Committee of the House of Commons they gave her notice?—That must be the cause of it, sir.

27,896. Before you left, did Mr. Holman and Mr. Jenkins speak to you about not attending on Mr. Pender?—No.

27,897. Neither of them?—No, neither of them.

27,898. Was it Mr. Jeffery Michelmore and Mrs. Beazley spoke to you?—Mrs. Beazley spoke to me.

27,899. Do you know Cross?—Yes; he is an uncle of my wife's.

27,900. Was he a clerk of Mr. Michelmore's?—He was.

27,901. Where is he now?—Bridgetown.

27,902. What is his christian name?—Richard.

27,903. During the last election was he a clerk of Mr. Michelmore's?—I think not.

27,904. How long had he left him?—I should think he must have left two years now.

27,905. Did he set up for himself?—No.

27,906. What is he doing?—He has retired. He has a superannuation from the Duke of Somerset.

27,907. Was he in the habit of going to the "Seymour" hotel and helping Mrs. Beazley with her accounts?—Yes.

27,908. Have you ever been back to the "Seymour" as a servant since you were sent away that Saturday?—I never waited there. I told them I would never wait while Ann Satchwell was in the house.

27,909. You did not like her then?—No.

27,910. Why did not you like her?—Because she was waiting on these gentlemen, and I had to wash up all the dirty things she brought out.

27,911. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you any quarrel with Ann Satchwell?—No, never no quarrel.

27,912. Only you did not like her being put over you?—I did not like her being brought there when the election was coming off and I should have picked up a pound or two from the members.

27,913. Do you know why she left after Mr. Harrington's death?—No.

27,914. Do you know what led to her coming back?—I heard the other servants say she was coming back.

27,915. Did you hear why?—No.

27,916. Do you know whether Mr. Pender brought her back?—I do not know.

27,917. And she has been there ever since?—She has been there ever since.

27,918. (Mr. Bere.) Had you gone and told any of the Conservatives things that were happening at the "Seymour" hotel?—Never.

27,919. (Mr. Longe.) Had you never any reason given you from anyone why you should be so disliked or disapproved of by Mr. Pender?—Well, I must tell you I was insulted by Callard and Prout, that was two clerks of the Duke of Somerset.

27,920. What did they say?—They were clerks of the duke, and they came in and said I had been taking messages from the "Seymour" hotel to the "Seven Stars," which I deny, I never did it, and to Mr. Screach's; that was the man I served my time with.

27,921. Whom did they tell that?—They told me this between ourselves, they were there having a glass of ale one evening.

27,922. (Mr. Coleridge.) After they had dismissed you did you go to the "Seven Stars" and wait?—I never have. I have never been to the "Seven Stars" since.

27,923. Had you ever waited there before?—I had seven or eight years ago.

27,924. (Mr. Longe.) You believe that your presence was objected to by Mr. Seymour, owing to that tale of Callard and Prout?—Yes, and others; because Mr. Parnell said they ought not to have had me there, but Clarke the other waiter.

27,925. (Mr. Bere.) Because Mr. Clarke was a voter?—Yes, and I was not.

27,926. And you were not of so much use as Clarke might have been?—No.

SAMUEL NICHOLS recalled.

27,927. (Mr. Bere.) Have you been down to the post-office?—Yes.

27,928. Was that the house you were taken to to get the money?—I would not swear, there are two houses so much alike.

27,929. Are they together?—Yes, with adjoining doors.

27,930. Have you any doubt it is one of two?—No doubt, by the nearness I went to the arch, but I could not swear exactly; I cannot tell you.

MRS. ANN SATCHWELL sworn and examined.

27,931. (Mr. Coleridge.) How often has your husband had money from Mr. Parnell at election times?—I do not know that.

27,932. Yes you do?—No, I do not.

27,933. How often have you received it for him?—That I cannot tell you, I am not going to tell false.

27,934. Have you ever done so?—Yes, I have.

27,935. When did you receive it first?—That I cannot bear in mind.

27,936. About?—If I did I would tell you.

27,937. About how long ago did you receive any money from Parnell?—I cannot tell you.

27,938. About, was it 10 years ago?—No.

27,939. Was it seven?—No.

27,940. Was not it in 1859?—No, the last election or the last before.

27,941. That was 1863?—Yes.

27,942. What did you receive then?—I had 10*l.* first.

27,943. How much afterwards?—I am sure I cannot tell you.

27,944. Yes you can?—No, I cannot.

27,945. Did you receive something afterwards?—

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

Mrs. Ann Satchwell.

18 Sept. 1666.

Yes, but how much I cannot tell. I am not going to say what I did when I know I should not be right.

27,946. What was it wrapped in that you cannot tell how much you received from Mr. Parnell?—It was open.

27,947. Why cannot you tell?—I cannot bear in mind.

27,948. Was it about 10*l.*?—Yes, I should think it was, but I do not know exactly the sum.

27,949. Then you received two 10*l.* What was that for?—For my husband's vote.

27,950. Did Mr. Parnell tell you so?—No, I went to him.

27,951. What did you say?—I said as other people did, that I wanted some money.

27,952. You went like a good wife and told him you wanted some money?—Money is always useful, but I do not deny like many do that they have not had money when they know they have, and now it is all found out.

27,953. Then 1863 you got two 10*l.* from Mr. Parnell for your husband's vote?—Yes.

27,954. Was that at Mr. Parnell's own house?—Yes, he was not offered anything by the Whigs, but from the Tories, he might have had plenty; but he is no turn-coat.

27,955. Are you a Whig?—Yes.

27,956. Do you know what a Whig is?—Yes, they are better than the Tories or they would not be very good.

27,957. When you went to Mr. Parnell what did you say?—I went and asked him for money.

27,958. And you told him your husband was going to vote right?—Yes, and that he knew 27,959. Was that before or after the election?—After.

27,960. In 1862 your husband has told us he got 20*l.* or 25*l.* Do you know anything of that?—No.

27,961. Did not he ever tell you that?—Men do not let the women always know.

27,962. Then you know nothing about his having a lucky 20*l.* between the election of 1862 and the election of 1863 about Christmas time?—What, the 25*l.* he had put into his pocket?

27,963. No, the other 25*l.* that he only recollected to-day?—No.

27,964. Do you recollect something when Mr. Dent withdrew and your husband voted for Mr. Pender?—I do not.

27,965. Did not he show it to you?—No doubt he did, but I do not bear it in mind.

27,966. He is not quite sure whether it was 20*l.* or 25*l.*, and you cannot recollect which?—No.

27,967. You recollect his getting the 25*l.* shoved into his pocket from Mr. Harris, but he also got 20*l.* from the other side too?—Not he.

27,968. He says so; did not you know that?—No. He is very nervous, and I believe he not told you exactly right.

27,969. Did not he tell you that Mr. Parnell had given him 20*l.* at that time?—I do not recollect anything at all about it.

27,970. What did he get at the last election when his vote was tendered and refused?—He had not got anything.

27,971. Not at all?—No.

27,972. Did you get anything?—No, I should have been very glad to have had some.

27,973. Did not they offer you any?—No.

27,974. Did not you go to Mr. Parnell at that time?—No.

27,975. Why?—Because I thought there was no money.

27,976. Then you were rather suprised when you heard what money there was?—Yes, when I heard what others had got.

27,977. Did not you get anything at the election of 1863?—No.

27,978. Do you recollect a present being sent you?—No.

27,979. Or 1864?—Other folks had that, not I.

27,980. How often did Mr. Parnell give you money for your husband's vote?—I bear in mind three times.

27,981. When were those times?—I cannot bear in mind.

27,982. When you say three times do you count the two 10*l.* as two separate times?—Yes.

27,983. When was the other time?—I do not know.

27,984. Before that or after; about when?—I do not bear in mind at all.

27,985. Try and recollect?—I do not recollect.

27,986. You recollect the two 10*l.* votes you know; what was the amount the other time he gave you some?—I do not know I tell you.

27,987. You told us he gave you 10*l.* and something you think was 10*l.* after the 1863 election, and you say something another time; how much was it he gave you?—Altogether not more than 30*l.* I have told you as near as I can.

27,988. The other was 10*l.* also?—Yes.

27,989. When was that?—I do not know.

27,990. Are you quite sure the other 10*l.* was not after the last election for tendering his vote?—No, he had not a single halfpenny.

27,991. He did not tell you?—He would have told me. He is not a man who gets money and keeps it back.

27,992. But he did not tell you when he got the 20*l.* or the 25*l.*; when was this other 10*l.*?—I do no know.

27,993. Ten years ago?—I do not know.

27,994. Was it two years ago?—More than that.

27,995. Was not it between the 1862 and the 1863 elections when Mr. Dent retired when you got that 10*l.*?—I do not know.

27,996. Where did Mr. Parnell give you that other 10*l.*?—I had it all at his house, he did not come near mine, and he did not offer any sum for his vote.

27,997. How long was it between the first time you received and the next time?—I do not know at all.

27,998. Was it a year?—I do not know.

27,999. (Mr. Bere.) You have not so often got 10*l.* that you cannot remember?—It is not like that.

28,000. (Mr. Coleridge.) You quite agree with your husband about the 10*l.* you had in 1863; was the other before or after that?—I do not recollect at all.

28,001. 1863 is only three years ago; have you ever received anything within the last three years?—We have not.

28,002. Then it must have been before the election of 1863 that you got the other 10*l.*?—Yes.

28,003. How long before the election of 1863?—I have said I do not know.

28,004. I do not ask exactly?—I cannot say any time.

28,005. Was it a year?—I do not know.

28,006. Was it a month?—More than that.

28,007. Was it more than a year before?—I do not know.

28,008. Do you recollect your husband telling you that he got 20*l.* after the 1862 election?—No.

28,009. How much do you know your husband received altogether? From Mr. Parnell you received 30*l.* some time; what do you know of his receiving besides?—I do not know.

28,010. Yes, you do. You say he does not keep things back from you?—I do not bear in mind.

28,011. What has he told you he received besides that 30*l.* you got for him?—He has not told me anything about it.

28,012. Did he ever tell you that he got 20*l.* after the 1862 election, or 25*l.*, he does not know which, from Mr. Parnell? Was that the same time as you got the 10*l.*?—No.

28,013. When was it you got the 10*l.*; was it the 1859 election?—Yes.

28,014. Did you get that at Mr. Parnell's house?—Yes.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

Mrs. Ann Satchwell.

18 Sept. 1866.

28,015. When you went did he tell you that he had given your husband 20*l.* besides?—No.

28,016. You got 10*l.* and your husband 20*l.* and 25*l.* from Harris; that was 55*l.*?—Well, that is not 200*l.*, like some had.

28,017. You know altogether that he got 55*l.* at the 1859 election?—I do not know.

28,018. You got 10*l.*, and there was Harris's 25*l.*, and he has told us he had another 25*l.* from Mr. Parnell. He has told you about that 20*l.*, has not he?—No, nothing at all.

28,019. He has told you it was the best paying election when Mr. Mills stood?—I do not know.

28,020. You can recollect?—I cannot.

28,021. You got 10*l.* in 1859, and two 10*l.*'s in 1863?—Yes.

28,022. (Mr. Bere.) Did not Mr. Pender come to thank you for your husband's offer of his vote after the last election?—No; Mr. Pender was not there.

28,023. Did not he send somebody to say he was very much obliged for your husband having gone to offer his vote?—I do not know. I was not home at the time; I was at the "Seymour" hotel.

28,024. Did somebody say at the "Seymour" hotel that he was obliged to your husband?—No; I never saw Mr. Pender.

28,025. Did somebody else tell you that?—No.

28,026. What were you doing at the "Seymour"?—I went to assist.

28,027. As cook?—No, at the counter.

28,028. What did you get?—Not anything; my daughter paid me. I had nothing from Mrs. Beasley.

28,029. Who is your daughter?—Ann Satchwell.

28,030. What did she pay you?—I do not recollect, because I was not a hired servant, only went to help she a little.

28,031. What did Ann pay you?—I do not recollect.

28,032. Did not she give you something from Mr. Pender?—No, it was not from Pender, but out of her own pocket, because I was not hired.

28,033. Was it from Mr. Seymour?—No.

28,034. Are you quite sure?—Yes.

28,035. How much?—I do not recollect.

28,036. Was it a five pound note?—I should like to have seen it.

28,037. Was it a sovereign?—No.

28,038. Have not you had any money at all since the last election?—No.

28,039. Not a present?—Not anything.

28,040. Not a silk dress?—No.

HENRY TOMS sworn and examined.

H. Toms.

28,041. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A printer.

28,042. How long have you been a printer in Totnes?—40 years.

28,043. Whom do you print for, the Liberals or the Conservatives, or both?—For Mr. Hannaford.

28,044. Mr. Samuel Hannaford? Was he a Conservative or Liberal?—A regular Tory.

28,045. Were you a regular Tory too?—Yes.

28,046. How often have you voted?—About 26 years I have had a vote.

28,047. How often?—The first time I voted was 1847.

28,048. How much had you from that?—Nothing.

28,049. How much have you had in your lifetime?—Nothing.

28,050. (Mr. Longe.) Now in 1859 who did you vote for?—Who were the candidates?

28,051. Mr. Dunn was the Conservative candidate?—I voted for Mr. Dunn.

28,052. Did you get any present afterwards for voting for him?—No.

28,053. Now Mr. Dent's election in 1862?—I do not think there was any opposition then.

28,054. They did not go to the poll?—No.

28,055. You remember those two elections?—Yes.

28,056. 1863, Mr. Dent stood again?—I voted for Mr. Dent.

28,057. Do you remember Mr. Bourne calling on you for the Liberals?—That was 1863, when Mr. Alfred Seymour was a candidate.

28,058. What did he come about?—He came down, I think, about 11 or 12 at night to get my vote.

28,059. What did he offer you?—Nothing.

28,060. Surely he offered you something?—No, he did not.

28,061. What did you tell him?—He said he had asked me too much when he asked me to vote for Mr. Alfred Seymour. He now asked me not to vote at all.

28,062. (Mr. Bere.) Who had canvassed you before he came?—I believe Mr. Alfred Seymour had called.

28,063. What did you tell him?—I would not promise him.

28,064. Did you tell him you would not vote for him?—No; I would not promise.

28,065. Why, being such a consistent man, did not you tell him at once?—Because I did not want to offend anyone at that time.

28,066. But your not being decided led to another call from the Liberals?—Perhaps so.

28,067. When Mr. Bourne called did not he offer you anything?—No, he offered me no money.

28,068. Did he tell you it would be better for you?—No; but if I voted against Alfred Seymour he would withdraw all his work.

28,069. What work?—Printing.

28,070. What work do you have from Mr. Bourne?—I do all his printing.

28,071. It is worth about 40*l.* a year?—Well, it varies from 20*l.* to 40*l.*

28,072. What did you tell him then?—In point of fact I do not think I gave him any decided answer. He was in such a passion I could not speak to him.

28,073. That he would withdraw his custom directly?—

28,074. Did he hold out any other threat?—No.

28,075. Did not he hold out any hopes of advantage besides if you changed sides?—No.

28,076. What work have you had since from the Conservatives? Have you had all the Conservative printing since that?—I am not confined to the Conservatives.

28,077. Have you had all on that side?—No; there are two Conservative printers in Totnes.

28,078. Have you had all John Heath's printing?—

28,079. (Mr. Longe.) The next election, 1865, who did you vote for, who were the candidates?—Captain Pim and Colonel Dawkins. I voted for Pim and Dawkins.

28,080. Who were the candidates on the other side?—I think Mr. Alfred Seymour called.

28,081. Did no one call from Mr. Pender?—No; I did not see Mr. Pender.

28,082. But did no one call on his behalf?—I rather think the late Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Pender called in the shop, but I did not see them.

28,083. Did they see anyone for you in your place?—No.

28,084. And left no message?—No. The only message I believe he left was that he was the Liberal candidate.

28,085. After he left did anyone else come?—No, no one else came.

28,086. Did no one else come on their behalf?—I think Mr. Alfred Seymour was the last who canvassed me.

28,087. You are sure that no one else came from the Liberals besides those?—No.

28,088. Whom were you canvassed by for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—I did not see him at all.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

H. Toms.

18 Sept. 1866.

I saw him after, some part of the election, but he never asked me for my vote.

28,089. Was it known what your principles were?—Yes.

28,090. And were you doing a large business for Mr. Heath at the time?—Not particularly; just as I do now. I might do rather more now.

28,091. (Mr. Bere.) You never had any money given you?—No, nor none offered.

28,092. Nor did you ask for any?—No.

28,093. Nor did they offer you any?—No.

28,094. Used you to do printing for the Conservative side at the elections?—Yes.

28,095. How large an amount was it the last time?—About 16*l.*

28,096. How much was it in 1863?—I think when Mr. Dent was here it was about 16*l.* or 17*l.*, I cannot say exactly.

28,097. (Mr. Coleridge.) You have told us you never had anything yourself, were you ever asked to distribute anything amongst others?—No.

28,098. I suppose you keep some compositors?—I have a journeyman.

28,099. Has he a vote?—No.

S. Tozer.

STEPHEN TOZER sworn and examined.

28,100. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A mason.

28,101. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—20 years agone; ever since Mackenzie was here.

28,102. Did you vote for Mackenzie?—Yes.

28,103. What did you get for doing that?—Nothing at all.

28,104. Did you vote for Dunn in 1859?—Yes.

28,105. How much did you get for that?—Nothing at all.

28,106. You never had anything?—No.

28,107. You have never had anything for voting. Did you go with Frederick Evens to take care of some gentlemen, some voters?—I never looked to them for any money. I took away one.

28,108. Who was that?—He was called Sharpham.

28,109. Where did you take him?—To Kingsbridge.

28,110. Where was he kept?—At the "Anchor."

28,111. How long did you keep him there?—From Sunday morning till Monday night.

28,112. What did you do with him then?—We took him back to the "Stars."

28,113. You left him there?—And left him there.

28,114. How much did you get for that job?—One sovereign.

28,115. Was that all the money you had at that election?—Myself.

28,116. Is that all the money you had at that election?—Yes.

28,117. Is that all the money you ever had?—That is all.

28,118. That you ever had?—Yes.

28,119. Whom did you work for?—Myself.

28,120. Who employs you mostly here?—Sometimes one, and sometimes another.

28,121. Have you worked for the duke at all?—No.

28,122. Have you worked for Mr. John Heath?—Yes.

28,123. A good deal?—Pretty much sometimes.

28,124. Were you working for John Heath at the last election?—No.

21,125. How long before the last election did you work for him?—I might have done a job perhaps as much as 14*l.* or 15*l.*

28,126. Had he paid you always?—Yes, what I did for him.

28,127. You have got a wife?—Yes.

28,128. How much money has she got?—Not a farthing.

28,129. How do you know that?—She is a sick woman.

28,130. Are you sure that she had not anything brought her whilst she was in bed?—I cannot speak to that.

28,131. How long have you been married?—To tell you the truth I have had three wives.

28,132. How long have you been married to the last one?—Oh, hardly a twelvemonth.

28,133. Had you a wife when Mr. Dent was down here?—Of course I had.

28,134. Are you sure she never got anything?—Never, a farthing.

28,135. Did not John Heath talk to you about getting your vote?—No.

28,136. Did anybody on that side?—I always voted one way.

28,137. What did Evens say when he wanted you to go to Kingsbridge?—He came and asked me if I would go, and I agreed to go with him.

28,138. He only gave you a sovereign?—I accepted it as better than I could get for what I did.

28,139. Had he promised you something more?—I got nothing more.

28,140. Had Evens promised you anything more?—He said I should be paid for what I had done.

28,141. Did he say how much?—No.

28,142. Had you done work for Robert Harris?—Yes.

28,143. Just before the election of 1865 had not you?—Yes; just before the election.

28,144. How much did you get paid then?—27*l.* 11*s.* 0*d.*

28,145. Was it a pretty good job?—It was a fair job.

28,146. Had you taken it by the piece?—Yes.

J. Westaway.

JOHN WESTAWAY sworn and examined.

28,147. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A gardener.

28,148. Where do you live?—At North Gate.

28,149. Whom did you last vote for?—I voted for Mr. Alfred Seymour.

28,150. Was that the first time you had ever voted?—That was the first time I had voted.

28,151. Whom are you gardener to?—To Admiral Mitchell.

28,152. He is a Conservative, is he not?—Yes.

28,153. Used you not to live in a little house at the end of his garden?—Yes.

28,154. And had a vote for it?—Yes.

28,155. Do you know who the Admiral voted for?—He voted for Mr. Seymour.

28,156. And whom did you vote for?—I voted for Mr. Seymour.

28,157. And for whom else?—For nobody.

28,158. This was in 1863?—Yes.

28,159. What happened to you in 1863, were you locked up?—Yes.

28,160. What did you get for voting?—I did not get anything, my wife had something.

28,161. What did your wife get?—I think it was 60*l.*

28,162. Did your wife do all the bargaining?—Yes.

28,163. Who gave her the 60*l.*?—She went to a Mrs. Webber's, I think, about three months after the election, and there was a parcel there for her.

28,164. What was in it?—50*l.*

28,165. 50*l.* in what?—In gold and notes.

28,166. Notes of what amount?—5*l.* notes.

28,167. You did not expect anything like that I suppose?—No.

28,168. Were you told that your wife would have something afterwards as a present?—I do not know about that, I think Mrs. Webber had said that I should get something afterwards.

28,169. Had you a vote in 1862?—No, I did not vote then.

28,170. But had you a vote at that time?—Yes.

28,171. Then why did you not vote?—I was not wanted.

28,172. That was because there was no contest?—There was no contest.

28,173. What were you to have if you had voted?—Nothing, there was nothing offered to me.

28,174. But supposing the election had come off where you to have nothing?—No.

28,175. Did you get any present afterwards?—No.

28,176. Did you not get 20*l.*?—No.

28,177. Are you sure of that?—Yes, I had 30*l.* which I returned.

28,178. What were you to have that for, was that in 1862?—Yes.

28,179. You had 30*l.* which you returned, who had given that?—Evens.

28,180. Was that given to you to vote for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

28,181. Then why did you return it?—I thought it would be wrong to vote against my master.

28,182. What did he say to you about it?—He told me to vote which way I pleased.

28,183. Did you not go to the other party and say I have got 30*l.* to vote for Mr. Dent?—No.

28,184. Then how came you to take it?—They came there pestering me and I took it.

28,185. You took it just for the sake of peace, I suppose?—Yes.

28,186. How long before the election had you taken this 30*l.*?—It might have been a week.

28,187. And how long did you keep it?—I had it a week, I gave it up the night before the election.

28,188. Had anyone been to you on the other side in the meantime?—Mr. Seymour came.

28,189. Did not Mr. Parnell come?—No.

28,190. Or Mr. Webber?—No.

28,191. Or any of the Mr. Michelmores?—No.

28,192. Or Mr. Windeatt?—No.

28,193. Was the 30*l.* given to you or given to your wife?—I had 10*l.* first; they brought 20*l.* afterwards.

28,194. Was that left with your wife?—Yes.

28,195. Was that by Mr. Frederick Evens?—Yes.

28,196. And the night before the election you gave it back to him?—My wife took it back.

28,197. Who did she take it back to?—She took it to the "Stars," and she gave it up to Mr. Edmonds or put it down on the table.

28,198. She gave it to Mr. Edmonds himself?—Yes.

28,199. Were you offered nothing on the Liberal side?—No.

28,200. You did not vote at all at that time?—No.

28,201. Or get any money?—No.

28,202. Before you returned the 30*l.* had you not been promised you would be made all right on the other side?—Mrs. Webber told my wife about that, not me.

28,203. Before you returned the 30*l.* did not Mrs. Webber say you would be all right if you did return it?—My wife told her that I had had some money on the other side, and then Mrs. Webber asked her if I would not have some money on that side.

28,204. What did Mrs. Webber say to your wife?—She told my wife that if we wanted a little on their side she had no doubt she could get her some.

28,205. And did she get it?—Yes.

28,206. How much was it?—50*l.*

28,207. You said just now you got nothing?—I had not got it then.

28,208. Your wife told Mrs. Webber you had got something on the Conservative side?—No.

28,209. When Dent and Pender stood you were given 30*l.* to vote for the Conservatives?—Not the first time; I had nothing then. This was the second time.

28,210. You had nothing in 1862 from either party?—No.

28,211. In 1863 your wife got 30*l.* from Evens, and then she talked to Mrs. Webber and you returned the 30*l.*, and got 60*l.* from Mrs. Webber instead?—It was only 50*l.* altogether.

28,212. You returned the 30*l.* and got 50*l.*?—Yes.

28,213. You made a tolerably good thing of it by that transaction?—Yes.

28,214. At the last election you got 60*l.*?—No; I never had anything.

28,215. You said just now you got 60*l.* at one election, which was that?—At Seymour's; I never voted more than once.

28,216. Was it 50*l.* or 60*l.*?—It was 50*l.*

28,217. Did your wife get 10*l.*?—No.

28,218. What did you get altogether?—Only 50*l.*

28,219. In 1865 had you a vote?—No.

28,220. Admiral Mitchell brought you into his house instead of the cottage, and you lost your vote?—Yes.

28,221. You got no present in 1865?—No.

28,222. You had no grateful remembrance?—Nothing at all.

28,223. All your vote has been worth to you is 50*l.*?—That is all.

28,224. Did Mr. Webber give it you himself?—He never spoke to me.

28,225. Who gave the money to your wife?—My wife went there and they said there was a parcel on the table.

28,226. Were you employed at the last election?—No.

28,227. When was it that Webber had you locked up?—That was at the election of 1863.

28,228. Did he not say it was necessary to keep you there?—He said I might sleep there if I liked.

28,229. Who bargained with Webber as to your having something?—My wife.

28,230. Is Webber dead?—Yes.

28,231. Is your wife alive?—Yes.

28,232. Do you know anyone else whom Webber bargained with?—No.

28,233. When did you tell the Admiral you had got the 50*l.*?—Never.

28,234. He does not know now, I suppose?—No.

28,235. Who else was at Webber's that night?—No one else.

28,836. What was he at that time?—A draper.

WILLIAM ELLIS sworn and examined.

W. Ellis.

28,237. (Mr. Longe.) What is your occupation?—I keep a dairy.

28,238. What do you vote for?—My house.

28,239. How long have you had a vote?—The first time I had a vote was in 1859.

28,240. Who did you vote for in 1859?—Dunn and Lord Gifford.

28,241. You split your votes?—Yes.

28,242. Were you under an obligation to both parties?—I rented my ground under the duke.

28,243. He would have all or none?—He seemed to think so at that time, but they did not turn me out then.

28,244. Had you any warning given you?—Not at that time.

28,245. The next election was in 1862?—Then I voted for Mr. Pender.

28,246. You could not vote for both that time?—I thought if I did not vote for them I should get out of the ground. Others had been turned out before me.

28,247. Who canvassed you for Mr. Pender?—Mr. Pender himself.

28,248. Had you any message from Mr. Michelmore?—No.

28,249. And no notice given you?—No. I think

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

W. Ellis.

18 Sept. 1866.

Mr. Jeffery Michelmore asked me if I was going to vote for Mr. Pender.

28,250. How long was that before the election?—I think the day before.

28,251. What did you tell him?—I do not recollect.

28,252. What do you hold under the duke?—About 10 acres of land.

28,253. Where is that?—I have two fields in Dartington.

28,254. Has any other person besides you a vote on the land?—No other.

28,255. How long have you held the land?—Some years.

28,256. When you took the land did you understand on what terms you would hold it?—I was given to understand I was to pay so much rent; there was nothing said about voting.

28,257. In 1863 how did you vote?—Then I voted one and one.

28,258. What led you to change sides?—I voted one and one the first time; I thought that would make it even the second time.

28,259. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Dent himself.

28,260. What did you tell him when he called?—I promised him directly he came.

28,261. You knew the consequences?—I did not know what might be; however I risked it. I had an opportunity of getting some ground on the other side.

28,262. Did anyone else call on you besides Mr. Dent for your vote?—There was some person came whom I did not know about some ground which I was to have on the other side if they turned me out.

28,263. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did anyone ever offer you 40*l.* for your vote?—I had 40*l.*

28,264. At what election did you get the 40*l.*; you did not tell us that?—You did not ask me the question. I had 40*l.* the first time.

28,265. In what year was that?—In 1859.

28,266. Who gave you the 40*l.*?—I think it was Robert Pige.

28,267. Who was Mr. Pige?—He was living here at that time.

28,268. What was he?—I do not know what he was.

28,269. Is he alive now?—Yes; that is the gentleman over there.

28,270. Did he tell you what it was for?—For me to vote for Mr. Dunn.

28,271. When were you next paid?—I think I voted for Mr. Dent. I got 50*l.* more; I did not ask for it; it was brought to me and I did not refuse it.

28,272. Who gave you the 50*l.*?—George Heath.

28,273. Where did he give it to you?—In my own house.

28,274. Then in 1863?—That was the last time Mr. Dent stood.

28,275. What did you get for voting then?—Nothing.

28,276. How was that?—I did not ask for anything.

28,277. Did your wife get anything?—No.

28,278. Was any present offered you?—No.

28,279. You did not receive anything?—No.

28,280. Did it not occur to you to go to Mr. Heath or Mr. Parnell?—No, I never wanted it at any time; it was very handy, however, when it came.

28,281. How came you not to go and see about it on the last occasion?—I never went.

28,282. Did they not come and see you?—No one came.

28,283. Will you swear that you got nothing for your vote on the last occasion?—Nothing.

28,284. Was any arrangement made about some meadows?—No.

28,285. Did you not get some land rather cheap?—No; it was rather dear than cheap.

28,286. When were you turned out of the duke's land?—After I voted for Mr. Dent.

28,287. What land do you rent now?—Some land belonging to Mr. Dent.

28,288. Did George Heath let you the land?—He did.

28,289. How much did you give for that?—4*l.* an acre.

28,290. That is pretty cheap, is it not?—It is quite money enough for it.

28,291. Do you know at what Mr. Pige values it?—At 1*l.* or 2*l.* for the whole.

28,292. Which Mr. Pige gave you the money in 1859?—Robert Pige.

28,293. Is he a valuer?—No; it is his father who values the land.

28,294. Where did you get the 50*l.* from in 1863?—George Heath brought it to me.

28,295. Down to your house?—Yes.

28,296. What was it in?—In gold.

28,297. In 1865 did Mr. Heath ever come to you at all?—Not in regard to any money.

28,298. Did he come to see you?—Not about voting.

28,299. Just think whether anyone of the Mr. Heaths came and asked you about your vote?—No; as soon as the gentleman came and asked me about my vote I promised it him directly.

28,300. Did Captain Pim come?—Yes.

28,301. Did John Heath come with him?—I think he did.

28,302. Did Mr. Heath stay longer in your house than Captain Pim?—No, not a moment.

28,303. Did he not say you would have something if you voted for Captain Pim?—No, nothing was mentioned.

28,304. You heard of others having money?—Yes; I heard of it.

28,305. Why did you not ask for some?—I never asked for any.

28,306. Did you see Frederick Evens?—No.

28,307. Or have any money from him?—No.

28,308. Or from Screach?—No.

28,309. What were you promised in 1862, when Mr. Dent retired?—Nothing at all.

28,310. When did you pay your rent last?—At midsummer.

28,311. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes.

28,312. Who was it paid to?—To Mr. Bryett.

28,313. When did you last pay your rent before that?—The Christmas before.

28,314. Have you paid your rent regularly since you have held Mr. Dent's land?—Yes.

28,315. When Mr. Harris was the agent, did you pay him?—I did.

28,316. What sort of land is it that you have got?—Decent land; grazing land.

28,317. In what part of the district is it; is it towards Follaton?—It is down in the bottom, on this side of Follaton, on the Dartington side of the railway; it joins the railway in the valley.

28,318. Is it just below where Mr. Bryett has built a house?—Yes.

28,319. The fields on the other side of the road?—Yes.

28,320. On the river side of the road?—No; on the other side of the old road.

28,321. Were you not rather disappointed that you held out too long for your vote?—No.

28,322. What did you expect?—Nothing.

28,323. But you held out too long?—If there had been anything for me I should have had it.

28,324. You held out till there was nothing?—No.

28,325. What did you expect for your vote?—Nothing.

28,326. How much did you put as the value of it last time?—Nothing.

28,327. How much were you offered for it?—Nothing.

28,328. You wanted more than they would give you; how came you to stand out so long?—They never offered me anything.

28,329. But you voted very late at the election?—Yes, it was late.

28,330. What made you vote so late?—Nothing in particular.

28,331. Were not your friends who held out with you likewise too late?—That I do not know.

28,332. Was not Marks one of them?—I do not know.

28,333. What did you two together expect to get?—I do not know what I might have had.

28,334. Supposing you had taken something moderate?—If they had given me anything I should have accepted it.

28,335. Were you looking out for them to make the offer?—I did not know anything about it.

28,336. Had you been talked to about your vote?—Not by anyone.

28,337. Had none of the Mr. Heaths said anything to you about the value of your vote?—No.

28,338. Your avocation, when keeping a dairy, would make you get up pretty early in the morning?—Yes.

28,339. After 10 o'clock, towards the middle of the day, would be idle time with you?—I fancy so, sometimes.

28,340. What time did you vote?—I do not know.

28,341. Was it near 3 o'clock?—I dare say it was handy 3 o'clock.

28,342. What made you wait until so late?—I was not particular about voting.

28,343. You had never voted so late before?—Yes, I had.

28,344. When had you voted so late as that?—I cannot tell.

28,345. When Mr. Page gave you the 40*l.* did you not vote earlier?—Yes, I did.

28,346. In 1863, when you had the 60*l.*, you voted much earlier?—I do not know that.

28,347. As soon as you collared your money you voted on that occasion, what made you wait in 1863?—I did not do so.

28,348. You were open to conviction at the last moment?—No; I should have voted, whether I had had anything or not.

28,349. Why should you have done so?—Because I had promised them both when they came.

28,350. You mean Dawkins and Pim?—Yes.

28,351. What did the Liberals offer you at that time?—Nothing.

28,352. Who came to you?—No one.

28,353. Did no one come to you to tempt you on the other side?—No one at all.

28,354. You are sure of that?—Quite sure.

28,355. If it has been said they did it is a mistake?—I never saw any person.

28,356. Did no person come to make you any offer on that occasion on the Liberal side?—No; I do not remember that I saw anyone.

28,357. Do you know whether your wife saw any one?—I fancy that she would have told me if she had seen anyone.

28,358. Did she tell you that she had been offered any money?—No.

28,359. You are one of the unfortunates who did not get anything?—I did not get anything.

ELIZA WESTAWAY sworn and examined.

Eliza Westaway.

28,360. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who was that gentleman in the crowd who whispered to you when you were coming through?—I do not remember it.

28,361. It may not have been a gentleman, but who was it that whispered to you?—I saw three or four.

28,362. Who spoke to you?—I think William Dart.

28,363. What did he say to you?—He said "You are come," or "You are fetched."

28,364. Did he tell you what had taken place here?—No.

28,365. (Mr. Bere.) You are the wife of John Westaway?—If you please.

28,366. Mrs. Webber paid you a sum of money for his vote?—There was a sum of money on the table.

28,367. Where was that?—On Mrs. Webber's work-table.

28,368. Did she send for you?—I went there to work.

28,369. What did she say?—She said "There is a parcel for you," and I took it.

28,370. Did you know what it was?—Not till I returned and saw.

28,371. Did not your husband tell you what it was?—No.

28,372. After you brought the parcel back, what did you do?—I found some gold and some notes.

28,373. How much?—50*l.*

28,374. Had Mrs. Webber and you had any talk before?—The evening before she sent for me, and she said, "Who is your husband going to vote for?" and I said, "I believe Mr. Seymour;" and she said, "I am glad;" but I said, "The Tories have been there, and left some money there;" and she said, "If you want some money, no doubt you can get some on the other side;" and she said, "What amount would you require?" I said, "50*l.* or 60*l.*" "Very well," she said, and that is all that passed.

28,375. What next did you do; did you go down?—No; it was two or three months after.

28,376. Had you not met her during the time?—Yes.

28,377. You did not ask any questions?—No.

28,378. Did you return the money you got from the "Stars?"—Yes.

28,379. You took it and gave it to Mr. John Heath?—I gave it to Mr. Edmonds.

28,380. Did Mrs. Webber state that you might have to wait?—No.

28,381. (Mr. Coleridge.) You must have almost despaired of the money?—I did not think there would be any for me; I did not think much of it.

28,382. After saying you would want 50*l.* or 60*l.*, how came you not to think about it?—It was merely speaking two or three minutes.

28,383. You knew you could get it?—I did not think.

28,384. You trusted Mrs. Webber?—I knew she was a nice lady. I was working for her.

28,385. (Mr. Bere.) How much did your husband get the last time?—He never voted but once.

ROBERT PIGE sworn and examined.

R. Pige.

28,386. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a native of Totnes?—I was residing in Totnes then.

28,387. Where do you live now?—Two miles from here.

28,388. What are you doing now, a farmer?—No.

28,389. Is not there a land valuer of your name?—My father.

28,390. Did you ever help him in his business?—Merely as a clerk.

28,391. Have you ever had a vote for the borough of Totnes?—In 1859 I had a vote.

28,392. Did you vote for Dunn then?—Yes.

28,393. What did you get?—Nothing.

28,394. Were you not employed on the Conservative side to canvas?—No, I employed myself.

28,395. Who did you employ yourself to see?—A few voters, I met Mr. Ellis.

28,396. How much did you give him?—30*l.*

28,397. Any other?—William Knapman.

28,398. Where did you meet with him?—I think I saw him at his house.

28,399. How much did you give him?—I think 50*l.*

28,400. Anyone else?—No one.

28,401. Only those two?—That is all.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

R. Pige.

18 Sept. 1866.

28,402. Were they particular friends of yours?—No.

28,403. Where did you get the money?—From the "Seven Stars" No. 9.

28,404. From a man that you knew?—No, I should not know him again.

28,405. Did he know your name?—I do not know, I went the night before the election.

28,406. Had you promised the men a sum of money?—Yes, but they had voted before they had the money.

28,407. Did you take any?—Not the least.

28,408. When you went to look after the money, whom did you see at the "Seven Stars"?—I think I saw Mr. Edmonds and he referred me to Mr. Cameron, and then I think he ordered me to No. 9.

28,409. Where did you see Mr. Cameron?—I think on the stairs.

28,410. In the lobby?—I think on the stairs.

28,411. Then you went to No. 9?—Yes, and I knocked at the door.

28,412. Did you give your name to this stranger?—I think the voters.

28,413. And you got the 30*l.* and 50*l.*?—Yes.

28,414. Did you get it in gold or notes?—Gold.

28,415. Had you made a bargain before?—Yes.

28,416. Where did you see Ellis?—I think I saw him going into the house; I knocked at the door and I asked how it was, and I knew that he was poor, and he said, "I have been trying the other party but cannot get anything, they won't give me anything that will suit me," and I said, "I will if they won't."

28,417. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he say who tried him on the other side?—No.

28,418. (Mr. Bere.) What is his christian name?—William.

28,419. Is that the only election you have had to do with?—Yes, I was so disgusted with it.

28,420. Do you know how much money was going?—No.

28,421. You only dealt with those two persons?—Yes.

28,422. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who sent you to deal with those?—I merely set my mind to help a little.

28,423. A stranger would not give you money unless you were accredited?—I do not know.

28,424. Had you been shown to the stranger?—No, I went to No. 9.

28,425. Who ordered you to No. 9?—Mr. Cameron.

28,426. Who is Mr. Cameron?—He was down from London.

28,427. Had you known Mr. Cameron?—By sight.

28,428. When you came in, with whom did you communicate that you wanted the money?—With Mr. Edmonds I think.

28,429. You told Mr. Edmonds that you wanted the money, did you tell him how much?—No. I said I wanted the money for the voters.

28,430. Had you told him the voters that you were going to pay?—Yes. He knew that I had bargained with them.

28,431. Those two particular ones?—Yes.

28,432. Had he told you to go to No. 9?—Yes.

28,433. Is No. 9 a bedroom or a sitting room?—It is the opposite side of the house.

28,434. Do you recollect whether it is a bedroom or a sitting room?—I think a sitting room.

28,435. Had you offered money to any other voters?—No.

28,436. Had you tried any voters unsuccessfully?—No, I would not try any more.

28,437. Were these people that you knew particularly well?—No.

28,438. The election was conducted in that sort of careless manner and no petition?—No.

28,439. (Mr. Longe.) Mr. Cameron showed you No. 9?—He did not show me, he said go to No. 9.

28,440. What conversation had you with Mr. Cameron himself?—Nothing more.

28,441. He knew what you had come for?—Yes.

28,442. Who told him?—I suppose Mr. Edmonds told him.

28,443. And you met Mr. Cameron?—Yes, I saw him there. I did not wish the men to vote unless I got the money for them.

28,444. You said to Cameron that you wanted the money?—Yes, and he showed me to No. 9.

28,445. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know if money was going on the other side at that election?—I did not know anything except hearsay. I was disgusted with it afterwards.

28,446. Had they told you that they had been offered sums of money on the other side?—Not those two.

28,447. Who did?—None that I know of.

W. Earle.

WILLIAM EARLE sworn and examined.

28,448. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—I cannot exactly say.

28,449. Twenty years?—Oh no, sir.

28,450. Whom did you vote for first?—I think Mr. Dent.

28,451. That was in 1863?—You gentlemen know better than I do.

28,452. Had you not a vote last time?—I had a vote, but I did not vote.

28,453. Why did not you vote? What were your reasons?—I will tell you the reason. Mr. Bedford Pim came to my house the night previous the election, and I asked him whether he would have a drop of cyder, and he said, he had had such fatigue that he would be glad, and I went to fetch it, and there was a young slippery gentleman like a wire-dancer came to me and said, "If you will come to-morrow I will give you 40*l.*;" but when I went next day the ship was all gone to wreck. The Conservative cause all gone.

28,454. You did not get the 40*l.*?—No, that was all over, but they behaved gentleman-like; two or three men said, if I would come to vote for Bedford Pim and Colonel Dawkins they would give me 5*l.* and pay expenses; I thought to myself I will not go in the face of one against the other, and I will not vote at all.

28,455. Who was the gentleman who offered you 40*l.*?—I do not know. The last man was Mr. Niner, he came and asked me if I would take 5*l.*

28,456. What time of the day was that?—I cannot say.

28,457. Late, one?—Somewhere about the middle of the day.

28,458. 5*l.* and pay expenses?—Yes.

28,459. Is that the man that offered you the 40*l.* (referring to Mr. Narramore)?—I do not think it was, I do not know.

28,460. Was it James Heath?—I do not know.

28,461. What time was it?—Towards the evening.

28,462. That is all you got in 1865. What did you get for voting for Mr. Dent?—30*l.*

28,463. Who gave you that?—I did not receive the money at all.

28,464. Who did?—I have got a brother with me.

28,465. What is your brother's name?—Nicholas Earle.

28,466. Where is he now?—He is at my house.

28,467. How was the money paid to you?—I do not know; my sister or housekeeper took it.

28,468. And Nicholas Earle brought it?—I went home with him.

28,469. Who made the bargain for the 30*l.*?—I think John Heath.

28,470. At the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

28,471. Had you gone to see what was going on?—I was there in the evening.

28,472. And then John Heath came and talked to you?—He did not say anything to me in particular.

28,473. He talked to Nicholas Earle?—Yes, and he and my brother settled it. My brother came to me the next day, and my brother says, "Come with me," and I went, and Mr. Dent gave me thanks for it.

28,474. What Mr. Niner was it, Mr. Arthur Niner?—He ran into the room where I was; I was offered 5*l.* by three different men, the last was in the smoking room. I was drinking a pint of beer, or a glass or two of beer, and smoking a pipe, and he ran in and said, "Will you come and vote?" "No," I said, "I won't." I went over the Plains and I met with Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, and he said "Run and vote for Mr. Seymour." I pointed with my hand over to the fields and said, "If you will let me have "those fields I will go and vote for you for nothing." He said, "I can't." Then I met a man, Mr. Watson of Dorsley the magistrate, he said, "Have you voted," and I said, "No." And he said, "Go and vote "according to your wish." And I said, "I won't "vote in the face of one against the other."

28,475. (Mr. Coleridge.) Unless you got the fields?—I said I would have voted if I got the fields at a rent.

28,476. You would have voted for the Liberals if you got the fields, and the Conservatives if you got the 40*l.*?—Yes; I am neither one side nor the other.

28,477. (Mr. Longe.) Which Mr. Niner was it, the old gentleman or the young one?—The old gentleman.

28,478. Was 1863 the first time you ever voted?—Yes.

28,479. Did not the other side come and ask you for your vote?—No, I think not.

28,480. None of them?—I do not want to tell any lies; my landlord came.

28,481. Who was your landlord?—Mr. Amery; he did not come to me but he sent a note to me, and said he wished me to vote for Mr. Pender as he was a man well fit to take the office.

28,482. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect in 1865 going down to the "Stars" and seeing Mr. Arthur Niner, and several other gentlemen in a room there?—At Dent's election?

28,483. No, Dawkins and Pim's?—I was not there at all.

28,484. The time you were offered the 40*l.*?—On the same day of the election I went there.

28,485. Do you recollect saying, "I be come;" and their saying, "Go down and vote;" and your saying, "That requires a little consideration"?—I cannot say whether I did or not.

28,486. Do you recollect telling them that you had been disappointed in 40*l.*?—I daresay I told them; but it was no use going down the street.

28,487. The bank was shut?—Yes.

28,488. Did the Liberals offer you anything instead of those fields to vote?—No.

28,489. Did not they offer you any money?—No. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore went on towards the "Seymour" hotel.

28,490. Then you got nothing last time?—No, I did not vote.

28,491. Did you get anything for not voting?—No.

28,492. All your vote has been worth has been 30*l.*?—Yes.

28,493. Had you not a vote in Dunn's election in 1859?—No. Mr. Tucker of Ashburton has been to me about my vote.

28,494. In Dent's first election, when Pender was elected, were you promised anything if Dent had gone to the poll, neither by Pender's party or Dent's party?—No.

28,495. Whom did you ask for the 40*l.* at the "Stars"?—I did not ask, I knew it was no use. I saw men coming up and they said it was over. There were 24 men who went to the poll that they expected were going for Dawkins and Pim, and they went the other side.

28,496. (Mr. Bere.) After you voted for Mr. Dent in 1863 did Mr. Amery turn you out of the land?—Yes.

28,497. For voting?—Yes.

28,498. How much did you rent?—About 12*l.* a year; and then Mr. Harris let me into some fields.

28,499. How much did you give him for them?—He did not ask me for anything and I did not pay him anything. I pay him his rent and he is a good landlord.

28,500. Have you paid him any rent?—Yes; you may reckon: I shall have the field three years next Lady Day and I have paid Mr. Harris up to midsummer.

28,501. How many acres?—About an acre and a half.

28,502. How much do you give him?—10*l.* 8*l.* an acre. I ought to have come in here and had a 1,000*l.*

28,503. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is that what you vote upon?—Yes, now; before Mr. Dent came here I had another field.

28,504. Do you pay the whole 10*l.* every year to Mr. Harris?—Yes.

28,505. Does he give you anything back?—He will take care of that, but it is right before the Union.

28,506. (Mr. Bere.) It is worth a great deal more? He knows about that.

28,507. (Mr. Bere.) You must send your brother in to-morrow.

W. Farley.

William Farley, jun., sworn and examined.

28,508. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you vote?—In 1852.

28,509. Whom did you vote for in 1852?—For Mills and Seymour.

28,510. What had you to do with the election of 1852?—Nothing more than recording my vote.

28,511. Did you have to do with any of the voters?—None whatever.

28,512. Pay any money to them?—None whatever.

28,513. Did you receive any?—I received 50*l.* for myself.

28,514. Where did you get that from?—It was left by a party with my father and I had it from him.

28,515. Who left it with your father?—I have heard the name of Coombes.

28,516. What is his christian name?—Joseph.

28,517. Is he alive?—I believe he is.

28,518. What is he?—A retired gentleman.

28,519. Where is he?—About the town.

28,520. Is he Mr. Holman's father-in-law?—I believe some relative.

28,521. Do you know where he got it?—I do not know.

28,522. When was the next election?—I voted for Dunn.

28,523. There was the 1857 election?—I did not vote.

28,524. Why not?—I did not feel inclined.

28,525. Were you paid anything?—No.

28,526. In 1859 how did you vote?—For Dunn.

28,527. You changed your politics?—I came this side of the bridge, and I thought it better to adhere to the Conservative party.

28,528. What did you get for voting for Dunn?—50*l.*

28,529. Who paid you that?—Some stranger I do not know.

28,530. Did he call at your house?—He did.

28,531. Was there anything given you on the other side?—No.

28,532. Was there any suggestion made?—No.

28,533. Was there money going?—I heard so.

28,534. Did Mr. Parnell offer you none?—No.

28,535. In 1859 did you do anything in the way of giving money to voters?—No; I never took any active part.

28,536. In 1862, Dent's first election?—No contest.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

W. Farley.

18 Sept. 1866.

28,537. Were you promised anything if there had been?—No.

28,538. Did not Frederick Evens come to you?—No.

28,539. How would you have voted if there had been a contest?—I think I should have voted for Dent; it depends upon circumstances.

28,540. In 1863 did you vote for Dent?—I did.

28,541. What did you get?—50*l.*

28,542. What did they pay you in?—In gold.

28,543. Did you do anything at that election except receiving the 50*l.*?—I recorded my vote.

28,544. Were you offered anything by Seymour's side?—Nothing whatever.

28,545. In 1863 did you live next to a man called Stone?—No.

28,546. What Farley is it that lives next to William Stone?—I do not know; that is another Farley.

28,547. Stone never offered you 100*l.*?—No.

28,548. In 1865 how did you vote?—For Dawkins and Pender.

28,549. A sudden conversion to the Liberals?—Yes.

28,550. How came you to do that?—I considered Mr. Pender a man to be supported; he had done a great deal for the borough.

28,551. What did he give you?—Nothing.

28,552. Did you have nothing in 1865?—Nothing whatever.

28,553. Did not Mr. Parnell give you anything?—No.

28,554. Were you not offered 100*l.* at that time?—No.

28,555. By another party?—No.

28,556. You, being open to conviction, got nothing?—I do not know about that.

28,557. You began in 1852 with a Liberal, in 1859 a Tory, 1863 a Tory, and now you vote for one and one; what are you now?—It depends, I suppose.

28,558. What did you do at the last election?—Nothing.

28,559. Did you canvass at all?—No. As I said before, I never took any active part.

28,560. Did you see Mr. Searle?—Which Mr. Searle?

28,561. Thomas Jacob Searle?—I know there is such a man in existence.

28,562. Do you know him by sight?—Yes.

28,563. Did you see him at the last election?—No.

28,564. Have you had a talk with him about this Commission sitting?—No.

28,565. Not talked about it?—To nobody.

28,566. What do you say your vote has been worth?—150*l.*

28,567. Did you get nothing at the last election?—No.

28,568. No present?—No; and no anticipation.

28,569. No promise of a situation?—No.

28,570. It was principle that made you vote at the last election?—I simply thought I should like to see those men members of Parliament. Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Pender.

28,571. You were not aware that the reason you liked Colonel Dawkins in preference to Captain Pim was, that Colonel Dawkins was spending a lot of money?—No. Having signed a requisition, I thought I would vote.

28,572. Having signed the requisition, you thought it right to vote against the Conservatives?—I did not.

28,573. You voted for Pender?—Yes.

28,574. Why not for Captain Pim?—I did not think anything about Captain Pim.

28,575. (Mr. Longe.) Can you tell us about the "Lapstone Club"?—I do not understand your question.

28,576. In 1852?—I know nothing about it.

28,577. Did you know John Sandford Screach?—I knew him at that time.

28,578. Had you not some electioneering dealings with him?—No.

28,579. Did you never hear of the "Lapstone Club" before?—I know nothing of its existence; I might have heard of it.

28,580. When did you hear of it?—Some years ago.

28,581. You knew that there were a number of persons associated together, and Mr. Screach was the manager?—I did not know anything of the kind.

28,582. (Mr. Bere.) When did you first see Mr. Pender before the last election?—Do you mean to canvass me?

28,583. Yes?—He canvassed me when I was on an excursion, and he left his card.

28,584. Whom did he see?—I do not know anybody but the servant.

28,585. How long before you came home?—The day that I came home in the evening.

28,586. When did you see him?—He never called afterwards; he left his card soliciting my vote and interest.

28,587. When did you let Mr. Pender know that you were going to vote for him?—I do not know.

28,588. Were you not down to the "Seven Stars" on the Friday before the election?—No.

28,589. Did you go to the meeting at the "Seven Stars"?—I might have done.

28,590. And made a speech?—No.

28,591. Take care. Did not you in that speech urge the Conservatives not to split their votes?—No.

28,592. There are persons here who remember it?—I will face any person that will come and swear that.

28,593. Do you recollect going to the "Seven Stars"?—I remember being there.

28,594. What particular days before the election?—I remember being there one day at a meeting.

28,595. Was that when Captain Pim was proposed?—Captain Pim was there.

28,596. Did Captain Pim speak?—I do not know.

28,597. Did you make a speech at all during that election?—Not that I am aware of.

28,598. You know whether you made a speech?—I did not make a public speech at that election, before or after.

28,599. Did you give any private recommendation to anyone?—None whatever.

28,600. Did you talk to your friends about voting? I did not.

28,601. Did not you talk to some of your friends who were going to vote about splitting their votes?—No.

28,602. When did you first make up your mind to vote for Mr. Pender?—I do not know.

28,603. Where do you live?—In Fore Street.

28,604. Who are your neighbours?—Mr. Gill, the chemist, and Pengilley.

28,605. What Pengilley is that?—Richard.

28,606. Is that Robert Gill, the chemist?—Yes.

28,607. He is a Conservative?—I do not know his politics.

28,608. Did not you ever go and converse with him about how you were going to vote?—No.

28,609. Did not you with anyone?—No.

28,610. Did not you go to your father's while the election was going on?—I may have gone to my father like any son would go to his father's house.

28,611. Did not you go there at that time, and did not you have a conversation about election matters?—No, I do not recollect it.

28,612. Did your father ask you how you were going to vote?—No.

28,613. And you never told him?—No.

28,614. Who was the first person on the Liberal side that knew you were going to vote for Mr. Pender?—I do not know that either of the party knew it.

28,615. Did you see Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore at all?—No.

28,616. You say you never told any human being which way you were going to vote?—No.

28,617. You went to the poll and voted without having told any person?—Yes.

28,618. Never said how you were going to poll?—Just so.

28,619. Did Captain Pim call upon you?—Yes; he canvassed me for my vote.

28,620. What did you say to him?—I told him I could not promise him.

28,621. Did you tell him why?—No, I did not; he did not ask any reason. He was rather in a hurry, but he suggested that I should just come into the Guildhall to hear him make a political speech.

28,622. You did go?—I did; in this hall.

28,623. You heard the speech?—Yes, I did; or rather a narrative of his past life.

28,624. Afterwards did you go down to the "Seven Stars"?—No.

28,625. Did you think it was a good speech?—If I had been asked at that time I should have been able to give a better opinion.

28,626. Did you not go down with those who supported Captain Pim after the speech was made?—No, not that I am aware of.

28,627. You must remember that?—I do not remember it. That is all I know about 1865.

GEORGE ROBINS STONE recalled and examined.

G. R. Stone.

28,628. You heard the last witness examined; were you present at a meeting at the "Seven Stars" when Mr. Farley made a speech?—I was.

28,629. Do you know what time it was before the election?—Two days before the election.

28,630. In the evening?—It was.

28,631. On the same evening that Captain Pim made a speech up here?—It was.

28,632. Did you see Mr. Farley at the time Captain Pim was making his speech?—I cannot recollect.

28,633. Did you find him down at the "Seven Stars" at last?—I saw him there that evening.

28,634. And he made a speech?—Yes.

28,635. What did he say?—He put it to them; and he urged upon the electors not to split their votes for the Liberals, but to support both the Conservatives. I was very much surprised to find that he had voted for the Liberals after making that speech, and Mr. Narramore heard him as well.

WILLIAM DANIEL NARRAMORE recalled and examined.

W. D. Narramore.

28,636. (Mr. Bere.) Did you hear it?—I recollect seeing him there, but I do not recollect his making a speech.

WILLIAM SATCHWELL recalled and examined.

W. Satchwell.

28,637. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you been thinking over what occurred between you and Mr. Parnell?—I have.

28,638. Is that your handwriting (showing a paper to the witness)?—Yes.

28,639. Have you read over what has been written down here?—It was read out.

28,640. Is it true?—Yes.

28,641. Did you go on Friday about a letter to Mr. Parnell?—I expected one from a man from Stonehouse, and I went up to see about it.

28,642. You went up about it?—Yes.

28,643. What did Mr. Parnell tell you about this Commission?—Ask him if he could recollect what money he gave me. I do not know.

28,644. You told us that before; did he tell you it would never come out if you kept your own counsel?—I believe he did.

28,645. Did he not do so, on your oath?—I asked him if he had got anything out against me.

28,646. Did he not answer it?—He did not say whether he had or had not.

28,647. Did he not say it will never come out if you keep your own counsel? Will you not swear that?—To the best of my judgment.

28,648. On your oath did he not tell you it would never come out if you kept your own counsel?—I believe he did.

28,649. Did he or did he not, on your oath?—Yes, he did.

28,650. Did he not also say something about it never being found out if you held your tongue?—I went for the express purpose to him.

28,651. Did he not also add that we should never find it out if you held your tongue about it?—Yes.

28,652. Why did you not tell us this before?—I could not recollect myself at all about it.

28,653. You have told us you got 25*l.* in 1859, do you know that your wife got 10*l.* too?—No.

28,654. She never told you?—She never told me My object was in going up to Mr. Parnell to ask him.

28,655. She did not tell you what she got?—No.

28,656. You did not tell her what you got?—No.

28,657. (Mr. Bere.) Is your daughter a waitress at the "Seymour" hotel?—Yes.

28,658. Do you know when Mr. Harrington died?—Yes.

28,659. How long after his death did she go away?—Some time after.

28,660. Where did she go?—Up to Frome.

28,661. Whose inn did she go to?—Mr. Shepheard's. She had gone on a visit, and they got her, in a word, to live with them.

28,662. Do you know what made her come down to the election of 1865?—She came down for a fortnight's holiday.

28,663. Do you know that Mr. Pender had ordered her to be sent for?—No.

28,664. You say that she came down for a fortnight's holiday; did she go to enter into service at the "Seymour" hotel?—She went over to the "Seymour" hotel and happened to meet Mr. Pender in the passage; he said he would engage her for the time he was there. I said I had no objection, and she has remained there ever since.

28,665. Did you know what she was to have? Did she ever tell you? Do you know what she gave your wife at the last election?—I never got a halfpenny.

28,666. (Mr. Longe.) When Mr. Parnell told you this about it, that it would not come out if you kept your own counsel, had he reminded you of the several sums you received from him?—I could not recollect what it was.

28,667. Had you mentioned the sums you had received?—No, I did not know. That is what I wanted to know.

ARTHUR NINER sworn and examined.

A. Niner.

28,668. (Mr. Bere.) Have you got a vote in Totnes?—I have not at present; I had.

28,669. Had you in 1862?—No.

28,670. In 1865?—Yes.

28,671. What qualification did you vote on?—I am oneof the British farmers.

28,672. What did you qualify on?—A certain meadow.

28,673. A meadow belonging to Mr. Dent?—I believe it was.

28,674. You vote in Mr. Harris's company?—Yes.

28,675. You have heard Mr. Farley say, he never made a speech at the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

28,676. Were you present?—I was.

28,677. What was the purport?—I thought it was very fair. I believe he was the gentleman who asked me to take the chair. I told him that he knew more about political matters than I did. At that time we had an electoral company.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

A. Niner.

18 Sept. 1866.

28,678. Who were the electoral gentlemen?—He made a very glowing speech, and a few of us imagined we were shorthand writers, and hired to take it down, but it never went into print.

28,679. What was the speech?—Strongly in favour of Conservatism.

28,680. Did he recommend his brother Conservatives not to split their votes—Yes.

28,681. What did you have to do with the election of 1865?—I had nothing. I can give you three little instances: the first was, I was smoking a pipe outside the door one evening, and George Heath came up and asked me if I would take a walk with him, I said, "Certainly;" we went up the street and met Searle. George said, "I think he had better be watched." We amused Mr. Searle for about an hour, and drove him to the "Commercial." The next was the morning of the election. I rose rather early, and I went to the "Stars;" young John Heath was there having a cup of coffee at the bar, and he asked me to take a ride; we had a gig, and he drove me to the top of the hill, and he kept me waiting for him an hour while he went to see a voter.

28,682. Who was the voter?—Chamings, I have understood since. From there we drove back and waited some time, and then he went down and saw the voter to the poll.

28,683. Was it Ruby?—Yes.

28,684. There is the third?—No.

28,685. Did you not offer a man 200*l.*?—Never in my life.

28,686. Nor any sum of money?—Never in my life.

28,687. Do you know a man called Dennern?—Yes.

28,688. Did you offer him any money?—I never spoke to him in my life.

28,689. Is there anybody else of your name?—My father, Philip Kelland Niner.

28,690. Do you know whether you had any money?—I can tell you I never offered any voter. I never canvassed a voter. I never paid a farthing, and I never offered a farthing in my life.

28,691. Were you ever offered anything?—No, I was afraid of being turned out. We had a little share at that time in a field, and I was one of the farmers, and I was fearful I should be turned out.

28,692. What was the amount of it?—I never could make that out; we have a couple of bullocks or yearlings, but I never saw them.

28,693. How many were the two bullocks held amongst?—About 12.

28,694. You did not keep a cow and divide the milk?—No.

28,695. Who made up the accounts?—Mr. Harris. They were properly managed, always squared to the farthing, and there was a nice dinner on the settling day.

28,696. Who was the actual occupier of the land?—I do not know. I think it was the two yearlings.

28,697. They were not the only occupiers?—Yes, I think they were.

28,698. You did get something out of it?—I do not know. If you ask me my real opinion, it was like all the other linhay votes that were made on purpose, but never occupied by the parties.

28,699. We have heard that a person did actually take the occupation of the land, and accounted for so many head of cattle a week, and it was divided among several voters. You do not know how yours is managed?—I do not know.

28,700. Did you not see the accounts?—No.

28,701. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did you swear to before the revising barrister to get your vote?—I never had the pleasure of going to tell the truth.

28,702. Were you not objected to?—No, I was not, the manager was examined; that was agreed to by both parties.

28,703. Your oath was vicariously taken?—Mr. Harris was the only one examined. I did not take the oath at all.

28,704. Do you know a man called John Venn?—I know him.

28,705. Had you anything to do with him at the last election?—No. I never spoke to him in my life.

28,706. You were never sent to canvass him?—Never.

28,707. Can you tell us anything more about Searle after running him to ground?—He was rather waxey, I told him he would not hurt me. He is rather a fine man.

J. Fitzpatrick.

JAMES FITZPATRICK sworn and examined.

28,708. (Mr. Bere.) What is your occupation?—A wine merchant.

28,709. How long have you had a vote for the borough?—I had a vote in 1862.

28,710. For those two elections that came together?—Yes.

28,711. In 1862 whom did you vote for?—Mr. Pender.

28,712. In 1863 who for?—Mr. Dent.

28,713. 1865?—I was not residing here then.

28,714. At the election in 1863 did you receive any offer from the other side?—No.

28,715. Had you any dealings with Mr. Pender about that time as a wine merchant?—No, at that time I was out of business.

28,716. In 1863 you voted for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

28,717. What was the cause of your changing your side?—I had 50*l.* for voting for Dent.

28,718. Whom did you get it from?—From young Mr. Heath, the dark one of the younger ones.

28,719. When was this promised?—I had no arrangement with the party. Narramore arranged everything.

28,720. You gave him leave to arrange for you?—He said he could get me something. I said, "All right, if you do, I will give you something."

28,721. What did you give him?—A fortnight or a month after I invited him over to Torquay, and he and his wife came there and spent the day with me. When they left I gave them a sovereign each, and a set of china.

28,722. A valuable set of china?—A very good one.

28,723. Was it a tea set?—Yes, and coffee set.

28,724. Did Narramore tempt you in the first instance. Did he suggest to you the notion of this sum?—Previous to this we had been on very friendly terms.

28,725. Had you some conversation with him as to getting money?—Yes, many times; that is the only time I ever received anything.

28,726. Did you have any offer from the other side?—When I promised Pender that I would vote for him, he never offered me anything, and I never received it, directly or indirectly.

28,727. In 1863 were you canvassed by Mr. Seymour?—He called on me at Torquay, and Mr. Chaster with him; he asked me to vote for him, and I said I could not, as I had promised to vote for Mr. Dent.

28,728. Had you an interview with any one else on the Liberal side?—No. I told Mr. Seymour I had promised to vote for Mr. Dent, and that I had signed the requisition for him to come down. Mr. Harris brought the requisition to me, and I signed it before he came down the second time.

28,729. Had you any conversation with Narramore before you signed the requisition?—I used to see him every day.

28,730. And you had arranged to get something before that?—I cannot exactly recollect. I signed the requisition, and I had conversations with him many times.

28,731. You would not have pledged yourself to one side when there was a possibility of voting against them ?—That is all that passed. It had nothing to do with electioneering.

28,732. What was the message which you sent to Mrs. Baker through Narramore ?—That was about paying the rent.

28,733. Who is Mrs. Baker ?—A tenant of mine here.

28,734. Was it not something about your own rent ?—Either something about paying the rent, or for her to pay some bill down at the house. Nothing in connection with the election.

28,735. You knew of the requisition ?—Yes. Mr. Harris brought it to me.

28,736. Had you had any conversation with Narramore about it ?—I think not.

28,737. Was anything given to you or promised to you for signing that requisition ?—No.

28,738. He knew you had signed it ?—Yes.

NICHOLAS NORRISH sworn and examined. N. Norrish.

28,739. (Mr, Bere.) Where do you live ?—In Fore Street, Totnes.

28,740. What are you ?—A labouring man.

28,741. What do you work at ?—At excavating ground, and such like.

28,742. Are you a contractor ?—I am sometimes.

28,743. How long have you had a vote ?—About 10 years.

28,744. Whom did you vote for first ?—Baldwin and Mills.

28,745. You voted for Mr. Baldwin ?—Yes.

28,746. What did you get for that ?—25*l.*

28,747. Who gave you that ?—The man is dead. I do not like to say anything about the dead.

28,748. What was his name ?—James Pendle.

28,749. Where did he give it to you ?—He gave it to my wife in my own house.

27,750. Did anybody offer you any money on the other side ?—Yes. A man of the name of Pulling, who lived in Fore Street at that time.

28,751. Where does he live now, do you know ?—He has left the town.

28,752. What did he offer you then ?—He offered me 40*l.*

28,753. Who was that to vote for ?—That was to vote for Mills, but he was on the wrong side.

28,754. Had you got the 25*l.* when you were offered the 40*l.* ?—No.

28,755. Did you go and see this person. Mr. Pendle ?—No. I had no occasion to go and see him ; we were neighbours.

28,756. Was he the person who had managed matters at the election on Mr. Baldwin's side ?—Yes.

28,757. In 1857, what did you do then, when Mackenzie and Gregory stood ?—I had not a vote then.

28,758. Had your vote been struck off the register ?—Yes.

28,759. What for ?—Because of the change of the landlord.

28,760. Had you a vote in 1859 ?—I voted for Mr. Dent twice.

28,761. Did you vote at the time of Mr. Dunn's election ?—Yes.

28,762. How much did you get for voting then ?—I think I must have made a mistake. I do not think I voted for Mr. Dunn ; it must have been Mr. Dent.

28,763. Do you know a man of the name of George Evens ?—Yes.

28,764. In 1859 did you not go to a place called Deane with George Evens ?—No, I did not.

28,765. Have you a brother of the name of Richard ?—Yes, I have.

28,766. Do you know whether he was taken away at the time of Dunn's election ?—That I do not know anything about.

28,767. But you had no vote in 1859 ?—No, I had not.

28,768. When did you get a vote again ?—At Mr. Dent's election.

28,769. And whom did you vote for then ?—For Mr. Dent.

28,770. What were you paid for that ?—30*l.*

28,771. Who paid you then ?—I went away with Evens and in my absence the money was paid before I came back.

28,772. You went away with Evens or Willis to Stokenteignhead ?—Yes.

28,773. To Mr. Soper's place ?—Yes.

28,774. How much had you been promised before you went away ?—They were to do something for me ; they had promised me that.

28,775. Who had promised you that ; can you say ?—Mr. Parnell.

28,776. How long was it before the election that you were taken away ?—Three or four days.

28,777. How much did Mr. Parnell promise you ?—40*l.*, I think.

28,778. Where ?—I met him in the morning, and he said anybody who would vote would be well paid, or something of that sort.

28,779. And you said 40*l.* ?—Yes.

28,780. And they got hold of you and took you to Stokenteignhead ?—They came after me one night when I was in bed, and wished me to go with a friend.

28,781. Was it Mogridge or Stoyle ?—Stoyle.

28,782. You went away with him and stayed at Mr. Soper's till the election ?—Yes.

28,783. Do you remember some people coming to Mr. Soper's on the other side, Mr. Finch and Mr. somebody else ; who was it ?—Mr. Bourne, and Mr. Finch, and a gentleman from Newton.

28,784. Do you know the name of the gentleman from Newton ?—No.

28,785. Was it Mr. Beale ?—I do not know.

28,786. Were you playing at cards at that time ?—I believe I was.

28,787. What happened when they came in ?—I saw them go across the window and I said, "Here they come," and they came round to the back door and came in upon us.

28,788. What did they say when they came in upon you ?—He said, "Here the gentlemen are." I asked Mr. Bourne what he would please to have. Mr. Bourne said, "I want to speak to you," or something of that sort ; he expected to see another man there called Hannaford, but he did not happen to be there, though he was not far away.

28,789. Where was he ?—A little way down.

28,790. At another house in Stokenteignhead ?—Yes.

28,791. Where ?—He went out rabbiting and we left him behind.

28,792. What did Mr. Bourne offer you to go back to Totnes ?—He never offered me anything.

28,793. How much did he offer Mogridge ?—I cannot say.

28,794. Did not you hear what passed between them ?—No.

28,795. Was there any man called James Smith there ? There were four of them, were not there, James Smith, Bourne, Finch, and this gentleman from Newton ?—Perhaps there might be.

28,796. Did you not hear them say anything about money ?—I did not go outside the door with them, but Mogridge did. They stopped a quarter of an hour or more perhaps, I cannot say.

28,797. Was there a great disturbance in the inn ?—It was not an inn, it was a farm house.

28,798. Was there a good deal of disturbance ?—We shut them out there and the folks laughed at them, and they went away in their traps.

28,799. Did you go in the morning to vote ?—I am not certain whether we separated or not.

28,800. Did you go to the "Stars" when you came in ?—Yes.

28,801. The same morning ?—Yes.

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

N Norrish.

18 Sept. 1866.

28,802. You had your breakfast there and were taken up to the poll?—Yes.

28,803. Did you see any of the friends who came to look after you on the Liberal side before you voted?—No.

28,804. Besides Mr. Parnell's had you any other offer made you on the Liberal side?—I do not think I did.

28,805. Are you certain?—Quite certain, because I was taken away.

28,806. Your wife had the money while you were away?—Yes.

28,807. How much?—30*l.*

28,808. Who paid it?—Evens.

28,809. In gold?—Yes, as far as I know; I am not certain.

28,810. Had you a vote in 1865?—No.

28,811. What happened then?—I had changed houses and did not take my claim up in time.

28,812. The overseers did not put you on?—No.

28,813. Have you a vote now?—Yes.

28,814. What do you think it is worth?—I do not think it is worth much now.

28,815. Have you ever voted without being paid?—Only twice I have voted.

28,816. You were both times paid?—Yes.

28,817. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you ever paid on both sides?—No.

W. Farley.

WILLIAM FARLEY recalled.

28,818. (Mr. Bere.) Have you anything to explain?—There is the evidence of two witnesses which has been given respecting me and the meeting on Friday; I do not remember it. I might have been there. I remember being there on Monday night. They swear it is Friday. It may be; but the only thing I had to say there was simply to propose a chairman. I found no chairman there and I simply proposed that Dr. Owen should take the chair, to go in and organise the room, whether to sing or for political speeches I cannot say. Somebody seconded the chairman I proposed, and that is all I remember with respect to the meeting.

28,819. Can you tell us anything about the election of 1863, when your father offered you some money, or you offered your father some?—I do not remember having offered my father money.

28,820. What did you offer?—I might have said to my father, "Here, you have always been a Liberal and I suppose that you would not change your principles for 200*l.*" and he says, "Not for a thousand."

28,821. (Mr. Coleridge.) He is not so accommodating as you are in changing?—No.

28,822. (Mr. Longe.) In 1852 what was the case then. You know the facts. There were some persons with Screach as a sort of leader, and Mr. Coombes gave him some money?—No, as far as I can remember in 1857, some time after Mr. Mackenzie's election, there was something said about the Lapstone Club, rumoured about, just as you may hear at election times, but what it was or anything about it I do not know.

28,823. Do not you know at either the election of 1852 or the back elections Joseph Coombes having 150*l.* to be distributed amongst some four or five persons and that your father had some and you?—My father never had any money to vote himself; but all I know is that there was 50*l.* handed over. One of the party the first time I ever spoke to him told me there would be 50*l.*

28,824. Who was that told you?—A man named Hardin, who is now dead.

28,825. You were told by Hardin that money would be given; who was it gave it to your father?—So I have been told; that is all I know, that he gave the money.

28,826. How long before you gave the vote?—I never gave my vote before I had that money. It was after the election times and I had voted.

28,827. (Mr. Bere.) You knew it was coming?—Yes, decidedly.

Adjourned to half-past 10 o'clock to morrow morning.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

Totnes, 19th September 1866.

R. Harris.

19 Sept. 1866.

(Mr. Robert Harris.) Will you allow me to add a fact which has occurred to me since I gave my evidence, with reference to Mr. Henry Danby Seymour, Sir Henry Rawlinson, and Baron Rothschild? They were here in 1863 with Mr. Seymour, and in the evening or the afternoon of the election, Mr. Seymour went down to Mr. Bowden's, and he got into a terrible tear, saying that they had deceived him as regards money matters, and that he had spent all the money he brought, as he stated here. Then there is a report which has got into circulation yesterday that I wish to remark upon. Mr. Coleridge brought my name in with reference to Satchwell, but it was the man called Higgins who gave him the money. The stranger gave him the money.

28,828. (Mr. Coleridge.) The 25*l.*?—Yes.

28,829. Was that at your house?—Yes; but the stranger gave it to him.

28,830. Did you see it?—No; he came there and went and saw him himself.

28,831. Had you had a conversation and told him before?—Yes.

28,832. And you told him there was some one there?—Yes, but I did not see him give him the money.

W. Ellis.

WILLIAM ELLIS recalled and examined.

28,833. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you been thinking over what you stated yesterday?—There is one thing I was wrong in.

28,834. What is that?—It did not come to my recollection at that time, but I think you asked me if I received anything from the Liberal party?

28,835. I did, and you said you did not?—I said, no, I could not recollect; but afterwards I did, but it was not at electioneering time.

28,836. When was it?—About a month or six weeks after Pender was here the first time.

28,837. What was it that you received?—14*l.*

28,838. Who brought it you?—I really forget his name.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

W. Ellis.

19 Sept. 1866.

28,839. Was it at the gas house?—Yes; it is the man who keeps the post-office.

28,840. Has Mr. Parnell told you to tell that to-day?—No; I have not seen Mr. Parnell.

28,841. How came you to recollect it?—I did not recollect it till I got home.

28,842. I asked you about ten times and you denied it?—Because I did not recollect it.

28,843. Who told you, your wife?—Yes.

28,844. If you recollect anything more you must come and tell us; your memory is getting better?—It was in 1862 that I received this.

28,845. The first time that Mr. Pender came here?—Yes.

28,846. When Dent withdrew?—Yes.

28,847. What did you receive from the Liberal party in 1865?—Nothing at all.

George Penny recalled and examined.

G. Penny.

28,848. (Mr. Bere.) When were you examined?—Last week.

28,849. Your recollection was not as bright as it might be?—It was the same as it is now.

28,850. Then what do you wish to add now?—I knew that there was an agreement with me and Mr. Michelmore in the year 1862.

28,851. Which Mr. Michelmore?—Charles Frederick. In the year 1862, a month after the election, I asked Mr. Michelmore if he could manage to raise me 50*l.*, to be secured on a property that I had bought, and he said that he would see about it. Consequently about a month after Mr. Michelmore met me again, and he paid me 50*l.*, and out of that he deducted 10*l.*, which he charged me for the conveyance of the property. Some time after that, I should think three or four months, one of his clerks brought a paper for me to sign. I said, "Leave it for me and I will look at it and send it up or sign it." He said, "I cannot leave it." "Then I will call up." Consequently that has never been signed by me.

28,852. You have never been called upon to sign it?—No; but I did not know of it. As soon as I went from the court I went to Mr. Michelmore, and I said, "Have you got a deed against me?" He said, "You will never be called upon." I said, "Then I will go to the court and state it all."

28,853. Is that the sum that you owed Mr. Huxham?—I owed him more than that, but paid him since in the regular way, every farthing.

28,854. When did this happen?—About a month after Mr. Pender's election.

28,855. What did you get in 1865?—I got nothing.

28,856. Was there any transaction about a mortgage on your house?—No.

28,857. Nothing at all of the kind?—No.

28,858. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is your name George?—Yes.

28,859. You told us that in 1865 Mr. Narramore offered you 350*l.*?—That was only in the street, and I did not think you would take any notice of that, because it was absurd.

28,860. (Mr. Bere.) How much did you owe Mr. Huxham in July 1865?—I cannot tell; I should think perhaps 90*l.*; I can show you his account.

28,861. When did you pay it?—I paid it off regularly.

28,862. When was the last payment made?—Every week.

28,863. So much a week?—Yes, according as the accounts stand.

28,864. What do you mean? Did you pay a particular sum every week, or only what you made?—In my way there is a pass-book in which the goods are put down as they are had.

28,865. The goods supplied to you by Mr. Huxham?—Yes.

28,866. Had not Mr. Huxham a mortgage on your house?—He had not.

28,867. Had not somebody else besides Michelmore?—Mr. George Mitchell.

28,868. The currier?—Yes.

28,869. When did you pay that off?—About four months ago.

28,870. Where did you get the money to pay it off?—From Mr. Huxham.

28,871. Had Mr. Huxham promised you the money before the election of 1865?—No, I owe him the money now.

28,872. When did Mitchell first press you to pay the money?—He did not press me; I gave him notice to pay him off.

28,873. Why?—There was no reason for it.

28,874. What interest were you giving Mitchell?—I do not give him anything now.

28,875. What interest were you giving him?—Five per cent.

28,876. What interest do you pay Mr. Huxham?—Five per cent.

28,877. When did Mr. Huxham get you the money?—He paid it through Mr. Michelmore at Newton.

28,878. When did he pay that?—About four months ago.

28,879. Had you seen Henry Michelmore before the election of 1865?—I had not. I never spoke to him politically.

28,880. Who has the title-deeds of your house?—Mr. Huxham.

28,881. Has there been any transfer of the mortgage?—Of course.

28,882. Have you signed it?—Yes.

28,883. When?—Four months ago.

28,884. You owe Mr. Huxham 350*l.* besides the current account?—Yes, and there is property for it. I should not like to sell it for that.

28,885. Is that all you wish to state?—Yes.

Thomas Smith sworn and examined.

T. Smith.

28,886. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been a railway inspector?—Two years.

28,887. And always a railway inspector here?—No.

28,888. Where previously?—Newton Abbot before.

28,889. How long have you been on the line?—About 19 years.

28,890. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—1863, I suppose.

28,891. How did you manage to get a vote here when you were living at Newton Abbot?—I have a house here.

28,892. But you lived at Newton Abbot two years ago, more than seven miles off; how did you get your vote?—I had a wife and family here.

28,893. Did your wife and family live here?—Yes.

28,894. When did you first vote?—In 1863, I suppose, for Mr. Dent.

28,895. Do you remember when Mr. Dent and Mr. Pender were standing?—Yes.

28,896. Did you vote then?—No.

28,897. Who came to see you then on the part of the Conservatives?—Frederick Evens.

28,898. What did he offer you?—100*l.*

28,899. How much did you get?—Nothing at all.

28,900. Not at that time?—No.

28,901. Who did you vote for in 1863?—Mr. Dent.

28,902. How much did you get then?—30*l.*

28,903. Who paid you?—Frederick Evens.

28,904. Who came to you on the other side?—No one.

28,905. In Mr. Pender's time who came to you?—No one.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

T. Smith.

19 Sept. 1866.

28,906. You had not been a voter before ?—No.

28,907. Did you receive any communication from any of the railway authorities ?—No ; simply from Mr. James.

28,908. He is your station-master ?—Yes.

28,909. What did he say ?—That we were at liberty to vote for whom we chose, but were not to take any money.

28,910. But you did take some ?—I will tell you.

28,911. I suppose it is on the same principle as railway porters are not to accept fees ?—When I have finished my story perhaps you will see. The money was offered to me by Frederick Evens at the "South Devon Inn" and I refused it. I told him I had a situation worth more than he would offer me.

28,912. How much did he offer you ?—30*l.* He left me there and went to my house and left the money there, and he came in again and told me, and I told him I would much rather he would go and fetch it again, I did not want it.

28,913. I suppose Mrs. Smith kept it ?—Yes, of course I had the money ultimately. I supposed it was customary to insist upon your taking a sum.

28,914. Whether you liked it or not ?—Yes, whether you liked it or not.

28,915. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever think of returning it to Mr. Evens ?—No.

28,916. (Mr. Bere.) Did you tell Mr. James that you had that ?—No.

28,917. Did he ever ask you ?—I do not think he ever did.

28,918. Which side did Mr. James vote himself ?—The Liberal.

28,919. And you the other ?—Yes.

28,920. Did not he ask how you came to vote for the Conservatives ?—I do not think he did.

28,921. Are you quite sure about that ?—I would not be positive about that.

28,922. Did not he ask you how you came to vote for the Conservatives ?—I do not think he did.

28,923. Come, I am sure he did ?—Well, we must have talked a great deal together about different things.

28,924. And about electioneering at electioneering times did not you ?—I am sure I cannot tell a quarter of what passed between me and Mr. James.

28,925. Did not he ask you how it was that you came to vote for the Conservatives ?—Well, I do not think he did. I do not remember his ever doing so not in them words.

28,926. Not in those words ?—Or anything like it.

28,927. Where did you go from to vote, the station ?—No, from my home at 9 in the morning.

28,928. Did Mr. James live near you or down at the station ?—Near.

28,929. Did he go with you ?—No.

28,930. In 1865 what did you get ?—45*l.*

28,931. From whom ?—Frederick Evens.

28,932. Whom did you vote for ?—No one.

28,933. Where did Evens give you that ?—He left it at my house.

28,934. On the table or the chimney-piece ?—On the table I believe.

28,935. Was it in a bag ?—I believe it was.

28,936. Did Mrs. Smith find it ?—The parcel was put down I suppose and left in the usual way.

28,937. Was she at home when it was brought in ?—Yes.

28,938. Where were you ?—At Newton.

28,939. And when you came back you found 45*l.* ?—My wife told me.

28,940. Did you keep that ?—Yes.

28,941. Why did not you vote ?—Because he left the money.

28,942. Take care ?—It was because he left the money, nothing more.

28,943. Why did not you pay the money back again ?—I would not take the trouble. If people will bring money and leave it at my house it is their look out.

28,944. Where did you put it ?—We put it in the trade.

28,945. Did your wife keep a shop then ?—Yes.

28,946. Where did you go to on the day of the election of 1865 ?—Ivy Bridge.

28,947. How came you to go there ?—Because I would not be bothered.

28,948. Take care ! How came you to go to Ivy Bridge. Where were your duties ?—At Newton.

28,949. How came you to go ?—Because I would not be bothered about the election.

28,950. Who took you there ?—No one.

28,951. Who went with you ?—My wife.

28,952. Who else ?—No one.

28,953. Take care ! Did not Mrs. Jenkins go with you ?—No.

28,954. What had she to do with your going to Ivy Bridge ?—Nothing.

28,955. Take care about what you are saying or you will have to stay here till your recollection is refreshed. Had you seen Mrs. Jenkins before the election ?—No, Mr. Jenkins.

28,956. Had he been to see you ?—Yes.

28,957. What for ?—To ask me to vote for Pender.

28,958. What did you say ?—I told him I should not.

28,959. When was that ?—Perhaps a week before the election.

28,960. Was that before Fred Evens had left the money at your house ?—Yes.

28,961. Did you know he was going to leave some money at your house when Mr. Jenkins spoke ?—No.

28,962. What made you tell him you were not going to vote for Mr. Pender ?—Because I had made up my mind if I voted at all to vote that side, but to take any money I would not.

28,963. What did he say ?—He asked me to vote for Mr. Pender, nothing more.

28,964. Did he say what you could get on that side ?—He said nothing was to be had on that side.

28,965. How came you to choose that pretty place, Ivy Bridge, to go to on the day of the election. Had you ever been there before ?—Never.

28,966. You went to see the scenery ?—Yes, and well worth seeing it is.

28,967. What train did you go by ?—The mail train, quarter-past 11.

28,968. In the morning ?—Yes.

28,969. What train did you come back by ?—I think it was the express.

28,970. Which express ?—I did not get out, I went on to Newton.

28,971. What express train stops at Ivy Bridge ?—The 3.20 from Plymouth.

28,972. You came back by that ?—Yes.

28,973. Was it past 4 when you got here ?—Yes.

28,974. And the poll was over ?—Yes.

28,975. Why did not you get out ?—My duties called me to Newton.

28,976. Had you asked leave to go away that day ?—From the station-master at Newton.

28,977. What reason had you given him ?—That I was coming to vote.

28,978. That you were going to Totnes ?—Yes.

28,979. That was not true ?—It was true.

28,980. It was not true because you did not go ?—I did not go because there was money in the way. When I came down and found that they had left this money, and I said I would have nothing to do with the election.

28,981. So I understand you that you came to vote and because you found money at your house you went on to Ivy Bridge ?—That is it.

28,982. (Mr. Longe.) Why did not you serve them in the same way at the election before ?—I had promised then. I said, "If Mr. Dent comes here I will give him a vote, and the money was left at my house after I had promised my word, but this time I had not promised.

28,983. (Mr. Bere.) Had not you been promised anything by anybody on the Conservative side?—No.

28,984. Nobody at all?—No.

28,985. How did Mr. James vote on that occasion?—I suppose for Mr. Pender, I am not certain.

28,986. Do not you know?—No.

28,987. What train did you come down by in the morning?—7.25.

28,988. When you got home you found that 45*l.* had been left for you?—Yes.

28,989. Whom did you see between the station and your own house?—No one at all.

28,990. Whom did you find at your house?—No one but my wife and family.

28,991. How far does Mr. Jenkins live from you?—The best part of a mile.

28,992. Had he been to your house that morning?—No.

28,993. Nor the night before?—No.

28,994. Had he been there a short time before?—No.

28,995. When you got home what did your wife tell you?—She said that Evens had been there again and had left 45*l.* for me. I said that I should not vote; that I should go out of the town.

28,996. Did they not offer you any money on the other side?—Not a farthing.

28,997. Had not Mr. Parnell been to see you?—No.

28,998. Nor Searle?—No.

28,999. (Mr. Longe.) When you asked the station-master's leave to go away did you tell him for whom you were going to vote?—No, I did not.

29,000. (Mr. Bere.) You have said you were not canvassed for the Conservatives, had you not seen Mr. Harris at Newton?—No.

29,001. Are you quite sure of that?—I am sure.

29,002. Had you not told him that you were going to vote for Dawkins and Pim?—I do not remember that I did.

29,003. Did not you see Mr. Harris at Newton station?—I do not think I did.

29,004. Just think about it. You will have to stay here until you do remember?—I cannot remember it at present.

29,005. When did you see Mr. Jenkins last?—Perhaps a week ago.

29,006. What did he talk to you about?—I do not know.

29,007. Did he not talk to you about the evidence which you were going to give here to-day?—Not a word, neither him nor anyone else has ever spoken to me about it.

29,008. Has he said anything to you about the evidence which has been given here?—Not a word.

29,009. Has he not talked to you about the evidence which has been given in this Court?—No.

29,010. Not about what has been said here at all?—No.

29,011. What did Mr. Jenkins talk to you about?—It was just a shake of the hand, how do you do? and away again.

29,012. Where was that?—At the Newton station.

29,013. Did he say anything to you about a little trip to Ivy Bridge?—No.

29,014. Nothing at all?—No.

29,015. Is your wife at home at present?—Yes.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds recalled and further examined.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds.

29,016. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know whether Mr. Daw of Exeter was here during the last election?—I did not see him.

29,017. Was Mr. Hockin of Dartmouth here at that time?—I did not see him.

Samuel Reeve sworn and examined.

S. Reeve.

29,018. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you been a voter?—Since 1862.

29,019. Whom did you then vote for?—Mr. Pender.

29,020. What were you promised for your vote?—Nothing.

29,021. Nothing if there had been a contest?—No.

29,022. Try and recollect?—I never had a farthing in my life.

29,023. Whom did you vote for in 1863?—Mr. Pender.

29,024. What did you get then?—Nothing.

22,025. Not after the election?—No.

29,026. Was no present made to you?—No.

29,027. Nothing of any sort or kind?—Not a farthing.

29,028. Neither before or after?—No.

29,029. Had there been no talking to you about money?—Never.

29,030. Did not anyone talk to you about it?—No.

29,031. Did you not see Mr. Parnell?—No.

29,032. Or Thomas Jacob Searle?—No.

29,033. Or Mr. Elliott?—No.

29,034. Or Mr. Michelmore?—I saw Mr. Michelmore, but not then; in 1865 I did.

29,035. Who canvassed you, what made you vote for Mr. Pender?—No one canvassed me at all.

29,036. Or came to you asking you about your vote?—No one.

29,037. Did not Mr. Pender himself come?—No.

29,038. In 1865 who did you vote for?—For Pender and Seymour.

29,039. What did you get then?—Nothing.

29,040. Did you receive no present after the election?—No.

29,041. Then you have thrown away your vote three times for nothing?—I never had a farthing in my life.

29,042. (Mr. Bere.) What did you do with the three 20*l.* notes which your son's wife gave you?—I was to let him have them again.

29,043. What did you do with them after the election of 1865?—I was to let him have them again.

29,044. What did you do with the notes themselves?—I changed the notes.

29,045. Where did you change the first?—I think at the "Plymouth Inn."

29,046. Did you put your name at the back?—I do not recollect.

29,047. Are you pretty well known there?—Yes; I did not put my name at the back.

29,048. When did you change that note?—I cannot tell exactly, I am in the habit of changing notes every week.

29,049. How came your son's wife to bring you the three 20*l.* notes?—She brought them to me and asked me to keep them for her.

29,050. Had you a strong box?—No.

29,051. Where did you keep them?—In my desk.

29,052. Had you other money of your own there?—Yes.

29,053. When did you change the first 20*l.* note?—I cannot recollect.

29,054. (Mr. Coleridge.) When have you changed a 20*l.* note before this?—I have changed many.

29,055. When did you change one before this one?—I do not recollect.

29,056. When before this instance did you ever change a 20*l.* note in your life?—I have changed a 20*l.* note at the "Plymouth Inn" before.

29,057. Had you changed a 20*l.* note for some months before?—I cannot recollect.

29,058. Had you the same year?—I do not believe I had.

29,059. Will you swear you had for a year before?—I cannot say that I had.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

S. Reeve.

19 Sept. 1866.

29,060. When did you ever change a 20*l.* note before the one you have spoken of?—I have changed several.

29,061. When have you done so?—Not that year or the year before.

29,062. Is it ten years ago?—No.

29,063. Is it five years ago?—Perhaps it is.

29,064. You have not changed a 20*l.* note for five years, and you do not recollect when you changed this first one?—I cannot recollect.

29,065. How long might it be after the election?—That I cannot recollect, it might be a fortnight after the election.

29,066. Was it a week after the election or a fortnight?—I cannot say.

29,067. What are you?—A carpenter.

29,068. It may have been a week after the election that you changed this note?—It might have been.

29,069. What did you do with it?—Paid my workmen.

29,070. You did not give it back to your son?—I gave my son money as he wanted it.

29,071. The whole of the 20*l.*?—I paid it out of other money in hand.

29,072. When did you change the next note, how long after the first one?—About three weeks.

29,073. Where did you change it?—I do not remember.

29,074. Where did you change the second?—I do not recollect.

29,075. Where did you change the first?—At the "Plymouth Inn."

29,076. Where the second one?—I do not know.

29,077. Was it at the "Plymouth Inn?"—The "Plymouth Inn."

29,078. Was it?—I will not say it was.

29,079. Perhaps it was. Now was it not?—I cannot say.

29,080. When did you change the third one?—I cannot say.

29,081. How long after the second one?—I do not know.

29,082. How much, a month?—I cannot say.

29,083. When did you change the third one?—I do not recollect.

29,084. When the second one?—I cannot recollect the second.

29,085. You must know where you changed the second?—I cannot recollect.

29,086. You are not in the habit of changing 20*l.* notes, you must have changed it somewhere, and where you will pretty well know. Where did you change it?—I am sure I cannot recollect.

29,087. You must stay here till you do recollect. Did you give your son the whole 60*l.*?—Yes.

29,088. When did he have the last of it?—About a month agone.

29,089. How much did you keep back for your labour?—Nothing.

29,090. You gave him the whole 60*l.*?—Yes; he works for me.

29,091. Does he work much for you?—Constantly.

29,092. You pay this to him in addition to his work?—Yes.

29,093. You never had a single farthing for yourself?—No.

29,094. What had you for yourself?—Nothing at all.

29,095. Do you do all the Duke's carpentry?—No.

29,096. You did the school work?—I put a roof to the school.

29,097. What were you paid for that?—150*l.*

29,098. That is a goodish job, is it not?—Yes.

29,099. Have you been paid for it?—I have been paid part.

29,100. Who paid you?—Mr. Chaster.

29,101. How much is owing now?—Half the money.

29,102. Have you sent in a bill to him?—I have sent in a bill.

29,103. The bill for the whole, and he has paid you half the amount?—Yes.

29,104. Now try and recollect where you changed the second note?—I cannot recollect.

29,105. Did Mr. Chaster advance you any money?—Yes.

29,106. When?—I cannot say.

29,107. Come now, when; you know he will have to tell us so that you may as well tell the truth at once, when was it?—Three weeks agone.

29,108. I mean before the election time did he advance you any?—No.

29,109. What did he advance you three weeks ago? 50*l.*

29,110. What for?—Money for the school; he said he would advance one on his own account.

29,111. Did you give him an I.O.U. or a note for it?—Yes.

29,112. Which was it?—A note of hand.

29,113. You signed your name to something?—I signed my name to a note of hand.

29,114. Was it in the form of "I promise to pay?"—Yes.

29,115. "I promise to pay Mr. Chaster 50*l.* on demand?—Yes.

29,116. Was any interest to be paid on it?—No.

29,117. Are you going to pay him back?—Yes, I told him I would pay him.

29,118. You had a little conversation with him about this commission?—No, not a word, it was never mentioned.

29,119. (Mr. Bere.) Was your son living with you in 1865?—No, not living with me.

29,120. Where was he living?—Down the street.

29,121. How far from you?—I do not know how far, half way down below the arch.

29,122. How had he voted in 1863?—I think he voted for Mr. Dent.

29,123. You know he did?—Yes.

29,124. You know he got some money for it, do you know that?—I heard him say that.

29,125. When did you go to him about that 1865 election?—I went the day before the election.

29,126. Who sent you?—No one.

29,127. Who sent you, come?—No one.

29,128. Where had you been before you went down to your son's house?—I had got business at Dartmouth.

29,129. You rode down to Dartmouth?—Yes.

29,130. What business had you gone about?—To see Mr. Moore.

29,131. What business had you gone about?—About some timber.

29,132. Who is Mr. Moore?—A shipbuilder.

29,133. Where does he live?—At Higher Sand Quay, Dartmouth.

29,134. How was it you came to go a day or to before the election?—I heard that he was going down, and I went to take a ride.

29,135. Who sent the trap down?—I cannot tell.

29,136. Where did it come from?—The "Seymour."

29,137. Who drove it?—A person of the name of Elliott.

29,138. A man who lives at Bridgetown?—Yes.

29,139. Did he come to you and ask you to go down to see your son?—No.

29,140. How did you know anybody was going to be sent down to your son; who told you?—Thomas Worthy.

29,141. Where did he tell you?—I met him in the street.

29,142. Who began this conversation?—He told me the trap was going down to Dartmouth for my son.

29,143. Did you ask him why?—I did not ask him why.

29,144. Why did you not?—I don't know.

29,145. Why was he going for him two or three days before the election?—I cannot say.

22,146. What did you think of his being sent for?—I cannot tell.

29,147. What did you think of people being sent down to your son, what for?—To see if they could get his vote.

29,148. Did you not go with John Elliott to canvass your son for his vote?—No I did not.

29,149. Did you go down with John Elliott to try to get your son's vote for the Liberals?—I asked him to vote.

29,150. Where did you see him?—In the work shop.

29,151. How far from Mr. Moore's yard?—Close by.

29,152. Where did you go first, to the timber-yard or the shop?—I went to the timber-yard.

29,153. How long did you stay there?—Not long.

29,154. What business had you got with him?—I was going to see him about some timber.

29,155. Did you buy any?—He bought of me.

29,156. When had he bought of you before?—Several times.

29,157. When before?—I cannot say.

29,158. You keep books?—Yes. It was at different times.

29,159. When had he last bought timber from you?—He last bought of me two months agone. I mean before the election.

29,160. What passed between you and Mr. Moore about the timber?—I did not see him.

29,161. You had not made an appointment with him?—No.

29,162. Did you and John Elliott go to your son together?—No.

29,163. Who went first?—I went.

29,164. What did you say to your son. We shall have your son's account?—I said Elliott was come down for him.

29,165. What did he say?—"Then," he said, "I suppose I must go home."

29,166. Did he say anybody had been to him on the other side?—He said "people had been there."

29,167. Did he tell you whom?—Bowden.

29,168. Did he tell you what he had been offered?—No.

29,169. Now come, just remember that?—No.

29,170. Did not he tell you that Bowden had offered him 110*l*?—No, he did not.

29,171. Did not you tell him that he was to vote for the Liberals, and that it would be all right?—I told him he was to vote for the Liberals.

29,172. And it would be all right?—I did not tell him about that.

29,173. What did you tell him?—That he had better go home and vote.

29,174. And that it would be all right?—I did not say it would be all right.

29,175. When did you first agree with Mr. Michelmore and with Mr. Lorimer, that he was to have 60*l*.?—I cannot say.

29,176. When did you and Lorimer agree that your son was to have 60*l*.?—I never mentioned it, and I was never aware that my son had the money.

29,177. Not before you had the three 20*l*. notes?—No.

29,178. (Mr. Coleridge.) What other money had you in your desk besides those three 20*l*. notes?—I cannot say.

29,179. Now come. What other money had you when you put in the three 20*l*. notes?—I had not much.

29,180. Any other?—I do not know.

29,181. Do you know whether you had any or not? I had not.

29,182. Why cannot you say at once. What had you there?—I had some gold.

29,183. How much?—9*l*. or 10*l*.

29,184. Try and recollect where you changed the second 20*l*. note?—I do not know.

29,185. Where did you change the third?—I can not recollect.

29,186. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know that your son was summoned as a witness to London?—I know that he went to London.

29,187. Did you talk to your son about what he was to say when he got to London?—No, never mentioned a word about it.

29,188. Did he tell you what he was going to say?—No.

29,189. Was he working for you at that time?—Yes.

29,190. And you did not talk to him about it?—I talked, but I did not know what he was going to say.

29,191. You took no interest?—No; I knew nothing about it.

29,192. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did your son's wife tell you where she got the three 20*l*. notes from?—No.

29,193. Did she tell you that you were to go and get something yourself?—No.

29,194. Did not she tell you that you might as well get some, as money was going?—No.

29,195. What did she say?—She did not say it.

29,196. Your son was a working man, and you knew that he could not have three 20*l*. notes honestly. Where did she say she got them from?—Got them for voting, but she did not say where.

29,197. Did she tell you why she brought them to you?—To take care of them.

29,198. Did not she tell you why she did not give them to her husband?—She did not.

29,199. Did not she tell you, as you had got a like sum, you might as well put them together?—I never had a farthing.

29,200. When did you first have money after the election?—What money.

29,201. From Mr. Chaster?—About twelve months.

29,202. What did you have then?—80*l*.

29,203. What for?—For the schools.

29,204. What is the first money that you had advanced to you after the election by anybody?—That 80*l*.

29,205. Nothing before that?—No.

29,206. Nothing by anybody?—Nothing before it.

29,207. You had nothing for your vote in 1865 or 1863?—Never a farthing in my life.

29,208. And were never offered any?—Never offered any by the Liberals.

29,209. What were you offered by the Conservatives?—100*l*. to vote for Dent.

29,210. That was in 1863?—Yes.

29,211. How did you vote?—For Mr. Pender.

29,212. Did you tell anybody that you ought to have the same for voting for them, as you had been offered for Mr. Dent?—No.

29,213. Did you get anything?—No, not a farthing.

29,214. Did you not know that money was going on Pender's side?—I never got any.

29,215. Did you ever ask anybody for any?—No; never in my life.

29,216. Did anybody offer you any?—Never on the Liberal side.

29,217. Did you ever find money left at your house that you could not account for?—No.

29,218. Never had anything for voting at all?—Never a farthing.

29,219. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know Mr. Tucker, the attorney at Ashburton?—Yes.

29,220. Do you remember his coming here to get up evidence on behalf of Pender and Seymour?—I know nothing about him, and I never spoke to him.

29,221. Take care! Did you not go about with Mr. Tucker to get up evidence for Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour?—I never spoke to him in my life.

29,222. Did you not go to the "Seymour Hotel," and see Mr. Tucker?—I did not see him there.

29,223. Where did you see him?—I never saw him to speak to him in my life.

29,224. Do you mean to say you did not go to a room at the "Seymour Hotel," and see Mr. Tucker there?—I did not.

29,225. Did you not go with your son?—No.

29,226. Did you go to the door of the "Seymour Hotel" with your son?—I did.

29,227. You let your son go in?—My son went in.

29,228. Did he see Mr. Tucker?—I cannot tell you.

29,229. Did not he tell you he had been to see a gentleman in the "Seymour Hotel," and that he had taken down what he was going to say in London?—He might have said so.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

S. Reeve.

9 Sept. 1866.

29,230. What made you go with your son to the "Seymour Hotel?"—I was asked where my son was.

29,231. Who asked you that?—I think Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

29,232. Where did he ask you that?—At the "Seymour."

29,233. How did you come to be down at the "Seymour?"—I went with Mr Cuming.

29,234. Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No, Mr. Samuel Cuming.

29,235. Where had you met Samuel Cuming?—In the street.

29,236. Had he not been to your house?—No.

29,237. Who began the conversation; you or Mr. Cuming?—I had no conversation at all.

29,238. What did he say?—He asked me where I was going, and I said I was going to the "Seymour."

29,239. What were you going to the "Seymour" for?—To have a glass of beer.

29,240. What time of the day was it?—About the middle of the day; I cannot say.

29,241. Before dinner?—No, not before dinner.

29,242. After dinner was it?—Yes.

29,243. How late in the afternoon?—2 or 3 o'clock.

29,244. Where had you been to work that day?—I cannot tell what day it was. I think it might be Good Friday.

29,245. Was that the day Mr. Tucker was here collecting evidence?—I do not know I am sure.

29,246. You had better take care what you are saying. You have told me that you went down with your son to the door of the "Seymour Hotel," and that he went in, and came out afterwards, and said he had seen a gentleman, who had taken down what he was going to say. Then I asked you, who told you that, and you said that you saw Mr. Cuming. Now what did he tell you?—He did not tell me anything.

29,247. You saw Mr. Michelmore?—Yes.

29,248. Where did you see him?—I saw him in the room, on the left-hand side.

29,249. You were in the "Seymour?"—I was in the "Seymour."

29,250. The front room?—Yes.

29,251. On the left-hand side?—Yes.

29,252. Who else was there?—I cannot recollect.

29,253. Was Sloggett there?—No.

29,254. Worthy there?—No.

29,255. Fox Green?—No.

29,256. Elliott?—I did not see any of those, but I saw Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

29,257. What did he tell you about your son?—He asked me where my son was, and if I could find him, and I said I would go and try to find him, and he did not say anything more to me.

29,258. Did not he tell you what he wanted with your son?—No.

29,259. Did you not ask what he wanted with him?—No.

29,260. Did you go and fetch your son on such uncertain messages?—He wanted to see him, and I said I would go and fetch him.

29,261. Where did you find him?—I think at my house.

29,262. Did Jeffery Michelmore say what it was about?—No.

29,263. Did not he say it was about the 20*l.* notes that your son had had?—No.

29,264. Did not he ask you what had become of them?—No.

29,265. As you came down the street, what did you talk about?—My son asked me what he was wanted there for, but I did not know.

29,266. Do you mean to say that you did not know?—I did not know what he was going to do.

29,267. How long had you been at the "Seymour" before Jeffery Michelmore spoke to you?—Perhaps 10 minutes.

29,268. What had you been talking about?—That is all he said to me.

29,269. But before he spoke to you, what had you been talking about?—I do not know.

29,270. The people who were there were witnesses going to be examined, and did you not talk about that?—I do not know anything about it.

29,271. Was there no talk about they were going to say to Mr. Tucker while in the "Seymour?"—I never heard anything about it.

29,272. You pretend to say you did not know what your son was going there for?—No, I did not.

(Mr. Bere.) Then you must stay in Court till you do.

(Mr. Coleridge.) And you must stay till you can recollect where you changed the other 20*l.* notes.

Mrs. Jane Smith sworn and examined.

Mrs. J. Smith.

29,273. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the wife of James Smith, the railway inspector?—Yes.

29,274. We have heard, in the election of 1863, that you got 30*l.*?—Yes.

29,275. Who left that?—Frederick Evens.

29,276. Were you present when he left it?—Yes.

29,277. You took the money, did you?—He put it down, and I took it up afterwards.

29,278. Was it in gold or notes?—Gold.

29,279. What did he say?—"I have got something for you." I said, "I shall have nothing to do with it," and he said, "Nonsense, do not be such a fool." That was his expression, and he placed it on the table under a cover, and he said, "Take it up."

29,280. And you did take it up?—Yes.

29,281. What did you do with it?—Put it into my pocket.

29,282. And afterwards put it into your business?—Yes.

29,283. What is your business?—Millinery.

29,284. And it became useful?—Very.

29,285. Did you see anybody on the other side?—No.

29,286. No other parcel left?—No.

29,287. Had your husband voted when Mr. Pender and Mr. Dent stood?—Yes.

29,288. Did you have an envelope with 5*l.* in it for services rendered?—No.

29,289. Never found anything in the boxes that you sent out with your millinery?—No.

29,290. Is Mrs. Jenkins a good customer of yours?—No.

29,291. How long have you been established as a milliner?—25 years.

29,292. (Mr. Coleridge.) You do not mean to say that you yourself have been a milliner 25 years?—I have; I have never been out of the town.

29,293. (Mr. Bere.) Does it require much capital to begin with?—No.

29,294. Have you never had anything from anybody?—No; I only get my accounts. There is Harris I should be glad to be settled. They have been on my books a long time, and Mr. Evens is in my books too.

29,295. Fred Evens?—Yes.

29,296. He did not consider this as a payment of his debt?—No.

29,297. Has Mr. Jenkins ever paid you any money?—No.

29,298. Is he a friend of yours?—I know him.

29,299. In 1865, did he come to see you about the election?—He never talked to me about the election.

29,300. Neither he nor Mrs. Jenkins?—No.

29,301. Nor any person from them?—No.

29,302. Any person on their side?—No.

29,303. How much money did you get at the last election?—About 35*l.*

29,304. Are you sure it was not 45*l.*?—Yes.

29,305. How did you get that?—Evens brought it in a paper bag.

29,306. Where did he put it?—He gave it to me.

29,307. When?—At the side-door, before the election.

29,308. Did you put it into your pocket?—Yes.

29,309. Did you count the money?—Not at that time. I had a great many customers in the shop.

29,310. Did Fred Evens come and call you out?—He came to the side-door and knocked.

29,311. Did you arrange with him?—I told him I would have nothing to do with him, but I did not refuse it when it was brought.

29,312. Who had you seen on the other side?—I had no offer on the other side.

29,313. How long after Fred Evens had given you the money did you count it?—It may be an hour or two; it was in the evening.

29,314. Was it in gold or notes?—Gold.

29,315. Did you make a mistake about how much it was?—I believe it was 35*l.*

29,316. Are you sure it was not 45*l.*?—I am sure.

29,317. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you expect 45*l.* and only get 35*l.*?—He said, "I have got something for you," and I said, "I do not want it."

29,318. What did he say?—He said, "There is 40*l.* or 45*l.*;" but I think he was not quite right at that time. I think he had been tasting some of their own liquor of "all nations."

29,319. Did he tell you it was 40*l.* or 45*l.*?—He said either 40*l.* or 45*l.*

29,320. You were disappointed?—No; I did not care about it.

29,321. How did you get the other 10*l.*?—I did not.

29,322. Who gave it to your husband?—He did not have it.

29,323. You put that into you business?—Yes.

29,324. (Mr. Longe.) That was not the first time that you saw Fred Evens?—He had called several times.

29,325. And seen you?—Yes.

29,326. About the elections?—Yes.

29,327. Was it not understood that your husband should vote for the Conservatives?—I believe my husband votes for the Liberals.

29,328. Did not you give him to understand that your husband would vote for the Conservatives?—No; I did not give him to understand anything. He knew that I was a Liberal, and I told Mr. Harris so when he called about signing the requisition. I said I would not influence my husband. He said, "Oh, sign the requisition; you need not vote. It is only to get them down here."

29,329. Did Evens give you 40*l.*, knowing you were a Liberal?—Yes.

29,330. And trusted you?—He came to talk to me.

29,331. And you talked about your husband's vote?—Yes. I said to him from the first, "I shall not influence him: if he chooses to go your side, very well; but ours is a Conservative landlord."

29,332. Who is your landlord?—The Fosters.

29,333. After these conversations, you expected Evens to call with the money?—I believed he would call.

29,334. The result of your conversation was, that you expected him to call with the money?—I believed he would call.

29,335. Did you tell your husband that you expected him to call?—No.

29,336. (Mr. Bere.) When had you last seen him before the election?—I think the Sunday.

29,337. Had you talked to him about it?—Yes; I had said the gentleman canvassing had called.

29,338. Fred Evens had not left the money then?—No.

29,339. You thought he was going to do so?—He said he would.

29,340. Did you tell your husband that you thought he was going to leave some money?—My husband said he would have nothing to do with it if they left money. He said, "I will have nothing to do with it."

29,341. When did you see your husband?—On the morning of the election he came with the train.

29,342. Who was at your house?—Only my own family.

29,343. Did you see Mrs. Jenkins?—No.

29,344. What passed between you and your husband? Did you tell your husband about the money?—Yes; I said Evens had been there; and he said, "I will not vote," and I was pleased to hear it. He said, "I will not vote, I value my situation more than anything else."

29,345. Now, what did you do that day?—We went down the line.

29,346. What made you do that?—My husband gets a holiday once a year, and said, "We will not waste this day," and we went to Ivybridge.

29,347. Had you been to Ivybridge before?—Not many times.

29,348. You knew it pretty well?—I passed over it when the line was opened.

29,349. Did you stay at Ivybridge that day?—No, we went up above.

29,350. What train did you go back by?—I think, by the 4 o'clock train.

29,351. (Mr Coleridge.) Who canvassed you on the Liberal side?—Mr. Pender called, and Mr. Seymour.

29,352. Did Mr. Parnell call?—Yes, Parnell called.

29,353. What did Parnell say?—We had a little conversation, as we frequently had, and he said, "Can you get your husband to our side?" and I said, "I will not try."

29,354. Did he say anything about money?—No.

29,355. Did he suggest he might call at you house?—No.

29,356. Or you?—No. He said, "Will you try to influence him?" and I said, "I shall not."

29,357. Did Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle call?—No.

29,358. Mr. Elliott?—I do not know Mr. Elliott.

29,359. Is Mr. Parnell a customer of yours?—No. He calls occasionally, he is the gas agent.

29,360. He did not say anything about money?—No.

29,361. Did he say he could help your husband on the line?—No; he has no influence.

29,362. Had your husband any communication from Mr. Woolcombe?—No; I think not.

29,363. From Mr. James?—No; they are gentlemen both, and would not do so.

29,364. Did Mr. James talk to you about it?—No; I never heard Mr. James speak about electioneering matters.

29,365. (Mr. Longe.) You, being a Liberal, thought you would be serving your party by swindling the Conservative party out of 35*l.*?—I did not.

29,366. It seems very like it. You led him to believe that you would get your husband to vote?—No.

29,367. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know what became of the difference between the 35*l.* you received and the 40*l.* or 45*l.* which you ought to have received?—It went into Evens's pocket, I should think.

29,368. (Mr. Bere.) I advise you to pay that back to Colonel Dawkins?—I have not got it.

JOHN PARNELL sworn and examined.

J. Parnell.

29,369. (Mr. Coleridge.) What relation are you to the other Parnell?—None at all.

29,370. What are you?—I am a nurseryman.

29,371. And does Mr. Bryett employ you sometimes?—Yes.

29,372. Does he employ you sometimes in other work besides gardening?—No; I laid out a place for him.

29,373. Did not he send you to see a voter?—No, nothing like that.

29,374. Did you go to see Henry Crawford?—No; I went there, but not by Mr. Bryett's directions.

29,375. Did not you tell Crawford that Mr. Bryett had sent you?—No.

29,376. Take care?—I did not.

29,377. Have not you met Crawford since, in the street, and did not you say, you were not going to say anything about Mr. Bryett's name?—No.

29,378. Did you know that Crawford was coming here to speak the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth?—He said he was.

29,379. What did you say to him?—I hoped he would not say anything about that vote I asked him for.

29,380. What did you mean by saying, you hoped he would not say anything about your going to him about his vote?—I heard of it from the men working up at Mr. Bryett's what he had said.

29,381. What did you hear?—That he mentioned my name and Mr. Bryett's name.

29,382. You did go to him?—Yes, I went to him.

29,383. And about his vote?—In 1863.

29,384. Where did you go to him?—His house.

29,385. What made you go?—I just called in before the election. I saw him washing a trap down, up at Mill Hill. He said, "I have not taken anything for my vote." And I said, "Crawford, I shall come up and see you about your vote."

29,386. You thought you would find out whether he was true or not?—Yes; he says, "I never take anything for my vote," and I said, I should talk to him about his vote.

29,387. What did you say to Crawford about his vote?—I did offer him some money.

29,388. What?—I think 50*l.* or 60*l.* to the best of my recollection. He told me it was no good; he had many called on him before.

29,389. What did you say to him about his vote?—I asked him how he was going to vote, and he said, he did not know.

29,390. Did you say you could get some money for him?—I asked him if he would take any money, and he said, no.

29,391. Did not you offer him 100*l.*?—I offered 50*l.* or 60*l.*

29,392. Who authorized you to offer that?—No one; it was the only time I ever did.

29,393. Whom were you working for at that time?—Myself.

29,394. Where did you come from to go to Crawford's house?—From my own house; I beg your pardon, not my own house, from a man's which is under the arch.

29,395. How long is it since you laid out Mr. Bryett's grounds for him?—Since last year.

29,396. Were not you working for Mr. Bryett at that time?—No.

29,397. Upon your oath, had not you seen Mr. Bryett about that?—Upon my oath, I did not.

29,398. Did not you tell Mr. Crawford not to mention Mr. Bryett's name?—I did not.

29,399. On the day before yesterday?—The day before yesterday.

29,400. Or the Saturday?—I did not.

29,401. Did not you meet Crawford in the street, and was not there a man called Thomas Searle present?—No; I never mentioned Mr. Bryett's name.

29,402. Did you meet Crawford in the street, and in the presence of a man named Thomas Searle tell Crawford not to mention Mr. Bryett's name?—I did not.

29,403. Did you tell Crawford not to mention Mr. Bryett's name?—No; I never mentioned his name.

29,404. What did you do after you had spoken to Crawford about his vote?—I went home.

29,405. Whom did you see of the Conservative party?—No one.

29,406. Did you go to the "Seven Stars?"—No.

29,407. Do you expect us to believe such a story as that?—I did not.

29,408. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you get Crawford any money?—No.

29,409. Where were you going to get the money from?—I do not know.

29,410. You did not offer him that without knowing where to get it?—I told him at that time.

29,411. Who told you they would give you the money to pay him?—No one. I went on my own account.

29,412. Had you any talk with Mr. Edmonds?—No.

29,413. What was it that Mr. Bryett had said to you?—Nothing.

29,414. Did not Mr. Bryett ask you to canvass him?—No; Mr. Bryett had nothing to do with the election.

29,415. Who was it who told you to go and offer this money?—No one.

29,416. How did you vote yourself?—Mr. Dent.

29,417. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing; never a farthing in my life.

29,418. Were you promised anything?—No; I never got a farthing in my life.

29,419. Were not you to get the money for your own vote, and the money for Crawford at the same time, at the "Seven Stars?"—No.

29,420. What did Mr. John Heath tell you you could have at the "Stars" for Crawford?—Nothing at all; I never saw Mr. John Heath.

29,421. You have been offered money for your vote?—Yes; I was in the nursery, a gentleman came to me in the nursery.

29,422. When was that?—1863.

29,423. Was that a gentleman with a white hat?—Yes; he offered me 200*l.* for my vote.

29,424. Do you know who that gentleman was?—No.

29,425. Are you sure about 1863, that you were offered 200*l.*?—In 1863; it was at Dent's election.

29,426. But was not it the time when Mr. Dent retired and Mr. Pender stood?—I do not think it was. I know it was Mr. Dent's election.

29,427. Was it Mr. Dent's first or second?—I think it was the second election.

29,428. At that time what sort of man was it offered you the money?—A man about middlish size, with a white hat.

29,429. What did he say?—He came and said, "Here is an election going on; would you like to have 200*l.*?" and I said, "No, I have promised."

29,430. Have you seen him since that?—No.

29,431. Had you seen him before?—No.

29,432. Did you get any of it?—No.

29,433. Did you get anything in 1865?—I never voted.

29,434. Why did not you vote?—Because I had friends on both sides.

29,435. Do you mean friends who paid you on both sides?—No, friends I supplied.

29,436. But had not the friends you supplied on both sides canvassed you in 1863?—Yes.

29,437. What was the difference?—I do not know any difference.

29,438. Why not give one and one?—I had made up my mind not to vote at all.

29,439. Had you found it a bad thing that you voted for Mr. Dent?—I never found the good of it.

29,440. Had you found any harm? Did you lose any customers?—Very likely I did.

29,441. Whom did you lose?—I do not know.

29,442. Whom did you lose by voting for Mr. Dent?—I do not know anyone particularly.

29,443. Did you lose anyone?—Very likely not.

29,444. Did you, or not, lose any customers by voting for Mr. Dent?—I may not have.

29,445. Did you or not, on your oath?—I did not.

29,446. What did you mean by telling us that the reason you did not vote in 1865 was because you had customers on both sides?—Because I did not wish to displease anyone.

29,447. You did not care about displeasing them in 1863 when you voted for Mr. Dent?—No.

29,448. What did you get them to compensate you for voting for Mr. Dent?—Nothing.

29,449. And you lost no customers, and you say you thought you would lose customers in 1865 if you voted either way?—I thought it best to leave it alone.

29,450. What did you get for leaving it alone?—Nothing.

29,451. Not a present after the election?—No, never anything.

29,452. Who was it sent you to Crawford?—No one.

29,453. You were not a very active politician?—No.

29,454. Had you canvassed anybody else?—No.

29,455. Offered any money?—No.

29,456. Or attended committee-rooms?—No.

29,457. Then what gave you the sudden inspiration to see Crawford?—Well, I thought I would go down to him.

29,458. But you were not working the election or anything of that sort?—No.

29,459. This was your own single act?—Yes.

29,460. Who was it sent you?—No one.

29,461. Who was it told you that a good many people had been to Crawford before?—I do not know who it was.

29,462. Who told you?—I do not know.

29,463. Was it Mr. Bryett?—No, Mr. Bryett never mentioned his name. I am sure he did not.

29,464. What made you take it into your head to go to Crawford?—My own head.

29,465. Did you mean to pay the 60*l.* out of your own pocket?—No, it is not likely.

29,466. If he had taken the 60*l.* where did you mean to go and get it? You were friendly with Crawford and did not mean to deceive him?—Because he told me that he never took a bribe in his life.

29,467. If he had said, "Very well" when you offered him that, where should you have gone?—I do not know.

29,468. Do not you know you would have gone to the "Seven Stars?"—No.

29,469. Where?—I would not have had it. It was just to try.

29,470. Then it was a lie altogether; you did not mean to give it at all?—I did not mean to give it at all, because he told me he had never got a farthing.

29,471. When did he tell you that?—Before I went to him.

29,472. How came you to talk to him about that?—I met him in the road. And I asked him how he was going to vote next time and I said, "I will come up to you to see whether you will give us a vote."

29,473. How long after that was it you went up to him?—I do not know how long it was; it was not long afterwards.

29,474. Whom did you tell you should go and have a talk to Crawford about his vote?—No one.

29,475. Whom had you been talking to about the election?—No one.

29,476. Who canvassed you in 1863?—Mr. Dent.

29,477. Who else?—No one that I recollect.

29,478. Do you know a friend of Mr. Dent's, Mr. Mitchell?—I was not at home when they called.

29,479. Do you know Mr. Mitchell?—No.

29,480. Have you a wife?—No.

29,481. Had you at that time?—Yes, she is dead now.

29,482. Do you know whether she got anything?—No.

29,483. You do not know?—I do not think she did get anything in her life.

29,484. Did you get any fresh customers after voting for Mr. Dent?—I do not know but what I found myself something better.

29,485. Who were the new Conservative customers you got?—New ones? I don't know particularly Conservative.

29,486. Who were the new ones you got after the last election?—(No answer.)

29,487. (Mr. Bere.) Do you keep books?—Yes.

(Mr. Coleridge.) Bring your books for 1862, 1863, 1864, and 1865—your order books.

29,488. Do you mean to say you never had this conversation a few days since in the presence of a man called Thomas Searle who was with Crawford going down the street?—Very likely some one was with him.

29,489. Do you know Thomas Searle?—Yes.

29,490. Was he with him?—I cannot say I saw Crawford.

29,491. Did you see Thomas Searle somewhere about that time?—I do not know.

29,492. When did you last see Searle?—Yesterday, here.

29,493. When did you see him last before that, not Thomas Jacob Searle, but Thomas Searle, a man who was walking with Mr. Crawford in the street?—You do not mean the man who was here yesterday.

29,494. I do not mean Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle?—I do not know any other Searle.

29,495. Was there a man walking with Crawford?—I think there was someone.

29,496. You are quite sure you did not say anything about Mr. Bryett?—I will be on my oath that I did not mention Mr. Bryett's name at the time—positive.

29,497. What made you say when you came up to Crawford in the street, "I never mentioned Mr. Bryett's name to you when I came to you about your vote?"—I never said anything to Crawford in the street about it.

29,498. What did you say to him about it?—Mr. Bryett came to me and said, "You have been bringing up my name," and I said I never did, and he said "Come down along with me to Mr. Harris," where Crawford was working.

29,499. You and Mr. Bryett went together?—Yes.

29,500. What took place?—He brought out Crawford and then he asked Crawford whether I said she had sent me and he said I did and I said I did not.

29,501. Crawford told you then that you had told him that Mr. Bryett had sent you?—Yes.

29,502. You mean Crawford is wrong in that?—Yes; and then he swore before me and Mr. Bryett and Mr. Harris that he never received a farthing in his life.

29,503. Then Mr. Bryett had him up and examined him?—Yes.

29,504. When was that?—A fortnight ago.

29,505. It was after Crawford's examination here was not it?—Before I think; it must have been a fortnight ago.

29,506. Was not it after Crawford had been examined here?—Before that.

29,507. Then Mr. Crawford did not tell you anything about the Seymour fly then?—He swore he had never received a farthing in his life.

29,508. Did he still maintain that you said when you came to offer him money that you came from Mr. Bryett?—Yes.

29,509. And he also stuck to his never having had any money?—Yes.

29,510. And you know he sticks to that now?—I do not know whether he sticks to that now.

29,511. (Mr. Bere.) Is that the only time you have seen Crawford since this Commission has been sitting?—Not since that.

29,512. Do you mean to say on your oath that it was not after Crawford had given his evidence here?—No.

29,513. Just think a moment?—I am sure it was not.

22,514. How could Mr. Bryett know what Crawford was going to say?—I do not know, I think you will find it was right, because he swore it there before me and Mr. Bryett.

29,515. (Mr. Coleridge.) But he swore that here two or three days ago?—I will be on my oath that Mr. Bryett never sent me.

29,516. How do you mean you have not seen him since you told us you met him in the street, two or three days ago?—No, I swear I have never seen him

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

J. Parnell.

19 Sept. 1866.

since—I have seen him here, but not spoken to him since we met down at Mr. Harris's.

29,517. Did not you see him two or three days ago with a man called Thomas Searle?—No, it was before that.

29,518. How long was it. Was it this day week?—That was before when I went with Mr. Bryett.

29,519. Where did this examination of Crawford by Mr. Bryett take place?—In Mr. Harris's shop.

29,520. Who was there?—Mr. Bryett and Mr. Harris.

29,521. What Mr. Harris?—He is a painter.

29,522. Was there another working man called Searle present?—No.

29,523. Then is that the only conversation you had with Mr. Crawford about this matter?—I mean to say Crawford was not examined then.

29,524. When was he examined?—Last week.

29,525. I do not mean here, but he was examined by Mr. Bryett at that time as to your going to see him?—Yes, and Harris was there and he brought me up.

29,526. What did Mr. Bryett say to him when he said what he was going to swear to?—He did not believe it, and he said he did not believe when Crawford said he never received the money.

29,527. Did he say he knew better or something of that sort.

(Mr. Bere.) Where did Mr. Bryett say he had heard Crawford was going to tell a story about him?—I do not know.

29,528. Had you been talking about it?—No; not a word about it before we went up there.

T. Searle.

THOMAS SEARLE sworn and examined.

29,529. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A shoemaker.

29,530. Did you happen to be present at the conversation that took place between Mr. Parnell the gardener and Crawford?—Yes.

29,531. When was that?—On Sunday morning before this Commission opened.

29,532. Where?—They were coming down the street.

29,533. What passed? Parnell called after Mr. Crawford, sung out in that manner, and Crawford stopped and went back, I should think half-a-dozen paces. I remained where I was. They walked on together and we went down Castle Street, and in going down there Mr. Parnell says, "Do not say any-" thing that passed between me and you back at the " last election." " Well," Crawford says, " That is dead now, or I forget"—I will not say those words, but words to that effect, and Mr. Parnell directly made answer and said, " I would not have Mr. Bryett's name mentioned."

H. Crawford.

HENRY CRAWFORD recalled and further examined.

29,534. (Mr. Coleridge). What did Mr. Parnell say to you on the Sunday morning in the street?—He called me as I was passing along the street on the Sunday morning before the Commission opened. He said "Crawford," and I turned round, and Mr. Parnell spoke to me and said, "Don't say anything of " what occurred between you and me at the election; " I would not have it known for ever so much, for " God's sake don't say a word concerning this; don't " bring up Mr. Bryett's name."

29,535. How long after that was it that Mr. Bryett and you had been in Harris's, the painter's shop?—I think it was the Thursday after Harris's evidence; I spoke of it to Mr. Mitchell and he mentioned it to me.

29,536. Who was present when Mr. Bryett examined you?—Mr. Parnell, myself, Mr. Bryett, and Mr. Harris—four of us together.

29,537. What did Mr. Bryett then say to you?—Mr. Bryett asked me what I had to say about the election, and I stated before Mr. Parnell and Mr. Harris what I have stated here.

29,538. What did you say to Mr. Bryett?—That Mr. Parnell should say "Don't make use of my name."

29,539. And you still stick to that?—I do and nothing else.

29,540. When Mr. Parnell came to you about the election of 1863, did he say where he came from?—He said he could get money from Mr. Bryett.

29,541. You are quite certain of that?—Yes, he repeated that at different times; I could go through the same thing over again.

29,542. What did Mr. Bryett say to you after you had made the statement in Harris's shop?—He did not seem to credit me.

29,543. Did he not say he did not believe a word that you said?—I think something to that effect.

29,544. That he did not believe you?—I will not be positive of that—it was something in that way.

29,545. Did Mr. Parnell, when he came to you in 1863, show you any money?—No, he never showed me a penny.

29,546. When you had this conversation in the shop with Mr. Bryett, what did Mr. Bryett say about his share in it?—Mr. Bryett said he had not sent him, but I told him that I could state that before I don't know how many Commissioners with a clear conscience.

29,547. That Parnell had said he had come from Mr. Bryett in the election of 1863?—Yes, he said he was instructed by Mr. Bryett to make me that offer—to give me the 200*l.*

29,548. When Mr. Bryett denied this what did you say?—I said it was the truth.

29,549. What did Mr. Parnell say?—He denied the charge—he said I was telling an untruth.

29,550. As to so much as related to Mr. Bryett, he denied it, but he acknowledged the rest?—He did; he acknowledged the rest, except as to Mr. Bryett's name. I could bring witnesses that he did make use of Mr. Bryett's name in another way.

29,551. (Mr. Longe.) Was there any dispute carried on between you?—When he said, "Don't say anything," I said, "It is all right," and walked on.

29,552. They both denied it, and nothing further took place?—No.

29,553. You did not repeat the assertion that it was Mr. Bryett?—I said, "It is all right," and walked away where I was going to.

J. Parnell.

JOHN PARNELL recalled and further examined.

29,554. (Mr. Coleridge.) You know what perjury is, I suppose?—Yes. I will be on my oath that I never mentioned Mr. Bryett's name. I mentioned what the man had said, not Mr. Bryett's name.

29,555. You mean that you did not mention his name in the street?—I never mentioned his name.

29,556. Be careful what you say, because this is a matter on which perjury may be assigned. You never stated in the street that you would not for the world Mr. Bryett's name was mentioned?—Not Mr. Bryett's name.

29,557. Whose name was it?—No one's name. I never mentioned Mr. Bryett's name.

29,558. Whose name was it you did not wish nentioned—was Mr. Bryett's name mistaken for that f some one else whose name you did not wish nentioned?—I did not say whose name it was.

29,559. Two persons have sworn that you mentioned Mr. Bryett by name?—If you mentioned some one lse's name whose name you would rather not have nentioned for the world, whose name was it?—I ave sworn that I never mentioned it.

29,560. You have heard what this man has said on is oath, and what Searle has said on his oath, do you till maintain that you never mentioned Mr. Bryett's ame?—I do.

29,561. May it not have been this—that you heard vhat had been said, and do not you think you said "I vill not have Mr. Bryett's name mentioned?"—No, I hink not.

29,562. May it not have been that you thought it vas foolish to mention Mr. Bryett's name, and you autioned him about not doing so. Was it not so?—No.

29,563. You swear that you never said you would ot have Mr. Bryett's name dragged into it for anyhing?—I will swear that.

29,564. And that you did not say you were instructed by Mr. Bryett?—No.

29,565. Did you mention Mr. Bryett's name ncidentally?—No.

29,566. Did you mention anything about having talked with Mr. Bryett?—No, I had no talk with him.

29,567. Did you mention anything about any work which you anticipated having from Mr. Bryett?—No, I did not.

29,568. You say that you never mentioned Mr. Bryett's name in 1863, when you went to Crawford?—Yes, I do.

29,569. And that you did not mention his name when this conversation took place in the street?—I swear it.

29,570. (Mr. Bere). It is fit you should know that the position which you are in is this. Here are two witnesses swearing to a conversation which you deny, and they have given their testimony on their oath. That is a matter upon which you may be tried for perjury. The statement which has been made to-day will be submitted to the Law Officers of the Crown, and it will be for them to determine whether you will be prosecuted or not. If before the Commission is over your memory is more clear, and your recollection better, you may be recalled.

(The Witness.) I will swear that I never mentioned Mr. Bryett's name to anyone.

WILLIAM KNAPMAN sworn and examined. W. Knapmad.

29,571. (Mr. Longe.) How long have you had a ote?—I voted first for Dunn, in 1859.

29,572. Did you vote in 1862?—No.

29,573. Or in 1863?—No.

29,574. Did you at the last election in 1865?—I endered my vote.

29,575. Who did you tender it for?—For Dawkins nd Pim.

29,576. At the first election when you voted for Dunn, did you receive anything before or after the lection?—Yes.

29,577. How much?—50*l.*

29,578. Who gave it to you?—Robert Paige.

29,579. Where did he give it to you?—In my ouse at Bourton.

29,580. Did he call before the election?—Yes, bout a week before.

29,581. And struck a bargain with you?—He sked me whether 50*l.* would be of any service to ne; I said I should like to have it; he said nothing nore and went away.

29,582. There was an understanding between you hat you should vote for Dunn and get 50*l.*?—He aid if I voted for Dunn he would get 50*l.* for me.

29,583. Was any offer made you by the Liberals?—No.

29,584. Where you canvassed?—Yes, by Mr. Mills and by him only.

29,585. No offer was made to you?—No.

29,586. Who was your landlord at that time?—The Duke of Somerset.

29,587. After you voted for Mr. Dunn, were you turned out?—Yes.

29,588. How soon after?—I should say about a year and a half.

29,589. Did you understand what was the reason assigned?—Mr. Michelmore gave me to understand that if I did not vote for Gifford and Mills, I should have to leave the house. Mr. Thomas Michelmore.

29,590. When did he tell you that?—I think the day before the election.

29,591. Did he call at your house?—No, he called upon me where I was at work.

29,592. What were the words that he used,—had you any long conversation at that time?—No; he asked me who I was going to vote for, and I said I had not yet made up my mind.

29,593. That was after the conversation you had with Mr. Paige?—Yes.

29,594. Then what was it that he said to you?—He said to me, "You must vote for Gifford and Mills; I insist upon it."

JOHN CALLARD sworn and examined. J. Callar.

29,595. (Mr. Bere.) Are you clerk to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—Yes.

29,596. How many other clerks have you in your office?—Only one.

29,597. What is his name?—George Fitze.

29,598. Is that George Fitze the younger?—Yes.

29,599. How long has Mr. Prout left Mr. Michelmore's employment?—In March last.

29,600. Were you in the office when Cross was here?—Yes.

29,601. How long is it since he left?—He left in 862.

29,602. Where is Mr. Michelmore to-day; do you know?—He is gone to Stoke Fleming.

29,603. You must be good enough to go down and bring up all your books from the year 1860 to the present time,—all the books relating to the Duke of Somerset's affairs; you must bring them up at once?—I do not know what books may be required.

29,604. You understand that you must bring up all the books relating to the Duke of Somerset's affairs since the year 1860? They must be brought here without delay?—I will do so.

WILLIAM KNAPMAN recalled and examined. W. Knapman.

29,605. What did you say?—I suppose he was utting the screw on rather tight. I always said would vote for the Duke's interest before I took the ouse.

29,606. You said, "I promise you I will vote for the Duke's interest before you build me the house," did you?—I always considered that the Duke's interest was the Earl of Gifford's, as he took the seat of Lord Seymour, and he says you must vote for the both.

29,607. When you took the house it was understood

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

W. Knapman.

19 Sept. 1866.

you were under a promise?—That I would support the Duke's interest.

29,608. You had made a promise?—Yes.

29,609. When you took the house what did you do; how did you make the arrangement; was it in writing?—No writing.

29,610. How long before the election?—Before I had taken the house at all.

29,611. How long before the election was it that you took the house; how long had you had the house before the election of 1859?—About three or four years; I cannot be certain.

29,612. There had been another election before that?—I think there was one.

22,613. You said you promised to vote for the duke's interest?—Yes.

29,614. What did he say?—He did not say anything more about that. When I said "I suppose if I support the Duke's interest I am at liberty to vote for the second man if I like," he did not say anything more about it.

29,615. At this election, when you spoke to him, you said you would vote for the Duke?—Yes.

29,616. He wanted both?—Yes.

29,617. What did you say to that?—I said, "You are putting the screw on rather tight."

29,618. Tell us the conversation?—He left then, and said, "You will see me again in the morning."

29,619. Did he call in the morning?—No.

29,620. At that time it seems you voted for Dunn?—I voted for Earl Gifford and Dunn.

29,621. After that you had this notice to quit?—Yes.

29,622. But you did not leave, did you?—No.

29,623. Was there anything wrong?—Because the notice was served wrong. Mr. Michelmore, when I went to pay the rent asked me when I took the house; I told him, and then he says, "The notice is of no good."

29,624. There was something wrong about the time of serving the notice?—Yes.

29,625. Afterwards you were evicted?—Yes.

29,626. By another notice?—Oh no; they still made the notice good, and summoned me to the county court.

29,627. Were you cast?—I was summoned for double rent. I went up to pay the rent up to the quarter-day, and Mr. Jeffery Michelmore refused it. Then I went down to John Gillham, to take a house that he had got the letting of belonging to the Duke of Somerset. When Mr. Michelmore heard of it, he went and told Mr. Gillham that he was not to let me the house.

29,628. He had a lease of it?—No; he rents the house. He has got the back and a shop underneath; he lets off the kitchen and the bedrooms.

29,629. Mr. Michelmore went to him, and told him he was not to let you the house?—Yes. As I was coming from Mr. Gillhams I met Mr. Jeffery Michelmore and old Mr. Michelmore coming down over the hill. He says, "I shall summon you to the county court;" I said, "You may do as you please about that;" then he summoned me to the county court to know the reason I did not leave. He sued me for double rent; the judge would not grant him double rent, but insisted on my leaving the house at such a time.

29,630. It was arranged that you should leave at a particular time?—Yes.

29,631. And you did leave?—Yes.

29,632. After that where did you get a house to live in?—I went into four rooms belonging to Mr. Samuel Heath. I could not get any house after he refused.

29,633. Were you lodging or living there when you tendered your vote at the last election?—No; I was living in a house at Warland. At the time I lived at Samuel Heath's, I was living there weekly.

29,634. You had a house at the last election; who was your landlord then?—Mr. Harris was the agent.

29,635. It was a Conservative's house?—Yes.

29,636. You tendered your vote for Dawkins and Pim?—Yes.

29,637. How much did you get at the last election?—Nothing.

29,638. You were promised something?—Yes.

29,639. Nothing before the election?—No, sir; on my oath.

29,640. Were you canvassed on the other side?—No; not by either one of them.

29,641. Is that all you ever received?—That is all.

29,642. (Mr. Bere.) You mean to say that no person came to see you about your vote at the last election?—No, no one whatever.

29,643. Where were you?—Living at Warland.

29,644. Were you asked to tender your vote?—Yes.

29,645. Who asked you?—Mr. Harris.

29,646. Did you not understand you would get something?—No; I never asked the question, and he never offered me any.

29,647. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was anything left at your house afterwards?—No.

29,648. No present at all?—No.

29,649. Did your wife get anything?—Nothing whatever.

29,650. What did Frederick Evens say to you at the last election?—I never saw him.

29,651. You voted for the Conservatives?—Yes.

29,652. Did you see Screach?—No one whatever.

29,653. Had you been down to the "Seven Stars" at all during the election?—No, sir; on my oath.

29,654. You are a friend of Mr. Harris?—I am a friend to all, I hope.

29,655. Did he not tell you of the good things that were going at the "Seven Stars?—No; I never had a glass of drink.

29,656. They never let you into the good things going on?—Never in my life.

29,657. They told you nothing about the money?—No.

29,658. Did you ask?—No.

29,659. What made you such an abstemious man about money the last time?—Mr. Harris asked me to tender my vote, and I did so.

29,660. Did he not tell you there would be something for you after?—No.

29,661. Did he not tell you to go and see Mr. Heath?—No; on my oath.

29,662. (Mr. Longe.) Why was not your vote good, what was the doubt about it?—I rent a house and a field.

29,663. You tendered your vote?—Yes.

29,664. Why was it refused; what was the question about it?—Nothing more,

29,665. Did you believe it to be a good vote?—Not altogether. I rent a field; I paid the rent, and Mr. Waymouth used to pay me the money.

29,666. Who is he?—A butcher.

29,667. How many others voted for the field besides you?—No one.

29,668. (Mr. Coleridge.) How much is the house rented at by itself?—4*l.* 10*s.*

29,669. The house and field are 10*l.*?—12*l.*

29,670. You pay the rent on your house yourself?—I used to pay all the rent, but Mr. Waymouth used to pay me again.

29,671. He used to pay you 7*l.* 10*s.* back?—He used to pay me 12*l.* for the field.

29,672. He occupies the field?—Yes, he occupies the field.

J. Light.

JOHN LIGHT sworn and examined.

29,673. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a schoolmaster, living at Bovey Tracey?—Yes.

29,674. How long have you been a schoolmaster?—Three Years.

29,675. Were you here in the election of 1862?—No; I went out in October—three years come October.

29,676. You were living here at the time of the election of 1863?—Yes.

29,677. Whom did you vote for when Dent and Seymour stood?—A single election, was it?

29,678. Yes?—I do not think I voted at a single contest.

29,679. Why did you not vote?—I had a reason for it.

29,680. What was your reason?—I had got a son in the yard, and I asked the favour of Mr. Michelmore to get him retained on the establishment; at that time they were discharging men.

29,681. Is that your son Walter?—Yes; he promised me, and never performed it. They drove close to the time; almost the last batch had come out. I wrote to him, and said, "If you cannot get it done for me I shall have no chance of getting it," there seemed so many young men gone already. I wrote immediately to Earl Gifford, and asked the favour of him; but I never had any answer from his Lordship until the 31st of March, so as that it should come into our hands on the 1st of April (I have the note in my pocket). Then I made up my mind from that that I would not vote for him again at the next election if he came to my door.

29,682. You did not vote?—I did not.

29,683. Why did you not vote for Mr. Dent?—I always voted on one side.

29,684. Did not anybody come to you on Mr. Dent's behalf at that time?—Yes; Mr. Dent canvassed me himself.

29,685. Did Mr. Mitchell come to you, his friend?—I do not know him.

29,686. Where were you at the time of that election?—At Exeter.

29,687. What made you go to Exeter?—To see my daughter.

29,688. Did you get some money for going to see your daughter?—There was a gentleman who came to me at my house, and put down 25*l.* on the table. I did not ask for it.

29,689. What did this gentleman ask you to do for the 25*l.*?—Nothing: he did it to make surety doubly sure, because he knew my sentiments.

29,690. Who was the gentleman?—Young Mr. John Heath.

29,691. Was it 25*l.*?—25*l.*

29,692. Are you quite sure about that? was it not 40*l.*?—Oh, no.

29,693. What was done?—He made a present to my daughter-in-law.

29,694. Who is your daughter-in-law, Mrs. Stillman?—No, Mrs. Light.

29,695. Have you not got a son-in-law, Mr. George Stillman?—Yes.

29,696. Did you get it through him?—No.

29,697. Did you get any money through him?—5*l.*

29,698. You had only 25*l.* and 5*l.*?—That is all.

29,699. You went to Exeter, and did not vote?—I went to Exeter on the polling day, in the morning.

29,700. At what time did you go?—At 7 o'clock.

29,701. Who went with you?—My wife: we went to Shaldon.

29,702. When did you go to Shaldon?—I went to my wife's sister.

29,703. When did you go?—On the Sunday morning.

29,704. Who had gone with you?—No one but my wife.

29,705. Who told you to go to Shaldon?—No one.

29,706. Was it before the 25*l.* was left or after?—Before.

29,707. Just think; it must have been before you went away?—It was to pay my expenses.

29,708. When did you go to Shaldon, before you got the money or after?—After.

29,709. When was it paid to you before, how long before?—A couple or three days; I cannot be certain.

29,710. Did Mr. John Heath say to you that he wanted you to go away?—I never saw him myself.

29,711. Did he see your wife?—My wife and my daughter.

29,712. Did he tell your wife he wanted you to go away?—He told my wife he did not want me to vote. We then agreed to go away because I made up my mind. When Mr. Dent canvassed me I told him, "I cannot promise you;" he said, "I hope you will not vote against me." I said "That is another thing."

29,713. You had 25*l.* for not voting, and 5*l.* afterwards?—Yes.

29,714. Are you sure that it is not 40*l.* and 10*l.*?—Oh, yes.

29,715. Quite sure of that?—Yes.

29,716. Was that all you got in 1863? Did you not get something from the other side in 1863?—Yes.

29,717. What did you get from them?—30*l.*

29,718. Who gave it you?—Worthy brought it.

29,719. In 1863, the same election that you are talking about?—Yes.

29,720. Where did he bring it to you?—At my house.

29,721. Is Thomas Worthy your half-brother?—Yes.

29,722. Where did he get it from, do you know?—I suppose from Mr. Parnell.

29,723. What was it in, gold?—Gold; sovereigns and half-sovereigns.

29,724. Was it before you went or after?—I must be wrong, it was before that I had it.

29,725. When was it, in 1862? Have you got a note of it?—I have of the dates.

29,726. When did you put them down?—To correct my memory.

29,727. Where did you take the dates from?—From my memory.

29,728. Do you not keep a memorandum-book?—No.

29,729. Do you keep a diary?—No.

29,730. An account-book?—Only my school affairs. In 1863, that I believe you are speaking about, I had 25*l.*, and 5*l.* from Stillman. I had nothing from the other side. Of course they were annoyed.

29,731. (Mr. Coleridge.) Nothing from Mr. Parnell?—Not at that time.

29,732. Did you have anything in 1862 from Mr. Parnell?—When there was no contest I had 30*l.*; that is the time I alluded to.

22,733. It is in 1862 you had the 30*l.*, when there was no contest?—It was given to me as a present after.

29,734. Did he tell you it came from Mr. Pender?—No.

29,735. Was it a present from your half-brother?—He brought it to me, and said it was a present.

29,736. Did he say where he got it from?—He did not say. I expect it came from Mr. Parnell.

29,737. You did pretty well then, 30*l.* from the Liberals in 1862; and 25*l.* and 5*l.* (that is 30*l.*) from the Conservatives in 1863, and you did not vote?—No, I did not.

29,738. Did not the Liberals offer you some money to vote at that time?—What time?

29,739. In 1863?—They sent up for me.

29,740. Who did they send up?—My son.

29,741. Walter?—No.

29,742. Which son?—John.

29,743. What did they send him up to tell you?—He came to me to vote.

29,744. Did he tell you what you would have if you did come to vote?—No.

29,745. Did they not tell him to offer you something?—No.

29,746. Are you sure about that?—Yes.

29,747. Where does he live?—In my house?

29,748. Is he up here now?—He is working in the town.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

J. Light.

19 Sept. 1866.

29,749. Is he at home now ?—I do not know.

29,750. That is the money you had in 1862 and 1863. What did you have before, at the other elections ? What did you get at Dunn's election ?—What year was that ?

29,751. 1859 ; how much did you have in 1859 ?—30*l.*

29,752. Where did you get it from ?—Worthy.

29,753. Where did he get it ?—From Mr. Parnell.

29,754. You voted for Mills and Gifford ?—Yes.

29,755. Had you any money in 1857 ?—5*l.*

29,756. 5*l.* only ?—That is all.

29,757. Who brought it you ?—My son.

29,758. Which son ?—John.

29,759. Where did he get it from ?—Mr. Parnell, I expect.

29,760. Did you have money before that, in 1852 ?—Yes.

29,761. How much then ?—20*l.*

29,762. Who did you get it from ?—Worthy.

29,763. Did he get it from Mr. Parnell, as the other ?—I expect so.

29,764. How did you vote in 1852 ?—Mills and Lord Seymour, I think.

29,765. Were you promised anything in 1855, when Lord Gifford stood ?—No.

29,766. You did not go to the poll when Sir John Yard Buller was down with Mr. Mackenzie ?—No, I had nothing at that time.

29,767. Have you told us of all the money you have got from either side, up to 1863 ?—Yes.

29,768. What did you have last year, 1865—Dawkins and Pim ?—I did not vote for them.

29,769. What did you have for the election of 1865 ?—John Screach came over and saw you at Bovey ?—He did.

29,770. What did he offer you ?—50*l.*

29,771. It was a good deal bigger than that ?—60*l.*

29,772. Did it not get up as high as 150*l.* ?—No. Next morning, in my garden, he came and offered me 60*l.*, and I refused it.

29,773. Was that the highest offer he made ?—That is the highest offer he made.

29,774. You came back to Totnes after you had seen him at Bovey ?—I said I did not know there was going to be any contest until the Friday, and the election took place the Tuesday after.

29,775. You had signed the requisition, had you not, to Mr. Macleay ?—No, I did not ; I was against it ; I opposed it.

29,776. Did not you say you would allow your wife to sign it for you ?—No.

29,777. Whose writing is that (referring to the requisition) ?—My wife's.

29,778. Did you know that she had signed it for you ?—No.

29,779. Do you mean that she never told you ?—She told me she had done it after.

29,780. What did you say ?—I said she had done very wrong.

29,781. Did you see Thomas Worthy before you voted in 1865 ?—It was upon the nomination day.

29,782. What did he say to you on the nomination day about your vote ?—Nothing at all.

29,783. Did you have any money for your vote before you voted ?—No.

29,784. A short time after the election did you meet Mr. Windeatt ?—Yes, in the Plymouth Road.

29,785. Did he shake hands with you and thank you for the honest vote you had given ?—Yes.

29,786. Did he intimate that the honesty would be rewarded ?—No.

29,787. What did he say ?—I had acted as an honest man. "Now cannot you leave the town till some one calls upon you ? "

29,788. Somebody did call upon you ?—Yes.

29,789. Thomas Worthy ?—Yes.

29,790. How much was the reward of your honesty ?—45*l.*

29,791. Where was it paid ?—In the "Town Arms."

29,792. (Mr. Coleridge.) He is the clerk at the Independent chapel, is he not ?—He is not the clerk.

29,793. What is he, the sexton ?—Yes.

29,794. (Mr. Bere.) Did you take this home to your wife ?—She was very glad to have it.

29,795. With it you had a trip to the north of England ?—I went to see my children.

29,796. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is that all you got in 1865 ?—That is all. I am on my oath.

29,797. How often have you voted for the Council ? I cannot tell you.

29,798. What is the price generally, has it gone as high as 4*l.* ?—No, never.

29,799. What is the last Council election you ever had ?—Three years ago, I think.

29,800. What did you get then ?—I came down to vote. The contest was running pretty smart. I met Mr. George Heath, and he says "You had better go up with me and vote for our man."

29,801. Who was that man ?—I cannot tell you now. He says "I will give you 3*l.*"

29,802. Did you go and vote for his man ?—I said I did not like to sell my vote in that way.

29,803. What made you so tender about the votes you did not want to sell after the others ; is it that you thought that you were getting an old man, and that you ought to mend your ways ?—Perhaps it was that. I got 3*l.* 10*s.*

29,804. From Mr. Heath ?—Yes, and he gave me his list, and I went up and polled.

29,805. How often have you been paid ; when were you paid before that for voting for the council ?—I do not know.

29,806. Had you ever got as much as 1*l.* before ?—No.

29,807. Used it to be 1*s.* or 30*s.* ?—I have known half-a-crown, and I have seen it as high as 5*s.* ; not on every occasion.

29,808. Excepting at that time have you ever received more than 5*s.* ?—I do not think I ever had.

22,809. Did you ever vote without receiving something in your life ?—Yes, in a single-handed contest, I never had any money.

29,810. Who for ?—Bowden and Heath ; they took me up to vote.

29,811. And never gave you anything ?—No.

29,812. Did not Mr. Heath give you something afterwards ?—I voted against him, I could not expect anything.

29,813. Which way do you generally vote for the Council, Conservative or Liberal ?—Sometimes if I see a good man, and a neighbour, I would not mind voting for him.

29,814. Did you ever give to Heath a vote at any time ?—Yes.

29,815. What did he give you for that ?—He was one of the batch that I voted for at that time.

29,816. In the 3*l.* 10*s.* lot ?—I think he was ; I will not be certain.

29,817. Now just look at your bit of paper, and tell me how much your vote has been worth to you ever since you have had one. When is the first time that you ever received any money for voting at parliamentary election ?—1852.

29,818. Did you ever receive anything earlier than that ?—The first time I voted was for Lord Seymour.

29,819. How long had you had a vote ?—Soon after Mr. Ricardo's election, because then I had not a vote. At the next election I was a voter, and I think the Duke of Somerset, then Lord Seymour, was a candidate.

29,820. Before you had a vote, used you to assist at the elections, and get paid ?—No, I did not have anything.

29,821. Have you ever got paid on both sides at any election ?—No.

29,822. Are you sure about that ; try and recollect it ; you are not sure ?—Quite, sir.

29,823. Quite sure you were paid by both sides at any election?—Not that I know of; I always went one way.

29,824. My question is whether you ever went one way, and was paid the other,—do you ever recollect being paid?—I was put on my own oath, and I voted honestly.

The Court adjourned for a short time.

JOHN LIGHT, junior, sworn and examined.

29,825. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a son of John Light, the schoolmaster?—Yes.

29,826. Do you remember his going to Exeter in 1863?—He went away from Totnes, but I do not know where he went.

29,827. Take care! You went to see him?—I can tell you all about it.

29,828. Then let us have it?—He went away from Totnes on the Sunday, I believe, before the election. I did not know where he went, but I found he went to Shaldon on the nomination evening. I was on the Plains, and Mr. Parnell came up and asked me if my father was at home, and I said "No;" and he asked me where he was, and said "I do not know." He said "Do you think you can find him," and I said "Perhaps I can; I do not know where he is?" He said, "Will you go and see," I said "Yes; if you will pay me my expenses I will go." And he told me to go to the "Seymour Hotel," and I went, and a man named Thomas Worthy gave me 2*l.*, and he said "Go and see if you can find your father, and ask him to come and vote for Mr. Seymour."

29,829. Did not he authorize you to offer your father anything?—No, not a farthing. He never said a word about money.

29,830. Are you a voter yourself?—No.

29,831. Have you been a voter?—Yes, I voted once.

29,832. When did you vote?—In 1859.

29,833. For whom?—Thomas Mills and Lord Gifford.

29,834. What did you get?—Nothing.

28,835. What did your father get?—Stop a minute. Some weeks after the election, Thomas Worthy gave me 25*l.*

29,836. Where did he give you that?—I cannot tell you where it was; whether in the street or in my own house.

29,837. Is that the only time you ever voted?—I voted for the town council.

29,838. Have you lost the qualification?—I lost the house I was living in, and I have not had one since.

29,839. You paid your father money once?—I think I did.

29,840. When was that?—I cannot tell you now.

29,841. In 1852, was it not?—That was in Mill's election. I think I did pay my father 20*l.*

29,842. Where did you get the money?—The money came from Mr. Parnell.

29,843. Did he give it to you yourself?—I think I had something to do with it.

29,844. What had you to do with it?—He handed it to me, and I handed it to my father.

29,845. Who handed it?—Mr. Parnell.

29,846. Where did you get the money in 1859?—Thomas Worthy gave that to me.

29,847. Did he give you anything for your father?—No; not a farthing.

29,848. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Worthy tell you where the money came from?—I do not know; he gave it to me.

29,849. (Mr. Bere.) You were glad to get the money?—I refused it at first.

29,850. But you took it?—Yes; I was a poor man.

27,851. Anything on the other side?—A young man named Daniel Coombes offered me 80*l.*

29,852. Is he alive?—Yes. He lives at Staverton Bridge Mill.

29,853. You would not take that?—Certainly not.

29,854. Did you tell Thomas Worthy that you had been offered 80*l.*?—I cannot tell.

29,855. It is very likely you did?—I do not think I did. I think he came and offered it to my wife.

29,856. Did not you tell Thomas Worthy that your wife had been offered 80*l.*?—No, I did not. If I had been minded to go for money, I might have gone in and got a great deal.

29,857. Was that the only time you had a vote at all?—Yes.

29,858. That was only worth 25*l.*?—A voter like me in Totnes, if I had got a vote at the last election, it would command a large sum.

29,859. What do you think you would have got?—Perhaps I might have got 200*l.* The Seymour interest would have no influence over me, nor the Tories. A poor man like me generally gets the most money if he likes to go in for it.

29,860. When you went to see your father at Exeter, what did you tell him?—I asked him if he would go and vote for Mr. Seymour.

29,861. Did not you say he would very likely get something good?—No, I was not authorized to offer it.

29,862. Did not you expect he would get something?—If I tell you the truth, perhaps he would be paid something; but they did not tell me.

29,863. Did not they look as if they meant it?—It was dark.

29,864. You had not the least doubt, that if he came back he would be paid?—I daresay he would.

29,865. (Mr. Coleridge.) You voted for the Council?—Yes.

29,866. What did you get?—Nothing at all. I voted for the Liberals.

29,867. Did not you get some when Mr. Heath stood, when your father got 3*l.* 10*s.*?—I had no vote then.

29,868. You got the ordinary breakfast and half-a-crown?—I never had a breakfast or a half-crown.

29,869. But did they pay you differently from the others?—It is a falsehood. My father could have had 200*l.* at the last election if he had voted for the Tories.

29,870. Who offered him 200*l.*?—Mr. John Heath, the young one, came to my house on the Monday before the election, and offered my wife 100*l.*, and 30*l.* for herself, if she would get my father to vote for the Tories; but she refused, and said he was pledged to vote for Pender, and would not.

29,871. Did they spring anything?—Afterwards. John Heath said, "I will give you any sum in reason."

29,872. I suppose she went and consulted with your father?—No, she did not. She had not seen him for a month.

29,873. Did she consult with you?—She told me.

29,874. What did you say?—She said the same as me, that he had promised to vote for Pender, and would not accept it.

29,875. Does your father live with you?—I live at his house.

29,876. And your wife keeps house for him?—No; he has rooms for himself.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

J. Barter.

19 Sept. 1866.

JAMES BARTER sworn and examined.

29,877. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you been a voter?—I should think about 10 years.

29,878. Did you vote in 1857?—No.

29,879. In 1859, in Dunn's election?—In 1859.

29,880. How did you vote then?—For the Conservatives; always voted for the Conservatives.

29,881. You voted for Dunn?—Yes.

29,882. How much did you get?—30*l.*

29,883. Who gave it to you?—There was nothing in Dunn's election.

29,884. Nothing at all?—No.

29,885. On either side?—No.

29,886. Did Frederick Evens give you anything?—No.

29,887. That was the first time you had a vote?—Yes.

29,888. You did not know what a good thing it was?—No.

29,889. In 1862, when Dent retired, what were you promised if Dent came to the poll?—If he stood I should have voted for him.

29,890. Was anything offered?—No.

29,891. Had not Frederick Evens told you what would be given?—No.

29,892. In 1863 you got 30*l.* from Mr. Woodley?—Yes; unasked for.

29,893. (Mr. Bere.) What is the peculiar expression that a Totnes voter has in his face when he wants money and does not ask for it?—I never asked for any.

29,894. (Mr. Coleridge.) When was it that Mr Woodley asked you?—I think on the Saturday night before the election.

29,895. Did he come to your house?—He was at my house.

29,896. Did he tell you where he was going to get the money from?—No; he asked me if I had money for voting, and I said, "I never asked for it;" and he said, "There is a present for you."

29,897. That is before the election?—Yes.

29,898. Who was that to vote for?—He did not say.

29,899. You knew on which side he was?—I was canvassed by both parties.

29,900. But Woodley knew which way you would vote?—Yes; he thought which way I would vote.

29,901. Was that all that you got at that election?—That was all.

29,902. Did they not give you anything afterwards?—No.

29,903. In 1865 whom did you vote for?—For Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

29,904. What did you get then?—Nothing at all.

29,905. Did not Mr. Woodley come to you at that time?—No; not that I know by.

29,906. What did your wife get?—Nothing.

29,907. No present after the election?—No; nor any before.

28,908. No you mean to say that you got nothing to vote at the 1865 election?—Nothing.

29,909. You voted for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—Yes.

29,910. Were you much at the "Seven Stars" during the election?—I used to go there during the time.

29,911. You heard that money was going?—Yes.

29,912. You knew it was?—No.

29,913. Having got the 30*l.* as a present in 1863, how was it that you did not look for any in 1865?—I did not ask, nor did I look for any.

29,914. Did not the Heaths give you any money?—No; nor any one belonging to them.

29,915. Nor Frederick Evens?—No.

29,916. Nor Screach?—No.

29,917. What did Screach say to you?—Nothing. He never asked me which way I was going to vote.

29,918. Who canvassed you?—Both parties canvassed me.

29,919. But on the Conservative side?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim called.

29,920. When Captain Pim called was one of the young Heaths with him?—James Heath, I think.

29,921. What did James Heath say your vote would be worth?—Nothing at all. He said he called to solicit my vote; and I promised him.

29,922. Now did the Liberals try you at all?—No, never in all my life.

29,923. Did Parnell come and see you?—No.

29,924. Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle?—Neither he nor anyone else.

29,925. Do you mean you have only had 30*l.* for your vote?—Yes? and that was unasked for.

29,926. Did you ever have any money unasked for in the municipal elections?—No; I never asked for any.

29,927. Some time after the election in 1865 did you not get something?—No.

29,928. Do you recollect any money ever being left at the house?—No; none put in the chimney, nor anywhere else.

29,929. It may be there still, and you have not found it?—It may be.

29,930. Do you mean really that in 1865 you got nothing for your vote?—Nothing whatever.

29,931. No promise?—No.

29,932. What are you?—A baker and confectioner.

29,933. What do you vote upon, your house?—Yes.

29,934. Had you not a bill paid at the election time?—No.

29,935. Did not you supply any?—No; I have nothing but what comes out of my work, and I work hard.

29,936. (Mr. Bere.) How was it you worked hard when you heard that money was going; it was not shame that prevented you asking for some?—I did not say that I heard that money was going.

29,937. But you did know?—I might.

29,938. Did not you hear that your neighbours were getting money?—Not particularly.

29,939. Did you hear that somewhere?—I heard that money was going.

29,940. You heard of money before?—Is that the last time?

29,941. Yes; why did not you go the last time?—I did not want it.

29,942. You waited till they came?—I should not wait till they came. When the candidates came I gave them an answer, and never gave them the trouble of calling a second time.

29,943. When you heard that money was going, why did you not go and see what your share might be?—I did not go.

29,944. How far do you live from the "Seven Stars?"—Not far.

29,945. A very short distance from the "Stars," and you did not go and see what happened?—It is not further from the "Stars" than from the "Stars" to the "Seymour."

29,946. You did not go to the "Seymour?"—No.

29,947. Are you sure you did not go?—I might have been.

29,948. Were you not there in the election of 1865? No.

29,949. Just think again?—I think I was, on the Saturday or the Saturday week.

29,950. Whom did you see?—Mr. Page.

29,951. What did he say to you?—I went in to pay him a bill.

29,952. Is he a miller?—No; a farmer.

29,953. What bill did you have?—I paid him 16*s.* 8*d.* for a load of straw.

29,954. What did he say about the election?—Nothing.

29,955. Nothing at all?—No; he gave me a glass of brandy and water, and I left the house. I did not go about the election.

29,956. Was that taken out of the bill?—Yes; and he asked me if I would take a glass of brandy and water, and I did.

29,957. He did not ask you about the election at all?—No, not a word.

28,958. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you borrow any money at the election?—I might have borrowed such a thing as a sovereign from my father-in-law.

29,959. Who is your father-in-law?—Mr. Woodley.

29,960. That is the man that brought you the money?—Yes.

29,961. You had no conversation with him about money?—No.

29,962. Did he say there was no money for you?—No; and I never asked him, and he never told me a word about it.

29,963. Did not Mr. Woodley speak to you about your vote at the last election?—Yes; I think he asked me about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when I was going to vote.

29,964. What time did you vote?—About 2 or 3. I generally go after dinner, when I finish my work, then I do what I think proper.

29,965. What made you vote so late?—I never vote in the morning.

29,966. Why?—I have got other things to do.

29,967. Do you think that you are better paid if you vote then?—I am not paid at all.

29,968. What did Mr. Woodley say?—He asked me about my vote, and I said "Presently." Then Mr. Harris came and asked me, and I said, "Mr. Harris, I do not think I shall go at all, do not trouble me." He says, "Do you mean that?" and I said "Yes, I do not think I shall go," but I came out at the back door and went and voted, and they thought I was not going to vote at all.

29,969. Had you seen Mr. Harris?—I had seen him.

29,970. Did Mr. Harris say there was a little money to be had?—No.

29,971. This was the election day?—Yes.

29,972. Had you not seen Mr. Harris before that?—Respecting election and bribery.

29,973. Had you not seen Mr. Harris, and talked to him about the election?—No.

29,974. Do you supply Mr. Harris with bread?—Yes, once a week.

29,975. Only once a week?—Twice if they like.

29,976. Did you have some talk with him about the election?—No.

29,977. Perhaps you were not very well then?—I think I was pretty well.

ROBERT LAKE sworn and examined.

R. Lake.

29,978. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—A miller.

29,979. Where are you now living?—At Dartington parish.

29,980. When did you have a vote?—In 1862 and 1863.

29,981. They were two elections together?—Yes, in one month I think.

29,982. Whom did you vote for when you did vote?—Mr. Pender first.

29,983. You voted twice?—Yes, at the two elections.

29,984. At the second election whom did you vote for?—For Mr. Dent.

29,985. Were those the only two elections at which you had a vote?—Yes.

29,986. Had you a vote before?—No.

29,987. You have not had a vote since?—No, not since.

29,988. When you voted for Pender, was anything given to you to vote?—I was promised 30*l.*

29,989. Who by?—Mr. Jeffrey Michelmore.

29,990. When did he promise you 30*l.*?—Before the election.

29,991. Do you remember how long before?—A day or two before.

29,992. Was he at your house? Did he call upon you?—He came to my house. He called two or three times, but I had not made up my mind.

29,993. Who was your landlord at that time?—The Duke of Somerset.

39,994. What did you rent under the Duke of Somerset?—50*l.* a year, mill and land.

29,995. Mr. Michelmore called and asked you for your vote?—Yes.

29,996. Did you promise it?—Pender and Michelmore called together, and I told them I would think of it.

29,997. At that time nothing was said about 50*l.*?—No, not then.

29,998. Was anything said about any obligation to vote one way or the other?—Mr. Michelmore said, after they canvassed me, I told him that I was thinking about supporting Mr. Dent; I do not know whether anybody was passing at that time, I was a stranger in the place, but I heard money was about, and I thought I would like to have some as well as the rest.

29,999. You lived at Fleet mill?—Yes.

30,000. How long had you been living there before the election?—The vote was only good a month or two before the election?—The vote was only good a month or two before the election.

30,001. Mr. Michelmore spoke to you, and you said you would vote for Mr. Dent. Then what did he say?—He said, if I did, it would be bad for me; he pitied my wife and children, and I would not allow that that should be so; and I thought it was hard, but I thought I could live before, and I could live after him, and I would not vote for him a second time.

30,002. Let us have the conversation. He said "It would be bad for your wife and children?"—Yes.

30,003. What did he mean by that?—He said I would get turned out.

30,004. Who would turn you out?—He said I should get turned out.

30,005. If you voted for Dent?—Yes.

30,006. When was the promise made of the 50*l.*—It was 30*l.* I was paying 50*l.* a year rent, and 30*l.* was promised.

30,007. When was the promise made?—At Pender's election.

30,008. We are speaking of the 1862 election, the first election, when you first had a vote?—That was the time he promised me.

30,009. That was the time of his first threatening to turn you out if you did not vote?—Yes.

30,010. After he had threatened you, there was another day when he promised you this 30*l.*?—He promised me 30*l.* a day or two before the election.

30,011. When he told you it would be a bad thing for your wife and children if you did not vote for Mr. Pender, what did you tell him then?—I told him it was a hard case, because I understood you could vote as you pleased if authorized by the franchise.

30,012. When you took the mill was any intimation given to you that you would have to vote for the Duke's candidate?—No, he did not say anything. When I took the land he did not mention it.

30,013. When you took the mill, you did not know it would be so?—No. I had the mill one year before I had the land.

30,014. The field gave you the vote?—Yes.

30,015. At that election you voted for Pender?—Yes.

30,016. Was the money paid you?—No.

30,017. In any way was it made up to you?—I owed Mr. Michelmore at that time 50*l.*, being the rent. I carried 30*l.*, and I said, "If you please, we entered into a little agreement the other day." The rent day was the day after. Mr. Pender had left. Mr. Pender was gone away after the election was over. The rent day was put off through the means of the election, and then, a few days after Mr. Pender was gone, our rent day was, and I said, "Sir, if you please, we entered into a little agreement the other day." Mr. Pront was there, and he sent him out of the room, and I had got 30*l.* I owed 50*l.*, and I expected to carry home 10*l.* So he said, "How is it that you have not brought more than 30*l.*; you owe 50*l.*," I said, "We entered into an agreement the other day," and I said, "I suppose you can make it all right?" Mr. Michelmore said, "We will straighten it with you this time, but do not leave it like this again."

30,018. At that time did you have 30*l.* off the rent?—No, 20*l.*

30,019. (Mr. Coleridge.) They did not give you 10*l.* besides?—No.

30,020. Did they give you a receipt for the 50*l*?—I carried the 30*l.*, and they gave me a receipt that the whole was paid.

30,021. (Mr. Bere.) Have you that receipt?—Yes.

30,022. You have not got it here?—Yes, I have. (The following receipts were handed in:) "Berry, "6th November, 1862. Received of Mr. Robert Lake "the sum of 10*l.* 0*s.* 0*d.*, being a half-year's rent due "to his Grace the Duke of Somerset, due Michaelmas, "1862.—JEFFY MICHELMORE.

"Rent - - -	£10 0*s.* 0*d.*

"Berry, 12th December 1862. Received of Mr. "Robert Lake the sum of 38*l.* 19*s.* 0*d.*, being a half-"year's rent due to his Grace the Duke of Somerset, "due Michaelmas, 1862.—JEFFY. MICHELMORE.

"Rent - - -	£38 19*s.* 0*d.*
"Less property tax -	— — —
	£38 19*s.* 0*d.*"

30,023. (Mr. Longe.) Mr. Prout was sent out of the room?—Yes.

30,024. (Mr. Coleridge.) They offered you something on the other side during that election?—Yes.

30,025. Who was it?—John Heath.

30,026. He offered you 100*l.*?—Yes.

30,027. Did he tell you where it was coming from?—I said I would rather stand on my own side, knowing what it would be.

30,028. You took the 100*l.*?—No, not the first time.

30,029. (Mr. Bere.) Is that the receipt he gave you, (referring,) and were they both paid at the same time?—I paid 30*l.*, and the other was to be put straight.

30,030. (Mr. Longe.) At any election in 1862, was an offer made to you to vote for the Conservatives?—Yes, by John Heath.

30,031. What did he offer you?—First 50*l.*; and I said "50*l.* is no use, you know what will be done." I said "If you like to go to 100*l.* or 150*l.*, I will try what I can do, but" I said, "You know what I shall be done to."

30,032. After that, did he offer you 150*l.*?—I voted for Pender the first time.

30,033. Did you get anything from the Conservatives the first time?—Not a farthing.

30,034. At the next election?—I would not give Mr. Michelmore my vote, because he had not paid what he promised.

30,035. Did he send anyone?—He sent his clerk, and I said, an agreement was an agreement, and I had not got it, and I would not vote.

30,036. (Mr. Coleridge.) It was 10*l.*?—Yes; because he had said Mr. Michelmore would make it all straight.

30,037. (Mr. Longe.) Who was it that came to you from Mr. Michelmore?—Mr. Prout I think, and I think the other of his clerks.

30,038. They asked you to vote for Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

30,039. What did you say?—I had not made up my mind.

30,040. What did they say?—"You come, and you will be served better," and I said, "My word is my bond."

30,041. They said, you would be "served better." Did they put it into any definite form?—They only said I would be served better.

30,042. You did not promise?—No.

30,043. Did the Conservatives come to you the next time?—The young Mr. John Heath came.

30,044, What did he say?—He said, "What are you going to do? And I said "How much are you going to give me?" And he said, "I think 50*l.* is very well." I said, "No, I will have a 100*l.* and a bottle of wine to crack over it if I come to you."

30,045. What was the bargain?—He said, "That is too much, I will give you 70*l.*" I said, "I will not, unless I get 100*l.* You know the consequences." After a long time, he went away that night, and he came to my house again, and he said, "Have you come to any other conclusion?" and I said, "No, I will have a 100*l.* and a bottle of wine to crack over it;" and he said "Give us your hand;" and that was a bargain.

30,046. Was that 100*l.* and the bottle of wine paid?—Yes.

30,047. And you voted for Dent?—Yes.

30,048. Who paid you the money?—Young John Heath.

30,049. Where did he get it?—Upstairs.

30,050. Did he pay you when he struck the bargain?—He paid me 20*l.* on the Sunday evening. He asked me if I would have a glass of grog; and then the election morning they came and told me, and I went and had a good breakfast, and he said, "Are you going to poll?" and I said, "Do what you said first, and I will go to poll;" and then he paid me the remainder, and I went to poll.

30,051. That is the 80*l.*?—Yes.

30,052. (Mr. Bere.) Where did he get that from?—The same room.

30,053. No 9?—I do not know.

30,054. On the left going upstairs?—Yes.

30,055. (Mr. Longe.) After that election you got notice to quit?—Yes.

20,056. The mill?—Only the land.

30,057. What was the land?—Five acres.

30,058. Are you still living there at the mills?—No.

30,059. Did you leave the mills, or have you been evicted?—I left the mills of my own accord.

30,060. You are only turned out of the land?—Yes.

30,061. (Mr. Coleridge.) Your vote was on the land?—Yes.

30,062. (Mr. Longe.) They only turned you out of the land that gave you the vote?—Yes.

30,063. Were there any other votes upon the five acre field?—No.

30,064. Are you sure when you took the land, you were not given to understand that you must be a good Liberal?—No. Where I came from, from Crediton, we did not mind that.

30,065. Who were you under there?—Under Mr. Bullar.

30,066. (Mr. Bere.) Did you vote for North Devon in 1857?—No, I was not a voter.

30,067. They brought an action against you in the county court?—Yes, I wanted to have my 30*l.*

30,068. (Mr. Coleridge.) You had 20*l.*?—Yes, there was the mill and the field, and I wanted to get something off that, because they did not pay me anything for the manure.

30,069. Then they brought an action against you?—Yes, I owed a half-year's rent when I left, and I was considering that the one should be thrown against the other.

30,070. How was your rent made up; there are two receipts here. Was it for the mill so much, and for the land so much?—10*l.* a year for the field, and 40*l.* for the mill.

30,071. Why is this 17*l.* one half-year's rent?—After I had been there 2 years and a half, Mr. Michelmore reduced the mill to 35*l.* a year.

30,072. The rent was first 50*l.* a year, and then 45*l.* ?—Yes.

30,073. (Mr. Coleridge.) When you went away there was a half-year's rent owing ?—Yes, but they would not let me off that.

30,074. They would not let you set that off ?—I tried to set that off, but they could not let me do it.

30,075. Did you plead a set off ?—No, I told Mr. Carter about it, but they would not have it.

30,076. Where you a voter as long as you occupied the field under the Duke of Somerset ?—I took the field in 1860, and I had it till July, and had the vote.

30,077. Did not they object to your vote at one time ?—Yes.

30,078. When was that ?—They objected to my vote at the next registration after I voted.

30,079. Had they got young Gillham to grow some potatoes on your field ?—Yes.

30,080. Then they said you were not in full occupation ?—He had a few rows, and kept coming to me.

30,081. Then the Liberals objected to your vote, and said you had not full occupation ?—Yes.

30,082. Although it was the same occupation as you had when you first went ?—Yes.

30,083. What did you allow Gillham ?—He kept coming to me, and seemed to be a friend ; and knowing that he was one of Michelmore's tenants—but I found out afterwards when too late, what he had done.

30,084. (Mr. Longe.) That he had been put up to this. Did you understand who had put him up to it ?—I suppose the clerks, they were about at electioneering times.

30,085. (Mr. Coleridge.) You had valuable consideration for your vote, 100*l.* ?—If Mr. Michelmore had paid me the 30*l.* I would not have voted.

30,086. Did you see the duke himself ?—No, I saw the young lord.

30,087. Never talked to him ?—No.

30,088. Did you think of writing to the duke ? one of those things were done ?—No, I was afraid.

30,089. Did you hear of any of the tenants writing to the duke ?—I do not know anything about that.

30,090. They call Mr. Jeffery Michelmore the "Duke of Berry," do not they ?—He duked me very well, and ruined me in the end of it.

JOHN CALLARD recalled and further examined. J. Callard.

30,091. (Mr. Bere.) Have you brought all the books relating to these affairs ?—All that I can get.

30,092. What others are there ?—There are only the books I cannot get at.

30,093. What are they ?—Letters.

30,094. Are they in Jeffery Michelmore's custody ?—Yes.

30,095. Has any alteration been made in the books since the sitting of this commission ?—No.

30,096. Nor any attempts ?—No.

30,097. Have any extracts been made ?—No.

30,098. Are there any other books in the office relating to the Duke of Somerset's affairs ?—No.

30,099. Are these the original books that have been in the office since 1860 ?—Yes.

30,100. You have been in the office since then and upon your oath those are the originals ?—Yes.

30,101. Those are not copies ?—No.

30,102. The original books ?—Yes.

30,103. Have any copies been made ?—Not more than we have sent to the duke.

30,104. Have any copies been made recently ?—No.

30,105. We must have Mr. Michelmore's letter book ; he must produce it to morrow morning ?—I cannot get that.

30,106. Do you keep a day book ?—There is the day book.

30,107. Is not there an expenditure book and a receipt book ?—There it is all there.

30,108. (Mr. Coleridge.) In the cash book there ?—Yes.

30,109. (Mr. Bere.) As you receive money do not you put it down ?—At the rent audits.

30,110. Supposing a man has not paid his rent and goes and pays it to Mr. Michelmore, does not that go down in your book ?—It is in the day-book but when we receive the rent audits——

30,111. I do not want that; from day to day do not you put down the monies you receive ?—Yes, that is in the day-book.

30,112. Let me look at the day-book. Have you got another book in which the rent items are put ?—That is put on slips of paper.

30,113. Where are they ?—They are in the office.

30,113*a*. (Mr. Bere). Those are the things which we want. Go and fetch them ; they are in your power.

WILLIAM WILLIS sworn and examined. W. Willis.

30,114. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live ?—In the Plymouth Road.

30,115. Have you always lived there ?—No.

30,116. Did you live in Bridgetown at any time ?—Never.

30,117. Have you land from the Duke of Somerset ?—Never.

30,118. Where did you live before you lived in the Plymouth Road ?—I first lived in the Plymouth Road, then I left it, and I came back to the Plymouth Road again.

30,119. When did you have a vote ?—The first time that I had a vote was in 1847.

30,120. Whom did you vote for then ?—Ricardo and Lord Seymour.

30,121. Did you get any money ?—No.

30,122. There was money going about ?—I do not know.

30,123. When did you vote again ?—In 1852.

30,124. Whom did you vote for then ?—Lord Seymour and Mr. Mills.

30,125. Did you get anything ?—No.

30,126. Did you vote in 1857 ?—No, I was off the register.

30,127. When did you come back ?—1859. I voted for Mills and Dunn.

30,128. How did that conversion take place ? What was the reason ?—Lord Seymour was then gone to the upper house.

30,129. Then Lord Gifford was here ; why not vote for Lord Gifford ?—I did not.

30,130. Had not Mr. Edward Woodley something to do with it ?—Yes, a little.

30,131. What was that little ? 30*l.* ?—Yes.

30,132. Where did he pay you ?—In my own house.

30,133. Had you bargained ?—No. I understood that I was to be paid something.

30,134. Who gave you to understand that ?—Mr. Woodley.

30,135. You were ill then ?—Yes.

30,136. Were you ill at the time that you made the bargain ?—We never made any bargain.

30,137. He told you, if you voted for Dunn, you should have something for your vote ?—Yes.

30,138. Did he give it you in the bedroom ?—He left it upstairs. He did not give it to me.

30,139. When did he pay it ?—Two days after.

30,140. What did he pay it in ?—In notes.

30,141. Was that all you had at that time ?—Yes.

30,142. Did nobody come on the other side ?—No.

30,143. Nobody spoke to you ?—No.

30,144. After you voted against them were not the Liberals angry ?—They never showed any anger.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

W. Willis.

19 Sept. 1866.

30,145. Did not they talk to you about it?—No.

30,146. In 1862 had you a vote?—Yes.

30,147. Whom did you vote for?—If Dent had stood, I should have voted.

30,148. How would you have voted then?—For Dent.

30,149. Were you promised money?—No.

30,150. Was it money that made you change round from the Liberals to the Conservatives?—No. Not only that, I had some good friends Conservatives.

30,151. What are you?—A carpenter.

30,152. Have you good contracts for the Conservatives?—No. Some of them.

30,153. Who are your principal customers?—I had always very little to do on that side, and no particular customers on that side.

30,154. What made you say you voted for the Conservatives because you had customers?—I expected some.

30,155. What made you anticipate? Gratitude?—I suppose so.

30,156. Who did you vote for in 1863?—For Mr. Dent.

30,157. What did you get for that?—Not a farthing.

30,158. Had anyone talked to you in 1863?—In 1863 there was Mr. Dent and Mr. Edmonds with him at the time.

30,159. Did you promise your vote on each occasion?—I did immediately.

30,160. Had you anything given to you after that election?—Nothing.

30,161. Have you a wife?—Yes.

30,162. Did she get anything?—No.

30,163. Not a handsome bracelet?—No.

30,164. Or a silk dress?—No.

30,165. In 1865 who did you vote for then?—Dawkins and Pim.

30,166. Did you get nothing for that?—Nothing; I only got 30*l.* and that was 30*l.* too much.

30,167. Then why did you not return it?—I did not return it.

30,168. Are you the father of William John Willis?—No; his uncle.

30,169. Did he not come to see you and to influence your vote?—Never.

30,170. The only time you had money was from Woodley in 1859?—It was.

W. Marks.

William Marks sworn and examined.

30,171. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you had a vote?—Since 1859.

30,172. Who did you vote for?—For Dunn.

30,173. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing at all.

30,174. Were you offered anything?—No.

30,175. Did you vote in 1862?—No.

30,176. Did you promise Mr. Dent?—No.

30,177. Or Mr. Pender?—No.

30,178. Did Mr. Pender offer you anything for your vote?—I was never offered anything in my life.

30,179. Is your name William Marks, Fore Street?—Yes.

30,180. In 1863 how did you vote?—I voted for Mr. Dent.

30,181. What did you get for that?—I had a present of 20*l.*

30,182. Where did you get that from?—From Mr. George Heath.

30,183. Was it not 25*l.*?—No.

30,184. When was it given to you?—I think on the day of nomination.

30,185. Where did he give it to you?—In the office.

30,186. Was that No. 1. at the "Stars?"—It might be.

30,187. Was it not 25*l.* and you gave him 5*l.* for himself?—No; I wanted 5*l.* more and he did not get it for me.

30,188. Did you give him nothing for himself?—No. I kept the whole.

30,189. Were you offered anything on the other side?—No.

30,190. Were you not offered 100*l.*?—No.

30,191. In 1865 how did you vote?—I did not vote at all.

30,192. Had you lost your vote?—John Heath asked me what figure he should put down and I told him.

30,193. And what was that?—The figure was 30*l.* I did not get paid. I did not vote.

30,194. What did Mr. Michelmore say to you about your vote on the last election?—Nothing in particular.

30,195. What was it?—He asked me if I had made up my mind.

30,196. Did he talk to you about the figure?—No, not a word.

30,197. What did you say to Mr. Heath, that you would vote for Pim and Dawkins if you got 30*l.*?—I did.

30,198. They did not give you the 30*l.*?—They did not.

30,199. And you did not vote at all?—No.

30,200. What were you offered on Mr. Pender's side?—Nothing.

30,201. If you had voted for them would you not have had something handsome?—No.

30,202. Had you had any conversation with Mr. Parnell?—No.

30,203. Nor with Mr. Michelmore?—No.

30,204. Nor with Thomas Jacob Searle?—No.

30,205. Are you a Dartington tenant?—No.

30,206. What are you?—A jobbing gardener and I keep a greengrocer's shop.

30,207. Did they try to bring you to the poll in 1865?—No.

30,208. When they saw you were not voting and that the election was running close did not George Heath come after you?—The election did not run close at all, the trap was down by 9 o'clock in the morning.

30,209. And the trap being down they did not give you your money?—No.

30,210. When did they promise it to you?—The day before the nomination.

30,211. Then why did you not get it before then; were you standing out for a little more?—No.

30,212. You had bargained with George Heath for 30*l.*?—I had.

30,213. And you never asked him for it at all?—I did not; it was all over, the affair had passed; Mr. Heath saw me outside the door the night before the nomination in the crowd and he asked me what figure he should put down for me, and I told him 30*l.* On the night of the nomination I went to the "Stars" to see if I could get it.

30,214. Whom did you ask for?—No one at all. I saw Mr. Kellock in the hall and there were some runners there, and he advised them to go home and go to bed; and I thought I might as well do the same, the election was then over.

30,215. Did you not ask Mr. Kellock for it?—No.

30,216. And you got nothing?—No.

30,217. Then it was not a profitable matter to you at all?—Not at all.

30,218. You did not vote?—No.

30,219. (Mr. Bere.) Although you never received any money for your vote, have you ever offered money to anyone else?—Never.

30,220. Did you see a man of the name of Edward Angel?—I see him often. I never offered him any money, and was never empowered to do anything of the kind.

30,221. Have you not spoken to him about his vote?—No.

30,222. Are you sure of that ?—I am.

30,223. Are you quite sure that you never offered him anything at any time ?—I am.

30,224. Do you remember hearing any conversation between Edward Angel and some one else about his vote ?—Never.

30,225. Are you quite sure about that ?—I am.

30,226. You have never talked to Angel about his vote at any time ?—Never.

30,227. What is Edward Angel ?—He is a tailor.

30,228. Do not you employ him ?—I have not for years ; he has made garments for me some years ago.

30,229. Are you on familiar terms with him ?—Yes.

30,230. Do you go to his shop and have a talk with him ?—I do sometimes.

30,231. Have you not done so mostly at election times ?—Not particularly then.

30,232. Have you not often talked about what has happened in the town ?—I daresay we might.

30,233. Totnes is not such a very lively place but that the election has generally produced some excitement ?—Exactly so.

30,234. And do not you remember, in 1862, talking to Edward Angel about it ?—No.

30,235. And do not you remember his talking to you about it ?—No.

30,236. And asking you whether you could not get him some money ?—He never did so in his life.

30,237. And did he not say there were five or six of them who might be had ?—No.

30,238. Are you quite certain of that ?—I never spoke to him on the subject in my life.

30,239. Have you not ever talked about Edward Angel's vote ?—No, I have not.

30,240. Have you ever talked to him about anyone's vote except your own ?—I believe not.

30,241. Had you not better think a moment ? Have you any people working for you ?—I have one man now ; he is a stranger in the town.

30,242. In 1859, 1862, 1863, and 1865, had you not people working for you ?—Occasionally.

30,243. Were they not voters ?—No ; the only person who ever worked for me who was a voter was a man of the name of John Phillips.

30,244. When was he a voter ?—I think at the last two elections.

30,245. Have you talked to him about his vote ?—Never.

30,246. Have you any house property ?—Yes.

30,247. Who are your tenants ?—They are six small cottages which I have.

30,248. Do they give a vote ?—Only at municipal elections.

30,249. Have you ever talked to your tenants at the time when municipal elections were going on ?—I never asked one of my tenants in my life for a vote.

30,250. Has any one of your tenants a vote for the borough in respect of any other qualification ?—One of them, I think, may be a voter now.

30,251. What is his name ?—Hutchings.

30,252. Edward Angel has never been a tenant of yours ?—Never.

30,253. Have you a brother named Edward ?—Yes.

30,254. Does he live near you ?—He lives near me, but in a house of his own.

30,255. Is he the father of John Willis ?—No, his father is another brother of mine.

30,256. What is Edward Willis ?—He is an innkeeper.

THOMAS MITCHELL sworn and examined.

T. Mitchell.

30,257. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you lived in Totnes ?—For two years and a half.

30,258. Where used you to live before ?—In Seymour Place, Bridgetown.

30,259. That was in a house belonging to the duke ?—Yes.

30,260. From which you were turned out ?—Yes, I was.

30,261. Who was it who turned you out ?—Mr. Michelmore.

30,262. Did he give you notice ?—He did.

30,263. Who delivered the notice ?—I think it was Mr. Prout, one of the clerks.

30,264. Did you have any conversation with him about why you had got that notice ; I suppose you knew pretty well ?—He gave me notice at first and I thought it was an illegal notice when I received it. I went into the house at Michaelmas and he gave me notice at Michaelmas to quit at Lady-day. He ought to have given me notice half a year previously.

30,265. You were quite right. Did you tell him it was an illegal notice ?—I did.

30,266. What did he say to that ?—He said he had searched the books, and found out the date, and that it was a legal notice ; that I went in at Lady-day, which I did not.

30,267. What did you do then ?—The way in which I confirmed that was by my payment of the first half-year's rent.

30,268. Did you pay that at Lady-day ?—Yes ; I went in about 1840. These are my receipts :—

" Bridgetown, May 13th, 1841.—Received of Mr. " Thomas Mitchell the sum of 5*l.*, being a half-year's " rent due to his Grace the Duke of Somerset, Lady-" day last, for house and shop ; also 10*s.* for half-" year's rent for warehouse behind, &c. THOS. " MICHELMORE.

" £5	0	0	house and shop
0	10	0	warehouse
5	10	0."

30,269. When Mr. Prout gave you notice, did he say why he did so ?—No, he did not mention anything.

30,270. Did you see Mr. Michelmore about it afterwards ?—No, I did not see anyone, otherwise than when I voted against Mr. Michelmore's interest he told me or my wife that I should have notice to quit my house.

30,271. Which Mr. Michelmore told you that ?—Thomas Michelmore ; that is now past away.

30,272. You had been in your house since 1840 ; when did you vote against Mr. Michelmore's interest ?—In 1863.

30,273. You voted for Dent against Seymour ?—I did.

30,274. How came you to vote for Mr. Dent ; had you good reasons for doing so ?—Yes.

30,275. What were your reasons for doing so ; how much did they amount to ?—I had an inducement held out to me being a working man ; I never sought it.

30,276. How much did you get ?—I got 50*l.*

30,277. Who gave it to you ?—Young Screach.

30.278. Had he been to tempt you before you got the 50*l.* ?—I had been asked about it.

30,279. Had he or anyone else been to you ?—He asked me. I do not know that there was any other person. I was never asked on the Liberal side.

30,280. They thought you were pretty safe ?—I had always voted previously for the Duke's interest.

30,281. Did you ever get anything for doing so ?—Yes.

30,282. When did you get anything ?—In 1852.

30,283. Who gave it to you ?—Old Screach.

30,284. How much did he give you ?—50*l.*

30,285. Where did he get that from ; do you know ?—He had it from the Liberal party.

30,286. That was from Mr. Mills's agent, I suppose, to vote for Mills and Seymour ?—To vote for them. There was an agent then who is now dead ; his name was Thomas Hardin. He was the person who made an application to me and some others for the purpose of gaining the votes for Mills and Seymour.

30,287. Did he say if you voted for those two you would have something for doing so ?—He did.

30,288. Did he mention the figure ?—He did mention a higher figure.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

T. Mitchell.

19 Sept. 1866.

30,289. How much did he mention?—My name was set down then for 100*l.* and others as well.

30,290. And they only gave you 50*l.*?—That is all.

30,291. Were your friends better off than you were?—I think not.

30,292. Did the money run short?—I do not know that it did; the market fell, as you may say.

30,293. Where was this money paid you?—It was paid in my house in 1852 by Screach the elder.

30,294. Was that the commencement of the formation of the Lapstone Club which we have heard of?—I know there was a political squib like that going round, but as for forming a club, I never heard of that.

30,295. Were you a shoemaker?—I was.

30,296. Were all the members of the confederation shoemakers also?—They were not.

30,297. Was old Farley one of them?—No.

30,298. Was not some of the money paid at Farley's?—I understood that was for his son and another person.

30,299. Who was the other person?—Thomas Blackler.

30,300. Did he get 50*l.* too?—I believe he did. I did not see the money paid.

30,301. In 1863 you voted for Dent, and got this money. Did you vote in 1865?—No.

30,302. How was it you did not vote?—I was turned out of my house; I had no vote.

30,303. You have a house now?—I have part of a house. After I was dislodged from Seymour Place, where I had been a tenant for 24 years, I did not know where to get a house.

30,304. Did not the charitable Mr. John Heath find you a house?—I made application to him as he was letting houses to get some new place for me, when he was in the Plains.

30,305. Did he not accommodate you?—He did not. When I found I could not get a house to suit me, I went with my daughter and son-in-law.

30,306. Who are they?—Joseph Hannaford, a baker and confectioner; he lives opposite the "Town Arms."

30,307. Who is living in the house you left at Bridgetown?—John Tozer, a shoemaker.

30,308. Did he vote at the last election?—I believe he did.

30,309. For Pender and Seymour?—I really do not know.

30,310. Did you not get something after the election of 1862, when Dent did not go to the poll, some present from the Liberals?—No, nothing.

30,311. Did not Mr. Michelmore talk to you about that?—No.

30,312. Did not Mr. Pender come and canvass you in 1862?—I think he did.

30,313. What was the value of your house?—I gave 10*l.* a year for it.

30,314. Did not Mr. Michelmore always give you back 10*s.*?—He did.

30,315. So that you only paid 9*l.* 10*s.*?—10*l.* 10*s.* was the value.

30,316. Was not your rent 10*l.*?—Yes.

30,317. And Mr. Michelmore gave you back half a sovereign?—If you allow me I will tell you how it was managed.

30,318. That is what we want to know?—When I first took the house I took it at 10*l.* a year. After I had taken it Mr. Michelmore considered whether it might not be an objection to my vote, in consequence of there being a detached cellar that led from my house into a curtilage. That being so, Mr. Michelmore said, "You had better give me 10*s.* or half a sovereign, and then you can say that you pay 11*l.* a year."

30,319. As soon as you voted the Conservatives offered an objection to your vote?—They did. In 1859 it was objected to by Mr. Brooking Cuming; there was not any coalition then.

30,320. That was before Mr. Erskine, the then revising barrister?—Yes.

30,321. And you appeared and swore you paid 11*l.* a year for your house?—Yes.

30,322. Which you did not do?—There was an agreement as to my paying the 10*s.* to Mr. Michelmore.

30,323. Did anyone ask you whether you got 10*s.* back?—No; not at that time.

30,324. You had that peculiar agreement which was not then known?—It was not scrutinized then.

30,325. When you voted for Dent in 1863 did not Mr. Michelmore take an objection to your vote?—He did; there were three objections.

30,326. And had your name struck off?—He did.

30,327. On the ground that you had paid back 10*s.*? That was not it. They objected that I only paid a certain sum, and that the detachment cut off my vote.

30,328. When you voted against them they objected to you on the same qualification upon which they had made you a vote?—Exactly; there was no alteration whatever. Mr. Tucker, of Ashburton, who was then acting as the solicitor, called on Mr. Michelmore to prove that I had not paid the money; and Mr. Michelmore did not make any answer to it. I took out the half-year's receipt, similar to the one I have handed in, and seven other years, which showed that I could substantiate what I have previously said, and that this court should not be led astray, or think I had asserted anything which was wrong.

30,329. What did Mr. Michelmore say when you showed him the receipt?—I handed it over to the barrister, and when Mr. Tucker called on Mr. Michelmore, who was then present, as evidence against me, Mr. Michelmore shook his head; he saw his own name there written to the 5*l.* 10*s.*

30,330. Did you get anything for your vote in 1859? I did.

30,331. What did you get for that?—30*l.*

30,332. Who from?—From a stranger. I do not know his name. I was sent for to go down to the "Stars." I did not know much about the house; but I was ordered up to No. 9, I think.

30,333. Who did you vote for then?—For Dunn and Seymour.

30,334. They did not turn you out at that time?—No.

30,335. Why not?—There was no coalition then; they coalesced after that.

30,336. What did you do in 1857?—I was disqualified then.

30,337. How was that?—I was constable for the borough.

30,338. Did you use your influence?—I did not.

30,339. You got nothing at that election?—No.

30,340. Did you get anything from the Liberals in 1859?—No; nothing was offered.

30,341. (Mr. Coleridge.) Your want of a vote has been a considerable pecuniary loss to you?—I am getting old, and I must do as well as I can.

30,342. What would your vote have been worth in 1865?—I daresay it would have been arranged in the same way as the generality of the others. I have tried to answer the questions you have put in a straightforward way.

30,343. Have you voted for the council?—I have.

30,344. Did you ever get anything for that?—I have.

30,345. What is the most you ever got?—I think the most I had was 3*l.*

30,346. Was that when John Heath stood?—No. I generally used to divide my votes between the Conservatives and the Liberals.

30,347. Who gave you this 3*l.*?—Frederick Evens.

30,348. Was that to vote for the Conservatives?—Yes.

30,349. How long ago is that?—I should think four or five years.

30,350. How often have you been paid for voting for the council?—Two or three times, not more.

30,351. What did you get at other times?—I think I got 15*s.* one time.

30,352. And what did you get the other time? Did you get 30s.?—No; I think it was 2*l.*

30,353. Did you ever get paid on both sides at the same election when you divided your vote?—Never.

30,354. (Mr. Longe.) There is a little bit of history here which perhaps you will be able to explain as regards this club. Who was "Tommy Chainey?"—That might allude to me; I was a short man, and much stouter then.

30,355. Who was the "Immortal Tom?"—I think that meant the late Thomas Welch.

30,356. Who was "Tommy Stoner?"—I don't know.

30,357. Who was "Billy Broadcloth?"—I think that was William Farleigh the younger.

30,358. Who was "Joey Gingerpop?"—My son-in-law, Joseph Hannaford.

30,359. Who was "Pen Dilly?—I do not know.

30,360. Probably one of the Pengilleys?—Perhaps it might be.

30,361. Which of the Pengilleys were there when you had a meeting?—I do not know.

30,362. Who was the secretary of the Lapstone Club at that time?—We had no secretary, and I am not aware that there was any club.

30,363. Who was "Billy Scraper?"—That might allude to a man who was a scavenger in the town.

30,364. What was his proper name?—William Bindon.

30,365. Your regular pay was 50*l.* at each election?—I do not know about that. It could not have been regular, because I have told you that I got 30*l.*

WILLIAM FARLEY, jun., recalled and further examined.

W. Farley, jun.

30,366. (Mr. Bere.) Who is your father-in-law?—Thomas Blackler.

30,367. In 1865 was Thomas Jacob Searle in your house?—He has never been in my house. I only know his person; I never had any conversation with him.

30,368. Was he in your father-in-law's house?—No.

30,369. Were you not there?—No; I have never been there while he was there.

30,370. Did you talk to your father-in-law about how he was going to vote?—No.

30,371. Did you know how he voted?—I did on the day of election.

30,372. After he voted or before?—Before he voted.

30,373. Who told you so?—He told me so himself. He told me he should vote for Dawkins and Pender.

30,374. Did he do so?—Yes.

30,375. Did that influence you to vote for them?—No; it did not influence me.

30,376. Did he tell you what he was going to get for voting?—No; he told me he should have nothing for voting. He knew I should have nothing for voting.

30,377. You would get something afterwards?—No; we never expected it; I did not calculate upon it. We were not solicited by any one of the Liberal interest for our votes, as I swore yesterday. I have given you the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

30,378. Did you see a man named George Robins Stone when the petition was set on foot?—I must have seen him at different times.

30,379. Did he not speak to you about it?—I do not remember any conversation with him.

30,380. Did he not say you had been very active for the Conservatives, and proposed as chairman of Captain Pim's committee?—I do not remember that.

30,381. Will you swear that such a conversation did not take place?—It might have done.

30,382. Did you not say to him, "Between ourselves, I got nothing from the Conservatives, and I did what I could for myself on the other side?"—I do not remember any conversation of that sort.

30,383. Did you say anything like that?—I did not.

30,384. That you did what you could for yourself on the other side?—I will swear I did not use those words.

30,385. Or anything like it?—No.

30,386. Did you say anything about getting money on the other side?—Not a syllable.

30,387. Or intimate that there was money going?—I did not know that money was going on the other side.

GEORGE ROBINS STONE recalled and further examined.

G. R. Stone.

30,388. (Mr. Bere.) Did you have any conversation with Mr. Farley junior after the petition was set on foot?—Yes.

30,389. What passed between you and him?—We had various chats at different times.

30,390. Did you say to him you were active for the Conservative party, and proposed as chairman of Captain Pim's committee?—I think the conversation at one time turned in this way; that he said he was summoned to attend before the committee, and had been served with a Speaker's warrant. Then I think he said he could not think what they wanted him for, as he voted straightforward. I said, "It always looks "suspicious when a man stands up in a public room "and makes a speech, saying he will support both "the Conservative candidates, and then turns round "and splits his vote."

30,391. What did he say to that?—As near as I can recollect, to this effect; that he could not get anything out of the Conservatives, and that he did the best he could for himself.

30,392. That he was obliged to go to the other side?—I do not think he said he was obliged to go to the other side.

30,393. Did you not understand that he had had money from the other side?—I understood him so; he did not say so.

30,394. That he could not get anything from the Conservatives, but that he got what he could from the Liberals?—Yes, so I understood him.

GEORGE SERCOMBE sworn and examined.

G. Sercombe.

30,395. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you been a voter?—Since 1859.

30,396. For whom did you vote then?—Lord Gifford and Mr. Dunn.

30,397. What did you get at that election?—15*l.*

30,398. Who gave it to you?—Frederick Evens.

30,399. Where did he give it you?—Down at the "Seven Stars."

30,400. Did not you get some more than that afterwards?—No; they promised me more.

30,401. What did he promise you?—He promised me 50*l.*

30,402. How was it you only got 15*l.*?—He said he had not got any more.

30,403. When did he pay it to you?—About 1 or 2 on the day of the election.

30,404. Had you been at him before for it?—Yes.

30,405. Did he keep on putting you off?—He did not pay me.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

G. Sercombe.

19 Sept. 1866.

30,406. What were you offered on the other side?—Nothing.

30,407. That was all you got?—Yes.

30,408. Did you pay any voter for him?—No.

30,409. Did you ever carry any voter away?—No.

30,410. Did you vote again in 1862 for Mr. Pender and Mr. Dent?—No.

30,411. How were you going to vote?—I should have voted for Mr. Dent.

30,412. What were you promised?—Nothing.

30,413. Did not Evens tell you there would be something for you if you went to the poll?—He did not say anything.

30,414. But you had no vote in 1862?—Had not a vote?

30,415. No?—Then I did not vote.

30,416. In 1863 you voted for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

30,417. How much did you get?—50*l.*

30,418. Who from?—Evens.

30,419. Where?—By his own house.

30,420. You took care to have the whole 50*l.* that time?—Yes.

30,421. Did you remind him of his having done you out of 35*l.* before?—I may have said something.

30,422. Did he pay you in gold?—Yes.

30,423. Did he take a receipt for it?—No.

30,424. You were carried off at that election somewhere?—I went off for a holiday.

30,425. Where did you go?—Kingsbridge.

30,426. How long did you stay there?—I stopped away one night.

30,427. Where did you go from there then?—Back to the "Seven Stars."

30,428. Were you locked up at the "Seven Stars?"—No.

30,429. You slept there, I suppose?—I might have lain down there an hour.

30,430. Were you offered anything from the other side at that time?—No.

30,431. Now, in 1865, how did you vote?—I did not vote at all. I was off then and have not voted since.

30,432. Were you employed at the last election?—No.

30,433. You did not get anything?—No.

30,434. What election was it that Mr. Heath offered you something?—I do not recollect that he offered me anything.

30,435. Did Mr. Heath arrange with you about that Frederick Evens afterwards paid you?—No, I do not recollect.

30,436. Had you anything to do with any of the Heaths about the election?—I do not recollect that they said anything about it.

30,437. Those sums are all you had for your vote?—Yes.

30,438. Have you voted for the council?—I have, many years gone.

30,439. What have you had for that?—The most I ever got was half-a-crown for a day's work.

30,440. You never got 3*l.* or any of those lucky sums?—No, I never asked for it.

30,441. You have only voted twice?—No.

30,442. And you got 15*l.* on the second occasion?—Yes.

30,443. What was the qualification you voted upon?—I was an innkeeper at Bridgetown.

30,444. What did you pay for your house?—16*l.* the rent of the house, and the ground I had got there was about 13*l.* a year.

30,445. After you voted for Dent were you turned out?—Yes.

30,446. Who gave you notice?—Mr. Michelmore.

30,447. Did he tell you what for?—Yes, I was asked to the "Seymour Hotel."

30,448. What did he say?—He said, I did not vote for Mills and Seymour, and was turned out.

30,449. Not Mills and Seymour. It was in 1859 when you were turned out?—Yes, 1859.

30,450. Where did you get your next qualification?—Up Totnes-down-Hill, where I have been residing seven or eight years.

30,451. What do you rent there?—Land, 10 acres.

30,452. What is it worth?—About 30*l.* a-year.

30,453. How many other voters are there on it?—No other than me.

30,454. Not nine other men on that field?—No.

30,455. How have you lost your qualification now?—I voted last time for Mr. Dent.

30,456. That is the duke's too, is not it?—Mr. Amery of Ashburton.

30,457. And he has turned you out, has he?—They did amongst them. Mr. Michelmore took that away.

30,458. Where are you living now?—Harberton.

30,459. You have no qualification?—No.

H. Martin.

HENRY MARTIN sworn and examined.

30,460. (Mr. Bere.) Do you live at Plymouth?—Yes.

30,461. 33, York Street, Plymouth?—Yes.

30,462. Were you up here at the election of 1863?—I was.

30,463. And staying with William Pengilley?—Yes.

30,464. Did you know Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—Yes.

30,465. Did you go down to see Mr. Jeffery Michelmore about Pengilley's vote?—Yes, I did.

30,466. What bargain did you make with him?—He told me that he was going to vote for the Tories, and I tried to persuade him to go the Liberal side.

30,467. You are a Liberal?—I have been a Liberal always. I could not succeed with him, and I was commissioned by Mr. Michelmore to offer him 80*l.*

30,468. Did you go down to Mr. Michelmore and see him in his office?—I was there in the evening.

30,469. Where?—At the "Seymour."

30,470. And you talked to him about Pengilley's vote?—He sent for me and called me out.

30,471. Had you known Mr. Michelmore before?—Yes.

30,472. Did you happen to meet him in the street in Totnes?—No.

30,473. How did he know you were in Totnes?—Mr. Latimer came to me. I think Mr. Michelmore sent one of his clerks.

30,474. Do you mean Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—Yes.

30,475. Which clerk did he send?—I do not know.

30,476. Was it the one who was here just now?—I do not know if I saw him.

30,477. Did you know his name?—No.

30,478. He sent his clerk to you?—Yes, to Plymouth before the election; he said, he was afraid Pengilley was going to the wrong side; but I was coming here else.

30,479. He sent one of his clerks specially down to you?—I do not know that. I know Mr. Latimer introduced him to me.

30,480. Was it Mr. Latimer, the editor of the "Western Daily Mercury?"—Yes.

30,481. Had not you known Mr. Michelmore before that?—Yes, for years.

30,482. And the clerk came down and told you that Pengilley was going wrong?—He was afraid.

30,483. And you came up to set him all right?—Yes, to try all I could.

30,484. You did not succeed by argument, and you went down to see whether you could not get some gold?—I knew I could have that before I put the question.

30,485. Who told you?—Mr. Michelmore.

30,486. 80*l.*?—Yes, to offer him that.

30,487. And Pengilley would not take it?—No, he was too far gone then.

30,488. He had committed himself with the other side?—That is it.

30,489. Have you been living in Totnes ever?—I am a native of Totnes.

30,490. Did you ever vote?—At Plymouth, not here.

30,491. Are you generally up here at the time of the elections?—Yes.

30,492. And busy upon the Liberal side?—I never asked any person before or since.

30,493. Is Pengilley any relation of yours?—No.

30,494. Only a friend?—No.

30,495. You do not get much practice of that kind at Plymouth, do you?—No, we know better there.

30,496. Have you ever offered anybody else any money?—No, never.

30,497. Or acted as go-between between Mr. Michelmore and anybody else?—No.

30,498. Did you offer Pengilley any money last time?—No.

30,499. Did you see him?—I was not up last time.

30,500. Did you write to him?—No, he was down at Plymouth. He was all right that time.

30,501. How did you manage to make him all right?—I had nothing to do with it. He was sorry ever to have gone the other side.

30,502. Did he tell you how he was made all right?—No, I did not find that out; I did not want to.

30,503. You were so glad to find him all right that you did not trouble about the reason?—I did not.

30,504. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you had anything to do with any other election?—No.

30,505. This was the first time you went astray?—Yes.

30,506. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Jeffery Michelmore give you any money for Pengilley?—No.

30,507. You had not the means of tempting him by the actual offer?—No.

30,508. Was any reason given about coming down to see him about Pengilley's vote?—Never had a word until he asked me if I would try what I could do with him, and I promised I would.

30,509. You must have tried to do something with him before, or they never would have known your influence over him?—I did not want to, because he had voted on my side before.

30,510. But you must have been here and interested yourself about elections?—I am often here.

30,511. How did they know that Mr. Pengilley was to be influenced by you?—They knew we were friendly I suppose.

30,512. Had you always stayed at Pengilley's house when you were at Totnes?—No.

30,513. Where?—Sometimes one place and sometimes another. I have an aunt or two here. I have got relations.

30,514. What are you?—A baker and confectioner.

30,515. Have you any dealings with Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—No.

30,516. At any time?—No.

30,517. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes.

30,518. Was any money advanced by him?—No. Pengilley was in difficulties once, and I lent him, to go through the court, a few pounds.

30,519. When was that?—Some time ago.

30,520. Was that before 1863?—Yes, some years.

30,521. Was it your own money you lent?—Yes.

30,522. You did not get it from Mr. Michelmore?—No, I did not see Mr. Michelmore then.

30,523. Though you could not get Pengilley over did not Mr. Michelmore make you a present for your services?—He did.

30,524. What was that?—A sovereign. He asked me what my expenses would be, and I said I daresay it cost me a sovereign. I never expected anything because I was coming else.

30,525. You say you saw Mr. Jeffery Michelmore at the "Seymour." What room did you see him in?—The large room at the end of the passage.

30,526. Who was there besides?—There were several in and out.

30,527. Do you know the names?—Yes.

30,528. Who were they?—I saw Mr. Seymour once or twice.

30,529. Was he there during the conversation?—Nobody but me and Mr. Michelmore had the conversation about Pengilley.

30,530. Where was that conversation?—In this large room.

30,531. Was anybody else there?—Yes, Thomas Holman came in once, but I did not change any words with anybody at all but Mr. Michelmore.

30,532. Were you standing up or sitting down?—I stood, and I went and had a glass of grog in another room afterwards.

30,533. What room was that?—A large room.

30,534. Did not you see Mr. Michelmore in the first large room?—There are two large rooms.

30,535. There is the large ball-room, is that the one you mean?—Yes.

30,536. Is that the one you saw him in?—No, the other room.

30,537. The room at the end of the passage at the right-hand side?—Yes, straight in.

30,538. Then it was in the smaller room of the two that you had the talk about Pengilley, and then you went to the larger room and had a glass of grog?—I did not stop; I went out for a walk, and I was over there in the evening for an hour or two.

30,539. What time at the last election did he come down to see you at Plymouth?—He is often there.

30,540. But the last election?—I do not know how long it was before.

30,541. How long was it before?—I cannot say.

30,542. Was it a week or a fortnight?—I think he was down at the Exhibition.

30,543. Was there an Exhibition before the election?—Yes.

30,544. Who came down with him?—No one. He generally sleeps at my house when he comes to Plymouth.

30,545. You are quite sure that nobody came with him to take care of him?—Quite sure.

30,546. Did John Elliott come down with him?—No.

30,547. Are you quite sure about that?—He is a cousin of mine, and he never came at all.

30,548. Did not anybody come down with Pengilley?—No, Pengilley came down and stayed with me.

30,549. And you talked to him about his vote?—He said he should never go that side again; he was always sorry for it that he had ever voted for the Tories, for he was always Liberal.

30,550. Did you see John Fox Green at the last election?—No; I know him very well.

30,551. Did you see him down at Plymouth?—Yes; not at the election.

30,552. Just about the election time?—Yes, I think I did.

30,553. Did you see him with John Elliott?—No.

30,554. Do you know John Elliott took him down there?—No.

30,555. And brought him back again to vote?—No; I have seen Green and spoken to him.

30,556. Where?—In the street, and I shook hands with him.

30,557. What did he tell you he was down at Plymouth about?—A holiday.

30,558. Did not you ask why he was not at Totnes, where he had a vote?—No.

30,559. Did it not strike you as curious that a man should be away, or is it the usual way of doing things?—No.

30,560. Who was with Green?—No one.

30,561. Was he walking by himself?—Yes, coming up York Street.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

J. Corney.

9 Sept. 1866.

JOHN CORNEY sworn and examined.

30,562. (Mr. Longe.) What is your occupation?—A boot and shoe maker.

30,563. How long have you had a vote for this borough?—The first time I voted was at Mr. Mill's and Mr. Baldwin's election, I think in 1852.

30,564. Have you a vote now?—No.

30,565. When did you cease to be a voter?—I ceased to be a voter previous to Mr. Dent coming here.

30,566. Then you voted in 1852?—Perhaps so.

30,567. And in 1857 and 1859?—Yes.

30,568. Those three elections?—Yes.

30,569. Whom did you vote for in 1852?—For Lord Seymour and Mr. Mills.

30,570. In 1857 whom did you vote for?—Mr. Mills and—who is the other candidate?

30,571. Lord Gifford?—Lord Gifford.

30,572. In 1859 who did you vote for?—In 1859 I did not vote at all.

30,573. The third; you had three elections?—Yes, but I did not vote at the 1859 election. In 1859 was the election of Mr. Dunn; I did not vote then.

30,574. The first election, when you voted for Mr. Mills and Lord Seymour, was any present made to you on that occasion, or any offer made to you?—No.

30,575. By either side?—By either side.

30,576. Did you ask for any money on either side?—No.

30,577. Neither?—No.

30,578. Before or after the election you received nothing?—No.

30,579. In 1857, the second election, was any offer of money made to you then?—No.

30,580. Not by either side?—Not by either side; in fact, I always promised my vote to the Liberal party.

30,581. But you were canvassed by the other side?—Quite so.

30,582. Who called on you on the part of the Conservatives?—At that election of 1857?

30,583. Yes; Mackenzie and Gregory were the two candidates?—I think it was. Mackenzie was here more than once.

30,584. Yes, in 1855, but he withdrew in 1855?—Well, he called on me on one occasion, and I think it was Mr. Bryett who was with him, to the best of my recollection.

30,585. Did no one else call upon you for the Conservatives?—No.

30,586. Now in 1859 who canvassed you for the Conservatives then—for Mr. Dunn?—Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bryett. I am hardly sure about 1857; it was Mr. Bryett in 1859.

30,587. Mr. Bryett called with Mr. Dunn?—Yes.

30,588. And asked you to vote?—Yes.

30,589. What did you tell them?—I told them I was not going to vote at all at that election.

30,590. What reason did you give?—I had a slight reason for it.

30,591. What was the reason?—However, the Liberals had called on me previous.

30,592. The Liberals called on you first?—Yes.

30,593. What did you tell them?—I told them the same.

30,594. For what reason?—I had made an application to Mr. Brooking Cuming for a situation for a son of mine, and it went on so long that I despaired of getting it, and I thought it was a thing not exactly right, and I resolved then to retaliate when the election came on, and I made up my mind not to vote or support either party.

30,595. Why not vote on the other side?—Because I did not feel disposed to do so. I never did that.

30,596. After Mr. Bryett another person called on you from the Conservatives?—Well, I think Mr. John Heath was the first to call on me.

30,597. How long before the election did he call?—He called, I think, only the day before the election. I think I am right when I say so.

30,598. Did he have only one interview with you?—That is all.

30,599. What did he come about?—He came to solicit my vote on the Conservative side.

30,600. What did you tell him?—I declined to give him my vote.

30,601. Did you positively decline?—Yes, I did.

30,602. Did not he offer you a sum of money?—He did.

30,603. How much?—70*l.*

30,604. Was no part of that money paid you?—No.

30,605. Was not that offer made for you not to vote?—No, that offer was made for me to vote.

30,606. Did not you see Frederick Evens; did not he call on you at all?—No; I suppose you mean Evan Evens. I met him in the evening, he never called on me.

30,607. When was it you saw Evan Evens?—The night before the nomination.

30,608. Which election?—The 1859 election.

30,609. That election is the one at which you voted for Mr. Mills and Lord Gifford?—No, that is the election I declined to vote.

30,610. 1859 you voted?—I think not.

30,611. You voted for Mills and Gifford?—That was the next election? 1862 was not it? Who were the candidates then?

30,612. 1859 you voted; that was the occasion when Evan Evens—did not he give you 30*l.*?—No.

30,613. (Mr. Bere.) He gave it to your daughter?—No.; I must beg your pardon. He gave me 25*l.*, or he left it with my daughter; he did not give me 30*l.*, as he stated; it was 25*l.*

30,614. (Mr. Longe.) When did he call on you?—After that?

30,615. No, at that time. Did not you promise him your vote?—No.

30,616. When did he leave the money, before or after the election?—Before the election.

30,617. At that time what took place between you; did not you promise him you would vote for Mr. Dunn?—No.

30,618. What did he leave the money for?—Not to vote at all.

30,619. But you did vote for Mills and Gifford?—I did.

30,620. What led you to break your promise?—I made a promise not to vote at all, but I afterwards took a second consideration of it, and I thought it was wrong to take this 25*l.*, and I returned it.

(Mr. Bere.) Do not be in such a hurry to say you returned it; you had better be careful about the words you use.

30,621. (Mr. Longe.) Just tell us what you did with it. You took the money and you did vote for the other side?—Yes.

30,622. And after the election what then?—The following morning, after he called at my house and left the 25*l.* in five 5*l.* notes inclosed in an envelope, I called at his house to return him the money, but he was out.

30,623. Did you take the money with you?—Yes, I took the money with me and I brought it back again and left it with my daughter, and went and voted for the Liberal party, which I always have done. I told her when I left if Mr. Evens came for the money she was to give it to him.

30,624. Mr. Evens never did get the money?—Yes, he did come for it and he had it.

30,624*a*. (Mr. Bere.) Did not you tell Mr. Evens "If I think proper to vote I can get a very handsome sum on the other side of the bridge?"—No.

30,625. Will you swear you did not?—Yes.

30,626. I will read you what Mr. Evens has sworn "here?—A. Then there was another man, John Corney. "Q. What did you give him?—A. I should tell you I "was in the 'Seven Stars' and very near his own "house. I met him in the room and asked him whether "he would oblige us by voting for Mr. Dunn. He said "'Mr. Evens, I do not wish to vote at all.' I said, 'If "you can oblige us by voting for Mr. Dunn I have no "doubt I can get you a present.' He said, 'I really must "repeat the desire I have of not voting.' I said, 'Well "if you think proper to keep your word, I will make "you a present of 30*l.*' He said, 'Mr. Evens, if I think "proper of voting I can get a very handsome sum on "the other side of the bridge'—Q. Is John Corney "alive now?—A. Yes. Q. If he thought proper he "could got a handsome present on the other side of the "bridge, you know what he meant by that?—A. Yes, "the 'Seymour Hotel' of course. Q. Did he vote?—"A. Well, I should say I paid in the evening—left "30*l.* with his daughter at his house. The next morn-"ing, the first thing I heard when I arrived at the "committee-room was that John Corney had been and "voted against us; I immediately put my hat on my "head and went over and demanded the money of the "daughter, and succeeded in getting it."

30,627. Did not you tell Mr. Evens you could have a handsome sum the other side of the bridge?—No.

30,628. When did you make up your mind to vote for the Liberals?—The evening previous to the election.

30,629. Whom had you seen just before you made up your mind?—No person.

30,630. Where had you been?—No place at all—Yes, I called in at the "Seymour Hotel" in the evening.

30,631. Whom did you see at the "Seymour?"—The room was full.

30,632. Whom did you talk to there?—When I went I saw Mr. Brooking Cuming, the first I saw, and I told him I had come to promise him my vote.

30,633. How much did you get for doing it?—Nothing at all. I am on my oath, and I say I got nothing.

30,634. Do you mean you got nothing for Mr. Mills or Gifford at that election?—I do mean it.

30,635. Neither before or after?—No.

30,636. No promise?—No promise of any sort.

30,637. When did your son get the situation in the post-office?—Some years ago, 12 or 13.

30,638. After or before this election?—Before this election.

30,639. You told us the reason you were not going to vote at the election of 1859 was because there were particular circumtances with regard to Mr. Brooking Cuming, that you had made an application for a situation for your son, and that you waited so long; you did not think it right and you determined to retaliate. In 1859 you had not got the situation?—That is not the same son.

30,640. Did the son for whom you asked the situation get it?—No.

30,641. What is he doing now?—He is working his trade now.

30,642. What is his trade?—A shoemaker.

30,643. What did Brooking Cuming say when you promised your vote?—I can scarcely say; he thanked me.

30,644. Who was there?—Several in and out of the passage of the hotel, but I cannot particularly name any one individual.

30,645. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you go to Mr. Parnell's house that night?—No. If you will allow me to state a little circumstance connected with that—at the time of pressing me to vote for the Conservative party he offered me 40*l.* instead of what he has already told you, and I told him in answer to that, if I were inclined to vote for the Conservative party I could have a much larger sum than that, as I have told you what Mr. Heath's offer was. That is what I alluded to in that case, nothing about on the other side of the water.

30,646. What did Mr. Cuming promise you?—Nothing at all.

30,647. Did you get a present after the election?—No, I have not had anything at all.

30,648. (Mr. Bere.) Where you at that time parish clerk?—Yes.

30,649. Of this church?—Yes.

30,650. (Mr. Longe.) When was it you had the vote and did not vote. You told us at some election you did not vote—you were a voter but did not vote?—I made a mistake there and I told you I did not, but you will find I did go and vote afterwards.

30,651. That is a great difference; were you parish clerk at that time?—Yes.

30,652. (Mr. Bere.) What salary did you get for that?—None.

30,653. Nothing but the fees?—No.

30,654. Then you are not the parish clerk to whom this placard alludes:—"A parish clerk of a small "borough between Exeter and Plymouth was so struck "about the bribe he received for voting for Mr. Mills, "that he was unable for some time to proceed with his "duties at church." Are you that parish clerk?—I suppose so, but still I think I did fulfil my duties.

30,655. Did you get a bribe from Mr. Mills?—No, I did not.

30,656. How long did you stay at the "Seymour" that night?—Till between 11 and 12.

30,657. What time did you go down?—Between 8 and 9.

30,658. You stayed there two or three hours?—Yes.

30,659. During that time did you talk with some of the voters about their votes?—No, I never took any active part.

30,660. (Mr. Longe.) Mr. Barter is a brother-in-law of yours?—Not this Mr. Barter here.

30,661. You have a brother-in-law of the name of Barter?—Yes.

30,662. What are his politics?—Liberal.

30,663. Was he in Totnes at the election of 1859?—No, not to my recollection he was not; I never saw him at any election.

30,664. Are you sure that he was not here at that election?—That I would not swear to, I might be mistaken about it.

30,665. Will you swear that you had no money at that election?—Yes I will, I can on my oath and I will swear I never had a penny except the 25*l.*

30,666. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did your daughter get to console her for the 25*l.* returned?—Nothing.

30,667. Did she tell you she stuck to it as long as she could?—I was not at home.

30,668. You knew it was there?—Yes.

30,669. Your daughter had shown it to you?—Yes.

30,670. You told us you had sent it back—did you tell her to send it back?—You do not understand me, I was absent when the money was brought.

30,671. You had seen it?—Yes.

30,672. Evens called in your absence and demanded the money when he knew you voted the wrong way?—The following morning.

30,673. You had not given instructions to your daughter to return the money?—Yes.

30,674. What did you tell her?—If Evens came for it to give it back.

30,675. But if he did not come, to keep it?—I took it back.

30,676. Evens has sworn he went and got it from your daughter?—Evens was not at home when I went to his house.

30,677. You took the money, and not finding him at home brought it back and gave it to your daughter?—Yes.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

J. Corney.

19 Sept. 1866.

30,678. Why did you give it to your daughter?—I went to vote and I told her to give it to Evens if he came back.

30,679. Did you tell Evens anything about it?—I had not seen him.

30,680. Evens came without instructions from your daughter, and your daughter gave it to him?—Yes.

30,681. You swear that you took it the night before and found him out?—The same morning.

30,682. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Evens called at your house and got the money?—So he did.

30,683. (Mr. Longe.) When you went to Evens did you see anyone?—I saw the servant.

30,684. Did you see anyone you could have spoken to?—No, I did not.

30,685. Where did your daughter get the money from when Evens came?—She had it with her.

30,686. (Mr. Coleridge.) How was the 25*l.* made up on the other side?—Not at all.

30,687. Did you tell the other side that you had returned that?—I did not know it was sent.

30,688. To whom did you tell that you had to give the 25*l.* back?—I do not know.

30,689. Did you tell Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No.

30,690. Mr. Parnell?—No.

30,691. Whom was it you told?—I do not know.

30,692. Who was your confessor to whom you confessed your intended delinquencies?—I did not tell.

30,693. Do you mean you did not tell them that you intended to vote for the Conservative side but changed your mind?—I might.

30,694. Was it Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No.

30,695. Who was it then?—I do not know.

30,696. Who was more likely? To whom did you talk at the "Seymour?"—Several persons.

30,697. Was Mr. Parnell one?—No, I think not.

30,698. Whom did you speak to—Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle?—No.

30,699. Mr. Huxham?—No, I think not.

30,700. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—I do not know.

30,701. You say it was not Mr. Parnell; how do you know it was not him?—I do not recollect seeing him.

30,702. If you recollect the persons you did not see, surely you can recollect the persons you did see?—There was several sitting.

30,703. Who were they?—I can recollect one person, Mr. Bennett, the watchmaker.

30,704. Did you tell him of your intended abstinence from voting?—He knew that before.

30,705. He knew that you had 25*l.* from the other side?—No.

30,706. What did he know?—He came past my house when Evens took the money in there, and he saw a person enter my house directly after Mr. Evens—Mrs. Thomas; she had no very great liking towards Mr. Evens, and she abused him for coming in and tampering with me, and when she got Evens out she ascertained from my daughter the contents of this.

30,707. Mrs. Thomas came and cross-examined your daughter?—I do not know about that.

30,708. You were not in the house?—No.

30,709. Your daughter told Mrs. Thomas that she had got a bribe from the Conservative side?—She knew nothing about that.

30,710. What was it for?—She had no idea.

30,711. How old is your daughter?—About 23.

30,712. What did Mr. Evens tell her the money was for?—Evens told her it was for her father, and she was to give it to him when he came home.

30,713. She knew what Mr. Evens was?—I do not know.

30,714. Mrs. Thomas came and wormed the secret out?—Yes, I think so.

30,715. Was that the reason you went to the "Seymour," because it got known?—No, not at all.

30,716. What was the conviction that came over your mind that made you determine not to take the 25*l.*—I thought I had been wrong by agreeing to take the 25*l.*

30,717. How long did it take you to think about that?—The following day.

30,718. What had occurred to make you change your mind?—Nothing.

30,719. Whom had you talked to about it?—No person.

30,720. Had Mrs. Thomas talked to you?—No.

30,721. Had Mr. Bennett said it was a shabby trick?—No.

30,722. What did he say?—He came past the house and saw Mrs. Thomas go in.

30,723. Did Mr. Bennett come and tell you that he knew about it?—Yes; he said there was a row at my home; that Evens had been and left some money, but he did not know the amount.

30,724. What else?—I do not know.

30,725. What did you say?—I forget.

30,726. I suppose you were ignorant about it and did not pretend to know that it was coming?—I did know.

30,727. But you did not tell Bennett?—Yes, I think so.

30,728. In the "Seymour Arms?"—Yes, I knew it was coming, and I had no hesitation in saying so.

30,729. Do you mean to say you took this money and went and blurted out all about it in the opposite camp directly?—No.

30,730. What occurred between the time you saw Bennett and the returning of the money to make you change your mind?—Nothing but pure conviction.

30,731. Conceive the position of the thing. You go straight to the "Seymour Arms," after the money has been paid to your daughter, and at that time you had not made up your mind to vote for the Liberals?—I went to the "Seymour Arms" before.

30,732. Was it not there that Bennett came and told you about the row?—He came afterwards.

30,733. You went to the "Seymour Arms," knowing that money was going to your house to prevent your voting for the Liberals?—I went to promise my vote as usual.

30,734. But you say that you had gone there before the money was paid?—I had.

30,735. You were expecting to be paid before you received the change of mind?—I scarcely thought that Evens would have left it without seeing me, and if I had seen him I would have declined.

30,736. (Mr. Bere.) Supposing the 25*l.* had been paid by Evens, and it had been kept in the dark, would you have voted at all?—I should.

30,737. Was it not the discovery made by Mrs. Thomas that made you vote?—I made up my mind.

30,738. Before Mrs. Thomas knew?—Yes.

30,739. You did not know it was so till Mrs. Thomas told you?—I knew it was coming at that time.

30,740. How much did you owe Mr. Mitchell for leather?—About 70*l.*

30,741. Did not you pay that after the election?—No, he has never been paid.

30,742. Did you pay any party at that time?—No.

30,743. He let you off because you voted?—No.

30,744. (Mr. Longe.) Had you no conversation with Mr. Mitchell about it?—No.

30,745. Was he there?—I did not see him.

30,746. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you not know that he was there?—No.

30,747. How long have you owed him that money?—It was a running account.

30,748. (Mr. Bere.) You owed that 70*l.* over seven years?—It was a running account for 20 years.

30,749. How much did you pay off? Do you owe him 70*l.* now?—No.

30,750. How much did you pay him?—The fact was, I became unfortunate in the way of rent.

30,751. Have you ever paid one farthing of the 70*l.*?—Yes.

30,752. When?—I think he has had about 10*l.*

30,753. Have you a receipt for it?—No, it was left in Mr. Kellock's hands.

30,754. The 10*l.* he had and the 60*l.* was forgiven you for voting for the Liberals?—No.

30,755. Do you know if Mr. Mitchell has been paid for it by anyone else?—No.

30,756. Has he pressed you for that sum?—No.

30,757. Don't you know that Mr. Mitchell has been paid by someone else?—No.

30,758. Has he never told you that someone has wiped off the book?—No.

30,759. Do you expect to pay him?—I do not suppose that I shall have it in my power.

30,760. When did you become unfortunate?—Three or four years ago.

30,761. Then three or four years before you were unfortunate this money was still owing?—Yes.

30,762. Did he ask you to pay it in the interval?—No.

30,763. You know that Mr. Mitchell has been paid the money?—I do not; I am on my oath, and I do not know.

30,764. Do you believe if he had not been paid the money, or received security for the money, that he would not have asked you for it during the three years?—I will tell you. The fact was that at the time that I became unfortunate and was sold out for rent, knowing that it was not in my power to pay, he agreed to take 10*l.* for the whole debt.

30,765–6. Did he tell you how much he received of the debt before he got the 10*l.*?—No.

30,767. During the three years between the debt accruing and your being unfortunate he never asked you for the money?—I was continually dealing with him and paying him money from time to time.

30,768. (Mr. Longe.) Do you know Mr. John Reed Fogwill?—Yes.

30,769. He is a Liberal?—Yes.

30,770. At that election of 1859 did not he pay you to vote for the Liberals?—No.

30,771. Will you swear that?—I can swear that I never had a penny in my life.

30,772. Did he not speak to you at that election about your vote?—I do not think he ever did.

30,773. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was that George Mitchell, the currier?—Yes.

30,774. (Mr. Longe.) Did he not speak to you about your vote at the election?—Do you mean previously to the election?

30,775. Yes?—No, he never did.

30,776. Did not you deal with Mr. Andrews?—I do now.

30,777. You get leather from Mr. Andrews?—Yes.

30,778. What are his politics?—I believe they are Liberal.

30,779. During the 1859 election did not you owe Mr. Andrews a large sum of money for leather?—I did not deal with him.

30,780. Did you not owe him a large sum of money?—No.

30,781. (Mr. Bere.) Is your daughter alive?—No.

30,782. Did your daughter tell you what Mrs. Thomas said to her?—I really do not recollect.

30,783. Yes you do; just try?—I cannot recollect, but I do not know that she said anything particular.

30,784. Did John Reed Fogwill live near you?—Not far from me.

30,785. Were you intimate with him?—No.

30,786. Had you to go occasionally to his house?—Never, except on business.

30,787. Were you ever there on business?—Yes, I have been.

30,788. Did you get money paid on business?—I might have paid him money or he might have paid me money.

30,789. How much did he ever pay you?—It was a simple transaction between me and him, it would not amount to 3*l.* in the year.

30,790. How much did he have at one account?—I do not know.

30,791. Was it not a much larger balance than 3*l.*—No, not 3*s.* I think.

30,792. Did not you get a sum of money once from him through a door?—No.

30,793. Quite sure about that?—Yes, I am quite; I never had it from anybody.

30,794. I do not mean that you saw the hand that gave it to you, but did you go to John Reed Fogwill's house on business?—No.

30,795. Nor at his office. He had an office on the Plains?—No, I think not.

30,796. At a house belonging to a Mrs. Gill?—I did not know that he had an office.

30,797. Did you know that Mrs. Gill lived on the Plains?—I did know.

30,798. And that John Reed Fogwill occupied a room in her house?—Not to my knowledge.

30,799. Did you see John Reed Fogwill there?—Not to my knowledge.

30,800. You must remember?—I may say that I never did.

30,801. Did you ever get money at Mrs. Gill's?—No.

30,802. Was she a customer?—Yes.

30,803. Did you go to get the bill paid?—It was never paid to this day.

30,804. Was it a large bill?—No, about 11*l.*

30,805. Did you go and talk about the bill?—Yes, I think I have been down, but not at election times.

30,806. At other times on business at all?—I have made application for the money.

30,807. Did you not once get paid some money?—Not to my knowledge. I might have received some money on account of the bill when I have called.

30,808. Did you not receive money on account?—I do not recollect.

30,809. Is it that you do not, or will not?—I do not. I would tell you if I could recollect the fact.

30,810. You never got money at Mrs. Gill's house at any time?—No.

30,811. That you swear?—I might have received money on account as I did from year to year.

30,812. How much might you have received, 10*l.*?—I never received so much.

30,813. Do you remember receiving 5*l.*?—No, in fact I do not think I ever received money from there.

30,814. From whom did you get it?—What money?

30,815. The money you got at Mrs. Gill's?—I never got any.

30,816. You said you did?—I might have received money at her house, or she might have called at my shop and paid it.

30,817. The money that you might have received, how much was that?—I cannot at all tell you.

30,818. Do you think you can remember by to-morrow morning what Mrs. Thomas said to your daughter, but don't talk to Mrs. Thomas about it?—If I had my daughter living I might be able to tell you.

30,819. Did Mrs. Gill have the same house as Mr. Smale?—Yes.

30,820. You won't tell us any more?—I have told you the whole truth.

30,821. There is something at the bottom?—Then you might find it out. You find it out of others.

30,822. (Mr. Longe.) Were you at Mrs. Gill's house during the election?—Yes, I daresay I was.

30,823. What were you there for?—Merely as an acquaintance.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

J. Corney.

9 Sept. 1866.

30,824. What did you go for?—I do not know.

30,825. Whom did you go and see?—There were plenty in and out.

30,826. There was a great deal going on?—Yes.

30,827. Who were those people there?—I do not know.

30,828. Yes, you do?—I do not know.

30,829. What do you mean by saying there were a great many people in and out?—She had a variety of friends.

30,830. Whose house was it at that time?—I really do not know who was the owner.

30,831. Who occupied it?—Mrs. Gill rented the house.

30,832. What was she at that time?—I could not say a widow, but she was living there with her family, and her husband was abroad.

30,833. A private person?—Yes.

30,834. Then what do you mean by saying there were a great many persons in and out?—There is at electioneering times.

30,835. Do you mean that the people were merely friends?—I do not know.

30,836. Do you not know that there was a committee-room for the Liberals there?—There might have been, I do not know. I know there was a committee-room during Mr. Smale's residence.

30,837. But at that time did you not know that people went in and out on election business?—No, I assure you I do not. I do not know anybody that did, and I do not think it was a committee-room. I think the committee at that time was at John Fogwill's house.

30,838. Was not John Fogwill at Mrs. Gill's house?—That I cannot say.

30,839. You knew Mr. John Fogwill?—Yes, and I think you will find that the committee-room was at John Fogwill's house, or at Mr. Bowden's.

30,840. Did you meet Mr. John Fogwill at Mrs. Gill's?—No.

30,841. Do you know whether John Fogwill was one of the persons that went in and out?—I do not know. I do not recollect seeing Mr. John Fogwill there at all.

30,842. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you get any money from Mr. John Fogwill after the election?—No, I never got a penny.

30,843. (Mr. Longe.) You got some consideration? Did not your daughter get something from Mrs. Thomas?—No.

N. Manning.

NICHOLAS MANNING sworn and examined.

30,844. (Mr. Coleridge.) I believe you rejoice in a nick-name in this place?—I do not rejoice in it.

30,845. Are you the gentleman we have heard of as two yards of bad stuff?—I am beyond six foot.

30,846. How long have you been a voter?—The first time I voted in this borough was just after the passing of the Reform Bill.

30,847. In 1852 you voted?—Who were then the members?

30,848. Baldwin and Mills.—When Baldwin was thrown out I had no vote.

30,849. In 1852 do you recollect getting 50*l.* for your vote?—Never.

30,850. Did you vote in 1857?—Who were the candidates.

30,851. Mackenzie, Gregory, Lord Gifford, and Mills.—I think I did.

30,852. What did you get for your vote?—I never got a shilling, and never asked for anything.

30,853. Did you get money for your brother?—Never.

30,854. Something that Mr. Yabbicom had to do with?—I do not know.

30,855. What was the transaction?—I do not know.

30,856. It is not true that you got a sum of money for your brother?—Certainly not; I deny it.

30,857. Did you know that your brother was having it?—I did not.

30,858. In 1859 how did you vote?—Who were the candidates?

30,859. At Dunn's election?—Yes.

30,860. How did you vote?—I voted for Dunn.

30,861. What did you get?—Nothing. I never got a shilling.

30,862. In 1862. Dent's election, were you on Dent's committee?—I was.

30,863. There was a great deal of money going then?—I dare say there was.

30,864. You could not be on the committee without knowing that there was money?—I never paid it or received it.

30,865. As a committeeman, what sum of money do you know that he was prepared to pay?—I think a couple of thousand pounds.

30,866. Did not you know it was 3,000*l.*?—No.

30,867. Did Mr. Mitchell?—I do not know.

30,868. You were on the committee, can you tell us when it was that Mr. Dent determined not to go to the poll?—I suppose when he saw there was no chance that was up to 3 o'clock.

30,869. You were present and an active committee-man, what were the reports brought you by the divers Evenses and Screaches and these people as to the chance at last?—It was up to the last day we thought we had a chance; but there were some parties that promised to vote for Mr. Dent and altered their minds.

30,870. How many persons had you been told you would be required to pay on Mr. Dent's side to carry the election?—I cannot tell you.

30,871. About how many?—Perhaps ten or a dozen.

30,872. Altogether?—That expected to be paid do you mean?

30,873. Yes?—We know full well in all those elections there are parties who will not vote.

30,874. You were assisting as a committee man; how many were reported to you as requiring money?—Many, I cannot tell you the number.

30,875. Were you told there were 100 people who would require money to make Mr. Dent's election safe?—I do not think there were 60.

30,876. To carry the election?—Yes.

30,877. What was reported to you as the current price that would be required?—I never heard the sum I have heard it by report that such and such an one had got so much, but I knew no more in reality.

30,878. Do you mean by reports from Evens and Screach and various people?—Various reports we used to hear, that such a man would not vote unless he got so and so. I never was told that by the members.

30,879. You were one of the members of the committee employing a certain lot of people to bribe, what did you hear from them as the price at which votes were going?—I never took a minute account of it. I never went in to know the exact amount that each man would require; that was on the Liberal side.

30,880. From what you heard from the reports of people employed by you, what was the price generally of votes then?—I heard some had 50*l.*, and some asked 60*l.* and others expected 150*l.*; that was through the reports.

30,881. From these reports that were brought to you from time to time, what did you advise Mr. Dent was the requisite sum of money for him to spend?—I recollect his saying "I will not spend any more money whether I am elected or not."

30,882. What had he spent when you gave your advice ?—I cannot tell what. It was so evident there was such a strong party against us that we could not compete.

30,883. What did he tell you he had spent ?—I cannot charge my recollection with that.

30,884. As far as you can recollect, will you tell me what it was he said he had spent at the time when he was advised to spend no more ?—I think he had spent upwards of 2,000*l.*

30,885. That he had spent upwards of that, or that there were some promises up to that amount ?—I do not suppose they were all paid.

30,886. On a calculation of what was to be paid, 2,000*l.* would go a very little way on your own showing. I merely want to know this, do you mean that Mr. Dent actually had spent 2,000*l.* in 1862 ?—I considered he did ; I am not certain.

30,887. Separate in your own mind these two things, not what he had undertaken to pay, but what the election of 1862 really cost him ; do you believe it cost him 2,000*l.* ?—I daresay it did ; I am not positive, I have not gone into the figures with those parties I was assisting who would understand those things and enter more minutely into the question than I did.

30,888. Did you ever hear from Mr. Dent that he had asked Mr. Pender for 2,000*l.* as the price of his withdrawal after he found it hopeless ?—I never heard such a thing.

30,889. Was it never discussed in the committee-room ?—I never heard it discussed there.

30,890. Did you ever hear it mentioned by Mr. Dent or Mr. Mitchell that if he withdrew then and allowed Mr. Pender to win it would not have exceeded 2,000*l.* ?—It was never brought before me.

30,891. In 1863 were you again on Mr. Dent's committee ?—I was a member then.

30,892. Dent and Seymour ?—Yes I was.

30,893. What money did he spend at that time ?—I cannot possibly tell you now.

30,894. You knew at the time ?—Yes, I knew at the time.

30,895. Was it 10,000*l.* ?—There was plenty of money.

30,896. Was it 10,000*l.* ?—I should not fancy any such sum.

30,897. Was it something between that and 5,000*l.* ?—I should not fancy it was 5,000*l.* I cannot go into the figures to swear to it.

30,898. You heard of the thing at the time ; what was it Mr. Dent said that he had spent at the election ?—I do not know that I have heard him name the sum.

30,899. Did you ever hear Mr. Mitchell excessively angry and say he had been swindled out of such and such a sum ?—I know he went away very much displeased, and I do not wonder at it.

30,900. Did he tell you what it was the election cost Mr. Dent ?—I do not think he told me.

30,901. Did not either Mr. Mitchell or Mr. Dent tell you between the 1862 and 1863 elections Mr. Dent had spent 10,000*l.* ?—I never heard that amount.

30,902. You acted twice on Mr. Dent's committee ; were you paid ?—Never, I never had a 6*d.* in my life on it.

30,903. What arrangement was made as to the payments to Screach and Evens and others who went out ?—I do not know.

30,904. Was it not arranged by the committee ?—I suppose so, I have no recollection of what they had.

30,905. What were they to have ?—They were not to have anything ; they were pressing to be employed.

30,906. People were employed by Mr. Dent to go and circulate money besides Frederick Evens and Screach ?—I do not know of anyone person. Persons have done it.

30,907. Was there not a stranger ?—I never saw him.

30,908. Were you told of it ?—I never saw him. I did not hear there was a stranger down.

30,909. Do you not know who was employed in addition to Screach and Evens in this distribution of money if there was not a stranger ?—I do not know at all, there are many parties who take active parts as well as Screach and Evens.

30,910. After the election, did Mr. Dent make you any present for your services ?—Not a farthing, I never asked any.

30,911. Nor Mr. Mitchell ?—I was not placed in a position to ask such a question.

30,912. Did he not make you any present ?—Not to the amount of 6*d.*

30,913. What part in the election of 1865 did you take ?—Nothing more than voted for them. I had nothing ; I passed people, and by way of a joke I hoped they would support Mr. Dent.

30,914. (Mr. Bere.) How many tenants have you ?—Five or six.

30,915. Who are they ?—Farley was one, he is not now, he has removed.

30,916. What is his christian name ?—William Farley.

30,917. The elder ?—No, the younger.

30,918. Who else ?—Behind him is Charles Pitts, and at the bottom of the garden again there is John Briggs ; that is three. Then of course there are two up at Bridgetown.

30,919. Who are they ?—Mr. Kelland, the schoolmaster, and Mrs. Manley.

30,920. Had you a tenant of the name of Veasey ?—I had.

30,921. How long has he ceased to be a tenant ?—I think three or four years.

30,922. Did you give him notice to quit ?—I did.

30,923. What did he rent under you ?—I think he had but part of a tenement, and now Briggs has got the whole.

30,924. How much was the rent ?—Not above 7*l.* or 8*l.* a year.

30,925. Did not he vote ?—I know he did vote.

30,926. Which way did he vote ?—I think on the Liberal side ; I really cannot tell you, I think it was on the Liberal side.

30,927. Did you not turn him out because of that ?—No, I did not.

30,928. How long after that had he the notice ?—We had had other unpleasantnesses before he quitted.

30,929. How long after he voted for the Liberals did you give him notice to quit ?—I cannot tell you.

30,930. Was it Lady-day tenancy ?—Lady-day or Christmas, I cannot tell which.

30,931. When did you give the notice ?—Six months from the time that he took possession.

30,932. When was it that you gave the notice ?—Whether it was Christmas or Lady-day I cannot tell you now.

30,933. Whom did you give it to to serve ?—I sent it by a boy ; John, the schoolmaster's son.

30,934. Are you sure it was not Mr. Robert Harris who served it ?—I cannot say for certain. I will not swear who it was, my memory is not sufficient.

30,935. How many tenants have you ever turned out ?—Never but one ; Mr. Farley gave me notice to quit.

30,936. Was he the only one that ever voted against you ?—I do not know ; I never asked him to vote ; they vote for whom they please.

30,937. I ask you, was not Veasey the only tenant you ever had who voted against you ?—Mr. Kelland always voted against me.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

N. Manning.

19 Sept. 1866.

30,938. When?—At the free election.

30,939. What lease has he got?—He is a yearly tenant.

30,940. Is it your own house at Bridgetown?—It is.

30,941. Not a leasehold house?—A leasehold house.

30,942. Your own life?—No, so many years.

30,943. From the duke?—Yes, from the duke; and Mr. Manley is the same. I have two houses also on the Plains.

30,944. Who are your tenants there?—One is an excise officer.

30,945. Has not every one of your tenants been bribed?—I do not know at all.

30,946. Do you not know that every one of your tenants has been bribed?—I never asked them the question.

30,947. Do you not know that every single one of your tenants has been bribed?—No doubt; I have heard it from other people; perhaps they have been so.

30,948. You took care never to ask them?—I never asked them; they vote for whom they please.

30,949. You say you never intimated to the persons who had the distribution of the money at the elections that your tenants must be remembered?—Never; I should never have thought of such a thing, I never went to introduce them, nothing of the kind. They asked, "who were tenants of mine—would I go with them," I said, "No; some one will show you to them."

30,950. (Mr. Longe.) In 1863 did you not tell Mr. Mitchell about your tenants; did you not have some conversation with him about your tenants?—Do you mean the Mr. Mitchell who came down with Mr. Dent.

30,951. Yes?—I daresay I might say I had such and such tenants, and so on, and he went to them to solicit their votes.

30,952. Did you go with him?—No.

30,953. Did you not tell Mr. Mitchell what your tenants required?—I never thought of such a thing.

30,954. Did you tell Mr. Mitchell that you and all your tenants would require 500*l.*?—I never asked him; I never named 500*l.* in my life.

30,955. Did you tell Mr. Mitchell that you and all your tenants would require 500*l.*?—I never asked him; I never named 500*l.* in my life.

30,955*a*. Did you tell Mr. Mitchell that your tenants would require some money?—I never asked such a thing, I never named such a thing; I am on my oath. I never thought of such a thing; I have heard the same story before, and I do not take the trouble to contradict it.

30,956. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever send anything to Mr. Pengiley?—Not a farthing, I am not in the habit of talking to him. Which Pengiley do you allude to.

30,957. Which of the Pengileys is it you have been in the habit of talking to?—Neither of them.

30,958. (Mr. Bere.) Did they ever send any money to you as a bribe?—Never a 6*d.* in my life.

30,959. For your services?—No, I never asked it.

30,960. You did not ask, were you asked?—I never received it, and that answers both questions.

30,961. Did you ever have any money paid you for your services?—Never a farthing in any shape whatever; no remuneration, no fee, no place, no pension, nothing of the kind.

30,962. Or for your brother's services?—Never.

30,963. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you got a brother?—I had.

30,964. Did you and he have a fall out by his saying he had not got any of the money you got?—Never.

30,965. (Mr. Bere.) Did you return to him any of the 50*l.*?—I never had any to return.

30,966. Did your brother have any?—I do not know, I cannot answer for my brother.

30,967. Was there not a quarrel between you and your brother about whether you had not received 50*l.* and only paid him 20*l.*?—I had a quarrel about other affairs.

30,968. Had you a quarrel about that?—Never.

30,969. Any about a payment of money?—Never.

30,970. Do you mean quarrels about money matters?—Yes, he had scores of pounds of me that I never got back.

30,971. Was it you received 50*l.* for him?—Nothing. Alluding to that, the money I had actually paid for him I never got; his circumstances were such that he had scores, and I do say I am hundreds out of pocket by him; but he was my brother and I did it for his good, I was not alluding to him at all.

30,972. Was it not that your brother accused you of having received some sums for him which you kept fast?—Never.

30,973. Did he accuse you of it?—Never in his life.

30,974. What was the quarrel?—He had a deal of money of my father; I was my father's executor.

30,975. Do you know the Rev.—Brough?—I do, he is in court now.

30,976. (Mr. Longe.) You went up to London in 1839 to the scrutiny?—Yes, I did.

30,977. What did you go up for?—I do not know more than you; they never asked me a question; he investigated the matter and it was settled.

Adjourned till to-morrow at half-past 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

Thursday, 20th September 1866.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

JOHN PARNELL recalled and examined. J. Parnell.

20 Sept. 1866.

30,978. (Mr. Bere.) How came you to go to Crawford at all?—I do not know.

30,979. Who was it sent you?—I told you at first that no one sent me, and I had told him two months before that I should come. What I tell you is the truth; I do not want to tell a lie about it if I know it, and if anybody sent me I would tell you.

30,980. It is rather an odd thing that you should be induced to go and canvass a man of whom you knew but little?—He had worked on my place.

30,981. How many years had you known him?—20 years.

30,982. Had you employed him?—Yes, in my place.

30,983. Did you happen to owe him any money at the time?—No.

30,984. Nor he you?—No.

(Mr. Bere.) Circumstances have come to our knowledge which make it doubtful whether your account of the transaction is the true one, or the account of two other witnesses; therefore, we shall consider at the end of the Commission whether we shall report what happened yesterday. At present you are discharged from attendance here.

JOHN PEARCE recalled and examined. J. Pearce.

30,985. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—At Totnes.

30,986. What part?—Behind the walls.

30,987. What are you?—Cowkeeper and dairyman.

30,988. You were examined on Saturday?—Yes.

30,989. Did you tell us all that you knew about the elections then?—Not all

30,990. Will you tell us now what you remember?—Yes.

30,991. What is it?—I brought to my recollection at the time that Pender put up, I did not say that I had 20*l.* at the time, and that my mistress received 10*l.*

30,992. When Pender and Dent stood?—Yes.

30,993. Then you had 20*l.*?—Yes; and my mistress received it from Mr. Parnell, and he came again and brought 10*l.*

30,994. Then your mistress had 30*l.*?—Yes. That is all I can say.

30,995. Had you 25*l.* in 1859?—Who was it then?

30,996. Dunn?—No.

30,997. Take care?—I explained it the other day, and I will explain it again.

30,998. When did you first remember that you had this money from Pender?—When I went home, my mistress said I had not said right, because I was confused, and I got a little warm, and I thought it was rather hard that I should be said to have what I had never had, and I can bring proof of it.

30,999. You voted in 1865?—Who was that?

31,000. Pender and Seymour?—I always voted that side.

31,001. What did you get for voting the last time?—Nothing, not a farthing. I have come to tell the truth.

31,002. So you told us the last time, and you did not tell us the truth?—I acknowledge that I was rather hasty about being condemned wrongfully; but when I came home my mistress told me.

31,003. Is your wife at home?—Yes.

31,004. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did your wife get in 1865, at Pender and Seymour's election?—Nothing.

31,005. Did you get a present after the election?—No.

31,006. Did she?—No.

31,007. Who asked you for your vote?—Mr. Pender came and asked me for my vote.

31,008. Did you not see Mr. Parnell?—No.

31,009. He had paid you before, and he never came and called upon you?—No.

31,010. Did you not go to him?—No.

31,011. Your wife?—No.

31,012. Thomas Jacob Searle, did he come to you?—No.

31,013. Did you go to him?—No.

31,014. Did you meet him?—No.

31,015. Never had anything to say to him?—No, never in my life.

31,016. Mr. Michelmore?—No.

31,017. Did you know that money was going about?—Yes. If they like to give me anything they may, but I leave them alone.

31,018. How often have you been paid for your vote?—Three times.

31,019. 1859, 1862, and 1863?—Two, Mr. Mills, and one, Mr. Pender; that is three.

31,020. In 1860 you got this 30*l.*, and in 1862 you were paid?—Yes; that was the first time.

31,021. In 1863, did you get nothing from Mr. Seymour at all?—Nothing.

31,022. They struck you off the list?—Yes.

31,023. Nothing in 1863, and nothing in 1865?—No.

31,024. How was that?—I did not look for it.

31,025. The payment in 1862, without the contest, you thought equivalent to paying you in 1863?—I did not think about it.

31,026. When money was going, why did you not think about there being any share for you?—I did not.

31,027. Did not you make inquiries?—No. Mr. Pender came, and I said I would give him my vote, and he said, "I wish I could meet with all such men "as you."

31,028. Did not you promise Mr. Seymour your vote?—Yes.

31,029. Did you get nothing?—No. If I had, I knew I should be found out in a lie.

31,030. Were you offered anything?—Not a farthing.

31,031. Did the Conservatives try you?—I do not know whether Evens did not.

31,032. What did Evens offer you?—He talked to my mistress about 200*l.* He merely called.

31,033. That is Fred. Evens?—Yes.

31,034. When Evens offered that to your mistress, did not your mistress say she could have it from the other side?—No. He only came from Mrs. Deane's.

31,035. Was that where he saw your missis?—No, she lives on the opposite side, and he said, "I will go "over and see."

31,036. What had he been at Mrs. Deane's doing?—I do not know.

31,037. Did Mrs. Deane tell you what he had given her?—No.

31,038. Did you hear of anybody getting money at that election?—I do not interfere at all.

31,039. You knew that money was going about?—There might be.

31,040. Who told you that?—I do not know. There is always money in electioneering times.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

J. Pearce.

20 Sept. 1866.

31,041. You did not try to get any ?—No. That is the truth. I should have it against me if I had.

31,042. All you have come to add to your evidence is that you got 10*l.* in addition to the 20*l.* ?—Yes.

31,043. Was there an election of Mills at which you got money ?—I mentioned that.

31,044. How much was it ?—Two twenties.

31,045. Two twenties and a thirty ?—No.

31,046. At Pender's election you got thirty, and two twenties at Mills' ?—Yes.

31,047. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever get anything for voting for the council ?—Not a farthing. I have always voted that side. I believe I did give Mr. Bovey a vote for the council. He was a good customer of ours ; and he asked me for my vote and I gave it to him.

N. Earle.

NICHOLAS EARLE sworn and examined.

31,048. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the brother of Wm. Earle ?—Yes.

31,049. Do you live with him ?—Yes.

31,050. Where is that ?—Brent.

31,051. Do you remember bringing your brother some money once ?—I was here with him once, and I had the money from John Heath.

31,052. Where did you get it ? — The "Seven Stars."

31,053. Were you and your brother together then ?—Yes, we were together, and Mr. Heath offered 30*l.*, and I went in and took the money.

31,054. What did you do with it ?—Carried it home.

31,055. And put it on the table ?—Yes.

31,056. And then his housekeeper took it ?—No, my brother took it up ; what he did with it after that I never inquired.

31,057. Are you in partnership with him ?—Yes, we are partners at home, but not about the country.

31,058. Is he a dealer as well as a farmer ?—Well, if we see anything we like to buy.

31,059. And you farm as well ?—Yes, and we take land about the country as well.

31,060. Have you a vote ?—No, never in my life.

31,061. Was that the only time you ever had any money for your brother ?—The only time I ever had any money for my brother ; he never voted for anyone, not to my knowledge.

31,062. How was the money paid to you, in gold ?—In gold.

31,063. Where was it paid, in a room at the "Seven Stars" ?—Yes, in a room to the right, down-stairs somewhere or other. Mr. Heath told me to go in and stop till he came.

31,064. Is it the smoking-room ?—No, further out in front somewhere.

31,065. A little room by the bar ?—I do not know where the bar is ; I turned round to the right.

31,066. On the ground floor ?—On the ground floor.

31,067. Who paid it ?—John Heath.

31,068. Was there anybody else in the room ?—No.

31,069. Was it in a bag or loose ?—He brought it to me and I told it over.

31,071. You had made the bargain, you had not ?—We were both there, and Mr. Heath gave me 30*l.*, and I said I may as well take the money and have no more bother about it, and I went in and received the money.

31,072. What day of the week was it ?—Monday before the election.

31,073. Before the election on Wednesday ?—Tuesday, I think; the election was the next morning.

31,074. The nomination was the next morning, it was the last time ?—No, the time before, Mr. Dent's.

31,075. You do not know anything about the 40*l.* ?—No, nothing about any 40*l.*

31,076. That he was offered the last time by a young slippery gentleman, like a wire dancer ?—No.

31,077. Were not you at home when they came ?—No, I was out, I know nothing about that.

J. Stanning.

JOHN STANNING sworn and examined.

31,078. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you ?—A farmer.

31,079. Where do you live ?—At Cott, Dartington.

31,080. Is that on Mr. Champernowne's estate ?—No.

31,081. Have you a vote for this place ?—Yes.

31,082. How long have you had it ?—About six years.

31,083. Are you a tenant of Mr. Carey ?—Yes.

31,084. Did you vote in 1859, at Dunn's election ?—No ; the first I voted for was Mr. Pender.

31,085. How did you vote then ?—For Mr. Pender.

31,086. Were you engaged about the election at that time ?—No.

31,087. Did you see any voters about it ?—No.

31,088. Who canvassed you ?—Mr. Pender.

31,089. Did you see Mr. Parnell ?—No.

31,090. Did you get anything for your vote in 1862 ?—No ; I never had anything.

31,091. Did you give any voter anything in 1862 ?—No.

31,092. Do you know a man called Marks ?—Yes.

31,093. Did you ever give anything for his vote ?—No, I never said a word about voting, never that I am aware of.

31,094. Have you a brother called Richard ?—Yes.

31,095. Do you know whether he had anything to do with Marks ?—No.

31,096. Is he a voter ?—No, I expect it must be my son.

31,097. Had your son something to do with Marks ?—No; Harris came one time and accused me of bribing Marks, and offering 200*l*, but it was no such thing.

31,098. When did Harris accuse you ?—Since he came from London.

31,099. Since this Commission ?—No, before; since he returned from London.

31,100. Where did he accuse you ?—At the "Plymouth Inn."

31,101. You met him there ?—Yes.

31,102. Did you deny it ?—Yes.

31,103. You had words about it ?—Yes, we did get rather crooked about it. I did not like it.

31,104. What did he tell you you had done ?—That I had offered him 200*l.*

31,105. Which election, 1865 ?—No ; I think it must be in 1863.

31,106. Seymour and Dent's ?—That must be it.

31,107. Did you offer that ?—No.

31,108. Did you offer any sum ?—No.

31,109. Did you offer to lend him any money ?—No.

31,110. Did he ever ask you to lend him any money ?—No.

31,111. How did you vote yourself in 1863, Seymour and Dent's, the one after ?—Then I voted for Seymour and Pender.

31,112. No, you voted for Pender in 1862 when Mr. Dent withdrew, and then about six weeks afterwards came another election, how did you vote then ?—Mr. Seymour.

31,113. Did you get anything for your vote that time ?—No.

31,114. Did you give anybody anything ?—No.

31,115. In 1865 I suppose you voted for Seymour and Pender ?—Yes.

31,116. And you got nothing then ?—No.

31,117. And you gave nobody anything ?—No, I did not require anything.

31,118. Then this story about Marks is not true ?—No, it is not true.

31,119. Had you any conversation with Marks that might account for this story getting about ?—Not that I am aware of.

31,120. Or with his wife?—No.

31,121. Or anybody else?—No, I know him very well, and saw him every day.

31,122. You cannot at all elucidate the foundation of this story?—No, I cannot; I know nothing about it.

31,123. (Mr. Bere.) Have you been talking to Mr. Carey about coming here to give your evidence?—Well, I might; I think I told him that I had to come in.

31,124. What did you tell him besides?—I do not know, but that they would find out that they had called one too much.

31,125. Did not you say to him you supposed you would be obliged to tell the truth?—Yes.

31,126. Have you told us all the truth?—Yes.

31,127. What is the size of your farm?—The one I live in is 23 or 24 acres; then I have other land.

31,128. How much altogether?—40 acres, I should think.

31,129. What is the rent of it?—Above 100*l.* a year.

31,130. Is your brother in partnership with you?—No.

31,131. What does he rent?—It is my son.

31,132. Is Richard your son?—Yes.

31,133. The voter is?—Yes.

31,134. How does he get a vote?—He has got some land at Gerston.

31,135. He is one of the Gerston men?—Yes.

31,136. Was he one of the 11 who voted for one field?—I do not know.

31,137. There were 9 or 10 who voted for one field?—That I am not aware of.

31,138. Has he ever had any cattle of his own to put on that field?—I am not aware of that, I think there were some stock there.

31,139. Does he not live with you?—Yes.

31,140. And works for you?—Yes.

31,141. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever give him any money to buy stock?—He has had money to buy stock.

31,142. How many head of cattle has he got?—None at present.

31,143. I do not suppose that he pays any rent for the field?—I believe the rent is paid.

31,144. Who by, Mr. Michelmore?—No, there is a person appointed to take the rent.

GEORGE MITCHELL recalled and further examined.

G. Mitchell.

31,145. (Mr. Bere.) Used you to supply Corney with leather?—Yes.

31,146. At the time of the election in 1863 did he owe you a bill amounting to about 70*l.*?—It was rather over that.

31,147. How long had that bill been running?—Twenty years, I suppose.

31,148. How much has he ever paid you off that?—He paid me from time to time, I cannot tell you any more.

31,149. Had it ever been over 70*l.*?—Yes, it had.

31,150. How much above 70*l.*?—It is several years ago, I cannot recollect.

31,151. It is not so very many years ago, only four or five; was it ever as much as 100*l.*?—I do not think it was as much as that.

31,152. Was it not larger just before the election of 1863 than it ever had been?—No, I do not think it was, I am not aware of it.

31,153. (Mr. Coleridge.) When was it that he got into trouble?—Somewhere about 1863 I suppose, or 1862.

31,154. How much of that have you ever received?—I have received about 5*l.* and some few shillings, 5*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

31,155. Do you ever expect to get any more?—No, I do not.

31,156. Did you let him off the rest after that election?—I do not know anything about the election, it has nothing to do with my business.

31,157. Did you let him off that debt after the election of 1863?—Certainly not, it had nothing to do with the election.

31,158. As to the time when was it that you let him off the rest of the debt?—I let him off when I found I could not get anything.

31,159. When did you try to get anything?—I have been always trying to get what I could.

31,160. From 1860, when this debt began to accrue, to 1863 when he was unfortunate, how often had you pressed him for the money?—I called on him many times, he was in my debt for 20 years, I was glad to get what I could.

31,161. What time of the year was it when he was unfortunate, was it late or early?—I cannot tell you that.

31,162. Was it at the beginning of the year or the end?—I cannot tell you that.

31,163. You can get your books and find out?—I cannot find out by that.

31,164. Why cannot you?—He had not dealt with me for some time before that.

31,165. You can find out by your books when he stopped dealing with you, and when you received this 5*l.* odd for the debt?—I cannot tell you that.

31,166. When did you get the 5*l.*?—Last April.

31,167. He was bankrupt in 1863, and it has taken up to last April before you got the 5*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*?—I think it was 5*l.* 3*s.* I had nothing from that time up to last April.

31,168. Had you been trying to get it?—I wanted to get it.

31,169. Did you ever ask him for it?—I asked him why he did not collect in what was on his books.

31,170. On your oath did you ever ask him for that debt between the time of his being unfortunate and the time of your getting the 5*l.*?—I had not to ask him.

31,171. Then who were you to ask?—Mr. Frederick Kellock.

31,172. His affairs were in Mr. Kellock's hands?—Certainly.

31,173. Shortly after the election of 1863 he was unfortunate, and became bankrupt, and put his affairs into Mr. Kellock's hands?—I suppose it was about that time.

31,174. How often have you asked Mr. Kellock about the money?—Many times.

31,175. Since 1863?—Yes.

31,176. What used Mr. Kellock to tell you about it?—That he could not get the money in.

31,177. What was the amount of his debts?—It was a very trifling affair, I believe, he did not behave well to me, though I never upbraided him with it since.

31,178. Was yours the only debt?—No.

31,179. Who were the others?—Mr. Quick, of Exeter.

31,180. What was his debt?—30s. or 2*l.*

31,181. Who was the other?—A Mr. East, another Exeter person.

31,182. How much was that?—About the same amount.

31,183. Then did he become bankrupt for his debt to you and two others of about 30s. or 3*l.*?—He was not bankrupt.

31,184. What was he?—He gave up his books.

31,185. He might not have gone through the Court, but to all intents and purposes he was a bankrupt?—I am not aware that he owed anything more.

31,186. Has any body else ever paid you the money which he owed you?—Certainly not.

31,187. Has Mr. Michelmore ever paid you?—Which Mr. Michelmore?

31,188. Any Mr. Michelmore?—Certainly not.

31,189. Have you received the amount from any person?—From no one.

31,190. Has any person given you a guarantee for it?—No; no guarantee.

31,191. Or any note of hand?—No note of hand.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

C. Mitchell.

20 Sept. 1866.

31,192. You mean that amount of money has yet to be paid?—I do.

31,193. That has never been recouped you by any one else?—Never. I never said a word to Corney about it, or asked him how he was going to vote.

31,194. (Mr. Bere). Did you happen to hear how he was going to vote?—No; I never interfered in it.

31,195. Did you hear how he was going to vote?—He has not had a vote since 1859.

31,196. Did you know at the time of the election in 1859 that he did not intend to vote at all?—I never knew anything about his voting, or how he was going to vote.

31,197. Did you ever hear that he had changed his mind, and voted for the Liberals?—After he had voted of course I did.

31,198. Did you not at first hear that he intended not to vote at all?—Certainly; I heard there was money left at his house to prevent him from voting.

31,199. When did you hear that?—After the election.

31,200. How long after the election?—A day or two after.

31,201. Will you swear it was not before the election?—It might have been before.

31,202. Will you swear you did not hear at the "Seymour Hotel," before the election, that the money had been left at his house?—I cannot swear when I heard it.

31,203. Did you ever threaten him, or press him for the money that he owed you, unless he voted for the Liberals in 1859?—Never in my life.

31,204. Nothing of the sort?—Never.

31,205. Did you supply him with any leather after the election in 1859?—Yes; I sold him things.

31,206. To what amount?—It may be 4*l.* or 5*l.* at a time. When he paid me money, I let him have other things.

31,207. How much money has he paid you since 1859?—Not very much.

31,208. You can tell that from your books?—I could tell from my books.

31,209. Then you must go and get them, and let us see your books, from 1857 down to the present time?—Well, if I must do it, I suppose I must.

Rev. J. Powning.

The Rev. James Powning sworn and examined.

31,210. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—At Dart Villas.

31,211. How long have you lived there?—Ten years.

31,212. Have you been a voter during that time?—I first voted in 1859.

31,213. Have you voted for the Conservatives ever since?—Yes.

31,214. Are you a brother-in-law of Mr. Edmonds, the solicitor?—Yes.

31,215. Did you take a great deal of interest on the Conservative side?—Yes; a great deal.

31,216. Did you canvass any persons?—No.

31,217. Then how did you show your interest?—I do not know that I ever manifested any interest; I felt an interest, certainly.

31,218. Did you not manifest your interest rather strongly in the case of a man named Hannaford?—Certainly not.

31,219. What is the interest, if any, attaching to that case?—My neighbour, Captain Gill, has a son named Arthur Gill, who is a private tutor to some nobleman; he was down here at the time of Dent's election, and used frequently to go out shooting and fishing with Hannaford.

31,220. Was Hannaford Mr. Durant's gamekeeper?—No; he lives at the lodge near to the town.

31,221. Is that Mr. Durant's property?—Yes; he paid Mr. Durant for it.

31,222. He was a tenant of Mr. Durant's?—Exactly so.

31,223. In 1863, when Arthur Gill was down here, did he talk to you about Hannaford?—He had been out shooting with Hannaford, and he happened to join me when I was walking up the hill towards my house, and he said to me, "Hannaford declares he will not "vote for Seymour; if he stays at home, the Sharpham "party will oblige him to vote, and he wishes to go "away." Arthur Gill said nothing further to me.

31,224. What did you then do in the matter?—Nothing at all.

31,225. Did you speak to Mr. Edmonds?—No; Arthur Gill did.

31,226. Do you know where Mr. Gill is now?—No.

31,227. Is he a clergyman?—No; he was a private tutor to some nobleman; and when I last heard of him he was a classical tutor at some military college.

31,228. You heard from Mr. Gill afterwards, that Hannaford had had some money?—I did not hear it from Mr. Gill.

31,229. Whom did you hear it from?—I heard from Mr. Edmonds that he had money.

31,230. He is a pretty good authority; how much did he tell you that this man had?—That he had 200*l.*

31,231. And that he had gone away?—Mr. Edmond mentioned this to me some time subsequent to the election.

31,232. Did Mr. Edmonds tell you who had given it to him?—No.

31,233. After the election, did you meet Arthur Gill?—I ought to tell you that it was subsequent to the election. When Hannaford did not vote for the Conservatives, Mr. Edmonds spoke of him as being a very ungrateful fellow, for that he had received this amount and had not remembered the kindness which had been shown to him.

31,234. After Dent's election did you meet Arthur Gill, and did he tell you that he and Hannaford had been out shooting on the day of the election?—After Dent's election he gave me the whole account of where they had been, and all the circumstances.

31,235. Where had they been?—First of all to Cornworthy, where they remained a short time; and from thence to the Brixham Road station.

31,236. How far off is Cornworthy?—Four miles from here.

31,237. Did they stay at Cornworthy that night?—Yes; then they went to Torquay; and from Torquay they went to Teignmouth, where there was a professional bowler living, who was an old friend of Arthur Gill's; I do not know his name.

31,238. Was it Bentley?—I do not know his name; but whatever his name was he took charge of Hannaford, and on the day of the election Hannaford returned home and voted.

31,239. Which way did he vote?—He voted for Dent.

31,240. Did you see Hannaford on the day that he voted?—I saw him from the window of the "Stars," when he was going to vote

31,241. Did you see in what condition he was?—No; I heard he was in a state of intoxication, but that was clearly wrong, according to what I afterwards heard from two or three gentlemen whom I spoke to.

31,242. Did you speak to him yourself?—No.

31,243. Do you know how came his friend the bowler to let him go?—I think that Arthur Gill came over here with the bowler, and brought him here in his company.

31,244. Did you say anything to Mr. Edmonds about Hannaford before the election of 1865?—Not a word.

31,245. Had you known Hannaford yourself?—Previous to this occurrence he had occasionally worked for me in the garden; he used to do work of that sort I believe for every one in the same row where I live; there are only four houses, and he was a sort of handy man there.

31,246. Did you ever have any conversation with

Hannaford about it yourself at the time?—Not at all; I never mentioned the subject to him.

31,247. You had talked to Mr. Edmonds about it?—Subsequently.

31,248. Did not Mr. Durant turn him out?—He threatened to turn him out at the time, and I believe his wife was very indignant that besides the 200*l.* a house was not taken for them in the town, and furnished, in order that they might take in lodgers—I believe the house that Mr. Harris now lives in. They thought that the Conservatives were very ungrateful.

31,249. The Liberal party had been taken in by the Conservatives, but they went to Mr. Durant, and asked him to let the man stay; do you happen to know whether that was the case?—I have heard something about it; I think that Mr. Pender himself very generously wrote to Mr. Durant, and asked him to forgive the man. I believe Mr. Durant told me so himself.

31,250. Do you know anything about the correspondence between Mr. Harris and Mr. Pender?—I saw it in the paper.

31,251. Did not you see the letters before they were sent?—No, not one.

31,252. Did not Mr. Harris consult you about it?—No, neither of them did he consult me about.

31,253. About none of the letters?—No, I never saw either of the letters till after they appeared in the papers.

31,254. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he ask you whether he should write or not?—No.

31,255. (Mr. Bere.) What happened between you and Mr. Harris as to the letters?—The only letter I know anything at all about was when he came with a letter of Mr. Pender's headed "Totnes Royal Com-" mission," a letter that appeared in the paper, and he asked me to read it over. I read it, and he said, "What do you think about it?" I said, "I think it "is a very unwise letter; I think it is a very foolish "thing to have written such a letter." I read the letter down, and I said, "For anyone that is at all "sarcastic, he has laid himself open to criticism." I merely went through the various points of the letter, criticising it, nothing more; and I never saw any answer, nor any copy, nor anything of the kind; in fact, I never saw it till the letter appeared in print.

31,256. Did you find that Harris had taken advantage of your sarcastic suggestion?—I do not know.

31,257. Did you find a great many things that you hinted at were taken up and used?—I dare say many of the expressions were identical.

31,258. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he make notes of your observations?—He must have made mental notes.

31,259. Did he make notes?—No, I think not.

31,260. Are you acquainted with Mr. Dent at all?—Yes; a general acquaintanceship.

31,261. Did you know him before he came here?—No.

31,262. Did you know Mr. Mitchell before he came down?—No.

31,263. Are you aware of the letter written by Mr. Mitchell to the Duke of Somerset after the election of 1863?—No; I read the letter that was written during the election of 1863.

31,264. Was that written by Mr. Mitchell to the Duke of Somerset?—I always considered that it was written by him.

31,265. Did you see it?—After it was printed.

31,266. Who signed it?—I think it was signed "Scrutator."

31,267. Was it published in the form of a placard?—In the form of a handbill.

31,268. (Mr. Harris.) I had a copy of it?—(The Witness.) There were two or three letters published at that time, and one bore the signature of Mr. Robert Harris.

31,269. Do you know the letter of Mr. Dent that was published in the "Standard"?—Not from Mr. Dent, I think.

31,270. I want to find it out. Was it not answered by the Duke of Somerset?—I think not. I never saw any answer.

31,271. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know of Mr. Mitchell writing with his own signature, and getting an answer back upon the subject of the influencing?—No.

31,272. Nor Mr. Dent?—No; neither of them.

31,273. Is there anything you know more?—Nothing more; but I ought to say, with regard to those letters that you are asking about, as soon as the letter appeared it was criticised in one of the Plymouth papers, the "Plymouth Mercury," and there was a strong suggestion thrown out that it came from a clerical pen, and I understood who it was, and I am happy to have this opportunity of saying that I had nothing to do with it, and never knew about its being published until the letter was put into my hands; and there was another letter that I had credit for, which was a letter from Mr. Harris to Mr. Seymour. Mr. Seymour was in this hall, and he spoke rather disparagingly of Mr. Harris's personal appearance, and there was rather a strong letter published at the time. It was said that I was the author of that letter, but I was not.

31,274. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had Mr. Harris the advantage of taking mental notes on that occasion?—No.

31,275. When you saw the letter and answer to Mr. Pender, you thought it was your own production?—No, I did not indeed.

31,276. You said there were identical expressions in this which you had suggested to Mr. Harris?—Not that I had suggested to him.

31,277. The observations that you had made to him in his presence?—Exactly.

31,278. Which he had carried away?—No. I think if you saw the letter you would find that there are many expressions that I would not like to father.

31,279. And some that you would be obliged to father?—Some, no doubt, I made use of.

31,280. Only on that occasion you assisted him?—Yes; I was not aware that he had written any more letters.

31,281. What made Hannaford go against the Conservatives next?—He had been freely forgiven by Mr. Durant, and I am told he shed a great many tears, and expressed great penitence, and Mr. Durant told him that if he would follow the bidding of the Sharpham party in future he should not be turned out.

31,282. In the election time, had he anything given to him to furnish his house with that he was so anxious to take?—I do not know.

WILLIAM HANNAFORD sworn and examined. W. Hannaford.

31,283. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A gardener.

31,284. You live in the house of Mr. Durant?—Yes.

31,285. How long have you lived there?—Sixteen years.

31,286. How long have you had a vote?—I voted at four elections.

31,287. Did you vote in 1857 at Mackenzie's election?—No.

31,288. The first time you voted was at Dunn's election, Mills, Gifford, and Dunn?—Yes.

31,289. How did you vote at that election?—Always voted for the Liberal side, except once.

31,290. You voted for Mills and Gifford?—Yes.

31,291. What did you get for voting?—Nothing. I am not electioneerer.

31,292. Do not be in too great a hurry to say that

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

W. Hannaford.

20 Sept. 1866.

you did not get anything. Did not Mr. Charles Michelmore give you something in 1859?—No.

31,293. Did you get a present afterwards?—No.

31,294. Did you vote for nothing?—Yes. I am not that sort of person. I do not care.

31,295. Did your wife get anything?—No, never.

31,296. What did Mr. Durant say to you about voting at that time? Did he canvass you?—No; he never canvassed me in his life.

31,297. Who canvassed you in 1859 when you voted for Mills and Gifford?—Mr. Mills.

31,298. Who came with him?—I was not at home.

31,299. Did Mr. Parnell canvass you?—No; not to my recollection.

31,300. Did not Mr. Parnell have something to do with you in the election of of 1859?—No.

31,301. Who had to do with you?—Nobody; only Mr. Mills. He came, and I promised him.

31,302. Did he promise you anything?—No.

31,303. In 1862, when Pender and Dent stood, did you vote for Pender when Dent withdrew?—I voted for Pender.

31,304. What did you get that time?—Nothing.

31,305. There were good times in store. In 1863, which way did you vote?—That was rather a curious case. I voted for Dent then.

31,306. You changed your politics?—I did not wish to do that.

31,307. You wished to be taken away and not vote at all?—I did not know. I had no wish to be taken away.

31,308. You were taken away?—That was when I voted for Dent.

31,309. Was it for your getting 200*l.*?—If they choose to give it to me after getting me into trouble.

31,310. Who gave you the 200*l.*?—Mr. Arthur Gill.

31,311. Where did he give it to you?—In my house.

31,312. When?—Not more than a month after.

31,313. When did he promise it?—Afterwards.

31,314. Before they took you away?—It was not promised at all.

31,315. Do you mean to say that you went away not intending to get anything?—The same as if you were to come to me.

31,316. And you were to get nothing for it?—I did not know that I was to have anything.

31,317. You knew that you were to have something?—Upon my honour I did not.

31,318. You are upon your oath; you went to a friend of yours, Mr. Bentley, a bowler?—I do not know where I was.

31,319. Were you so drunk at that time?—I was rather tight.

31,320. How long before the election?—I cannot say.

31,321. You were so two or three days?—He came to me to go for a day's work, and promised to come back.

31,322. You went to the Brixham Road?—Yes.

31,323. You went to Cornworthy the first time?—Yes.

31,324. Were you drunk all the time that you were at Cornworthy?—I drunk rather freely.

31,325. Did you sleep at Cornworthy?—I cannot say.

31,326. You were too drunk to say?—I do not know.

31,327. Do you recollect going to the Brixham Road the next day?—I do not recollect.

31,328. Do you recollect being taken to Torquay?—They told me I was, but I do not recollect it.

31,329. Do you recollect turning up somewhere near Teignmouth?—No; I am not much of a traveller.

31,330. Did you go to a professional bowler's at Teignmouth?—No.

31,331. To Charles Bentley's?—No.

31,332. When were you sufficiently sober that you recollect coming back to vote for Dent?—I do not recollect it.

31,333. Do you recollect voting at all, or were you too drunk; did you not know what you were about?—I did not know.

31,334. Who kept on prompting you to say the word "Dent"?—I do not know.

31,335. Mr. Gill looked after you pretty sharply, I suppose?—I do not know.

31,336. After having got sober enough to say the word "Dent" you got 200*l.*?—I do not know.

31,337. When did you get sober enough to know that you voted for Dent?—About a week after they told me that I had voted for Dent.

31,338. (Mr. Bere.) When did Durant tell you you had voted for Dent?—He never told me.

31,339. But he gave you notice to quit?—Yes.

31,340. How long after that?—I do not know.

31,341. Were you sober then?—Yes.

31,342. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long after the election did he give you notice?—I was to leave at Lady-Day.

31,343. How long after the election did he give you notice?—A month after; I do not exactly know.

31,344. Did he give you notice before you received the 200*l.*, or was it after you received the 200*l.*?—That I cannot tell.

31,345. You must know?—Upon my honour I do not know.

31,346. You do not often get 200*l.* or receive notice to quit?—I do not recollect it.

31,347. Where was that 200*l.* given to you?—In my house.

31,348. In gold?—In notes.

31,349. Small or large notes?—Small notes.

31,350. You have some of the money left now, have not you; did you put it into the bank?—I do not know.

31,351. Did you put it into the bank or keep it?—I do not know.

31,352. You must know, and you must answer; did you put that money into the bank, or did you keep it in the house?—I cannot recollect.

31,353. Did you keep a banking account?—No.

31,354. Then, if you put it into a bank, it would be into a savings bank?—Yes, I believe it was.

31,355. Who put it there?—My missus's brother.

31,356. Who is he?—Mr. Crossman, of Paignton.

31,357. What is his christian name?—John.

31,358. Was the whole of it put into the bank?—What I had to pay, I paid.

31,359. What amount did you pay?—I did not owe very much money.

31,360. Was it nearly all put into the bank?—I believe it was.

31,361. Where at?—Mr. Kitson's bank, I think.

31,362. That is not a savings bank?—It was not a savings bank.

31,363. You opened an account there?—I do not know.

31,364. Did your brother-in-law?—He had it.

31,365. Then he knows all about it?—He did then.

31,366. Where is he?—He lives at Torquay.

31,367. After Mr. Durant gave you notice to quit, did you go and try and beg to stay?—My missis went to him and asked.

31,368. Did you not go and shed a good many tears?—I did not see him.

31,369. Mr. Pender wrote a letter to him for you, and you were allowed to stay?—Yes, I believe so.

31,370. And you were allowed to stay on conditions?—No; I do not know that.

31,371. What did he say about voting right for the future?—I do not know.

31,372. What did he say about voting for the Sharpham party?—If I work for a master I ought to obey him.

31,373. What did Mr. Durant say about the conditions on which you were allowed to stay?—He never said any conditions.

31,374. Did not he say that you should stay on condition that you voted for the Liberal party in future?—No.

31,375. Or voted as he wished you?—No.

31,376. Why did he say you might stay after you got notice to quit?—I do not know.

31,377. He will come and tell us, and you may as well tell us?—Yes, he may.

31,378. What was the reason for his changing his mind?—It was not my fault; Mr. Gill wrote to him and said it was all his fault that I voted the wrong side.

31,379. And did not Mr. Durant say that if you voted right for the future you might stay?—No.

31,380. Did Mr. Gill?—I did not see him.

31,381. When did Mr. Durant canvass you at the last election?—He did not canvass me.

31,382. When did he send to you?—He did not send. I am a poor man and under a master, and ought to obey him.

31,383. Your rent was not a very oppressive matter?—No; but I can show the receipts.

31,384. You have always got it back?—No.

31,385. A great many years you lived rent free?—Yes.

31,386. When did you begin to pay rent?—I think 12 years ago.

31,387. When did you pay rent?—All that time.

31,388. You said you lived rent free at first?—Yes, but I have been there 15 years.

31,389. How long have you paid rent?—12 years.

31,390. Then you paid rent as soon as you got your vote, in 1859?—Yes.

31,391. Whom do you pay the rent to?—To the steward, Mr. Finch.

31,392. Does he throw you something back for luck?—No; and I have got all the receipts at home.

31,393. Did Mr. Finch tell you that you must take care how you voted if you were allowed to stay?—I do not know. He said I was very wrong.

31,394. He knew about the 200*l.*?—I cannot tell.

31,395. He said, "You are very wrong and very "foolish, and must do differently for the future"?—I do not know.

31,396. Did not he say so?—Upon my honour I do not know.

31,397. When did you last pay any rent to him?—Lady-day.

31,398. Have you the receipt here?—No.

31,399. Let us understand this; what was the alteration made in your position when you were told to pay rent?—I said, "I should like to have a vote," and he said, I might rent it if I liked.

31,400. You preferred to pay 10*l.* a year in preference to living rent free?—I thought I should like to rent the house.

31,401. You thought it would be better to have a vote?—No.

31,402. Do you mean to make us believe that you preferred to pay 10*l.* to living rent free?—No.

31,403. You did not pay rent before?—No.

31,404. Is it not returned to you now?—No. I pay the same as any man.

31,405. Have you paid your rent always?—Yes.

31,406. How much have you had back?—None.

31,407. Have you any land?—Two gardens.

31,408. Used you to have those rent free when you had your house rent free?—Yes.

31,409. Have you got any meadows?—No.

31,410. What have you got to compensate you for the 10*l.* rent instead of living rent free?—There are three rooms in the house.

31,411. But what have you got to compensate you for paying 10*l.* a year instead of living rent free?—I do not understand you.

31,412. You lived rent free at first?—Yes.

31,413. Who suggested to you to pay 10*l.* a year?—Nobody.

31,414. Did you go to Mr. Finch?—Yes, and I asked him to let me rent it.

31,415. Was he going to turn you out?—No.

31,416. You might have lived rent free?—Yes.

31,417. Who wished you to rent it?—Mr. Finch.

31,418. I want you to tell the story. I know the arrangement?—I do not know.

31,419. Do you mean to say you pay 10*l.* a year willingly for the house, and get nothing in compensation for it?—No, I do not get anything.

31,420. Be careful. When you lived rent free in the house had not you to keep the path in order?—Yes.

31,421. Since you paid 10*l.* a year have you not got 4*s.* a week for it?—I get 6*s.* a week.

31,422. When you lived rent free you got nothing?—They pay me.

31,423. Not when you lived rent free?—No.

31,424. When you lived rent free you got nothing and now you pay 10*l.* and get 6*s.* a week?—I pay my rent.

31,425. And you get 6*s.* a week?—I get something.

31,426. What did you mean by telling us you got nothing in compensation for not living rent free. You know perfectly well you paid them 10*l.* at their request in order to have a vote?—I do not know.

31,427. You used to live rent free and do the work for nothing?—I do not know.

31,428. When was it that Mr. Finch told you that he would rather you would pay 10*l.* and that you should have a vote?—I cannot say.

31,429. It was Mr. Finch who told you that you had better pay rent?—I do not know.

31,430. Who was it told you that renting the house would give you a vote?—No one.

31,431. It was your request?—Yes.

31,432. Did you say, "If I pay you rent for the "house you must pay me for my work"?—Certainly.

31,433. Was it Mr. Finch or Mr. Durant suggested to you paying for your house and being paid for your work or your own idea?—My own idea.

31,434. Do you mean to swear that?—Yes.

31,435. Be careful?—I do not want to swear to anything untrue.

31,436. You are swearing. You did not tell us about paying for your house and getting 6*s.* a week. You have been shuffling all through?—I have not.

31,437. (Mr. Longe.) You got a profit of 5*l.*?—I pay 10*l.* a year, and I have so much a week.

31,438. You get 5*l.* clear and a vote into the bargain?—I do not wish to tell you any falsehoods about it.

31,439. You voted right in 1865 and voted for the two Liberals in 1865?—Yes.

31,440. What did you get for that?—Nothing.

31,441. Were you not paid afterwards?—No.

31,442. (Mr. Bere.) You have forgotten to tell us something else; what is it you got in 1859?—Nothing.

31,443. Who gave you some money after the election?—No one.

31,444. Or before?—No.

31,445. Or your wife?—Never.

31,446. Nor in 1865, the last election?—No; I never had anything.

31,447. What did your wife get after the last election?—Nothing.

31,448. Was anything left at your house?—Nothing at all.

31,449. Have you received no money whatever for voting last time?—No, nothing.

31,450. If you are marked off in the poll book as having been paid, is that a mistake?—What, the last time?

31,451. 1859, the first time you voted?—I never had anything.

31,452. Who had?—Not me.

31,453. That is a mistake?—Yes.

31,454. Who had it for you?—No one.

31,455. Not your wife?—Never.

31,456. Are you quite certain?—I am quite certain she never had; she would have told me.

31,457. Did you tell her about the 200*l.*?—Yes.

31,458. What did you have the last time?—Nothing.

31,459. What did she have?—Nothing.

31,460. Will you swear that?—Yes; I never had anything.

31,461. Had she?—No.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY

Sarah Pearce.

20 Sept. 1866.

SARAH PEARCE sworn and examined.

31,462. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the wife of John Pearce?—Yes.

31,463. Do you remember the election of 1859, when Mr. Dunn stood?—Really I cannot particularly explain the dates.

31,464. Do you remember Mr. Robert Harris coming to you and Mr. Smith, and some money being left at your house?—There was a gentleman came.

31,465. Do you know who he was?—He told me he was sent by Mr. Harris.

31,466. How long before the election did he come?—The day before the polling.

31,467. Who was in the room?—I think my husband was in the kitchen, and I think he said his business was with Mrs. Pearce.

31,468. And did your husband walk out of the room?—I took him into a private room.

31,469. What took place there?—The stranger put his hand in his pocket, and took out a handfull of sovereigns, at least I believe they were; I never had it. He said "I have 40 sovereigns for you." I said, "My husband does not vote that side"; but he said, "Oh, you must take it."

31,470. Had he told you what side your husband was to vote for it?—No, he did not say what side, only that Mr. Harris sent him.

31,471. Then when you knew that Mr. Harris sent him you knew what side he wanted your husband to vote?—Yes, certainly.

31,472. What did he say upon that?—He said if that would not do he would bring 10*l.* more in the evening.

31,473. What did you say to that?—I went and told my husband about it.

31,474. What did he say?—He said the best way to decide matters would be to shut up the doors and go to bed.

31,475. Did you do so?—Yes, we did so; we went to bed, and we heard a knock at the door.

31,476. What time did you go to bed?—About 9 o'clock.

31,477. What became of the 40*l.*?—I do not know; he never put it out of his hand in my house.

31,478. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes, quite certain.

31,479. He did not put it out of his hand at all?—No, held it in his hand, as that might be (describing).

31,480. What did he say?—He said, "There is 40 "sovereigns for you."

31,481. What did you say?—I said, "My husband "does not vote on that side;" and he said, "Oh, but "you must take it;" but I did not. He never put it out of his hand.

31,482. When did you go to bed?—Nine in the evening.

31,483. Who came to you before you got up the next morning?—No one in the morning; but I looked at the window and there were two men at the door.

31,484. When was that?—Just after nine.

31,485. Was there a knock at the door?—Yes.

31,486. Who were the two men?—I cannot say. I supposed it might be the man who was there with the money who had promised to come.

31,487. What did the two men say?—They did not say anything. I never opened the window.

31,488. Did not they call out to you?—No, they knocked at the door and lifted the latch.

31,489. The door was locked?—Oh, yes; we never go to bed without locking the door.

31,490. Is that all you know about the 40 sovereigns at that election?—Yes, until the following day after the polling.

31,491. What happened then?—Mr. Sampson came there, which I never saw the man before, and he said he came to demand the 40 sovereigns which had been left the day before, and I said there was nothing left there, and he said there must have been. I said, "Is "the man in the town who said he left it?" and he said, "Yes," and I said, "That is the man to bring "to me."

31,492. You said he had not left any?—Yes.

31,493. Had anybody left any money at that time?—No.

31,494. When did they first begin to leave money at your husband's house?—I do not know, I am sure.

31,495. You do, because you have refreshed his memory since he was here before, and he says that you remembered more than he did?—I believe he did not put in before another 10*l.*, and I said, "Why did "not you do so?" and he said it was so long after that I did not say anything about that.

31,496. When did you get the money from Mr. Parnell he told us about?—I went to Mrs. Parnell for the milk bill, and she said "Come in," and she gave me a parcel in an envelope with 20 sovereigns, and she says, "Here is a present for you."

31,497. Where did you get the 10*l.*?—From Mr. Parnell.

31,498. Where did you get it?—In my kitchen.

31,499. Did he come up to you on purpose?—Yes.

31,500. Had you been to ask him for it or anything at all?—No.

31,501. Had you seen Mr. Parnell before you got the 20*l.* from his wife, to talk to him about the election?—I think he called at our house to know whether he was going to vote for him.

31,502. What did you tell him?—I told him he must do what he could for master; that is all. I got no sum; he must see what he could do, and he must pay what he pleased.

31,503. Then he paid you 20*l.* and then 10*l.*?—Yes, a long time afterwards.

31,504. Did you look at the money in the envelope?—Not till I came home.

31,505. Were you disappointed or pleased?—I did not feel disappointed; we never looked for a certain sum. I was very thankful.

31,506. Did you not go down to Mr. Parnell and say it was not enough?—No.

31,507. Did you not let your dissatisfaction reach his ears somehow or other?—No, I did not say that; I had got a little bargain.

31,508. Now, about the two sums of 20*l.* in Mills' time?—Twice in Mills' time.

31,509. Do you remember what time it was that you got it?—I cannot.

31,510. Did you get them at both the elections?—I got them at both times.

31,511. Who from; Mr. Parnell?—From Mr. Parnell.

31,512. At his house?—I never had any connexion with him at his house or anyone.

31,513. Did he bring it to you?—He brought it to me.

31,514. Was it in gold?—Yes.

31,515. What did you get last time?—Three twenties and a ten I had; that was all we had at those elections.

31,516. None at the last time?—Not a farthing.

31,517. How was that?—We never looked for it.

31,518. Did you find it without looking for it?—No.

31,519. Did you see Mr. Parnell about it?—No; I was rather surprised that I had not been spoken to.

31,520. Did he call on you?—No, never but once.

31,521. Did you hear that a good many people got money last time?—Yes.

31,522. How is it that you did not get it?—Bad luck, I suppose.

31,523. (Mr. Longe.) When this stranger came in 1859 who was in your house?—No one but me and my husband.

31,524. Were you in a room together?—We were sitting down at dinner; the stranger came, rapped at the door, and said, "My business is with you; are you "Mrs. Pearce?"

31,525. Whom did he ask for?—Mrs. Pearce. I said,

" I am the person." He said, " My business is with " you."

31,526. Your husband was present ?—Yes, but not with us ; he was in the other room.

31,527. Whom did he first address ?—I went to the door.

31,528. He asked you what your name was ?—He asked me if I was Mrs. Pearce; I told him, " Yes." He said, " My business is with you."

31,529. Did you not ask him what his business was when your husband was present ?—I took him into the other room, as we were at dinner.

31,530. Your husband knew what the business was about ?—No, not till after.

31,531. You say when this gentleman came, the stranger, you turned your husband out of the house and took him into a private room ?—No; he stopped at his dinner.

31,532. You said your husband went away ?—No; he still continued at his dinner.

31,533. While your husband was at his dinner you were having this conversation with the stranger ?—Yes.

31,534. (Mr. Bere.) Have you seen Mr. Parnell at all since this Commission has been sitting ?—No, I have not.

31,535. Has he called at your house ?—No.

31,536. Or have you gone down to him ?—No.

31,537. Not even to the post-office ?—No.

31,538. (Mr. Longe.) Did the stranger give you any reason for speaking to you, and not your husband ?—He said his business was with me.

31,539. It was more a matter for your husband than you ?—No, it was not; that was how it was.

31,540. It was his vote, not yours ?—I told him my husband did not vote on that side ; he never did.

31,541. Did your husband tell him so ?—He did not speak to him.

31,542. It would have been more satisfactory if he had spoken to your husband ; there would have been no doubt about it ?—I knew he would not do it.

31,543. (Mr. Bere.) Have you been a Conservative ?—No.

31,544. Were you a Liberal previous to that time ?—I never had anything to do with elections till we came to Totnes.

31,545. Where did you live before ?—In Cornwall.

31,546. Where ?—St. Germains.

31,547. (Mr. Longe.) Had you not seen any one calling upon you about your husband's votes ?—I thought we had been passed over. I remember that, as no one came round to our house, he says, "It is " because I am a straightforward man."

31,548. Did not Mr. Harris call upon you about your husband's votes ?—I did see him at my house about some parish business.

31,549. Did you not tell Mr. Harris that you could get your husband's vote ?—No ; I was certain that he would not vote for Mr. Harris ; he did not like him so well.

31,550. Did he ask you whether you could get your husband's vote ?—Yes, he did.

31,551. When was it Mr. Harris asked you to get your husband's vote ?—I do not know when it was ; he came in about some parish business.

31,552. Shortly before or since ?—It must have been about the time.

31,553. What did you tell Mr. Harris ?—I told him he would not vote that side.

31,554. You say that on your oath ?—He says, " He will if you have a sum of money." I said, " No, he will not."

31,555. (Mr. Coleridge.) At the time of the election were you supplying Mrs. Parnell with milk ; I mean the last election ?—No.

31,556. When did you cease to supply her with milk ?—I have not served her for many years.

31,557. You served her at the election of 1863 ?—I served her at the time Mr. Pearce came first.

31,558. In 1859 ?—Yes; I did not long after that ; I was rather out of the way.

31,559. Had you a quarrel with them ?—No. My daughter was at school at the time.

31,560. You thought he behaved ill in not sending up to you ?—I wondered he had not called.

31,561. You looked forward again to something at the election that is gone, of course ?—Well, sir, I did. I had none.

RICHARD ANDREWS sworn and examined.

31,562. (Mr. Longe.) What are you ?—A currier.

31,563. How long have you had a vote for the borough ?—About 20 years.

31,564. How did you vote in 1859 ?—I always voted for the Liberals.

31,565. Always, at every election ?—At every election.

31,566. Have you ever been canvassed by the Conservatives ?—Yes, always, I believe.

31,567. In 1852, when Barry Baldwin was the Conservative candidate, who canvassed you at that election ?—I really cannot tell. I dare say Mr. Baldwin did.

31,568. You remember if you told Mr. Baldwin whether he could have your vote when he called ?—No, I do not. I have always, in fact, told them that I should not vote for them invariably.

31,569. When he called did you tell him that ?—I have always invariably told them so. I cannot recollect the words I said to Mr. Baldwin. I will not swear that he did call ; most likely he did.

31,570. Had you not a visit from some one on behalf of the Conservatives after Mr. Baldwin left ?—No.

31,571. Did not Robert Armstrong call upon you ?—No.

31,572. What relation of yours is Robert Armstrong ?—None.

31,573. Do you know him ?—Yes, I know him.

31,574. What are his politics ?—He is a Liberal, I believe.

31,575. When was the time that Robert Armstrong left some money at your house ?—Never.

31,576. Have you never had any present through Robert Armstrong from the Liberals ?—Never in my life.

31,577. At what election was it that Robert Armstrong had dealings with you about the election ?—None.

31,578. Something must have taken place between you ?—None ; he never spoke to me about the election in his life.

31,579. Have you a wife ?—I have.

31,579*. Was any money left at your house by Robert Armstrong ?—Never.

31,580. Or anyone else ?—Now I must tell you the truth. I am very sorry to say that at that election I had been very unfortunate, and I had found that I was rather hard up ; I had a present of 50*l.* ; that is the only money, so help me God, that I had then or at any other time.

31,581. That was in 1852 ?—It was at Barry Baldwin and Mills' election.

31,582. Who was it that made you that present ?—James Armstrong.

31,583. Is he a relation of yours ?—Well, I do not know.

31,584. (Mr. Bere.) A brother-in-law, is he not ?—No, he married my sister-in-law.

31,585. (Mr. Longe.) At this time you say you had 50*l.* ?—I had.

31,586. How was it left ?—Brought and given to me.

31,587. How long after or before the election ?—It was on the day after the election.

31,588. Did not you ask him for it before it was brought to you ?—No. I never expected a penny.

31,589. You said you were so unfortunate ?—I should not have taken it if I had not been unfortunate in business. I solemnly swear I never took a penny or asked for a penny from either side since, but at that time I met with some heavy losses, and I thought that a 50*l.* would do me, and it did me, good when it was brought to me.

31,590. James Armstrong brought it?—Yes.

31,591. Where did he get it from?—I cannot tell you.

31,592. Did you not ask him about it?—No, I did not.

31,593. What did he tell you?—He merely asked me if I was in a mind to accept 50*l.* I told him I had no objection; it would do me good just then.

31,594. At the late elections have you not had communication with Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore?—Never.

31,595. At the time of the elections?—No, never.

31,596. Has he ever come to you and canvassed you and talked about your vote?—He has never been to talk about my vote; he might have been with Mr. Mills, or Mr. Pender, or Mr. Seymour, I am sure I cannot say who; he very often goes about canvassing.

31,597. Has he never offered you a present?—Never, I swear.

31,598. Do you swear that no one has ever made you a present at any of these later elections?—No one.

31,599. Or your wife?—Nor my wife.

31,600. Have you never received a farthing?—Not a farthing, not in any shape.

31,601. Have you ever had an offer made on the Conservative side?—Never.

31,602. Have you ever paid any one or taken any part in getting any votes?—No, I never took an active part in it at all.

31,603. Have you seen Mr. Parnell lately?—Very often.

31,604. You have been to him several times since we have been sitting here?—No.

31,605. You have been to him within the last two or three days?—I dare say; I had business with him last week about a person who owes me some money that he has got something to do with.

31,606. When you were talking to Mr. Parnell about this, did you not speak to him about this 50*l.*?—I never did in my life. I never told any one about it till now.

31,607. Did you have no conversation with Mr. Parnell about what was going on in this court?—No, never.

31,608. Not during this last fortnight or three weeks?—No, not concerning myself, but in a general way.

31,609. Have you had any conversation about the bribery on the Liberal side?—No, I have not.

31,610. You swear that?—I do swear it.

31,611. Not about bribery on the Liberal side?—No.

31,612. What was the business you went to Mr. Parnell about?—There is a person indebted to me and also to him, that is in difficulties, and he had got the management of the affairs, that is all.

31,613. You say you have had some conversation about election matters since this Commission; what was it?—I do not know that I had any conversation at all about it.

31,614. You say you had some conversation about other persons, not yourself?—I have not mentioned a person's name about it.

31,615. Has he mentioned a person's name to you.—No.

31,616. (Mr. Bere.) Were you in business in 1852 as a currier?—Yes.

31,617. You have been in business since that time in the same way?—Yes.

31,618. Whom have you dealt with, whom have you supplied principally, Liberals or Conservatives?—My trade does not lie in Totnes.

31,619. Where does it lie then?—I do a great deal at Dartmouth, Torquay, Paignton, and Brixham.

31,620. You are in a large way of business now?—Middling; Kingsbridge, and Salcombe.

31,621. Had you anything to do with Mr. Corney at the time he was unfortunate?—No.

31,622. Did he owe you any money just before the election of 1859?—No, sir.

31,623. It has been said here that he did?—No, he did not.

31,624. Are you quite sure about that?—Quite sure.

31,625. Had you supplied him with any goods just before the election?—No.

31,626. Have you ever supplied him with goods?—I have within the last year or two.

31,627. Not before that?—No, I do not know; he dealt with me some 20 years ago or more. I think he had a little with me, but he never did a great deal with me.

31,628. Did you not go down to the "Seymour" hotel at the time of the election?—Yes, many times.

31,629. You went to see the Liberal committee there?—Never.

31,630. When used you to go?—If there was a meeting of an evening I have been there.

31,631. You went into the big room, where there was drinking going on and had a glass of grog?—Yes, I did.

31,632. Did you not talk about how you were going to vote?—No.

31,633. Never?—No, never.

31,634. Never said a word about it?—No.

31,635. Was it supposed from your going there to drink grog that you were going to vote for the Liberals?—I always did, and they always supposed I did.

31,636. Did you ever see Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore at the "Seymour" hotel?—I cannot swear that I did.

31,637. Did you talk to him?—No, I never talked to him about it.

31,638. Are you a farmer as well as a currier?—No, I am not.

31,639. You buy the skins ready dressed?—No tanned, and I curry them.

31,640. Where is the principal market for tanned skins?—Different places. I deal a good deal with Vicary of Newton.

31,641. Do you buy them from him ready tanned?—Yes.

31,642. Did you have anything to do with Mr. Jeffery Michelmore in the way of buying things of him?—No.

31,643. Did you rent any land of him?—No.

31,644. Who is your landlord?—Myself.

31,645. How long have you been your own landlord?—Ever since I have been in the house.

31,646. Were you your landlord in 1852?—Yes.

31,647. When you were unfortunate?—Yes.

31,648. Is it a freehold?—Yes.

31,649. How long have you had it?—Ever since my father's death.

31,650. Are your workshops there?—Yes.

31,651. And yards, or do you hire them?—No, it is all my own.

31,652. You had nothing to do with Mr. Michelmore in any shape or way?—No, not at all, and no one else.

31,653. You solemnly swear that you never received a single 6*d.* except that 50*l.*?—I do.

31,654. Neither directly or indirectly?—Neither directly nor indirectly.

31,655. No daughter on your behalf?—No.

31,656. Or a son?—I have no son.

31,657. Nor a daughter?—No.

31,658. (Mr. Coleridge.) There was something about 50*l.* or 60*l.*, what was that?—I do not know.

31,659. Did Mr. Charles Michelmore say anything to you about it?—No.

31,660. Nor Mr. Parnell?—No.

31,661. Did you borrow any money in 1862?—No.

31,662. Did you ever borrow any money of Mr. Michelmore?—No.

31,663. Did you ever ask him to lend you any?—No.

31,664. Nor Mr. Parnell?—No.

31,665. Or anybody about the time of the election of 1863?—No, never; wherever you get your information from you have been very much misinformed.

31,666. (Mr. Bere.) Our information about you is rather singular; we have received information from both sides that you took bribes?—I can only say you are misinformed.

31,667. It is odd, to say the least of it?—I solemnly swear that that is the only sum I have mentioned.

31,668. What passed between you and Mr. Parnell?—Nothing.

31,669. There must have been something passed; you went up about business, and about somebody who owed you some money?—Yes.

31,670. Is the person who owed you the money a man who has been examined as a witness?—No, he never had a vote.

31,671. Has he not been examined as a witness?—Not that I know of.

31,672. Did you talk on another subject besides the business?—No.

31,673. Are you quite sure about that?—Quite.

31,674. How long were you there?—Not five minutes.

31,675. What had Mr. Parnell got to do with it?—This party owed him money as well.

31,676. Were you going to put a mutual pressure on him?—Mr. Parnell has got the business in his hands, and he told me some little time ago there would be about 5*s.* in the pound. If there would be I meant to take it.

31,677. Mr. Parnell has been arranging the compensation for this person, has he?—Yes.

SAMUEL GOODMAN sworn and examined. S. Goodman.

31,678. (Mr. Bere.) Is your name Samuel?—Yes.

31,679. Do you keep the "Oxford Arms"?—Yes.

31,680. How long have you kept it?—About six years.

31,681. That is a good Liberal house, is it not?—Yes.

31,682. Have you always had a committee room there?—It is not a Liberal house in one sense.

31,683. What is it, an illiberal house?—Every person must pay for what he has.

31,684. Liberals do come there a good deal?—Yes, they do come.

31,685. You are a Liberal, and you vote for the Liberals, do you not?—Yes.

31,686. And the Conservatives too?—No, I did not vote at all this last time.

31,687. You had not got a vote at the last time?—No.

31,688. Why did you not vote the last time?—Because I was rather too late.

31,689. Did you come down to the "Seven Stars" and find that the money box was shut?—Yes.

31,690. Did you ask Mr. Edmonds whether he could not get you 60*l.*?—Yes, I did.

31,691. That was it?—That was the truth of it.

31,692. When did you ask him that?—That very morning that the box was shut.

31,693. If you had asked him before you might have got it?—Perhaps I might.

31,694. How came you to ask him for the money that morning?—Because I thought it was high time, if I was going to have anything.

31,695. Had you heard there was money going about there then?—Yes, I had.

31,696. Had you intended to vote for the Conservatives?—No, I did not intend.

31,697. You intended to vote for the other side, did you not?—I intended to vote for the Liberals.

31,698. Did you talk to any one about it, how you were going to vote?—Yes, I did.

31,699. Whom did you talk to?—I talked to several people.

31,700. Give us the names of one or two?—I gave my word, because I sent a petition like up to get the members down.

31,701. You signed the requisition?—I did.

31,702. Therefore you thought you were bound to vote for one of the Conservatives?—Yes, I did.

31,703. You would not have done so without getting some money?—The rest had money, and I thought I might have some.

31,704. Who told you the money was going about?—Oh, several people.

31,705. Let us have somebody whose information you could depend on; did anybody show any money to you?—No; there was a poor old fellow who is dead, Mogridge, he told me he should take 50*l.*; he only had 25*l.* That is all I can give you; that is all I know about it.

31,706. Was he the only person that told you?—I do not recollect any person else.

31,707. When did he tell you that?—When he went down; after that he came up and was very well pleased.

31,708. Some of the people were paid in your house?—I think there was one party.

31,709. Dennis was paid?—I do not know how much he got.

31,710. You know he was paid?—Yes.

31,711. Who paid him?—Mr. Narramore.

31,712. In what room of your house?—In the back room.

31,713. Were you not in the house then?—I was about the house, but I never saw Mr. Narramore there.

31,714. Had you not told anybody on the Liberal side how you were going to vote?—They all knew of it; I had voted for the Conservatives, and I should vote that way.

31,715. The Liberals and the Conservatives too?—The Liberals had not got any hand with me at all.

31,716. Did they not come down and canvass you?—Yes, they did come; one did. I never saw them afterwards.

31,717. Who was that?—I think Mr. Pender.

31,718. Did he come by himself, or was somebody with him?—Some one came with him.

31,719. Mr. Michelmore?—No, I do not think Mr. Michelmore.

31,720. Was it Mr. Brooking Cuming or Mr. Windeatt?—I do not know.

31,721. Did you shake your head and say you could not give him a vote?—I did.

31,722. How had you voted when Mr. Dent was here?—I voted for Dent.

31,723. You thought it would be to your interest to vote for the Liberals?—The Conservatives.

31,724. How much did you get for voting for Mr. Dent?—60*l.*

31,725. Who gave you that?—Mr. Edmonds.

31,726. Where did he give it you?—In his office.

31,727. When, how long before the election, before or after?—I think it must be a week before the election.

31,728. Did you go up and ask for it?—He sent for me to come up to him.

31,729. Whom did he send down, Diggins, his clerk?—Some person. I had got word to come up. I never keep an account of such things.

31,730. You went up and got 60*l.* from Mr. Edmonds?—I did.

31,731. Where did he take it from, out of a chest?—Out of a desk.

31,732. In his office?—Yes.

31,733. Was it in gold or notes?—Gold.

31,734. You put it in your pocket and went home happy?—I did.

31,735. And voted for Dent?—I did.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

S. Goodman.

20 Sept. 1866.

31,736. What did you get in 1859 from Mr. Dunn?—I got 20*l.*

31,737. Who got it for you?—John Heath.

31,738. Were you paid it at the "Seven Stars," or where?—It was paid to my wife at our own house.

31,739. Your wife got it?—Yes.

31,740. Who paid her?—Mr. John Heath.

31,741. You voted for Dent in 1863 and got 60*l.* for doing it; did you not vote for Pender in 1862?—Yes, I did.

31,742. What made you do that?—Because there was no opposition. I was one of three that went down to give a vote.

31,743. Did you not get something for doing that?—No.

31,744. Not after the election?—Not a farthing.

31,745. Did not Mr. Parnell come to you then?—I never saw him in my life.

31,746. Nor Mr. Holman?—No, no one.

31,747. Did Mr. Holman ever see you about your vote?—No.

31,748. Nor Mr. Condy?—He never spoke about a vote to me in his life.

31,749. Thomas Sandford Screach, did he come to you?—No one came.

31,750. Did no one come to you on the Liberal side in 1863 when you voted for Mr. Dent?—There was one came to me, but not to pay me any money.

31,751. Who was it that came to you?—Lor a' mercy I cannot tell you, there were a many that came.

31,752. You were told you could get something?—They never told me that.

31,753. You know you could get something if you had gone on that side?—No.

31,754. Who told you that?—I think it was Mr. Michelmore; I think he came there one time and asked me to give him a favour, but I could not do it.

31,755. He would have done you a favour if you had done it?—I dare say he would.

31,756. Did he mention how much the favour would have been?—He never mentioned a word to me about money, not a single word. He was a great friend to my son.

31,757. Where is your son?—Living at Newton.

31,758. What is your son?—A 'bus and cab driver.

31,759. He is a great friend of yours is Mr. Henry Michelmore, did he come down during the time of the election?—He was here during the time of the election.

31,760. Did he try to get your vote for the Liberals in 1863?—He did not say much about it; he knew I was voting always for the Conservatives; he did not say much to me; he was a young man.

31,761. You say you voted always for the Conservatives, did you not always vote for Lord Seymour?—I never in my life did; I have not been here many years.

31,762. When did you come here first?—I voted for Dunn first; that was the first vote I had.

31,763. How did you vote in 1857?—Who were they?—Gifford, Mackenzie, and Gregory.—I was not here.

31,764. Yes you were, your name is Samuel Goodman?—I did not vote.

31,765. You live in Fore Street, Totnes?—Yes, but I had no vote.

31,766. Look at this and see if it will not refresh your memory; there is your name, you voted for Gifford and Mackenzie?—'Pon my soul I forget.

31,767. How much did you get for that?—Not a farthing; I never took a halfpenny from Mr. Dunn.

31,768. Were they Liberals or Conservatives?—I do not believe they are; I do not know the gentlemen.

31,769. Is there anybody else of your name in Totnes?—Yes, I have got a brother Henry.

31,770. Is there anybody called Samuel Goodman?—No, I never heard of him since I have been here.

31,771. When you voted for Mr. Dunn did not some one canvass you for Mills?—No.

31,772. Not at all?—Not at all.

31,773. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you vote at a Liberal election?—Oh yes, I recollect Mr. Mills coming, but I forgot it till now.

31,774. Go on whilst you recollect it?—I voted for Dunn.

31,775. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Mills came and talked to you about it?—Yes.

31,776. Who came with him?—I think Mr. Michelmore, or one of them.

31,777. Did he not say you might get something if you voted for Mr. Mills?—Not a word about it.

31,778. When did your wife get the 20*l.*, what time in the election?—Just before I voted.

31,779. Did you not get some one to go to the other side and tell them?—It was sent to the mistress for a present.

31,780. Do you think you would have got it if you had voted on the other side?—No, not for a certainty.

31,781. (Mr. Coleridge.) You might have had a present from the other parties?—I might.

31,782. If you had had a present from the other party, would you have given them one of your votes in 1857?—I never split my vote.

31,783. You did unless the poll book is wrong; the poll book says you voted for Gifford and Mackenzie?—It is not me; the first election I ever voted for was Dunn's.

31,784. What Samuel Goodman could it be?—I do not know.

31,785. Was there any other Samuel Goodman?—It must be the butcher; I know I never voted before Dunn's election.

31,786. (Mr. Bere.) When did you come to live here?—I have lived here about 13 years.

31,787. Have you always lived at the "Oxford Arms"?—No, six years; there is a change.

31,788. Where were you living nine years ago?—At the "Nelson."

31,789. At the "Lord Nelson"?—Yes.

31,790. What was the rent of the "Lord Nelson"?—20*l.* a year.

31,791. How long have you lived there?—Seven years.

31,792. Did you go to live at the Lord Nelson when you first came to Totnes?—Yes.

31,793. You must have had a vote immediately after you came?—Not unless it took so many years. I did not have a vote before Dunn's election; I never voted before Dunn came here.

31,794. Did you not vote for the elections previously for the council?—No, never.

31,795. Did you have your house kept open?—Yes I had.

31,796. Which way the last time?—Sometimes one way, sometimes the other; according to the way my friends were.

31,797. Which way were your friends last time?—If you ask me whether I voted I would tell you at once.

31,798. What did you get the last time?—Not a farthing.

31,799. You got the bill paid by Mr. Condy, did you not?—What, the last time?

31,800. Yes.—Not a farthing.

31,801. The time before that?—Not a farthing; I did not have a farthing's worth; I had a privilege, people coming and drinking a little, for which I got a profit.

31,802. You had a profit out of it the last time from the Liberal party?—It was nothing more than at another time about the electioneering.

31,803. Whom did you vote for in 1863?—I almost forget.

31,804. Did they not hold meetings of the Liberal party at your house, and pay you for the use of the room?—No, not in 1863.

31,805. At any time?—They did five or six years agone. I think it must be 1861; there was a party then that engaged my room, the large room.

31,806. And they used to hold a meeting in it?—I never saw them there but once.

31,807. What did they pay you for the use of the room?—Nothing at all; more than what they had to eat and drink.

31,808. You charged for the room?—No more than if you came eating and drinking, I should not charge you for the room.

31,809. Was that all the money you had?—That is all the money I had.

THEODORE BRYETT sworn and examined.

31,810. You are a solicitor practising at Totnes?—I am.

31,811. How long have you practised?—I have been here 24 years.

31,812. Did you succeed to Mr. Charles Edward's business?—I did.

31,813. You have a partner of the name of Hare?—Yes.

31,814. How long has he been a partner?—Since the first of January.

31,815. Was he a partner at the time of the last election?—That is to say he was with me for some time out of practice; in fact he had not been in practice from the time he was admitted for three years; he only came into my office for a short time preparatory to his entering into business on his own account.

31,816. There has been a statement made here that you sent Mr. Parnell, a gardener, to a voter named Crawford to offer him a sum of money for his vote, is that true?—No, certainly not.

31,817. Do you know Mr. Parnell?—I have known him the last 20 years.

31,818. Have you heard what he stated; did he see Crawford when he was working for you?—He has been for some time, for the last 12 months, employed by me.

31,819. Not before then?—Merely occasionally; he has supplied me since last November 12 months; before that I merely occasionally dealt with him.

31,820. Did you ever speak to Parnell about election matters?—Never; but in years gone by mere passing conversation as to the weather, and so on; I never had a conversation with him about a bribe in any way whatever.

31,821. Did you ever talk to him about his vote?—Never; I always knew him to be a Conservative, and therefore I never thought it necessary to ask him.

31,822. Did you know Mr. Crawford?—Only by repute in the town.

31,823. Did you not know him personally? did he ever have any work for you?—Not on his own account, but he has worked for Harris, the painter, and has worked at my house for him, but not on his own account.

31,824. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you hear of the Seymour carriage?—I have heard of it.

31,825. Have you ever tried it?—Never.

31,826. Have you heard the report about Crawford saying Mr. Parnell had come to him and intimated he had been sent by you, and that then he went and saw Crawford?—Immediately I heard of it I saw Parnell, and I immediately called his attention to the report, and asked him whether he mentioned my name.

31,827. What did Mr. Parnell say?—He said, "Certainly not; how could I when I never spoke to him."

31,828. Did you go with Mr. Parnell to Harris's shop?—I requested him to go down to Harris's, and Crawford happened to be there. The subject was mentioned: Crawford persisted in saying he had mentioned my name; Parnell persisted that it was a great falsehood; but I see in the report in the papers it was stated he had been heard to say, going down Castle Street, he would not have my name mentioned. No such observation was made in my presence.

31,829. (Mr. Coleridge.) You went down on the bridge, was it in the presence of Searle?—Going down Castle Street.

31,830. That is when the man called Searle was present?—Yes.

31,831. Not when you were present at all?—That is the only election; I never interfered in any election, directly or indirectly.

JOHN FARLEY sworn and examined.

J. Farley.

31,832. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—In New Passage.

31,833. What are you?—A quarryman and lime burner.

31,834. How long have you had a vote?—Ever since Mr. Dent's time.

31,835. Was that the first time you voted?—Yes.

31,836. Who did you vote for then?—Mr. Dent.

31,837. What did you get?—20*l.*

31,838. Who gave it you?—Mr. George Heath.

31,839. Where?—At my own house.

31,840. Had he seen you before?—No.

31,841. Did he walk up and bring 20*l.* with him and pay it to you without you knowing anything about it?—Yes.

31,842. Was that when Mr. Dent went to the poll, when he stood against Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

31,843. That was the first time you had a vote?—Yes.

31,844. Whom did you see on the other side?—No one.

31,845. Nobody came near you?—No.

31,846. Did not Mr. Seymour come and canvass you?—He may have, I was not at home.

31,847. Did he see your wife?—Yes.

31,848. What did he say to her?—Asked if I was at home, and she said no. He said, I wanted to ask him a favour; she said, It is no use, he will not vote your side.

31,849. What did he say to your wife then?—I do not know.

31,850. Did not your wife tell you?—No.

31,851. Did any one come and see your wife?—No one.

31,852. Mr. Dent?—No.

31,853. Mr. Pender?—I saw no one.

31,854. (Mr. Bere.) You got your 20*l.* which Mr. George Heath brought up?—Yes.

31,855. In sovereigns?—Yes.

31,856. Whom did you vote for in 1865?—Dawkins and Pim.

31,857. How much did you get?—10*l.*

31,858. Who gave you that?—Mr. John Heath.

31,859. Was that at the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

31,860. (Mr. Coleridge.) You only got 10*l.*?—He promised my wife 40*l.*, and gave me 10*l.*

31,861. Did he pay the balance to your wife?—No.

31,862. Then you only got 10*l.*?—Yes, I only got 10*l.*

31,863. What became of the other 30*l.*?—I suppose they had it in their own pocket.

31,864. (Mr. Longe.) When did you get the 10*l.*?—On the polling day.

31,865. (Mr. Bere.) Did you take it yourself?—Yes; Mr. Heath called me in and gave me 10*l.*

31,866. Did not you say, "You promised me 40*l.*?"—He said, "there is more to come yet," I said, "I "know there is more to come, but I have never seen "it."

31,867. (Mr. Bere.) Is your wife at home?—She was when I came away.

31,868. Ask her to come up here. Did not you see any body on the Liberal side at the last election?—No.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

J. Farley.

20 Sept. 1866.

31,869. Whom do you work for?—I work for any person.

31,870. Where do you quarry generally?—I have been working at the Bridgetown buildings the last three or four years.

31,871. For the building society?—Yes.

31,872. Have you been taking stone out of a quarry?—Yes.

31,873. Who pays you?—They who take the buildings.

31,874. The people who contract for them?—Yes.

31,875. Has John Heath anything to do with paying you for quarrying the stone?—No.

31,876. You are out all day I suppose?—Yes.

31,877. And your wife stays at home?—Yes.

31,878. I suppose all persons who have called for your vote have seen her and talked to her?—At election times she always worked at the "Stars;" for 17 or 18 years she has.

31,879. What as?—Charing-woman.

31,880. (Mr. Coleridge.) It was rather hard that she should be done out of her 30*l.*?—Well, it was hard.

D. Coombes.

DANIEL COOMBES sworn and examined.

31,881. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A miller.

31,882. Where do you live?—Staverton Bridge.

31,883. What is your qualification?—I am no voter.

31,884. What are your politics?—Rather of Conservative.

31,885. Do you know how John Light, junior, was going to vote at the last election?—Yes, he told me he should vote for Mr. Mills.

31,886. What election was that?—1859.

31,887. You wanted him to vote the other way, did not you?—Yes, and I offered him 60*l.*

31,888. He told us 80*l.*?—I offered him 20*l.* after that.

31,889. You offered it to his wife, did not you?—Well, both, they being in company.

31,890. Did you mean to give it to him?—My instructions were from Mr. John Heath.

31,891. You were to give him first of all 60*l.*, and then 80*l.* if he would stay away or would vote for the Tories?—John Heath told me his vote was worth 60*l.*

31,892. Why did he send you?—I was in company at No. 1 with John Newland, and Light was a friend of mine; and he asked me to go up to him.

31,893. Before you went you went and got instructions from Mr. Heath?—Mr. Heath was there.

31,894. And he said his vote was worth 60*l.*?—Yes.

31,895. What did you ask him to do?—To vote for Mr. Dunn.

31,896. That you offered him 60*l.* for; what did he say?—He intended to vote for Mr. Mills, and no inducement would make him vote for any other.

31,897. When you could not do him at 60*l.*, did you go again there to offer 20*l.* more?—No, at the same time I said, "Will you take 80*l.*?"

31,898. Was his wife present?—I think so; I will not be certain.

31,899. Did you take any money to him?—No.

31,900. Were you to pay him the following day?—I do not know.

31,901. It was merely to try him?—It was merely to try him.

31,902. How long before the election?—Sunday night, and I think the election was on Wednesday.

31,903. How many other voters did you try?—No one else.

31,904. Did Mr. Heath never employ you on any other business?—No.

31,905. Did he in 1863 or 1865?—Nothing of the sort.

31,906. This was the only way you got mixed up with the matter?—That is all. Light was a friend of mine.

31,907. You had nothing to do with his going away?—No.

31,908. Had you anything to do with his father?—Nothing at all.

31,909. Did you say anything to young Light about if he would stay or not vote at all it would be something?—Not that I am aware of.

31,910. In fact you offered him the 80*l.* to vote for Dunn?—I did.

31,911. Do you know what he had from the other side?—I think he has been paid, but what he had I really cannot tell you.

31,912. Did he tell you what he was paid?—No.

31,913. Did he tell you more than 80*l.*?—No, I should not think he had that sum.

J. Fitzpatrick.

JAMES FITZPATRICK recalled.

31,914. (Mr. Bere.) Did you tell us about something that you did in 1863 with the poll book?—No, but I recollected that, and I have put it down since.

31,915. What was it that you did with the poll book in 1863?—I gave it to Mr. Pender.

31,916. Where did you get it from?—I got it from Mr. Narramore.

31,917. Out of Mr. Narramore's pocket?—No.

31,918. Had you been talking to Narramore about your vote?—Yes.

31,919. And did you make Narramore believe you were going to vote on his side?—Well, I believe he considered so.

31,920. And then he showed you his poll book?—Yes.

31,921. It was Mr. Kellock's poll book was not it?—No, I believe it was Mr. Harris's.

31,922. Are you quite sure it was not Mr. Kellock's?—I am not sure, but I understood at the time it was Mr. Harris's.

31,923. Did you take that down to the "Seymour Arms" and show it to Mr. Pender?—Yes.

31,924. And did he give you 25*l.* for the sight?—No.

31,925. How much did you get?—Not a farthing.

31,926. Who did give you the money?—No one, never a penny.

31,927. How much did you get afterwards?—Nothing at all.

31,928. What became of the book?—I do not know what became of the book, but I did not get it again.

31,929. You got something instead of it?—No.

31,930. From no one at all?—Not a single farthing.

31,931. Did you get nothing from either side at that election?—Not a halfpenny whatever, nor any promise to that effect.

31,932. Are you quite sure about that?—Quite sure.

31,933. [Addressing Mr. Powming.] Did not Mr. Pender tell you something about this?—About the poll book? Yes.

31,934. What was it?—Mr. Pender speaking of the great disgust that he had at Totnes with regard to certain proceedings, said the first thing that disgusted him was the presentation of the poll book to him of the other side.

31,935. Did he tell you what he had given?—No.

31,936. Did he tell you whether he gave anything?—No, he was merely speaking of his general feeling of disgust about how things had been conducted; he said, that had impressed him most unfavorably.

31,937. [To Mr. Fitzpatrick.] What day were you examined?—The day before yesterday; but I had promised to vote for Mr. Pender previous to giving him this.

31,938. (Mr. Coleridge.) How did you get this from Mr. Narramore?—Well, we were speaking about the election, and he let me have the book to look at it.

31,939. And then you took it away without his leave?—No.

31,940. Did he let you keep it?—Yes.

31,941. Did he not ask you afterwards why you had not brought it back to him?—I do not remember his having asked me; he had a copy himself.

31,942. Then he never did ask you for this book back again?—I do not recollect his ever asking.

31,943. He did not know what you had done with it?—No.

31,944. (Mr. Bere.) Is there anything else you wish to tell us?—Yes. After I left here the other day I met Narramore, and in speaking about the election, what took place here that day, the 50*l.* which was paid——.

31,945. Which was given to you for voting for Mr. Dent?—Yes; but there was an understanding to this effect, that if the houses were bought by that party down there that 50*l.* was to be deducted.

31,946. The houses were not bought?—No.

31,947. Had you not offered those houses to the Liberal party at the election before?—Yes, I had tried to sell them for some time.

31,948. And you did not mind who bought them?—No.

31,949. And whoever bought them you would have voted for?—Very likely.

31,950. (Mr. Coleridge.) If they had given you the price?—There was only a fair price asked, even then.

31,951. (Mr. Bere.) How was it you came to be over here at the last election; you had not a vote?—I had just left.

31,952. You had not a vote at all?—I was living here in the place up to Christmas.

31,953. (Mr. Longe.) But you had not a vote?—No.

31,954. You did not vote?—Not this last time.

31,955. (Mr. Bere.) But it was this last time that you got this poll book, was not it?—No.

31,956. Was it when Pender stood against Dent?—Yes.

31,957. In 1862?—Yes.

31,958. (Mr. Longe.) And then you voted for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

J. Fitzpatrick.

20 Sept. 1866.

Eliza Farley sworn and examined.

Eliza Farley.

31,959. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Heath promise you 40*l.* at the last election, and did you get 10*l.*?—Yes.

31,960. What was it that occurred about it?—I was in the pantry at work when Mr. Heath came and said, "Eliza, what did you get at the last election?" I said, "My husband got 20*l.* and I had 10*l.*" "Very "well then," he said, "that is 30*l.*, and I will give "you 40*l.*;" but I never received any, and my husband received 10*l.*

31,961. Was that all that John Heath said to you?—Yes.

31,962. Have you never said anything to Mr. John Heath since?—No; I have never said anything to him since, because my husband said, when he gave him the 10*l.*, there was some more to come.

31,963. But no more has come?—No.

31,964. Have you not asked Mr. John Heath about it?—No.

31,965. Did not you ask Mr. John Heath whether he got it, and why he did not pay it?—No; I considered it, but I never asked him.

31,966. I should ask him about it?—I must not ask.

31,967. You must not! Is it a pretty good place as charwoman at the "Seven Stars"?—I said I might not ask. But I do not work for Mr. Heath; I work for the waiter.

31,968. I want to know whether you work for Mr. Heath as his servant?—I worked for Mr. Webb before, 10 years.

31,969. That is before Mr. Heath came?—Yes; and I have worked since under the waiter.

31,970. Cleaned the glasses up?—When he is busy I help him to attend the rooms, and assist him on Saturdays. That is my work.

31,971. Is it only Saturdays that you work there?—Unless it is races or fairs.

31,972. Or elections?—Yes.

31,973. How long before the last election was it hat Mr. Heath promised you the 40*l.*?—I think two days.

31,974. You never reminded him?—I think he ought to have reminded me.

31,975. You think he ought to?—He minded others; I think he ought to have minded me, being a slave to the house for many years.

31,976. You thought, I suppose, being at his house, that your husband ought to vote that way?—No; my husband always voted that way.

31,977. Have you ever gone to see whether you could get a little more from the other side?—No; no one ever offered me.

31,978. I did not ask you that. Have you not gone to say whether you could not get a little more?—No.

31,979. Are you quite certain about that?—Yes.

31,980. What did you get at the election before?—Before, my husband had 25*l.* and I had 10*l.*

31,981. Did George Heath pay you?—Yes. He came and offered me 30*l.*, and then he paid my husband 20*l.*, and I asked him for the other 10*l.*, and I had it.

31,982. Did you tell your husband about that?—Yes, I told him I had the 10*l.*

31,983. He did not tell us that he had more?—I had it.

31,984. Did you get it in gold?—Yes.

31,985. Did you get anything when Mr. Dunn was down here?—No.

31,986. Nothing at all?—Nothing more than the servants got. I had what they left. There was so much left. There was so much left for the servants.

31,987. What did they leave for the servants?—I do not know, but it was left.

31,988. In 1859?—I had nothing.

31,989. (Mr. Longe.) At this last election, what did you have for the servants?—I cannot tell.

31,990. Did not you hear something of Captain Pim's promises?—I cannot tell; there was money left, but I do not know.

31,991. You heard some conversation about what Captain Pim had left for you?—There was some money left for the servants, but I always go with the servants, but the servants have not had the money yet; they tell me so.

31,992. What did you understand that the servants were to get at the last election?—I do not know; we never knew it.

31,993. Who made the present?—I do not know. A gentleman, they said, would make it, and all the servants would have so much, but how much I do not think any of the servants understood; if they did, I did not.

31,994. (Mr. Coleridge.) You were down at the last election all the time?—Yes.

31,995. Do you recollect a strange gentleman?—There were so many I cannot recollect anything about it.

31,996. Wait a bit. You have recollected very well as yet; try and recollect a little more. Do you recollect any strange gentleman coming?—I cannot recollect one in particular.

31,997. Do you recollect Mr. Smith, in No. 13, a

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

Eliza Farley.

20 Sept. 1866.

gentleman who was very unwell, and laid in his bed all sorts of odd times ?—I do not know.

31,998. Do you recollect the gentleman who was in No. 13 ?—I do not know who the gentleman was in 13, because I have nothing to do with those rooms.

31,999. Did not you go up there at all ?—I do not know that I did.

32,000. Did not you ? — I do not. My work does not lie there.

32,001. Do you recollect the stranger being there whom nobody ever saw, a mysterious sort of person about the house ?—I do not know.

32,002. You know all about it ?—I do not know anything particular.

32,003. You have a better memory than your husband ?—I cannot tell anything about that.

32,004. Was there anyone but Mr. John Heath, Screach, and Evens who went upstairs ? — That I cannot tell. I never saw Mr. Heath nor Mr. Screach over those stairs since I have been at work.

32,005. Or Mr. Frederick Evens ?—No ; I never saw him over the second landing.

32,006. Where did you see Mr. Evens ? — I have seen him in the passage, and I have seen him about the house, not near the bedrooms.

32,007. You know that Mr. John Heath, Mr. Edmonds, and Mr. Screach have told us that they were going to see a gentleman at 13 ?—I do not know about that.

32,008. Did you see them going ?—No.

32,009. Do you think that is wrong ?—I do not know.

32,010. Were you always about the house ?—Yes.

32,011. How long before the election were you there constantly ? a week ?—Not before the election.

32,012. How many days before the election were you in the house constantly ?—Never in the house constantly, except on Saturday.

32,013. The Saturday before the election were you there ?—Yes.

32,014. Were you there on the Friday before that Saturday ?—I do not know.

32,015. You can recollect Saturday was your usual day ? — Yes.

32,016. You would recollect any other day that you would be there ; were you there a whole week before the election ?—No.

32,017. The Wednesday before the election ?—No, I do not think I was.

32,018. Were you there on the Thursday ?—I do not think I was.

32,019. When were you there ? — I cannot be punctual to any day except Saturday.

32,020. You were there on the Saturday before the election ?—Yes.

32,021. What part of the house were you chiefly in ?—In the waiter's rooms.

32,022. You saw several people going about there ? —Yes ; but I did not know any person in particular.

32,023. Not Mr. Screach ?—I do not know whether I did see Mr. Screach that day.

32,024. Did you see him the next day ?—I did not see him on the Sunday, I know.

32,025. Did you see him on the Monday ?—I cannot tell.

32,026. You were there on the Monday ?—I was there during the week.

32,027. Did you see Screach about a great deal ?— I saw him in the house.

32,028. Did you see him going up those stairs towards the bedroom ?—I do not think I did.

32,029. Did you see Frederick Evens about ?—I saw him downstairs, but I never saw him up.

32,030. Never saw him in No. 8 ?—No.

32,031. Never saw him go there ?—No.

32,032. Did you see Mr. John Heath very often leaving the lower part of the house and going to the upper part ?—I saw John Heath going to No. 8, but I never saw him going any higher.

32,033. If he had gone up higher, would you be likely to see him ?—I might or I might not ; but if I had I should not take notice.

32,034. No recollection of seeing Screach and Evens going upstairs ?—I have seen him going in No. 8, but no further.

32,035. You know Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim by sight ?—Yes, I knew them by sight.

32,036. And Colonel Dawkins' valet by sight, Marshall his name was ?—Yes.

32,037. Do you know Mr. Smith by sight, Colonel Dawkins' solicitor, who was down, a grey-haired man ?—Yes.

32,038. Do you know two of his clerks, Mr. Lind and Mr. Daw, one a young fair man, and the other a dark man ?—No.

32,039. What strangers whom you had not known as Totnes people did you see about the house, except those I have mentioned to you ?—I could not say. There were different parties coming in the house.

32,040. But at the election, the election week, a perfect stranger, whom you had never seen before ; did you see any such person about the house ?—I did not see any one in particular.

32,041. Was there any stranger that you had never seen before, who was constantly there during the election week ?—I do not know that.

32,042. Did you sleep in the house when you were charing there ?—No.

32,043. What time did you go away ?—It all depends. I have no regular time to leave.

32,044. What was the latest time that you ever left during the election week ?—I cannot say ; it might be one o'clock.

32,045. Was it ever as late as three o'clock ?—No.

32,046. When you went out at one o'clock, I suppose the house was still open ?—The front door would be shut ; but there would be parties in the room.

32,047. At those times do you recollect seeing a stranger that you had not known before ?—No ; I did take notice of one party more than another. Of course I did not know the names.

32,048. Did you ever carry anything to No. 13 ?— No.

32,049. What rooms do you carry anything into ?— The waiter's rooms.

32,050. Do you recollect two gentlemen being in No. 6, the one a young fair man, and the other a darkish man ?—I know there were two gentlemen there, but I do not know their names.

32,051. Was there a young fair man and a man about 30, a dark man ?—That I could not say.

32,052. You have no recollection of any particular strangers besides those two men and the persons that I have mentioned being at the house ?—No.

32,053. If I understand you, Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim, and Colonel Dawkins' valet, and Mr. Smith, and those two men were the only six strangers down ?—There might be others.

32,054. Do you recollect any others ?—No.

32,055. You do not recollect any stranger about ?— No.

32,056. (Mr. Longe.) Have you only been at the "Seven Stars" on Saturdays lately ? Have you not been there other days besides Saturdays the last week or two ?—I have not been at the "Stars" since last Saturday ; but the week the waiter was ill I did his work.

32,057. When he was up here did you do his work ? —Yes.

32,058. At the "Seven Stars" you have had a great many laughs about Mr. Mum ?—Yes ; but we do not know him.

32,059. (Mr Bere.) You do not know who he was ? —No.

32,060. (Mr. Longe.) You and the servants have laughed about our trying to find him out ?—People would come in to have a glass of ale, and say, "Is this the room where Mr. Mum was ?" but we do not know.

32,061. And the waiter and you laughed about it ? —I do not say anything about it, except that strangers came in.

32,062. You have never heard any one suggest where Mr. Mum was yet ?—No.

Mr. JEFFERY MICHELMORE sworn and examined.

32,063. (Mr. Bere.) Are you agent to the Duke of Somerset?—Yes.

32,064. You succeeded your father?—Yes.

32,065. When did he die?—In May last.

32,066. Have you produced here all the books connected with the Duke of Somerset's affairs since 1862?—I have.

32,067. Since what date in 1862?—I think Lady day, 1862.

32,068. There is a cash book you keep?—Yes.

32,069. You have not produced that?—I have.

32,070. Are there any books in your office or anywhere else connected with those transactions except those?—No.

32,071. Have any alterations been made recently?—Not the slightest alteration whatever.

32,072. We are obliged to call for the production of the books, and obliged to keep them.—Could not you let me have some of them? I would let you have a copy of the rentals, that is all you would require.

32,073. What books do you want?—The estate book I want. The only book that can be of any service is the rental book.

32,074. Is there a private cash book between you and the Duke of Somerset?—No, nothing more than you have here.

32,075. When you remit tenants' rent how would that be done?—Carried in the deduction column, the rental.

32,076. What books are they you want?—I want the estate book, the day book, and the chapel rental and the tithe rental, and the rental of Michaelmas, 1865.

32,077. When do you send out your notices for the rent?—We generally send them out the fair-days before the audit, and the audit is generally the first Thursday after the market day in February.

32,078. You are only making up the accounts to Michaelmas?—I am making them up to the end of June last.

32,079. Are those rents to be collected in November?—No, the rents are collected, but I am making up the books to send to his Grace.

32,080. You do not want the books for the purpose of collecting the rents?—No.

32,081. You used them to make up your own accounts?—Yes.

32,082. When do you send them to the duke?—We intend to send them every day.

32,083. I dare say the duke will wait when you tell him we have the books?—There is nothing in the books.

32,084. That is for us to judge; we think there is a great deal. And you must produce the cash book and the private letter book?—The clerk has them.

32,085. I understand that those are all the books?—Yes.

HENRY BARTLETT recalled and further examined.

H. Bartlett.

32,086. (Mr. Bere.) You have said that you never received money at any election?—Never.

32,087. In 1852 did you attend a meeting at the "Bell Inn"?—Never.

32,088. Take care?—Never in my life.

32,089. Three persons have given us information to the contrary?—Then they are liars.

32,090. You know where the "Bell Inn" is?—Perfectly.

32,091. Who kept it then?—I do not know.

32,092. Who keeps it now?—I cannot tell you.

32,093. Did Thomas Gillham keep it?—Not that I know of.

32,094. Do you mean to say you do not know who kept it then?—I do not.

32,095. Nor who keeps it now?—I cannot tell you; I have just been insulted by a drunken lawyer about some election. I dare say that is where you have got it from. A drunken vagabond lawyer has insulted me very much indeed.

32,096. Such expressions as those are not becoming here. Do I understand you to swear, on your oath, that at the election of 1852 you never were at the "Bell Inn"?—Not to my recollection; I might be running about.

32,097. Did you go there and talk about the election?—Not to my recollection.

32,098. We will not have your recollection?—I do not know.

32,099. And then afterwards did you not go to the "Seymour"?—I do not recollect anything of the sort.

32,100. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes. I would not tell you a lie for the world, so help me God, I would not; that is my assertion.

32,101. We have heard many such assertions from persons who have told lies.—I would not do it.

32,102. Do you remember anything about the election of 1852?—I know I was out the same as other young men were, but I do not recollect particularly about it. I recollect going to the "Bay Horse" when Mr. Seymour's carriage was sent up after Norrish, and there being a hue and cry that they were going to take off Nicholas Norrish; I went there with half a dozen more; my brother-in-law, Pendle, was there. When I came up he said, "I will go in and get Norrish," and he went in and got him out, and they went down to the "Seven Stars."

32,103. Do you know that 75*l.* was had for Pendle, Norrish, and yourself?—Never. If any man swears that, I will swear that I never had any conversation about my vote as to money.

32,104. Perhaps the "Bell" is the wrong place; it was the "Bay Horse" where this conversation took place?—Perhaps so. I have been given to understand by a drunken lawyer that he would have me up purposely. I never had a farthing in my life, and I never gave authority to anyone to make use of my name. If they have done so it was unauthorized by me, and have had it themselves.

32,105. Have you a wife?—Yes, but my wife never received a sixpence or a farthing.

32,106. How do you know that?—I know it perfectly well; I can depend on her, and on my daughters and sons as well.

32,107. Do you mean to tell me you had no money when Pendle and Norrish were given money?—Never in my life.

32,108. Who got it for you?—No one. I had no conversation with anybody.

32,109. Was any money ever placed on the top of a cask at the "Bay Horse Inn"?—I never received any money from the top of a cask in that inn.

32,110. But money intended for other people?—I have been insulted by this lawyer saying so, but it is the biggest lie that was ever invented.

32,111. Assertions do not make one believe a person any more than a plain straightforward answer?—I never had anything of the sort.

32,112. Did you ever see any money placed on the top of a cask during the election?—Never.

32,113. Did you ever see any money at any time during the election?—I have seen money in my own house, not given to me.

32,114. I did not ask you that. What are you?—A mercer and tailor.

32,115. Used you not to do business during the election?—Never more than at other times.

32,116. Did you do any business?—Yes.

32,117. And money used to pass over your counter?—Not particularly more than at other times; no money was passed by any man in the world for electioneering purposes.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

H. Bartlett.

9 Sept. 1866.

32,118. Did money pass over your counter during the time of the election?—There might have been a bill settled.

32,119. Were there any bills settled during the election of 1852?—I cannot tell you.

32,120. Have you your books from that time?—I dare say I have; it is many years ago.

32,121. Did you keep a ledger then and a day book?—No, I do not think I did; I was in a little way of business then.

32,122. Where were you living then?—In my own house.

32,123. Is that a freehold house?—Yes. I never had a vote before I bought that house.

32,124. Where is that?—In the Plymouth Road.

32,125. Where are you living now?—Just below there.

32,126. Did you ever vote in the Town Council?—I always did.

32,127. How much did you get for that?—I never got anything.

32,128. Have you ever given anything?—Never. I never asked a man for his vote.

32,129. Did you vote for Mr. Bovey at the Council election?—I did not.

32,130. Who did you vote for?—Mr. Samuel Huxham.

32,131. Did Mr. Bovey canvass you?—He might have asked me for my vote, but I did not think he was capable of taking office.

32,132. Did you not promise him?—No.

32,133. That you swear?—Yes.

32,134. Do you know William Sawyer?—Yes.

32,135. Did he ever give you any money?—Never in his life.

32,136. Did he ever pay you a bill?—He never paid me a bill at election times. I always settled with him at Christmas.

32,137. Is not the election for the Town Council about the 2nd of November?—Yes.

32,138. Did he ever settle with you a little before Christmas?—Never in my life.

32,139. Between the 1st of November and Christmas?—No. I never gave a bill to anyone until Christmas.

32,140. Do you know Nicholas Manning?—Yes.

32,141. Did anything take place between you and him in 1847 at Baldwin's election?—No.

32,142. What time did you vote at that election?—I cannot tell. I always voted for the Conservative party.

32,143. Do you mean to say that you were never given 75*l.* to distribute between Pendle, Norrish, and yourself?—Never in my life.

32,144. Did you ever get any money at all?—Never.

32,145. Not for your own purposes but for other people?—Never.

32,146. What relation of yours was Pendle?—A brother-in-law.

32,147. How came you to be mixed up with them?—I was there when the other party were taking Norrish away; they said the best way would be to get Norrish away.

32,148. What were you doing?—I was assisting to see if he would come to our party as he promised.

32,149. Where did they take him to?—I think to the "Stars."

32,150. Did you go with him?—Yes.

32,151. Did you get nothing for assisting?—Not a farthing.

32,152. Where did they put him?—He was along with the rest.

32,153. Do you think we shall believe that a person who took the trouble to get him there did not take any interest in it?—It was my brother-in-law who took him, not me.

32,154. You say there were half a dozen other persons engaged in this?—I think Mr. Mitchell was there and Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore.

32,155. They went with you?—Not with me; they were there when I went up to the "Bay Horse."

32,156. I thought you said he was taken to the "Seven Stars"?—That was my brother-in-law, not me; I went with the rest. I was at the "Bay Horse Inn" when Norrish was going to be taken away by the other party. My brother-in-law Pendle went and had him out, and went to the "Stars" with him.

32,157. You went to the "Bay Horse" to get Norrish out?—I did not go.

32,158. Then what did you go there for?—To see that it was rightly done, that was all.

J. Watson.

JOHN WATSON sworn and examined.

32,159. (Mr. Bere.) What do you know about this transaction between Bartlett and Norrish?—What I have heard my father-in-law say many times.

32,160. Who is your father-in-law?—Nicholas Norrish. He is dead and gone.

32,161. When did you hear him say this—what was it that he said?—He said that Mr. Michelmore gave Bartlett 20*l.* to take up to him which he never had. He has said that scores of times; that is all I know about it. If Mr. Michelmore did not pay Bartlett one of them must be in the wrong for certain.

32,162. (Mr. Coleridge.) You know nothing more of this than what your father-in-law told you—that he believed Mr. Michelmore had got this money and paid it to Bartlett?—That is all.

32,163. He did not say he had seen Mr. Michelmore pay it?—No.

32,164. It was only what he supposed Mr. Michelmore had done?—Mr. Michelmore told my father-in-law in my presence that he gave 20*l.* to Bartlett, which Norrish never had.

32,165. Was that Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore?—Yes.

32,166. That he had given it to Bartlett?—Yes, and Norrish never had it.

32,167. Was Bartlett present then?—No, he was not.

C. F. Michelmore.

CHARLES FREDERICK MICHELMORE sworn and examined.

32,168. (Mr. Bere.) You have heard this statement as to the money which was paid. What is your account of it?—I was only reminded of it some two years ago, but I have no doubt it is correct, that I paid it.

32,169. Did you pay this money to Henry Bartlett?—I swear solemnly that I paid 75*l.* after an arrangement had been made at No. 1 in the "Seven Stars," for himself, Pendle, and Norrish. I have mentioned it to him several times since, and I have told him since this Commission has been opened that I intended to speak the truth about it.

32,170. What did he say to that?—And then for the first time he pooh-poohed me. I may also state that Bartlett came to the "Bell Inn," where we had what is commonly called a "free and easy," and we left the "Bell Inn" for the "Seymour Hotel." The parties present whom I can remember at the present moment who are capable of being examined are Mr. Chaster, Mr. George Roberts, Mr. Windeatt, and Mr. Brooking Cuming. I have spoken to Mr. Chaster on the subject within the last three or four days, and he perfectly remembers Bartlett's coming back with us to the "Seymour Hotel." There was a sofa in the room, and on that sofa George Roberts, Bartlett, and myself sat, the other parties in the room occupying chairs in different parts of the room. Roberts is what we term a journeyman tailor—Mr. Bartlett, what he terms himself, a master tradesman. A little dispute arose between the two parties, and Bartlett said, "You damned little journeyman tailor, how dare "you speak to me who am a master tradesman." Roberts' reply was, "Bartlett, for the sake of the "cloth behave yourself." Roberts then turned round and said, "Bartlett, were you not bribed at the last "election? Be careful; Mr. Michelmore is present, "who knows all about it." Whereupon Bartlett turned round to me and asked the question whether I had bribed him, and my reply was this: "I never "tell tales out of school."

32,171. Was he bribed or not?—I swear that I paid him 75*l.* myself on a cask at the "Bay Horse Inn."

(Henry Bartlett.) That is a lie.

(Mr. Bere.) If you make use of such an expression as that again you will be committed to Exeter gaol for contempt of court.

(The Witness.) The money I put on the top of a cask at the "Bay Horse Inn," and it was taken up by Bartlett for himself, Pendle, and Norrish. I would beg to call your attention to the fact that according to the evidence already given Norrish admitted receiving the 25*l.*; and according to the evidence of the Town Clerk the common talk of the town was that fabulous prices had been given, and that the parties who received the money did not attempt to disguise it at all.

32,172. (Mr. Longe.) Did you go to Bartlett's shop?—Yes; some ten days ago.

32,173. What did you say when you went there?—I went there for the purpose of informing him that I intended to disguise nothing from the Commissioners.

32,174. Did you put it more specifically?—I went there and reminded him of this very circumstance.

32,175. Did you remind him of anything that had transpired at any election since?—I never had anything to do with him for this reason. In 1852 I had only been in practice 12 months. I had a retainer offered me by Mr. Baldwin's party, and ever since then I have been in the Liberal interest.

JOHN PERROTT sworn and examined. J. Perrott.

32,176. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—I really do not know.

32,177. When did you last vote?—At Dunn's election.

32,178. Have you not had a vote since?—No.

32,179. How came you to lose your vote?—By shifting my residence.

32,180. Why did you not claim a vote or have yourself put on the register?—From the shifting of my residence I was not entitled to a vote.

32,181. Whom did you vote for in 1859?—I do not know the dates.

32,182. At Dunn's election?—I voted for Dunn and Lord Gifford.

32,183. How much did you get for that?—After I had promised my vote I went to the "Stars."

32,184. To whom had you first promised your vote?—To Mr. Dunn.

32,185. Then you went to the "Stars"?—Yes; and there I saw, I presume, Mr. Dunn, Mrs. Dunn, and Captain Phipps, as I was told afterwards; I believe he was the brother-in-law of Mr. Dunn; they were canvassing. I went to the front door and I held up my finger to Mr. Dunn to step out. He came into the kitchen and sat down. I said, "You "have not called on me; if you will accept of my "vote I will give it you freely." He asked me my name, and I told him; he took out his book and found it was correct. I had been exceedingly ill for a great length of time, and considering that my own friends had neglected me, or had not befriended me at all, I told him I would promise him my vote freely, and that he might rely on what I said, that I should vote for him.

32,186. After your having promised that, did he say anything to you?—He said, "If Mrs. Dunn or "Captain Phipps can be of any service or benefit to "you, they will be happy to do so."

32,187. Did you afterwards go to the "Stars"?—Some days after.

32,188. What did you get there?—I was told at the "Stars" that a gentleman upstairs wanted to speak to me, in a room upstairs on the left-hand side; that a gentleman would see me there. There was a strange gentleman there whom I had never seen before or seen since, and his wife and child, I think.

32,189. What did he give you?—He asked me my name; I told him, and that I had been very ill for a long time. He asked me how I was going to vote; I said I should give one vote to Lord Gifford, the other to Mr. Dunn. He says, why not plump for Mr. Dunn? I said, I could not do so, and that nothing would induce me to alter my opinion. He said, you had better do so: it will be more beneficial to you to plump for Mr. Dunn. I said nothing would induce me to alter my voting for Lord Gifford. After a little he said, what do you expect from me? I said, I am not aware that I expect anything; that I solemnly swear.

32,190. What did you get?—He says, Come with me, and he took me into a little room adjoining a bedroom, and he said, You had better vote a plumper for Mr. Dunn. I said, no, I will not alter my pledge. He pressed me very much for a plumper, and I said no. When he left that room I followed him, and he went into the room where he had been before with his wife. He then said, Did you not see anything in here; I said No, not that I am aware of. He said, Did you pick up a little parcel there? I said, No, I did not. He said, There was a little parcel on the dressing-table; did you not pick up anything? I said, No. He told me I had better come back with him. He then took me towards the table and said, Do you see anything now? I then saw a very small parcel wrapped up in brown paper; and he said, Do you see it now? Yes, I do, I did not like to take up anything which was in another person's house; he said, Pick it up, that is 20*l.*

32,191. What did you do with it?—I opened one end and saw that it was gold; I did not count it; I went into the room where we had come from. I said I was very sorry; that I had been very weak and ill for a long time, and I was very weak then; I said this will certainly do me a great deal of good, but by the time I have settled one thing and another it will not last very long. Then he said, Let me have it again. I gave it to him and he said, Sit down, I will see you again presently, and he took away the parcel.

32,192. Where did you go to?—I remained in the room with his wife; he brought up the same parcel again, and he said here is 5*l.* more; I hope you will take care of it. I said I would endeavour to do so, and then left me, and I have never seen him since that I am aware of.

32,193. When you opened the parcel did you not find 30*l.*?—No.

32,194. Where were you living then?—In Bridgetown; on my solemn oath it was no more.

32,195. How much was it?—25*l.*

32,196. Are you quite sure that it was a stranger that paid you?—Yes, decidedly.

32,197. Are you quite sure that it was not young John Heath?—No, I know him so well; it was a different looking man.

32,198. Did John Heath introduce you to the stranger's room?—No.

32,199. Did you see him there?—No.

32,200. John Heath has said that he paid you 30*l.*?—So I have heard.

32,201. He did not do so?—No.

32,202. You are quite sure it was only 25*l.* you had from the stranger?—Yes.

32,203. The Liberals had been your old friends,

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

J. Perrott.

0 Sept. 1866.

had they not?—I had been on the Liberal side, and always voted for them.

32,204. Had you voted at Ricardo's election?—Yes; I think I had voted at three elections.

32,205. Did any certain number of you voters wait upon Mr. Ricardo to ask him if he was going to bribe any of the electors?—No.

32,206. Do you know anything about George Mitchell at Ricardo's election?—Yes.

32,207. That is the man who is sitting below in the blue coat?—Yes.

32,208. What do you know about that?—George Mitchell met me on the bridge, and asked me if it was true what he had heard. I said, "What is that?" "That you will not be able to vote for Ricardo." I said, "Yes." He replied, "I wish to have it from "you, because I know I can place confidence in "you."

32,209. What did you say to that?—I said, "Yes, "I shall not be able to do so."

32,210. Why could you not do so?—I had not promised Mr. Ricardo, exactly; it was tantamount to that. Previous to the election Mr. Michelmore, of Berry, the old gentleman, called on me; he afterwards met me in the street, and said, "How are you "going to vote at this election?" I told him for Seymour and Ricardo; his answer was, "You cannot "do that. Why, I have had your objections with-"drawn and many others, upon an understanding "that not one of you should vote against Mr. "Baldwin." I then said "What am I to do?" He replied, "If you do so I shall put a man against you "to counteract your vote." I again told him I had all but promised Mr. Ricardo, and he said, "You cannot "do that." He said, "You may give the other vote "to Mr. Baldwin if you like." I said, "I would not "do that." When he withdrew I said, I would consider of it. There was another meeting.

32,211. Between you and Mr. Michelmore?—Yes.

32,212. What conclusion had you then come to?—I told him the conclusion I had come to. I said, "If "that is to be the case, if I cannot vote for Ricardo, "I do not want to see another person placed against "me. I must go from my promise rather than that "such a thing as that should be the case;" and having thought it over, I thought that would be the best thing I could do.

32,213. Did you tell George Mitchell all that had passed between you and Mr. Michelmore?—I did.

32,214. What did he say?—He said he had heard of it.

32,215. Did he say anything else? Did he say that he might do you a good turn if you did vote for Mr. Ricardo?—I am not aware that he did.

32,216. Is that all that passed between you and George Mitchell then?—He said if that was the case he himself would not vote for Seymour; he would speak to some friends of his to go in the same way as he did—to plump for Ricardo.

32,217. Did he say there was any other reason for his plumping for Ricardo besides his anger at the way in which you had been made to vote?—Not that I am aware of.

32,218. There were no good and substantial reasons given to you?—No.

32,219. Did he say anything about having had any money from Mr. Ricardo?—No.

32,220. Or of any money that was to be had from Mr. Ricardo?—No.

32,221. Do you know anyone else who voted for Seymour and Ricardo?—I cannot remember them now.

32,222. Did you hear that Mr. Ricardo had spent a good deal of money in this place?—I believe there has always been a great deal of money spent here.

32,223. Did you hear anyone say they had had money who voted for Mr. Ricardo on that occasion?—I understood there was very little money passed on that occasion; not so much as had been spent before or since.

32,224. What were you formerly when you were in business?—A shoemaker.

32,225. At that time did you work for a good many of the Seymour people?—I worked for the Mr. Michelmores, and for many of the duke's tenantry.

32,226. And for how long did you keep that work?—Until there was an alteration in my position.

32,227. Had that anything to do with electioneering matters?—No, nothing at all.

32,228. Did not Mr. Seymour himself in 1852 canvass you for Mr. Baldwin?—No.

32,229. It was only Mr. Michelmore?—Just so.

32,230. And did he say how he wished the other vote to be given?—Certainly not.

32,231. You were voting at that time upon a made vote?—I believe it was.

32,232. Put on by Mr. Michelmore himself?—I believe so.

32,233. Did you vote in 1857?—I think so.

32,234. Which way did you then vote?—For Gifford and Mills.

32,235. What did you get for that?—Nothing.

32,236. Did you see anyone on that side at all?—I cannot say.

32,237. Were you tempted at all on the other side?—No.

32,238. Where were you living then?—At Bridgetown.

32,239. Were you a tenant of the Duke of Somerset's?—No, not then.

32,240. Whose property were you living on then?—I was holding under a gentleman living in London.

32,241. Was that gentleman a Liberal?—That I do not know.

32,242. Was Mr. Michelmore his agent?—That I cannot tell.

32,243. Do you know who was his agent?—No, I do not.

32,244. Did he collect his rents himself?—No, he did not.

32,245. Used you to send your rent to him?—Yes.

32,246. Was there any complaint made if it was not paid punctually?—No.

32,247. Who was his agent? Do you remember?—A Mr. Samuel Cumming.

32,248. Any relation of the family of that name here?—No, none.

32,249. Have you talked to Mr. George Mitchell since this Commission has been sitting?—No.

32,250. Have you heard it suggested you could throw some light on Mr. Mitchell's history as a politician?—I have heard that Mr. Harris said so.

32,251. Did not Mr. George Mitchell come and talk to you?—Since the Commission has been opened I do not think I have spoken to him, although I have seen him.

32,252. As far as you recollect, is that all that passed between you about politics?—Yes. I may say that George Mitchell—and I declare it solemnly on my oath—never solicited me for a vote on any occasion in my life, nor I him.

32,253. Do you deal with him?—I have done so.

32,254. Are you in his debt now?—A little. I have been a large dealer with him.

32,255. Did he ever ask you for money due to him just before the election?—I do not think that he did then more than at another time.

32,256. Is he pretty frequently in, asking you for his money?—Yes.

32,257. Not a person likely to stand the loss of a large debt?—I do not know about his private transactions.

32,258. Is he a man who would ask you for money pretty frequently?—Yes.

32,259. What sort of credit did he give you?—Pretty good credit.

32,260. Seven or eight years?—No.

32,261. Five or six months?—We used to make up our accounts once a year; and I used to make him payments as I had money to part with.

32,262. What amount of business do you suppose ou did with him?—Sometimes 100*l.*, sometimes 70*l.* r 80*l.*

32,263. Did you make boots and shoes for him?—never did a stitch for him in my life.

32,264. Though you did not talk to Mr. Mitchell bout this, have you ever talked to anybody else bout the evidence that Mitchell gave here?—Respecting me?

32,265. I do not know whether respecting you, or natters that you knew about?—What do you mean?

32,266. Did you read the evidence Mr. Mitchell ad given?—I heard him say it.

32,267. After you heard him say it, did you tell a erson in Totnes that Mr. Mitchell had told a great any lies?—No.

32,268. Did you tell any person in Totnes that Mr. Hitchell had made misstatements?—No.

32,269. Did you express any opinion about what Ir. Mitchell had said?—The opinion I stated was, nat it was a lot of useless hearsay evidence.

32,270. Did you not say that you were told a good eal about it, and that what Mitchell had said was ot quite correct?—No; most decidedly not.

32,271. Did you say that you could tell a great eal about it; about what Mitchell had said?—No, I ould not; because his was hearsay evidence, and all could have to say would be hearsay evidence.

32,272. Is the hearsay evidence contradictory to hat Mitchell gave? Had you heard stories conradictory to those that Mitchell had told?—No.

32,273. Did not you say it outside of the door of he "Seven Stars"? You were up here, and your ome is in Bridgetown?—Not now.

32,274. Where do you live now?—Opposite the Ashburton Road.

32,275. Were you walking down towards your house, and did you go towards the bridge?—No.

32,276. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes.

32,277. When were you last at the "Seven Stars," or at the door of the "Seven Stars"?—I have not been inside that for a great length of time.

32,278. But outside of the door did you see Robert Harris and talk to him about it?—No, not at the "Stars."

32,279. Where did you talk to him?—Opposite the Ashburton Road.

32,280. What did you say to him?—He asked me if I had heard George Mitchell's evidence, and I said "Yes." He asked me my opinion, and I said it was nothing but hearsay stories from beginning to the end of it.

32,281. Did you not say what you could tell?—I said to him, "Perhaps other people could go into "reports as well that would amount to nothing."

32,282. What did you mean by that? Did you mean that the reports that Mitchell had given utterance to were untrue?—No; I did not say that it was untrue.

32,283. Did you mean that they were reports about Mr. Mitchell?—I said to Mr. Harris, "Perhaps, as "far as reports go, if it goes by reports and rumours, "and if reports be true, I heard it hinted that he got "money once or twice for one or two voters."

32,284. That was not Mr. Dunn?—No, quite a different person from Mr. Dunn or John Heath, most decidedly.

JOHN SANDFORD SCREACH, Senior, sworn and examined.

Mr. J. S. Screach.

32,285. (Mr. Bere.) Are you an innkeeper in ridgetown?—Yes.

32,286. How long have you been an innkeeper?—have been an innkeeper about 13 years.

32,287. Were you a shoemaker before you were an nkeeper?—I was, and am now.

32,288. The innkeeping is a little amusement?—It erves to make up the income.

32,289. How long have you voted for Totnes?—Ever since 1840.

32,290. Had you voted in Baldwin and Blount's me?—No.

32,291. Had you voted in the election between Baldwin and Gisborne?—Yes.

32,292. That was the first time?—Yes.

32,293. Whom did you vote for then?—For Mr. Baldwin.

32,294. What did you get for that?—100*l.*

32,295. Who paid you?—Mr. Gilbert.

32,296. Was he an active agent for the Conservaives?—Yes.

32,297. Who was he?—He used to carry on business s an ironfounder.

32,298. How long has he been dead?—He is not ead.

32,299. Although you were not a voter in 1839, and herefore did not get any money, did Mr. Gilbert ome to you and ask you to influence certain people?—No, he did not. He went to certain voters, and sked me if I would hold the stakes for them.

32,300. When had you heard that?—I do not now; many years ago.

32,301. Was that at Ricardo's election?—I do not now.

32,302. Think for a minute. Was it not at Ricardo's election that you heard that he got the money?—I do not know.

32,303. Did not you hear that there was a good eal of money going into his hands at Ricardo's election which did not get through them?—No; that is all heard hinted. I heard that he had got money from riends on the Chartist principle, but I only heard it hinted.

32,304. How long ago?—I do not know.

32,305. It is a rather strong thing to be hinted at that people hold money and do not pay it?—Mr. Harris, if you recollect, said that George Mitchell had bribed me twice, but had kept the money.

32,306. That he had had money to bribe you, and that he kept it?—I believe Mr. George Mitchell to be far too honourable a man, and too honourable a politician to do anything of the sort. I believe if there is a truly honest politician he was one.

32,307. Did not you hear where Mr. Mitchell had got this money?—No.

32,308. Did not you hear that it was at the "Market House" inn?—No.

32,309. Do I understand you that the only time thatyou had money was for Dunn in 1859?—Yes.

32,310. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was Mrs. Dunn present in the room when you went and saw the stranger?—No.

32,311. You say there was a lady with a little child?—The gentleman told me it was his wife and child.

32,312. Did you hold the stakes for them?—Yes.

32,313. What was the amount of the stakes?—I held 200*l.* for four.

32,314. That was 50*l.* a piece?—Yes.

32,315. And you yourself got 100*l.*?—Yes.

32,316. Whose house were you living in then?—In a house belonging to Mr. John Reeves.

32,317. What politics was he?—He was a very liberal man, for when I took the house he said, "You "are about to take the house, the house will make a "vote, but I never interfere with my tenants as long "as I get my rent."

32,318. Did not you know which way Mr. Reeves was in the habit of voting?—I believe he used to vote in the Liberal interest.

32,319. Did you vote against each other in Baldwin and Gisborne's time?—The property has changed hands.

32,320. When?—From the time that I took the property in 1839 and the time that I became an elector in 1840; the property had been purchased by the Duke of Somerset. Then, in the election that was pending between Baldwin and Gisborne, I had a message sent

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

Mr. J. S. Screach.

20 Sept. 1866.

to me by my father from old Mr. Michelmore, stating that if I did not vote for Mr. Gisborne I should have to leave the house. I told my father, in reply, that when Mr. Reeves let me the house he told me that I was to exercise my vote as I thought proper, and that he never interfered as long as he got the rent, and that if the Duke of Somerset had bought the property he had not bought my vote, and that I should vote for Baldwin.

32,321. But you did not vote for Baldwin without a consideration ?—No, I did not.

32,322. Did you go to Mr. Gilbert and ask what the consideration was to be ?—No; he came to me.

32,323. Did not you tell Mr. Gilbert that Mr. Michelmore would turn you out of your house ?—I did not think anything of it.

32,324. You got the 100*l.* ?—Yes.

32,325. Whom did you influence ?—I merely held the stakes.

32,326. How much did you hold at that election ?—I should like you to understand about those parties for whom I held the stakes in 1839, and the manner they had it. I think it would be fair, if one side is shown up, to show up the other. I held the stakes in 1839 for a person called John Guest and Samuel Penny Sharpham.

32,327. Is he alive ?—Yes, and living in the town; and the next was William Winsor and George Roberts; and when the polling came two of them, according to the old term, kicked over the traces, that is, Samuel Sharpham Penny, or Penny Sharpham, and William Winsor, and I paid 50*l.* to George Roberts, and 50*l.* to John Guest. I was sent for the next day to go to Mr. Gilbert's, who then resided in Bridgetown, where Mr. Roberts now resides, and he demanded of me the 100*l.*, and I gave it him.

32,328. Then you gave it him all ?—Yes.

32,329. Because the others had turned round ?—Yes, because it was not expended. 100*l.* was expended.

32,330. Did not he give you something back ?—He gave me 5*l.* back.

32,331. Did you hold the stakes for people in 1840 ?—Yes.

32,332. Whom did you hold the stakes for then ?—I held the states for four.

32,333. Who were they ?—Roberts and Guest, and a man called Nicholas Gidley.

32,334. You were a Conservative at that time; at least you voted for Baldwin ?—Yes.

32,335. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who first converted you ?—The 100*l.*

32,336. Your conversion dates from that date ?—Yes.

32,337. (Mr. Bere.) How much did you hold for the four ?—400*l.*

32,338. Did they vote all right ?—Roberts deceived us.

32,339. Did Gilbert give you the 400*l.* ?—Yes.

32,340. In gold ?—No, all notes.

32,341. Where was the receiving place in those days ?—He brought it to my house.

32,342. No room to which you used to go, or an inn ?—No, never met for any such purpose.

32,343. He brought it to your house, and you held it ?—Yes.

32,344. Did you give him back the 100*l.* that Roberts ought to have had ?—Yes.

32,345. Did he give you something out of that ?—No.

32,346. You kept your own 100*l.* ?—Yes.

32,347. What did George Roberts do ?—Inasmuch as he had voted contrary (he was living in Seymour Place, and was one of the tenants of the Duke of Somerset at that time), and in consequence of having voted contrary to their wishes, the labour that he principally obtained as tailor was from the tenantry, and all those favours were withdrawn.

32,348. I suppose you told George Roberts that you had got 100*l.* ?—Yes.

32,349. Did not he tell you that he was going to get something on the other side ?—He did not tell me, but I believe he did.

32,350. What did he get;—I think he had 80*l.*

32,351. 80*l.* and the custom was better than 100*l.* ?—Yes.

32,352. (Mr. Coleridge.) You told me your conversion dated from the time you got the 100*l.*; did not the Liberal party offer you money ?—Not to me.

32,353. They have never been to you at all ?—No.

32,354. In 1842 what happened ?—I do not know.

32,355. There was an election in 1842 when Ricardo, Lord Seymour, and Mr. Baldwin stood, or I think there was a return without any opposition in 1842 ?—I think so; I do not think there was any opposition for many years.

32,356. In 1841 do you remember Mr. Petre and Mr. Teed coming down ?—Yes.

32,357. Can you tell us what happened about Petre and Teed, why they resigned ?—I cannot.

32,358. Did you see either of them ?—I really cannot say.

32,359. Which side would you have voted for ?—Very likely I should have voted for Mr. Baldwin.

32,360. Would you have given him a plumper or split your vote ?—I cannot say; it is so many years ago.

32,361. Did not Petre or Teed, or someone on their behalf, canvass you ?—I cannot remember, I think Teed did.

32,362. Was Mr. Gilbert still the agent ?—Yes.

32,363. Did not he come and tell you there would be some money ?—No.

32,364. Do you remember how long before the election they retired ?—I do not know.

32,365. We have no election till 1847, and then that was Seymour, Baldwin, and Ricardo ?—Yes.

32,366. What did you do then ?—Voted for Ricardo and Seymour.

32,367. You changed back to the Liberals ?—Yes.

32,368. What made the alteration ?—I was residing then amongst them.

32,369. You were turned out in 1842 ?—Yes.

32,370. Where did you go to ?—I went to a residence belonging to the Gilbert family, belonging to Mr. Gilbert's sister.

32,371. Did Mr. Gilbert get it for you ?—Yes.

32,372. How long were you there ?—Till 1848 or 1849.

32,373. Then you were there in 1847 ?—Yes.

32,374. And you were free from the duke ?—Yes.

32,375. What made you vote for Ricardo and Seymour ?—I did not intend voting, but when it came late I was sent for by Mr. Charles Webber and Edward Croydon. He came and said a gentleman wanted to see me at the committee room which was in the house of Mr. John Fogwill, on the Plains.

32,376. Is that the house where Mrs. Gill lived ?—I do not know, it is a house at the lower end. I believe one portion is converted into a public house.

32,377. You went to the committee room at Fogwill's house and saw Charles Webber ?—Yes.

32,378. What did Charles Webber give you to vote ?—He asked me if I would vote for Ricardo, and he gave me 20*l.*

32,379. That was inferior to your last arrangement; did not you go to the other side and see what could be got ?—No.

32,380. Did not the other side come to you ?—No, I never heard a word.

32,381. Was Mr. Gilbert managing ?—Yes, but he never came to me.

32,382. It is rather odd, did he think you were safe ?—I do not know.

32,383. It was a near business, Baldwin only got in by three, therefore your vote was worth more ?—I do not know about that.

32,384. In 1852 whom did you vote for then ?—Mills and Lord Seymour.

32,385. What did you get for that ?—50*l.*

32,386. Who gave you that ?—Joseph Coombes.

32,387. You were on Ricardo's side at that election ;

what did you hear about money going then?—I cannot give you any idea, I know no more about it than you who were not here.

32,388. Is Joseph Coombes alive?—Yes.

32,389. Did you hold money for anybody else?—Yes.

32,390. For whom?—For Thomas Mitchell, who gave evidence last night, and William Bendon.

32,391. Were those the only two?—Yes.

32,392. Was there a man called Hardin?—Yes, he made the bargain.

32,393. What did he first try to get you for?—When you say "try to get," he offered a much larger sum.

32,394. What did he say?—He did not say anything else.

32,395. Did not he offer you 35*l.* apiece?—No, not that I remember. His object was to claim a percentage, and the higher the price the better.

32,396. How much used he to look for?—A shilling in the pound.

32,397. Had you given Gilbert anything for what he gave you?—No.

32,398. You held the money for Bendon?—Yes.

32,399. And paid it?—Yes.

32,400. Did you get a percentage?—No.

32,401. Where was this money paid?—Paid in Farley's. He had the house named the "Victory."

32,402. Was that the origin and foundation of the Lapstone Club?—I am not aware.

32,403. You were a member of that?—I do not know.

32,404. You were a member of the club?—No.

32,405. Were not there a number of shoemakers and friends who used to enter into negotiations about the sum to be paid for their votes?—Not that I am aware of.

32,406. Are you quite sure?—Yes.

32,407. Have you seen this (referring to a paper)?—The squib? Yes.

32,408. Were you not among the party?—I did not recognize it.

32,409. Did you share in the advantages procured?—No, there were no advantages procured.

32,410. You got them directly for yourself?—Yes.

32,411. You did not want an intermediate agent?—No.

32,412. I thought you were the secretary of the club?—I did not know that there was a secretary.

32,413. Was not there some person who negotiated with Mr. Hardin?—No, each negotiated separately.

32,414. Did not he receive an intimation that there were persons who could be negotiated with easily because they were already arranged with?—No.

32,415. Did not he come to you and say, "There "is so and so and so and so" (mentioning their names) "who can be managed"?—No. He said merely, "What will you take?"

32,416. And you said 50*l.*?—Yes.

32,417. Did not he ask what your friends would take?—No.

32,418. Did not you ask about Mr. Farley?—No.

32,419. Who was Bendon?—He has gone, dead.

32,420. Was there a company?—No.

32,421. Money was paid at old William Farley's?—Yes.

32,422. Did William Farley get any?—I do not know.

32,423. You heard he had?—I heard.

32,424. That was 50*l.* for himself and 50*l.* for his son-in-law?—Yes.

32,425. His son-in-law was Thomas Blackler?—Yes.

32,426. Did you ever hear whether he paid him or not?—I do not know.

32,427. That was in 1852; then by 1859 you had gone round again. Whom did you vote for in 1859?—Mills and Lord Gifford.

32,428. What did you get for that?—Nothing.

32,429. Was there no money going?—I do not know.

32,430. Whose tenant did you become?—I was living in my own property at that time.

32,431. Had you bought a house then?—I had in 1849.

32,432. But you were not living in it?—I went to live in it in 1849.

32,433. What was the house you were renting of Mr. Gilbert in 1852?—That was the house I left to go to the one which I purchased.

32,434. In 1857 did you vote for Mackenzie and Gregory?—I did not.

32,435. Who then?—I did not vote.

32,436. Why not?—I do not know. I do not remember.

32,437. There must have been a very strong inducement for you not to vote?—I never voted on that election, and had no reason for voting or not voting.

32,438. Did not Mr. Gilbert come to you?—No.

32,439. You were canvassed of course by the various candidates?—Perhaps I might have been.

32,440. Did not you see some influential people on either side?—No.

32,441. Who was managing the election for the Liberals that time?—I do not know.

32,442. Was not Mr. Windeatt?—Mr. Windeatt never canvassed me in my life.

32,443. Was Mr. Brooking Cuming?—He has been, but I do not remember his canvassing me then.

32,444. Did not you get anything for your vote then?—Not a farthing.

32,445. What was the reason? Had a sudden fit of virtue come over you then?—Nothing sudden, only I did not feel disposed to vote.

32,446. Were there not good reasons given you on either side why you should not vote?—No good reasons whatever.

32,447. Are you quite certain?—Yes.

32,448. Nothing to do with your land or house?—No, nothing.

32,449. Or good reasons given to your family?—No, nothing whatever.

32,450. It was merely a fancy?—Nothing more than that I did not feel disposed to vote. I had neither interest in the way of business nor any reward.

32,451. But had you any particular interest in business before. Was not your interest in the money that you got?—I did not work for any particular society; that never interfered with politics.

32,452. Are you living in the house you bought in 1849?—Yes.

32,453. It is an inn, is it not?—Yes.

32,454. Was it an inn when you first occupied it?—No.

32,455. You did not vote in 1857; you did in 1859. What made you vote in 1859? What increased interest had you between March 1857 and 30th April 1859?—Inasmuch as I had embarked in the public business; and thinking that I was dwelling amongst those who were of the Liberal party, that I might have a chance of their favours.

32,456. Did you have a committee held at your house?—Never.

32,457. Did you have a bill paid there?—Never. In what way?

32,458. For the people who drank and had things there?—I had a meeting in 1861 there.

32,459. That was a municipal meeting?—That was a municipal meeting.

32,460. In 1859 had you anything of the sort?—No.

32,461. Did not you get anything for your vote in 1859?—No, not a farthing.

32,462. Did you ask for anything?—I never sought for anything.

32,463. Did not you see anybody who was offered?—I was offered.

32,464. By whom?—There was a stranger came to my house on the night of nomination, and he asked me whether I was a voter. I told him I was. He says, "Will you vote for Mr. Dunn?" I told him I had promised Mr. Mills; he was supposed to be the opposition candidate to the gentlemen on the Conservative side. He offered me 100*l.*, and I told him nothing would induce me to break my word. I had given my word to vote for Mr. Mills, and under such circumstances as that I would not break my word.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

Mr. J. S. Screach.

20 Sept. 1866.

32,465. (Mr. Coleridge.) You changed your opinions for money pretty often before that?—When you say changed my opinions for money, in the course of time my circumstances were improved. I had a property left that came to my wife, and I had a house of my own, which placed me in a more independent position.

32,466. That would not account for your going round twice?—Circumstances make a difference.

32,467. Four times you have changed your opinions altogether?—No.

32,468. First of all you were a Liberal, then a Conservative, then a Liberal again, and now a Conservative?—No.

32,469. (Mr. Bere.) Then you got nothing in 1859?—No.

32,470. When did you first think you had better become a Conservative?—In the municipal election in 1861 I was promised a benefit at my house, that is, a meeting. Mr. Brooking Cuming promised it to me, and at that meeting there was pretty many assembled. I had a bill for 11*l.* 14*s.* against Mr. Brooking Cuming, as I conceived, for he gave me the order, and on the following day, when the voters were required to be picked up, that is, those on the municipal affair, the old Mr. Hodge at Berry Lodge came in, and I did not know what to do with many of the men, inasmuch as they had not got money to commence their business with, and Mr. William Hodge says to me, "Can you "accommodate me with 10*l.*, the voters begin to be "uneasy, and the time has arrived for polling;" and I lent Mr. Hodge, of Berry Lodge, 10*l.* to get some of the votes, and in the course of the day I lent him another 10*l.*, which made 20*l.*, and in about three weeks from that time they returned to me the 20*l.* which I lent them. It was brought back to Mr. William Hodge, in the presence of Mr. John Elliott, and I heard my bill inquired for for the night's expenses, 11*l.* 14*s.*; and after some few months had elapsed I made application to Mr. Condy—I dealt with him for beer—for payment of this bill, and Mr. Condy told me that he did not know who would pay it, for it had cost him 25*l.*, and inasmuch as it had cost him 25*l.* I was to look to those who gave me the order. He said he would see Mr. Brooking Cuming, and if Mr. Brooking Cuming gave me the order. I said Mr. Cuming certainly did give me the order, for he brought the tickets which were served out to the men to be given in lieu of cash for drink.

32,471. The end of it was that you did not get the money?—Well, I made repeated applications to get the money; twelve months ran round and I got no money.

32,472. You did not get it at all?—Well, the time when I got the money was when Mr. Mills died.

32,473. 1862?—Yes.

32,474. Then Mr. Condy came round and paid it?—No, Mr. Parnell.

32,475. Do you know whether Mr. Parnell got it from Mr. Condy?—No.

32,476. When Mr. Parnell paid you, did he ask you how you were going to vote?—I told him when he paid me they never would have my support, because I believed they never intended to pay me until when Mr. Mills died, and they wanted my services.

32,477. And you did not like that treatment?—No.

32,478. And you have been a consistent Conservative since?—Yes, I have voted on that side.

32,479. When did your son begin to be active on the Conservative side?—At the time the 20*l.* was spent, or the principal part of it.

32,480. You did not vote, of course, for Mr. Pender in 1862. Were you promised anything in 1862?—No.

32,481. What did you get in 1863?—Not a farthing.

32,482. I suppose what your son got was between you?—Whatever he got he kept to himself.

32,483. Is he in business with you?—Yes.

32,484. Is he a partner?—No, merely works for me.

32,485. Does not what money he gets go to the common stock?—No.

32,486. You want a little lot of leather, and he has got money, does not he buy it?—I am proud to think that I can do it without assistance.

32,487. Have you had no money since that time?—Not since 1852.

32,488. Whom have you operated upon yourself since 1852?—I have never gone to any individual to ask them to vote or to pay any money to any single individual, barring in the last election I went up to Blank.

32,489. What little arrangement did you have with Blank?—I went up to see Blank, and I asked him whether 150*l.* would satisfy him for his vote, and Blank very readily accepted the offer. He did not ask it you must understand; it was an offer of 150*l.*, and he very readily accepted it, and went with me to the "Stars."

32,490. (Mr. Coleridge.) He did not get it all, did he?—When he came to the "Stars" I did not know where to put him to, for my son who had sent me to get him down was gone to Marldon to see James Edmonds, so I was in a fix as to what I should do with him, so I secreted him in the watercloset.

32,491. Did you lock him up there?—No, I did not lock him up.

32,492. Did he lock himself in?—No. I behaved kindly to him and put him there, and fetched him a glass of ale.

32,493. How long was he there?—About an hour, until his wife came, and she seemed to be uneasy about it.

32,494. What did his wife say when she found him in the watercloset?—She did not find him in the watercloset; she first sent a message to say that she wanted to see him, and we asked him to come out.

32,495. Where did you take him to after he got out of the watercloset?—Well, the waiters were standing at the end of the stairs with a bottle half empty of wine, and they gave him a glass, and she fetched him away.

32,496. Did she fetch him away before he got the money?—I never saw no money.

32,497. When did he get the 110*l.*?—He did not get it at all.

32,498. Who told you he might have it?—I was sent by my son John merely to get him down.

32,499. You were rather astonished to find he voted the other way?—Yes, the next morning, and yet I was not, because I knew he had not got what he was promised.

32,500. Had you?—I was not promised anything.

32,501. Not for fetching him?—Not a farthing from first to last.

32,502. Now 1859, what did you do at Mills' election in that year. Did you canvass at all?—Never.

32,503. Did you pay any voters at that election?—Not a farthing.

32,504. None at all?—None at all.

32,505. Did you go to Blank in 1859?—No.

32,506. When had you been to Blank before?—Never before.

32,507. He is your old friend?—Yes, I knew him.

32,508. How came you to be selected to go to him at this election?—Because my son asked me to run up.

32,509. That is the only time you ever had to do with Blank?—The only time.

32,510. Let us get it correct. I should not like to impute anything wrong to you. When did you first vote?—1840.

32,511. That is the first time?—Yes.

32,512. Then you voted for the Conservatives?—Yes.

32,513. What year were you converted?—I voted for Ricardo in 1847.

32,514. After that, till when did you remain a Liberal?—Till 1861 or 1862.

32,515. Then you were a Liberal at the time of Mr. Mills' election?—Yes.

32,516. Who was the chief manager for the Liberals at the time you were a Liberal?—I really know nothing of the transaction.

32,517. I mean who was their managing man; who did the business which your son does now for the Conservatives?—I do not know on the Liberal side. I was never offered anything from them.

32,518. Who was the managing man for them?—I cannot tell you.

32,519. Was Elliott?—Elliott never exchanged a word with me.

32,520. You knew pretty well what was going on politically here; whom should you look on as the managing man?—I cannot tell.

32,521. Who would represent Mr. Parnell of the present day?—The man who represented Mr. Parnell in those days was Mr. Hardin.

32,522. What was he?—A brush maker.

32,523. Is he alive?—No.

32,524. Then when did Mr. Parnell first come into note?—I do not know.

32,525. When did you first know him to be active?—I do not know, because I have never had any dealings, or had a farthing or a promise.

32,526. You know now?—Yes, I know now.

32,527. And that your son is pretty active on the other side?—Yes.

32,528. Was Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle active in those days when you were a Liberal?—No.

32,529. Old Mr. Huxham?—I do not know.

32,530. Mr. Brooking Cuming?—I believe so.

32,531. He was about the head of them?—I dare say he was.

32,532. How used you to vote in the council. Did you change about in the council the same way as in politics?—I never cared in council. I used to vote for those I conceived fit business men.

32,533. Did you ever distribute any money among voters for the council?—Never.

32,534. What was the utmost you received for your own vote in the council?—Never a farthing.

32,535. You know that voters did receive money?—Yes, because paid at my house.

32,536. When first paid at your house?—That was the first time and the last time a bill was ever paid at my house, the meeting of 1861.

32,537. How many were paid at your house?—I should think at that time no less probably than a dozen or 14.

32,538. What did they get?—It varied. Two of them had 6*l*., 3*l*. each; those were the Simses.

32,539. Why more than the others?—Because they had promised to vote the other side.

32,540. The voter who has to be obtained from the other side has to be paid more than he who comes willingly?—It appears so.

32,541. How much was spent altogether in paying these voters in your house?—The 20*l*. that I lent.

32,542. You were repaid that money?—Yes.

32,543. Who by? — Mr. William Hodge, who borrowed it.

32,544. Were you at the "Stars" much at the election of 1865?—I was not.

32,545. How often were you in the house?—I should say not more than three or four times from first to last. I was there at Colonel Dawkins' meeting.

32,446. Were you ever there very late at night?—Never. I was there at Captain Pim's meeting, and I believe I was there when the nomination was. There was refreshment there.

32,547. Since you have been a Conservative you have looked on Mr. John Heath as the most active gentleman on your side, have not you?—I do not know as far as looking on Mr. Heath or any other man.

32,548. If you wanted to send a voter for money should not you send him to Mr. John Heath?—Well, yes.

32,549. You took Blank to Heath?—No.

32,550. You took him to the "Stars"?—I took him to the "Stars."

32,551. You have looked on that as the head quarters of that party?—Yes.

32,552. The place where the money has been going?—Yes.

32,553. Now, what is the corresponding place where money is paid on the Liberal side. Do you know of money being paid at the "Seymour Arms"?—I never knew myself.

32,554. Did you know of the "Seymour Arms" being used by the Liberal party in the same way as the "Stars" was used by the Conservative party?—No, I did not.

32,555. Do you know Thomas Searle?—Yes.

32,556. What have you had to do with him in elections in Baldwin's time?—I never had anything to do with him.

32,557. Searle used to vote for Baldwin when you did?—No; he voted for Baldwin when I voted for Ricardo.

32,558. Do you know what he got at that time, when you voted for Ricardo?—No.

32,559. You can tell us some more about these later elections?—I will answer any question truthfully, but I do not know; I have not been mixed up in any way with the affairs.

32,560. (Mr Longe.) Who was the landlord of the inn you now hold?—I am the owner of it myself.

32,561. Who was the innkeeper there?—It was not an inn till I converted it.

32,562. You told us you looked out for business. When you took it you were a Liberal?—I bought the house in 1849.

32,563. Then you were a Liberal?—When you say I was a Liberal——

32,564. You have told us you were looking out for business on that side of the water?—Yes.

32,565. And you conformed to the Bridgetown politics?—That was about it.

32,566. You fell out with Mr. Brooking Cuming, and then you changed sides?—Yes.

32,567. Did it make any difference in your custom?—I think I benefitted by it.

32,568. By changing sides?—Yes. I will tell you why: all the houses were in one interest; then I found, that by voting for the Conservative party I had a chance of getting all the Conservatives on that side of the water.

32,569. But there are very few that side of the water that are Conservatives?—That are residents on that side.

32,570. You mean people passing through?—Yes; I have more old friends in Totnes than I have in Bridgetown.

32,571. That was rather a good dodge?—Yes.

32,572. You changed politics, and got a little more business than voting with Mr. Farley and the "Seymour"?—Yes.

32,573. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you change your brewers as often as you change your politics?—I do if they do not treat me well.

32,574. Is yours a free house?—Yes.

32,575. (Mr. Longe.) Did you lose any of your old customers when you changed politics?—Yes, I changed a few; I had not very many to change.

32,576. I suppose you have been talking to your son about this?—Nothing more than the bare facts of the case.

32,577. Has not he refreshed your memory by what took place at the last election?—I could not be refreshed, because I had very little to do with it.

32,578. On purpose, or what?—I did not know anything about it. I kept myself entirely aloof.

32,579. Has your son anything to do with the inn?—I am the only innkeeper.

32,580. Does he live with you?—He lives with me.

32,581. (Mr. Bere.) How was it that he had to go away just about the time the summonses were served?—He usually goes away at harvest time. Every year we miss him for two or three weeks.

32,582. Do not you know what becomes of him?—I do at times. Sometimes I do not.

TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

Mr. S. Screach.

Sept. 1866.

32,583. I think you did last time?—I was not aware where he was when he wrote to me.

32,584. But before he wrote to you, you knew where he had gone to, did not you?—No.

32,585. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he ever tell you of his being run down?—Yes; I heard the two parties met, and had a joke over it.

32,586. (Mr. Longe.) Did you ever say, when you changed sides, that the Duke of Somerset's agents had forbidden the tenantry coming to your inn?—I have; and I can give you an instance, as far as regards how they treated me as respects my business in the public line. On one occasion, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore passing my door——

32,587. When was this?—Since I have changed.

32,588. You must put it at some time?—I should say it was in 1862.

32,589. That was before you voted?—I had offended them. The first offence was by declining to vote for Mr. Pender, or the first election in which there was no contest.

32,590. That was 1862?—Then I am right, 1862.

32,591. Then there was another election in 1863?—Well, in 1862, between those elections.

32,592. There is only a month, you know?—It was between those elections; about that time. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore called on me; he was passing my door, and his man who drives the Duke of Somerset's horse and cart was stopping to have a drink of cyder, and when the man came home in the evening, so he informed me, when he came in again the next day, he says, "I "could not come for my cyder, because Mr. Jeff took "me to task for coming to your house for the cyder;" and I says, "What did he say?" he says, "He told "me if I wanted any cyder, I was to come to any "house in Bridgetown but to that man."

32,593. What was his name?—Finch. Then he brought his cask in a bag, because it should not be known, and came to my house to have it filled.

32,594. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is that Finch Mr. Durant's agent?—No; another family altogether.

32,595. Is that the only case?—Yes; that is the only case.

32,596. Did you believe him?—Yes; I did.

32,597. Do you believe there was anybody else besides Finch who was directed not to go to your house?—Well, I used to have customers among many of the duke's workmen, and now I never see any of them.

32,598. I suppose your connexion with the Conservative party has not improved your position with the Liberals?—I do not suppose it has.

32,599. It has brought you some of the Conservatives?—I am very happy to tell you, I am moving in a position now that I can pay every person his honest due.

32,600. Have you ever paid back any of those sums of money that you received for your vote?—I will tell you I believe there is not much of that refunded. That is the worst of all funds.

H. Bartlett.

HENRY BARTLETT recalled.

32,601. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know William Adams?—What is he? I know a man who is an organist.

32,602. He is living in the Plymouth Road?—Yes.

32,603. Did you see him about the election of 1852?—Not to my recollection.

32,604. Did not he come and ask you to vote for Mr. Mills in 1852?—Never.

32,605. Is he the organist of Bridgetown?—Yes.

32,606. I suppose he was pretty active for the Bridgetown people?—Not that I know of.

32,607. Did not he come and ask you to vote for Mr. Mills?—Not to my recollection; he might have come into my shop and spoken about it.

32,608. Did not he come and offer you some money to vote for Mr. Mills?—Never.

32,609. And not only offer you money, but did not you say it was not enough?—I never had a conversation about it in my life.

32,610. Mr. Adams will be here to speak to this?—Yes.

32,611. You never had such a conversation?—Never in my life.

32,612. You never told him it would be all arranged, and that you should vote for Baldwin?—Only a trick got up by these very parties.

32,613. It is a very extraordinary trick that there should be such a number of witnesses in support of it?—I cannot say anything of the sort.

32,614. Do you know a man called William Browse?—I do not recollect.

32,615. Did you never know such a man?—I did not.

32,616. Did you ever hear the name of such a man?—I did not. Browse?

32,617. A voter?—Yes, that is it.

32,618. Did you ever have anything to do with him about his vote?—Never in my life.

32,619. Do you know whether he was a voter or not?—That I do not know.

32,620. Did you ever receive any money on his behalf?—Never.

32,621. Do you know his wife?—I cannot recollect; I might know her; she lives here.

32,622. Do you not know perfectly well the persons I am asking about?—No, I do not know more than what I say.

32,623. Have you ever had anything to do with money on his behalf to vote?—Never.

32,624. (Mr. Coleridge.) You heard what Mr. Michelmore said the other day about 75*l.*; after that statement do you still adhere to your former statement, that you received no such sum of money?—I swear I never had any conversation about the thing in my life.

32,625. Not here?—Never, with any parties.

32,626. Did you ever receive money to vote for Mr. Presswell?—Never.

32,627. Do you mean to say, that what Mr. Michelmore has said is all a falsehood?—It is all false. There is one of the party who has knowledge, and he can tell you more about it than I can.

R. Norrish.

RICHARD NORRISH recalled and examined.

32,628. (Mr. Bere.) Who did you get the 25*l.* from?—I did not get the money.

32,629. Do you recollect Mr. Nicholas Norrish getting 25*l.*?—I do.

32,630. When was that?—When Mr. Michelmore canvassed with Mr. Bowden.

32,631. What relation is Nicholas Norrish to you?—A brother.

32,632. Were you living together?—No; it was sent from the "Seven Stars" up to the house; the Whig parties wanted to take him away.

32,633. Did Mr. Bowden go up with you?—No, I never saw him there; no one else was in the room but me and him.

32,634. He brought him to the "Bay Horse"?—Yes.

32,635. He did not get the vote?—No.

32,636. He has sworn he did?—Not this vote.

32,637. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who paid your brother?—James Pendle.

32,638. Do you know where he got the money?—I do.

32,639. Where was it?—Of Mr. Frederick Michelmore.

32,640. Did not you say he got it from Mr. Pendle; who got it from Mr. Michelmore?—No; I saw Mr. Michelmore give it to John Pendle, and he took it up into his bedroom. I was looking out of window at the time.

32,641. What was it?—Five five pound notes.

32,642. What window was it?—I was in the room with him; I saw Mr. Michelmore and Pendle talking together.

32,643. How far was the window above the yard?—Eight or 10 feet, the second floor.

32,644. Did you see that it was five five pound notes?—I could not see before Mr. Pendle brought them up.

32,645. You saw him give him something?—Mr. Pendle came up first without money, and then he went back again to Mr. Michelmore and he came back with the 25*l*.

32,646. Did you see Mr. Michelmore give him anything?—I saw him give him a parcel.

32,647. What sort of a parcel?—A little round parcel.

32,648. What colour?—In paper; I do not know whether it was money or not.

32,649. You could not tell whether he was paying it for someone else, or whether he was paying him the money for himself?—No.

32,650. You should be careful what you say?—I did not see Mr. Michelmore give it to Pendle, but Pendle I saw he had it.

32,651. You saw Pendle with the money after he had talked with Mr. Michelmore?—Yes.

32,652. When did you come out of gaol last?—20 years ago.

32,653. What was that for?—For getting drunk on a Sunday and misbehaving myself.

32,654. A highway robber?—It might be so, sir.

32,655. How much imprisonment had you for that—12 months.

32,656. When was your vote struck off at the registration?—At that time; not since.

32,657. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was it you were convicted of; actual highway robbery?—Yes.

32,658. (Mr. Bere.) Were you tried at the sessions or the assizes?—At the assizes.

32,659. Your vote was struck off last year?—Yes.

32,660. What for?—A fresh letting.

32,661. What did the revising barrister say about the way you gave evidence last year?—What did he say?

32,662. What did he say?—He did not say anything in particular.

32,663. Did he not say he could not believe what you said?—No, he did not.

32,664. Did he say something like it?—No.

Mr. R. H. Watso

RICHARD HUXHAM WATSON sworn and examined.

32,665. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—At Dorsley, two miles from this place.

32,666. You are a farmer and a yeoman?—Yes.

32,667. And a magistrate of the county?—Yes.

32,668. How long have you been a voter in Totnes?—Since my father's death. The first election I voted at was in 1852.

32,669. Have you voted from that time up to the present time for the Liberals?—Yes.

32,670. When were you made a magistrate?—1863.

32,671. At what time in 1863?—I had a notice from Mr. Ford of the appointment; that is the notice I received, dated the 24th of March, 1863 (handing it in).

32,672. Did you vote at the election of 1863?—Yes.

32,673. For whom did you vote?—It was Mr. Seymour's election.

32,674. You voted for Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

32,675. Did you go to France just before the election?—Yes.

32,676. Did you return in consequence of a communication addressed to you while you were in France?—Perhaps I had better relate about my visit to France.

32,677. Can you answer me the question shortly?—Yes; but it has a material bearing upon the particular question.

32,678. Did you go to France and come back?—Yes.

32,679. Did you come back in consequence of a letter addressed to you asking you to come and vote at the election?—No.

32,680. To tell you the election was coming on?—It was arranged before I went away that I should know when the election did take place. I had notice and I came back purposely.

32,681. Did you say you should not come back to the election?—I did not.

32,682. Whom did you make arrangements with that you should come back at the election?—I saw Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Cuming, and told them I was going away.

32,683. At that time was Lord Gifford dead?—He was when I went away.

32,684. How long were you to be away?—I took a monthly ticket at Exeter.

32,685. Your time was not out?—I could have stayed; I took a return ticket because of the cheapness of it.

32,686. Did you not meet some gentlemen at the station and say you did not intend to vote?—The only two persons I spoke to upon the subject were Mr. Bryett and Mr. Presswell previous to going.

32,687. Did you tell Mr. Presswell you should not vote?—I told him that under no circumstances should I vote for Mr. Dent because he would not support Lord Palmerston. I told Mr. Bryett in his office; he said, cannot you give Mr. Dent a vote, he will be a splendid fellow for the rifle corps subscriptions and prizes. I said, under no circumstances could I vote for Mr. Dent.

32,688. When did you start for France?—On the 29th, the Monday morning.

32,689. When did you hear that the election was coming on?—I saw it in the paper when it was likely to come on. I had a letter; Mr. Harris stated there was a telegraph, but I never received but one communication by letter, which I received from Mr. Jeffery Michelmore on the Thursday evening.

32,690. Have you got the letter?—It was merely that the election would be safe to come off at the beginning of the week. I came home on the Friday night.

32,691. When did you apply to the Duke of Somerset to be made a magistrate?—I never had any communication whatever.

32,692. Not till you received the communication from him?—Not with the Duke of Somerset. I will tell you the whole of it.

32,693. The allegation against you is this; that you voted for the Liberals on the understanding that if you did so vote you were to be appointed a magistrate, and you came back and voted?—The subject of the magistracy was never mentioned to me until long after the election in any way; not till the beginning of March. The first time it was mentioned at all was in this way; old Mr. Michelmore, who is dead, asked me to come out to see him; he was an old friend of mine, and in the course of the evening he said, I want to ask you a question, come into another room; I went into the other room with him, and he said, I want to ask you a question, if you are made a magistrate, will you act? I said, "I do not know "about that, I must inquire first what is to be done "before, and what the duties are; that is not a ques- "tion I should like to answer off-hand, I shall take "two or three days to consider." He said, "Consider "it over." I thought it over and I then told him yes, I would take it; and before the 24th of March I received a letter from Mr. Ford. That is the only communication that ever took place on the matter.

32,694. You knew nothing about your going to be made a magistrate before you were appointed?—The subject was never put to me in any other manner.

32,695. You have nothing else to state?—Nothing whatever upon the point; I merely wish to contradict Mr. Harris's statement, which is untrue, and an utter lie from the beginning to the end.

Adjourned till to-morrow at half-past 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

Friday, 21st September 1866.

Rev. J. Powning.

The Rev. James Powning recalled.

Sept. 1866.

32,696. (Mr. Bere.) What do you wish to explain?—In the early part of my evidence I stated it was my impression that Mr. Arthur Gill had spoken to Mr. Edmonds, but I inquired about that, and find that such is not the case.

32,697. Whom did you inquire of?—Of Mr. Edmonds and Mr. George Heath, and Mr. George Heath says it was to him that Mr. Arthur Gill spoke and made the arrangements for the expedition; and with regard to the latter part of my evidence, I said it was my impression that this letter, written by Mr. Mitchell, was signed "Scrutator;" instead of that, it is signed "Vindicator," and I have thought on it still more, and I remember perfectly well that Mr. Mitchell quite acknowledged the authorship of the letter.

Mr. W. Oldrey.

Mr. William Oldrey sworn and examined.

32,698. (Mr. Bere.) Are you high bailiff of the county court here?—I am.

32,699. How long have you held that office?—Six years on the 7th July.

32,700. Whom did you succeed?—Thomas Welch.

32,701. Are you the father of William Oldrey?—I am.

32,702. Is he at present the Conservative registration agent for Kent?—He is.

32,703. How long has he left Totnes?—I think a few days after the taking of the last census.

32,704. After April, 1861?—Yes.

32,705. Has he been away from Totnes ever since?—Yes, he has; but he occasionally comes down.

32,706. Does he come at the time of the elections at all?—No.

32,707. Was he down here in 1863 or 1865 during the time of the election?—No.

32,708. Have you had any communication with him during the time of the election, when he was in London?—I have had none to my recollection; in fact I have not.

32,709. Did not you communicate with him by telegraph on one or two occasions?—I never did.

32,710. You have also a son at Plymouth?—I have not.

32,711. You had one there?—No.

32,712. Where is your other son?—I have two sons. One is at home with me.

32,713. Has he ever been to Plymouth?—Only occasionally.

32,714. I believe when you became the high bailiff of the county court it was understood between you and the judge that you were not to interfere with politics?—It was; and I have rigidly adhered to it. I have taken no part in politics ever since.

32,715. Besides being high bailiff, do you keep a china shop?—Yes.

32,716. (Mr. Coleridge.) You said just now that you never communicated by telegraph during the election?—Not upon election matters.

32,717. We did not ask that?—Not to my recollection.

32,718. Here is one, July 14th, Oldrey to Oldrey. From you to your son, I suppose?—Not very likely from me to my son. It may be from one son to the other.

32,719. You have one son here?—I have said so. I have one son at London and another at Totnes, and I may as well state this. You mentioned just now about my having a son at Plymouth. I have not; but there is an Oldrey at Plymouth, my brother.

32,720. There is a telegram Oldrey to Oldrey, Plymouth?—It is not from me.

32,721. You are sure of that?—I am on my oath.

32,722. You did not send any telegram to your son at Plymouth, or to your son in London?—I never sent a telegram with regard to politics.

32,723. Did you send one?—I do not recollect sending one in my life.

32,724. Do you say you did not send a telegram during the election?—Yes; but I have a brother who has made matters rather popular.

32,725. There is a telegram—Oldrey to Ledray?—That is not from me. It must be from my son.

32,726. Who is Ledray?—It must be Rodder, the high bailiff of the county court.

32,727. (Mr. Bere.) It must be from you?—No; it must be from my son, my under-bailiff. I leave my business in his hands. I am often away from home, and I do not know what he does. I leave it to his judgment to do what is right during my absence.

32,728. I suppose you have voted since you have been high bailiff?—Yes.

32,729. For which party?—I am a thorough-going Conservative, and have ever voted that way.

32,730. Did you ever take an active part in the election before you were high bailiff?—No.

32,731. When did you first begin to vote?—I should think 20 years ago.

30,732. Was the first election Baldwin and Ricardo?—I think I voted then. I voted once for Mr. Baldwin.

32,733. Do you remember whether that was in 1847 or 1852?—I do not know.

32,734. At that time did you receive anything for your vote from Mr. Baldwin?—I never received a farthing in my life.

32,735. And no promise or present?—Never a promise. I never bribed or received a bribe, and never had a promise.

32,736. Did not you take some part when Mr. Dent came down?—I did not.

32,737. What is your son's name here?—Marcus Francis.

32,738. The one who acts for you as under-bailiff?—Yes.

32,739. Do you know a man called Brown, who keeps the "Market House Inn?"—I do.

32,740. Did you have anything to do with him during Dent's election?—I did not.

32,741. Did you see him?—He came to see me before that, and I lent him some money.

32,742. During the time of the election?—No, about 12 months before.

32,743. Tell us when?—With regard to dates I cannot tell, but 12 months before the election.

32,744. Which election?—I would not be certain whether it was Dent or Mackenzie.

32,745. Has he ever repaid you?—No.

32,746. What did he give you; a note of hand?—Yes; but he has been obliged to leave his house.

32,747. Have you got the note of hand?—No.

32,748. What became of it?—I gave it him back.

32,749. What was it for—50*l.*?—No, 3*l.* odd.

32,750. Is that all the money you have lent him?—Yes.

32,751. Was there not a sum of 50*l.* came through you to him?—Never.

32,752. Nor any person connected with you?—

Never to my knowledge. I may tell you that I lent him the money then because he was in difficulties. He wanted more, but finding he would not be able to get on, I stopped there, and I gave it him back. I said, "If it is possible, you will pay it if you can;" but I knew he could not. He was 73 years of age, but I believe he is now receiving relief from the parish.

32,753. Is he dead?—I would not be certain. I think I may say he is dead. I have heard that he is dead.

32,754. Do you know whether John Brown voted at that election in 1863?—Really I cannot tell; I did not go to see.

32,755. Did you vote in 1859, when Dunn stood?—I did.

32,756. Do you know how Brown voted at that election?—No, I do not. I did not busy myself about it.

32,757. Did you go to the Conservative committee rooms during that election?—No.

32,758. Did you see Mr. Edmonds, or any of the active Conservatives about the election?—No.

32,759. Did they canvass you?—Yes.

32,760. Who came?—Mr. Dunn came, and I at once promised him.

32,761. Did Mrs. Dunn come too?—Not that I am aware of.

32,762. Did you have a pretty good sale of china in your shop at that election?—Never.

32,763. Was not Mrs. Dunn a pretty good customer?—She never spent a farthing in my shop, if I can take my wife's word.

32,764. Does your wife keep the accounts?—Yes, she attends to that business.

32,765. You cannot tell whether there was a good sale of china to Mrs. Dunn?—I am certain it was not booked if there was.

32,766. You cannot say of your own knowledge whether there was such a sale?—I could not say.

32,767. Do you find the name of Captain Phipps at all on your books?—No.

32,768. Do you find the name of Dunn on your books?—No; none of the candidates appear in my books.

32,769. It would not appear in the books if it was a ready money sale?—No.

32,770. It would only appear in the cash-books?—Yes.

32,771. There might have been a sale and you know nothing about it?—I would know.

32,772. What was your business then, besides keeping a china shop?—I was then high bailiff.

32,773. When were you appointed high bailiff?—Six years last July.

32,774. The election took place in 1859?—I was not high bailiff then. I had kept that shop for some years and I am registrar of births and deaths, and have been so for 14 years.

32,775. That took up your time so much that you had not any to give to the selling of china?—Ever since I have kept that business, 90 times out of 100 I have opened and shut that shop myself, and looked over the goods, and I am certain if any goods had been sold I should have seen it and made some inquiry, "Where is this, or that, gone?"

32,776. I understand that you say, upon your oath, that you have never received money for your vote, nor offered money to any other person for his vote?—That is the truth.

32,777. Nor promised anyone?—True. I am on my oath.

32,778. Nor lent any person anything that you afterwards forgave?—I have never lent any person money otherwise than as expecting it back again.

32,779. Nor been a means of communicating with any person from whom a voter has obtained money?—Never. I may as well mention it, as it just occurs to my mind, a friend of mine whispered to me, "How "about your going to London last year and coming back "the evening before the election?" I may as well volunteer, because otherwise he will tell me by-and-bye, "You kept back something, young man, that you ought not." A fortnight before the election took place, I, knowing it would come soon, went to London and there I remained until the day before the election, and came home on the nomination day.

32,780. What made you go away?—I went for a holiday.

32,781. Could not you trust yourself down here because of the excitement?—Yes; because I do not go near a political meeting, I promised I would not, nor do I.

32,782. Then what made you go up?—That was just the very time that would suit me, I rather think I asked the judge to allow me to go, but I assure you I never received a note.

32,783. Where did you go to?—To my son's.

32,784. Is that William Henry?—William Harry.

32,785. Did you talk about the Totnes election?—Oh yes.

32,786. Does he take a great deal of interest in elections?—He does in election matters.

32,787. Do you know whether he went down during that fortnight to Messrs. Smith and Guscotte's office?—I cannot tell; he used to go to his office in the morning.

32,788. That was Mr. Smith's office?—Yes.

32,789. Did he ever talk to you about how the election was going on?—We had several chats about it whilst in London, and I should have stayed another week but for the election taking place so soon.

32,790. You came down to vote?—Yes.

32,791. Were your expenses paid?—Certainly not, but by myself.

32,792. Not by the Conservatives?—No, I never had a farthing from the Conservatives in my life. Here are the heads of them, I see around me.

32,793. Did you leave your son down here?—Yes.

32,794. Did he write to you from time to time?—No, my wife wrote to me.

32,795. Is she an enthusiastic politician?—She is a great politician.

32,796. Did she write constantly?—Constantly.

32,797. About the election?—No, she wrote to me and told me the day the election was to take place.

32,798. In her enthusiasm is that all she told you about the election?—That is all; I believe, however, if you are going to have her here, she may perhaps tell you more than I know. I know that she told me the day of the election, and that I need not come home unless I chose before the nomination day, because my enthusiasm was so great as to keep me there during the nomination.

32,799. Did she tell you that Colonel Dawkins was going on very well?—She told me that Colonel Dawkins and Commander Pim had called on me, and I think she said she had promised my votes for them.

32,800. Did you leave that part of the business to her as well as the china?—Well, really she knows my Conservative opinions and I know hers so well that I can trust my Conservative opinions in her hands.

32,801. (Mr. Coleridge.) She couples enthusiasm with discretion?—I should hope she did. You will have her here before you.

32,802. (Mr. Bere.) Did your son tell you whether he ever knew of any money coming down to Totnes on the Conservative side?—No, he did not to my recollection.

32,803. Are you quite sure?—I will not be positive.

32,804. Had not he been asked during that time whether he could recommend a person to go down to Totnes?—That I will not be certain about.

32,805. Did not he talk to you about it?—No, because it was too late then.

32,806. You did not come down till the nomination day, and were in London a fortnight, and your wife you say is so enthusiastic a politician that she writes to you constantly. Did not you talk about the politics of Totnes, and how the election was going on, and how it was to be managed?—Yes, but I do not know with certainty that he knew Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim were in the field here.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. W. Oldrey.

21 Sept. 1866.

32,807. But seeing he was in the office of the Conservative Registration Association?—Possibly he might; but he was away from early morning and stayed away during the day till late.

32,808. You must have dined together?—We did, once or twice.

32,809. And after dinner had not you any talk about the election?—I do not know whether we did or not; it is very possible we did.

32,810. Did not he tell you there was a lot of money going down to Totnes and they wanted somebody to hand it out?—No; I am positive in regard to that.

32,811. Did he tell you that a good deal of money had gone down?—He did not.

32,812. I do not mean that he mentioned the exact sum?—No, he did not mention any sum; he did not even tell me that money had gone.

32,813. Did not he tell you that Colonel Dawkins was a pretty good man, and had plenty of money to spend?—Possibly; I cannot recollect.

32,814. Do not you think he did?—It is possible, but I will not be positive.

32,815. Did you ever see the two clerks who were here from Smith and Guscotte's office?—No; I have been at the office.

32,816. Messrs. Smith and Guscotte's office?—No, Mr. Henry Smith's.

32,817. Did you happen to be in court when those two clerks were examined?—No; in fact, I have only been here once.

(Mr. Charles F. Michelmore.) Will you allow me to make a statement to amend what I have stated? I was asked a question. There is a man called John Watson gave evidence of my having paid 20*l.* to Bartlett, for a man called Norrish, and I stated I did not recollect, but I met Watson afterwards in the street, and he called my attention to the fact, and named the person, and told me it was a lame man who was working at the same slate quarries, at a place near here, called Lake Garden, and then it flashed across my mind that I did pay Bartlett 20*l.* for him.

32,818. Is the man now alive?—No. You will remember Watson stated that he told him over and over again, that the money had not been paid, and when on his death-bed he stated also that Bartlett had not paid him the money. I think it right to make that statement.

N. Manning.

NICHOLAS MANNING recalled and further examined.

32,819. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect anything more now about the election?—Why I gave this man the notice to quit, Veasey, was because the work he had done was not according to my wishes.

32,820. This was after he had voted against you, was it not?—He had painted a dining-room or drawing-room for my family, at Bridgetown, and the work never got dry. I was obliged to get it washed off and done over again. Another reason was that I could make more rent of it.

32,821. How much more rent could you make of it?—It is now let for 12*l.*

32,822. What did you get for it before?—He had but part of it. I think the two together made about 10*l.*; I let it for 12*l.* now.

32,823. Then you had nothing to do with Veasey's voting against you, that you gave him notice to quit?—Decidedly not.

32,824. You gave some other of your tenants notice to quit?—I did not.

32,825. Is Kelland a tenant of yours?—Yes.

32,826. Did you ever turn him out?—No.

32,827. In 1852, did you not receive some money from your brother William?—Whose election was that?

32,828. That was the last time that Baldwin stood?—Yes, I did.

32,829. You recollect that now?—Yes, I do.

32,830. Who gave it you?—I cannot charge my memory exactly, but I think it was Fogwill.

32,831. How much was it?—30*l.*

32,832. Did you give it to your brother?—Yes; I went to his house and could not find him. I waited till he came back, and I told him that the money had been handed to me for his vote. He said, "I never asked for it; why did they send it to me?"

32,833. Did he tell you to take it back again?—I put it down on the table; he opened it himself. I cannot say how it was folded up.

32,834. You had no vote on that occasion?—I had not.

32,835. Your brother had?—Yes.

32,836. And he got 30*l.* for his vote?—Yes.

32,837. What did you get for your trouble?—Not a farthing.

32,838. Did he give you nothing back?—No,

32,839. In 1857, when Mackenzie and Gregory stood, you had a vote?—Yes.

32,840. What did you get for your vote then?—Not a farthing.

32,841. What did you get for your brother?—Not a farthing: my brother acted for himself; I did not act for him.

32,842. In 1859, how did you vote?—Who were the candidates?

32,843. That was Dunn's election?—I voted for Dunn.

32,844. Tell us what you got then?—Not a sixpence.

32,845. Was anything left for you?—Not a farthing.

32,846. Neither before nor after the election; nor your wife?—No, nor my wife; there was no consideration whatever.

32,847. Was any money given to you to distribute on that occasion?—No; I never gave a penny to any individual.

32,848. Do you recollect having a cheque given to you in Mrs. Thomas's shop about that time?—Never.

32,849. Was not a cheque given to you there?—Never to my knowledge.

32,850. You never had an order given to you upon her shop?—No; never to my knowledge.

32,851. Try and recollect about it; tell me who gave you a cheque in Mrs. Thomas's shop at any time?—No person ever did so to my knowledge.

32,852. You never received any cheque in that shop?—I am not aware of it, if so it is beyond my recollection.

32,853. Was that not so in 1857?—No, never.

32,854. Or in 1859?—No; I never received any cheque there to my knowledge.

32,855. Did you never on any occasion receive a cheque in Mrs. Thomas's shop, try and recollect it?—I do not think I ever did. I can almost swear I never did. If my memory fails me and you will bring me acquainted with any of the circumstances I shall be very ready to admit it.

32,856. Will you swear you never received a cheque in Mrs. Thomas's shop at any time?—As far as my knowledge goes I will. I do not believe I ever received one.

32,857. Have you had any dealings with Fogwill about elections except in 1852?—I have seen him at elections many times; we were, generally speaking, on opposite sides to each other; he on the Liberal, I on the Conservative side.

32,858. How came he to give you this money for your brother?—I met him quite accidentally.

32,859. Your brother and he were on opposite sides when he gave you this money?—They were not then.

32,860. After 1852 Fogwill and your brother were on opposite sides?—I think they generally were.

32,861. When he and Fogwill were on opposite sides he gave you this money for your brother. Do you know why he did not give it your brother himself?—No.

32,862. Do you know a man of the name of Holman?—Yes, I do.

32,863. Did Holman ever give you a cheque in Mrs. Thomas's shop?—What Holman. I do not believe any person ever did to the best of my recollection.

32,864. Or anywhere else?—No.

32,865. Did you ever receive a cheque from Holman? Never to my knowledge.

32,866. If you did you must know it?—I cannot call it to my recollection in the slightest way. Is it for money that you mean?

32,867. Yes?—I am sure I never did.

32,868. You never received any money or money's worth from any Holman?—I cannot say any Holman, there are many Holmans besides those here.

32,869. Did you ever receive a cheque from Holman in Mrs. Thomas's shop?—I do not know that I ever received any such cheque to the best of my memory.

32,870. Did you ever receive a cheque from any Holman?—I am not aware that I ever did in my lifetime. I am sure that Mrs. Thomas's shop was the last place I should have gone into to have taken a cheque, because she is a violent politician at such times. I should be cautious about taking a cheque there.

32,871. When you gave your brother this 30*l.* how much did you receive from him?—Not a farthing.

32,872. Had not your brother and you some squabble; did he not tell you that you had received 50*l.* and had only given him 30*l.*?—No such thing, after that my brother was insolvent, and I assisted him to the utmost of my power, backed bills for him, and various things; that was what made us quarrel, not this affair.

32,873. Did he not tell you that Fogwell had given you 50*l.* for him, and that you had only given him 30*l.* of it?—I gave him every farthing that I received.

32,874. Was it not 20*l.* that you gave him and not 30*l.*?—No.

32,875. When you came to make up accounts with your brother who was insolvent was there not an allowance made for this sum of money?—Not a farthing.

32,876. Did you not have some disagreement about this money?—We never had an unpleasant word on the subject to the day of his death, he got into difficulties and I had to assist him; it was a very painful matter, but I did what I could to relieve him from his difficulties.

32,877. (Mr. Bere.) When did he get into difficulties?—After this election.

32,878. Did you go up to London about the petition in Mills' time?—I did.

32,879. Did you hand back some money to Mr. Mills' agent, and receive a note of hand instead?—I did not.

32,880. What did you get?—I got paid for my services.

32,881. How much did you get?—I cannot tell you the sum; the coach hire and everything of that kind was paid.

32,882. Was not a good deal of money returned at that time, that the people might swear they had not received any bribes?—I do not know. I never returned any. I had my expenses paid. I went up in the train and stayed three or four days, and came back again by train.

32,883. (Mr. Coleridge.) You were paid in advance?—Yes, before I went away I was handed a 5*l.* note, and that was taken into consideration.

32,884. How many 5*l.* notes were handed to you between the time that Mr. Mills came down, and the time that you went up to London?—I never received ...

32,885. How many 5*l.* notes did you get?—I did not get any.

32,886. You told us you got one?—One before I started.

32,887. How many more than one?—I did not get more than one.

32,888. Where did you get the next, was it in London?—In London, we all met together, and the expenses were paid.

32,889. How many 5*l.* notes did you get in London?—I do not think it was 5*l.* notes.

32,890. How many sovereigns?—I cannot possibly bear in mind.

32,891. What did your wife get that time?—Not a farthing, or a 6*d.*

32,892. Now then, Mr. Manning, come, do you not know very well your wife told Mr. Yabbicom herself that you had 30*l.* for the election of 1852?—I do not believe it.

32,893. Do you not know she told him in your presence and you heard it?—Never.

(Mr. Yabbicom.) It was his brother's wife; you are speaking of his own wife.

32,894. (Mr. Coleridge.) Now we are in 1859, it was in 1859 you went up to London?—I do not recollect the date.

39,895. What election was it that you went up to London about the petition?—I can hardly tell you at the present moment, I daresay you have the date.

39,896. Was it Dunn's election?—I do not think it was Dunn's election. I think it was before Dunn's election.

32,897. We have got so much to ask you that you had better get a printed list of the elections and refresh your memory, and then we will ask you more about it?—I do not wish to keep back anything that I know.

32,898. (Mr. Bere.) You keep back a great deal, and when these questions were put to you about the 30*l.* to your brother you deny it all?—No, I did not, not that; you did not bring forward the subject before.

32,899. We put all these questions to you the last time, and you swore that you had not had any?—I think you will find you are mistaken. What is the election you were examining upon?

(Mr. Coleridge.) The 1852 election.—"Q. Do you "recollect getting 50*l.*?—A. Never. Q. Did you vote in "1857?—A. Never. Q. It is not true that you got a "sum of money for your brother?—A. Certainly not; "I deny it. Q. Did you know that your brother was "having it?—A. I did not."

(Mr. Coleridge.) You say you voted in 1852.—"In "1852 you voted?—Who were then the members? "Baldwin and Mills. In 1852 do you recollect getting "50*l.* for your vote?—Never." Then I ask, "It is "not true that you got a sum of money for your bro-"ther?—Certainly not; I deny it. Did you know that your brother was having it?—I did not."

32,900. (Mr. Bere.) What do you mean by that?—I do not believe it was that election.

32,901. (Mr. Coleridge.) You are sworn here to speak the whole truth?—I am quite ready to tell you everything I know.

32,902. "Did you get something for your brother?—A. Nothing; it is something Mr. Yabbicom told you, but I do not know what you mean"?—I did not know it.

32,903. At the time you got money for your brother was it not the time Mr. Yabbicom heard your brother's wife say you got 30*l.*?—Yes.

32,904. When I called your attention to the fact of Mr. Yabbicom knowing about it, do you mean you did not recollect that you got money for your brother?—When I got it I handed it to him.

32,905. You did not know when I asked you what it referred to?—I did not know that Mr. Yabbicom had been mixed up with it in any shape.

32,906. I suppose you found out that Mr. Yabbicom did know it, and that he told us what we have learned?—I did not.

32,907. Try and recollect something more?—I am ready to tell you everything I know.

32,908-9. You did not tell us on the last occasion?—I had not time then.

Mr. J. Yabbicom.

Mr. JOHN YABBICOM recalled.

(Witness.) Does the Court wish me to say anything in regard to this man's evidence?

(Mr. Bere.) Yes.

(Witness.) In 1852 a contest in this borough took place between Mr. Mills, Mr. Baldwin, and Lord Seymour. I think it was Mills and Baldwin.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. J. Yabbicom.

21 Sept. 1866.

I only speak with reference to those two. I had heard that William Manning, who was the brother of the last witness, and kept an account at one bank had been bribed, and I heard also that Mr. Manning had been summoned to London specially for the London Committee ; in consequence of that, and finding that one of my customers had been engaged in rather a disgraceful transaction, I went down. Our bank was at the lower part of the town then. I went to Mr. Manning, and I said, "Manning, I understand you have been summoned to London ;" he said, "No sir, I have not, my brother Nicholas has;" I said, "What for? Did you receive any money?" "Not a farthing." "Do you mean that?" "Not a farthing." I said, "I am happy to hear that, I am pleased with that, you have nothing to trouble yourself about." But when I was going out of the door his wife came after me and she said, "Sir, may not a person receive a little present on these occasions." I said, "If you receive a present it is an awkward thing." I said, "Is it true that you have had any?" She said, "Well sir, to tell you the truth Nicholas has received it." "What has he had?" "He has had 30*l.*" "Who gave it to him?" "I do not know, but I think Mr. Fogwill gave it to him." "Have you had it?" "No sir." "Did you allow him to keep the money?" "No sir, we have had half of it." That she told me ; and subsequently to that, I think the next morning, I saw Mr. Manning, and I said, "You are summoned to London?" "Yes, I am." I said, "You have made a pretty mess of it, for you appear to have received money." He said, "What can I do by it?" I said, "It is disgraceful to do it; give it back, do not put it in your pocket But Mrs. Manning says you have kept half of it." He says, "I do not know what to do with it." I said, "You had better see Mr. Fogwill and hand it back—go and hand it back ;" and from that day to this I have never heard anything about it.

32,910. (Mr. Coleridge.) The petition was not tried?—There was rather a compromise and it was withdrawn. I have no doubt that that is so, and I think Mr. Mills must have paid the expenses of it. Now sir, in that conversation I most distinctly swear that he told me he thought he was entitled to half the money for his trouble.

32,911. Have you since you were examined here the other day recalled his attention to this matter?—I have never spoken to him.

32,912. You have no doubt whatever that that conversation took place with him as well as Mr. Manning?—I think it likely, I cannot say.

32,913. You think what you stated took place at a different time, and the conversation with Mr. Manning at a subsequent day?—Yes.

32,914. You cannot be confusing the two together?—Not the slightest ; but I think you had better get the information from Mr. Fogwill.

32,915. Is he in the town?—No, he is a bootmaker, he was a coal merchant here 14 years ago, since that time he has been appointed the postmaster at Teignmouth.

N. Manning.

NICHOLAS MANNING recalled and examined.

32,916. (Mr. Coleridge.) You have had your memory refreshed by Mr. Yabbicom, what have you got to say about it?—My belief is that Mr. Yabbicom has noted what is untrue, because he says Mr. Manning says I had half the money. It is quite false.

32,917. Is Mr. Manning alive?—Yes.

32,918. Is it false that you told Mr. Yabbicom that you thought you were entitled to half for your trouble?—I do not recollect seeing him the following day.

32,919. Do you expect us to believe your statement, and discredit Mr. Yabbicom?—I do not expect one or the other.

32,920. Did you not keep one half yourself?—No, not a penny.

32,921. What did you give back to Mr. Fogwill afterwards?—I do not know that I gave him back anything.

32,922. Did you give him back a note of hand?—Not to my knowledge.

32,923. Will you swear you did not?—I do not know.

32,924. Did you give Mr. Fogwill any of that money?—No.

32,925. Then you did not take Mr. Yabbicom's advice?—I may have acknowledged the receipt of the money.

32,926. Did you not tell Mr. Yabbicom that you kept half the money yourself?—I do not think I did.

32,927. Did not you tell Mr. Yabbicom that you thought you were entitled to one half for your trouble?—I am certain that I never spoke on the subject to any one in my life. I never spoke to him about it, and I could not say that.

32,928. What was it that you gave to Mr. Fogwell ; was it an I.O.U.?—It might be.

32,929. What was it?—For the moment I cannot tell.

32,930. What was it, an I.O.U.?—It was I think.

32,931. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you a churchwarden?—Yes.

32,932. Whose? The clergyman's, or the parishes?—The clergyman's.

(Mr. Bere.) Then I hope you will not be again.

32,933. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did you give the I.O.U. for?—To acknowledge the receipt of it.

32,934. For whom?—For my brother.

32,935. Did you write the I.O.U.?—I did not write it, nor would I be certain that I gave it.

32,936. When you went to London, did you get another I.O.U. from some one?—No.

32,937. Did you get any money, or give a note of hand or I.O.U. in London?—No.

32,938. Has Mr. Fogwill ever asked you for that money on that I.O.U.?—Never.

32,939. Or your brother?—I never heard of it.

32,940. You never gave up 15*l.* to him?—Not to Fogwill.

32,941. To whom did you give 15*l.*?—To my brother.

32,942. Did you give him 15*l.* at one time, and 15*l.* at another?—No, I put it on the table, and she took it up. His wife was there ; my brother was not.

32,943. Do you remember this, when you were in London somebody saying that you must give back the money, and you must have a note of hand?—Never.

32,944. Did you give back on behalf of your brother that money, and receive an I.O.U. for it when in London?—Nothing alluding to it. I totally deny it.

32,945. After what Mr. Yabbicom has said, you stick to your story?—I do, because I never received it.

(Mr. Coleridge.) Then you must go and try and recollect.

J. Yabbicom.

JOHN YABBICOM recalled and further examined.

32,946. (Mr. Longe.) When was the first election in this borough that you took any interest in?—I am about 66 years old, and when you call my recollection back for 30 years, I will give you the best account I can of what transpired.

32,947. Begin with 1832, when Cornish, Parrott, and Boringdon stood?—I know nothing about that, come to Baldwin and Blount's time, that in 27 years ago, that is the election that I can speak to.

32,948. What part did you yourself take in that?—I voted at that time for Baldwin, and I will tell you the circumstances, and if I give you a little detail you will not mind, because you will not arrive at it unless I trespass.

32,949. Tell us your own story?—29 years ago, or 27 years ago, I was clerk in the western district banking company. Mr. Michelmore at that time was the manager. He was merely there and got his salary—at any rate I managed the whole business.

32,950. Which Mr. Michelmore?—Mr. Charles Michelmore's father.

32,951. He was Charles Michelmore too?—Yes, he took an interest in the affair to bring Mr. Baldwin here, and I recollect Mr. Michelmore coming to the bank, and saying, "Mr. Yabbicom, we shall bring Baldwin here." I was rather surprised, and he said, "We must return him," I said "Why?" "Why to "tell you the truth, we are in treaty to sell Gerston "estate, and he wanted to acquire a locus standi here." I said, "Are you going to sell Baldwin this, estate?" and he said, "He is going to give us 2,000*l.* or 3,000*l.* more than it is worth to come into the borough," and Mr. Parrott soon after resigned, and Mr. Baldwin was to step into his shoes. Baldwin comes down, and he is confronted immediately with Mr. Blount, and a very severe contest took place, and it ended in a double return.

32,952. At that time Mr. Baldwin had not bought Gerston?—No but there was a distinct understanding that he was to buy that estate I think in the spring of that year. When Parliament opened, a new writ was issued, because the election was declared to be a void one. Baldwin came down again, and then he was confronted by Mr. Gisborne. Upon that occasion there was another severe contest, and I think the majority was got down to seven, and Baldwin was returned by a majority of seven. Now upon that occasion there was a Conservative committee, and they had made up their returns that Mr. Baldwin should be returned by a majority of 23, and, in point of fact, he was in a minority. I looked minutely into it in consequence of being interested with Mr. Michelmore, and I ran over the poll with him, and clearly showed him he was distinctly in a minority. Mr. Michelmore said, "We must return him," and I think a night or two before the election, Mr. Gilbert, an ironfounder, and he interested himself much in the election—he came to me, and said, "Baldwin has entirely spun out all "his cash, and I do not know what he can do unless we "can get 400*l.* or 500*l.*" I said, "Well, if 400*l.* or 500*l.* will return him, you must have it." At that time Mr. Baldwin kept an account with us, and the night before the election he came to me and I advanced him, I think 400*l.*—I cannot speak to the sum, and he said, "I can manage two or three votes with this," and the next morning he brought me back 25*l.* of that.

32,953. Whom did you advance it to?—To Mr. Gilbert, against Mr. Baldwin's account, and the next morning he brought me back 25*l.*, showing that he had spent 375*l.* of that money.

32,954. How much did Baldwin spend before he had this 400*l.*?—I do not know. I am only speaking of what I know.

32,955. You say he was cleared out?—Yes. He had been cleared out of all his private cash by Blount at the previous election.

32,956. Then he had not bought Gerston. How did he buy that?—I will tell you how he bought that presently. Gilbert spent 375*l.*, and I recollect seeing Mr. Michelmore in the morning. I did not tell him, because he made me understand that Baldwin was to be returned, and that advances might be made. During the morning he said, there were seven or eight voters wanted—it is not the gigantic affair it is now—and three or five men came to me, and the first that came to me said he must have a loan, and that was Evan Even's father, the father of the great bribers, and he said "I am to have a loan of 50*l.*" I drew a cheque across the counter, and he signed the cheque for the money. The next person I saw—I cannot recollect them all—but there was a man called Bovey, who kept the "Plymouth Inn," and I gave him a cheque for 40*l.*; and I think another man came named Hannaford; he kept a pastrycook's shop a little below.

32,957. What is Hannaford's christian name?—He is dead. They are all dead and gone. I am raking up their ashes, and I am sorry to do it, but he came to me and had 40*l.* or 45*l.*; and there was an old man called Frank Shute; they came to me to have those cashed—to have the loan which Mr. Michelmore said they might have. He being the manager, if he had said they might have 500*l.* they should have had it, and I think the advances upon that occassion came to about 670*l.* or 680*l.*, and that money carried the election upon that occasion against Mr. Gisborne.

32,958. You were a Conservative at this time?—I was brought round if I may use the expression—being so intimately mixed up with Mr. Michelmore, he being my superior. He was the manager, but although he was the manager, and got his 300*l.*, while I did not get more than 200*l.*, he was my superior, and he directed those advances, and I made them.

32,959. How did you vote?—I voted for Mr. Baldwin.

32,960. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Baldwin did not repay the money that you advanced?—Yes, I will come to that, I will tell you the whole.

32,961. (Mr. Longe.) This is the first election in which you knew of any bribery?—Yes. And I think the first bribery was Baldwin paying a certain portion of the Liberal party upon his coming and being opposed to Blount; no doubt there was bribery on that occasion; but I was in perfect ignorance who paid it, or who had the management of it.

32,962. Did you ever hear of bribery before Baldwin came?—No; I was a freeman of the old corporation.

32,963. You said that Baldwin introduced bribery?—I have not the slightest doubt of it. He had not the slightest chance, except he could buy a certain number of the Liberal party.

32,964. At that time there was no system of making votes?—It was scarcely introduced; and Lord Seymour's election was always clear.

32,965. You were going to explain how the money was repaid?—Mr. Baldwin went to parliament, and after he was there two or three months, and was quietly seated, I did not want to trouble him before, because there might have been a petition; but the moment I found that his seat was secure I brought his attention to it, and he was annoyed, and wrote several letters which I have lost, in which he said, "I have been used exceedingly ill." He said, "Having paid for the first election I am still dragged "into a further sum." I said, "It is only 600*l.* or "700*l.*, and if I had not used that for you, you would "not have got into parliament." He said, "Well, I "cannot get the money, but I will remit it as soon as "I can." Then I wrote one or two letters, and by-and-by he sent me a cheque on Sir Samuel Scott for 100*l.*, and after a long time he dribbled out another, and that took off 200*l.* Then there was a subscription set on foot to relieve him. They thought he was a poor man, and some 10*l.* or 20*l.* were showered in, and I got another 100*l.* out of that. It was paid into the other bank, and that reduced the account to 300*l.*, and so the account stood, and I could not get Mr. Baldwin to make another move. At last I said, "I must have this account put into another shape," because I felt myself responsible. Mr. Michelmore kept in the background, and made a cat's-paw of me. He said, "If I come into it we shall not get the money;" and I asked Mr. Baldwin ultimately to give me a note of hand for the balance, and with the interest, and one thing and another, it came to about 320*l.*

32,966. Then it was paid off?—When the note became due. I will say that to his credit he paid it.

32,967. And then Mr. Baldwin bought Gerston?—Yes, the trustees under his settlement; he was unable. It was found that he had not the money, and I think there was power, as you will find in all settlements, to do that, and upon that occasion the Gerston property was conveyed to his trustees.

32,968. His wife's trustees?—Yes.

32,969. That is all you know of the election of 1840?—Yes.

32,970. Now the election of 1841?—Will you refresh my memory?

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. Yabbicom.

21 Sept. 1866.

32,971. When Lord Seymour and Mr. Baldwin were re-elected, and when Mr. Teed and Mr. Petre resigned?—Was that the occasion when the understanding was come to with the Duke of Somerset.

32,972. (Mr. Bere.) Some people say it was, and some say it was afterwards, and as we cannot get the memorandum, we cannot discover the date?—With reference to that memorandum I will speak a word or two about it, because I heard about it. I know that hearsay evidence is not evidence, but as you want to have the facts I will give you what I know transpired. Mr. Henry Tracey had been brought here, and he has deposed to that meeting having taken place at old Mr. Tracey's house, and Mr. Henry Mudge, a highly respectable man, says that Lord Seymour, Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Cull, Mr. Michelmore, and some two or three others whom he enumerates as being present at that time, when he could only have been a lad, not more than 10, 12, or 13 years old, and he swears here that he recollects perfectly that Lord Seymour met Mr. Baldwin at Mr. Tracey's house. Now, sir, no such thing could have happened. He has been misdirected.

32,973. You are labouring under a misapprehension. Mr. Tracey's recollection had been refreshed by seeing the memorandum at various times since it was made; and I think he put his recollection on that meeting, with his recollection being revived by reading the names of the persons, and then saying that he remembers they were present; and in fact that that memorandum was signed by Lord Seymour and Mr. Baldwin?—Depend upon it it is no such thing, because Mr. Gilbert, the man whom I have adverted to, was instrumental in getting it up, and Mr. Gilbert will tell you that he had the memorandum in his possession not more than three or four years ago, and destroyed it; and he said Mr. Bowden, old Mr. Tracey, Mr. Michelmore, and Captain Cull, had met at old Mr. Tracey's and come to an arrangement, inasmuch as Lord Seymour had been perfectly disgusted with the bribery that had taken place, and he was ready to do anything in order to avoid it, and therefore had allowed Mr. Michelmore to make what arrangements he pleased, so that bribery should not be prevalent again in the borough.

32,974. Can you recollect whether that was 1841 or 1847?—I cannot recollect.

32,975. (Mr. Coleridge.) It would make a great deal of difference in Mr. Mudge's age whether it was 1841 or 1847?—Mr. Edmonds will tell you his age.

(Mr. Edmonds.) He is 43.

32,976. (Mr. Bere.) Then he might well recollect, being 18 years old?—I am certain that Mr. Baldwin and Lord Seymour were not there.

32,977. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you tell us whether it was 1841 or 1847?—I cannot recollect it; but I have heard that his grace the Duke of Somerset emphatically denies it.

32,978. (Mr. Bere.) You were not privy to it and you cannot say?—But I heard Mr. Bowden, who was present.

32,979. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was he present?—He made the arrangement with old Mr. Tracey.

32,980. Who were there?—Mr. Cull, Mr. Michelmore, and three or four more. They made the arrangement.

32,981. Who were the three or four?—Mr. Bowden, Mr. Cull, Mr. Michelmore, and Mr. Tracey. There were not above four or five present, and I asked Mr. Bowden who was there.

32,982. (Mr. Longe.) Now the next election of 1847, when Mr. Ricardo stood?—I know nothing at all about the election. I voted only twice in 27 years.

32,983. Did you take any active part at Mr. Baldwin's first election?—I never took an active part in any election for the borough since the one I speak of, and I voted but once since. I have never voted in the municipal elections of the borough for 20 years, and taken neither one part nor another.

32,984. Do you know anything about the part that William Gilbert took in the electioneering matters, except that election of Gisborne and Blount?—No. I do not think he has.

32,985. Has money from time to time been paid into the bank for election purposes?—No.

32,986. Have you ever opened your bank after banking hours or before banking hours for the purpose of supplying persons with money during the time of the election?—On that occasion for William Gilbert I did.

32,987. For no other?—No.

32,988. How long did you continue to be manager of the Western District Bank?—About seven years.

32,989. Was that bank given up?—It became defunct, and I came to the National Provincial Bank 24 years since, and have been there ever since.

32,990. Who was the manager of the Conservative party in 1839 and 1840? Was it Mr. Charles Edwards?—Yes.

32,991. When did Mr. Theodore Bryett succeed him in the management?—I cannot tell.

32,992. You must know that?—If you can tell me when Mr. Charles Edwards died I will tell you.

32,993. Was that the time?—Yes.

32,994. Was he managing at the time that Gilbert came to you for the money?—No.

32,995. Was Charles Edwards managing then?—Yes.

32,996. Did Mr. Bryett ever come to your bank about money for the election?—I have no recollec-

32,997. At no time?—I have no recollection. Mr. Bryett has not kept an account with us for the last 14 years.

32,998. Have you found, as a rule, after the election a great deal of money comes into the bank?—I never found much fluctuation.

32,999. A day or two after the election do not you find a great deal more money comes into the bank?—No. That question is very pertinent, because I have looked curiously into it.

33,000. Have you looked at your books?—Yes. I have turned back purposely to see.

33,001. And you cannot detect it?—No.

33,002. Can you detect that a great many voters have paid in sums of money to their account after the election?—No, I do not know.

33,003. Who are your correspondents in London?—Originally the London and Westminster Bank.

33,004. Who are they now?—Our head office.

33,005. Was that open in July, 1865?—No; we opened in January last.

33,006. Mr. John Heath keeps an account with you?—No; never did.

33,007. Have you got the books from which you can tell when Mr. Pender opened an account at your bank?—They are not here; I can get them in a minute.

33,008. You have not made a memorandum?—No; but if you have the record of my evidence before the Election committee you will get at it.

33,009. (Mr. Longe.) When did Mr. Pender first open an account with you?—If you ask me from recollection I cannot tell.

33,010. It is the 20th June?—Yes; he paid in 1870 I think. It was but one transaction.

33,011. What was it?—He paid us a cheque on the Consolidated Bank. I think it was a half-year's dividend that he had received for the Atlantic Telegraph Company.

33,012. How long was that in your bank?—It remained intact with us, I think, until the end of the month.

33,013. How was it drawn out?—He drew a cheque for the total amount. It passed through the London Joint Stock Bank. There were no operations at all in respect of that transaction. It went back intact.

33,014. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know anything about a cheque drawn on your bank by Thomas Searle at the last election?—If I had Thomas Searle's account I could tell you.

33,015. Would you go back to the bank and look at Searle's account, and the account of John Elford?—If one of the messengers went it would save time.

33,016. (Mr. Coleridge.) After the conversation you have spoken to with reference to Nicholas Manning did you ever hear about any other occasions about money?—No; nothing about the election.

33,017. Do you know anything about Bartlett, the tailor?—No; I never spoke to him about election matters in my life. I have carefully abstained for the last 14 years, and for the last 20 years I have not voted for the municipal elections, and only twice in 30 years I have voted for the borough.

33,018. Are you a member of the council?—No; they elected me a freeman of the old corporation; but the Municipal Act came into operation soon after, and my five guineas was gone to the winds.

33,019. You have never stood an election since?—No; my first care has been to make friends with everybody, and it is a difficult matter.

DAVID MANNING sworn and examined.

D. Manning.

33,020. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A butcher.

33,021. How long have you had a vote for this place?—At Mr. Dent's election the first time.

33,022. 1862?—Yes.

33,023. What is your qualification?—A house and shop.

33,024. At the last election how did you vote?—I voted for Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Seymour.

33,025. Are you a tenant of the Duke's?—No.

33,026. How did you vote at Dent's election?—For Dent.

33,027. How came you to split your vote between Seymour and Dawkins on the last occasion?—I had a little private reason I do not wish known to the public.

33,028. But I am afraid you must let us know?—In this way. I came into the Hall here, and at the time I was a little upset. I was rather excitable at election time, and I asked Mr. Pender a question or two, and there was a regular row in the Hall. I did not wish to let my name be published in the papers, and I asked Mr. Theodore Hannaford, he being a writer for the "Western Times," to be kind enough not to have my name inserted in the paper, and he said he could not say anything himself about it; but during the day he did name it to Mr. Seymour, and through that I gave him my vote.

33,029. You mean that Mr. Seymour persuaded him not to do it?—I think he wrote a letter to the office, and desired him not to put in my name.

33,030. And you voted for him for that?—Yes.

33,031. But before that you had promised to vote for Captain Pim?—No, I had not.

33,032. What do you call yourself, a Conservative or a Liberal?—Conservative.

33,033. If it had not been for this transaction should you have voted for Dawkins and Pim?—I should for Dawkins.

33,034. Mr. Heath had held out some inducememt to you to vote for both of them, had not he?—Yes.

33,035. What had he offered you for your vote?—He never offered me anything; he sent Evens to me.

33,036. Frederick Evens?—George Evens.

33,037. What did he say if you voted for the two?—Well, I think something about 50*l.*

33,038. You wanted more than that, did not you?—No; I should have been very well pleased to get that.

33,039. What time did you vote?—Not until the latter part of the day.

33,040. Had not you some expectation that a better offer would be made you?—No.

33,041. Was that for both your votes, or one only?—I understood it to be for the both.

33,042. Did you ever get your 50*l.*?—No.

33,043. What did you get?—Nothing.

33,044. Nothing at all?—No.

33,045. Before you voted they had shut up shop, had not they?—Well, I understood that.

33,046. You kept back as late as you could, in the hopes of getting something. I suppose you were open to conviction all the day if money had been forthcoming?—No.

33,047. What did you tell Evens?—They wanted me to come to the "Stars" for it; and I did not like that it should be mentioned about the streets that I had asked so much money as 200*l.* for my vote, for I never asked any such sum.

33,048. What was the highest you put it at?—Never; no sum whatever.

33,049. It was nomination day?—Yes.

33,050. On the nomination day Evens said you should have 50*l.* if you would go to the "Stars" first; when were you to go?—The evening of the nomination day.

33,051. What did you say when you heard this?—I said "Very well;" but I heard that my name had been publicly mentioned about the streets that I should have asked 200*l.* for my vote.

33,052. Did you tell him so that time?—Yes; I believe I did.

33,053. What did he say?—I do not remember the exact reply.

33,054. Did you say you would vote for Dawkins and Pim?—I did not promise.

33,055. When you were offered the 50*l.* did you say you would go to the "Stars" and get it?—I believe I said I would not go. I told him if he would go and get the 50*l.* for me he might; but as for my going, I would not.

33,056. And if you got the 50*l.* you should vote for Dawkins and Pim?—No doubt I should.

33,057. Did you ever say you were a fool, and held out too long at that election?—I might have said that to George Evens.

33,058. He has sworn you did?—Very likely I may, I do not know for certain.

33,059. You got nothing from them for holding out so long, what did you get for voting for Mr. Seymour?—Nothing.

33,060. Nothing for that one vote?—No.

33,061. What did Mr. Parnell, the postmaster, offer you?—Nothing.

33,062. Had Thomas Jacob Searle anything to do with you?—I was coming up the street the evening before the election, and I met Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle, and he did say to me, "Come over to our side; come with us," he says, "and if you want anything, only name the sum, and no doubt you can get it." I told Searle that I did not like to sell my party.

33,063. But you did sell your party afterwards, so I suppose you got something for it?—No, I did not.

33,064. What did Searle say you could get?—I do not know that he mentioned any sum. He said, "If you come over with us I have no doubt you will get what you have a mind to mention."

33,065. What did you mention?—I did not mention anything at all. I said, "Mr. Searle, I do not like to sell my vote."

33,066. What time was that on the nomination day?—In the evening.

33,067. In the evening of the nomination day then you intended to vote for Dawkins and Pim?—I did for Dawkins.

33,068. What time did you make up your mind to vote for him?—I did not know what to do. The Conservative party were done for in the morning, and I had almost made up my mind not to vote at all.

33,069. When did you make up your mind to vote for Mr. Seymour?—The very day and very hour that I did.

33,070. And you were waiting to see what the Conservatives would do till the last moment, and then you voted for Seymour, what did you get?—Nothing.

33,071. Not a present afterwards?—No.

33,072. Did your wife?—No.

33,073. Are you certain?—I have no wife.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

D. Manning.

21 Sept. 1866.

33,074. Has nothing been left at your house?—Nothing whatever.

33,075. Have you received a promise of anything?—I have not.

33,076. Searle told you you might have something, and you had sold yourself by voting for Seymour; did not you get the sum he told you you might have?—No.

33,077. You were open to conviction by the Liberals, and you got nothing for it?—No.

33,078. You were told you might have it, and you were disappointed by Mr. Heath?—I was not disappointed; I might have had it if I had chosen to seek it.

33,079. You never did?—No.

33,080. And nobody brought it?—No.

33,081. Then you really got nothing for voting at the last election?—I did not a farthing.

33,082. How often were the Conservative party at you during the day?—Various times.

33,083. What did they offer you on the polling day. I am not talking to you about the 50*l.* you were to get at the "Stars?"—There were several messages came to me that I was wanted at the "Stars."

33,084. Who brought them?—I believe George Evens for one.

33,085. Did Narramore come?—I do not know whether he did or not, I won't be certain. George Evens brought a young gentleman with him from the "Stars," I understood it to be Colonel Dawkins' valet, to say that I could have 50*l.* if I would go to the "Stars."

33,086. That you had been promised the day before; did not they spring upon that?—I did not ask for any money whatever; they offered me 100*l.*

33,087. Who offered that?—George Evens.

33,088. What time on the polling day?—During the day he was there two or three times.

33,089. Did he tell you how you were to get it?—Go to the "Stars" for it.

33,090. Did you go to the "Stars" for it?—I did not.

33,091. What was the latest offer before you voted for Seymour?—I should think nearly 3 o'clock.

33,092. What did Thomas Jacob Searle offer you on the polling day?—I do not know that I saw Searle on the polling day at all.

33,093. What were you offered on that side?—There was no sum of money.

33,094. Did you tell Searle you had been offered as much as 100*l.* on the Conservative side?—No.

33,095. What did you expect to get for your vote?—I did not expect anything.

33,096. What did you consider your price was for selling your party?—Well, if I had sold my party, I certainly should have asked a good round sum.

33,097. A couple of hundred?—No doubt about it.

33,098. Did you tell Searle as you had sold your party, and had given his party one vote, you ought to have at least 100*l.*?—I never named any such thing.

33,099. Did you name any sum to him?—Never.

33,100. Have you ever said anything to him since the election as to not having been paid?—No.

33,101. Or anybody else?—No.

33,102. What did you say to Evens?—I might have said that other parties had got so much money, and perhaps I might as well do that.

33,103. Had the Conservative party ever made an offer to you, to give you a certain sum for one vote only?—No.

33,104. It was always a vote for the two?—Yes.

33,105. Then when you voted for Mr. Seymour all your claims were gone?—Well, I had no claims.

33,106. Your expectations?—Well, if there were any they were blighted.

33,107. Until Mr. Seymour's kindness converted you, you had been a consistent Conservative, had not you?—I only voted on one occasion.

33,108. Is that your handwriting (handing a paper)?—Yes.

33,109. You know what that is?—That is the requisition no doubt.

33,110. In spite of your having signed the requisition something persuaded you to vote the other side?—For the reason I have told you.

33,111. Do you mean to say you got nothing from the Liberal party at that time?—Not a farthing.

33,112. Neither before nor since the election?—Not a farthing.

33,113. Neither from Thomas Jacob Searle, Mr. Parnell, or Mr. Huxham?—No.

33,114. Or no one else?—Never a farthing.

33,115. Were not you to have something after the election?—I know nothing about the petition.

33,116. Were not you to have some money after the petition was over?—No; there were never any promises held out to me in any shape whatever.

33,117. Did you hear that it would not do well to pay any money until the petition was disposed of?—Never.

33,118. You mean to say you never received anything at the last election?—Not a farthing.

33,119. Do you hold any land of the duke's?—No.

33,120. Were you promised any?—No. I applied on both sides, but could never get a lease of ground in any way.

33,121. Having distributed your favours between the two they never did anything for you?—They have not.

33,122. What did you get at Mr. Dent's election?—30*l.*

33,123. Who gave it you?—Mr. John Heath.

33,124. Where?—The "Stars."

33,125. Who told you to go to the "Stars" for that?—There was an entertainment given at the "Stars," and I like others went down to see this entertainment. George Heath saw me there, and said he wanted to see me during the evening, and I saw him again and he gave me 30 sovereigns.

33,126. That was to vote for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

33,127. Who had been at you before and promised you this, George or Frederick Evens?—I really do not know.

33,128. But before you went you knew you were to have some money?—I heard that money was going about.

33,129. Did you vote in 1862, Mr. Dent's first time?—No, I do not think he went to the poll.

33,130. Did you get a promise of anything if he had?—I think it was understood.

33,131. What were you to have had?—I do not know, 20*l.* perhaps.

33,132. Who told you that?—I heard it from various parties, but never went on to have a bargain made for it.

33,133. At the election of 1865 did you receive a note of hand for your vote?—No.

33,234. A promise to pay at a future period?—No.

33,135. Have you ever received one since?—No.

33,136. Have you ever given one back in return for anything?—Nothing.

33,137. Nothing whatever of that sort?—No.

33,138. Whom did you see of the Liberal party when you were hanging back on the day of the election?—I do not know that I saw anyone particular, because I think on that morning, as soon as the Matchams and two or three others the Conservatives expected would vote on their side, had voted first thing in the morning, the Conservatives of course did not go to work.

33,139. You say you had several messages from the Conservatives for your vote. Had you no messages from the Liberals also that day?—I do not think I did.

33,140. No temptations at all from that side?—I do not think I did.

33,141. Whom did you tell you were going to vote for Mr. Seymour, before you went to the poll?—I do not know whether I named it or not.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

D. Manning.

21 Sept. 1866.

33,142. Who told you about voting for Mr. Seymour or what made you do it at the last moment?—Just the very reasons I have explained.

33,143. But you knew the day before that Mr. Seymour had written to the paper?—Yes.

33,144. And you knew the Conservatives were done that morning?—It was merely a matter of form, and I never got a farthing.

33,145. Do you mean no more than 30*l.*?—Never since I have been in Totnes.

33,146. That is all it has been worth?—It is all I have ever had.

33,147. Did you vote at the council elections?—I voted I think on two occasions.

33,148. Have you ever had anything for voting there?—Not a farthing. I mention this in court, that my name had been mentioned, that I should have asked a gentleman 10*l.* for my vote in the council election, which I beg to state in the court, that it should be known that I never asked a farthing, or received a farthing.

33,149. Who was the gentleman?—Mr. Coulton, of Buckfastleigh. It was stated I should have done

33,150. Who stated it?—The public.

33,151. In evidence here?—No.

33,152. (Mr. Bere.) How much did you get?—Not a farthing.

33,153. (Mr. Coleridge.) You never did ask 10*l.* or any such sum?—No. In fact the gentleman never solicited my vote.

33,154. Who was it on the Liberal side tried to get your vote from you on the polling day?—I do not remember anyone came to me at all from the Liberal party.

33,155. Had you never any conversation about money for your vote from the Liberal party, except on that one occasion when Thomas Jacob Searle came to you?—I believe that is all.

33,156. Who was it got Mr. Seymour to write this letter to the "Western Times" for you?—Mr. Theodore Hannaford.

33,157. When did Mr. Seymour write the letter, do you know?—I do not.

33,158. What did Hannaford say to you about voting for Mr. Seymour, because he had written the letter?—He never asked me.

33,159. Did he tell you Mr. Seymour had written? Yes.

33,160. When?—The Thursday before the election.

33,161. Your gratitude for Mr. Seymour was not sufficient to make you vote for him, unless the Conservatives had shut up early on the polling morning. Was that so?—Well, perhaps not.

33,162. That was so?—If I had any money from the Conservatives I should have voted for them.

33,163. If they had brought you 100*l.*, instead of telling you to go and fetch it, you would have voted for them?—Yes.

Mr. John Yabbicom recalled.

J. Yabbicom.

33,164. (Mr. Bere.) Turn to Thomas Searle's account, somewhere about July 1865. Do you find any entry there of monies paid to or on account of a man called Matcham, or any credit opened in your bank to that name?—There is no such sum. Mr. Matcham never has had an account.

33,165. Was there any money paid out of your bank through Searle?—Not a farthing.

33,166. Will you turn to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore's account, and see if you can trace somewhere about July 1865, a payment to a man called John Elford of 20*l.* by cheque?—No.

33,167. Is there a joint account; Thomas and Jeffery Michelmore?—That is the account I am looking at.

33,168. That is the only account?—That is the only account; no private account.

33,169. And no such entry?—No such entry whatever.

33,170. That ledger will not show any drawing in 1863?—No; but I can present it to the court whenever it is wished.

John Webber Chaster sworn and examined.

J. W. Chaster.

33,171. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—I am a tanner, but I am out of business at this moment.

33,172. Have you given up business?—Yes, I have been out of business eight or nine months.

33,173. Have you always been a tanner?—Yes, always a tanner.

33,174. How long have you been a tanner in Totnes?—25 or 26 years, I think.

33,175. Have you lived in Totnes all your life?—Yes, I was born in Totnes.

33,176. And I suppose you remember most of the electioneering matters that have taken place?—I remember them perfectly from the passing of the Reform Bill.

33,177. What age were you then?—Well, I must have been a lad of 12, perhaps, but my father took much interest in them.

33,178. Was he a tanner too?—No, a sadler.

33,179. Did he take considerable interest on the Liberal side?—A good deal.

33,180. And you followed, I suppose, and took a great deal of interest on the Liberal side yourself?—I did not immediately succeed him in his views; I have latterly.

33,181. Are you old enough to remember any discussion taking place as to how the borough should be arranged with regard to its boundaries at the time of the passing of the Reform Bill?—I am not.

33,182. Therefore can you give us any information from what you know yourself, or from what you have heard, as to the reasons why particular portions that were added were so added?—I cannot assist you at all in those matters.

33,183. The first election after the Reform Bill was practically, I should think, an uncontested election, when Mr. Cornish, Mr. Parrott, and Lord Boringdon stood?—Not uncontested, certainly. Lord Boringdon went to the poll.

33,184. But did he go to the poll in hopes of success?—I should think not. I recollect the circumstances; there was a meeting called of the electors, and the electors signed a paper, agreeing between themselves to support any two men whom the committee whom they appointed should fix on.

33,185. Do you remember at all of whom that committee consisted?—I think they are all dead.

33,186. Are there not any gentlemen alive who were on that committee?—I should say not. Mr. Charles Michelmore and my father were two, I know.

33,187. Was not Mr. Michelmore acting for the Conservatives?—No, he was a Liberal always until he altered his views on the sale of Gerston.

33,188. At that time to whom did it belong?—To Mr. William Bowden.

33,189. He was a Liberal?—He was a Liberal.

33,190. Were there any persons properly called Conservatives on that committee?—Yes, I should think many.

33,191. Was Mr. Bentall or Mr. Bastard?—I should say not. Mr. Bastard was not here; he is a new man in Totnes.

33,192. Was Mr. Bentall a new man here?—He was born here.

33,193. Was he on that committee?—I should say not Mr. Bentall. Mr. Bentall was a member of the old corporation, and was antagonistic to the Reform

33,194. At that time had the then Duke of Somerset any considerable interest here?—Not in Totnes.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. W. Chaster.

21 Sept. 1866.

33,195. But Bridgetown?—Yes.

33,196. The manor of Bridgetown was added then?—The manor of Totnes was not bought then.

33,197. But the manor of Bridgetown was. Had he considerable influence in Bridgetown at that time?—Yes.

33,198. Do you know whether Mr. Thomas Michelmore was his agent then?—I believe he was.

33,199. Was he one of that committee?—I believe not.

33,200. Do you know to whom the then Duke of Somerset gave his influence at that election?—If he exerted any influence it was for Lord Boringdon.

33,201. Was the then Duke of Somerset a Conservative at that time?—Oh, certainly not.

33,202. Lord Boringdon was hardly to be called a Conservative?—The present Duke of Somerset, then Lord Seymour, had been the member for Okehampton, and that was disfranchised.

33,203. Do you remember at all whether Lord Seymour came on that election?—I know he did not.

33,204. Both Mr. Cornish and Mr. Parrott were gentlemen of landed property, resident in the neighbourhood?—Yes, the immediate neighbourhood, and they were perfectly well known.

33,205. And probably for that reason were selected?—Yes.

33,206. There was no money spent at that election?—I know the money that was spent; my father and my uncle held the funds.

33,207. Who was your uncle?—Joseph Storkwill. I think the two members gave them 50*l.* apiece, and they returned them 10*l.*, and they were exceedingly annoyed that it cost so much money.

33,208. That election cost them 40*l.* each?—45*l.*, I think.

33,209. Who at that time had posession of Sharpham?—The Bastards.

33,210. Was any influence used by Mr. Bastard in favour of the candidate?—An attorney, one Thomas Parrott, of the same name as the candidate, but no relation, went to Mr. Bastard with a list of tradesmen in Totnes who had signed the paper as being likely to vote for the Liberal man, and he induced Mr. Bastard to send to those men, threatening to withdraw his favours unless they voted for Lord Boringdon.

33,211. As far as you know that was the only illegitimate influence used at that election?—The only other case that I know of was a clerk of the same Mr. Parrott going to one Thomas Blank, in Totnes, and offering him 10*l.* for a pair of shoes. He was not a voter at that time, but he offered him 10*l.* to induce his father, William Blank, to vote for Lord Boringdon.

33,212. Was the 10*l.* accepted and the shoes made?—I think not; Blank polled for the two Liberal candidates.

33,213. On the 14th February 1834 there was a single-handed contest between Lord Seymour and Mr. Mayne?—Yes.

33,214. Was there any reason for Mr. Cornish accepting the Chiltern Hundreds?—The reason, I think, was, his father found he could not live in London upon two guineas a week.

33,215. And old Mr. Cornish objected to that lavish expenditure?—I believe he did.

33,216. And then he resigned?—Yes.

33,217. Did Mr. Mayne stand as an ultra-Liberal?—He did.

33,218. Upon what politics did Lord Seymour stand?—As a Liberal.

33,219. Was it not at that election that Sir George Adams was the chairman of Lord Seymour's committee?—I think it is very likely.

33,220. Was there a coalition between the moderate Liberals and the Conservatives to return Lord Seymour?—There was.

33,221. As against the more advanced Liberals?—I think I should say that a very strong feeling existed in the minds of the Liberals in Totnes never to vote for a man who had voted against the Reform Bill. The borough of Okehampton was about to be disfranchised, and Lord Seymour voted against the bill in order to save his borough; that was his only sin.

33,222. You had not a vote then?—No.

33,223. How did your father vote?—I believe he nominated or proposed Lord Seymour in this hall.

33,224. Was there any money spent at that election?—I should think none.

33,225. That brings us to 1835, the general election, when there were three candidates. Sir George Adams was the Conservative?—Yes.

33,226. And the two Liberals were elected by a majority?—Yes; they did not go to the poll. Sir George Adams withdrew.

33,227. Had Sir George Adams changed between that time and the period when he was the chairman of Lord Seymour's committee?—I should say not; Sir George Adams was always a sound Conservative.

33,228. Can you give any reason for his standing in opposition to Lord Seymour?—Lord Seymour had expressed himself more decidedly a Liberal. I believe he had become a member of the Government in some minor capacity.

33,229. Had there been a general election on Sir Robert Peel's taking office, or was the dissolution before he came into office?—I cannot charge my memory.

33,230. The next contest was on the death of William IV., in 1837, when Sir George Adams went to the poll?—Yes.

33,231. Do you know anything of that election?—I believe that election was a pure election, otherwise than this, that I know the public-houses were open on that occasion, and there was a little scandal in the town that Sir George should have opened the public-houses.

33,232. Was Sir George Adams living at Bowden at that time?—Yes.

33,233. You had no vote then?—No. I think his means were not sufficiently large to keep himself in Parliament.

33,234. Has his property been sold?—Yes.

33,235. Was it a large property in this neighbourhood?—Not very extensive.

33,236. Then, for the first time, Mr. Baldwin appeared, and Mr. Blount, the agent for the Duke?—Yes.

33,237. Can you tell us when the manor of Totnes was bought by the Duke?—I cannot.

33,238. Before that election?—Yes, decidedly.

33,239. Was it between the election of 1835 and 1839?—Between 1832 and 1839.

33,240. Do you remember how much the Duke's influence was increased by the purchase of the manor of Totnes—how many votes?—I cannot charge my memory with that.

33,241. What does the manor of Totnes consist of—principally houses?—Landed property.

33,242. Land outside the town?—Some portion.

33,243. Is Windmill Down part of it?—No, independent property. The property below here called the rectory is some portion of the manor, and there is some other land not of importance. The principal part of the purchase were the tithes of Totnes which went with the manor.

33,244. Mr. Baldwin came down and stood against the Duke's agent?—I think Mr. Baldwin came first.

33,245. And when he was in the field Mr. Blount came down?—Yes.

33,246. At that election did Mr. Blount get the assistance of the Seymour interest?—I believe Lord Seymour was exceedingly annoyed at Mr. Blount's coming here. I do not think he received any assistance.

33,247. Before that election had Mr. Baldwin purchased Gerston?—No.

33,248. Have you any reason to know what sums were spent at that election on either side?—None whatever.

33,249. Was your father on Mr. Blount's committee?—No.

33,250. Did he take an active part in that election?—No, he supported Lord Seymour. Mr. Blount was a Roman Catholic, and Mr. Baldwin was a Conservative. He was so situated that he could not support the Conservative or vote for the Roman Catholic, so that on the whole he refrained from voting.

33,251. Was your father's prevailing opinion when alive that there was a separate interest in the town as compared with the Duke's interest in Bridgetown?—Most decidedly.

33,252. Has that been the ruling idea in Totnes, that there is an interest here antagonistic to that of the Duke?—Not antagonistic; there is an independent interest in Totnes.

33,253. An interest in the town apart from the influence of the Duke?—Just so.

33,254. At that time what was the Cleveland interest?—The Cleveland interest was never brought to bear here in my recollection.

33,255. That was represented by Mr. Farwell?—Yes.

33,256. He was a Conservative?—Yes.

33,257. Was the Cleveland interest used at all to support the Conservative interest?—There were no lands belonging to the Duke of Cleveland or any other property within the borough of Totnes.

33,258. Were there any voters who could be influenced by his agent?—None at all.

33,259. We know Mr. Baldwin spent a considerable sum at that election. Do you know whether Mr. Blount spent anything?—I should think there is no doubt of it. I cannot say how much.

33,260. Have you any doubt that money was commonly spent by both sides at that election, and that that was the beginning of bribery in Totnes?—I firmly believe that it was. I do not believe that Mr. Blount had the assistance of the Duke; he was compelled to spend money.

33,261. Did you ever hear your father say what number of electors were influenced by money?—No.

33,262. Or what was the class if not the number?—They would be the lower class, I take it.

33,263. (Mr. Bere.) We have found them to be very general?—I ought not to give an opinion.

33,264. That election was declared void?—It was.

33,265. Had you anything to do with the petition?—Nothing whatever. I was not a voter.

33,266. In 1840, when Baldwin and Gisborne stood, was your father on Mr. Gisborne's committee?—No.

33,267. Had he anything to do with that election?—I think not.

33,268. Do you know how Mr. Gisborne was brought down here?—I do not.

33,269. At that election was there a good deal of bribery?—Yes, I should say quite equal to the preceding one.

33,270. Did you know anything of certain independent parties who went by the name of the "73rd?"—The "73rd" were 73 men who voted for John Thomas Mayne.

33,271. That regiment had been reduced considerably by the time that Mr. Gisborne stood?—I daresay they were.

33,272. Do you know how they voted at that election?—I should suppose for Mr. Gisborne to a man.

33,273. Did you hear that some refused to vote for Mr. Gisborne, and inducements were required to get them to do so?—That was the case with some Chartists.

33,274. Are any of those still alive?—The only man whose name I know at that election was John Sandford Screach; he was a Chartist in those days. There were three men; I do not know the names of the other two.

33,275. Was George Mitchell one?—No, not of those three. He was one of the 73 who held extreme views.

33,276. Did you ever hear what they got for voting for Gisborne?—I have heard they got 125*l.* each. I think Mr. William Gilbert can tell you.

33,277. Those who did not vote for Gisborne voted for Baldwin?—Yes.

33,278. Previous to that election had there been any influence used on the electors by treating them from time to time?—There were punch meetings held.

33,279. Were those Conservatives or Liberals?—Conservatives.

33,280. Were they held at the "Seven Stars?"—No, at a place called the Auction Mart.

33,281. Was that licensed for such revelry?—I do not know. The meetings were held there, very near the bridge.

33,282. Do you mean periodically?—No, monthly. I think circulars used to be issued and signed by the managing agent, Mr. Theodore Bryett.

33,283. And there they used to attend and enjoy themselves?—I think so.

33,284. And discuss the politics of the borough?—I daresay they did.

33,285. Was Mr. Bryett Mr. Baldwin's legal agent?—He was.

33,286. Did you hear the sum which had been spent at that election?—I have no idea.

33,287. You have no doubt a great deal of money was spent on both sides?—No doubt.

33,288. Who acted for Mr. Gisborne as his professional man?—I suppose Mr. Cuming or Mr. Wendeatt, perhaps both.

33,289. Mr. Wendeatt when he died was not a young man?—He was over 60.

33,290. Had he always been employed as the Liberal legal agent?—Yes; he had always taken a part as a legal agent.

33,291. In 1841 two Conservatives came down to contest the borough; can you give us any information as to the reason why they did not do so?—There was a contract, or alleged contract, at that time in existence between Lord Seymour and Mr. Baldwin to prevent bribery.

33,292. Can you fix the date of that; are you quite sure that contract was in existence before Mr. Petre and Mr. Teed retired?—I think there is no doubt of it; but I can give you no documentary evidence of it.

33,293. Was your father a party to that?—No.

33,294. Did he ever discuss the matter of that agreement with you?—I do not recollect that he ever did.

33,295. Was he consulted with regard to it?—I should say not.

33,296. He was one of the principal persons on the Liberal side?—The Liberal element was dropped on that occasion. Mr. Charles Michelmore arranged on behalf of Mr. Baldwin, and Mr. Thomas Michelmore on behalf of Lord Seymour.

33,297. And they were cousins?—Yes.

33,298. At that time Mr. Baldwin bought Gerston?—Yes.

33,299. How long before, do you remember?—Something like two years before.

33,300. Was there any particular reason for Gerston being sold?—I think it was a political movement. It was said Mr. William Bowden required to sell Gerston.

33,301. He was a Liberal, and he would hardly have sold it to a Conservative from political motives?—There was a great consideration; 3,000*l.* more was paid for the estate than it was worth.

33,302. What was the value of the estate?—It was considered worth 13,000*l.* or 14,000*l.*

33,303. And what was given for it?—17,000*l.*

33,304. Then it was the extra sum which was the inducement to sell it?—I understood so.

33,305. Mr. Baldwin having bought Gerston, Mr. Charles Michelmore became his agent, and with the agency he changed his principles?—There was a change of principles on behalf of Mr. Michelmore, and as you heard also of his then clerk, Mr. Yabbicom. He had been a Liberal before. Also of Mr. Charles Edwards, and others.

33,306. Was Mr. Edwards a Liberal before that time?—Yes.

33,307. Then he became the managing legal adviser of the Conservatives?—Yes; Mr. Edwards, Mr. Windeatt, and a cousin of mine, Albert Chaster, were called the three boys; they were young attornies at the time of the Reform Bill.

33,308. Is your cousin still alive?—No.

33,309. In consequence of that agreement Mr. Petre and Mr. Teed retired?—No doubt that was the reason.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. W. Chaster.

21 Sept. 1866.

33,310. Mr. Petre was not strong enough to secure the second seat for the Liberal nor Mr. Teed for the Conservative?—Exactly so.

33,311. Did the Punch meetings continue from that period to 1847?—I think regularly; I never heard of any cessation.

33,312. In 1847 you were a voter?—Yes.

33,313. Do you remember when you became a voter?—I think I got on the register in 1842 or 1843.

33,314. In 1847 was the first time you voted?—Yes.

33,315. For whom did you vote?—For Baldwin and Seymour. Mr. Ricardo was an extreme man, and I had a little gentle pressure put on me by Mr. Charles Michelmore, who was a friend of my father's.

33,316. Was your father alive then?—Yes; but he had an attack of paralysis which prevented his leaving his bed. My father asked me to vote, I was disinclined to do so myself.

33,317. What was the pressure put on you?—He was a friend of the family.

33,318. Was there no persuasion beyond that of words?—That was all.

33,319. No favouritism as to dealing?—None whatever.

33,320. I suppose the 3,000*l.* paid by Mr. Baldwin must be taken to have been paid for the seat?—No doubt of it.

33,321. Did you hear that a good deal of money had been spent by Ricardo?—Not specially by him; Baldwin and Ricardo spent in equal proportions.

33,322. Did you canvass for the Liberals on that occasion?—No; I never canvassed in my life.

33,323. You took no active part in that election?—None whatever.

33,324. At that time was Sharpham still in the possession of Mr. Bastard?—I should say not.

33,325. When was Sharpham sold?—I cannot tell you, I have no data.

33,326. Was it sold to Mr. Durant, or was there any intermediate possessor?—It was in the market for a year or two, I believe.

33,327. Was it sold by old Mr. Bastard or by young Mr. Bastard?—I should think by the son.

33,328. You cannot be sure whether Sharpham was sold at that time or not?—I am not sure of it.

33,329. There was an election in 1850 when Lord Seymour was made Chief Commissioner of Woods and Forests?—Yes.

33,330. Had he used any similar influences to those which had been exercised by the Conservatives?—No.

33,331. Then what did he do to counteract the evil influence of the meetings you have alluded to?—He bought some property in the centre of the town and built a mechanics institute and reading-rooms, which were freely supplied with newspapers, &c., and gave tickets to all persons who made application.

33,332. Who had the management of that?—I think Mr. Thomas Michelmore.

33,333. Were you on the committee?—No.

33,334. Who were the principal members of the committee?—I am inclined to think Mr. Michelmore was the president, Mr. Wendeatt, Mr. Cuming, and others whom I cannot charge my memory with now.

33,335. Used they to give lectures?—Yes, and they continue to do so now.

33,336. Did you take an interest in it?—Not a marked interest.

33,337. Have you ever lectured there?—No.

33,338. Have they a library?—Yes.

33,339. Is that kept up by subscription?—A small subscription.

33,340. Have you ever given books to it?—No.

33,341. Had the opening of this institute a good effect on the Liberal voters?—I do not know, I believe it was done to counteract the debasing influences of the meetings on the other side.

33,342. What refreshments do they supply, tea and coffee only?—There are no refreshments supplied there, only food for the mind.

33,343. Is the attendance large at the lectures or reading-rooms?—There is not a large attendance at a reading-room generally; some half-dozen drop in to see the papers.

33,344. In 1852 there was a general election?—Yes.

33,345. Was Mr. Baldwin still the possessor of Gerston?—He was.

33,346. Had you anything to do with that election?—I knew something more of Mr. Baldwin between 1850 and 1852.

33,347. How did you become acquainted with him more intimately?—His character became better known to me.

33,348. Was that as to his not having had money enough?—His private character was not such as I felt myself justified in supporting.

33,349. For whom did you vote?—I had been previously asked to sign a requisition to Mr. Mills.

33,350. Who brought that requisition to you?—I think Mr. Brooking Cuming and Mr. Joseph Ferris.

33,351. Is Mr. Ferris alive now?—I believe he is; he was a linendraper, and he left this town for London.

33,352. They called on you with a requisition to Mr. Mills?—I was going down the street when Mr. Ferris was standing at the door; he said, I want you to sign this requisition. I said, "Who is he?" He replied, A Liberal. I said, I cannot sign a requisition to a gentleman to come down here whom I do not know.

33,353. You knew nothing about him?—No.

33,354. They got some other persons to sign the requisition?—I think it was rather largely signed; he was asked to come down and explain his political views.

33,355. Was it signed by a sufficient number to make his election safe?—I should say not; there might have been 20 or 30 names to it when I saw it.

33,356. At that election there was an end put to the agreement between Seymour and Baldwin?—I think that did it.

33,357. What time was it considered that agreement was at an end?—I cannot tell you. I believe that was an independent candidate.

33,358. Was your father alive at that election?—No.

33,359. Did you ever hear him express any opinion as to that agreement being at an end?—No.

33,360. Or Mr. Thomas Michelmore or any of those persons?—Never.

33,361. Or Mr. Gilbert?—Mr. Gilbert is a man whom I never ran against.

33,362. Did Mr. Baldwin canvass you at that time?—He did.

33,363. Did you tell him that you could not vote for him?—I did, I think he canvassed me with Mr. Theodore Bryett and Mr. Charles Michelmore.

33,364. At that time Mr. Mills came down and gave a lecture at Totnes, and on account of his political opinions you were satisfied with that gentleman?—I was.

33,365. Did you thereupon agree to vote for him?—Yes, he came to my tanyard with Mr. Ferris.

33,366. Did you make up any poll-book upon that occasion?—No.

33,367. Or make any inquiry, so as to be able to tell what the chance of a second Liberal candidate would be?—I had no means of doing it.

33,368. Were Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Brooking Cuming still managing for the Liberals?—I should say so.

33,369. Were you on the committee?—No.

33,370. Was it a joint or several committee?—I think there was Lord Seymour's committee and Mr. Mill's committee.

33,371. Do you remember the names of any persons on the committee?—No, I know nothing of it. I merely recorded my vote.

33,372. Did you merely promise your vote, and having promised it, you went from the yard to vote?—Yes, I did.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. W. Chaster.

21 Sept. 1866.

33,373. That is all you know of it?—That is all I know of it.

33,374. At that time, had you formed an yopinion as to the necessity of a second Liberal candidate spending money in order to win the election?—I thought there was a necessity to spend some money.

33,375. Had you formed any opinion as to the amount that it was necessary to spend?—No.

33,376. I do not mean within a hundred or two; have you any idea?—I have no idea of it.

33,377. What did you think the money was to be spent in?—Securing the votes of poor persons.

33,378. In bribery?—In bribery.

33,379. Did your opinion as to the necessity of spending money exist when you considered upon what the Conservatives were to come in?—Yes, the Conservatives never had a chance in Totnes without it.

33,380. At the time Mr. Baldwin stood, the Gerston influence had not been affected by the majority of 13?—Yes.

33,381. Did you form any opinion as to how the majority was obtained?—I do not know the whole, but I have no doubt there would be bribery; from the time Mr. Baldwin first came to Totnes there has never been an election without it.

33,382. Have you heard what Mr. Mills spent in elections?—No.

33,383. Did you use your influence on any electors on his behalf?—No, I think not.

33,384. At the election in 1855, when Lord Seymour was called to the Upper House, Lord Gifford was elected without opposition?—He was.

33,385. Do you remember before that election, two candidates came down, Sir John Yarde Buller and Mr. Mackenzie, in the Conservative interest?—Yes.

33,386. Sir John Yarde Buller was here?—He never went into the canvass.

33,387. Do you know the reason?—I know no reason. I suppose he thought the interest of the Duke paramount.

33,388. Do you mean it might have been that he thought he would have to spend more money than he was prepared to do?—It might have been so.

33,389. And then did Mr. Mackenzie come?—I know he came.

33,390. And went away?—And went away.

33,391. That is all you know about it?—That is all I know about the election.

33,392. Was there any money spent at that election, as far as you know?—Not as far as I know.

33,393. Did Mr. Mackenzie give any subscription as far as you have heard?—He may have done so.

33,394. (Mr. Coleridge.) As far as you know, it was a pure election?—I believe it was pure.

JAMES EDMONDS recalled.

J. Edmonds.

33,395. (Mr. Coleridge.) You have been here before, have you come again to commit perjury?—I hope not.

33,396. Tell us the reason of your committing perjury, who told you to do it?—No one.

33,397. What made you come and tell us all those lies that you did before?—I do not know that I told you any.

33,398. Yes you have told us that you got nothing in 1863. You told us, neither before nor after the election you, your wife, nor anybody else got anything. I have got your evidence and I will read it to you. What did you get in 1863?—After 1863 I received 30*l.*

33,399. From whom?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

33,400. That was for your vote?—I suppose so.

33,401. Where did he give it to you?—In his office in the town.

33,402. What in?—In gold.

33,403. What did he say?—He made no expression except that I was to appropriate that to my own use.

33,404. Did he say why?—No.

33,405. Why did not you tell us that before?—I am not aware that I was asked.

33,406. Now about the transfer of your house that you spoke to us about the other day; that was the reason of your voting in 1865 at the last election?—Yes.

33,407. That in reality was your bribe for voting in 1865?—It was settled in that way.

33,408. That was on condition that you should vote as he wanted you?—Yes.

33,409. Why did you not tell us that?—I do not know.

33,410. Now tell us exactly about the transfer of your house, tell us all about it?—Close down to the election or before that.

33,411. Before the last election?—Mr. Jeffery or Mr. Henry Michelmore came to me and made me a proposition to take the property at 140*l.*, that was that they were to refund all the money that I had advanced on it, and 20*l.* over the first purchase free of any further expenses. On those conditions I promised Mr. Michelmore my vote.

33,412. Which Mr. Michelmore?—Mr. Henry Michelmore made those propositions. He, of course, had the settlement of the house, and Jeffery Michelmore was present.

33,413. And the mortgage was transferred to him?—Yes, on the day of the election.

33,414. What did you make out of the transaction, did not you make 95*l.* out of the transaction?—The difference was handed to me, 95*l.*

33,315. You made 95*l.* by voting?—I cannot see clear that I made a penny.

33,416. Then we must go into it. What was the mortgage?—I never had the writings at all. I gave them to Mr. Michelmore some months previously to settle it.

33,417. You had the house?—I was in possession some years.

33,418. You have got the house now?—It is not mine. I receive the rent.

33,419. To whom do you pay that rent?—I have not been ordered to receive the rent. The man being in the house, as before, comes and pays me the rent.

33,420. Has Mr. Michelmore ever asked you to refund it?—He has not.

33,421. Do you expect that you are ever going to?—Yes; I will tell you the circumstances. Mr. Michelmore was at Marldon about the time that the last quarter was due. I saw him and I said, "You have not given that man notice that you purchased the house, and he comes here and pays the rent as before, and there is now a quarter due; am I to receive it?" and he says, "Yes; and when you come to Newton on market days we can settle the account."

33,422. When did Mr. Michelmore tell you to say that?—He has not told me to say that.

33,423. When did Mr. Michelmore tell you; how long ago?—I think somewhere soon after Midsummer.

33,424. After this Commission was issued?—No.

33,425. This Commission was issued last May?—I do not know that.

33,426. It was after summer?—Yes.

33,427. Was not it some time in July?—It might be.

33,428. And that is the first time Mr. Michelmore ever spoke to you about repaying those rents?—Yes, because I have never seen him.

33,429. Never been to you or written to you?—No.

33,430. How much is the rent?—About 11*l.* a year.

33,431. You have kept that and never been asked?—Yes.

33,432. You never were asked for any of this rent till some time after July in this year?—Yes.

33,433. You have not been asked and Mr. Michelmore has told you it might be set off?—He said it might be settled if I called on a market day, on the

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. Edmonds.

21 Sept. 1866.

Wednesday, that he was sure to be at home on a Wednesday.

33,434. Have you ever been in?—No.

33,435. Has he written to you to say you ought to come in?—No.

33,436. What is your account with Mr. Michelmore?—He has an account of 95*l.* against me with 5 per cent. interest.

33,437. He never asked you for the 95*l.*?—No.

33,438. That 95*l.* is yours?—Yes.

33,439. The account is, that Mr. Michelmore has got to pay you 95*l.*?—Yes.

33,440. How are you going to set that off in account?—We were going to settle our accounts.

33,441. And that was to be deducted?—Yes, it was to be settled. Here is a receipt: "12th July, 1865. "Received of Mr. Edmonds the sum of ninety-five "pounds, to be invested on good security, and to bear "interest at five pounds per cent. per annum from "this date. (Signed)—H. MICHELMORE."

33,442. That is the day of the election?—It is the very day.

33,443. In fact, you got 95*l.* for your vote?—I cannot see that.

33,444. (Mr. Bere.) How much did you pay for the house, 140*l.*?—The house was bought at 120*l.*

33,445. And then you paid 20*l.* besides?—74*l.* you will find by the accounts.

33,446. Why did you not tell us that before?—I did not know.

33,447. What did you clear by the transaction, by buying and selling?—I cannot see that I made any profit.

33,448. You have got the house?—I have not got it. I cleared off my right. I signed off my right.

33,449. You received the rents?—I have done so.

33,450. And you put the rent into your own pocket?—No.

33,451. What did you do with it?—It is to go to Mr. Michelmore.

33,452. He has never asked you since the 12th July 1865?—No, never but the time he spoke of.

33,453. After the Commission was issued, he said you should have some settlement of account?—I think I opened the subject. He had no recollection of it.

33,454. He had forgotten it?—I do not know.

33,455. He never mentioned, and never asked you for the rent?—I do not know.

33,456. You said he had forgotten it?—I do not think he did.

33,457. Do you find that solicitors forget about their money?—No.

33,458. Did you ever know of an attorney to whom you owed 15*l.* who did not tell you of it?—No.

33,459. This is an election-time memory of an attorney?—Perhaps it is.

33,460. What did you clear between what you got for the house, and what you gave?—If I cleared anything I lived some years in the house and never paid any rent. I cannot say anything else.

33,461. What did you give for the house originally?—120*l.*

33,462. How much of that did you ever pay?—I paid 74*l.*

33,463. How much money did you get for the house?—140*l.*

33,464. So that you made 66*l.* out of that transaction?—No.

33,465. Who paid the 74*l.* for you?—I paid it myself.

33,466. Was it not money advanced to you?—No.

33,467. Are you quite sure?—Yes.

33,468. Where did you get the 74*l.* to pay it off?—In various ways.

33,469. You paid 74*l.* really and got 140*l.*?—Yes.

33,470. (Mr. Coleridge.) Now I want to know what has persuaded you to come and tell the truth here to-day? I will take you to the election of 1863. After having asked several questions, I asked you:—"Q. Did you get any money at all in the election of "1863?—A. No. Q. Have you had any on either "side?—A. No. Q. Since?—A. No." Those are your answers. Did not you know that you were speaking falsely when you said that?—I did not know that I had said it.

33,471. I am reading from the shorthand-writer's notes?—I did not know that.

33,472. Why did you not come and say about Mr. Michelmore giving you the 30*l.*?—It slipped my memory.

33,473. When you were asked about 50 questions about the election of 1863 it slipped your memory that you had received 30*l.*?—Yes.

33,474. What has made you give up your boast that you made in the town that you did not mean the Commissioners to get anything out of you? Did not you say that?—I did not say that.

33,475. Why you said so here?—If I made use of those words I meant that I would tell the Commissioners what I was minded, but would not tell anybody out.

33,476. On your oath you swore that you got nothing at, after, or before the day of election before your vote. Do you mean to tell me when you were here you did not recollect having received 30*l.* from Mr. Michelmore?—I did not recollect what I had received. I got rather confused then.

33,477. This is the question:—"Q. Did you say "you would not tell the Commissioners anything but "what you could help?—A. I do not know that I "said that. Q. Did you not say so?—A. I am not "certain whether I said that or not. I will tell the "whole truth. I could defend myself without Mr. "Henry Michelmore and Mr. Harris." Did you say that?—That was rather about the insurance.

33,478. Have you said that you did not intend to tell the Commissioners more than you could help? "Nothing more than the truth" is your answer?——Yes.

33,479. Have you spoken the truth?—I have.

33,480. When?—Now.

33,481. Did you before?—It did not occur to me.

33,482. It did not occur to your mind that you were telling a pack of falsehoods?—No.

33,483. When did it occur to you that you were paid 30*l.* by Jeffery Michelmore; when did you first recollect that you received it?—It came to my mind.

33,484. When?—Very soon after the election.

33,485. Was it sitting in court here that brought it to your mind?—No, It came soon after.

33,486. Why did you not tell us?—I do not know.

33,487. Who brought it to your mind?—No one.

33,488. Then it was perfectly in your mind when you were here before?—No.

33,489. You mean to ask us to believe that you recollected it after you were examined here; is that so?—Yes.

33,490. (Mr. Bere.) Have you been back to Marldon every night?—Yes.

33,491. Has your master said anything to you?—He did one morning.

33,492. What did he say?—I do not remember.

33,493. Yes you do?—I told him the circumstances just as I have told you.

33,494. And he asked you why you were absent from your work, did not he?—I never go absent without his leave.

33,495. Whether you got leave or not you must obey our summons?—I never come without leave.

33,496. You do not know that he wrote us a letter about it?—No.

33,497. Did he say to you that you had better tell the truth?—No.

33,498. When did you last talk to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore about this?—I saw him the day I came here, yesterday week.

33,499. What did he say to you?—He said I had better state the thing as straight as I could to the best of my recollection.

33,500. Did he remind you about paying you 30*l.*?—No.

33,501. Did you remind him?—No.

33,502. Did not you speak to him yesterday?—I saw him in court.

33,503. What did you say to him?—He merely said to me "Have they not done with you yet? I do not think they can settle your case till Mr. Henry Michelmore comes in."

(Mr. Bere.) We shall have to report your case as well as others, that have committed deliberate perjury, and it will be for the law officers of the Crown to say, whether you shall be prosecuted or not. You can now go back to your work, but you must keep yourself in readiness, because we may want you to come again.

Mr. John Webber Chaster recalled and further examined.

33,504. (Mr. Bere.) During the time that Lord Seymour had been a member, from 1844 to 1855, had he spent any money in the borough with the exception of the money that he spent in the Mechanics' Institute? Had he subscribed to the charities?—Yes, he had subscribed to the charities.

33,505. To any great extent?—No.

33,506. What do you suppose was the amount of his spendings?—I should think within a hundred pounds a year.

33,507. Did that include the money he generally gives to Totnes races?—No, it would not include that.

33,508. The 50*l.* plate would be besides that?—Yes.

33,509. Was that money spent in subscriptions of various kinds?—Yes; general local charities.

33,510. Are there many local charities?—Yes.

33,511. Was it one or two guineas?—Two to three guineas. Some reached ten.

33,512. To what was he a subscriber of 10 guineas?—I think one or two schools. I am only speaking from recollection.

33,513. You are interested in the schools?—Yes.

33,514. Are you on the committee of the schools?—None at present.

33,515. Was that 100*l.* spent in subscriptions for the interest of the general public?—Yes.

33,516. Generally? Or were the charities that he supported, chiefly Liberal ones?—The general charities, without any reference to political views.

33,517. Do you know at all of your own knowledge when the manufacture of votes first began?—I think it began in Gerston; it might possibly have begun before in some of the Duke's lands, but it is not within my knowledge.

33,518. Can you tell us when it began in Gerston?—Immediately after Mr. Baldwin took possession of it.

33,519. Between 1839 and 1840, I suppose?—Later than that, I should think.

33,520. I will call your attention to this, and you will see whether it will refresh your memory: Between the registration of 1834 and the registration of 1836, the Bridgetown voters increased from 39 to 50 in two years?—Yes.

33,521. Do you know of your own knowledge, whether any of those 11 voters were fictitiously created?—From my own knowledge I cannot say.

33,522. Although you did not know of your own knowledge, have you heard that that increase was created by fictitious qualifications?—I should think some of them were.

33,523. There is an increase between the registration of 1839 and the registration of 1840, of 50 votes in Totnes. Between these two periods Mr. Baldwin purchased Gerston?—Yes, he did.

33,524. Can you say how many of those voters, either from what you have heard or know, were voters manufactured on this Gerston estate?—I cannot give you the numbers.

33,525. Was it anything like 50?—Oh, no.

33,526. Was it half?—I think from the manner in which the votes were made in Gerston at that time, it could not have reached half.

33,527. Would 20 be too large a figure to put it at?—I think not.

33,528. Between the registration of 1840 and the registration of 1846, Bridgetown increased 31 votes. Would that be a legitimate increase of votes in Bridgetown? In 1840 there were only 66 voters in Bridgetown, and in 1847 there are 97 votes; that is an increase of 31. Have you any doubt that most of those votes were fictitiously created?—I think, owing to the creation of votes in Gerston, there was an attempt on the other side to counteract it.

33,529. Can you give us any explanation of the reason why Bridgetown voters were 97 on the registration in 1846, and were as low as 76 in the registration of 1851?—I do not know. I did not attend to those registrations.

33,530. We stopped at the election of 1855, when the two Conservative candidates came down, and with drew; and now we will come to the election of 1857, when Lord Gifford, and Mills, Mackenzie, and Gregory stood. Up to that time, there had been an agreement between Lord Seymour and Mr. Baldwin, which had come to an end, if I understand you rightly, at the election of 1852. There was not that cordial co-working with Mills and Seymour?—That was so.

33,531. Was that the case in the election of 1857?—I think not.

33,532. Did the two Liberal interests in 1857 work together?—I think there was a better understanding.

33,533. Can you give us the history of how that was arrived at?—I cannot.

33,534. Were you concerned in the election of 1857 for Mills?—No.

33,535. Were you on his committee?—No.

33,536. Were you on Lord Gifford's?—No.

33,537. Had you anything to do with the management of the election?—None whatever.

33,538. You were canvassed I suppose by Lord Gifford and Mills?—Yes.

33,539. And promised to vote?—Yes.

33,540. Was that the part you took?—I do not know whether I may not have nominated Lord Gifford in 1857.

33,541. That was all you did?—Yes. I never worked as committee man, or canvassed.

33,542. Was there a good deal of money spent in the election of 1857?—I think not. My impression is, there was not.

33,543. There was some spent, but trivial as compared with former elections. Can you form any idea as to the sum of money that was spent at that election?—I cannot.

33,544. Did you make up the poll book?—No.

33,545. In 1859 was the same understanding still in existence between the Seymour party and the independent party?—I have no doubt of it.

33,546. Did you act in that election at all?—Not at all.

33,547. You voted for Gifford and Mills, and took no other part in the election?—I took no part in it beyond this—I seconded the nomination of Earl Gifford.

33,548. You did nothing more?—I did nothing more.

33,549. You did not canvass anybody?—No.

33,550. Or use your influence on anybody?—No.

33,551. Or attend the committee?—No.

33,552. Did you go to the Seymour Hotel at that time?—I did not on any one occasion.

33,553. In those days?—In those days.

33,554. Had Gerston at this time ceased to belong to Mr. Baldwin?—Yes, I think it did, about that time.

33,555. Can you tell at all when it ceased?—I should think it must have been in 1858, possibly a year before; it was about that time; I do not know to 12 months.

33,556. Did you hear of a dispute between Mr. Phillips of Broomborough and the present Duke of Somerset, about the purchase of the property?—I have heard there was a dispute.

33,557. Did you know that it was put up by auction?—Yes.

33,558. Did you know that Mr. Phillips was the highest bidder for it?—Yes.

33,559. Do you know that Mr. Phillips afterwards offered the property to Mr. Michelmore at an advanced price?—When I say I know, it is by hearsay.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

21 Sept. 1866.

33,560. Do you know that two gentlemen were appointed to arbitrate between Mr. Phillips and the Duke of Somerset, and that their decision was in favour of the Duke of Somerset?—I heard so.

33,561. What I want thoroughly to arrive at is this—do you know what reason made Mr. Phillips part with that property, he having bought it at a public auction—do you know what reason caused him to enter into a private contract for sale to the Duke of Somerset?–I have no knowledge of it; I can only guess.

33,562. What is the reason you heard?—I heard that Mr. Phillips bought on behalf of the party, but his party did not support him after he purchased it, making arrangements to pay for it; it was inconvenient for Mr. Phillips to pay for it, and therefore he found it necessary to dispose of it.

33,563. Is Mr. Phillips a man likely to be able to give 16,000*l.* or 17,000*l.* for the property?—By no means.

33,564. It was not that he made the purchase from his own private resources?—Certainly not.

33,565. It was expected that the Conservatives should find a candidate who had got enough money to buy the property, and then Mr. Phillips would be recompensed?—Just so.

33,566. They could not find such a person, and Mr. Phillips would have had to pay the money?—No doubt.

33,567. Do you know that the dispute between the Duke of Somerset and Mr. Phillips arose from the Conservatives subsequently finding a candidate who could pay the money?—I imagine so.

33,568. When the Conservatives found a person who could pay the money, Mr. Phillips tried to get rid of the bargain?—It appeared like it; that is the story.

33,569. And that agreement was submitted to the arbitration of two gentlemen, and they decided against Mr. Phillips?—That was so.

33,570. When was the first election that you took any real interest in?—The election of 1862.

33,571. When Mr. Pender came down?—Yes.

33,572. How did he come here first?—It is rather a long story.

33,573. We must have it?—Then it will be better to begin at the beginning. I think it necessary to begin at the municipal fights, or the municipal agreement not to fight; we had had several fights here, and I think Mr. John Heath sent to me one day when we were coming from the council chamber up here. I think it is hardly worth while to go into a fight this time; could we not agree?

33,574. Can you fix a date for that?—It was very near upon the 1st of November, 1862. We had a talk about it going up through the lane here; I said, I do not like bribery, and the manner in which things are conducted here; and we then talked about it. He said, Have you any objection to talk the things over; I said, not the least; the result of it was, after a little conversation with others, that a committee was appointed—three on each side—to make the arrangement.

33,575. Give the names of those gentlemen?—Myself, Mr. Windeatt, and Mr. Thomas Holman, on the part of the Liberals; Mr. T. C. Kellock, Mr. John Heath, and Mr. Edmonds, on the part of the Conservatives; and we met at Mr. Gill's house.

33,576. Is that Mr. Gill, the chemist?—No, an independent gentlemen. We met there in consequence, and talked the thing over, and I should say, first, that the Liberals were in a majority in the council and their position on the register was enough to justify them in supposing they could carry a man on that occasion. We met at Mr. Gill's house and then there was a mutual agreement that we would put down fights and contests for municipal honours for the future by an arrangement that two and two should go on each side until the council became level, and that as the aldermen dropped off two should be on the Conservative and two on the Liberal side, so that we would be perfectly balanced. Then came the arrangement as to the mayoralty, and the arrangement which they thought of at that time was, I was to take the gown upon that occasion. With much pleasure I waived it in favour of Mr. Bentall. I said, "If this thing is carried "out I shall be very glad to see Mr. Bentall take the "chair; show our good faith and let him take the chair "upon this occasion." The arrangement was, that the Liberals should take the gown for the following year, not of necessity, but that it should be one of the Liberal party.

33,577. Was it in writing?—I think not. I do not recollect seeing anything in writing, but that was the arrangement, and it was reported to the different parties and agreed to and acted on, and Mr. Bentall was made the mayor on the 9th of November following. In consequence of that, I thought it my duty to dine with them, and I did so dine with the mayor on the 10th of November (for his election took place on the 10th), and Mr. John Heath, at the "Seven Stars." At that time Earl Gifford was in ill health, indeed, his health was so bad that we daily expected his demise, and we were thinking about the probability of a candidate, and we did not know who there would be. Several names were mentioned; we talked it over amongst ourselves, and it was at last decided that Lord Seymour would probably be the candidate.

33,578. Among the names that were then mentioned were there the names of any resident gentlemen in the neighbourhood as candidates?—I think not.

33,579. Were all those names who were mentioned Liberals?—Do you refer to the candidates for the borough?

33,580. Yes?—Certainly not any person in the neighbourhood.

33,581. Were all the persons whose names were mentioned Liberals?—All Liberals. This was all talked over among the Liberal party previous to this. That was our position in the town as a party; we felt we should lose the Earl of Gifford, and we had not decided on a man. I was dining at the "Seven Stars" and I was called down during dinner, and I found 2 or 3 gentlemen in the lobby to ask me if I would go to Dawlish or Teignmouth, to meet Mr. Seymour, on the following Saturday.

33,582. When he was candidate for Exeter?—There was a contest at Exeter at the time. I had never seen him and knew nothing of him. It was necessary to see him and I was asked to go; and I arranged to go and see him. That was the state of things on the 10th of November. On the following morning there was a report that Earl Gifford was dead. We were in a great deal of uncertainty during the whole of that day. Mr. Thomas Michelmore was at Collaton and he was sent for and returned. I had 2 or 3 messages to me, sent from Mr. Charles Michelmore's office, during the afternoon of that day, to my tanyard. I was busy at the time and I did not leave my business to attend to it. I had 4 messages, and it came down to 5 o'clock, and some one came and said, "Please come directly; there are several gentlemen waiting and he has now come." I went to Mr. Thomas Michelmore's office. When I went, Mr. Thomas Michelmore was there, Mr. Cuming was there, Mr. Fabyan Windeatt was not there; Mr. Jeffery Michelmore and they said, "We find it is Mr. Mills and not Earl Gifford." The parties who were there said, "We want you to attend a meeting over at the "Seymour" this evening at 7 o'clock. I said, "Yes, I will come over." They said, "Mr. Seymour will be there." I went over about 7, Mr. Seymour was there, in one of the little rooms, and several of the parties—one man an entire stranger whom I did not know at all. Previous to this, Mr. Windeatt had said to me, "We have a candidate on the cards called Pender." I said, "I know nothing about him." He then said, "I had a Mr. McDougall call on me, he is a friend of his: he is a Manchester man." I said, "A Manchester man will not do for us." He said, "I want you to come and talk it over." I said, "If he is a Bright man he will not do for me." I went over and talked the thing over with them; but what I am talking to you now about was prior to the 7 o'clock meeting. At 7 o'clock I went over and found Mr. Seymour there. When I saw him there, somebody said, "Mr. Seymour." I turned abruptly to him and said "Mr. Seymour, you will not do for our vacancy." He said, "Why?" "Because you are here as the representative of the Seymour interest, and this is an independent candidate, Mr. Mills." He said, "Am I to understand I had better leave?" I said, "That is my opinion; if you come here in the interest of the Duke of Somerset to represent the vacancy of Earl Gifford, I shall be happy to see you, but as an independent candidate I cannot know you." We had some conversation over the matter, and the result was Mr. Seymour thought it prudent to go; and then the other person, who was a stranger to him, was introduced to me, and he turned out to be Mr. McDougall. He had seen Mr. Windeatt some 2 or 3 weeks, and had introduced Mr. Pender's name. Well, we had a talk over the matter, and I asked him some questions. The result of the conversation was, it was decided, as I had an objection to Mr. Pender, he being a Manchester man, that I should be one of the deputation to go and see him.

33,583. When you had that consultation before the "Seven Stars" dinner, and the names of the Liberals were mentioned, was Mr. Pender's name ever mentioned?—Certainly not at that time.

33,584. Your objection was not to a person in the Manchester trade, but to a person of the Manchester school of politics?—The Manchester school of politics.

33,585. What class of gentleman was proposed as a proper and fitting candidate for Totnes when persons were present?—At that time?

33,586. Yes at that time?—We had three or four applications, I know. I never saw any gentleman personally.

33,587. Do you know the names of any of those that applied?—They were all new names to me, and they have passed from my memory.

33,588. Were they all merchants with a good deal of money?—No, I do not think they were merchants, I do not recollect a merchant being among them, except Mr. Pender.

33,589. Manufacturers?—No manufacturers.

33,590. Do you know what they were?—I think there was an army man.

33,591. Had they all the proper requisite money?—That was not the question with me at the time. I knew nothing about money.

33,592. What did Mr. M'Dougall tell you about Mr. Pender?—He said he was a man doing an enormous trade, and he thought he would be a very useful man. He was a very charitable man, and desirous of doing everything he could for the purposes of education; and he was a thorough Liberal.

33,593. Do you know what Mr. Pender's peculiar desire to come into Parliament originated in?—He said he had been pressed to come into Parliament by his friends in Manchester.

33,594. For Manchester?—No, by the party in Manchester to assist in increasing the general trade of the country as he was a large merchant. He thought he was one who would have the means of assisting the Government and developing free trade. The result was that Mr. Charles Michelmore and Mr. Brooking Cuming and myself went to London by the 8.20 train and saw Mr. Pender, had a long interview with him, and the result of that interview was that he came to Totnes. I should say that during the interview my business in going to see him was to ascertain his political views only. That is all I know about the transaction of carrying a member for the borough.

33,595. Did you dine with him?—I did, and Mr. Moore, and perhaps Mr. McDougall. I am not certain about him. I think he did; but after the dinner we got to general conversation. Mr. Pender said, "Now, "gentlemen, what money will be required to take "down to Totnes;" and he turned to me when he put the question. I said, "If you put the question I "must leave the room. I know nothing of money, "nor do I intend. I must retire into another room, "and these two legal gentlemen will answer you "about that."

33,596. Was it Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Charles Michelmore?—Mr. Brooking Cuming and Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore.

33,597. Did they go with Mr. Pender?—They went into another room. I never heard their conversation, nor do I know the burthen of it.

33,598. Did you ever hear from them or Mr. Pender what sum they intimated would be wanted?—I never heard of it.

33,599. You knew perfectly well that money would be wanted?—I had no doubt money would be wanted. I did not choose to mix myself up with it.

33,600. Did you know how the money was to be spent?—Yes.

33,601. Did they come back again?—They came back again, and they appeared thoroughly satisfied. The only question put to me was this,—I was asked by Mr. Pender if there was a strong probability of his being carried for Totnes. I replied that I had not the slightest idea that the Conservatives had a chance unless they spent an enormous sum of money.

33,602. Did you make up the poll-book?—Not at that time.

33,603. From your knowledge of the state of the parties in the borough you believe the Liberals would succeed?—Yes.

33,604. Unless there were some money spent at the time on the other side?—Undoubtedly.

33,605. And none on the Liberal side?—No, certainly not; what I say is I did not choose to be a party to it.

33,606. Was that all that passed at the dinner at Mr. Pender's?—That was all, I believe.

33,607. Did Mr. Pender then issue an address?—He did, after the funeral of Mr. Mills, some four or five days afterwards. He thought it not delicate to do it before the interment.

33,608. Do you know at what time, with regard to Mr. Pender standing for Totnes, Mr. Dent was procured as a candidate on the other side?—Sometime after Mr. Pender came here.

33,609. Did he come here before he issued an address?—No, I think the address was issued first.

33,610. And then he came?—And then he came.

33,611. I suppose you saw him the moment he did come; the last election after he came?—I saw him the same night.

33,612. Who was his adviser?—Mr. Cuming.

33,613. He was his friend in regard to the political relationship?—Yes.

33,614. Was Mr. Thomas Michelmore one of his legal advisers. Tell us what passed after Mr. Pender came down?—The first thing I recollect was a meeting in this hall. I think about a day after, or perhaps two days after he came to Totnes I was asked to introduce him to the electors, and I did so; I asked them to accept him. At that time there was no other candidate, and he was virtually accepted.

33,615. Did you introduce him as a man of considerable means?—As a merchant; that was my principal object in introducing him, he was a man capable and willing to carry out the principles of free trade.

33,616. Did you intimate any particular way in which he was likely to assist the town of Totnes in trade?—I should say that at that meeting it was suggested to Mr. Pender that Mr. Mills had been in the habit of giving annual subscriptions to all the schools and other local charities, and Mr. Pender said he would do the same; whatever Mr. Mills did he would do.

33,617. Was it suggested to him that Mr. Mills always spent a good deal of money for his election?—I never heard a word about it.

33,618. Did you canvass with Mr. Pender?—No, I did not.

33,618*a*. Did you make up the poll-book on that occasion?—No, I think not. I have looked for such a book, and I do not recollect it; I made one, and I saw Mr. Cuming's poll-book.

33,619. Did you go through the poll-book with him?—I may have, once or twice.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

21 Sept. 1866.

33,620. Where used your meetings to be held?—I do not know that we had any meeeings.

36,621. Was there a committee appointed?—No, Mr. Cuming had the entire control; he was the managing man, and made all the arrangements.

36,622. Were there not a certain number of gentlemen on the Liberal side who always acted together, and assisted the candidate as legal advisers?—Yes.

33,623. Who were those?—We used to see Mr. Jeffrey Michelmore.

33,624. Mr. Holman?—He was there occasionally.

33,625. And Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Cuming of course?—Yes. I do not know any other names. Jenkins was one. I do not know whether he assented.

33,626. The end of all your consultations and opinions was that Mr. Pender was pretty soft?—Yes.

33,627. At any time during the day prior to the actual election did you ever hear of any money being wanted?—None.

33,628. Not at the election?—None whatever.

33,629. When did you hear of Mr. Dent coming down first?—Many days after Mr. Pender addressed the electors in this Guildhall; over a week, I should suppose.

33,630. Did you know there would be a contest?—At least there might be a probability of it.

33,631. Did you know who Mr. Dent was?—Not at all.

33,632. Did you not inquire?—I found him to be a China merchant.

33,633. And a very rich one?—A rich one.

33,634. Did you not begin to think a good deal of money would be wanted on your side?—I was told there might be.

33,635. Did you express your opinion at any time to Mr. Pender?—No.

33,636. Mr. Dent did not go to the poll, do you know of any negotiations having taken place between Mr. Dent and Mr. Pender prior to the day of polling?—Mr. Pender wrote him a letter when things were getting a little close and rather serious.

33,637. Do you remember when that was?—I think within two days of the nomination. I am not sure whether he wrote to him at the "Seven Stars," (he may have or may not) and asked him to fight the election on pure principles. He asked him to give him his word of honour as a gentleman that he would spend no money.

33,638. What did Mr. Dent reply to that?—I think he wrote him in reply that he could make no pledge of the sort, and that he should go to the poll.

33,639. Did you see the letter?—I am not certain of seeing the reply, but I saw the letter written by Mr. Pender.

33,640. Have you got the letter?—I have not the letter; it will be produced with his papers; he did not consult me about sending the letter, he showed it to me after it was sent, and before there was a reply.

33,641. Did you approve of it?—I did.

33,642. You saw Mr. Dent's reply?—At least I heard of it.

33,643. It was to the effect you have mentioned?—Yes.

33,644. Did not Mr. Pender show it to you?—I daresay he may, but I cannot charge my memory with seeing it. I know the effect of it.

33,645. Who was down with Mr. Pender at the election?—Mr. M'Dougall came down here and a Mr. Moore who was here to lecture as a free-trade lecturer during the Corn Law agitation.

33,646. Was he sent about to do the oratory?—Yes, there were several meetings held in the assembly rooms here; he was a good talker, and used to amuse the people a good deal. I do not recollect him.

33,647. Was there a Mr. Heald down?—Not upon that occasion, he was down in 1865.

33,648. Mr. McHaffie?—He came down to the nomination; he is Mr. Pender's junior partner.

33,649. Did Mr. Pender ever tell you that he belonged to the Whitworth Ordnance Company?—As a shareholder.

33,650. Did you know he was a director?—No, I did not know that.

33,651. A promoter?—No.

33,652. One of the original promoters?—He may have been.

33,653. Was that all that took place between Mr. Dent and Mr. Pender by letter?—That is all that took place between the two individuals, there were other matters.

33,654. There were negotiations were there not between the two parties?—The first I knew of any negociation was that a person called in at No. 4 room on the night of the nomination, to meet some on the bridge.

33,655. Who was that?—Mr. Philip Condy; it was to meet Mr. Kellock the Mayor. And the result of the conversation was, Mr. Cuming was called out of the "Seymour Hotel," and I believe Mr. Cuming went with Mr. Kellock to the "Seven Stars," and he saw Mr. Edmonds. This I am speaking of from hearsay, at any rate I do know that he went to the "Seven Stars." I don't know that he returned to the "Seymour Hotel," I was with Mr. Pender at the time. They were a rather noisy party at No. 4 room, and I could not smoke myself without a good deal of annoyance. I was in No. 5. Mr. Pender was called into No. 6 room, and there he saw Mr. Cuming; he was absent it may be 10 minutes, he then returned to me in a rather excited state, he said, "Mr. Chaster, they want 2,000*l.*, what do you think?" I said, Who? He said, The other party over the bridge. He said they want 2,000*l.* of me, and with a pledge that Mr. Dent is to come in at the next election, if he retires now. I said "If you accede to that, I will never give you a vote as long as I live."

33,656. If he retired?—If Mr. Dent retired, and he paid 2,000*l.* to cover the expenses incurred by Mr. Dent, he was to walk over the course at the next occasion.

33,657. On that you said if he entered entered into that arrangement you would not vote for him?—I said I would not support him. I said we can carry it, go to the poll, if the other party surrender it must be unconditional. I am not sure about the hour of the night, perhaps it was 11 or it may have been half-past 11; but not one hour had elapsed before there came over an unconditional surrender. That was the end of the election.

33,658. Mr. Pender did go to the poll the next morning?—The poll was opened. Some of the party fancied it was a dodge on the part of the Conservatives, and they came in with a rush and carried the election after all. Some of our men said we will go to the poll, we cannot tell what they will do, because they have broken faith so often in the Town Council.

33,659. The arrangement was broken?—They had broken it, Mr. Kellock told me on one occasion, and when I found his memory was so indifferent here the other day, I can account for it; he does not remember my being one of the conference at the time of the arrangement.

33,660. How long did Mr. Pender stay in the town after the election of 1862?—I think he went away the night of the polling; he did not stay more than one day.

33,661. Was any offer made to the other side, of money to be spent by Mr. Pender on the general welfare of Totnes?—I believe not, when Mr. Pender returned without giving any answer to Mr. Brooking Cuming he returned to me in No. 5 room. Now, he said, Mr. Chaster, after the undermentioned surrender as there is to be no fight and no money spent I will give 1000*l.* to the town, and I will give it to a committee to spend in any way they may think proper.

33,662. Had you made up your mind with regard to the certainty of particular individuals voting a particular way upon that occasion?—I had not. I placed implicit reliance on Mr. Brooking Cuming.

33,663. Had Mr. Brooking Cuming informed you that there were a certain number of men who were holding out, and that they would not promise their votes at all?—No, he had not.

33,664. Did he give you any information that led you to believe that a great number of electors had changed their minds between the time of the canvass and the election day?—No.

33,665. You heard, I daresay, from reading the evidence, that a certain number voted by the name of the "Slippery Company?"—Yes.

33,666. Had you heard anything about the individuals constituting that company, voting on that occasion?—I never heard their names. I have heard of the company,

33,667. Can you tell, from your recollection, or on looking over Mr. Brooking Cuming's poll-book, whether you had concluded that Thomas Searle would vote for Pender or Dent?—There was some unpleasantness about Thomas Searle at that election.

33,668. Who told you about that?—Mr. Cuming.

33,669. What did he tell you?—I think there was something unpleasant about an idiot child, or something of that sort. Something that Mr. Searle expected to have been done, that was not done.

33,670. Did Mr. Brooking Cuming ever lead you to believe that he had given Mr. Pender any advice with regard to the payment of the 2,000*l.*?—No.

33,671. Is it your opinion that Mr. Brooking Cuming advised him to pay the money?—The impression given to me, by Mr. Pender, was that he did; Mr. Cuming did not give it.

33,672. Is it not the impression upon your mind that Mr. Brooking Cuming did advise Mr. Pender to spend the money?—I should think so from Mr. Pender's report to me.

33,673. Did he give you any reason why Mr. Brooking Cuming should have given that advice?—No, he did not.

33,674. Did not Mr. Pender tell you that Mr. Brooking Cuming's advice resulted from a belief that there were a certain number of electors that were not to be depended upon, and were to be had on the other side?—He did not say so.

33,675. Did he lead you to believe that there was some uncertainty about the election which you were not cognizant of yourself?—No, he did not tell me so much as that.

33,676. Did he, after Mr. Pender had gone down to see Thomas Searle?—Not that I am aware of.

33,677. What time was this, about half-past 10 o'clock?—I should think half-past 11.

33,678. Were you with Mr. Pender until he went to-bed that night?—No, I think I left him in his room.

33,679. Did you go back to your own house?—I went back to my own house.

33,680. You cannot tell whether, after that time, Mr. Pender went down to see Mr. Searle?—I cannot.

33,681. He might have done so?—I think I left very soon after.

33,682. Did he ever tell you that he had been to see Mr. Searle?—Never.

33,683. I daresay if Mr. Brooking Cuming produces the poll-book of that election you can go through it and say whether your recollections agree with his about the way people were going to vote upon that occasion?—My calculations are merely mental calculations.

33,684. Whether they agree or disagree?—Yes, I think I could do that.

33,685. Then Mr. Pender left?—He left the night of the election, I think.

33,686. When did you first get the 1,000*l.*? First of all what committee was appointed to distribute the 1,000*l.*?—I cannot say particularly to that. Here is a copy of the resolution passed at the first meeting.

33,687. Was the meeting held in consequence of this money being spent by Mr. Pender?—Yes.

33,688. Were you aware of the sum of money that Mr. Pender spent from the time of his coming here?—Not the least.

33,689. You did not know how much he spent?—I found 12,00*l.* was spent. I do not know how it was spent.

33,690. He left 12,00*l.* somehow or in Totnes?—Yes.

33,691. Did not Mr. Pender say when he promised you this 1,000*l.*, that the 1,000*l.* was to come out of the 1,200*l.*?—I had not the least doubt of it.

33,692. Did he have any idea that the 1,000*l.* would be extra, that 1,200*l.*?—Not the least, he said so to me when the remark was made, that as there had been no bribery, and nothing rotten had transpired, he would give the sum of 1,000*l.* to the town.

33,693. I see this meeting was not held till the 3rd of March, 1863. That was after the contest between Seymour and Dent?—Yes.

33,694. From that time I believe you became the distributor of Mr. Pender's charities, in the borough?—No.

33,695. All the money passed through your hands?—No, through Mr. Cuming's hands, at that period.

33,696. Was not every payment for Mr. Pender submitted to you?—No.

33,697. Was not the account of the payments submitted to you, and checked by you?—Never at that time; not until after Mr. Cuming dropped off.

33,698. Who were the gentlemen appointed on the committee for appropriating this 1,000*l.*?—The names are there.

33,699. Are they Colonel Willoughby, Captain Frederick Rogers, R.N., Captain Boardman, R.N., Captain Watson, The Revd. W. Major Paull, Mr. T. Michelmore, Mr. J. W. Chaster, Mr. Jenkins Mr. Derry, Mr. W. F. Windeatt, Mr. P. Condy, junr., Mr. T. Holman, Mr. Lorimer, Mr. F. B. Cuming, Mr. John Bowden, and Mr. Jeffery Michelmore. Those were all Liberals?—I thought there was Mr. Oldreive's name there too.

33,700. Before you held this meeting had the 1,000*l.* been paid by Mr. Pender?—No, I think the 1,000*l.* came here in May, 1863. There was a rifle match, and when Mr. Pender left after the rifle shooting, he gave me the 1,000*l.*

33,701. Then you dealt with that 1,000*l.* as if received before the time it actually came into your hands?—Yes, it had been promised, and the resolutions were passed.

33,702. As to how it should be appropriated?—Yes.

33,703. And these are the resolutions for its appropriation:—"It was resolved on the motion of Colonel Willoughby, seconded by the Revd. W. M. Paull, That a sum not exceeding 600*l.* (part of the sum given by Mr. Pender) be appropriated to the building of New British Schools in Totnes.

"Resolved on the motion of Mr. Holman, seconded "by Mr. Condy, That a sum not exceeding 100*l.* be "appropriated for the repairing and tuning the "church bells.

"Resolved on the motion of Mr. J. W. Chaster, "seconded by Mr. J. Michelmore, That the sum of "200*l.* be appropriated towards building a new re-"servoir to provide the town with water in case of "fire.

"Resolved on the motion of Mr. Chaster, seconded "by Mr. T. Michelmore, That the remaining sum of "100*l.* be applied towards the building fund of the "new Wesleyan Chapel.

"Resolved on the motion of Mr. J. Bowden, "seconded by Mr. T. Michelmore, That on consi-"dering the distribution of the 400*l.* left after the "first resolution, it is thought desirable that a sub-"scription of 50*l.* should be made to a new organ for "the Independent Chapel, but to enable this to be "done the mover and seconder of that resolution be "asked to consent to a distribution of 550*l.* for 600*l.* "towards the new schools."

The former apportionment of 600*l.* was reduced to 550*l.*; that was the effect.

33,704. Who are the committee of the British Schools? Are they Liberals?—I do not know at all.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

21 Sept. 1866.

I wish I knew. I want the committee called. I hold the money and there is no one to discharge me.

33,705. What has the school cost?—I do not know what the expenses are. My position was only that of trustee.

33,706. More than the 600*l.*?—I should think a good deal more.

33,707. Will that be raised by subscription?—I suppose so.

33,708. You have paid some part of the account?—I paid 80*l.* to Samuel Reeve, and 50*l.* he asked me for the other day.

33,709. Which you advanced?—Which I advanced.

33,710. Reeve told us you advanced him a 50*l.* loan?—A loan! Oh, no.

33,711. He told us so, for which you were not to be repaid interest?—No, that is a mistake. There is a receipt for it for work done.

33,712. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you first know that Mr. Pender was dissatisfied as to this extra amount being required of him?—Because he expected it to come out of the 1,200*l.*

33,713. You have told us repeatedly that he expected it to come out of the 1,200*l.* When did he first of all complain to you?—I can hardly charge my memory with that; some time elapsed before he ventured to say he was disappointed.

33,714. It was after Mr. Seymour's election in May?—Yes.

33,715. Did he express his dissatisfaction at paying it when he gave it to you?—No.

33,716. Was it subsequently to that?—After that; many months, I know.

33,717. Then he complained especially of that 1,000*l.* being demanded by Mr. Cuming?—It was not demanded at all. I went to the station with him, and he said to me as he was going away, "Here, Chaster, I wish you would take this; it is the 1,000*l.* I promised to give; take charge of it."

33,718. What conversation had you had with him as to its being out of the 1,200*l.*?—None whatever; that must have taken place through Mr. Cuming.

33,719. He said nothing, but handed you the money?—You understand what my position was with him, that I would know nothing about the money.

33,720. (Mr. Bere.) Can you tell when Mr. Pender first knew that the 1,200*l.* had been expended on his behalf; or will Mr. Cuming know that?—I am afraid Mr. Cuming will not give you all the information you require. Mr. Pender came to Totnes and Mr. McDougall with him, I should think about March or April 1863. He came to settle the accounts, and I believe came with the idea that he should be able to take 1,000*l.* from the 1,200*l.* and hand it over to the committee, but he found he was unable to do so.

33,721. Had you anything to do with that settlement of account?—None whatever.

33,722. I suppose either Mr. Cuming or Mr. Windeatt's representatives would have that account?—Mr. Windeatt was not so very prominent in it; Mr. Cuming was the principal.

33,723. Is that all you have to tell us about the Pender election of 1862?—All that occurs to me now; there may be some other matters.

33,724. May I take it that you did not know at that time that sums of money had been improperly spent at that election on Mr. Pender's side?—I had not an idea that one shilling had been spent until I saw Mr. McDougall in March or April; then I began to suspect there was something wrong.

33,725. Did you know of money being spent on the other side, or promised?—No, I did not understand that.

33,726. There was of course a great deal of canvassing going on for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

33,727. Who were the persons most actively engaged in that? the sub-agents of the party?—I do not know anything of that.

33,728. Do you know Mr. Elliott?—Yes.

33,729. And Prout and Callard?—Yes, pretty well.

33,730. Mr. Worthy?—Yes.

33,731. Samuel Parnell?—Yes.

33,732. Searle?—Yes.

33,733. Mr. Holman?—Yes.

33,734. Mr. Farley?—Yes, the two Farleys.

33,735. Would not the distribution of forces be that Mr. Holman would in all probability take the command of those other men, and assign to them their different districts and their different people to see?—I should think it came directly from Mr. Cuming.

33,736. Those were all persons who were employed in canvassing?—Mr. Holman would be a volunteer.

33,737. I did not mean employed in the sense of being paid, all but Mr. Holman would have been paid in some way or other?—I should say so.

33,738. Still Mr. Holman took a great deal of interest in it and was active in the canvass?—Exactly so.

33,739. Were your meetings held at that time in the large room, No. 4, and in the two rooms next to it, No. 5 and No. 6?—In No. 4 the meetings were held.

33,740. In No. 5 you saw Mr. Pender?—I generally found him in No. 5.

33,741. What was it used for?—A sort of consulting room.

33,742. Was there any room where Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Cuming sat by themselves?—No. 6 room I think was pretty much occupied by Mr. Pender's secretary.

33,743. Was that Mr. Salmon?—Yes, he was there at that election.

33,744. Mr. Percy Salmon?—Yes, you are right.

33,745. Did you go about canvassing at all?—No.

33,746. Are you quite sure it was Mr. Percy Salmon who was here in 1862?—I saw him in 1862.

33,747. As Mr. Pender's secretary?—I should say so.

33,748. And not Mr. Healey?—He was not here; I never saw Mr. Healey.

33,749. In 1863 there was an election between Dent and Seymour?—Yes, there was a Mr. Jack also here.

33,750. He is an accountant?—Yes, in 1862 he must have come down I think about the time McHaffie came to the nomination.

33,751. Mr. Jack, Mr. McHaffie, Mr. McDougall, Mr. Salmon, and any other stranger was there with Mr. Pender?—I do not recollect any stranger besides. I think that must be all; there was Mr. Moore.

33,752. Moore is dead, I think?—He is.

33,753. Now the election between Seymour and Dent took place the 20th January 1863?—Yes.

33,754. And you, I suppose, considered Mr. Seymour as the ducal candidate, and not the independent candidate?—I did.

33,755. Did you support him?—I did.

33,756. Did you canvass for him?—No.

33,757. Were you on his committee?—There was no committee; it was generally managed by Mr. Michelmore.

33,758. Did you go and see him from time to time at the "Seymour Hotel?"—Yes, I saw him occasionally.

33,759. Did you make him a poll-book on that occasion?—I think not, I have not a poll-book, and I think I did not make one.

33,760. Had you arrived at the conclusion from what you knew about what the result of that contest would be?—I felt satisfied that we could carry Mr. Seymour.

33,761. Did you at all expect that it would be so near a run as it was?—Yes, within a trifle.

33,762. I suppose you knew that a great deal of money was spent on the other side?—I did.

33,763. Do you know at all what money was spent on your side at that time?—Not the least.

33,764. There was a good deal, was not there?—I should think so.

33,765. But it was kept very close?—Well, there was no priority. Mr. Michelmore had to do with the money at the "Seymour;" it was their own affair.

33,766. Have you any notion where it came from?—Not the least.

33,767. Was it the lingering influence of the Pender 1,200*l.*?—That is a very slender thing at an election.

33,768. You think a good deal more than that would be wanted?—Yes.

33,769. Do you think any of the 1,200*l.* had survived the Pender election?—I should think not.

33,770. Do you know where it was deposited?—I have seen since this Commission has been opened something about it, but I think it ought to come out in another way; I knew nothing of it then.

33,771. Where was it?—I understood it was sent to a tradesman of this town.

33,772. Who?—He is called Webber.

33,773. Charles Webber?—No, William Webber.

33,774. Is he alive?—No.

33,775. What was he?—A linendraper.

33,776. When was it sent to him?—That I cannot say.

33,777. Do you know how it was sent to him?—It was sent though a London house, but it is more than I can say how.

33,778. Do you know the name of the London house?—No, I cannot say; I have only seen it since this Commission was opened.

33,779. How came you to see it since?—Mr. Jack has been down here with Mr. Pender's books.

33,780. And you have gone through the books with Mr. Jack?—Yes, and we talked over the expenses, and that was the first knowledge I had of the money that was sent down in 1862.

33,781. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know whether William Webber was an active man?—Not an active man; he was always a strong Liberal.

33,782. Did you know of his interfering at elections before?—He used occasionally at municipal elections.

33,783. Do you know why he was selected as a depository of this money?—They were persons doing a good deal of business, and I suppose the transfer of this sum to them would not look out of the usual course.

33,784. That was probably the reason?—I should think so.

33,785. Do you know why it passed out of Webber's custody?—I cannot pretend to say; Mr. Cuming being the agent, most probably it would be by his order.

33,786. Were Mr. Pender's legitimate expenses paid out of the 1200*l.*, or separately?—I cannot say; I had nothing to do with the money transactions.

33,787. Mr. Cuming will be able to tell us?—He will tell you.

33,788. You remember the day of the election in 1863?—I do perfectly.

33,789. Had there been a good deal of treating at the "Seymour" before the election?—There were several grog meetings held there, and that sort of thing.

33,790. In what room?—In number 4.

33,791. Do you mean the large room?—No; the large room was not built at that time.

33,792. Were there not people there constantly all night?—Only at night; they used to congregate there about 8 o'clock or so.

33,793. Do you recollect seeing a man there named Robert Lake?—I do not know the name. I should not know him if I saw him.

33,794. You do not know him?—No; if he was in the hall I should not know him.

33,795. You know the name?—Yes, perfectly.

33,796. He was a gentleman carried off by Mr. Heath's son?—I never saw him at the "Seymour;" at least if I did I should not know him.

33,797. Who came and reported that to you, that he was taken off?—Well, I think Mr. Jeffery Michelmore came into the room, and said, "Lake has gone," but I do not know how the report came to him.

33,798. What was said upon that?—Well, I do not know that anything was said. They fancied though, that we pushed things rather tight.

33,799. Then, was there a little intimation that they must be really pushing things tight on the Liberal side?—Yes, that may be; but you see Mr. Michelmore's elections they managed themselves at the "Seymour."

33,800. Did not they consult you?—No; only about the cider, and giving general assistance.

33,801. Did you know about Fitzpatrick at the election of 1862?—I think I saw him once or twice in 1862.

33,802. Do you know the story about the poll-book?—I have heard it.

33,803. Did Mr. Pender talk to you about that at all?—I do not think he did.

33,804. On the day of the election, were there a number of strangers here with Mr. Alfred Seymour?—Yes, several.

33,805. Was his brother, Mr. Henry Danby Seymour here?—Mr. Danby Seymour was here a full week before the election.

33,806. He went about with him?—I think he did.

33,807. And canvassed for him?—I think he came and spoke for him. I heard Sir Henry Rawlinson was there, and Mr. Sandford was there.

33,808. I think Mr. Sandford and Sir Henry Rawlinson are brothers-in-law. Was that the old Mr. Sandford?—The young one.

33,809. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was not Baron Rothschild here too?—He was here the day of the election.

33,810. Which one was that. Mayer or Lionel?—I cannot say. I have not the pleasure of knowing them; they are too rich for me.

33,811. (Mr. Bere.) Did you hear Mr. Danby Seymour make a speech after the election, or on the afternoon of the election?—I do not recollect.

33,812. Did he make a speech in Mr. Bowden's committee room, and were you not there?—Mr. Bowden's committee room. I kept the poll at Bowden's house.

33,813. There was a committee room at Bowden's house?—Yes.

33,814. Do you recollect Mr. Danby Seymour coming into the committee room on the afternoon of the election, and talking about it?—I do not recollect his coming in there at all. He made a speech, and popped in and out.

33,815. I do not mean in the regular set speech?—No, not to stop the work by saying a good deal.

33,816. But did you hear him make an observation with regard to the spending of money on his brother's side?—No, certainly not.

33,817. Did you not hear him say that his brother had had a great deal too much money to pay?—No, nothing of the sort.

33,818. Or that he had a great deal of money to pay?—No, never in my hearing. I never heard that he had said so.

33,819. Was there a great deal of noise in the committee room? Might such a thing have been said without your hearing it?—No; a man could not have spoken in such terms as you say without my hearing it.

33,820. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever hear him make any expressions of disapproval as to the way money had been spent?—I think I have heard him say that more money had been spent than he expected. He was talking about his election on one occasion, and he said, "Well, we settle it with rotten eggs, and that sort of thing." He says, "I always go to the "poll with the worst clothes I have, because I am sure "to go away with them all over dirt." And I said, "Is that all you pay?" And he said, "No, not all; but a different thing from this."

33,821. Did he say what it had cost his brother?—Not to me.

33,822. Did you hear him say so to anybody else?—I have never heard him make a remark about the expenses.

33,823. (Mr Bere.) Did you ever hear that he had said to anybody anything about the money his brother had spent?—No.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

21 Sept. 1866.

33,824. Is that all you know about that election of 1863? Did you canvass anybody?—No.

33,825. Or try to influence any person?—No.

33,826. You voted yourself and that is all?—I voted for Seymour, and did no more.

33,827. Did you find there were a number of voters from Mr. Cuming for instance, who had voted previously for the Liberals who turned round on that occasion?—No, I do not recollect them. The only thing I do recollect is that Messrs. Stranger and Bennett kept off from the poll until late in the day, and we were very surprised at it.

33,828. Did they vote all right at the end of the day?—Yes, they voted all right.

33,829. Were there not a great number of men; for instance, there is a person sitting in court now, John Diggins, who was in the habit of voting for the Liberals?—Yes.

33,830. And did you hear he had gone and voted for Mr. Dent?—I think I did.

33,831. Did not you hear he had been induced by satisfactory reasons to do so?—I do not know that I had.

33,832. Did not you hear there were a good many men who had?—I should say not.

33,833. Had you gone through the poll-book with Mr. Cuming?—He did not take so much interest at that election; it was rather Mr. Michelmore's election.

33,834. Did you go through that poll-book at all?—I have no recollection of doing so, but it is not unlikely.

33,835. Did not you yourself feel surprised at people changing sides in politics, or did not Mr. Cuming express his surprise at the way people voted?—We knew all those things before.

33,836. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did not you hear Mr. Danby Seymour say to Mr. Cuming in a very angry tone, that he believed his brother would be beaten in spite of all the money he spent?—Never.

33,837. Nothing of the sort?—No.

33,838. Did he ever express any doubt about his brother's success in an angry tone of voice?—No.

23,839. You never heard him say so to Mr. Cuming?—No.

23,840. Except that 1,000*l.* which Mr. Pender gave you in May, do you know of any other money paid by Mr. Pender for charities in 1864?—No.

33,841. Do you know of any money paid by him in charities before his election in 1865?—No.

33,842. In any other way?—No. In 1863 he sent me 103*l.*

33,843. But between Seymour's election and his own election in 1865, did you know of any sums of money sent by Mr. Pender?—No.

34,844. (Mr. Bere.) Do not you know after 1863 of some money being sent to one of the voters and returned?—I did not.

33,845. Did not you write to Mr. Pender about it?—What is the name of the voter?

33,846. Hill?—No.

33,847. You never heard of a sum of 200*l.* being sent to Mr. Hill and returned?—No, I never wrote to him about it.

33,848. Whom did you write to Mr. Pender about in 1863?—No one.

33,849. Did not you know that a letter was written to Mr. Pender about this 200*l.*?—No, I never heard about it.

33,850. Or about some voter having received money and having returned it?—No.

33,851. He received money from the Conservatives and sent it back?—No, I was never consulted about it, and never asked to write a letter, and was no party to it.

33,852. Did you ever hear of such a letter being written?—No, I never heard of it. In 1863 I never heard about that.

33,853. Did you ever hear about that in 1865?—No.

33,854. (Mr. Coleridge.) In 1862?—No.

33,855. (Mr. Bere.) When did you first begin to look at Mr. Pender's accounts for him as connected with this borough?—I cannot tell you exactly the date.

33,856. Was it in consequence of Mr. Pender thinking that Mr. Cuming had made too large a charge and requesting you to communicate with Mr. Cuming about the charge?—There were some bills about some quo warranto.

33,857. When were the quo warrantos obtained?—The Conservatives broke faith with us, and after the election that I spoke of just now, a contest took place, and Mr. Gill succeeded in the council election, I forget the dates, but it was prior to that arrangement in 1860; I confused the dates just now but Mr. Gill was a candidate and I was a candidate. There were four on each side and Mr. Gill came in by one majority over myself. The parties were very indignant, and in the evening a meeting was held, and Mr. Brooking Cuming urged upon our going for a quo warranto.

33,858. How?—Because there were some rotten votes that they considered ought to be struck out. There was a great deal of talk over the matter by-and-by, and at the urgent request of Mr. Brooking Cuming we decided to go on. He being the agent for Mr. Mills, he said, "I consider it is our duty on behalf of "the Liberal party, to fight this out. No doubt there "are many numbers at this election that ought to have "been struck off, and we have got now two or three "bad votes, and it is our duty to try to reseat you." He said, "If the party would justify me in proceeding, "I will promise that the costs shall be only the costs "out of pocket, and I will charge nothing for pro-"fessional expenses." On this understanding we proceeded. We proceeded against Mr. Gill, or I did, and immediately afterwards the Conservative party turned the tables upon us, and Bastard moved against Mr. Holman. Dr. Owen was proceeded against for voting for another man. There were three quo warrantos; there was Cuming versus Owen, Chaster versus Gill, and Bastard versus Holman.

33,859. What did that cost you?—All my fights did not cost me 5*l.*

33,860. Mr. Kellock told us that it cost him 50*l.*?—He is a richer man than I am.

33,861. It did not cost you more than 5*l.*?—No.

33,862. What was the end of the quo warrantos?—There was an arrangement.

33,863. They were never tried?—No, it was upon that occasion the second arrangement about the Council being level was arrived at.

33,864. The costs of those quo warrantos were never paid?—No.

33,865. Not till Mr. Pender came?—When Mr. Pender came. Mr. Pender at that time was in London, and he was never informed that any such bill was in existence, and I said I would arrange to go and see Mr. Seymour on the Saturday, but I did not go there. I went to London, and retured on the Friday, and I had forgotten the engagement on the Saturday, and did not go. At the meeting it was mentioned to Mr. Seymour about the quo warrantos.

33,866. Was the amount mentioned?—The amount I understood to be 80*l.*, and Mr. Seymour said, "If it is so, I will pay half." But Mr. Pender never knew anything about it, and after Seymour's election in 1865 Mr. Cuming sent in his bill, and he wrote to me and asked for an explanation.

33,867. Mr. Pender wrote to you?—Yes, the bill was 125*l.* or 127*l.* I wrote to him and told him the circumstances. There was a good bit of correspondence in the matter, and there was a correspondence between Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour, and it was understood that it was only 80*l.*; and then it was suggested that it should be left to a committee to ascertain what it was. And Mr. Pender wrote to me and I said, "Name your committee, and if you elect me, I have no objection to sit as far as I am enabled." And then there were three names, Mr. Thomas Michelmore of Berry, Mr. Holman, and myself, and we examined the bill and found to the best of our ability that the bill was 86*l.* We sent a memorandum to that effect, and I was asked to write to Mr. Pender, and Mr. Michelmore was to write to Mr. Seymour. I wrote to Mr. Pender, and I said, "As there has been a good deal of time lost, perhaps in round numbers you will send 100*l.*;" and he sent a bank bill, and I sent to Mr. Cuming and wanted to get a receipt, and Mr. Cuming was rather indignant, and stated he would not take less than the bill. I said, "I am rather unpleasantly situated, and if you will take it I will be glad." He said, "I will take it in part." I said, "That will not do, you must give me a receipt in full." He said, "I would not do that." The result of it was, that he refused the money, and then I wrote to Mr. Pender. You asked me how I became connected with the money. He wrote to me, and said as one of the committee for the management of the registration, "Will you keep that in part of the registration?"

33,868. Has Mr. Brooking Cuming ever had his bill paid?—No.

33,869. Did not Mr. Pender afterwards take up the debts, and say he would pay them?—No.

33,870. Can you tell us the reason, or what was the reason given why Stranger and Bennett were kept back from voting, and were ultimately induced to vote?—The reason they gave was, to make the Conservatives spend money.

33,871. What inducement was held out to them on your part to get them to vote?—None whatever.

33,872. You do not know of any?—I should say none.

33,873. At that time you were one of the committee, and became manager of the registration committee?—Yes, there were six of us, Mr. Holman, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, Mr. Brooking Cuming, Mr. Winsor, and Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore.

33,874. Who was the person who managed the business of the registration in court?—Mr. Brooking Cuming.

33,875. He was always assisted by Mr. Edmonds, of Plymouth?—Not at that time.

33,876. How was the money spent, the registration money; there is the registration of 1864, look at that (handing a paper to the witness)?—There is Samuel Parnell 30*l.*

33,877. He is the present postmaster?—Yes.

33,878. What did he get that for?—For his general assistance during the whole year.

33,879. Was he objector general?—No, I think Mr. Windeatt.

33,880. Did he sign the notices of objection?—Yes, I believe he had a salary all this time, during Mr. Mill's time.

33,881. Mr. Parnell?—Yes.

33,882. What did he do?—Found out the voters who had changed their residence, saw that the rates were paid at the time, and so on.

33,883. Can you give us a general account of what the expenditure was?—The legal expenses formed a great part of it.

33,884. There are legal expenses which appear in a different shape; there is Mr. Windeatt, 5*l.*, is that legal expenses?—Perhaps that is services of notices, journeys, and so on.

33,885. Then there is 58*l.*?—There would be a bill for that.

33,886. That is legal services?—Yes, that is in court.

33,887. Then there is a sum of 14 guineas, what is that?—That is the valuation of the Groombridge property and other land on which the Conservatives attempted to make fictitious votes.

33,888. What did the registration expenses amount to in 1864?—384*l.* 7*s.*

33,889. Did you receive that from Seymour?—Nothing from Mr. Seymour.

33,890. All paid by Mr. Pender?—Yes; this is only one-half of the expenses; we arranged this matter, the registration committee and we divided it.

33,891. Do you mean that the legitimate expenses of the registration in this borough were something like 700*l.*?—Yes, we had two legal gentlemen to assist at this registration in 1864.

33,892. The first registration account that you had to manage?—We had Mr. Edmonds, of Plymounth, and Mr. Floud, of Exeter, and their charges are rather heavy. I have not their bills, but Mr. Michelmore paid them; we divided the bills.

33,893. Whose legal services did that 15*l.* represent?—Mr. Windeatt's, and there is 31*l.* 5*s.*, which I paid Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore.

33,894. Was he in attendance?—Yes, constantly.

33,895. How many days did it last?—I think more than a fortnight, the longest registration that we ever had; we had a lot of heavy land cases.

33,896. Was Mr. Roope here over a fortnight?—Mr. Erskine, I think, in 1864.

33,897. What other money did Mr. Pender send to the borough during that year of 1864?—Nothing.

33,898. Did he send any money between that time and the next registration of 1865; did he pay for the registration of 1865?—That has not been settled up to this time.
